Officers of the Grand Lodge of Free and Accepted Masons of the State of Michigan came to Boyne City last Saturday to rededicate the Boyne City Temple at 214 N. Lake Street with their special ancient ritual. They also participated in a 100th anniversary celebration of the local lodge at a dinner at One Water Street. The Grand Lodge members enjoyed both duties as they spent time in and around Boyne City.

Planners table 2nd phase of Boyne Mall project

Boyne City Planners were unable to make a decision on a second phase of a proposed mall project Walt Coyle presented to them at the monthly planning board meeting Monday evening.

The plan Coyle is working on would change the former Barretts Furniture building into a series of retail shops, offices and residential units. The changes would be made in two phases with the present building seeing construction to start this month and only including the present store.

The second phase would include the residential units on a third floor and would look similar to what the city is growing to be, a Victorian town.

It was the second phase that the planners had difficulty with as they wondered if the residential units would be condominiums. Board member Dale Parsons asked the other board members "Do we want more condos in the downtown?" He was told the planning body had no authority to designate use as the building would conform to all rules and regulations that cover the Central Business District (CBD).

Coyle told the board members he had purchased an additional parking lot behind Mel's Gas Station to help comply with the parking regulations, although when he purchased the present building, he also bought the parking lot now being used by Lena's and the Sportsman. He said he intends to pave that lot, although he wants to work out an arrangement with the bar and restaurant as to use and rental.

One issue that was brought up, which eventually caused the tabling motion on the second phase, was the requirement of the zoning law that says a building can't be more than 2 1/2 stories or 35 feet in height.

In the past, the planners always went with the 35 foot limitation, but when they read the 2 1/2 story limitation they balked.

Coyle said his plan shows a height of 36 feet and he was intending to get approval from the zoning board of appeals at their next meeting.

Another thing that did not sit well with the planners was that they have approved other "condo" requests that haven't gotten off the ground as yet.

"We're a little gunshy," Parsons said. Planner Bob Dunnette told the audience that approving the structure without knowing exactly what was going into it was a little like buying a pig in a poke.

During the public input on the ## City buys new truck for fire dept.

Boyne City looked at the bids for a new fire department equipment truck and approved the low bid of Bob Mathers Ford for the chassis, and Hyde Equipment for the body totalling $26,303.

Mathers was one of four bidders for the truck chassis. His bid was $15,813. Most of the other bids were in the same range, only slightly higher.

In other action, the city also approved the low bid of Ginop Sales for a new tractor that will be used at the cemetery. That bid came in at $4293 for a 12 horsepower diesel tractor that will be used for mowing.

The commissioners then heard a request from the Water Street Mall which will be having their grand opening Saturday, May 28. They intend on having a big band play music from 5 to 8 p.m.

project, businessman Ron Grunich asked what the concern was. The building is presently being used for business and residential and that has been allowed. Realtor John Buick told the planners the project would "Blend in with what's already in place." He added that Coyle has worked on the project as tastefully as possible from day one.

Approval for the second phase of the project was tabled until a determination can be made as to the height variance and the determination of 2 1/2 stories or 35 feet in height maximum. It will be up to the ZBA to approve one of those requests. The entire phase approval will come back to the planners at their meeting next month.

BC boat slip issue resolved, up to DNR to approve

After three public meetings, the Boyne City Commission approved the way the new boat slips at the Harborage Marina is giving to the city as part of a land swap for the use of the new city beach peninsula as a place to mount the floating docks.

The issue has been previously discussed many times over the past few years but the issue of the boat slips was never resolved other than the Department of Natural Resources, the city and the marina getting approvals to install them.

The marina is building the boat slips along the south side of the peninsula. Of the 16 slips being constructed, the marina would keep eight, while the city would keep seven.

John Howard, a resident of the community for the past ten years, has been working to try to decide the ownership and the

BF to hold public meeting to look at school plans

Boyne Falls School District residents will be getting a chance to look at what the school board is thinking about as they continue the planning for the expansion of the school.

Residents will have a chance to see what the board is considering when the architectural firm completes some preliminary drawings that will show the plan the board members liked best of the six that were presented at last months school board meeting.

The date for the public input night will be determined when the drawings are complete.

That was one of the main items the Boyne Falls School Board considered last Monday night as they worked their way through some of the ideas.

The latest plan shows the gym being expanded into the west, taking over the space presently used as bathrooms and storage. Four new classrooms the board says are needed will be constructed on the school grounds without having to cross and block any street. They will connect to the school on the elementary school side of the building.

In other action, the board ap-

Boyne eighth-grader designs Rambler t-shirt emblems

Dan Polleys, an eighth grade student at Boyne City Middle School, is the artist-designer of the trendy "Boyne Pride Rambler" t-shirts appearing in and around the Boyne area. Dan is the son of Dr. and Mrs. Robert Polleys, Jr.

