

Fire barn to get heat

BC commissioners, township, DNR officials meet over dump

Boyer City's Fire Department will get heat for the new addition to the fire barn after the city commissioners okayed a change work order that will complete the installation of the heating system.

That action and the city commissioners taking a first look at the proposed capital improvement program were the only items covered by the noon city commission meeting.

Most of the action of the commissioners will come Tuesday evening when they will meet in force with members of the Evangeline Township Board and officials of the Department of Natural Resources. Also coming to the meeting will be representatives from Senator Mitch Irwin's office.

The three groups will try to work out details on how the former city landfill can get capped and the final closure work be completed. The three groups will explore ways of finding financing as the city has said they cannot afford to pay for the capping unless they get a grant from the DNR to help with the costs.

The DNR, which has caused most of the problems with the closing of the dump, is also the same agency that has refused to find grant monies to help pay for the actions they wanted done.

The DNR has said they will seek court action to force the city into complying with the state laws requiring the capping of the former dump.

The DNR is apparently acting on the concerns of Evangeline Township residents who are pressing the issue with their township board and, who in turn, are pressing the issue with the DNR to force the city into compliance.

The landfill was located in Evangeline Township.

The City has filed grant applications for the past few years, but have found themselves not getting into the upper levels so the grant could be made.

City officials have expressed concerns that because more than just city residents have used the dump, the other users should be sharing in the costs of closure. Those other users, besides the many townships in the area, also include the DNR.

The city and the DNR have paid for test wells to be installed around the landfill and some contaminants have been found in the ground water at one of those test sites.

But some city officials have unofficially wondered if the tests were made properly, as the device used was contaminated itself because of workers dropping the line used on the ground prior to and during the dipping of water from the well.

BC schools to ask for 2 plus mills

Even after determining why the Boyer City bonding issues failed in the recent Boyer City Schools' special election, the school board determined the school will still need operational money and will have to come to the voters to approve a new request.

The action came at a work session, after board members discussed what the school system will need to keep its present level of education.

In order to keep the schools operating at the same level, board members determined they will have to ask for about 2.2 or more mills in operational funds from voters, if the budget worked out by Superintendent Rich Kelly is right.

Kelly said that he will be going through the budget for the next year to fine tune it and work out the total amount which he will present at the February board meeting.

The school board will have to make a decision at that time to set another special election in late March or early April.

Also discussed to be on that ballot will be an additional .7 mills that will be used to purchase needed school equipment like desks and supplies. That millage request will be for three years and the board would like to see the request extended after that period to be applied to maintenance of school equipment.

All of the board members said that if cuts have to be made in the educational program, they don't want to make cuts that would jeopardize education.

As far as changes, Elementary Principal Ed Snyder told the board he "Sees no choice but to have larger class sizes in grades one, two, and three." He said that would work out to about five more children per class. That would allow the school to add a section to the fourth grade and still keep the same number of teachers.

Snyder said the smaller class sizes were determined to be based on social and emotional needs rather than academic achievement. He said the students of today can't be compared to students as late as ten years ago because of the changing values and mores of society.

Kelly told the board they need to look at what we need to do now, not in April after the election.

"We have a lot of things that other schools don't have, all we need is the funding to maintain them," he added.

