BC School expansion up to voters

It's official. Boyne City School officials decided Monday night to ask the voters within the school district to approve two bonding proposals which would allow additions to be constructed at the Middle and Elementary Schools, the Bus Garage and the rebuilding of the High School Athletic fields.

The action came on a 6-1 vote with Board President Richard May casting the only nay vote. Voters will be asked to approve the request to sell the bonds totalling $2,960,000 at a special election to be held next January 5, 1988.

If voters approve the first proposal on the bond issue, the additions would see a new wing on the Elementary School that would house eight more classrooms, while six more classrooms would be added to the Middle School and an addition would be constructed at the Bus Garage which would include a walk-in refrigerated room.

Proposal One would cost the property owners $2,360,000 which would compute out to about 1.87 mills added to property taxes for 15 years for the first year. Lesser millages would be used in succeeding years until the additions are paid off.

Proposal Two would create a whole new sports complex at the present sports area of the high school. The football field would be moved closer to M-75 and an eight lane all-season track would be constructed around the field. A new combination football, band practice/general use field would be constructed about where the present tennis courts are now, and the baseball fields would be realigned.

The new entrance to the sports facility would be about where the equipment storage building is presently, and the home stands, press box would be moved to the north side of the field.

Cost for the second proposal is $600,000 or an additional .35 mills for 15 years for the first year.

If both issues are passed, construction is expected to begin next summer and would continue through the school year until completion. Work would first begin on the elementary school and then progress to the middle school. While the two school additions would be under construction, work would also be underway on the athletic fields.

Prior to making the motion to ask voters to help in the rapidly growing school district, the board cautioned that they will also have to come back to the voters next June to approve higher operational millage. The school system has been spending more than they are taking in for the past three years and they project the millage request could add an additional two to three mills.

The last operational millage request was back in 1980. The board has been asking and getting approval for the same amount of millage, or slightly less, since then while expenses have continued to grow.

Causing some of the additional sections to be added each year as the school started with the first grade several years ago. Those students are ready to move into the Middle School within the next two years.

Teachers' union trying 'quiet' tactics

While Boyne City Schools aren't in the same position as the Pellston School District, members of the community and the teachers union are quietly pressing the Boyne City School Board to resolve the issues that separate themselves and agree to a new contract.

"We feel we are very close" said Dale Parsons, the head of the local teachers union, but Rich Kelly, the superintendent of the school district would not comment as to the progress of the negotiations.

The union members have been attending the last three months of school board meetings, trying to urge the board to negotiate faster.

"One of the problems we are facing," said Parsons, "is that the school board is using a hired negotiator and we are having to work on his schedule. It has meant infrequent meetings where we haven't been able to devote enough time to resolving the issues that separate us."

The district is using a negotiator from the Michigan Association of School Boards as they felt last spring they were too new to the negotiating process and needed the expertise of a skilled negotiator to work out a contract the teachers would accept and the school board could afford.

According to Parsons, the negotiator has only met with the union representatives about once a month since school started.

A member of the community, Lance Johnson, asked the school board Monday night how negotiations are going. He said that he had heard the board had some reluctance about going into marathon bargaining sessions. Johnson added that he thought the teachers on the instructional staff would work the whole year without a contract.

Johnson drew applause, mostly from teachers in atten-

Behling, Stanley take commission seats

With only 425 ballots cast, incumbent Thelma Behling took the majority of votes and won her fourth term on the City Commission. She will be joined by newcomer, Sandra Stanley who beat out Andy Andrick and Rudy Florenski for the second open seat.

Stanley was elected to fill the seat of Austin Sevener, who filled in as a temporary commissioner following the death of Cass Toton. Sevener did not run for the opening.

The breakdown of votes cast showed that Behling received 245 votes, Stanley had 241. An-drick gathered 198 and Florenski had 111.

Stanley was seated in ceremonies held Tuesday evening.

In other issues on the ballot, the city airport authority was given permission to sublease land to pilots who desire to build airport hangars. The pilots will build and lease the hangars for 25 years before they will revert to city ownership. City Manager Randy Frykberg said passage of the proposal will allow the airport to expand more easily for those wanting to use it.

School names management firm

With all the emphasis on getting a new bond issue in front of the voters at the Boyne City School Board meeting, some of the other things they accomplished during a session that lasted until 12 a.m. were of equal importance.

The board agreed to hire a construction management firm, E. and V., Inc. of Holland, Michigan to oversee the construction of the new high school roof that the board hopes to have under construction next summer.

The cost for the firm will be $69,055 and would be a savings to the school system in comparison to a general contractor, Superintendent Rich Kelly told the board.

Any savings in construction costs would come back to the school system rather than as profit to the contractor, Board Member Bill Christensen said.

Bids for the project are expected to be sought in January for

Write-in wins seat on EJ council

Others taking seats include newcomer Russ Gee who was elected in the First Ward and Ellen Cibak in the Third Ward. Gee won 27 of the 32 votes cast while Cibak had 40 of 52 votes. Both ran unopposed.