The purpose of the PTO-sponsored contest was to activate spirit and bridge the gap between school and community. Dan's wheel-with-wings design was selected by the judges: Stephen Smith, principal; Susan Vrondran, teacher; Barbara Martin, counselor; Robin Hissong, PTO president and Bob McCullough, student council president. PTO members Dale and Honey Owen co-ordinated the fundraising project. More than two hundred shirts were sold and the proceeds will be used to sponsor student activities at the middle school.

The t-shirts are red or navy with a white "Boyne Pride Ramblers" insignia. There is no reference to middle school, so adults, as well as students, will enjoy wearing them. Extra shirts were ordered so those who missed ordering may still get one. The t-shirts are available this week in the middle school library for $5 on a first-come basis.

Fifth Disease reported in district says health department

Fifth Disease, or Erythema Infectiosum, has been reported in the District. Epidemics tend to occur at this time of year. Fifth Disease is not a serious illness, but can be confused with other disorders. Fifth Disease is due to a virus and was first described in 1889. The disease is due to a virus and was first described in 1889. The disease is due to a virus and was first described in 1889. The disease is due to a virus and was first described in 1889.

The disease is mild, acute, benign, and occurs mostly in children. The rash begins on the face, giving the so called "slapped cheek" appearance, sometimes with paleness around the mouth. After 1 to 4 days, but usually the next day, small red and raised spots occur on both sides of the arms and legs. The rash usually begins on the arms and moves to the trunk, buttocks, and thighs. The rash is often itchy and on about the sixth day develops a lacy, net like pattern with little or no other symptoms. The rash usually fades in one week, but transient recurrences can occur for up to 5 weeks on exposure to sunlight, temperature extremes, and physical or emotional stress. Joint pain may occur, especially in adults.

Fifth Disease is caused by a virus. The illness is transmitted from person to person, the exact method is unknown, but probably by respiratory secretions. The time from exposure to illness is about 12 to 14 days. There is no special treatment for Fifth Disease. Children do not need to be isolated, or activities restricted, if they are not ill with fever, headache or have other complaints.

However, they should avoid contact with pregnant women. Good personal hygiene such as washing hands and covering the mouth and nose when sneezing is encouraged. Although Fifth Disease infection is uncommon in adults, there may be a small risk to pregnant women who become infected. Fifth Disease can also be confused with German Measles (Rubella), and Hard Measles (Rubeola), Scarlet Fever (Strep Throat), and other rash producing illnesses. These illnesses may require special evaluation, treatment and preventive measures to include exclusion from school. It is for these reasons we recommend parents or guardians, and pregnant women, to consult with a physician when illnesses occur.

An agreement is a legal document that has far reaching implications. Before agreeing to any such terms it is important that you understand the full meaning of signing "on the dotted line." ON LOAN

When a borrower makes an agreement with a lender, the terms of the loan are spelled out in the loan agreement. In this document, under the section labeled "covenants", the borrower will find a list of actions that he may not pursue without the lender's approval. One such negative covenant may be that the loan may not be pledged as collateral for a second loan. By the same token, positive covenants are requirements that the lender imposes upon the buyer. For instance, the latter may be required to carry adequate insurance and repay the loan according to the terms of the agreement. In general, the lender has the upper hand in a loan agreement. That does not mean, however, that the borrower cannot negotiate some terms away.

Some lenders require periodic reports of a borrower's financial statements.

County Democrats endorse Irwin

Charlevoix County Democrats endorsed Mitch Irwin for Congress at their Saturday, April 30th meeting in Boyne City. Chairman Lance Johnson gave details about a brunch the democrats are sponsoring for Candidate Irwin on Sunday, June 5th, noon to 2 p.m. at One Water Street, Boyne City.

An election was held and by unanimous vote Lance Johnson remained as chairman, Ellen Addington as vice chairwoman, Phyllis Marchinkewicz as treasurer and a new secretary, Lois Simons from Charlevoix, was elected.

G.T. Lon, field director for Mitch Irwin, was the main speaker for the meeting and gave a good picture of how the campaign is shaping up. There will be an Irwin office opening in Petoskey soon, besides at four other locations in the vast 11th CD. Kel Smythe is now Irwin's campaign manager.

The 11th District Democratic Party Convention will be held Saturday, May 7, 1988, at 1 p.m. in Schoolcraft County Courthouse in Manistique.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

I'm tired. It's only because after finishing up at the office, I went home to relax and turned on the TV. And watched. Watched until about 3 a.m. But don't ask me to tell you what I saw, cause I can't remember. I think I just remember staring at the tube and watching some old images cross the screen in front of me. I think it was something like the late show. Or maybe the late, late, late show. Heck I am still so tired I can't tell you if it was a western, one of the movies from the thirties or what. I do remember that it was in black and white.

Which brings me to another thought. I wonder why television started off in black and white. I guess it was the same with photography. Just didn't have the technology to come up with the real world we see with our color designed eyes.

There I was, all set to go and wondering what I was letting myself into.