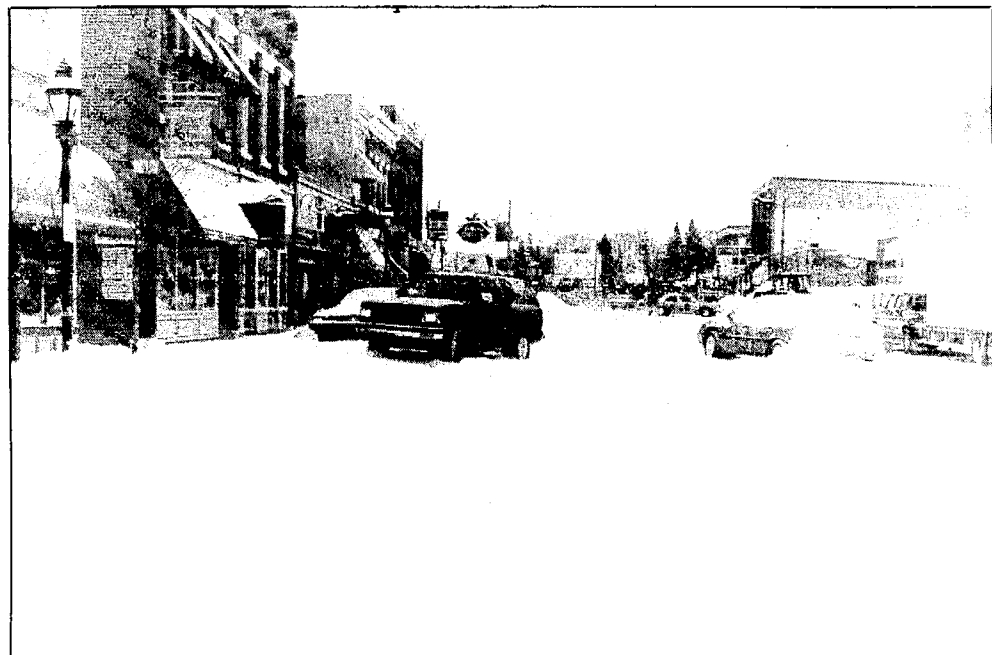

If approved at the February meeting, the school board will ask for the renewal of the present 21.3 mills, as well as the increase of millage for one year. The increase could be as high as 3.4 mills. The board will have to determine exactly what millage they will ask the voters to approve. The additional millage request for the equipment would be for three years.

Board members seem optimistic about the passage of the operational funds, but the question remains as to where the school system will find room for the expected increase in students.

Kelly told board members something will have to be done by 1989 or the school system will be in trouble trying to fit all of the classes into the elementary building and the middle school. Those two schools will see the brunt of the new students.

Board members say they do not see the voters of the district supporting portable classrooms, while other board members have reservations about moving classes, such as the seventh and eighth graders to the high school where there is available room.

Those decisions will have to be made at the next board meeting which will be held February 8.

Downtown Boyer City looked like it was hit with a blizzard last Thursday, and someone forgot to call out the snowplows as the downtown block was cut off from normal traffic to allow a Chevrolet commercial to be filmed. It took all morning to get just the right kind of shot for the cameramen from Sundog Productions and about 25 people to help in creating the film. Also included in the commercial are location shots taken in the Horton Bay area and along Wilson Road. The producers had the city store the snow and even had to truck in more to make for a more realistic shot. All of this excitement for a few seconds of film. If you see the commercial appearing on television during February, look closely, the Boyer City segment of the 30 second commercial amounts to about four or five seconds.

Boyer Falls looking to expand school with classrooms

After Boyer Falls school officials and a specially appointed advisory committee completed their findings, they recommended to the school board Monday night that the school will soon be facing a shortage of classrooms and recommended the system start the planning necessary to enlarge the amount of classrooms at the school.

The findings were made after the committee had examined past and current enrollments, projections from the Census Bureau and telephone interviews with school district residents determined the need for additional classrooms.

The school district has had net gains in student enrollments since 1977 when the district only had 288 students enrolled from kindergarten through the senior year of high school.

Currently the school has 321 students and the survey projected that by 1991, the school will have 351.

Because of the determination and the recommendation the select committee made, the school board was urged to appoint a committee to determine an architect and figure out what the needs of the school would be if it were to be enlarged.

The board appointed the Building and Grounds Committee to look at and determine what would be needed as to the amount of classrooms, where they would be sited on the school property and who would be the architect to design what the school board needs.

That committee is to report back to the school board at the February meeting with their recommendations before the school system can hire an architect, figure the costs and arrange for a special bonding issue to cover the cost of construction.

Also deferred to the Transportation Committee was a decision to buy a new bus. Administration asked the committee to determine whether they should buy a diesel or gas engine bus as the costs for operation were different. It will be up to the committee to determine what kind of bus will be purchased.

In other transportation issues, the board agreed to hire Ray Lubinski, a part-time school bus driver who has been filling in a route as a full time bus driver.

At the December meeting, the transportation committee and the school board heard arguments as to the hiring procedure and the desire to utilize those living within the school district before going outside of the district to find workers.

