

Congressman tells what's happening

Congressman Bob Davis was in Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix last Friday as he held a series of Town Meetings to meet with voters and explain some of the programs coming from Washington, D.C. Davis explained some of the committee work he was involved with during the past few months. In Boyne City, the meeting was held at the Country Star Restaurant and attracted 50 students and voters. The other meetings throughout the county were also well received.

BC Planners approve 2nd phase of Atrium Inn

Boyne City planners approved a second phase plan for the proposed Atrium Inn to be located on the property where the Boyne Cinema is located. Construction for the second phase of a three phase project is expected to start in August this year.

The second phase, which will add 18 units to a previously approved site plan for the first phase which was the former Granary building, will allow the developer, Ron Makino and Bill Forhan to tie the two buildings together.

A controversial third phase, while presented, was not brought to the planners for site approval. The third phase is projected to include a new theater and conference center on the theater property on Lake Street.

The first and second phase of the inn will be facing Front Street.

A few weeks ago, the developers received permission from the Zoning Board of Appeals to lower the roofline of the second phase to help it tie in better with the Granary building. The theater will be torn down to allow the construction of the second phase.

Planners appeared to have concerns over the parking requirements of the project which was presented as a condominium-hotel. Makino said they could consider it a hotel where the rooms will be sold and available for rental. The change in nomenclature allows the hotel to have only one parking space per room instead of having two parking spaces being required for a multiple use classification. It would also require the building to have more stringent building codes.

Some of the codes will require the building to have fire protection on all floors and be "sprinkled" throughout. Makino had no objections to the change although it will probably be more costly to construct.

The fire requirements also brought some concern from Nord Schroeder, Fire Chief, but those concerns were answered when told the building would be below the height of the aerial platform the department has on line by about 10 feet.

Although no reasons were given, the planners approved the site plan by a six to three vote.

The planners then approved a site plan for a new hangar to be constructed at the Boyne City Airport. The hangar will be different from the present hangars in that it will be the first "corporate" type of hangar.

The hangar will allow up to six airplanes to be under cover in one building, unlike the present "T" type which are designed for one plane per hangar.

The building plan was presented by the Trapline Inc. company. The 60 by 80 foot building will be located at the foot of Roosevelt Street and be backed by Kunert Street.

Planners required a 50 foot greenbelt and setback in the plans.

The building will be owned by the city, and will be constructed and leased back to Trapline, Inc. At the end of the 25 year lease the city will retain all control of the building.

The leaseback is similar to other hangars that have been constructed on the airport by private investors.

The building and site plans were developed in conjunction with the Airport Advisory Board prior to presentation to the Planning Board. The only reason the planners were given the opportunity to see the plans is that the airport was recently rezoned into a Planned Industrial District.

The hangar construction is expected to be started this spring by Trumco Inc.

In other action in front of the planners was the approval of the updated Harborage letter of agreement the firm has with the city concerning the ongoing changes in the site plans for the development. Planners recommended the City Commission approve the agreement.

Some of the items in the agreement include wider siting of the clustered units, the number of units, the change from a five year to an eleven year buildout, and the addition of more fire hydrants.

Mrs. Corinne Babb, a resident of Second Street asked the planners if something could be done to prevent trucks and other vehicles from parking near a maintenance building. She was told by Rick Smith that the building will be completed this spring and the vehicles will be screened somehow if possible.

The planners also approved a lot split for Lester McKinney, 405 Hemlock Street. He asked the planners to give permission to change lot sizes by adding 33 feet off of one lot he owns from another lot next to it. The new lot size would become 99 feet wide.

Falls looking at building rooms

Boyne Falls School Board will be starting a search to find an architect after school board members heard a recommendation from the building and grounds committee that the school system should start the planning of additional classrooms to be constructed onto the school.

The action came as part of the regular monthly school board meeting as the board continued to try to figure out how the school facilities could be used in preparing for additional growth in the lower grades in the near future.

Superintendent Charles Smith told board members the consensus of the committee was that new rooms should be constructed rather than obtaining portable classrooms or some other alternative.

The school system is planning on larger classes due to the growth of the area and the additional pressures on the present classrooms.

Smith said he has talked with an architect and is estimating the cost of hiring someone to do the work would be in the range of $1600 to $2000.

The board authorized him to start a search for a firm.

Once a firm is decided upon, and preliminary plans are made, then the school will have to figure out how to pay for the additional classrooms. Smith said it was too early to even think about what a millage issue may be.

The board then decided to buy a diesel engine bus to replace an older bus in system. The new bus will have a 7.3 liter engine which will give better longevity and have lower repair costs. The winning firm was Zaremba Equipment of Elmira for the International chassis. The board also

This Model was made to show how the new Atrium Inn will look to those viewing it from Lake Charlevoix. The inn will be started this spring in the former Granary building, on the right, and later this summer will continue on land presently occupied by the Boyne Cinema and the parking lot between the Bryan Building and the theater. The developers, Ron Makino and Bill Forhan intend to sell the rooms to private investors and then provide a rental service to those investors wishing to rent out the rooms. The building will be constructed in two phases. A third phase, which includes a new theater and a conference center will be presented after plans are completed.

Boyne starts planning for second year of repairs

Boyne City commissioners heard what infrastructure work will be undertaken this year, and approved a request from the city manager that will allow him to sign an engineering services agreement with Granger Engineering for an amount not to exceed $21,800.

For that amount, Granger will perform the field survey, soils investigation and preparation of the bidding documents, solicit the bids and award the contracts. They will also coordinate design work with the Michigan Department of Transportation for work that will be done on Boyne Avenue, and provide construction phase services of staking the proposed sanitary sewer line and to the compaction testing for those areas that need it.

The city will be letting bids for work this year on Main Street, where the city will replace the existing sanitary sewer line with a new eight inch main between East Street and a point 800 feet east of Marl Street.

The replacement is deemed necessary because the existing pipe is a deteriorated clay pipe that has several storm sewer connections. Roots have grown into the pipe causing plugging and allowing a great deal of infiltration of ground water.

The pipe to be replaced is near the force mains that feed the lagoons and according to City Manager Randy Frykberg, the tolerances are critical.