When I agreed to take a picture at the 100th anniversary of the Masonic Lodge, I could just think of all kinds of "secret" organizations there are in the nation.

It seems like you would never be lacking for a club or organization and you would be hard pressed to not find one that suits your needs.

Besides the service clubs, like the Lions and the Rotary, you have the church clubs, fraternal groups, societies, clubs, and just a whole mess of groups that are looking for membership.

Personally, I am glad that there are so many service clubs and groups.

Each one is needed and has a place to do good works.

But, back to the Masons. First, I always wondered how they got that name and what it stood for. I found out as the Grand Lodge members went through the ritual of rededicating the Boyne City lodge.

Evidently, the group was really skilled tradesman who got together to work for their communities.

As the members went through the rituals, they used almost all of the instruments, giving meaning to what they stood for in the scheme of things.

In all, it was very interesting. I had never been to this type of lodge function, they only come about every 100 years, and it was all interesting. It was almost like watching some fraternity rite done in the Greek.

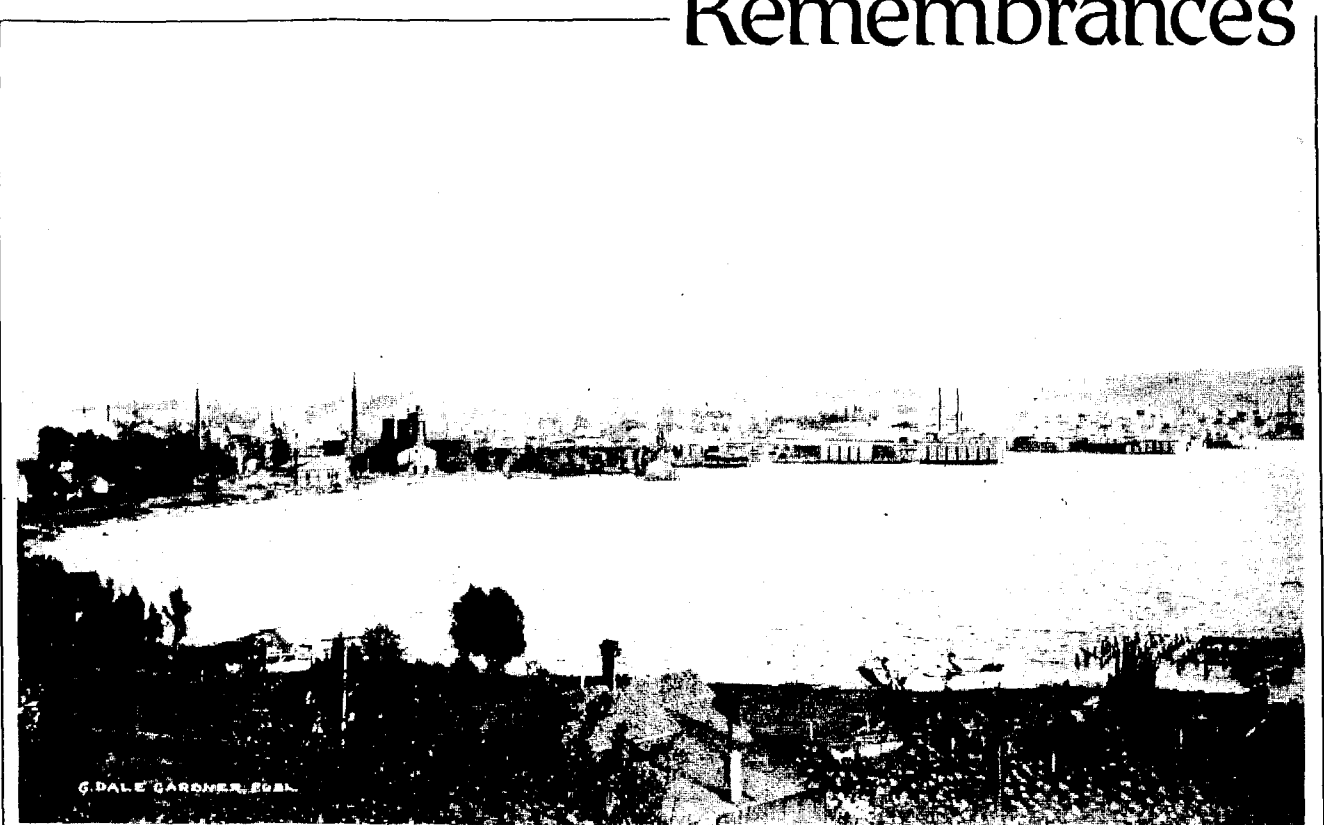

But the people involved did a great job, explaining things as they went along, so people like me could understand what was going on.

There have been a few
See Jottings/Page 7

Our scene opens today with me turning down a literary agent's offer of one million dollars to come up with a "kiss and tell" book about the strange nesting habits of Boyne City residents.

