Boyne City School District solved one of the problems the school system faces with the announcement of the hiring of Dr. Robert Nakoneczny as the new superintendent of the system.

time basis with the school system by the first of September and will be working on a part-time basis for the next three or four weeks with the school system.

His starting salary will be $41,518 for the first year of an offered three year contract with the school system. The other two years will be negotiable each year.

With fringe benefits, the amount he will start at will be less than what the board was paying for the former superintendent Rich Kelly.

Nakoneczny is currently the Deputy Superintendent of the Bedford School System, near Temperance, Michigan. The system has over 4,300 students with a staff of 500 or more employees. Nakoneczny was responsible for the $15 million budget and serves as the strategic planner for total district operations. He was the chief financial officer for the district and was the chief administrative officer for all matters relating to the budget, buildings and grounds, transportation and food service operations.

Group asks Boyne City board for busing

A group of about 40 parents showed up at the monthly Boyne City School Board meeting to ask if the board would approve busing the students for the two weeks of school prior to the special election that will be asking for millage to help pay for the busing.

They were asked, after an hour of impassioned pleas and suggestions, as to where the money could be found to pay for the two weeks, that the voters had dictated what the board had to do at the last election when they failed to approve busing. The board said there would be no busing because of the vote.

Finding money for busing would be another problem, according to a board member. She said after the meeting that the proposed budget which was not approved because it shows a deficit of about $100,000, has no money available.

The board has been working on an extended 1987-88 budget during the summer in order to pay bills and run the operations required.

Patty Ball, representing the group, presented petitions to the board with 475 signatures in support of providing busing the first two weeks. She told the board members that "I am not experienced in budgets, but I think money could be found." She then showed the board where the money could be obtained within the budget she was working with.

Board President Richard May told her the money wasn't in the budget, that the figures she was working with, represented "paper" money as the proposed budget was still $100,000 in the red, without busing costs being figured in for the year.

He said she was looking at money that isn't there, noting the difference between cash flow and budget projections.

Board member Dave Guznick told the audience "It is hard to go and undo what the voters told us to do back in June."

He explained that during the many months the board has been looking at the budget problem, and the voters turning down the issues that would have balanced the budget, the board had to make a determination to either cut the educational program or cut the services.

The board elected to keep the educational programs in place as they thought they were the most necessary items of education. That was when they decided to ask the voters to approve special millage to help pay for the busing.

EJ superintendent Rossler resigns

East Jordan School Board members will be facing the same thing as Boyne City after learning Monday night of the resignation of Tom Rossler, the school District Superintendent who will become the new superintendent of the North Dickenson Public School District in the western upper peninsula.

Rossler was the second administrator to resign in East Jordan during the month. Gary Albring, the director of elementary education resigned effective the first of the month to become an elementary school principal in the Baraga Public School District located also in the upper peninsula.

Rossler's announcement was expected as the rumors had been flying around the community for the past few days. With his resignation, effective September 2, when he announced his resignation, it still caught board members by surprise.

Filling his spot at the school will be the agenda of a special emergency meeting held Tuesday. It is expected the board will try to replace Rossler as soon as possible. In case they decide not to replace the superintendent immediately, they will hire an interim superintendent on a part-time basis for part or all of the year.

Albring's position will be filled by Rossler, elementary principal Donald Peters and Ann

Boyne approves crossing guards for students

School crossing guards were reluctantly agreed to by the Boyne City Commission at the noon meeting Tuesday after a long discussion as to the responsibility of the city to provide them for the schools.

The Boyne School system will be starting the school year without school busing and asked the city to help with traffic and pedestrian control patterns for those coming and going to the school.

The commissioners, following the advice to Police Chief John Talboys, agreed to set up two or more locations as designated crossing areas and will be providing crossing guards during the time school children are going to or getting out of classes.

Tentatively, the designated crossing areas are the corner of Water and Park Streets and the Brockway-Boyne Avenue (M-75) intersection. Others may be added if they are needed said Talboys.

The crossing guards and the designated intersections will be in effect as long as the school system does not provide busing to the schools, although when Commissioner Bill Grimm made the motion for approval, he added wording that recommends to the school board the closing of all campuses. Currently only the high school has an open campus.

In the meantime, the city has been advertising for crossing guards and still needs to find additional guards for the intersections.

Commissioner Steve Moody said he voted for the guards only because he thought the school put the city into a bind. Commissioner Sandra Stanley agreed somewhat with Moody although

Polish Festival attracts thousands

Doing a polka in the beer tent is just one of the enjoyable things at last weekend's Polish Festival in Boyne Falls.

Giving a pull at the horse pulling contest is this pair of Belgians.

Sky, the human mannequin, attracted the attention of these youngsters.

Face painting is one of the midway attractions for a group of kids at this booth.

BC, EJ Head Start enrollment August 16

The Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency, Inc., is announcing the '88-'89 school year recruitment activities for enrollment in the Boyne City/East Jordan Head Start Center located at 839 State Street, Boyne City on August 16, 1988, at 9-11:30 a.m. and 1-3 p.m.