The board then tabled the action and referred it back to the committee to restudy the applicants and make a determination as to which one would be best for the system. After restudying all of the applicants, the committee then recommended the board hire Lubinski.

In other action, the school board heard the results of the annual Michigan Educational Assessment Program tests that were made last fall in the fourth, seventh and tenth grades. According to the results, the school system came out with high scores and was above the state levels in all categories.

They also had the second reading of two school policies that would limit the amount and kind of fundraising the students can do, and to have some control on student field trips, including the senior class trip.

The seniors did get approval of their itinerary for this spring, as they made a short presentation to the board and asked for their approval. They told the board they were about $800 short of their goal, but expect to have all of the money by the end of the basketball season. They also haven't decided on who will be the chaperone for the trip as they had just gotten names from interested parties and had not had time to make a decision.

The board approved the trip

Neon signs out, BC planners say

Bare neon tube signs will be prohibited from use on Boyer City businesses if proposed sign guidelines are accepted and made into part of the sign ordinance it was decided at the monthly Boyer City Planning Advisory Board meeting held Monday evening.

The new guidelines will be included in the sign ordinance portion of the city zoning code if wording can be worked out by City Attorney Bill McTaggart after getting instructions to complete work on the new guidelines.

The planners asked the work be completed by the February meeting so they can pass their recommendation to the City Commission to make it part of the rules that govern the zoning code for the city.

The planners also had a first look at what the city intends for capital improvements in the next five years. The planners are given the five year plan first to see if they want to provide any input into the planning the city will be doing prior to spending the money for needed improvements.

Scheduled for the 1988-89 fiscal year will be the completion of the first phase of the infrastructure repair/replacement program and the initiation of the second phase. Also included this year will be the sidewalk along Brockway to the Elementary School, water mains on Michigan Avenue, Grant Street, McKinley, Division, Park and Vogel Streets.

Sewer work is scheduled to be done on North Park, Main Street from East to beyond Marl Street, Vogel, Pleasant Avenue from West to Front Streets, West Street from Lincoln to Pleasant Avenue, and East Street from Cedar Street to Morgan Street.

Streets getting action will see the traffic survey being done on North Lake Street to include the possibility of curb and gutter, bike path, extra turn lane and more, the paving of Jefferson Street, the capping of City Hall Drive, Park Street and Vogel Street.

The city also expects to construct a second parking lot for Peninsula Beach, build a storage building for seasonal equipment, construct two dry hydrants in the downtown area, make improvements to the old city park to go along with the donated gazebo memorial, and starting phase one of a building for Avalanche Preserve. That will include a warming hut and restrooms.

The city is expected to spend $111,500 for those improvements, along with $800,000 from the general obligation bonds the voters approved last year.

Will you recognize heart attack symptoms?

Of the more than 55,000 people who will die of heart attacks this year, about 60 percent will die before reaching the hospital. The American Heart Association of Michigan and the American Red Cross suggests that the reason so many die before receiving proper medical care is a general lack of familiarity with the symptoms and warning signs of heart attacks.

According to the American Red Cross, the most significant signal of a heart attack is chest discomfort or pain. A victim may describe it as uncomfortable pressure, squeezing, a fullness or tightness, aching, crushing, constricting, oppressive, or heavy. The pain is described as being in the center of the chest behind the breastbone. The pain may spread to one or both shoulders or arms, or to the neck, jaw, or back. In addition to chest pain there may be other signals including sweating, nausea, and shortness of breath.

Many people dismiss these symptoms as indigestion or some minor physical upset. They may wait an average of three hours before calling for help. The key to surviving a heart attack, experts say, is to recognize the symptoms and act immediately. The longer medical treatment is postponed, the more likely death and disability are to occur.

Naturally, not all chest pain or soreness of the arms or shoulders is an indication of an imminent heart attack. If you're not certain your symptoms are serious, seek medical attention anyway.

It's a good idea to keep the phone number of your local emergency medical services organization next to your phone and in your purse or wallet. Find out too, for future reference, which hospitals in your area offer 24 hour emergency cardiac care.

Aside from learning to recognize the symptoms of heart attack and acting immediately when they occur, remember to avoid overeating, have your blood pressure checked regularly and stay away from tobacco smoke.