Being a rural rooster from Wilson Township, I am smart enough to know that popular opinion runs in favor of me keeping my mouth shut.

But the agent insisted that kiss and tell stuff is all the rage these days and a book of that nature would put our city on the map from Bangor, Maine to the far reaches of Beverly and all of its hills. Thousands would come after reading such a book. Merchant's cash registers would sing long after the sun went down. Even the chamber would have more commerce.

A look at Boyne City taken from the top of what may have been the Beulah Home shows what the waterfront looked like about the turn of the century. All of the light colored blocks in the picture are piles of lumber drying or waiting to be shipped out from the docks. Many of the drying areas were constructed right over the water as it was easier to get to the boats that took the lumber to places like Chicago. What appears as a haze in the picture could be the smoke from the mills and the chemical factory as well as the many homes.

Remembrances

Marshall Sayles

Many of us like Boyne City as it is, even though there may be some kiss to tell. In written form it would attract attention far and wide, but I think most of us would rather keep it bunched up within the city limits. Sort of like a silent and empty stomach.

When the agent called I had just read my horoscope. It said that a large financial opportunity was headed my way. Nothing was said, however, about residents organizing a posse to pound on me until all that nice gooseberry juice had been blown from the bung hole of my think tank.

After refusing the million dollars, I was awash in that queer sense of relief that comes whenever I make a sensible decision. People who knew about my financial loss patted me on the head saying that I had the heart of a lemon pie after a Sunday lunch.

In another call the agent appealed to my ego. "Look," he said, "now days if you haven't written a kiss and tell book, you're a nobody. Even your horoscope says you have an opportunity to become rich and famous."

"Kiss and tell and horoscopes,"

I said. "You have been listening to too much of that televised stuff going on in Washington. I've never given it a third thought."

"Remember when you started a business on a shoestring and lost the whole thing?" he asked. "Remember how the people hooted you down as though you were a city manager with a fresh idea? Well, here's your chance to grab the money and run?"

"Now you look," I said. "I enjoy this weekly panting for local recognition. A kiss and tell book would destroy all that. Especially since I would have to touch on some of my own unacceptable maneuvering. I may be nuts, but I ain't dumb."

And then he said something I didn't understand. "OK," he said, "vote for George Bush and see if I care."

Letters

Urges letters re. waste dump

Editor,

As you know, we are facing an extremely important issue right now - whether or not our state will become the radioactive dumping ground for 7 (and possibly more) states for the next 20 years. This means at least 2 truckloads from other states per day of this hazardous, cancer causing waste.

One of the main arguments Governor Blanchard and other dump proponents use for remaining in the Compact is economic. Yet an economic study of Michigan's options has never been done. Economic conclusions have been reached solely on the construction and monitoring costs and do not include the effect the dump will inevitably have on tourism, agriculture, new industries considering locating in Michigan, or property values. (One of the main reasons South Carolina is refusing to accept any additional wastes at its Barnwell site after 1992 is the negative effect of the dump site on their tourism industry.) The cost of potential legal disputes between the compact states is also ignored and could alone exceed any savings from economies of scale by remaining in the Compact.

Once a state has been designated as the radioactive waste dump site (as ours has), it has the option of withdrawing from the Compact. That state would then be responsible for disposing of its own waste. Isn't this much better than ours plus at least 6 others??

Write your legislators. Write the Governor. Tell them to take Michigan out of the Compact NOW. We, the citizens of this beautiful state, represent Michigan. Please don't stand by and gamble on what our governor is going to decide. With an issue as threatening to public and environmental health as this is, there is no room for politics. Let your voice be heard!

Sincerely,

Century to upgrade service in Boyne Falls

Century Telephone Company of Michigan will start construction to upgrade telephone service in the Boyne Falls area in May, 1988 according to Northern Division Manager Tom Seater.

"This is just the first step of a three-year plan to rebuild outside plant and replace the existing Boyne Falls central office with a new digital telephone switching office," said Seater.

The $2.2 million rebuild will also include the placement of over 108 miles of buried cable, the construction of a remote switching station and the installation of toll carrier equipment which will improve long distance service.

In 1990 the new digital office will be installed. This Stromberg-Carlson switching office is considered one of the most technically advanced systems available in the telephone industry and is based on the latest computer and microcircuit technology. The new office will make custom calling features available to Boyne Falls residents.

By the end of the three-year plan all Boyne Falls will be able to enjoy private telephone service as well.

Choked up and overwhelmed

Editor,
Words nearly fail me to express my deep sense of gratitude to our great communicator for his latest stroke of genius. The statesmanlike manner he used to create the fiasco of Panama over Moriega is nothing short of magnificent. The chaos is complete. Not since the liberation of Grenada and our glorious victory there have the American people had so much cause to stand tall and be proud. The millions upon millions of dollars we must now spend to restore some semblance of stability in Panama is a small price to pay for all this glory. His charming refusal to let the welfare of the Panamanian people get in his way only reflects his great strength of character and wisdom.