Head Start is a comprehensive, interdisciplinary preschool program primarily for children three to five-years of age whose families have a limited income.

The basic goal of the program is to encourage well-rounded development. This is done through the teaching of health, language, self-help, socialization, large and small muscle, and cognitive (thinking) skills. Teachers, community professionals, support staff, and parents (whose participation is extremely important) work together to accomplish this goal. Through the involvement of parents, the program aims at enhancing the parents' role as the prime educator of their children. The program is carried out through center and home-based activities.

To qualify for Head Start, you must be within the Federal Income Poverty Guidelines listed below:

Household Size	Gross Income
1	$ 5,770
2	$ 7,730
3	$ 9,690
4	$11,650
5	$13,610
6	$15,570

(For each additional household member, add $1,960)

While this is an income-eligible program, families whose income exceeds these guidelines may still qualify if their child has a special need documented by a professional (doctor, psychologist, social worker) who makes a referral to the program. Ten percent of the enrolled families are over the income guidelines.

Response lacking in plea for host families

Despite efforts during the past four months to locate host families in the Charlevoix County area, representatives of Pacific Intercultural Exchange feel that, for the first time in memory, they may be forced to cancel the participation of several foreign high school students due to begin their academic year programs on August 20.

"We have been working to find homes for these students since we received their files at the end of March," said Michigan Coordinator, Pat Blundy. "I don't know why the response has been so poor this year. Maybe it's the drought, maybe it's the economy. All I know is that it's going to be an awful disappointment for the kids."

The eager anticipation with which these students look forward to their exchange is evident in the letters they enclose in their files. "I am very thankful that you want to take me into your home," writes Manual Martinez of Spain. "I promise to be a good son and to help you as much as possible. I hope to be with you soon but until that moment, I give you all of my affection."

For individuals who may be able to help these students, the program asks that you call Michigan Coordinator, Pat Blundy, collect at 616-527-1379 or 616-527-0012.

Jack VanHoesen, wildlife artist, teaching and exhibiting at McCune this week

Horton Bay native Jack VanHoesen, wildlife artist and columnist for Wildlife Art News, will be arriving in Petoskey Monday, Aug. 8, to exhibit and teach at the Virginia McCune Community Arts Center until Aug. 14.

VanHoesen stresses that his workshop allows people of any artistic level to participate. He encourages students to work on subjects of their own choosing and in their own preferred medium, so their work is more than a copy of the instructor's.

In addition to exhibiting an extensive collection of his prints and originals, which sell from $25 to $9000, VanHoesen will present a series of outdoor adventure slide programs.

VanHoesen's intensive week-long schedule begins at 5 p.m. Monday, August 8, with an evening reception and presentation of the artist's video, The Wildlife Art of Jack VanHoesen. At 7 p.m., the artist will present a 30-minute slide program giving a brief synopsis of his early years in Horton Bay and his growth as an artist. VanHoesen will also discuss the artistic elements of his exhibited works. Tuesday, Aug. 9, will begin VanHoesen's three day teaching session. The first session features an extensive overview of art techniques using slides, demonstrations and discussion. VanHoesen will also offer individual critique of participants' past original work, slides, or snapshots. Any number of students may attend the first session and bring work for critique.

Thursday's art workshop will deal with preliminary painting, blocking of the image, techniques for finishing the painting, and techniques for framing, presented by Chandler's Gallery. Thursday at 7 p.m., VanHoesen will show his slide program, The Art of Seeing Wildlife.

Three outdoor adventure programs will be presented on Friday, Aug. 12: Portrait of Alaska at 1 p.m., Hemingway's Horton Bay/VanHoesen's Michigan at 3 p.m., and The Art of Seeing Wildlife at 7 p.m.

VanHoesen's paintings and prints may be viewed during gallery hours, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. Monday through Saturday, and 11 a.m. until 3 p.m. Sunday.

The Positive Side

"Take action! Anything you can do, or think you can, start doing it."

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

Do you realize that the summer is over?

I mean figuratively. After all, the back to school sales have started, the college kids are leaving their jobs, and some folks have already started talking about skiing.

What I want to know from all these folks is what happened to our beautiful color season, football games, and the hunting season? Was it good for our teams? Were those hunters successful? Did the grass I planted grow into a full lawn?

I mean what's going on...pretty soon it will be mushroom season and then the tourist season the way some of these folks talk.

And I haven't even had time to enjoy the summer yet.

Things have been so busy this summer, I can even say I don't know where it went. I have to figure out a way to slow down the rest of the world so I can catch up.

If you have any suggestions as to how that can be done, give me a call. With your suggestion, we can become rich and famous, get featured on the telly, and make the national news.

I think that is one of the problems of the nation. We are trying to speed up all of the processes.

Ever hear of "prematurely white hair"? You can see plenty of it these days and that is on people who are still in their twenties.

