

Three council members seated in EJ

Although some of the faces are familiar, and they have been in the chairs before, these three members of the East Jordan City Council were seated for the first meeting of the year last Tuesday. Dave Waldron, Russ Gee and Ellen Cihak won their seats in the November election but took their oath of office earlier Tuesday. In other action in front of the council was the naming of committees with Jim Yettaw being named Mayor Pro-tem, Cihak to ways and means, charter and ordinance and public works committees. Gee was named to the charter and ordinance, and department of public works committees. Waldron was appointed to the ways and means, personnel records and the department of public works committees. Others named to department heads or committees and commissions included Marie Yettaw on the zoning commission, and Mercer Carey Sr. to the Elm Point Commission. All other committee appointments remained the same as last year, according to city officials.

Free tax consulting will be available at the East Jordan Senior Citizen Center Thursday, Jan. 14 at 12:30 p.m. according to Pat Berlo. The Center will be bringing in a consultant to work with seniors helping them with their tax forms.

The Red Cross Bloodmobile will be at the Ellsworth High School Wednesday January 27th, between 2:30 and 7:30 p.m. The blood drive is sponsored by the Ellsworth Lioness Club and as the blood need is critical at this time of the year, any person wishing to donate is urged to come over for the drive.

Boyerne City administrators will be involved in a joint meeting with Evangeline Township officials and the Department of Natural Resources at the Evangeline Township Hall to discuss the current closed Boyerne City Landfill and what can be done to complete the closure. The DNR has been trying to have the city finish and cover the landfill since it has been closed. The meeting will be held next January 19th.

Water Street in downtown Boyerne City will be closed Thursday from 6 a.m. to noon for the filming of a Chevrolet truck commercial. The ad, which is being produced by the SunDog Productions firm of Bloomfield Hills for Chevrolet requires lots of snow and that is the reason the snow hasn't been cleared from the street. If there isn't enough snow, machines will be brought in to make fresh stuff, according to city officials.

February 1 is the deadline for hunters to send in license applications for the 1988 spring wild turkey hunting season. 19,185 licenses will be available.

Board learns why millage failed

Boyerne City School Board members listened, Monday night, as members of the "Friends of the schools" committee members told the board reasons why the bond issues failed last week in the special election the school system held.

"There are lots of reasons," commented Doug Shields, such as timing, the superintendent's residency, the lack of seeing any progress on the high school roof and the lack of a five or ten year master plan."

Another member of the audience, Ira Brenneman told the board they had lost touch with the community. He said the board failed to find out what the community would have approved before asking for the bonding issues.

Board member Thelma Behling told the audience that although she was on the committee that was to decide what was needed, each time the committee met, they would come up with a different plan. The plan they finally settled upon was the issue in front of the voters. But she added that may have not been the best plan that the schools could have come up with for the voters.

Celia Polack, a member of the friends committee said she was looking for something positive to come out of the election, but was very disappointed when the issues failed to get approval from the voters. She thought perhaps just one proposal may have been the answer. She also wondered about the tax load the issues would have caused and said that may be a reason for failure.

She did say that she thought the board could have had more input into getting the millage issue passed as they didn't seem to want to support the issue themselves.

Gary Winters, another board member, told the audience at the meeting that the issue of class size was the reason the school system is going into the red and using up the fund equity. He thinks that is the main problem and wondered if keeping the class size small in the elementary school was an issue with the voters. He also wondered if the voters were saying no to just this proposal or no to all taxing questions.

No matter what the reasons for the issues being defeated the board did not make any decisions as to what they will decide for the future, saying they would rather hear the input from the audience. That question will be decided at future meetings, said Richard May, Board President.

One future meeting will take place Thursday, Jan. 14, where the board will be discussing the budget and operational millage needs. The meeting, billed as a worksession, will not have the board making any decision until they decide what will be needed.

The board heard they may be asking for another special election to approve an operational millage request in March or April. Superintendent Kelly said the millage was needed to keep the schools going at the same level seen presently.

In other action, the School Board learned that bids for the high school roof will be asked from contractors shortly, according to Superintendent Rich Kelly. The question came up while the board was discussing the architect's contract on the work being done for the project.

They then appointed Board Member Dave Guzniczak to represent the school system at budget meetings of the Charlevoix Emmet Intermediate School District.

Then they agreed to hire a new aide, Eleanor Sutliff, to replace Linda Howard who moved into helping in the Community Education office. Sutliff will be working for two hours daily helping at the elementary cafeteria and playground.

The board then went into a closed session to discuss the negotiations with the MESPA bargaining unit.

Visitors to the January School Board meeting had a special treat, if you can call holding a boa constrictor and seeing other animals in the living science room of the middle school fun. The School Board met at the middle school because part of the agenda was a visit to Mrs. Cheri Leach's classroom where board members and visitors had a chance to see and hold some of the animals Leach uses for her classes.

Air/Industrial plat just steps away from okay

Boyerne City Commissioners heard Tuesday that the plat for the Air/Industrial Park is very close to approval, according to George Granger of Granger Engineering, the firm that is helping to make the plat map.