For more information on heart attack, contact the American Heart Association of Michigan at 16310 West 12 Mile Road, Lathrup Village, MI 48076 or your local American Red Cross.

"Everybody talks about the weather, but nobody does anything about it." This observation, most often trotted out when the weather has or is about to make a mess of things, I always thought came from Mark Twain. But recently I discovered that it was written by a contemporary of Twain's, Charles Dudley Warner. Not that it matters much to me. Nor does it matter that people go around talking about the weather. But that they spend so much time on it, I find most curious, especially considering how busy people are.

First off, the fact that nobody does anything about it is due, of course, to nobody's having figured out how to. All we've figured out is how to predict what sort of stuff the weather is going to deliver and when, which is useful. It also provides fuel for additional conversation since now people can talk about the weather before the fact as well as during and after it.

Most people don't spend much time talking about the blue-sky days. They speak of them, of course, but only briefly. An exchange on a shining day goes about like this.

"Lovely day, isn't it?" "It sure is." And that's that.

But on a miserable day, one when the heavens throw down tons of rain or sleet or snow and mix it with blow, conversation flourishes.

It often starts with someone, standing in line at the grocery store or bank for instance, saying to a fellow stander, "Cold enough for you?" or, "Windy enough for you?" or, "Got your ark built yet?"

Then someone else within ear-shot joins in and tells of his adventures out in the elements, which draws in others who relate their treacherous weather experiences, not only in the current storm but in those of years past. And everyone has a fine time swapping weather stories.

Then, as often happens in conversation, the focus shifts. Some people who've been talking and complaining about weather-related problems start blaming the weather for other problems that have no relation at all, like foreign policy and taxes, which doesn't make sense but seems to satisfy them.

Why? Why do all these busy people get so carried away by the subject?

I suppose the reason could simply be that weather's always a safe and socially acceptable topic to discuss anytime, any place, at any length with anyone.

But a better reason why, I think, people reach for and hang onto the subject so often and so long is that it's handy. The weather is always there. And, "the weather is always doing something there...", a quotation that really does come from Mark Twain. The "there" he was referring to in this case was the weather in New England. But it applies to weather anywhere, heaven knows, and so did he

I have to say of Twain, because I admire him, that I'm glad he didn't author the observation cited earlier being as it's so inane - almost as inane as, on a 20 degrees below zero day, saying, "Cold enough for you?" But then, if people want to waste their time saying silly things like that, I guess that's their affair. But I do find it most curious.

"There are undiscovered talents in everyone, discover yours now!"

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

No column this week. I am too busy trying to figure out how I can build a shanty for Smeltania out of all of these used metal printing plates I have around the office.

I hope someone comes in and buys them so I can worry about a shanty next year, especially since the lake froze over and the ice is getting thicker every day even though we have had our January Thaw this past weekend.

But, after hearing about some of the stories of people catching smelt, while others are catching perch, just makes me want to participate.

In fact, I heard the fishing is so good all you need is a net and a license.

The way the net is used, according to one of the wags at the coffee table, is that because of the heavy snow sitting on the ice, and the extra weight it causes, when you cut a hole in it to fish the water gushes out like an artesian well.

Weeeelllll, according to this one fisherman, after he got tired of trying to pull his shanty out a little further onto the ice, he ran out of oomph.

At that point, he decided the shanty would probably have just as good fishing in that place as where he intended anyway and he cleared off the snow in preparation for setting his home on ice.

He says that when he cut the holes for the shanty the water gushed out so high that the ensuing vacuum caused by the water coming up started to bring the perch and smelt with it.

Because he was kinda tired from having to pull the shanty out, he reached into the shanty and pulled out his steelhead net and stuck it into the cascading stream of water coming from the hole.

He says he caught his limit in just a couple of minutes, and what he couldn't catch just froze on the ice anyway.

He said he will not even have to pay more for the electricity to freeze the additional catch, as nature did it for him.

Now, I have heard fish stories before, and this sure sounded like a good one. I threatened to go out on the ice to see if it could be done again, but he said I would have to wait until we get a lot more snow to replace the snow that melted over the weekend.

That is another reason why I don't think I will ever get to go fishing. I can't make up stories like that very often, and fishermen have this talent to do so.