Or, as some were speaking at the school board meeting, we are rushing our children into education too fast. What was expected of kindergartener today is the same as what was taught in the second or third grades 20 years ago.

Is it because we as parents are pushing the children and they are ready to read and write at an earlier age? Or is it because we know that the rest of the world won't wait and we have to push to keep up?

I thought we all moved up into this area so we could enjoy a slower pace than the city life. I thought the tourists always envied the locals because they think we live a slower life style. I think I thought wrong after this past summer.

Weeds among petunias?

Editor:

It has been brought to my attention that the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce refused to post a brochure for the East Jordan Portside Art Fair. Also, a lady at the Charlevoix Courier would not list it in the events notices saying that was only for Charlevoix, Petoskey and Harbor Springs. Could it be Charlevoix is growing a few weeds among all those Petunias? Could Charlevoix the Beautiful be developing a not so beautiful attitude?

One more thing. The lovely gem of a place called Elm Pointe Estate, should not be referred to as a park nine miles south of Charlevoix. It is an East Jordan City owned beach and picnic area that has been opened to the public and we in East Jordan are very proud of it. We invite one and all to come see for yourself.

Sincerely,
Gloria J. Hennings

The Boyne Falls Polish Festival had been running for four or five Augusts when I was tickled under the chin to do a column about the exciting activities over there. When someone from Boyne Falls asks me to do something, I usually ran and hide. But at that time, the request caught the good side of my attention. So I rushed to my typewriter, fingers at the ready.

For those who missed the column and have since been quite sick about it, the original is hereby re-run after being recycled, updated, closely edited, added to and subtracted from. I have squeezed out the home-spun twiddle-twaddle so it will make more sense in these modern times.

***

- Q. What did you do Saturday?
- A. I went to Boyne Falls to count the people.
- Q. What abnormal fancy drove you to do a thing like that?
- A. I needed to know how many came to the Polish Festival.
- Q. What was the sum total of your figuring?
- A. It was either 10,391, or 10,390.
- Q. Then you don't know exactly?
- A. No. I went into the polka tent and one man was jumping around so fast I couldn't count him.
- Q. Why didn't you grab him and hold him still until you could count him?
- A. Polacks resent being grabbed and held still during a festival.
- Q. Why didn't you round off the number and make a wild guess about how many were there?
- A. I tried rounding off a wild Polack years ago and I am still wearing a back brace and false teeth.
- Q. Anyone who tries to count heads at a Polish Festival is a fool. Why were you trying to fool with the nice people of Boyne Falls?

- A. I was representing the festival chairmen of Boyne City, East Jordan and Charlevoix. They had secretly commissioned me to determine if the Polish Festival drew more people than any one of their own summer festivals.
- Q. What are you going to tell them?
- A. I've got to report that my findings are incomplete because

- of that man who wouldn't stop jumping around so I could count him.
- Q. Do I detect an indication that you are stupid?
- A. Anyone who went to the Polish Festival and returned without a scratch isn't stupid. He is just short of genius.
- Q. Oh, so now you are a short genius with an incomplete number of wild Polacks who wouldn't

- stand still at the festival?
- A. Yes, you have summed up the total result of my final figuring.
- Q. Now, tell me the truth. Did you really enjoy the Polish Festival this year?
- A. Indeed I did. I was quite excited with the festival's main highlight. It came when that man in the polka tent swung a big fist at me and missed.

EGGS

Eggs are international; they have been with us since the dawn of time. Every country had its own historical cuisine using peacock, goose or guinea-hen as well as chicken eggs. Eggs and money have long been symbolic; as children we read the story of the "Goose That Laid the Golden Egg". The old-timers told the story that if you dreamed about eggs you would get money from an unexpected source. Our American pioneers moving west always had their chickens with them. Eggs are versatile, we quite often think of them as a breakfast food though we enjoy them from dawn-till-dark or even for mid-night snacks.

Many of us are limiting eggs in our diet so we really want to have them fixed a special and favorite way when we do indulge and there are so many ways to do it, with ideas from around the world.

Here is an old pioneer recipe; it is in many old cook books. Grandmother made them by putting hard boiled eggs in beet juice for flavor and color. With this recipe you will also eat the beets at the same time.

PICKLED EGGS AND BEETS

1 medium can diced or sliced beets
Liquid from the can with equal amounts of cider vinegar
About 4 tablespoons brown sugar
1/2 stick of cinnamon
2 whole cloves
4 or 5 hard cooked eggs
1/2 teaspoon salt

Drain the juice from the can and combine it with all the ingredients except the eggs and beets.

Bring to a boil and simmer about 10 minutes.

Pour into a wide mouth jar, add the eggs and beets. Refrigerate about 2 days. Serve on a bed of lettuce. Beautiful and good!

This next recipe is from England and is very similar to what they call cottage eggs in Scotland.