Now also, you know what? In the wings we have another such man, all set to come on center stage and take over the starring role. This man has sworn a Republican oath that he will faithfully continue the wonderful works of this administration. Our cup truly runneth over. It just doesn't seem possible that we can have two such great leaders in one lifetime. Its almost more than we can stand.

In these troubled times, it is so important that the world have something it can laugh at from time to time. They run out of tears after a while. This brilliant man we have in the oval office has always been so generous with his talent to amuse and astound others that he should be given an Oscar. I think many others will join me in thanking him and all his worthy helpers for making our foreign policy such a successful Harlequin production and such a fine example of his capabilities.

What a comfort it is to know that in back of this great man we have such an intelligent woman as the first lady. She, at least, is smart enough not to trust either his or her judgement to make a decision. She has a personal astrologer that takes care of such matters and plots the critical path of our nation's needs.

I'll just have to quit now. I have overwhelmed myself and am too choked up to continue with this tribute to our all time great - ah - er - I really am sorry but I just can't say it again.

BY GAIL WARE
In this season of perils and politics and trying to separate one from the other, some clear-cut news has been released by the champions of fitness. After threatening and cajoling the American public to get them up and doing, medical experts have now declared that, while exercise is still the way to go for a zestier, longer life, the standards for acceptable activity of this sort have been relaxed. No longer just the grim, sweaty stuff like running, jogging, fast walking and aerobics, or activities of kindred nature, qualify. Fitness should fit individual taste and ability.

In defense of those who linger on the sidelines, some could well have tried the running or aerobics with less than glowing results. Likely more than 20% of Americans at the start of the fitness frenzy took to the road or gym or fitness parlor with a vengeance - Americans don't hold much with moderation - and injured themselves right off. Others have occasionally gotten allergic reactions like hives, asthma or sharp drops in blood pressure when engaging in heavy duty sports. Since they don't get them at every outing, doctors can't pinpoint the cause. But both groups shy away from the tradeoff - present misery for future vigor.

This softened line on the matter has come about because the heavy-breathing stuff doesn't move many people. Only 20% of Americans work out regularly, 40% occasionally and 40% not at all.

Doing just about anything that makes a person move his body qualifies now although for a healthy person it should be more or less continuous and involve various parts of the body. Vacuuming and scrubbing do well and climbing stairs scores even higher. Among jollier activities, walking - the brisker the better - and any kind of dancing or cycling serve well too.

With the emphasis on freedom of choice, doctors hope the nation's citizens will now get moving. The new thrust will help but more could be done. Giving away snazzy warm-up jackets, names embroidered on them, compliments of the Surgeon General, would probably do the trick once and for all. Americans have a strong sense of righteousness and if they wanted to wear their jackets, they'd most likely figure out an exercise to wear their jackets with.

These activities also burn those calories, ranging from 300 for an hour of vacuuming to 600 to 1080 for an hour of stair climbing. So the tenders of households are keeping most fit and pummeling pudginess too - and also getting very tired.

County Press to have summer intern

Starting off as the new intern for the summer at the Charlevoix County Press is Daria Looze, a native of the Boyne City area attending Central Michigan University and majoring in Journalism.

Looze will be covering local, city and township governments as well as writing feature articles about people and places in the area, for the Press and Vacationeer.

A 1985 graduate of East Jordan High School, she has just completed her third year at Central. While in high school she worked on various student publications and was also a photographer. At Central she worked for one semester at the college paper, CM Life.

Looze considers herself a small town girl and misses the Lake Charlevoix area often while attending college in flat and treeless Mount Pleasant.

Another less common form of exercise, which probably doesn't move the heart and lungs but has value for some nonetheless, involves inactive action - visualization. It's a mind-over-matter thing like the est movement was into and several other philosophies now center around except this is used for a limited time and scope and no bending of forks with the mind or other amazing feats are involved. Doctors recommend it to dedicated athletes who've been injured and must hold still a while. So they visualize conditioning exercises to keep their bodies strong and flexible. And it works. Lest lazy loungers think this might save them from themselves, visualizing takes concentrated effort, some say, more effort than doing the real thing.

NOTICE

CITY OF BOYNE CITY BOYNE CITY WATER SUPPLIES FREE OF LEAD

All community public water suppliers are required by Federal Law to provide notice of the hazards of lead, if it is present, in drinking water. A notice is required regardless of the lead content in local water. However, Boyne City water has been tested at the wells and at distribution points is free of lead.