Also included in this phase of repairing the city's water and sewer lines will be the construction of new 10 inch sanitary sewer lines between Front Street and Terrace Street. In addition, the city will be replacing another old eight inch clay sewer that is deteriorating with new 10 inch PVC pipe between Terrace and West Streets.

On West Street, the city will be replacing the existing sanitary line with a new eight inch pipe.

That area has been a problem in the past because of the sanitary sewer line having to make more than a 90 degree turn. The work proposed will straighten out the pipe and help keep the callout rate low in that area. The bend in the line causes the sewage to back up and has caused pressure problems as it comes down the hill on Pleasant Avenue.

Also included on the Granger contract will be the mapping of the sewage and water lines on a computer and providing the city with a color coded map of each system. The last update of the sewer and water lines was done in 1979 and many areas have Boyne City Schools will be holding an inservice day Monday, February 29. As the teachers will be going to classes to learn additional things about teaching, the students will have a day off.

Next week, customer of the Boyne City Post Office will be receiving a flyer announcing the beginning of a "Carrier Alert Program" which will help look after the elderly and handicapped people served by the post office. The program will tell the postmen that someone is not picking up their mail and will alert the post office that there may be a problem with the person in the home. If the carrier feels someone may need assistance, the carrier will notify the Charlevoix Emergency Services Department which is administering a local program. Those interested in the service will have a decal placed in the mailbox and the carrier will watch for an accumulation of mail. Further details will be coming from the post office and those who are interested in the program will be asked to enroll through the post office.

The monthly commodity food distribution will be held next Wednesday in Charlevoix County. Items to be given out this month include cheese, rice, butter and corn meal. Distribution sites within the county include the VFW Hall in Charlevoix, the East Jordan Civic Center in East Jordan, and the Community Services Center in Boyne City. Distribution will start at 10 a.m. and continue until the food is gone or 1 p.m. For information as to how to qualify for the program, call 347-9080.

Cutbacks of services at the new Gaylord Veterans Administration Outpatient Clinic have had a cutback themselves. According to Bob Davis, the congressman serving this district, the cutbacks were to have started the first of February. Now, they will get a one month delay, and will be slowly phased in with plenty of notice for users of the clinic. Davis said VA officials are happy with the clinic and expect to serve about 10,000 vets from the 21 county area the clinic serves. Davis also said the cutbacks planned are now of minor proportions.

40 participate in annual Pine Wood Derby

BY ELOUISE ROSSLER

The excitement at the annual Pine Wood Derby for East Jordan's Pack 17 Cub Scouts might rival that of the Indianapolis 500 as the forty young men raced their own carved, painted, and sanded cars. The event was the highlight of the January Pack meeting and featured double elimination races for the five dens, then a double elimination race of den winners to determine overall champions.

Grand Champion winner was Mike Goodburn, with Russell Goodburn coming in second and Chris King taking third place. Nathan Sothard and Alan Rossler were also finalists.

Before the race the cars were judged on beauty. First place winner for the Prettiest Car was Scott Yarbrough, Second place went to Stuart Scott, and Third Place was awarded to Andrew Wood.

SNOW DAYS

How quiet it was the day of our first real winter storm. Our electricity was off, no TV, radio, no sounds from the dishwasher, vacuum cleaner, humidifier or refrigerator. The lights were out. I lit a couple of candles and played a game of solitaire, even my typewriter was of no use. This put me into a quiet, happy nostalgic mood; a time to think about how our grandparents lived. I thought about how our people lived before central heating, they did not have to worry about the heat being turned off because it needed electricity to run, they just needed more trips to the woodpile.

Furnaces in the basements were unusual at the time that I was growing up on the farm. The stoves were above ground and our basement was filled with potatoes, apples, canned fruit and big crocks held pork and pickles in brine. We had a large full size basement, we called it the cellar, with a cement floor. Many houses had what was called a Michigan basement. It had a shelf all around which was really the stone foundation of the house and a small basement was dug inside of it. These Michigan basements usually had a dirt floor. They kept fruit and vegetables at a good cold temperature all winter without freezing them.

Grandmother's home also had a pantry. Usually a narrow walk-in closet type room with shelves all around the walls and places to hang pots and pans. The old pantries were so very handy, everything within reach, and I am happy to see that many people who are renovating old homes are keeping the pantry and I notice that walk-in pantries are being built in new homes.

We do not can everything the way Mother did, however I like to buy canned vegetables and fruit in the fall when our stores have their harvest sales. If I had a pantry I would really take advantage of those sales. We like to have soups on these cold winter days, and the canned varieties are very good.

What delicious dishes can be prepared if we have canned tomatoes in our cupboard on those days when we are sitting out an Alberta Clipper.

Of course, we always have beans, rice and pasta on our shelves, and it is amazing the wonderful goodies to made with oatmeal and corn meal. Try these for a surprise supper with ham or bacon and maple syrup.

DELICATE CORN MEAL GRIDDLE CAKES

For years I looked for a good recipe for corn meal griddle cakes or batter cakes, until I found this one from an old Rumford cookbook on household economy. I do not know the date it was published but it was before the electric mixer was in use.

- 1/4 cup corn meal
- 1/2 teaspoon salt
- 1/2 cup cold water
- 1 level tablespoon shortening
- 1 1/2 cups boiling water
- 3/4 cup cold milk
- 2 egg yolks
- 1 level cup flour
- 4 level teaspoons Rumford baking powder
- 2 egg whites beaten very light

Stir the corn meal with the salt and cold water, then stir into the water boiling directly over the fire; continue to stir and cook until the mixture thickens; cover and let cook over boiling water twenty minutes stirring occasionally. Add the shortening, the cold milk, the yolks, the flour sifted again with the baking powder and lastly the egg whites. Bake at once by tablespoons on a hot griddle. This recipe makes between thirty and forty small cakes.

"Plan your future now . . . or your future will follow no plan."

Lottings

BY JIM SILBAR

It may still be cold and windy and snowy, but certain things are starting to heat up within the county. Politics, we're talkin' about here.

Seems there is a growing amount of interest as three lawyers, so far, have filed for the Probate Judge's seat.

Then I have heard a rumor that another county incumbent is going to be facing some opposition.

And if that happens, expect to see lively campaigning throughout the area.

I can see it now. One candidate will attack the others on the grounds they could do the job better. That the present candidate is not doing the job at all, and lastly, a change is needed because someone has been in office for many years.