Mayor Pat Sweet, running unopposed took her seat with 99 votes.

A total of 113 ballots were cast by East Jordan voters.

Erratum

In the NEIGHBORS column last week an article covered the 50th Wedding Anniversary celebration of Howard and Flossie Brinley. It should have read, the party was given by Charles Brinley and Alice Foster at the Foster home. We regret this error.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

It must be getting very close to winter. I saw my first car in the ditch after a small amount of snow fell last week. I was on my way home from working around Petoskey when this car slid off the road and into the ditch.

No, not in front of me, but some time before I passed it, with a few people working on dragging it out to get it back on the road.

Why is it that every season, when the roads get a little slick, drivers forget what the roads can and will do when they get iced up. You would think that most prudent drivers would slow down and be prepared for those icy patches.

But, I will admit to being one who needs to remember, and I thought it would be nice to remind all of the other drivers just so they won't slide into me. That has happened to me once and I don't want it to happen again.

For most of the folks around these parts, this time of the year has to be a terrible time.

I mean, the retailers are saying they don't have anyone coming in to buy anything. The contractors are working their hind ends off trying to complete work that requires warmth, leaves need raking, wood needs cutting and piling, and the work list just gets bigger and bigger leading up to this weekend.

It's Hunting Time!

Yes, the time of the year when many bars down below will be advertising Deer Hunters Balls, hoping to attract the ladies because the men are out hunting someplace in the northern woods.

Yes, the time of the year when all work seems to slow down for a couple of weeks, if not stop, while the men of the family go out to the woods to see if they can get some "cheap meat."

At least that is what they tell you.

What they don't tell you is that they seem to need a new rifle every few years, lots of ammo for shooting and target practice, new clothing to replace the stuff that was destroyed last year, new boots, and more. The only thing that they really need is a license to spend money in place of hunting.

If that kind of license were available, I am sure there would be buyers...even if they know up front that only 10 percent will make a kill.

And then other ads will appear...all directed to the ladies.

While he is in the woods, they'll say, come in and spend some more money on this and that.

I am glad I don't go out hunting. I couldn't afford to spend all the money supporting the game and the ladies who have to follow the sales.

I am also glad I am living up north where we stand a better chance of hitting a deer with our cars, perhaps, that with a 30-30.

But, that is not the real reason we all like to go out hunting. I think it stems from somewhere in our past history, something like a tradition, where it was decreed that man must become a predator and hunt to stay alive. Only in the last few years can he only do this during certain times of the year. Like the next couple of weeks.

Lottery $$$ for education?

Editor,

Just a few years ago our great legislators in Lansing changed the law enough to have a state lottery, and the money made from this lottery was to go for education.

Of course, over those few years that money seems to have become more important to the general fund in the state, so that it could be used for anything the legislators desired, other than education. These same legislators have passed bills so that the evaluation of property has increased so that schools all over the state have had increased funds to spend, and the slight of hand with the lottery moneys has been glossed over.

Now again our legislators want more money so they suggest tax increases and trust funds for education. Again in the near future that money will become more important to our legislators pet ideas than to education and it will be siphoned away from the trust funds. With the lottery generating in excess of 100 million per year, and the property evaluations are the highest ever, why can't education be financed Everyone talks about the weather, but not like I do.

For instance:

It is still Fall outside of your house no matter what the elements are telling you. And it will remain Autumn until cold Tuesday, December the 22nd.

On that day Winter will wrap itself around you like a wet towel. Outdoor living will become impossible until a happy March 20th when wonderful Spring kicks its heels in this green field of Eden called northern Michigan.

Have a childish faith in what I have just said. That's because I never monkey with falsehood unless there is a hand-wringing need for it.

Teachers at the school on Park Street must have gotten so upset about something that they went through the roof. I drove by there the other day and saw men repairing it.

I had planned to make another comment about the size of a California earthquake, but I've changed my mind. I hate it when my head gets so full of indecisions.

I shall now ask four questions without really looking for answers:

How come the woman's movement hasn't discovered how far a frog will jump merely by looking at him?

What became of the transportation department's idea of taking the air bags out of Washington and putting them into automobiles?

Have you counted the number of presidential candidates who have become prominent and ashamed of themselves at the same time?

Why is it that we seem to have an excess of everything except a handy parking space at the super market?

I am a writer. A hack writer, perhaps, but a writer. I am not an artist.

This was proven a couple of weeks ago when I was struck with an urge to try my hand at painting. Everyone should try their hand at something until they discover what they are not good at.

There is a deep feeling of satisfaction when you discover what you are not good at.

A man took a long look at me the other day and said that he was proud of Boyne City and the simple things that go along with it.

Whenever I get low spirited and feel that a critical public doesn't appreciate my wonderful genius, I go down and watch the river gurgle its way to the lake. These gurgs refresh my spirit and I often use the river for that purpose.