The following notice is taken from suggestions provided by the State Health Department and is presented to comply with the Federally mandated Public Notice:

Sampling by the Michigan Department of Public Health has confirmed the presence of lead in drinking water from certain piping systems in communities other than Boyne City where the water has remained stagnant for a period of time. Levels in excess of the current drinking water standard (50 parts per billion) have been detected in some systems. We wish to report that the tests of Boyne City water indicated Boyne City water is good and no lead is present. Laboratory testing has shown that the principal sources of lead are lead piping and lead based solders and fluxes used to join copper piping. Based on these results and those from other studies, the Michigan Department of Labor, Bureau of Construction Codes and the Michigan Department of Public Health have supported legislation which prohibits the use of lead based solders and fluxes in potable water piping systems. The plumbing industry and homeowners who may construct potable drinking water piping systems must no longer use lead based solders and fluxes for joining copper piping. Other solder materials or joining methods are available and must be used. Lead piping has not been allowed for new installations for about the last ten years. Building copper piping water systems constructed to date, within buildings, likely contain lead based solder and flux.

Water is a universal solvent and even relatively stable water when stagnant for a period of even a few hours in contact with lead solder and flux, can result in a significant concentration of lead in the water. The Health Department is recommending that those piping systems in which the water has remained stagnant overnight or for longer periods be flushed for several minutes prior to using the water for drinking or cooking purposes. This typically has been found to satisfactorily reduce the level of lead and other metals that may concentrate in the water within the building's piping system.

The United States Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) sets drinking water standards and has determined that lead in a health concern at certain levels of exposure. There is currently a standard of 0.050 parts per million (ppm). Based on new health information, EPA is likely to lower this standard significantly.

Part of the purpose of this notice is to inform you of the potential adverse health effects of lead. This is being done even though your water may not be in violation of the current standard. We repeat, Boyne City water supplies do not contain detectable levels of lead.

EPA and others are concerned about lead in drinking water. Too much lead in the human body can cause serious damage to the brain, kidneys, nervous system, and red blood cells. The greatest risk, even with short-term exposure, is to young children and pregnant women.

Lead levels in your drinking water are likely to be highest:

1. if your home or water system has lead pipes, or
2. if your home has copper pipes with lead solder, and
  - a. if the home is less than five years old, or
  - b. if you have soft or acidic water, (the water in the Boyne City system is considered "hard" and slightly alkaline), or
  - c. if water sits in the pipes for several hours.

Besides lead in water from certain piping systems, there are other exposure pathways to lead including:

- air - from industrial discharges, automobile exhaust
- food - from airborne deposition of lead on crops and lead solder seams in some food containers
- non food items - lead based paint, dirt, solder, or any object containing lead

It should be noted that the major source of lead exposure and lead poisoning in the United States is due to children consuming lead based paint chips.

People who may have concerns about the concentration of lead from their building or household piping are advised to contact a reputable private laboratory for water analysis. Others who may have specific concerns relative to any possible health effects are urged to contact their physician.

For more information about this matter, please contact City Hall at 682-6697, or Ira Gabin, District Engineer, Division of Water Supply, Michigan Department of Public Health, at (517) 335-6330.

BC falls to Petoskey 12-11, 14-3

BY SCOTT KNIPE

Boyne City's baseball squad experienced some ups and downs in the past week of competition. In one respect they proved themselves worthy competitors for just about any team around, but in another the class C school in them really showed through. This was apparent in both the Petoskey and Charlevoix games last week.

At home against Petoskey in the first game of that evenings play Boyne led most of the game and Petoskey was not looking like the great baseball team they usually are. Going into the last inning Boyne was up four, but it was at that time that Petoskey showed a little spark and scored six runs, most of them unearned. Boyne was pressed to score the two points required to tie, but only came through on one, losing the game 12 to 11.

The second game that night had little to talk about from the Ramblers stand point as Petoskey reverted to their old selves, winning 14 to 3.

Then on Charlevoix things looked dim as the Rayders blanked the Ramblers, 10-0, but the second game was brought down to the wire, but with Charlevoix still on top, 4-2.

In Rogers City Saturday the Ramblers were finally up against another school roughly their size, but in the first game it didn't seem to matter as Rogers took the first game 5-1. Boyne collected themselves and kept the second game tied throughout at 2-2, until Rob Towne knocked in the winning run, getting a single that brought Kevin Beebe in to take the lead. Boyne took that game 3-2, Christopher Downing was the winning pitcher, pitching the first six innings, and then Justing Kelts came in in the seventh inning for the save.

Boyne is now holding a record of three wins and nine losses, but even more importantly they are 1-1 against class C schools.

proved the starting of the paperwork for a tax anticipation note the school will be needing next fall. The school will be needing the money until the property taxes on property within the school district are paid in January.

They approved, pending whether or not money can be found to pay for it, the hiring of Sue Goble as a 2/3 staff and 1/3 Chapter One. That would allow the hiring of an aide which could provide more help in teaching the students in the Chapter One programs. The additional cost was estimated to be about $5,000.

The hiring of a new bus driver was tabled, along with a decision to buy a water softening unit for the kitchen and hot water system.

The board then passed a resolution approving the annual election, and accepted a check from the Boyne Valley PM Lions Club for $250. The money will go into a scholarship fund the club hopes to support each year.