Granger told the commissioners that the development of the park and the consequent sales of property to various firms, along with the many changes made to comply with requests, are the real reasons for the delay in getting the plat approved.

Several lots within the park have buyers waiting pending getting the approval.

Granger said the last step in getting the formal approval is getting a formal meeting of the Plat Board. He said that all changes have been made to comply with all of the requirements for platting and it is very close to being sent down to Lansing for the formal okay.

The plat is currently in Charlevoix where county officials are putting their stamp of approval upon the survey.

Granger told the commissioners the long history of why the plat has taken so long and what transpired to get it to this point.

City manager Randy Fryberg said that the costs of waiting for the plat and the extra amount of work was worth it as many of the sites, especially the LaxaMar plant site would have been lost to the city if they hadn't gone about getting the plat the long way.

The long way was getting all of the signatures from the various land owners and that took some time as the parent company of LaxaMar is located in Canada.

All those jobs would have been lost if we had waited for approval of a plat prior to selling off some of the land, he added. Almost all of the sites in the park have been sold and the city is trying to find additional property so they could expand the park to accommodate additional companies wishing to locate here in town.

In other action, the city approved a request from the Boyerne City Area Chamber of Commerce to use the Veterans park and pavilion for the annual Frostival Festival January 30.

In action expected at the monthly Tuesday evening meeting was the second reading of the skateboard ordinance which bans skateboards from the downtown area and the appointments of Christopher Bandy to a spot on the Planning Board to replace Sandra Stanley who had to resign when she won a commissioners seat.

Also named to the Library Board was Evelyn Howell which will fill a vacancy due to the resignation of Lynn Hall.

BC setting up for Frostival

With plenty of snow, and the ice building nicely for Smeltania, Jan. 30, final details for the annual Boyerne City Chamber of Commerce Frostival Festival were announced this week, along with a promise of even more to come by the time of the festival.

Kicking things off will be the annual ice sculpture judging at One Water Street, followed by a party at the restaurant.

Also making up snow and ice sculptures this year will be the Wolverine Dilworth, Century 21 and Vacation Properties on the other end of Water Street.

But the big action comes on Saturday with the Avalanche Cross Country Ski Race registration set for 8 to 10 a.m. with the race itself to start at noon at the hill located on the south side of town. The race will be a five and ten kilometer course that goes throughout the city owned park.

Broomball games will get started at 9 a.m. with the Boyerne City Lions Club in charge of the officiating and sponsoring the event. The games will go all day long and promise a lot of action for the spectators.

Those wishing to enter the contest should pick up their registration soon and return it to the Chamber office by Thursday, January 28 at 3 p.m. Only ten teams will be allowed to enter into the broomball games.

For those wishing an inside activity, the Boyerne City Library will holding a book sale at the library starting at 10 a.m. and lasting until 3 p.m.

EJ board rejects used bus bids

East Jordan's School Board rejected all of the bids for their used busses Monday night after the bids came in too low for the board to accept.

The board will use the busses for parts and to help keep other busses in shape after rejecting the highest bid of $800 for one of the busses.

They then agreed to accept the bid for a new bus, a 72 passenger forward control, 180 horsepower, Cummins deisel engine model being made by Bluebird to be purchased through the Great Lakes Coach Company for $41,371.

Also approved was the startup of a chapter of the National Honor Society in the high school. The school had a chapter in the past, but it was dropped several years ago and will be re-established by the approval Monday night.

Superintendent Tom Rossler told the board that strobe lights are being installed on all of the school busses to help make drivers aware when students are getting on or off the busses. He also told the board he was looking into the costs of a two-way FM radio system to be able to contact the busses.

The current system of CB radios has been found lacking because of the many hills within the district and the spots where busses cannot be contacted.

The board then set a special meeting to discuss the athletic program and the facilities January 25.

"Say No" Workshops set for parents

Students throughout Northern Michigan are learning to say "no" to teenage sexual involvement through a statewide program coordinated by Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood - and parents are encouraged to attend special workshops to learn how they can help prepare their teens to cope with peer pressures.

The special workshops will be offered at Charlevoix Middle School on Thursday, January 28th and at Ellsworth Public School on Wednesday, February 3rd. The workshops are designed to say "no" to sexual involvement and other peer pressures, and will be conducted by coordinator Loar Blank of NMPP.

According to Blank, the workshops will help parents reinforce skills their teens will be learning when the Charlevoix Middle School and Ellsworth Public School hosts the "How to Say No" project in February. Last year, 24 schools in Northern Michigan participated in the program including Charlevoix, Ellsworth, East Jordan, Central Lake and Petoskey. The series will be presented for 8th graders at Charlevoix Middle School and to the 7th graders at Ellsworth Public School beginning February 5th.

The "say no" series began in 1984 as a pilot program funded by the Michigan Department of Social Services (DSS) and coordinated in Northern Michigan by NMPP. "The program was so well received that DSS selected it for statewide implementation," Blank said.

"Two things make the series so successful," said Blank. "The use of teen presenters to get the program's message across to student participants, and parent involvement through workshops like these."