THANKSGIVING

We really should thank the first Americans for our traditional Thanksgiving menus. Our squashes, pumpkins, cranberries, turkey, corn and bean products are from the Indian culture. Thanksgiving is traditional and a sentimental time for families to celebrate. It is a nostalgic time and I remember many past Thanksgivings with pleasure.

This year we had an early Thanksgiving dinner at the home of my granddaughter, Carla, who lives about 50 miles west of Indianapolis; having it when it was convenient for the whole family to be together. Of course we had all of the traditional fixings; another delightful time to add to my memories.

Carla's husband Dan, made the pumpkin pies, a potato casserole and a delicious dish of mashed turnips and my granddaughter Diana, roasted the turkey with dressing and this delicious side dish which goes so very well with turkey.

DIANA'S APPLESAUCE GELATINE DESSERT

1 3 oz. pkg. cherry flavored gelatine

1 cup boiling water
1/4 cup cinnamon red dots
2 cups canned or sweetened applesauce

Dissolve the gelatine in the boiling water, stir in the red dots until dissolved; remove the little white centers that do not dissolve if you wish. Add the applesauce and set until firm.

This early Thanksgiving was a happy and relaxed affair. While the dinner was cooking Carla served a large bowl of cheese dip with corn and potato chips to enjoy with our choice of wine or apple cider. All of my five great-grandsons were present, ages two to seven years of age. Every little while one would interrupt his play long enough for the chips and dip.

NACHO CHEESE DIP

In small bowl, thoroughly blend 1 envelope Lipton Nacho Cheese Recipe Soup Mix with 1 pint of sour cream. Chill at least 2 hours before serving. Serve with corn or potato chips. For a hot and spicy taste stir in chopped green chilies, hot pepper sauce or chili powder.

P.S. - I do not have any great-granddaughters yet.

I am of the opinion that the secret of a perfect turkey dinner is in the gravy. Many of us do not always make gravy for regular meals because we think of the added calories, however no one wants to count calories on Thanksgiving day. Shirley is the gravy maker for our family. No matter where we have our dinner; she makes the gravy.

SHIRLEY'S TURKEY GRAVY

She cooks the gizzard, heart and neck in water to cover. She adds a bay leaf, a medium sized onion and some celery tops, salt and pepper. Cover and cook while turkey is roasting, about 1 hour. Many cooks chop these giblets and add them to the gravy, though members of Shirley's family always want to eat them whole—just a taste of the turkey before the dinner is ready.

To make the gravy Shirley drains all of the fat and juices from the roasting pan into one of those special cups that separates the grease from the liquids. She pours off the grease and uses the remaining liquid for the gravy. She pours juice from the pan, and the strained liquid that the giblets were cooked in back into the roasting pan with a little more water if needed. You might want to taste at this point. When this boils up good and she has scraped all the goodies from the pan, she thickens it with corn starch. For each cup of gravy you will need 1 tablespoon of corn starch which has been mixed with a little cold water. Add a little of the hot water into the cup of thickening, stir good then add the whole amount gradually to the gravy stirring all the time. Shirley's gravy is rather thin, that is the way her family likes it. Use more cornstarch if you like it thicker. Cook stirring until smooth, season to taste with salt and pepper.

This gravy is delicious.

Here is a tasty way to serve those traditional cranberries.

CRANBERRY FOAM SALAD

1 3 Oz. package strawberry flavored gelatine
1 cup hot water
1/2 teaspoon mayonnaise
1/2 Cup drained crushed pineapple

1 lb. can whole berry cranberry sauce drained
1/2 cup chopped walnuts or pecans, optional

Dissolve gelatine in hot water. Place in refrigerator until partially set.

Blend mayonnaise into gelatine. Add remaining ingredients stirring until well mixed.

Pour into individual molds or a square pan to refrigerate until firm. Cut into squares if using a pan and serve on a lettuce leaf.

Happy Thanksgiving!

"How to say no" parents' workshops set for BC

Students throughout Northern Michigan are learning to say "no" to teenage sexual involvement through a statewide program coordinated by Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood - and parents are encouraged to attend special workshops to learn how they can help prepare their teens to cope with peer pressures.

The special workshop will be offered at Boyne City Middle School on Tuesday, December 1st. The workshop is designed for parents to help them support their teen's decision to say "no" to sexual involvement and other peer pressures, and will be conducted by coordinator Lora Blank of NMPP.

According to Blank, the workshop will help parents reinforce skills their teens will be learning when the Boyne City Middle Schools hosts the "How to Say No" project in December. Last year, 24 schools in northern Michigan participated in the program including Boyne City, Boyne Falls, East Jordan, Charlevoix and Petoskey. The series will be presented for 7th graders at the Boyne City Middle School beginning December 4th.