BUCHINGHAM EGGS

For 2 servings you will need:
2 teaspoons margarine
2 slices of toast
2 or 3 eggs

1/4 teaspoon Worcestershire Sauce
2 slices cheese

Scramble the eggs in the margarine, (slightly under done). Sprinkle with the Worcestershire sauce. Spread on toast and top with the cheese. Bake in a hot oven until cheese is melted.

Most of us have eaten egg drop soup in Chinese restaurants. This is the Italian version of it.

EGG AND CHEESE BROTH

2 cups beef bouillon
2 eggs
2 oz. Parmesan cheese, grated
Salt and Pepper to taste
Parsley and marjoram
Twist of lemon rind

In a saucepan bring bouillon to a boil. In a small mixing bowl beat egg with the cheese. Pour into bouillon, stirring vigorously with a fork until egg is set. Bring to boiling point; serve hot with garnishes of fresh parsley or marjoram and twists of lemon rind. Season to taste at the table for salt and pepper. You might not want either. Makes two servings.

For many years, I did not buy eggplant thinking that we did not like it well enough to prepare it. Now, I know what I missed; I have acquired a real taste for it. Your friends will enjoy this next recipe any hour of the day.

FRIED HAM AND EGGS WITH EGGPLANT

1 medium sized eggplant, peeled and sliced
Salt
6 tablespoons olive oil
8 slices ham, your favorite kind, the thin kind is O.K.
8 eggs
1 1/2 cups tomato sauce with garlic
Parsley for garnish

Sprinkle the eggplant slices with salt and let stand for 1 hour. Heat half of the oil in a skillet and saute the eggplant slices until tender. About 5 minutes on each side. Arrange on a heated platter. Keep warm.

In another skillet heat the remaining oil. Brown the ham and fry the eggs.

In a small saucepan heat the tomato sauce. Keep warm.

Arrange the ham and eggs on top of the eggplant. Cover with the tomato sauce and sprinkle with chopped parsley. Serves 6 to 8.

Jordan River Arts Council offers Family Music Night at Central Lake pavilion

Country music, swing and rock 'n roll will be featured from 7 to 8 p.m. Thursday, August 18, when the Mountaineers strike up their band in Central Lake's open air pavilion on the lake.

All ages are invited to join in the dancing, toe tapping, or just plain listening at this musical event offered to promote awareness of the new Jordan River Arts Council.

The evening's repertoire will include old Glen Miller favorite swing tunes such as "In the Mood" and "Chattanooga Shoe Shine Boy." In the old country category the Mountaineers will play "Your Cheatin' Heart" and "Big City." The musical variety will range from "Family Tradition" and "On the Other Hand" to "Old Time Rock 'n Roll."

The band's four members are Harlan Speers, lead guitar, and Steve Dawson, rhythm guitar, from Central Lake and Sandy Johnson, bass guitar, and Lee Clody, drums, from East Jordan. The group plays at the pavilion from 7:30 p.m. to 10 p.m. every Wednesday for "Belles and Beaus" dancing. All are donating their time for this special show to help the Arts Council's membership drive.

Memberships will be available at the pavilion before and after the entertainment.

Fees are $10 for seniors, $15 for individuals, $20 for families, $50 for friends, $100 for sponsors, $250 for patrons, and $500 for benefactors. Checks may be sent to the Jordan Rivers Arts Council, P.O. Box 1178, East Jordan, MI 49727.

In recognition of charter members who support the new organization by joining before the first annual meeting in September, a permanent plaque listing their names will be displayed in the Council's building. The Council will set up headquarters in the present Jordan Valley District Library building at 301 Main Street, East Jordan, after the library moves to a new building.

The Council sponsors programs encouraging cultural and artistic awareness within the Jordan River Valley and its environs, including southern Charlevoix County and all of Antrim County.

Their next program on Thursday, August 25, will feature Crazy Richard, the Madd Juggler, in Bellaire at a location to be announced.

FIELD TRIP TO WYOMING

Surveys show that most Americans want growth. Experience shows that they object to having it near them. Once more, in recent years they've been successful in stopping it, which is why more and more airline passengers are spending more and more time aboard planes going nowhere than on those making worthwhile progress toward their destination. But it can be hoped that in time, the economics of the situation, not only productive people but their goods and services sitting twiddling their thumbs in the vicinity of airports, will come home to even the most irate citizens and a compromise will be worked out on where growth can and must be put up with. But it will take a while and in the interim, something should be done for all those tense, waiting passengers.

A little background on the problem might help some. The increasing traffic at airports has mushroomed out of the lifting of Federal airline regulations in '78 and the lower fares and added number of flight deregulation inspired. Airports simply need more runways to handle all the additional planes the new flights entail.

But the mere mention of expanding existing airports or building new ones brings forth howls from the neighboring Nimbys, their name being an acronym for Not In My Backyard. These folks feel that they live with enough environmental problems as it is without being asked to take on more.