Otherwise, that 38 pound smelt that was caught on a two pound test line would be only about 6 ounces in reality.

I just need more training on the sport, I guess.

Attends 131 meeting in TC

Dear Mr. Adams/Editor

I attended your public meeting of 1-12-88 at Traverse City re: Transportation 2020. Would like to share with you some of the additional thoughts expressed at our "Round Table" discussion.

The Northwestern side of the state is the fastest growing area in the state. Its essential for the economic development of the area for the US 131 freeway to continue through our area and not be diverted over to I-75 in the center of the state.

As an example, outside Petoskey on the DunDee (Penn-Dixie) Cement property, a 3,200 dwelling unit complex is planned along with two hotels and a convention center. This project alone will double the population in that area over the next years.

US 131 is completed to Cadillac now. It is a "core" project to continue to Kalkaska during the next 10 years. Nothing appears to be considered beyond that point at this time. Due to the length of time it takes to accomplish improvements, purchase land and right of ways (about 10 years), we need to start the planning process now. For safety sake we already need improvements in the area of Fife Lake and from Cadillac to Manton.

US 131 is the main artery North from Grand Rapids, Kalamazoo, Chicago, and all of Indiana and Illinois. Highway 31 is an access route to that corner of the State, but 131 is the key. Lets keep 31 as a scenic attraction instead of the prime people mover.

Several suggestions were made that US 131 should be kept on the West side of the Mancelona plain without going through the Jordan Valley. This is high and well drained land, all suitable for road construction. Although this is a high development area, carefull routing can make the freeway a scenic attraction as well as a development aid.

With proper planning, the proposed Petoskey beltline could be tied into US 131 and continue on to tie into I-75 somewhere south of Indian River. At the least, please consider bringing US 131 freeway to southern Emmet County before tying into I-75.

Sincerely,
Sandra R. Stanley

Remembrances

Central School, then also known as the West Wing, was completed in 1910 at a cost of $20,000 and stood on the site of the playground of the present middle school. Three years after this school was built enrollment reached a high of 1500 students. In 1961 Central School was razed due to deterioration of the building. If you have any old pictures that would be of interest to our readers, please bring them in so copies can be made for this Remembrance feature.

We shall now talk about whooping it up in cold weather.

The Chamber of Commerce Frostival Festival is ten days down the road, just in time to put some life into the dead of the winter.

It makes me happy that the chamber sponsors this January break. It makes me forget that this is the time of year when my only enemy is a cold north wind. Young folks in the area also appreciate what the city and the merchants are doing for them in this ten above nothing weather.

Listed among the festival's fun activities is a snowman sculpturing contest. Judges will decide who took ice and snow and built the most perfect man. (I've never seen a judge yet who can point a finger at a perfect man.)

As I understand it the contest is for the young, not for we over the hill frumps. However if I were in my glad season (and still had my vigor) I believe I would sweep the contest by constructing a snowwoman, not to win the prize, mind you, but to be fair.

A woman has just as much right to be cold and judged as a man does. I strongly favor a cold judged woman, especially in these days of non-discrimination. Isn't that what all the marching and flag waving was and is about?

My sculpture would leave no doubt that it was not a man. Some on-lookers would shout with glee, slap their legs and yell, "Right on!" Sedate heads, however, would probably ask the judges to disqualify my effort and drag me by the nose out of range of the contest, forgetting that discrimination is against the law.

I said I might do it if I were young. Well, I am not young. I have arms and legs that detest any activity beyond the miracle of standing up.

And there is another reason why I wouldn't make a snowwoman now. It's because the noble and dignified rule Boyne City; and they are in the majority. In the past I've found it down right impossible to dodge the wrath of the majority. (Let the reader try it. If the noble doesn't get him the dignified will.)

During our lumbering days sedate people were not in the majority. A snowwoman would have been tolerated by men of the hob-nail boot variety. Hard working, hard drinking wood ticks did not discriminate against women as long as they did what they were told.

They would have allowed anyone to build a snowwoman with no thought of discrimination.

Heavens how times have changed.

I would like to thank the chamber for giving me something to write about that makes sense.