Specially-trained teen presenters, recruited from high schools around the area, present the series and role model the idea that teens don't have to be embarrassed to stand up for their rights and say "no" to peer pressure. Through the parents workshops, parents get tips on helping their teens resist such pressures.

Post-program evaluations completed by student participants show that the vast majority believe they understand peer pressure better and know how to resist it when necessary. Teens felt the program would also help them resist other pressures, such as those to experiment with alcohol or drugs. Parents too, felt the program would help prepare their teens to resist peer pressures, and said they would recommend the program to their friends.

The message NMPP sends to teens through the "say no" program is simple, according to Blank. It's that the decision of whether or not to become sexually involved is far too im-

"After all, it's not their friends who will live with the consequences of a teenage pregnancy," Blank notes.

The parent's workshop at Charlevoix Middle School is scheduled for 7:30 p.m. on Thursday, January 28th in the library. At the Ellsworth Public School the workshop will be held in the library at 7:00 p.m. on Wednesday, February 3rd. The workshops are free of charge and parents with children of all ages are invited to attend.

"We may not be able to do away with peer pressure," Blank notes, "but here's a chance to make sure your children are prepared when the pressure's on."

The Positive Side

"Put time aside to laugh, it's music to the soul."

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

It sure doesn't take long for the men building a city to move out and start the building.

We're talking about that city being built on the ice called Smetlania.

You see, the lake froze over last Wednesday, the earliest freezeover in recent years, and I was wondering who was going to be the first to put their shanty out on the ice.

I figured it would take about a week before anyone would even move their shanty down to the shore, but noooooo, I was wrong.

When I drove by the lake Saturday morning, I looked out and saw a shanty or two out in front of the new inn. I was amazed at how thick the ice must have gotten in those few days in order to support a shanty.

I am also assuming that no one would be foolish enough to put out a shanty if the ice wasn't thick enough to support it.

All I know is that I don't venture out on the ice until it is about 12 inches thick.

And that, in many years, is about the time of the annual Frostival Festival that is the new name for the Smetlania festival. Boyne City holds at the end of January.

And planners of that event are starting to work in earnest as the festival is set for a few weeks from now. Gloria, down at the Chamber office, is almost working overtime trying to arrange for all of the events that will take place.

There is even hopes to see the snowcarving and snow sculpture move away from the waterfront and into the downtown as far as the Dilworth. Maybe the store owners are planning to build statues in front of their stores, but a better bet would be that the city will come along with their front end loader and remove all of the snow that is piled along the sidewalk between the road and the stores before the end of the week.

And along with the sculpture work, some of the broom ball teams can be seen starting to shape up and get ready for those all intensive games.

And all of the other events that are planned on the snow are also getting ready.

It promises to be a whole lot of fun for a day and is a good reason to leave the house and enjoy some fresh, but frigid, air.

I haven't said anything about the crash of the stockmarket last year, and at lunch a couple of days ago, the subject was brought up when one of the local real estate people told the table that he had about three deals on homes fall through because of the crash of October.

Now that may be bad news for him, but for many of us who can't afford to be in the market, the good news is that the Federal Government is doing an investigation of the stock situation.

The salesman said that is a little like finding a gear on a machine with a squeak and looking for the oil to fix it.

But another said that by the time the feds get the oil, the machine won't need fixing because it would be broken.

That is why the gears of the government grind so slowly, I guess.

They keep looking for the oil when they should be looking at maintenance.

I think the feds should apply a little more elbow grease instead of a lot of talk to the many problems of

I think the feds should apply a little more elbow grease, instead of a lot of talk, to the many problems of government.

It seems that the bureaucrats want to write the rules, instead of the lawmakers. Sure, they say, they are just interpreting what the lawmakers wanted, but they seem to forget that they are working for us, the individual taxpayer.

Like an IRS agent, trying to make sure that everybody pays their fair share, other governmental officials, not the elected ones, are trying to see that Joe over there doesn't get one step ahead of the game.

In many areas of government, it's the people working for the government who decide whom has to follow and obey the laws. And it seems that the bigger they are, the less they have to follow the rules.

In the end, it's you and I who will have to pay for everybody else. It would be nice to see them have to take over and pay for us someday.

Remembrances

Marshall Sayles

Baby it's cold outside.

This frostnipped climate needs an intelligent explanation and I shall now untangle the mystery.

The President signed an agreement with the head of Russia. The Russian people turned up their noses. They gathered up a giant wad of air, reared back on all two and whirled a Siberian Express at us. The President signed an agreement with the head of China. Canadians didn't like it. So they gathered a mixture of celsius and fahrenheit, heaving ice cubes toward the innocent folk of the U.S. and A. That right there is why you have to turn your furnace up when you get out of bed in the morning. (Any other explanation will not hold anti-freeze.)

As a result of all this signing with Russia and Canada, Lake Charlevoix shuddered and began to freeze January 5th; then on January 7th the entire shabang froze from here to that city between here and Beaver Island. I don't want anybody saying the lake didn't freeze over January 7th. I drive by it every morning and when I've seen something, I know what I've seen.