That last one is called the "new blood" theory. Some of the other theories are called the "no job" theory and I am sure there are many other theories that the politicians will use to try to unseat or ensure a job.

Not that we are against politicians. I enjoy watching them work hard to get to the spot they want to be in. Myself, I don't think I would want to be a politician.

I get into enough hassles without being in their shoes.

But local politics can be and are more interesting than those of the national brand.

Mitch Irwin is supposed to be thinking about running for the Congressional seat now held by Bob Davis.

That is where the real money is going to be used. Used for television time, used for newspaper and advertising ads, and used by the candidates to travel the district to get the word out.

Most people running for those kinds of offices build up war chests of money so they can cover the costs of running.

Those of us who donate to political campaigns do so with the thought that the person we are backing will, at some point in time, remember us when we meet them on the street.

Still others, lobbyists mostly, give money to political campaigns to have an ear of the person running so they will be looked on favorably when some issue comes up that the lobby doesn't like.

Locally, lobbyists don't contribute to campaigns. They like to think of the bigger picture, and that starts with the state or national levels.

I think being a lobbyist may be one of the better jobs in the state, if only because so many politicians who fail to get re-elected fill the job.

But on the local scene, where those running in many cases are neighbors and friends, you don't need a lobby to protect your interests—just a phone.

Whether or not all of the races have contenders is another story, but what is scary is that few are willing to take the time and make the effort to try to serve those of us in the area.

Even in the city we see the same people running for office. Is it because many of us are too busy to try to help govern ourselves?

Remembrances

Charter members of the first Eagles Club in Boyne City stood on the steps of the Wolverine Hotel as they posed for this picture. The members, all took lessons prior to becoming a member at the formal installation later that year. The organization is still part of Boyne City, having their own building and club facilities located on the corner of Lake and River Streets.

Marshall Sayles

I would be derelict in my duty if I failed to inform my readers that vice-president George Bush is gung-ho for the Oval Office. Some may wonder how a derelict received such a duty, but that's neither here nor in Boyne Falls.

Now, let us talk about vice-presidents. It may be awful stuff, but who wants to go to bed in a state of ignorance? I hope here to inject a flea into the voter's listening apparatus.

So, let us move right along. It's a vice-president's job to hang around the White House and relieve the president of small, bothersome appointments and to become president if an opening occurs.

He is in on a lot of things but his powers are of short shift, although he is allowed to stand about in formal dress clucking his tongue whenever the head horse throws a shoe.

The vice-president must smile upon cue whether the president tickles him or not. And that's something I wish you would remember so I won't have to repeat it.

It is a trick of politics not to let the vice-president up stage the head actor. He cannot steal the glory. In fact, much of a vice-president's political life is made up of an annoying list of things that are none of his business.

Sometimes a president will make important use of his vice-president. This startles not only the voters, but the vice-president himself.

There have been odd times in our history (like unto now) when a vice-president had gotten out of bed in the morning saying, "Wife, I think I will throw my toupee and glasses into the ring."

After that the voters are awash with eye-opening information that he had more to do with running the government than anyone dared expect; and we are told that his time in office had not been entirely boondoggle.

Now, let us take a sharp glance at the heretofore:

For nearly 150 years the great hoard of our vice-presidents have cut little wood with the voters. As soon as the country was through with them they gave their votes back and slipped un-noticed among we the confused.

Today, drum beaters are coming out of the bushes swearing that George cannot beat these odds, that he will go down in history never again to spring from the political pit. History books will be wont to give him a line or two. One hears this in bars and on street corners.

It is true, however, that the American voter has a difficult time remembering past vice-presidents.

I doubt there are ten readers who can remember who was vice-president under Wendell Wilkie.

There are three kinds of people in Boyne City: the Will's, the Won'ts and the Can'ts. My wife would like to add those who are going to take the garbage out or else.

I have read that if every man were to behave himself exactly as he was supposed to, every moment of the night and the day, the female tongue would wag faster than ever. I read it, I didn't say it. So, like CBS-TV, I make no retractions.

Keeping busy seems to be the motto of the Cub Scouts of Pack 17 in East Jordan. Their activities have been done at den meetings and at home with plenty of fun and learning going on. The five dens have all taken on certain projects to complete and some of them will be judged at Pack meetings.

December's Pack meeting was highlighted by a snowman pinata created by a den leader. It was broken to spill enough candy for all forty boys.

Twelve first year Cub Scouts received Bobcat badges which they earned by completing requirements set by the National Cub Scout Council. The recipients of Bobcat badges were Gary Brooks, Brad Carey, Charles Hague, Mike Mazella, Ryan Rossler, John Boyer, Jeremy Lord, Nathan Sothard, Andrew Wood, Chad Allen and Kevin Allen.

All dens are presently involved in the building, sanding, painting or staining of bird feeders. The bird feeders will be judged at the February Pack meeting, which will also feature the judging of train pictures the scouts were given to color and

BY ELLOUISE ROSSLER

What is it? Where did you get it? Which is your favorite? These are questions the second graders in Mrs. Farrimond's Reading Class were asking each other recently as they looked at each other's collections. The twenty eight youngsters had almost as many types of collections which they brought into the classroom to share and to learn from.

The idea began when the class started studying how to ask questions. Mrs. Farrimond decided that sharing something belonging to himself would be the best way to get the children to inquire in a meaningful way.

Betsey Banfield, Rebekah Fuller, Jenny Goebel, Beverly Lucas, Corrie Mayhew, April Meads, Christina Nelson, April Peterson, Ember Ransom, Raissa Schroeder, Heather Ingraham, Debbie Bacon, Jamie Everett, Hope Inman, Jenny Murray, and

Sonje Buckmaster brought in string collections, stuffed animal assortments, fossils, stickers, silver coins, thimbles, and shells in large and small sizes and amounts.

Chad Allen, Brad Carey, Mark Penzien, David Miller, Kevin Allen, John Boyer, Andrew Wood, Kris Ernst, Billy Towne, Robbie Wiedlich, Scott Kraemer, and Ryan Rossler brought in stones, baseball cards, books, stamps, reproductions antique cars, matchbox cars, empty ammunition shells, and seashells to share with classmates.

Each student had to write a story about his collection which explained what, where, when and how about the collection. Some of the children had not done much collecting before and in the course of this project began a hobby which will perhaps be a lifetime recreation.