The "say no" series began in 1984 as a pilot program funded by the Michigan Department of Social Services (DSS) and coordinated in Northern Michigan by NMPP. "The program was so well received that DSS selected it for statewide implementation," Blank said.

Specially-trained teen presenters, recruited from high schools around the area, present the series and role model the idea that teens don't have to be embarrassed to stand up for their rights and say "no" to peer pressure. Through the parents workshops, parents get tips on helping their teens resist such pressures.

Post-program evaluations completed by student participants show that the vast majority believe they understand peer pressure better and know how to resist it when necessary. Teens felt the program would also help them resist other pressures, such as those to experiment with alcohol or drugs. Parents too, felt the program would help prepare their teens to resist peer pressures, and said they would recommend the program to their friends.

The message NMPP sends to teens through the "say no" program is simple, according to Blank. It's that the decision of whether or not to become sexually involved is far too important to be left to their friends.

"After all, it's not their friends who will live with the consequences of a teenage pregnancy," Blank notes.

The parent's workshop at Boyne City Middle School is scheduled for December 1st at 7 o'clock p.m. in the library. The workshop is free of charge and parents with children of all ages are invited to attend.

"We may not be able to do away with peer pressure," Blank notes, "but here's a chance to make sure your children are prepared when the pressure's on."

Gov. Blanchard sets "Winter Awareness Week" Nov. 22-28

Governor James Blanchard has declared the week of November 22-28, 1987 as Winter Awareness Week and urges all Michigan residents to learn more about protecting themselves during severe weather.

Michigan winters can include extreme cold, freezing rain, floods, ice, and snow; exposing citizens to perils both at home and while traveling. Be prepared for isolation in your home, treacherous driving conditions, exposure to freezing temperatures, and fires from overheated stoves and furnaces.

The Michigan Department of State Police coordinates two information systems for severe weather during the winter season and disseminates them state-wide to all police agencies and through the NOAA weather wire to all participating radio and television stations.

The School Closing Information System (SCIS) is a report of all school closings state-wide developed in a cooperative effort by the Department of State Police, Department of Education, and National Oceanic and Atmospheric Administration (NOAA). (679 participating schools and school districts) Road and weather conditions are updated twice daily during the winter season by Michigan State Police posts and forwarded to radio and television stations via the weather wire. If you will be traveling during extremely cold or severe winter weather, listen for weather reports and advisories on local television and radio stations.

Captain Arlyn F. Brower, Deputy State

Director of Emergency Services, explained that severe winter weather causes a rise in personal injuries and illnesses and can cause hundreds of thousands of dollars in property damage each year. "I urge citizens to educate themselves and their families on how to get through rough winter weather safely," Brower stated. Information on steps you can take to prepare for this coming winter season is available through your local Emergency Management Office.

Ware-withal

We trooped down a slope through dew-wet grass to reach the site chosen for taking this year's family pictures. Big fun. Soggy shoes right off the bat, I thought. But I didn't complain aloud. After all, this was ceremonial time.

For us—my husband, two children and I—photographic sessions such as this had become a rite of autumn. The ritual got started 26 years ago, shortly after the birth of our second child, and the place was Denver, 1200 miles away.

My husband and I decided that since we neither had the time nor the money to go home to Tampa for the holidays, instead we'd take pictures of our infant son and two-year-old daughter and send them to relatives and friends. Then a neighbor offered to take pictures of all four of us together. We accepted, she did it, and out of the dozen or so pictures that she took, one seemed good enough to use for picture Christmas cards. They made a big hit.

Buoyed by the previous success, the following year, in fact the following 12 years, we sent picture Christmas cards. But they featured only the children. Some years they willingly cooperated, and some years not. For instance, the year that they were 12 and 14, they insisted on wearing just long underwear to cover their lower bodies arguing that their top halves were all that showed anyway. This obliged the cameraman, their father, to make sure that indeed this was the case, which dampened his Christmas spirit considerably.

Then, for reasons no one can remember, we switched back to taking pictures of the whole family. And it's been that way ever since.

We've taken pictures both indoors and out, with the aid of friends and without them. The last half dozen years we've been able to do without because of a camera that allows the cameraman to focus the subjects and then have time to join them before the camera snaps the shot.

We've also done it at varying times of day and at different places. It all depends on the whereabouts and the whims of those involved, the latter having brought us at dawn to the museum site, the slope and the wet grass.

After we'd gone through two full rolls of films that day, the other family members went on to their various jobs or home bases. I went home to drink another cup of coffee and recall, as I do every year, other times and other places where similar scenes had been played out before.

I realized then that our original reason for taking the pictures, to show the children and their year-to-year changes to far off friends and relatives, was no longer valid. Many of the relatives have died. We still have far off friends, some the same as before. But the children have ceased to change, outwardly anyway, and so have their parents—except for increasing white on top. So a new picture each year no longer makes sense. People don't need it.