During this spell of unwanted inclement weather the City of Boyne City has done an excellent job of clearing the streets and scraping dogs off the fire hydrants. I would also like to thank the county road commission for the determined manner in which they have declared war on Marshall Road hill.

These winters seem colder than when I was an imp. I think it's because in those days the weather forecasters didn't have a wind chill factor to fuss with. The wind chill is more or less a modern discovery. Since television, that wind chill factor has made it colder than ever and I don't much care for it.

The very first day winter sent a blast across the city's bow, I devised a secret method of defying the shivers. I stay inside.

In the supermarket the other day, I got to talking to a woman while waiting to be checked out. During the conversation I chanced to ask how old she was. Well, did I get the cold shoulder; and a frostbitten answer?

I seem to learn something every winter. From now on whenever I talk to a woman in public I'm going to keep my mouth shut.

USING CHRISTMAS GIFTS

Many men and women cooks alike have received at least one new kitchen appliance for Christmas, and how exciting and fun it is to use them. A friend jokes about how enthusiastic she was about using her new microwave, wanting to use it for everything. When her husband asked for a glass of orange juice she said "Coming right up! Hot or cold?"

The thing to do with that wonderful new equipment is to use it, even after the newness is past. So many times they are put into a cabinet and are almost forgotten. Every time I get my blender out, I say, "Why don't I use this more often?" Few of us have a perfect kitchen (mine is far too small) with everything planned and under control. As soon as we think that we have it made we receive a new gadget. Where will we put it?

I visited our local hardware store to check out all of the new kitchen equipment. I was thrilled and so happy to find that many of those new appliances are made to set permanently in their own little stalls where they are so handy and are built to use as little counter space as possible.

One appliance that appealed to me the most was the wall coffeemaker. The coffeemaker must be ready to use at all times. So it has taken up far too much room on our counters. Then there are toaster ovens which have two decks so that they only take up 8 inches of counter space. I was impressed with the can opener for those screwtop jars.

The new mixers are built to take less space and then there are the little hand mixers on the wall that are cordless. If you are fortunate enough to receive one of those new food processors, a combination of cutter, blender, grinder and what have you—find a handy place for it, you are one of the lucky ones. The bottom line to all these appliances is to use them.

Use your blender for this
CANTALOUPE FRAPPE
1 banana cut in small pieces
1 cantaloupe, cubed
1 cup orange juice
1 tsp. vanilla
2 ice cubes

Combine all ingredients in blender, cover and blend about 7 seconds until frothy. Makes two 8 oz. servings.

You can use your wok or large skillet, and your food processor to make this delicious

BEEF ORIENTAL STIR-FRY
2 teaspoons cornstarch
1/4 teaspoon ground ginger
1/16 teaspoon crushed, dried red pepper flakes, or to taste
3/4 cup beef flavored bouillon
1 tablespoon dry sherry

4 tablespoons corn oil, divided
2 cups assorted fresh vegetables, such as small broccoli flowerets, thinly sliced carrots, green beans, sliced mushrooms, small onion wedges, snowpeas or zucchini slices.

1 small clove garlic, minced or pressed
1/2 lb. beef flank or top round steak, diagonally sliced in 2 inch strips.

Stir together cornstarch, ginger and pepper. Gradually stir in bouillon and sherry until smooth. In large skillet or wok heat 2 tablespoons of the corn oil over med. high heat. Add vegetables and garlic; stir-fry 3 to 5 minutes or until tender crisp. Remove vegetables; set aside. Heat remaining 2 tablespoons of corn oil in skillet. Re-stir cornstarch mixture; add to skillet. Stirring constantly, bring to boil over medium heat and boil one minute. Serve with rice. Makes 2 generous servings.

When I think of a slicer, carrots come to mind; I hate to slice carrots. This next recipe could use that food processor as well as the microwave.

CREAMY CARROT BISQUE
3 cups thinly sliced carrots
1/4 cup chopped onion
2 cans condensed cream of chicken soup
2 soup cans water
1/2 cup sour cream
1/2 teaspoon grated lemon rind
Generous dash ground nutmeg

In 3 qt. microwave-safe casserole, combine carrots and onion. Cover. Microwave on high 8 to 10 minutes or until tender, stirring once. Stir in soup and water. Pour soup mixture a little at a time in blender and blend until smooth. Return to casserole. Stir in remaining ingredients. Recover, microwave on high 8 to 10 minutes or until hot, stirring occasionally. Let stand covered for 2 minutes. Makes about 6 cups.

From Consumer Services Dept., Campbell Soup Co.

Then I have a couple recipes for easy dips that are so nice for chips or vegetables.

Use your grater for this
CUCUMBER DIP
1 med. cucumber
2 cups yogurt
Dash of salt
Peel and coarsely grate cucumber. Combine with yogurt and salt. Add a drop of lemon or lime juice if desired.