Consumers gets uranium shipment

A shipment of uranium oxide fuel has been received at Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant in preparation for a refueling outage scheduled to take place in April. The plant, located four miles northeast of Charlevoix, is refueled once a year.

The shipment consists of 20 bundles of six-foot long fuel rods with a total value of approximately $4 million. The new fuel weighs less than five tons but will be able to produce more energy than 260,000 tons of coal.

Each fuel bundle is made up of 121 hollow metal rods filled with uranium oxide. The raw material for the fuel is mined at sites all over the world, chemically processed in the United States and Europe, formed into ceramic pellets and sealed inside the rods at a plant in Richland, Washington, and shipped via truck to Big Rock Point.

The plant's reactor was last refueled in early 1987. It has been generating power on a regular basis since then. The Consumers Power Company facility is capable of generating 69 megawatts of electricity, enough to serve a community of 50,000 people.

been changed, Frykberg told the commissioners.

Frykberg also said the work being done will cost less now that the city engineer is available to perform the construction phase administration, engineering and inspections.

Frykberg said that although the engineer can do the work, he will need help in some of the designing areas in order to get the prints and other parts completed in time for construction to start this summer.

In other commission action, the commissioners will be sending a letter to the Charlevoix County Planning Commission asking that Sandra Stanley be named to replace Cass Toton. Toton died last year and his seat on the planning body has not been filled by the county. The commissioners felt that since Boyne City is the largest city in the county, they should have representation on the county planning body.

They will also be drafting a letter of concern to the city attorney stating his duties as to the job he is doing representing the commissioners at other city advisory boards.

Jones to coordinate Bide-a-Thon in EJ

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital announced today that Mrs. Brad Jones had agreed to be the coordinator of the St. Jude Children's Research Hospital Bike-a-Thon in East Jordan.

St. Jude Children's Research Hospital was founded by entertainer Danny Thomas. The institution opened its doors to the public in 1962 to combat catastrophic diseases which afflict our children. St. Jude Hospital is non-sectarian, non-discriminatory, and provides total medical care to over 4,200 patients.

At St. Jude, scientists and physicians are working side by side seeking not only a better means of treatment, but also the causes, cures and prevention of these terrible killers.

All findings and information gained at the hospital are shared freely with doctors and hospitals all over the world. Thanks to St. Jude Hospital, children who have leukemia, Hodgkin's disease, sickle-cell anemia, and other child-killing diseases now have a better chance to live.

The Bike-a-Thon program this year is dedicated to Brian McCollister. Brian, a native of Louisiana, was diagnosed with leukemia in October, 1984. Since that time, Brian has come to St. Jude every six weeks for treatment, and every 12 weeks for a bone marrow test and spinal tap to make sure his cancer stays in remission. While at home, Brian receives oral medication daily. Brian is a living example of the progress and success of the research, patient care, and educational programs of this internationally recognized hospital.

School bus

approved the purchase of a 72 passenger Thomas body for the chassis.

Total cost for the bus will be $34,359.

In action at a February 2 meeting, the board appointed Carol M. Gilewicz as the new head cook for the school. Smith told the board there are two positions open in the upcoming school board election which is held annually in June.

According to Mike Wallace, school principal, the teaching staff is looking into the ramifications of a seven hour class day during their inservice training period for the high school teachers and the lower grades are learning how a series of books the school is using for the teaching of English and spelling can be used better in the lower grades.

The board also had their third reading of a new series of rules that will cover fundraising efforts by the students and rules for the senior trip.

Wallace told the board of a new program he wishes to add to the curriculum called D.A.R.E. The program is named after the Drugs, Alcohol, Resistance Experiment. It will be taught in the school in the sixth hour of the eighth grade after Wallace works out the details with Sherry Martin of the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department.

Wallace also told the board the school system is trying to get a Child Watch Program started within the school district. He hopes everything will be in place within a couple of months so training of adults can start.

One problem that has surfaced within the school is the lack of finding class advisors who are willing to work with the students. The problem was turned over to the personnel committee for study as to what could be done to find additional advisors.

Dan Pepin tries a jump shot for two points in the game held last Friday between the East Jordan Red Devils and the Mancelona Ironmen. While it took five overtimes for the East Jordan Players to pull the game out for a win, it was an even match-up between the two teams.

EJ wins 2 points over Mancy after 5 OTs

BY DENNIS SKROCKI
It took five, count 'em, five, overtimes for East Jordan's Red Devils to pull out a two point difference for a win against rival Mancelona last Friday night, in a game that even caught the eye of the Detroit Free Press. The two Ski Valley foes fought a bizarre contest before the Devils won with an '88 to 86 point victory.
Ej trailed 14-10 after the first period and 32-25 following the second. They outscored the Ironmen 15-14 in the third stanza to cut the deficit by one, 46-40.
This set the stage for an exciting fourth quarter that saw the Devils start out with eight unanswered points to take a 48-46 lead with 6:03 remaining. From then on the lead changed hands several times before Mancy built up a four point, 58-54 lead as time fell under the two-minute mark. Dan Pepin brought the score back to within one point, 58-57, on a three point shot but the Ironmen quickly came back with a two pointer to make it 60-57 with 26 ticks left on the clock. Following a timeout the Devils worked their offense to perfection as Pepin canned another three-pointer with nine seconds remaining to send them into the first of five, three-minute overtime stanzas.

Here EJ struck first on a lay up by Jeff Burks. Mancelona countered quickly and the two squads matched each other point for point over the next two minutes. With 52 seconds left and the score tied at 57-57, the Ironmen failed to convert on two free throw attempts, thus granting the Devils new life.
Each team managed only two points in the second extra period but the third began with a flurry as Mancy connected on its first three-point attempt and built up a 76-71 lead with only 43 seconds left on the clock. Mark Moore immediately sank a three pointer for the Devils and, following an Ironmen turnover, Matt Bishop connected on a short jumper with two seconds left to create a 76-76 deadlock.