Since Nimbys' cries are heard and needed, runways aren't being built these days without a whole lot of discussion beforehand. In fact many things aren't being built or opened like garbage incinerators and nuclear power plants without Nimby concerns being addressed first.

But those seated, belted, anxious passengers probably don't find much comfort in all this. What they really need is a social director, one on each flight. Someone like Julie McCoy of the old "Love Boat" TV series would be ideal. But anyone cheerful and smiling would do. She or he could conduct games like a limited version of TV game shows, or bingo, or with a decent voice, the director could lead a sing-along.

For those flights not locked on the ground at the starting gate but circling their destination instead, a more exciting diversion could be arranged—a field trip. Depending on what part of the country they're circling in, the plane could go off to a less crowded airport for a bit while the traffic thinned at their destination point. The plane's already using gas just staying in a holding pattern. So it would take just a little more for some sight-seeing.

For planes considerably west of the Mississippi River, a port in Wyoming might be a change of pace. For those closer to it, a spot in the Dakotas or Nebraska or Kansas would probably welcome visitors. Iowa would be a fun place to visit too. For those further east, there's Arkansas, Mississippi or Alabama for a dash of Southern charm.

Airlines could consider this at least. They could advertise on the basis of their field trip destinations and call them "personal growth" experiences and real life geography lessons. Few would probably choose to take a look-see at Wyoming or Arkansas on their own hook. But the fact that it was a very short visit and at no extra cost, kind of gives them a touch of excitement.

Charlevoix Art Fair Sat., Aug. 13

Charlevoix's Waterfront Art Fair is celebrating its 30th Anniversary Saturday August 13th, with what organizers predict will be the finest of their annual art fairs to date.

The second oldest and, to many artists and collectors, the most prestigious in Michigan, Charlevoix's one-day art fair is a highly selective display of strictly juried fine art. Limited to 110 artists, juried from slides submitted by over 500 applicants, Charlevoix's art fair has developed a reputation in art circles which its governing committee has carefully cultivated.

For collectors and gallery buyers, Charlevoix sets the standard on which they base their major annual purchases. The competition, among artists, for acceptance to the Charlevoix Fair is stiff, because of its attraction to buyers.

For art lovers, Charlevoix's one-day fair is dazzling. Painters, jewelers, ceramacists, and sculptors arrange their displays in the downtown park which fronts on Round Lake yacht harbor. The wooded shores are the backdrop.

On art fair day Charlevoix is a festival of color. Gallery buyers and artists arrive early, buyers locating artists and works for consideration, even as the artists are setting up at 9:00 a.m.

A core group of nationally known artists are "invited" to display at the show each year. Visitors return year after year specifically to see their new works, such as the water colors of Dee Knott; the ceramics of German-born Hannelore Fasciszewski; the unusual watercolors of Lou Rizzolo; or the batiks of Terri Schneider Haugen. Painters and ceramacists, Russ and Susan Bolt, who have shown at Charlevoix for nearly two decades, have a perpetual crowd of collectors around their booth. Similarly Norman Brumm's enameled birds draw collectors.

The Charlevoix show is a mix of well-known artists and newer "discoveries."

With Dale Brummund, the new owner of the Boyne City Lanes looking on, Steve Sutfin and Don Richie fixed the foul line lights in preparation for the bowling season.

Brummund buys Boyne bowling center

"Machines are always a big worry with bowlers," said Dale Brummund, the new owner of Boyne City Lanes, "And we have gone through all of the bowling machines and finished the refurbishing of them. That was the number one priority and next, we'll start brightening up the bowling center."

Brummund took over the bowling center from Joe Deisler at the beginning of the month and he has been working hard getting everything ready for the fall startup of the leagues.

Since taking over, Brummund has attended a Brunswick Management School in Chicago, where he says he learned a lot more about the business than he thought.

He is a bowler, bowling on three leagues last year in both Boyne City and Petoskey, so he knows what he is talking about as far as what he would like to see in the bowling center.

He is also getting many ideas from other bowlers on improvements they would like to see the center make. "Some of them will require more money than we can expend, but each idea has merits and we listen to what people want," he added.

This first year he expects to be working hard, "There are lots of things I want to do, but each takes time and I haven't had time to figure out what ideas come in what priority other than the machines and the bowling."

Brummund has lived in Walloon Lake for the past three years since he retired from the air force as a Lt. Col. He was a pilot flying B-47 and B-52 bombers during his 25 years of active service. His last base was at Wurtsmith Air Force Base near Tawas City.

Brummund has been a bowler since 1955 and has been the clean-up man on the potent Sears team in the Wednesday Night Merchants League.

But now as a bowling center owner, Brummund says he will have to cut back on the bowling in leagues so he can serve them. He says an owner working on site is better than an absentee owner when it comes to finding out what is needed and wanted by the bowlers.

Brummund is also working on bringing the bowlers back and working on developing new bowlers. He would like to add additional leagues if enough bowlers can be encouraged to bowl.