They then approved a last day of school field trip for the third and fourth grades to Project Nature but failed to approve a canoe trip down the Jordan River for the fifth and sixth graders. They also passed a resolution recognizing the graduating class of 1988.

Fowler, Washburn, Ruhlman named to Dean's list at Alma

Margaret (Meg) Fowler and Katherine Washburn of Charlevoix and Anthony Ruhlman of East Jordan are among the 203 Alma College students named to the Dean's List for outstanding academic performance during the 1988 Winter Term which ended April 15.

Students who achieve a 3.5 or better grade point average during a term, while carrying a minimum of 13 credits (at least 8 of which are evaluative grades), are named to the Dean's List.

Junior Mararet (Meg) Fowler is the daughter of David and Nancy Fowler, 409 E. Dixon. She is majoring in education.

Freshman Katherine Washburn is the daughter of Sanford and Jill Washburn, 508 W. Upright St. She expects to major in Spanish.

Both are graduates of Charlevoix High School, Fowler in 1985 and Washburn in 1987.

Senior Anthony Ruhlman, a 1984 graduate of East Jordan High School, is the son of Robert and Patricia Ruhlman, 07441 Bracey Rd. He is a May candidate for a Bachelor of Science degree with a major in biology.

way the docks would be configured with the marina doing the work for the trade. Howard said that when the city sold off a parcel of land to the marina developer as part of the city's share to earn money for the beach grant.

The meetings were held at the parks and recreation board last Thursday, the planning board Monday night and the city commission meeting at noon on Tuesday.

Each meeting provided some input into the proposal. At the parks meeting, the wording of a contract was worked out and presented to the planners. The planners then changed some of the wording to try to eliminate the word transient from much of the language in the proposal.

It was thought that the DNR had required one-half of the slips to be only transient dockage. If the word were stricken from the agreement, then the city could have the option of moving some of the permanent slips at the city marina over to the Harborage marina, or could possibly even sell the slips to earn money to help develop additional dockage at the city docks.

One of the objections heard at the meetings was the difficulty of the harbormaster to cover the two different locations. If the city moved the permanent docks to the Harborage marina, then the harbormaster would not have to continually go over to the marina to service incoming or outgoing boaters.

The agreement will have to get through DNR approvals as to the wording in order for the changes to be made. According to Howard, the agreement, when it is worked out, could add several hundred thousand dollars to the city coffers.

He said he hoped that money could be used to improve the present city marina in Veterans Park.

Public hearings for proposed amendments to the zoning ordinance were also postponed as the planners ran out of time due to the lengthy discussion about the proposed Peninsula Beach boat slips.

Tips for better choices when buying insurance

People are returning from the south, the weather is warming and sales agents are out in force. A Consumers Rights Group in Lansing has reported one insurance agency has 50-60 agents "combing" northern Michigan.

When buying an insurance policy, you will probably depend on the insurance agent and any written materials you receive to explain what the policy covers and what it doesn't. Most people are not familiar with various types of policies and the special words used in the insurance business. The agent must give you accurate information about any policy they are selling. They must not make false or misleading statements or leave out important facts in advertisements, sales, presentations, or comparisons of policies or when answering questions.

It is illegal for an agent or company to do the following:

1. Misrepresent what the policy covers and what advantages and disadvantages there are.

2. Make a false statement in order to persuade you to cancel or exchange an existing policy.

3. Make an incomplete comparison of the policy.

You as a buyer should do the Archambault awarded $6,000 scholarship

Mary Archambault of Boyne City has been awarded a Regents Scholarship from Eastern Michigan University's Office of Financial Aid.

EMU's Regents Scholarship is a four-year $6,000 scholarship and is one of the most prestigious offered by the University.

Recipients of the scholarship are required to have a minimum grade point average of 3.75 and test scores of at least 24 on the A.C.T.

following:

1. Assess your needs. Decide what you want the policy to do.

2. Read the Policy. It's important to know what's covered.

3. Ask questions. Don't be afraid of taking the agent's time. He or she will be paid a commission on the policy you buy.

4. Take your time. An insurance policy can be a valuable investment.

5. See it in writing. If you don't see something in the policy, ask the insurance agent to point it out to you.

6. Before you sign any form, read it and make sure you know what it means. Generally, you have 30 days after receipt of the policy to change your mind. Ask the agent.

If you feel an agent or company has misrepresented an insurance policy and you can't get a satisfactory answer to your complaint, write to the Michigan Insurance Bureau, Department of Licensing and Regulation, P.O. Box 30220, Lansing, MI 48909, or phone (517) 373-0220. Describe your complaint and what actually happened. Enclose copies of any documents involved. Remember shop for insurance, compare price, coverage, and service.

meetings like this where I never did find out what was going on. But the grand guys from all over the state presented the facts just so I could understand, and I appreciate that.

I even enjoyed the cake and ice cream after the function was over.

But perhaps the best thing was that taking an hour or so out of the day took my mind off all the other work that needed to get done.

And that made for a pleasant and relaxing afternoon.