The squads battled on into the fourth OT period which saw the devils trail by as many as six points before eventually making their way back. Bishop once again came through in the clutch as he hit two free throws in the waning seconds to tie things up at 82-82.
In the fifth and final overtime quarter the Devils found themselves in possession of an 88-84 lead at the 41 second mark and held on to claim the 88-86 triumph.
On the night EJ sank 35 field goals, including six from three point range, while hitting 12 of 22 free throws. Mancelona made good on 33 shots from the field, along with six three pointers of their own, as well as 14 of 25 foul shots.

Pepin led the Red Devil scoring attack with 23 points as Moore added 22 and Burks chipped in 18. Bishop found the hoop for 16 points as Gerry Cizewski hit for five and Glen Stevens and Mark Lercel each had two. Moore also had five assists.
Defensively Burks led the way with 13 rebounds as Bishop and Pepin each had 12. Also obtaining rebounds were: Moore (7), Cizewski (5), Stevens (4), and Keith Harchis (4). Burks picked Mancy defenders for four steals as Pepin came up with three.
This week the Devils will travel to Charlevoix on Tuesday and will resume conference play on Friday at Gaylord St. Mary's.

Ej outscored Mancy 19-13 and 17-8 in the third and fourth periods respectively enroute to the 69-44 triumph.
On the night the Devils canded 27 shots from the field, including 5 three pointers, while going 10 of 13 at the free throw line. The Ironmen sank 19 shots from the floor and 5 of 21 foul shots.

Ted Sherman led the Red Devil scoring attack with 22 points and four assists as Don Cutler added 14 points and Steve Shepard chipped in 10. Also contributing to the offensive effort were: Mike Rebec (8 points), Bill Gotts (6), Jim Downey (5), Mike Cam (2), and Jamie Chambers (2).

Boyne City's Jim Abney, a sophomore on the varsity basketball team slid between a bunch of defenders from Gaylord last Friday to put in two points in a hotly contested game that ended with Boyne losing by only two points. Boyne played aggressive ball during the second half and showed what the team could do in keeping with their opponents.

Ramblers top Vandy, lose to Gaylord in last week's match-ups

BY SCOTT KNIPE

Last Tuesday night Boyne walked into the gym not expecting a game from the Vanderbilt Yellow Jackets, expecting it to be just a fill-in game. That same night they quite nearly left their own home court defeated, but through a sudden team effort and the realization the Yellow Jackets were here to play ball the Ramblers made a fourth quarter comeback and won that match 69-66.

Vanderbilt displayed strong intensity right from the start, taking an eight point lead in the first quarter, 20-12, and held onto a six point margin at the end of the half, 30-36.

Boyne altered their style of play coming into the second half to the way Vanderbilt was playing and began their slow comeback in the third with the whole team getting into the picture, and finally about halfway through the fourth the Ramblers overtook the Yellow Jackets. For the next few minutes the lead switched hands, but as time drew down, the Ramblers put themselves up by three points and held on until the final buzzer for their 69-66 win.

Rambler high scorer was Mike Deschryver with 22, followed by Eric Smith with 18, and Aaron Richards with 10. Keith Harvey accumulated 9 points, Mark Harris and Scott Hammontree each put in 4, Paul Molnar had three, all from freethrows.

Boyne again accepted the underdog spot Friday night as the Gaylord Blue Devils took the early first quarter lead, 16-24. Gaylord held onto a fairly stable lead heading into the lockerroom at the half, 33-40, but again the third Boyne poured it on and came within 3, 51-54, and in the fourth quarter took a brief lead which they could not expand upon. Down the stretch the Blue Devils remained calm, and took the victory home, 68-70.

This week Boyne starts out against Elk Rapids and then heads north to the home of the Saints Friday.

Boyne jayvees whip Vanderbilt, lose Gaylord

Last Tuesday evening, the Boyne City jayvees put on quite a show when they met Vanderbilt for the first time in many years, and sent them back to Vandy after a whopping loss 86-28.

Coach Tom Neidhammer told his boys to go out in the first quarter and make the score 40-4, and the team nearly accomplished his goal, the first quarter score actually ending 33-3. Boyne upped that to 47-14 at the half, and finished off the Yellow Jackets with 25 points in the final quarter to Vandy's 6.

Boyne's scoring was balanced throughout the team. High scorer went to Scott Knipe who had 14 points, followed by Wayne Avery with 13 and Dean Alger with 10. Adding considerably to the scoring was Todd Gasco with 8, Chris Johnson with 8, Bo Williamson with 7, Jason Hunt with 6, Shawn Vondra with 5, Eric Richards and Mike Kitson with 4 each, Tracey Capelain with 3, and Jeremy Babcock and Rob Towne each with 2.

Having spent a lot of enthusiasm on the Yellow Jackets, the Ramblers found it difficult to keep up with the Gaylord Blue Devils, even on home court, and after sporting an early lead in the first quarter, Boyne fell down with several men in foul trouble, and inevitably lost the game putting only their second mark in the loss column for the season.

The quarterly scoring showed Boyne behind in the first stanza, 9-15, and then down by ten at the half 21-31. Early fouls in the third quarter put Boyne's center Knipe on the bench, and this allowed the Blue Devils big men to go crazy under the basket, the score of 38-56 at the end of that quarter. In the fourth Boyne showed they were not yet ready to roll over and die, and came within one point of Gaylord, but nearly back to back, Knipe and Alger fouled out and left Gaylord with the obvious advantage of height.

Late in the quarter both of the Blue Devil tall guys fouled out, but they already had the game in the bag, final score 60-65.

High scorer for the Ramblers was Bo Williamson with 17, followed by Wayne Avery and Todd Gasco with 13 each. These three players were a major key to the Rambler fourth quarter comeback, hitting shots at key times to keep the score close. Still Boyne had a cold shooting night, hitting only a fraction of the shots put up and not working the inside game at all with Gaylord's post men dominating the key. Other Rambler scorers were Dean Alger with 8, Knipe with 4, and Vondra with 3.

One, two, three, kick...While this picture of the Boyne City Gaylord game wasn't a dance by the Rockettes, players sometimes do a dance as they try to maintain balance after going in for a score. This Boyne City player does a high step after trying to put two points on the board.

Coast Guard cracking down

The U.S. Coast Guard has come up with final regulations for enforcing federal drunk boating laws. In the 1984 Coast Guard authorization bill, our Merchant Marine and Fisheries Committee made it a federal crime to operate a vessel while intoxicated on alcohol or drugs.