He plans on developing new promotions and says he will be supporting the Northern Michigan Bowling Proprietor sponsored tournaments.

While Brummund is the new owner, other faces at the center will be well known to local bowlers. Steve Sutfin is returning as the Lane Supervisor and Ben Kelley will be the league coordinator. Don Richie recently joined the team and will work in the electronic maintenance areas.

As to future changes, Brummund says he is considering many other plans, like paying for bowling by the hour instead of by

The tyrant flycatcher can mete out punishment

BY REG SHARKEY

When they call the eastern kingbird tyrannical, pugnacious, and just plain overbearing towards others of their feathered kin, it fits the bird to a T.

I remember as a youngster on my grandparents farm seeing a kingbird for the first time.

The bird was perched on a tree snag overlooking a narrow sand road adjacent to a cow pasture.

At rest the 9-inch, black, gray and white avian wasn't impressive. But once it sallied forth in flight, snapping insects out of the air, I began to admire the rather drab bird.

However, my respect turned to admiration once I saw this avian in action against a crow violating the kingbirds airspace.

Like a fighter aircraft rising to intercept an invading bomber, the kingbird clawed for altitude. Rising above the lumbering crow, voicing its battle cry — a shrill twitter — it made an attack, diving down to deliver pecks on the crow's back. Side slipping and floundering about the crow attempted to evade the irrate kingbird. Avoiding the crow's thrashing wings the kingbird mounted another strafing run, this time landing on the crow's back to deliver a series of sharp pecks. Satisfied with the punishment meted, the kingbird gave the crow a verbal chastising, returning to its lookout post on quivering wings.

At rest the Eastern Kingbird seems docile, but turns into a feathered fury when other avians invade its territory.

Years later while living on Hill Street in Petoskey I had the privilege of observing a pair of kingbirds nesting atop an old apple tree overlooking a ravine.

Highly territorial the pair guarded their domain, tolerating no trespassing by other avians regardless of size.

However, shortly after the eggs hatched a pair of determined crows raided the nest and ate the nestlings, regardless of the repeated attacks by the frantic oldsters.

The courage of these pugnacious little avians is remarkable. Someplace I read that they have been known to attack low flying aircraft invading their domain.

Not only is their courage remarkable, but so is their ability to make migratory flights to wintering grounds on the west coast of South America, and then return to their former nesting sites the following spring.

And they do mankind a good turn, consuming many insects that pester him in many ways.

Long live the eastern kingbird.

Addendum: Received a call from a gentleman who has been live trapping coons raiding his sweet corn patch. He caught an opossum and wondered if this was unusual.

For years, northern climes were out of this rat-like creatures range. But no more. It gradually is invading the northland, acclimating itself to the frigid weather, sometimes losing a portion of ears and tail to zero temperatures.

A few years ago I photographed one in the wilds of the Pigeon River State Forest in late February. One tough critter.

He has 14 years of administrative experience and 20 years in the teaching field.

Prior to Bedford Schools, he worked as an administrative assistant and was a high school principal in the Pickney School District. He was also a high school principal with the Howell Public Schools.

Dr. Bob started off his career as a teacher of mathematics in the Detroit school system in 1968 and he also served as an assistant professor in the business department of Adrian College.

Nakoneczny was chosen from more than 80 applicants during the search for a new superintendent, and the school board reduced that down to nine which they interviewed. That was further reduced to three. A community search was made by board members as they went to the applicants' communities to interview people who knew the applicant.

The three were asked to come back for a second interview, although one of the three dropped out of the process. Nakoneczny stood over the rest as far as the board was concerned and they offered him the position.

At age 42, Nakoneczny has a doctorate in Educational Administration and a masters degree with a major in mathematics from Wayne State University. His undergraduate degree is from Michigan State University with a degree in business administration and accounting.

He has many business and community participations and says he will be getting involved in this community with the many functions that are available.

Dr. Bob said he is going to enjoy the challenges of the school system and is looking forward to coming to work.

He lists his strengths as having organizational ability, communications, logical, data oriented presentations and has demonstrated successes. He also says he is loyal, committed to goals, frank and open and is task oriented.

Nakoneczny currently lives in Brighton and will be moving to Boyne City as soon as he can find a home. He said he will be in town looking this weekend with his wife, Pat, and three children.

Nakoneczny is also involved with statewide civic activities, serving as chairman of Michigan's Civilian Review Board of the Selective Service System. He says that he enjoys tennis and cycling, trout fishing and woodworking. He has also worked in the construction industry as a member of the building trades and said he may want to build his own home.

School board members are elated to have a man of his caliber come aboard to guide the school system. Members of the board have been in constant meetings throughout the summer to find a replacement for Kelly.

When the voters turned down the additional millage request, the board had to stop busing.

Both board members and people in the audience expressed safety of the students coming and going to school and were concerned with that issue.

The school board approved plans covering the traffic flow that had been worked out with the Boyne City Police Department and the school staff.