Your blender or food processor comes into use for this
LIGHT DIP
3/4 cup low-fat cottage cheese
1 tablespoon skim milk or butter-milk
2 teaspoons lemon juice

Still time to donate to museum

Editor

We would like to thank the many good people of Boyne City who have contributed money to the Building of the new Museum. Especially those who have contributed $50.00 or more. Also the Industries. All of these will have their names inscribed on a Brass Plate, which will be on display in the Building.

Due to the fact the exterior of the Building is almost completed, our thought is to notify people that it is not too late to make a contribution to "The Boyne City Historical Commission so that your name will be included in the Display inside the Building."

We and the Historical Society have raised a great sum toward the Building of this Museum, which Boyne City can be very proud of. However we still must raise a considerable amount more to finish the inside, so it won't be just half done. We expect to have the Building finished by Spring, and with everyone's cooperation, it will be done. At that time we will be ready to receive Historical items for display. Such items can be given or just loaned.

Again we express our appreciation to all who have given either time or money.

Sincerely,
Boyne City Historical Commission
Loton V. Wilson Chairman

Lions seek hosts

Your District Youth Exchange chairman for Lions of Michigan is searching for host families for youth 16-21 from overseas for the 1988 period.

The period of stay is normally six weeks. The countries currently active include: Australia, Austria, Belgium, Denmark, Finland, France, Germany, Italy, Japan, Netherlands, New Zealand, Norway, Peru, Sweden, and Switzerland. Greece and the Philippines have expressed an interest also for this next year.

The expenses incurred by the host family are generally limited to those spent to maintain a high school student in the home, such as room and board, local transportation, and in some cases incidentals.

The purpose of the exchange is to provide educational opportunities for the students in language and American culture, to create and foster international understanding, to share family and community life. The important element is that you love children and young people.

If this sounds interesting, please call or write to: Youth Exchange Chairman Roger W. Kit-chen, P.O. Box 457, Elk Rapids, MI 49629, 616-264-8554.

We are what we read. This truism, the delight of English teachers who have chided their comics-reading students with it for years, doesn't often come to the minds or the lips of the rest of us. But it popped into my head this afternoon as I surveyed my book harvest from Christmas. I asked for many of the volumes, having read all or parts of them before. And I wondered, on the basis of these books, just what reading them made me. So I considered four of them.

"The Morning After," the latest collection of columns by George F. Will, covers a variety of subjects. I enjoy the ones on sports, the Arts and children more than those on the economy, politics and foreign policy. I often don't agree with him, especially on his no-compromise stance on foreign policy. But I learn from all his writing because he makes a clear and convincing case for his views, even his wrong-headed ones.

Another book of columns, "Close To Home," by Ellen Goodman, contains some of her earlier essays. I've read the more recent ones, but this book has more of the columns I've liked best. She didn't used to get so irate about things, which suits me, although probably not her, better. I don't agree with her on all subjects either, the necessity for the Equal Rights amendment being one, but she too argues well.

Morgan spending semester in Washington

Charlevoix resident Thaddeus Morgan, son of Barry and Gwen Morgan of 09360 Old US 31, has chosen to spend the spring semester studying in Washington D.C.

Morgan, a 1985 graduate of Charlevoix High School, is a junior at Albion College majoring in history.

Albion College students can participate in off-campus programs from around the country, gaining academic credit, while broadening the student's academic experiences.

Ray Bradbury's "Dandelion Wine" tells of the adventures and impressions of a boy in the summer of his twelfth year. The book, published in 1957, came out as a work of fiction. But in the introduction to this edition, written in 1974, Bradbury says that much of the book is autobiographical. Each time I read it, I go along and experience with Douglas Spaulding that wonderful summer between childhood and the serious business of growing up. And I feel renewed by the trip.

Another fiction book, William Saroyan's "The Human Comedy," I have loved since my college days. I suspect, though no introduction says so, that Saroyan, too, took much of this from his memories. I do know from the book's dedication that he wrote the story for his mother and that, in the book, the mother is portrayed as a wise, loving lady. Widowed two years earlier, she lives with her daughter and three sons, counting the son temporarily away in the Army. The book was written in 1942, one of the World War II years.

The story deals with the sights and sounds that four-year-old Ulysses encounters and delights in. And it also treads softly through the wonder and tragedy that fourteen-year-old Homer finds in his job as a Western Union messenger. Saroyan manages to make the world seem a kindly place in spite of Homer's close contacts with the sadness in it, even when his family ultimately receives one of the telegrams that begins: "The Department of War regrets to inform you that your son..." Whenever I read "The Human Comedy," I feel enriched by my contact with this, the Macauley family and all around glad to be alive.

Who am I because I read these books? One who admires fine writing, revels in it, in fact. About reading, I'd guess I feel as Benjamin Franklin felt. He was once asked to give an example of a condition of man that he felt deserved the most pity and he replied: "A lonesome man on a rainy day who doesn't know how to read."

DNR asks residents to watch for eagles

Michigan residents are urged to play a "heads-up" role in the comeback of bald eagles this winter by reporting their sightings of the majestic birds during the January-March period to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) Nongame Wildlife Program.