During hearings on the issue it was learned that the Coast Guard had no means for keeping track of how many boating accidents were alcohol-related. While there are no exact figures available, the percentage of boating deaths caused by drunk boaters has been estimated to be as high as 50 percent. It was also found that while 48 states had drunk boating laws, there was no federal law which prohibited drinking and boating.

Chefs race to fight hunger in US

The old adage, "Too many cooks spoil the broth," has one colorful exception: the Grand Marnier Chefs Ski Race, which drew some 300 culinarians from Florida to Connecticut to New York's Hunter Mountain on Sunday, January 10. The "baker's dozen" anniversary race at Hunter Mountain took place from 10 a.m. to 3 p.m. on the Madison Avenue race course, where the event originated in 1975.

Beginning with the 1988 season, each of the five regional events of the Grand Marnier series will benefit a non-profit group fighting hunger in that region. The Grand Marnier Chefs Ski Race series now attracts more than 1,250 chefs, caterers, culinary students, restaurants and other food professionals nationwide.

Proceeds from the Hunter Mountain race

— a portion of each racer's registration fee and all post-race banquet guest fees — were donated to City Harvest, a New York City distribution network which collects surplus food from restaurants, caterers, bakeries and other sources, and delivers it free of charge to shelters, soup kitchens and food pantries throughout the city. Every dollar raised directly through the ski race and banquet in each region was matched by the Grand Marnier Foundation, a three-year-old organization funded by the French import.

City Harvest collects unused food from some 1,400 New York City restaurants and other institutions, a number of which from Ben Benson's Steak House to the River Cafe — are familiar names on the Chefs Race rosters. Literature on City Harvest was distributed to all Hunter Mountain racers, who were invited to make individual contributions or sign up as a regular food donor.

"The Grand Marnier Chefs Race is a celebration of good things in life, and it's an event that has enjoyed much success through the years. It's time to share some of this good fortune in an appropriate way," said Michel Roux, U.S. importer of Grand Marnier and director of the Grand Marnier Foundation. The Foundation's recent grants have included sponsorship of the November "Women's Power Luncheon" to benefit Citymeals-on-Wheels, and funding the restoration of Manhattan's Joan of Arc Monument, through the Municipal Art Society's Adopt-A-Monument program. The January 10 event at Hunter Mountain saw the return of some familiar faces — including Andre Soltner of Lutece, Sirio Maccioni of Le Cirque, Pierre Franey, the New York Times' "60 Minute Gourmet," and other members of the original 1975 team. Returning too was the irrepressible Jacky Ruelle, owner of Manhattan's Prunelle restaurant, founder of the ski race, and recent inductee into the Hunter Mountain Hall of Fame.

New faces included a team of twelve students and instructors from the Culinary Institute of America in Hyde Park, who will plan and produce the post-race banquet for some 700 racers and guests.

As always, competitors—who range in age from 21 to 75—will ski in the "Signature" Chefs Race uniform: chef's jacket, apron emblazoned with racing number, and toque blanche, or tall white hat.

Despite the whimsical racing uniform, the Grand Marnier Chefs Ski Race is a serious slalom competition following NASTAR guidelines. Entrants are divided into five age categories for men (21-39; 31-40; 41-50; 51-60; and 60 and over) and three for women (21-34; 35-40; and 41 and over). After morning trials, the top four finishers in each male, and top two in each female, category compete toque-to-toque in afternoon dual slalom finals with age handicapping. The fastest skier in each age group — a total of five men and three women — comprise the team of finalists that goes on to the National Championship race in Snowmass, Colorado in April.

In addition to racing titles, the Grand Marnier Ski Races offer more unusual distinction, such as:

* The Chefs Coat Fashion Award — for the most wildly and creatively decorated jacket. The winner will be awarded a trip to the finals in Snowmass as a spectator.

* The Grand Marnier Golden Egg Beater Award — for the best crash.

* The Battered Sauce Pot Award — for courage in the face of Alpine adversity.

* The Spice If Not Speed Award — A spice wreath for the skier/chef who best exemplifies the spirit of camaraderie and enthusiasm that is the hallmark of the Grand Marnier Chefs Ski Race.

The event was founded in the winter of 1975, when a handful of top New York chefs dressed in the traditional culinary uniform for a ski race in honor of their injured colleague, Jacques Pepin. Grand Marnier liqueur, one of the race's original sponsors, assumed title sponsorship in 1983. In the ensuing years, the Grand Marnier Chefs Ski Race has grown to five qualifying events and an annual championship race. Ski race participants represent the "creme de la creme" of America's restaurants.

Highway centers report road conditions

Winter travelers on Michigan highways have a new source of information when they ask, "How are the roads?"

Ten Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) highway welcome centers are passing on weather-related road condition reports received twice daily by computer from the Michigan State Police. If the weather is severe, the information is updated every hour. It is available during center hours, 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., seven days a week, until the state's winter storms have ended some time in April.

"This is another case in which cooperation between state agencies can make highway travel better in Michigan," said MDOT Director James P. Pitz. "Our welcome center travel counselors now have the latest news on winter road conditions, thanks to the Michigan State Police."

"The 10 highway welcome centers now supplement our 63 state police posts as sources of information on winter road conditions."

The winter road conditions report is one of many information services provided by MDOT's welcome centers, including its report of traffic slowdowns during the road construction season.

Most of the centers are located along the freeway system, primarily at major entrances to Michigan.

Location and telephone numbers of welcome centers providing road condition information are:

Clare, northbound and southbound US-27, central Lower Peninsula, 517-386-7634.

Coldwater, northbound Interstate 69 Freeway north of Ohio border, 517-238-2670.

Dundee, northbound US-23 north of Ohio border, 313-856-6980.

Iron Mountain, US-2/US-141 by Wisconsin border, 906-774-4201.

Ironwood, US-2 at Wisconsin border, 906-932-3330.

Mackinaw City, I-75 at the Straits of Mackinac, 616-436-5566.

Menominee, US-41PM-35 at Wisconsin border, 906-863-6496.

New Buffalo, eastbound I-94 at Indiana border, 616-469-0011.

Port Huron, westbound I-94 and I-69 at Canadian border, 313-984-2361.

Sault Ste. Marie, southbound I-75 at Canadian border, 906-632-8242.

The Monroe center on I-75 is closed for construction work.