While details are not yet confirmed, the school and the city will be working together to provide crossing guards at several intersections in town to help the children. Car traffic patterns will be planned for drop-off and pick-up of students at each school.

John Talboys, Boyne City Police Chief explained the changes in traffic flow to the board, saying that both the staff and the police department expect to have problems and will have to make corrections as they see what the problems are.

He suggested the school PTO may want to provide crossing guards along with the city.

The board took the suggestions under advisement as far as traffic patterns and protection of walkers are concerned, but it took no action as far as busing students for the first two weeks of school.

Some parents, after the meeting, said they may hold their students out of school until the election decides the busing issue.

the game. He said it has merits that have to be looked at as a value to the bowler.

But his main job, he says, will be to coordinate all of the bowling activities, helping to organize and assist the leagues.

Modernization is in the future, he says, and will come as the business and time dictate. He said refurbishing will be ongoing during the season.

The staff, in the meantime, has gone through every bowling machine and has brought them all "up to snuff" for the open bowling and league action that starts in September.

In other action, the board approved the raising of the cost of the hot lunch program in order to keep that part of the budget within a break-even situation. Costs for hot lunches will now be $1.00 for elementary students, middle and high school students will see a $1.25 cost while the few adults that eat the school lunches will have to pay $1.75.

Milk will cost 25 cents for both students and adults.

The board then let bids for the milk, bread, gas and trash removal. Winning the milk bid was Lansing Dairy, the bread bid she voted to approve the request. One of the arguments against approving the request was the cost.

"There are too many unknowns at this time," Talboys told the commissioners. "All we can do is the best we can." He was referring to possible changes as they are needed and the unpredictable nature of added transportation combined with the walkers.

In other action, the commissioners decide to add an additional 752 feet of eight inch water main on Second Street between Division and McKinley to add a loop to the current system lines. The cost, $22,966 will not be included in the infrastructure project funding as it is new construction. C.H. Smith Company will be doing the work under a work change order at a went to Schaffer Bakeries while the gas bid was won by Bay Oil. Diesel fuel was given to Howard Oil and the trash bid was won by Waste Management of Northern Michigan.

The board then approved the appointment of Eleanor West to be their representative to the Michigan Association of School Boards and agreed to let the Char-Em school district use one classroom at the high school for the Trainable Mentally Impaired Program.

They then approved coaches for the middle school, naming

Dave Bricker as the Athletic Director, and renaming all of last year's coaches for sports again this year.

The board was given an update on the work in progress, redoing the high school roof, and were told that the project was on target and would be completed by the start of school.

They were also told that repairs desired on the middle school will need to go out for bids as the preliminary estimates were more than the law allows to just let the jobs.

price that compares with the work they are presently doing in the area.

The commissioners then approved the purchase of a new stainless steel spreader/sander box for $8,895 from Hyde Equipment. The unit will replace the current unit which is three years old and has rusted considerably due to the salt that is part of the sanding process. Acting City Manager Tom Garlock told the commission the new sander would last two to three times as long as the present box and will hold more sand.

The city then confirmed the only bid for street paving from Hodgekiss and Douma in the amount of $72,120. Included in the bid will be the blacktopping of West Michigan Avenue from the Charlevoix County Press to Mechanic Street. The road will be wide enough to accommodate a bike path.

Franklin Street will be paved for one block between South Park and South Lake, the alley running east and west between North East Street and Jefferson Street is also slated to be blacktopped.

The remaining paving will be done around Veterans Park and the City Hall area.

Work is slated to be started within the next two or three weeks, according to the bid.

HAVING DELUSIONS, GEMINI?

ARIES (Mar 21-Apr 21) It is difficult to sort out all the ideas you have now. A romantic interest will cause a moral quandary, and, unfortunately, you are apt to opt for the convenient, not the ethical. A financial deal you have been counting on is going to be delayed, or maybe canceled.

TAURUS (Apr 22-May 22) Wishing is not going to get you what you want, it will take planning and hard work. You could do some foolish things with your investments if you don't heed advice. Organize a group for charitable or service activities. Excellent weekend for making business plans.

GEMINI (May 23-Jun 21) You are having delusions of grandeur concerning your career. Sit down and discuss children with the loved one. You will be making heavy plans (or schemes) for the weekend and you'll have the energy to carry them through. A strange situation will have to be dealt with.

CANCER (Jun 22-Jul 20) Your holiday is about over and it's time to get back to business. However that doesn't mean you can't enjoy your work. You could get a prestigious appointment to some organization and even though you won't be working for financial rewards, they could be a fringe benefit.

LEO (Jul 21-Aug 20) You are dreaming of a palatial home — one befitting the respect you (think you) are due. But are you prepared to make the sacrifices to get it? The romance you want is out of reach now. This will not be a fun weekend, everything that can go wrong, will.

VIRGO (Aug 21-Sep 22) Business matters may be at a standstill. Trying to keep up with the Jones' could put you in the poor house. You should forget a little of that precision and develop a little risk-taking. You are in for a big surprise and you're going to be delighted.