FOCUS to tackle waste issues at next public forum

FOCUS will tackle the growing threat of our burgeoning waste at its next public forum, to be held at the Charlevoix High School study hall on Wednesday, May 18th, at 7:30 p.m.

In line with the governor's mandate to "reduce, re-use and recycle," FOCUS has invited a panel of knowledgeable state and county people to present solid waste-management alternatives for this area.

The panel includes Marta Fisher, Department of Natural Resources; Charles Cabbage of the Toxic Substance Control Commission, who will discuss incineration; Geoff Older of Waste Management, Inc., talking about landfilling; and Larry Levingood, Charlevoix County Department of Health, Solid Waste Committee, who will furnish information regarding Public Act 641, which requires that plans be drawn up and submitted every five years.

Each will speak for 15 to 20 minutes. Then all will field questions raised according to the community interest. "We hope to raise awareness of the challenges and opportunities of the solid waste management situation," says Ben Eynon, an Ellsworth resident and member of the FOCUS Advisory Board. "We want to lay the basis for informed citizen decision-making."

The Advisory Board of FOCUS believes the waste-disposal problem is urgent. We must take action immediately, before our trash chokes to death on our own rubbish. The committee urges everyone who loves the natural beauty of our area to attend this meeting so that we can plan together now, before it is too late, for informed, practical action. These are not problems concerning only the Charlevoix area, but all of northern Michigan.

Mulhauser urges support to protect abused children

Petkskey attorney Fred R. Mulhauser told a Senate committee in Lansing recently that proposed legislation to protect abused children is greatly needed to ensure that these young victims are not victimized again by Michigan's legal system.

"Abused children who are left to linger in court-ordered foster care programs are often victimized a second time by the system," he said. Mulhauser urged the Michigan Senate to approve a bill, similar to legislation already approved by the House, that would protect children who have been removed from their homes by probate courts. The legislation is an outgrowth of the Coleman Commission Report prepared by a commission headed by former Michigan Supreme Court Chief Justice Mary Coleman.

Although the legislation would provide substantial improvements in the protection of abused children, it has received little publicity. "People prefer to assume that the court system

CAH to present lecture on breast care May 25

Charlevoix Area Hospital is sponsoring a special lecture and demonstration of breast care and self-examination on Wednesday, May 25, at 7:00 p.m. in the hospital classroom.

Participants will learn how to do proper breast self-examination and will view the mammography equipment. Mammograms will be available at a reduced rate to those who have never had a mammogram upon presentation of a physician's order. Attendance at the lecture is a pre-requisite of having the mammogram for a special reduced cost of $50. The mammograms will be scheduled at a different day and time.

It is recommended that women age 35 and above who have never had a mammogram have one done to serve as a base-line mammogram to use in comparing future mammograms and detecting changes in the breast.

It is estimated that 7,500 cancer deaths can be prevented each year by proper use of self-examination and mammography resulting in early detection. One out of every 10 women will develop breast cancer with those with a family history of breast cancer, or those over 50 years of age, at the greatest risk.

For further information call the Charlevoix Area Hospital's Public Relations Department at 547-4024.

EJ Family Health Center offers Stop Smoking class

The East Jordan Family Health Center is once again offering a class to assist smokers in quitting smoking. Therese Green, health educator from Burns Clinic Medical Center, will teach the class, to be held in the East Jordan Family Health Center Community Room on the lower level. Class will be held from 7 to 8 p.m., May 31, June 2, 7, 9, 14 and 21, with an optional follow-up session two (2) weeks later.

Topics to be discussed include:

1. Physical Addiction
2. Psychological Addiction
3. Dealing with Emotions
4. The Role of Exercise and Nutrition in Smoking Cessation
5. Health Benefits of Quitting
6. Stress Management Techniques for Staying Off Cigarettes

To register, call 536-2206. Cost is $20 for the six class series; however adjustments can be made for those unable to pay.

automatically takes care of children in need of protection," Mulhauser observed later. "In fact, the system does not work as well as it should. Stronger legislation is needed to ensure that children in referral programs are closely monitored and not forgotten."

"The children are victimized by the abuser, then victimized again because they are taken out of their own homes. They may also find themselves removed from their friends, classmates, and other familiar surroundings. They may be moved multiple times. They may be left in foster homes for years. In the end, the children we tried to help turn out to be the losers and often grow up to continue the cycle of abuse as abusive parents."

Mulhauser was invited to testify before the Senate committee on the proposed legislation because of his extensive experience as an attorney representing children and families in cases involving abuse and related matters.

"I work with children who come to me as victims in need of help. After suffering additional traumas in court by being moved from one foster home to another, they can become hardened. Eventually, they are almost unreachable."

Also testifying before the committee chaired by Senator Jack Welborn were three Probate Court judges and a University of Michigan law professor.

Mulhauser declared earlier this year that he will be a candidate for Probate Judge in Charlevoix and Emmet counties in the August primary election.