U.S. Ski Team announces Olympic selections

Tamara McKinney of Olympic Valley, California heads the list of alpine athletes named Wednesday to represent the United States in the 1988 Winter Olympic Games.

McKinney, 25, will be appearing in her third consecutive Olympics. She has also earned four World Cup titles during her 10 years on the U.S. Ski Team. An ankle injury has kept her out of competition since November, but team doctor Richard Steadman has given her the green light to resume racing.

Also returning to the Olympics will be Debbie Armstrong, 24, Seattle, WA, who won the gold medal in giant slalom at Sarajevo in 1984. Armstrong was also hampered by an early-season injury, but appears ready to defend her Olympic title.

Joining McKinney and Armstrong are 16 other alpine athletes, including:

Pam Fletcher, 25, Acton, MA, who won her first World Cup race at Vail in 1986 and is currently the top-ranked U.S. skier in the World Cup women's standings.

Hilary Lindh, 18, Juneau, AK, who won the downhill title at the World Junior Championships at the age of 16.

Diann Roiffe, 20, Williamson, NY, the gold medalist in giant slalom at the 1985 World Championships.

Beth Madsen, 23, Aspen, CO, who finished second behind Armstrong in giant slalom at the Subaru U.S. National Championships in 1987.

Edith Thys, 21, Squaw Valley, CA, who scored her first World Cup points last November with a seventh in super G in Sestriere, Italy.

Heidi Voelker, 18, Pittsfield, MA, the youngest U.S. skier, alpine or nordic, to be invited to the Olympics.

Kristin Krone, 19, Truckee, CA, who was emerged from the U.S. Ski Team's National Training Group this season to become a contender on the World Cup circuit.

Headlining the men's alpine group in 1988 is Felix McGrath, 24, Norwich, Vermont, currently ranked 11th in the World Cup slalom standings. McGrath has three top-10 results in World Cup races so far this season.

Joining McGrath is Tiger Shaw, 26, Stowe, VT, the only man on the alpine team with previous (1984) Olympic experience. Shaw won both the super G and the combined title at the Subaru U.S.

National Championships in 1987.

Rounding out the men's team are:

Bob Ormsby, 24, Tahoe City, CA, the 1987 national slalom champion, who is just returning to form after breaking his leg in training last May.

Jeff Olson, 22, Bozeman, MT, who will go into the Olympics as the top-ranked U.S. downhill skier on the International Federation of Skiing points list.

Bill Hudson, 21, Olympic Valley, CA, another downhiller whose chances of making the Olympics seemed slim when the season began.

A.J. Kitt, 19, Rochester, NY, who, like Kristin Krone, has emerged from the anonymity of the National Training Group this season.

Doug Lewis, 24, Burlington, VT, the bronze medalist in downhill at the 1985 World Championships, who wouldn't let a broken collarbone (suffered in a Jan. 8, 1988 training accident) keep him from going to Calgary.

Alexander (Sandy) Williams, 24, Rochester, NY, who has held his own in the slalom standings in spite of limited action this season.

Jack Miller, 22, Steamboat Springs, CO, whose sparkling results on the NorAm circuit in December helped earn him a spot in Calgary.

Tending your own garden: Living inside giant clam shells are millions of tiny plants. According to Ranger Rick magazine, the giant clams provide a nice, safe home for these houseplants and even fertilize them with their own wastes. In return, the plants give off chemicals that the clams need for energy. And as the plants die, the clams digest them. Without the food the giant clams get from their "garden," they couldn't survive!

SKATE TO IMPROVE

As soon as skiers gain basic turning skills, skating on skis will improve them considerably. Skate in the flat, skate on shallow inclines, skate between turns, and enter turns from a skating movement. Give yourself enough time to let the skating movements become smooth and even daring in their nature. The pronounced movement from leg to leg will hone the turn-essential weight transfer; the strong alternating pushoff also cultivates mental commitment and fluid thinking.

Report calls for major changes in wetlands act

Director Gordon E. Guyer of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) has released a 22 page report from a special Wetlands Permit Process Review Committee which calls for major changes in the administration of the Goemaere-Anderson Wetland Protection Act of 1979.

The 17 member committee, which included representatives of business and industry; local units of government; environmental groups; universities and real estate and development companies, was appointed in July by Guyer and charged with reviewing the wetlands permitting process.

"It's obvious to me that a great deal of work needs to be done to overhaul this system to make it more responsive," Guyer said, "And, I am confident that working together with the Legislature and local officials we can make this program work."

The Committee identified six issues areas and developed thirty-six recommendations to deal with them.

These recommendations ranged from completing a statewide wetlands inventory to adoption of rules which will clear up confusion over what uses of land are permitted.

Guyer praised the committee for its thoughtful and comprehensive analysis of the process and the short time period in which it was accomplished. "Hours of meetings and public hearings were involved," Guyer said, "And the fact that these people made that kind of time commitment shows how deeply interested they are in solving these problems."

Key to making wetland protection work in Michigan, Guyer added, were recommendations calling for a major public and professional education campaign, including initiating efforts through state colleges and universities to assure that curriculum requirements for future developers and planners adequately address state regulatory requirements.

The Committee was unanimous in agreeing that the state should retain control of the regulation of its own wetlands and not return its delegation to the Federal government.

Wetlands are regulated under the Federal Clean Water

Act of 1977. When the Michigan Wetlands Protection Act was approved by the Legislature in 1979 and met the requirements of the Clean Water Act, the U.S. Environmental Agency (EPA) delegated regulatory authority to the state. Substantial alteration of the State act would result in the return of permitting activities to the EPA for its program, which is administered by the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers.

Highway travel centers are popular

A record 2,065,000 visitors were served by Michigan's 11 highway welcome centers in 1987, the Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) reports.

That's 7.5 percent over 1986's 1,919,000 million visitors.

To support the growth and Michigan's growing travel industry, State Transportation Director James P. Pitz said the transportation department is expanding two of its welcome centers - at Monroe and New Buffalo.

Trained travel counselors at the department-operated centers distributed 5.2 million pieces of literature, including the state's Official Transportation Map, promoting Michigan recreational areas and attractions.

Visitors used the centers' free telephone service 17,780 times to make reservations at their travel destinations. That number also is up - 2,000 more than in 1986.