LIBRA (Sep 23-Oct 25) Get a complete physical and do what is necessary to get yourself in tiptop condition. It's time you became optimistic and started realizing your full potential. A Leo could introduce you to a new club. You need to make changes to accommodate someone less fortunate.

SCORPIO (Oct 26-Nov 23) You are aspiring to be top dog but you may be willing to trade fame and fortune for something more physical. (That is, as long as it doesn't affect your lifestyle.) You will demonstrate an unusual amount of emotion this weekend. Don't do it in public.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov 24-Dec 21) You have more energy than you've had in years. If it isn't utilized in productive pursuits it could get you in trouble — and you'll enjoy every minute. If you are an artist it's time to get your work ready for market. The new moon bodes good press, wide recognition, and fine money.

CAPRICORN (Dec 22-Jan 17) You are having bizarre ideas — personally and professionally. You could get involved in a big No-No if you aren't careful, but the excitement may be too much for you to decline. Don't displease your father or you could find yourself cut out of his will.

AQUARIUS (Jan 18-Feb 16) Your genius seems weak but it's just taking a rest. When it returns, you may realize a profit. Join an organization dedicated to humanistic endeavors. Your financial structure can be revolutionized and this will allow you to get involved in all those things you love.

PISCES (Feb 17-Mar 20) You will be a take-charge person the rest of the week. And it will get you an exciting opportunity but it may be more than you'd bargained for. Something at work is going to get your dander up. Get involved with a charity or service organization.

Area golfers of all skill levels have a chance for big prizes - including a new Oldsmobile Cutlass Supreme - and a steak dinner at the Charlevoix Area Hospital benefit Golf and Dinner on Sunday, August 14 at Antrim Dells Golf and Tennis Club in Atwood.

This is the third annual event with this year's proceeds to go toward the purchase

Barb and Ed Evanish, owners of the Antrim Dells Club, are hosting the benefit for the hospital.

The Oldsmobile Cutlass, donated by Kusina Motors in Charlevoix, will be given away to the first person with a hole-in-one on the 13th hole. Other prizes include a $200 cash award to the first place team, and prizes for closest-to-the-pin and longest drives. The format of the tournament is a four-person scramble scored on the Peoria System which gives

David Lee Roth at Castle this Saturday

David Lee Roth is appearing at the Castle, Saturday, August 13, 1988 with special guests Poison kicking things off at 8 p.m.

Roth, a freewheeling, wise-cracking and always entertaining is joined by Steve Vai, one of the hottest guitarists today, Matt Bissonette on bass with his own brand of fretwork, and powerhouse Greg Bissonette on drums. Roth trumpets in the third wave of the Diamond Dave craze with the release of "Skyscraper". It is the result of eight and a half months in the studio and is especially warranting of attention due to the fact that it is Roth's first endeavor as Producer. The first video, "Just Like Paradise" contains breathtaking footage of Roth rock-climbing on a 3000-foot vertical wall of granite. No surprise from an artist well-known for his spectacular and extravagant stage shows. Currently celebrating his tenth anniversary in the music business, David Lee Roth has performed live to over fifteen million people worldwide.

This World Tour, spanning most of 1988, includes the U.S., Europe, Japan and Australia. This performance will include over two hours of music from "Skyscraper", which has already exceeded Platinum status in the U.S., as well as a colorful selection of his past hits. Ticket holders will be witness to Mr. Roth riding over the heads of his audience on a 28 foot flying surfboard and making a special appearance in the center of the venue after descending from the ceiling in a regulation-size, red, white and blue boxing ring.

When David Lee Roth did his 1986-87 Eat 'Em and Smile concert toure, he sold out sixty performances in forty major U.S. cities. It will most likely be the case once again. Why? Simply put, David Lee Roth musical madness is bigger and better fans had better stay back and, of course, than ever. tuned - the master of

Walloon's West Arm Sailing Club race results

The West Arm Sailing Club on Walloon Lake completed its 13th year on July 30th. The weather was beautiful and the wind was perhaps the best of the season. Ten sailboats entered the race. The overall finish showed Ray Bunse in an E SCOW first, George Hartman in another E SCOW second, Brad Owen (Hobie 16) third, Don Owen (Buccaneer) fourth, Bill Fairhurst (Ensign) fifth, Ray Johnson (O'Day 19) sixth, John Balbach (Sunfish) seventh, Barb Moyers (Sunfish) eighth. Nancy Shepard in her Highlander capsized on the downwind leg and John Andrews, who was leading at the time, in a Hobie 16 withdrew due to a cracked hull.

The corrected finishes (using the Portsmouth Yardstick) were as follows: Bill Fairhurst (Ensign) first, Ray Bunse (E SCOW) second, John Bulbach (Sunfish) third, Don Owen (Buccaneer) fourth, George Hartman (E SCOW) fifth, and Ray Johnson (O'Day 19) sixth.