But we do. Maybe we don't really need it. But this getting together every fall, taking pictures of our smiling selves, somehow affirms for us that while the country, the whole world, may be in trouble, we're okay. We've got pictures to prove it.

That's the reason we continue doing it—that and the fact that we have fun at it, big fun, even with wet feet.

Contract

ance at the board meeting when he said, "We don't want this to reach the stage like Pellston."

Pellston teachers are withdrawing services from some of their schools in order to force a contract with that school board.

Another person in the audience asked the board what the cost of the hired negotiator was for the year. She was told he was being paid $7,500 a year to help with the teachers and an additional $3,750 for the support staff workers. He is also getting expenses for traveling and staying in the area.

Kelly said Tuesday that some of the expenses are being shared with another school district which will help reduce total costs to the Boyne system.

Cele Pollock asked the board to let the public know so they could decide if the school system could afford the contract the teachers are asking for. She said, "I don't know what it's going to take, but we need to negotiate this out between the teachers and the public."

Board President Richard May told the audience that the school board is really nothing more than mediator between the teachers and the community. "We have to consider all of the factors," he concluded, "So we can find the proper balance." He also added that he hopes the two parties can resolve the differences as quickly as possible.

Parsons agreed, saying that it was time to stop dragging feet. "If it takes all night to get it done, then let's do it."

The teachers and the school board held another session Tuesday to try to work out what problems remain on the contract.

the work to be started in June. Last year, the board received no bids for the project so they had to delay it until this next summer.

Other areas where the board decided to spend money included the purchase of two busses to replace some old busses that are rapidly approaching 100,000 miles.

One new bus will be a 71 passenger model with a Thomas body on an International chassis. That bus is available immediately and will cost the school $36,680. Both bids were the lowest of three bids received by the school system.

The board also approved the low bid of 7.85 percent interest from NBD Petoskey on a loan they will be making to purchase a new telephone system for all three schools. The total amount of the loan was $13,300. Northwestern State Bank was the only other bidder and bid 8.75 percent.

Board members then agreed to hire Tom Griffin for snow plowing this season at a cost of $25 per hour. He was the only bidder desiring the work.

In other action, the board agreed to the hiring of coaches in the Middle School. Bill Hutchinson will be the boys eighth grade basketball coach while Scott and Kieth Hausler will handle the seventh and sixth grades. Tim Markin will be the boys fifth grade coach and will also handle the girls at that level.

The board then accepted a grievance from Rachel Klevorn, a part-time teacher in the high school. She asked the board to consider her a four-fifths teacher instead of a two-thirds teacher. She is asking the change so she will be able to have a paid prep period during the day for the four classes she is teaching. The board accepted the grievance and will decide to act on it at the meeting next month.

They also agreed to hold a summer tax collection with those communities that wish to collect the taxes. This past year, only Boyne City collected summer taxes for the school.

And they agreed to enter into the class action suit being filed by many school systems against an asbestos firm.

They also accepted the resignations of Venita Abel, a Chapter One tutor, and Jan Bid-dick Vandenbrink, the Elementary School Social Worker.

They then agreed to hire Wendy Sewell to replace Vandenbrink. She has been working as a social worker in the Petoskey area.

The board then concluded the monthly meeting by going into executive session to discuss the negotiations with the teachers and the support unions.

Doesn't like Ginsburg either

Editor,
Now I am really mad. I just watched President Reagan on TV as he praised Ginsburg and said Ginsburg's use of drugs while a student and then again as a professional was only a youthful indiscretion and should have no bearing on his qualifications as a Supreme Court Justice.

position in the whole country and is for life, and he could not be removed from office by any means other than impeachment by his fellow judges.

Now we also have a president that says the youthful use of drugs is no big deal and we should forgive Ginsburg and go ahead and confirm him.

We are spending millions upon millions of dollars to curb the use of drugs. We are trying to get our children to just say no to drugs. We have a President and First Lady who profess to be against the use of drugs. We have mental institutions filled with drug users. We are a nation literally damned by drugs and the crime that they cause. We make new millionaires from drugs every day. Our schools are dealing drugs on a daily basis. You all know I have but scratched the surface with the above problems.

Now just what kind of a message are we sending to our children anyway when we have a president that comes on TV one day urging them to just say no to drugs and the next day he is on TV praising a drug user - confessed yet - and telling our children that the use of marijuana when they are young is no big deal. Just what in hell kind of a man do we have for president anyway? But equally important is just what in hell kind of people do we have in this country that still support such a darned hypocrite?