The Monroe Welcome Center on northbound Interstate 75 Freeway near the Ohio border served 240,796 visitors during 1987, although it was closed for three-and-one-half months for construction work. The center is being expanded to accommodate the growing number of travelers who enter Michigan on I-75. A new brick and glass building is being constructed. Larger parking areas have been completed.

Michigan's busiest welcome center, on northbound I-94 near New Buffalo in southwest Michigan, greeted close to 600,000 visitors last year. Bids for construction of a new building, twice the size of the existing center, will be let late this summer. Parking areas will be expanded this spring.

24 skiers qualify for Snowmass championships

A heavy snowstorm and a rutted icy course made tough conditions for disabled racers competing in the American Express MoneyGrams Regional Handicapped Ski Championships at Sugarloaf Resort this February 6-7. But this didn't stop 24 skiers from qualifying for the 17th Annual National Championships at Snowmass, Aspen, CO this April 4-9.

Niether did the conditions stop tri-tracker Ed Neeland of Saginaw, MI from getting what he came for. A gold medal in the Giant Slalom and a silver in Sunday's Slalom gave him the combined win to take the prestigious Steiler Cup. In the women's 3-track division, Mary Meints of Kalamazoo, MI got the combined win for the Grace Meyers Cup. Both winners' names will be engraved on the cups which will be on display at the US Ski Hall of Fame in Ishpeping, MI.

Last year's gold medalist of the sit-ski division, Chet Kutkowski of Warren,

MI, once again swept both the Giant Slalom and the Slalom, as did Jim Langerstrom of Detroit, who won his LW3 (use of both skis and poles) division.

Right behind Jim, winning a silver medal and a berth at the Nationals, was 15-year-old Mitch Wilson of Viola, IL. He was racing for the second time after the Sun-down Regional Qualifier, where he surprised everyone with a second-place finish in the Giant Slalom and presented by the American Express with a $500 academic scholarship.

An important factor in the success of the race was the extensive cooperation of the Sugarloaf Resort. The staff was always willing on hand to facilitate in making all areas of the resort accessible to the handicapped skiers.

Ribbon-cutting for Bear Creek

A ribbon-cutting ceremony marked the opening of the Bear Creek development, the first totally new ski area in the Midwest in over ten (10) years.

Located on the west flank of Indianhead Mountain Resort & Conference Center in Wakefield, Michigan, Bear Creek has a name and theme all its own giving it flexibility for future growth.

Phase I of this 3-5 year expansion, is comprised of two (2) new trails accompanied by a double chairlift. This development will ultimately encompass nine (9) trails with chairlifts.

Along with Bear Creek area, 300 acres are available for development of supplemental services, which could include an eighteen (18) hole golf course, service buildings and other ancillary services at Bear Creek and Indianhead Mountain Resort and Conference Center.

Also included in Phase I for the 1987-88 season was the construction of additional Tomahawk Trailside Condominiums. Future plans include the construction of Copper Ridge Trailside Condominiums located in the Bear Creek area.

Seeing a new bird at your feeder?

BY GLENN R. DUDDERAR

I've often said in this column that one of the highlights of bird feeding is spotting a bird at the feeder that you hadn't seen there before.

This winter I've seen a new bird at my feeder, and it may be coming to yours soon, too, if it's not already a regular visitor.

It's the house finch.

It's not a large bird - look closely, think about the size of a sparrow or just a bit bigger - but the male is easy to recognize. (The female is just a small, brown bird that you're likely to overlook as just another sparrow.) The head, upper breast and rump of the male are bright red - almost cardinal red - and there are hints of red on the back.

You may see a house finch at your feeder and, unless you look closely, think about the size of a finch or a redpoll. The purple finch, however, is a purplish raspberry red. And the redpoll is smaller - about the size of a goldfinch - and it has a bright red spot only on the forehead. The red on its breast and rump is faint.

The purple finch is native to Michigan; the house finch is a newcomer. It originated on the West Coast and was transported to the East Coast. In the New York-Philadelphia-Baltimore - Washington, D.C., area, the house finch has become either the most abundant bird at feeders

Puzzle message:

"United States Postal Service Central Region leads nation in safety management" or a close second. When I visited relatives in Baltimore for the holidays, I observed birds at three feeders and enjoyed watching hordes of house finches cleaning out the sunflower seed feeders. The bird's appearance in Michigan indicates that it's spreading from the East to the Midwest.

According to Ray Adams of the Kalamazoo Nature Center, who is putting together an atlas of birds that breed in Michigan, the house finch is breeding around many metropolitan areas in southern Michigan. It's particularly abundant in the Grand Rapids area. If you see it at your feeder, it's probably not just passing through but working at becoming a permanent part of your neighborhood wildlife. I'm seeing only two or three at a time, but if it continues to develop as it has in the East, it will become extremely abundant.

Michigan winters may hold it back somewhat. The areas in the East where it has become so common generally enjoy a milder winter climate.

In addition to being an attractive bird, the house finch is vocal like the goldfinch. In fact, it was the twittering and singing of a mob of them at a feeder in Baltimore that first drew my attention to them. If you've ever had dozens of goldfinches at a feeder in the spring, you have an idea of what the house finches sound like.

As an introduced bird, the house finch is merely the latest addition to Michigan's birds. Two 20th century introductions are the starling and the pheasant. Before that came the English sparrow. We can only hope that the house finch is a more pleasant addition than the starling. In any case, it's a new bird to watch for at the feeder and an attractive new addition to nature from your backyard.

Great Lakes and Rivers Cruise Guide announced

Harbor House Publishers, Inc. has announced the spring publication of a Great Lakes & Rivers Cruise Guide. The publication will detail and describe excursions and dinner cruises, as well as ferry service within the Great Lakes and on the adjacent mid-continent rivers. The new publication emerged from a publishing effort which took place earlier in the year, when Harbor House Publishers cooperated with the Ann Arbor-based Great Lakes Commission in the publication of a research document dealing with cruises on the Great Lakes and the St. Lawrence River.

The Harbor House publication will be a private venture but will be done in cooperation with the Great Lakes Commission. The information in the cruise guide will consist of definitive descriptions of all cruise facilities within the region - numbering over 200 - and will include sailing routes, departure information and appropriate information depending upon the type of cruise delineated in the publication.