Reports zeroing in on the January 1-15 time frame are particularly important. They will be tied into a cooperative effort with the National Wildlife Federation as part of a nationwide winter eagle survey.

Observations of eagles extending throughout the winter will help guide a management recovery plan for these spectacular birds. A good deal is known about Michigan's nesting populations of eagles in the summer, but biologists need to learn more about where the birds spend their winters.

"Our State's nesting eagle numbers reached an all-time high of 137 pairs this past summer and produced a record 149 young," reported Tom Weise, DNR Endangered Species Coordinator. "We need to know where our eagles spend the winter so critical winter habitat can be preserved to help increase the birds' breeding population.

Many of this State's nesting eagles remain in scattered sectors of both peninsulas during the cold weather months, but some, notably immature birds, leave Michigan to winter elsewhere, noted Weise. Eagles that do winter in Michigan are most apt to be seen near open water areas where they can find food, he said.

Thanks to citizen participation and reports, a record 145 bald eagles were counted in Michigan last winter.

"Last year's response was very helpful to our recovery plans for the bald eagle under the Nongame Wildlife

Program," stressed Weise. "We need another strong show of public reports this winter to crosscheck whether mild conditions a year ago accounted for the unusually high numbers of eagles wintering in Michigan.

Anyone sighting an adult bald eagle (distinguished by white head and tail) from now through March should send a postcard with the date, specific location, and number of eagles seen to:

EAGLE ALERT
DNR Nongame Wildlife
Box 30180
Lansing, MI 48909

Weise concluded: "Besides helping in this fact-finding effort, we need continued public support to finance field management work for bald eagles. We hope Michigan citizens will also come through for eagles this winter by donating to the Nongame Wildlife Fund (checkoff) on Line 35 of their State tax returns."

EJ JV's top Central Lake, drop game to Mancy

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
The East Jordan junior varsity basketball squad split games last week as they collected a victory over Central Lake on Wednesday before bowing to Mancelona on Friday.

At Central Lake EJ held an 11-9 lead after the end of the first quarter and maintained the two point lead, 25-23, at halftime as both squads scored 14 points.

The Red Devils exploded in the third period with a 26 point barrage. Defensively they gave up 12 points thus holding a commanding 51-35 lead that allowed them to coast to a 76-51 victory.

In the contest EJ hit 29 field goals while going 18 of 23 at the freethrow line as the Trojans made 18 field goals and 15 of 30 freethrows.

Don Cutler led the way offensively with 21 points as Ted Sherman came up with 20. Bill Gotts, Jim Downey, Pat Muma, and Pat Russell each added six. Gotts also contributed three assists as Cutler chipped in two.

Defensively Sherman had 10 rebounds as Cutler came up with nine and Mike Rebec and Russell each crashed the boards for six. Gotts also added eight steals to the winning effort.

Against Mancelona the Devils trailed 15-11 at the conclusion of the first period. They cut the Ironmen lead to just two points, 25-23, at the half.

The EJ defense came to life in the third quarter allowing Mancy only two points throughout the entire eight minutes. The offense hit for eight points thus obtaining a 31-27 lead heading into the final stanza.

Here Mancelona made up for the lack of production in the prior period as they found the hoop for 23 points. The Devils scored 16 of their own but fell short as they suffered a 50-47 defeat.

EJ connected on 17 two-point field goals and 3 three-pointers while canning 4 of 14 at the free throw line. The Ironmen made good on 20 two-point field goals while hitting 10 of 18 shots from the line.

Cutler once again was dominant from an offensive standpoint with an impressive 28 point performance which included two three point shots. Sherman added eight points as Gotts came up with six. Downey came up with six assists as Gotts had three.

All team members got into the act defensively as each came up with at least one rebound. Cutler took top honors with 10 as Rebec had five. Steve Shepard obtained five steals.

This week the Devils will host Gaylord St. Mary's on Tuesday before travelling to Bellaire on Friday.

ACP sign-up period started In service

The sign-up period for Emmet-Charlevoix Counties' Agricultural Conservation Program (ACP) is open for conservation practices that can be completed in the spring of 1988. Farmers faced with severe soil erosion problems may want to apply for the program during this period. The sign-up period ends March 31, 1988.

The ACP provides both technical and financial assistance to help farmers solve severe soil, water and pollution problems on their land. "Cost-share funds are used to correct conservation problems on a farm beyond that which would be accomplished with farmer's own resources," county ASCS official Elaine Richardson said.

The following conservation practices are available under ACP: Permanent Vegetative Cover Establishment and Improvement, Strip-cropping, Diversions, Grazing Land Protection, Windbreaks, Cover crops, Critical Area cover, Reduced and No-Till Systems, Water Impoundment Reservoirs, Erosion or water control structures, Stream protection, Animal Waste Facilities, Tree Planting and Timber Stand Improvement.

Cost-share requests are considered after each sign-up period. We establish priorities and approve cost-share funds on practices that will obtain the most conservation for the dollars spent. Requests are evaluated as to the loss of soil and/or water, and the amount that can be saved by performing the practice that has been requested. Cost-sharing may be up to 75% of the farmer's cost for the most critical problems.