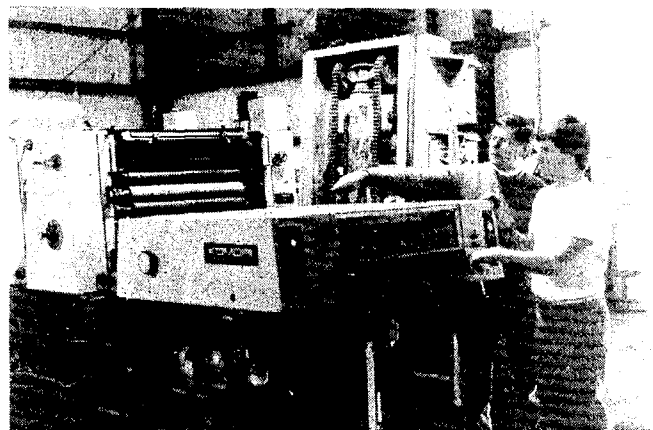

And now we have Douglas Ginsburg-41 years old-who admits his use of drugs but still wants a seat on the Supreme Court of United States. This is the most august

CAH to hold cholesterol testing clinic Nov. 18-20

Charlevoix Area Hospital will offer cholesterol/HDL tests to the general public on Wednesday, Thursday and Friday, November 18-20. Testing will be held from 7 a.m. to 9 a.m. all three days in the hospital laboratory.

The tests, a repeat of the cholesterol screening clinic held at the hospital one year ago, will be conducted for persons 20 years old and over. The cost is $5.

Those interested in having the test done should fast for 8 hours prior to the testing. Anyone unable to fast for that amount of time due to illness or physician instructions should follow their doctor's advice.

According to Chief Lab Technician Ralph Corwin, the test will show both the cholesterol level in the blood and the HDL, or, high density lipoprotein. High levels of cholesterol in the bloodstream can lead to narrowing and eventual blockage of blood vessels. The result can be severe chest pain and eventually heart attack.

HDL is sometimes referred to as "good cholesterol" because it is thought to carry cholesterol away from the tissues. Thus by testing for both cholesterol and HDL, the physician can get a more accurate assessment of a person's risk of heart disease.

After they are processed, test results will be mailed to each participant along with a brief explanation of what they mean.

At its January 22, 1987 meeting, the Commission approved a work plan to implement the recommendations in the Chlorine Implementation Committee's report. One of the key recommendations in the report was that NPDES permit holders be provided an opportunity to request modifications of their permits to establish new dates for compliance with the chlorine limitation and demonstration submittals.

In February 1987 dischargers were given the opportunity to request a maximum three year extension to the effective date of the Total Residual Chlorine (TRC) limit. Sixty nine dischargers applied for the extension. Fifty four of those applications have been accepted and the modifications are now being proposed.

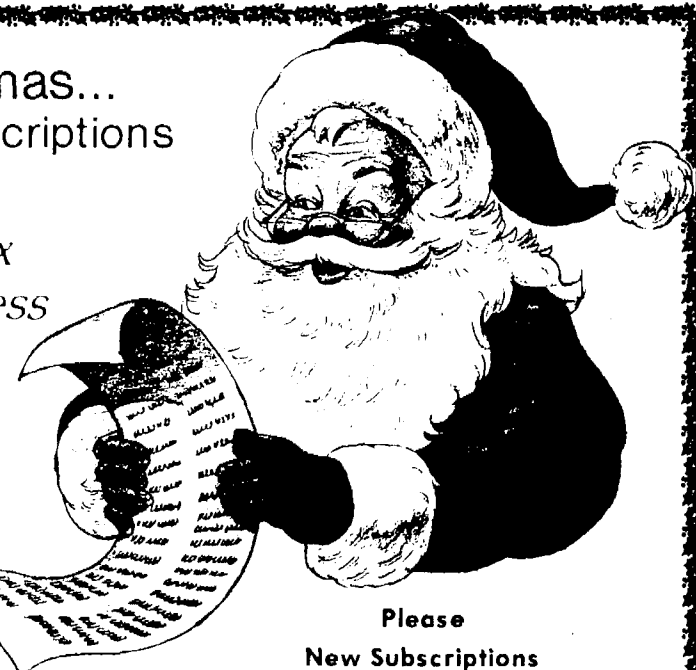

The draft permits include the following modifications to the previously issued permits: All permits currently have chlorine limits which become effective sometime before January 1, 1991. These proposed modifications reflect a TRC limit of 0.036 mg/l effective January 1, 1991. Appropriate language has also been added to address sampling procedures and demonstration opportunities.

Comments or objections to the draft permits received by December 7, 1987, will be considered in the final decision to issue the permits. Persons desiring information regarding the draft permit, procedures for commenting, or requesting a hearing, should contact: Diane Miller, Permits Section, Surface Water Quality Division, Department of Natural Resources, P.O. EJ finds last place in conference

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
The East Jordan varsity football squad finished the 1987 campaign with a 2-7 record overall. Their 1-6 finish in the Ski-Valley Conference left them in last place along with Pellston.

This season the Red Devils were outscored by opponents 260-117. They started the season with a 25-14 victory over Elk Rapids before losing 54-0 at the hands of Charlevoix. Conference action began with a 28-10 win over Gaylord St. Mary's. EJ then dropped six consecutive games to Inland Lakes (14-32), Bellaire (0-12), Pellston (20-22), Harbor Springs (6-52), Central Lake (18-18-22), and Mancelona (6-42).