Boyer City varsity downed by Blue Devils

BY SCOTT KNIPE

In their past week of play, Boyne City's Ramblers have taken two staggering defeats. Tuesday it was at the hands of the Saint Ignace Saints.

The Ramblers couldn't seem to get anything to go right that evening as the Saints marched in and took an early lead right from the opening tip off. The first quarter ended with Boyne lagging behind by six, 11-17. Boyne shooting touch seemed to improve in the second stanza, but they couldn't gain a basket on the Saints, and ended the half 35-41.

Boyer fell further and further behind as the second half progressed, relying on three principal scorers throughout its extent. At the end of the third Boyne had fallen behind to a 14 point deficit, 51-65, and in the final quarter the Ramblers were outscored at a margin of 20-23 for the quarter to bring the final score to 71-88.

High scorer for the Ramblers was Mike Deschryver with 37 points, followed by Aaron Richards with 17. Also contributing were Keith Harvey with 6, Jim Abney with 5, Tom Miller with 4, and Mark Harris with 2. Mike Deschryver topped out the defensive efforts for Boyne with 8 rebounds, 5 steals and one blocked shot.

Things were even tougher in Gaylord as the Blue Devils picked themselves up out of a losing slump to devastate Boyne, 53-74.

It was clear who was in control of the game from the opening moments. The Devils took an early lead combining fine offensive shooting with a strong defense to lead 9-22 at the end of the first quarter, and 18-38 at the halftime break.

Boyer came on in the third quarter, but the Blue Devils still held on to a 24 point lead at the end, 34-58. Boyne really attempted a rally at the end of the game, but too little too late, and Gaylord took home only their second victory of the season by the score of 53-74.

Again topping out the Ramblers scoring was Mike Deschryver with 22, the only Rambler player in double figures. Behind him was Scott Hammontree with 7; Mark Harris, Keith Harvey, and Aaron Richards each had 6, Tom Miller had 3, Chuck Vondra 2, and Nick Evans 1. Taking control defensively for the Ramblers was Jim Abney with 10 rebounds and 2 blocked shots.

Boyer lines up against East Jordan and Cheboygan this week, both games being played at home.

Lasater selects Martin as Crime Prevention Officer

Charlevoix County Sheriff has received a grant from the Office of Criminal Justice for a Crime Prevention Officer.

Sheriff Lasater announced the State of Michigan Office of Criminal Justice has approved a grant for a nine month period for the Sheriff's office to provide a county-wide crime prevention officer who will institute the following services for Charlevoix County citizens:

1. Continue to expand Neighborhood Watch programs.
2. Continue to expand Child Watch programs.
3. Initiate drug and alcohol education awareness services, "DARE".

4. Institute Crime-Watch hotline to the Sheriff's Dept.

5. Develop Victim-Witness assistance programs already in effect.

Several of these programs are already in use in Charlevoix County, however, have not been developed as should be due to officer availability. Receipt of this grant will allow the crime prevention officer to devote full-time efforts in these areas.

Sheriff Lasater has selected Deputy Sheriff Sherry Martin to fill this position for the Sheriff's office. Deputy Martin has been with the Sheriff's office for one and half years.

BC Bowling Ass'n. holds tournament

Of the 35 teams and 160 bowlers participating in the 32nd annual Boyne City Bowling Association's City Tournament, all knew that there could be only one winner for each of the divisions of the championships.

Those winners will get to share a grand total of $2025 in prize money that will be distributed at a meeting of the association this Thursday.

Taking first in the team event was the team from Raveau's Body Shop. They bowled a combined score of 3260 pins to take the $180 first place prize. Second place went to Art's Radiator Service who's five man team hit 3243 pins. Second place is good for $115. Third place went to the team sponsored by the Charlevoix County Press with a pin count of 3213, and worth $80.

Fourth place was taken by the Sportsman's Bar with 3196, fifth went to Bay Shore Steel; sixth, Boyne City Lanes; seventh, Nordic Bar.

In the doubles event, the team of Brian Bennett and Augie Stolt took the first place honors with a total pin count of 1412. That was worth $160 to the two players. Second was taken by Ron Bennett and Al VanDusen who hit for 1372 pins.

In VanDusens' pin count, he had to include a perfect 300 game in the second of the three matches that counted for the money.