The ACP authorizes up to $10,000 per fiscal year under a pooling agreement.

IRS announces help manuals

To help taxpayers learn about the changes made by tax reform, the Internal Revenue Service today announced the availability of two new publications that explain the new tax laws.

The IRS said that taxpayers need to be aware of these changes now and they should also review their withholding to make sure they will be getting the desired refund next year or do not owe a large amount of tax when they file their 1987 returns.

Both Publication 920, Explanation of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 for Individuals, and Publication 921, Explanation of the Tax Reform Act of 1986 for Business, show how the new law and operation of nuclear-power and diesel submarines. In preparation for his first assignment, he studied shipboard organization, damage control, and submarine safety and escape procedures.

A 1985 graduate of Charlevoix High School, he joined the Navy in January 1987.

compares to the old, first in easy-to-read chart form for a quick overview, followed by detailed articles on most of the tax law changes that affect individuals and businesses.

Publication 920 has 15 articles on such topics as simplified and reduced tax rates, changes in the IRS rules, itemized deductions, and new limits on personal interest. The IRS also said taxpayers should use the last two pages of the booklet to check to see if the tax you are paying now will give you the refund you want next year. Publication 920 has a description of a variety of free tax help programs that IRS offers.

To get copies of the new IRS publications, write to the Forms Distribution Center, P.O. Box 903, Bloomington, IL 61799 or call 1-800-424-3676.

Children will take the forefront with games designed especially for them starting at 1:00. The Girl Scouts will be running some of the activities while Bud Bates will be hosting the annual children's dog sled races.

While not really a race, the rules say the family dog must be used to pull a sled through a course carrying a family member. It is always one of the more interesting events of the day.

Then at 4 p.m. the snow sculptures and snowman contest judging will get underway with members of the Xi Gamma Sorority doing the judging.

Starting at 5 p.m. the Eagles Hall will be the scene of a smelt fry with everyone invited. The smelt dinners will last until 7 p.m. when a Kenny Rogers impersonator will take the stage to entertain the visitors. After he is finished, the Eagles will be holding their annual smelt dance until 1 a.m.

Along with all of the activities will be horse pulled sleigh rides, a large bonfire, chili and hot chocolate or coffee available at the pavilion.

Out on the ice, fishermen will be in their shanties trying to catch smelt as they were the basis of the festival several years ago when it was called Smeltania.

Trust fund approves $400,000 grant for North Point

The Natural Resources Trust Fund Board, meeting in Lansing today, approved a grant of $400,000 toward the acquisition of North Point near Charlevoix. The action by the Board sends the measure to the state legislature where approval is expected.

Speaking on behalf of the Little Traverse Conservancy which is sponsoring the project, Executive Director Tom Bailey said he is very pleased with the board's action. "We're happy that the board sees the importance of North Point for both environmental protection and public recreation," he said. Bailey indicated that the Conservancy's goal in the North Point project is to turn the land over to Charlevoix Township for management as a public nature preserve and park.

"This grant makes the $400,000 available to the Township," Bailey said, "and the Conservancy will raise another $300,000 to match that to complete the project." Total cost for the project is approximately $700,000.

Bailey expressed thanks to all the area groups and individuals who have written the Trust Fund Board in support of the measure. "Everyone's support helped," he said.

Bailey also said that special thanks go to State Senator Mitch Irwin and Representative Ralph Ostling for their support. "These legislators have helped the North Point project get off the ground," he said.

Now that the measure goes before the legislature for ratification, Bailey said that Irwin's and Ostling's support will help to insure approval. Legislative action on the measure is expected later in the spring or early summer.

With the Trust Fund Board approval now secure, Bailey said the Conservancy's attention will be turned back to fundraising. "The people of the Charlevoix area have already given $125,000 toward the project," he said, "but that leaves $175,000 yet to go." Though he is optimistic about reaching the final goal, Bailey said that it will take a great deal of work to put the project over the top.

"With the kind of support we have from business, industry, and individuals in the Charlevoix area," he said, "I'm sure we'll make it—the people really want North Point dedicated as public land."

Tax-deductible contributions to the effort can be sent to the Little Traverse Conservancy's Preserve North Point project at 3284 Powell Rd., Harbor Springs, MI 49740, or by phoning 616-347-0991.

Health Dept. stressing good habits in prevention of disease

Brian L. Youngs, M.D. Medical Director for District Health Department No. 3 is stressing the importance of good health habits in preventing the spread of disease, especially hepatitis A. Since the end of September, ten cases of hepatitis A have been reported to the Health Department. Seven cases were reported from East Jordan and three cases were reported from Central Lake.

Hepatitis A, or infectious hepatitis, is a viral illness involving the liver. It has an abrupt onset with fever, feeling of unwellness, nausea, loss of appetite, abdominal discomfort followed within a few days by jaundice (yellow skin and eyes). Although a potentially serious disease, complete recovery is the rule. Many infections occur without symptoms or jaundice, especially in children.