Matt Bishop led all EJ rushers with 609 yards and three touchdowns on 65 carries for a 9.3 yard average. Dave Freel gained 326 yards and two TD's on 45 carries as Al Merrill picked up 205 yards and two TD's on 64 attempts. Curtis Weidler compiled 146 yards and two TD's on 46 tries.

In the passing department Dan Pepin completed 19 of 54 passes (35%) for 222 yards and two extra point conversions. Dennis Skrocki made good on 14 of 39 throws (36%) for 164 yards and two touchdowns.

Mark Moore was the leading receiver catching 12 passes good for 192 yards and a TD. Bishop caught seven for 79 yards and a TD as Merrill hauled in four passes for 21 yards, Rick Clark three for 53 yards, and Skrocki and Freel each caught two throws for 24 and seven yards respectively.

Defensively, Weidler collected 53 tackles as Skrocki compiled 48 and Scott Diller had 45. Also, Aaron Beishlag and Shannon Gee each had 44, Dave Freel (43), Dan Pepin (41), Aaron Brock (38), Mark Moore (37), Jeff Olstrom (35), Jeff Burks (34), Bishop (26), Bill Mathers (26), Clark (21), Scott Nachazel (20), Lyle Walters (20), Merrill (18), Mike Root (14), Harchis (14), Ken Thornton (14), and Mark LaBeau (9). Clark had three fumble recoveries as Diller collected two and Moore, Freel, Bishop, Pepin and Burks each had one. Bishop, Freel, and Clark each had an interception.

The team will graduate 11 seniors and return ten juniors, eight of which had starting positions, to next year's squad.

Enrollment in the state's public schools declined slightly this fall. The official "fourth Friday" count on October 2 showed total enrollment in the state's 525 K-12 school districts and 57 intermediate school districts at 1,573,617, a decrease of less than one percent.

Boyne Mountain opens million foot run.

Want to help ski a million vertical feet in one day and do a lot of good at the same time? Then hop on board the Jimmie Heuga USA Express

Form a corporate sponsored team and join with others in an exciting event aimed at raising funds for the Jimmie Heuga Center in Vail, Colorado. For every foot your team skis, your sponsor contributes money to help the center develop health and fitness programs for people from all over the world with Multiple Sclerosis, a disease of the central nervous system.

A former olympic medal winning skier who later contracted MS, Jimmie Heuga believes it's not what you can't do in life that matters, it's what you can. You can help Heuga by forming a team and skiing. The Heuga USA Express will take place all over the country this year, with winning teams from each area qualifying for a free trip to Vail for a final event on April 15-17. If you can't participate directly, send a donation to the Heuga Center. And stop by to cheer the racers on.

For more information on forming or sponsoring a team, write or call Boyne Mountain Lodge, Boyne Falls, Michigan 49713, 616-549-2441.

Davis trying legislation for forestry industry

Northern Michigan Congressman Bob Davis has joined with 21 of his colleagues in urging the creation of a $5 million fund for a national marketing program for forest products.

The fiscal year 1988 Interior Appropriations bill passed by the Senate includes language establishing the fund. The House bill does not include this provision. Davis co-signed a letter to the House conferees urging that the Senate language be adopted and included in the final bill.

"The annual forest products trade deficit has climbed to over $5 billion, compared to the $500 million trade surplus that existed in 1981," Davis said. "Obviously, this is unacceptable. A national marketing program will increase our international competitiveness and help to return the United States to its position as a leader in the forest products industry."

Davis says the $5 million investment has the potential for large returns. "A more aggressive and unified American forest products industry will pay huge dividends to the economies of rural areas such as Northern Michigan," he said. "This investment will be repaid many times over by putting people to work in rural communities where the unemployment rate is often the highest."

The proposed national marketing program is designed to increase U.S. competitiveness by assisting with trade promotion activities, demonstrating new technologies developed by a research program, and providing technical aid to small and medium-sized firms.

Charlevoix seniors start building fund campaign

After a visit to the new Pellston Senior Citizen Center, the Senior Citizens of Charlevoix have decided to start a very serious drive to appropriate money to build (or buy) a building of their own.

The seniors have been housed at the VFW Hall for the past two years. Although the VFW members have been "Kindness Itself" - it's still not the same, says Sherry Black, the center's director. We find it difficult to display many items that the seniors work on such as crafts, bulletin boards, announcements material and other items. We are "guests" in this building and rules and regulations must be obeyed. This is only right and we realize that we are not the only people using this facility.

As we grow, (and we are growing) and we add more classes to our program, more projects are being organized and other activities, the more difficult it is to find enough space for what we are doing. Storage is a problem, and we are not always able to schedule everything when we would like because of conflicts with VFW activities. We have been happy here, and have nothing but praise and thanks for our friends here but we want to spread our wings a little and do more creative things.