Third place went to Mike Kessler and Jim Raber who hit 1327 pins. Fourth was taken by Carl and Bruce Cotanche with 1326 pins.

In the Singles contest, Rick Selissen hit a total of 731 pins to earn $100 and the first place. He was followed by Mat Eaton with a 730, Kurt Kleinschroet with 724, Joe Gregware with 712 and Bob Courtwright with 707.

The important all-events trophy, which is a combined total of all pins counted in the team, doubles and singles event, Matt Eaton, a 129 average bowler took the top prize carrying 2106 pins to earn the $150 prize.

He was followed by Mike Green with 2034 pins, Ken Carson with 2017, Rick Selissen with 2001 and Dennis Amesbury with 1990.

They also appointed Art Sawarski to represent the system at the annual budget hearing of the Char-Em Intermediate School District.

In 1989-1990, the city will start phase three of the infrastructure program which will include working with the state highway department on the upgrading and renovation of M-75. They also hope to install sidewalks from Main Street to Pleasant Avenue along Front Street, replace water lines, sewer lines and finish the work started at Avalanche. They also hope to expand the parking area at the hill and may be adding restroom facilities by the mouth of the Boyne River. That construction cost is estimated to be around $99,000 with an additional $700,000 in bonds for repairs.

BC Planners

In 1990-91 the city hopes to be working more water and sewer lines, adding more sidewalks and widening the city airport runway. They are projecting a cost of about $83,000 to do that work.

1991-92 will see another $97,000 spent to improve more of the water and sewer lines as well as road paving. The same amount is projected to be spent the following year for much the same.

Almost all of the projected capital improvements are tentative and the lists will be refined in the coming months, according to the City Manager, Randy Frykberg.

BC jayvees take Saints and Blue Devils

Boyer City's Junior Varsity squad continuously shows why they are one of the top two teams in the Michigan Huron Shores Conference right beside Charlevoix.

Tuesday night they took Saint Ignace on at home and defeated them soundly by the score of 73-62.

The Saints knew they were in for a tough game as Boyne took an advanced lead in the first quarter and added insult to injury when with two minutes left in the quarter, Scott Knipe connected on a fast break dunk. But the Saints weren't easily put down and came back at the end of the first to keep within 6, 16-10. But Boyne extended their lead with the likes of Eric Smith who hit 22 points in the first half, to bring the score up to 37-21 at the half.

Saint Ignace closed the gap to within ten in the third, but Boyne kept in front with the three point shooting of Bo Williamson in that quarter, 51-41. They ended the game with an 11 point margin, 73-62.

High Scorer was Eric Smith with 28 points.

In Gaylord the Ramblers hit upon a rocky first half, and the only thing that kept them within range was the Blue Devils atrocious shooting. Boyne was down 6-10 at the end of the first quarter, and 16-23 at the half.

High scorer was with 2.

The Ramblers hope to maintain their high standards in the league as they take on East Jordan, and then Cheboygan, the only team to beat the Ramblers this far into the season.

Consumers Power offers tips

With recent temperatures hovering around the zero mark, Consumers Power Company is offering some tips to customers that may help them better cope with the severe cold and keep their heating costs within reason.

"We know that most of our customers made preparations for winter, such as putting up their storm windows and checking the furnace," said Chris Bandy, Area Community Services Director of Consumers Power's Northwest District, "but this Arctic cold calls for additional measures to keep comfortable in your home. Here are a few suggestions":

- Close off unoccupied rooms. Shutting off registers or turning down thermostats in these rooms can re-direct heat to areas that are being occupied and help with keeping warm. However, if the room has any adjacent water lines, it should be kept heated to prevent the pipes from freezing.
- Block off drafts around doors. Feel around the door and, if you feel cold air coming through, place a towel or other material at the threshold.
- Check drapes and furniture. Make sure that window shades and furniture do not obstruct the free movement of air from heat registers and cold air returns. On sunny days, leave drapes and shades open to take advantage of the sun's heat. Close them in the evening.
- Close off openings to the outdoors.
- Maintain the humidity in your home around 30-40%.
- Check the fireplace.
- Replace furnace filters.
- Check heating ducts for leaks.