Diagnosis is made by obtaining a specific blood test. Individuals are contagious for about two weeks prior to the onset of illness and for one week after. The average time from exposure to illness is about thirty days. Immune globulin (IG) given within two weeks of exposure may prevent or modify the illness.

Basic control of infectious hepatitis (hepatitis A) includes the sanitary disposal of fecal wastes, protection of food and water from contamination and the need for proper hand washing after defecation and before handling foods. Food handlers should be especially careful and avoid contact with food if they are ill or have diarrhea.

Another area of concern is the day care setting where good hygiene may be difficult to implement. Operators must be especially vigilant.

Other preventive measures include the practice of good health habits. Since many potentially infectious individuals are not ill, they can unknowingly expose another person. This is true with many diseases and is why everyone should practice good health habits all the time. Most good health habits are those common sense things taught to us as children by our parents, and include:

1. Washing your hands before you eat;
2. Washing your hands after you use the bathroom;
3. Not sharing common personal items such as eating utensils, glasses, combs, towels, and food;
4. Brushing your teeth after you eat;
5. Changing your clothes and underwear when dirty;
6. Taking a bath and washing your hair at least once a week;
7. Keeping your fingernails clean and trimmed;

8. Not biting your fingernails;
9. Covering your mouth when you cough or sneeze;
10. Staying home when you are sick;
11. Avoiding others who are ill;
12. Keeping small children from putting objects in their mouths.

There are other measures involved in preventing disease such as receiving childhood immunizations and following your family physician's advice. Yet, a simple measure like washing your hands will help prevent the spread of illness from one person to another. This is especially true in the prevention of hepatitis A.

For more information about good health habits or hepatitis, contact your family physician or the county public health nurse.

Mike Deschryver pops in another two points in the tough, but losing effort of the Boyne City Ramblers when they faced Petoskey for the first home game of the season last Friday.

Ramblers play tough, still lose

BY SCOTT KNIPE
Petoskey did not come into Boyne City looking for a tough match up against the Ramblers, after Boyne was walloped by the Charlevoix Rayders before Christmas break, a team the Northmen had already defeated. But Boyne gave them more than they bargained for in a high spirited contest that was undecided until the final buzzer sounded with Boyne on the low side of a 59-55 score.

Boyne opened up with their greatest first quarter to date, playing excellent defense and holding the Northmen to one point until the last minutes of the quarter. Then in a barrage of baskets, Petoskey shattered Boyne's stable 11-1 lead and ended the first stanza with the Ramblers barely ahead, 13-9.

The second quarter was less to Boyne's liking. The northmen regrouped and lead an offensive effort the Ramblers couldn't stop and Petoskey took the lead 23-28.

The third quarter did not prove to be much different. Petoskey led Boyne, but the Ramblers were scrambling for all they were worth, and never let the Northmen get too far out of reach, hoping that soon the intensity Petoskey displayed would break and the Ramblers could go ahead.

But no such luck. Petoskey kept their cool, even as Boyne pulled within two and then tied them several times, and the third quarter ended with the Northmen on top, 40-44.

Throughout the fourth quarter

Boyne continued to tie the score again and again, but Petoskey would continually hit on high percentage shots that kept giving them a slight lead.

As time wound down, Boyne found themselves in foul trouble. Keith Harvey and Scott Ham-montree, both Rambler starters, fouled out of the game, and the Northmen made good on the freethrows.

Petoskey took a six point lead going into the last minute, and maintained it until the last seconds of the game when Tom Miller tipped in a loose ball to bring Boyne within four, but it was already too late. The northmen had the victory, 59-55.

High scorer, and the Ramblers only man in double digits, was Mike Deschryver with 20 points. He was followed by Scott Ham-montree with 9 points, all from three point line shooting.

Also contributing were Keith Harvey with 8, Mark Harris with 5, Jim Abney and Tom Miller each with 4, Aaron Richards and Paul Molner each with 2, and Todd Urman with 1.

Top defensive players of the evening were Mike Deschryver who pulled down 9 rebounds and had 1 blocked shot, Aaron Richards with 7 rebounds, and Jim Abney with 6 rebounds and 4 blocked shots.

With this loss in the past column, the Ramblers are now preparing themselves for Friday nights game against the Gaylord Blue Devils.

EJ takes first win of season

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
Last Friday the East Jordan varsity basketball team captured its first victory of the season over visiting Mancelona by the score of 77-70.

Coming into the game as underdogs to the highly favored Ironmen, EJ jumped out to a 17-13 lead after the first quarter. This was a lead many thought would be overcome by Mancy as the contest progressed.

Just the opposite happened in the second period as the Red Devils scored 24 points while granting Mancelona only 12 to increase their winning margin to 16 points, 41-25, at the halftime intermission.

EJ led by as much as 22 points, 50-28, at the 4:47 mark of the third stanza but a 19-7 run by the Ironmen over the quarter's last four minutes made the score 57-47 as the final period approached. Here they held off several Mancy comeback attempts, including one that saw the Ironmen come within five points with 6:34 remaining, as they held on to claim the victory.