Also many older folks are not aware that we are here and with a building of our own more might join our fun activities.

We have just raffled off a handmade quilt at the apple festival. We made over $400 on this project and it was our first deposit in our new building fund account.

Future building fund projects include: A handmade afghan, donated by Lelia Brum, to be raffled off Dec. 12. A holiday dance at the American Legion Hall. Tickets will be $10 per couple and fun will include music by Jasper and his Tag-a-Longs. And food, food, food, furnished by the fantastic cooks from the Senior Center! The third annual Senior Citizens Spaghetti Dinner will be held in April.

Anyone interested in making a donation can send it to the Senior Citizen's facility. The address is: The Senior Citizen's Building Fund, Box 163, Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Going for a lay-up and two points in the Boyne City-East Jordan girls' basketball game last Tuesday is Boyne City's Tysh Crozier while LaCinda Tompkins gets ready for the possible rebound. Also looking on is East Jordan's Sara Chase and Boyne's Coleen Williams. Boyne City went on to win the game and break their losing streak. The two teams met again last night at East Jordan.

Ramblerettes take EJ by 1, break loss streak, beat again Tuesday

BY SCOTT KNIPE
It may not have been a coaches dream last Tuesday when the Red Devils met the Ramblers for the first time this season, but Boyne City finally pulled out a win over East Jordan 48-47. It seemed like East Jordan had a sure thing going as they took a marginal lead in the second quarter of the game, but Boyne was not ready to admit defeat, and as the third quarter got underway they methodically worked away at the Devil's 12 point lead. In the last few minutes of the game both teams were head to head, matching each other basket for basket, point for point. When the final buzzer sounded East Jordan was behind by only a single point, but that point wins or loses games. High scorers for the game were Mindy Stadt and Patty Schmoltdt each with 12, Tysh Crozier with 10, Lacinda Thompkins with 6, Mary Beth Archambault with 4, and Amy Weeks and Marci Center each with 2. Boyne expects to have a much harder time this week as they square off with East Jordan again, this time in the Devil's Den.

Jayvee girls take East Jordan by 11

BY SCOTT KNIPE
Boyne City's JV girls have been hitting on a fairly good streak lately, defeating Petoskey earlier in the month at the score of 46-15, then dropping one to Saint Ignace, 31-49, but coming right back last week to best East Jordan 46-35. The game against East Jordan was fairly even as both teams kept within a few point margin most of the game, but in the end Boyne came on strong and took the victory. High scorers for Boyne were Kristen Harvey with 14 points each. Adding to the score was Dawn Archambault with 7, Kim Stadt with 5, April Silbar with 4, and Toni Toton contributing 3. Top defensive effort was held by Dawn Archambault with 13 rebounds, two blocked shots, and one assist.

Devilettes top Pellston dominating 69-36

After dropping their previous game to Boyne City by the score of 48-47, the East Jordan girls basketball squad rebounded and claimed a 69-36 victory over Pellston last Thursday. The Devils jumped out to a 19-6 lead after the first period and never looked back. The margin was extended to 37-15 by the end of the first half. EJ outscored the Hornets 19-10 and 13-11 enroute to the 69-36 final score. Sara Chase took top scoring honors with 21 points as Jill Burt added 15. Every member of the squad put points on the board. Defensively, Monica Olstrom led the way with 10 rebounds as Erin Snyder came up with nine and Kristy Miller crashed the boards for eight. The victory raises the Devils record to 11-7 overall, 8-6 in the Ski-Valley Conference behind Central Lake (12-2), Mancelona (10-4), and Harbor Springs (9-3). This week the girls will close out the regular season with non-conference contests against Boyne City and Ellsworth.

EJ girls do well at state meet

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
Over the weekend the East Jordan girls cross country team traveled to Bath to compete in the Class 'C' State final team run. Men's team member Tim Brennan qualified to take part in the Individual run. The ladies' squad turned in an excellent performance and captured 13th place. Jody Cordova led the way by capturing 11th place which was good for a medal. Also running were Renee Spence (28th), Theresa Brennan (68th), Chris Jankowski (71st), Jamie Dunson (72nd), Carol Clark (102nd), and Amy Jason (119th). Tim Brennan's time of 16:15 was good for a 3rd place medal and All-State recognition. This makes him the first East Jordan runner to receive such status. Coach Dennis Snarey exclaimed "What a day and race it was!"

Weekend deer opener means heavy traffic

Highway and freeway traffic from south to north in Michigan is expected to flow heavily late Thursday and all day Friday and Saturday prior to the opening of Michigan's 1987 deer hunting season Sunday, Nov. 15.

It's mine, all mine seems to be what this East Jordan player is saying to Monica Olstrom. Fighting for the ball was Rambler Tysh Crozier while devilette Erin Snyder looked on from midcourt.
