$700,000 bond issue for Boyne Falls approved

The building program is on at Boyne Falls School, after residents within the school district approved a $700,000 bond issue which will allow the system to build four new classrooms and remodel the current school gym.

The issue was approved by voters by a 183 to 148 count of the votes in the special election held Monday. The voting was considered heavy for the school district as 341 votes were cast out of about 800 registered voters within the district. Nine votes were blank, with one vote considered an overcount.

Superintendent Chuck Smith was extremely pleased with the way the vote came out. "The committee has been working hard on this project for about a year, looking at the crowded conditions and trying to figure out the future of the school," he said, "This is now possible."

The school, which was constructed in two parts, was first built in the 40s with what is now the elementary side of the building constructed in the 60s. Smith said the construction of the eighties will continue a strong building program for the district and will meet the needs of the kids.

The next step in the building process will be to hold a special board meeting to issue the bonds, start the architectural firm into deciding the final specifications and finally letting the bids to build the additional classrooms.

Smith said the work may be able to start yet this fall on the classrooms and could be completed by next spring. The classrooms will be constructed on the north end of the elementary side of the school.

The remodeling of the gym would probably come during the summer break, when the construction could be done without disruption of the classes.

The plans also call for additional storage rooms, bathrooms, a new boiler room, and a teachers' lounge.

The gym will be expanded so that it will be a full size gym. Principal Mike Wallace said he is looking forward to the new gym and the classrooms, as they will help relieve overcrowding for several years.

The school system has been experiencing steady growth during the eighties, and additional growth is coming for at least the next four years, according to plans that have been presented to the community over the past few months.

By 1991 the school expects to have a student population of over 350, with most of the new students coming into the lower grades. Presently, the school has 145 students in kindergarten through the fourth grades, while there are 71 students in the high school.

The payback of the bonds will be only ten years, as the school board wants to hold down the interest costs. Those rates are figured with an interest cost of about 7.5 percent rate on the bonds when they are issued.

School Board President Bill Cousineau was also elated at hearing the news of the bond issue being approved. He said he felt proud of the community for supporting the school system.

The plans have been on display at various locations throughout the district giving residents a chance to see what would be constructed and where.

EJ residents asked to help select super

Residents of the East Jordan School District are encouraged to participate in the selection of a new superintendent for the district.

The board of education recently approved a procedure to be followed, which includes a specific time table for the recruiting and interviewing recommended by Dr. Carl W. Brautigam of the Michigan Association of School Boards. Dr. Brautigam is serving as a consultant to the board in its search for a superintendent.

Dr. Brautigam will be available to hear residents' opinions about the type of person they would like to see head the school district. Citizens are welcome to talk to Dr. Brautigam on September 26-27, 1988.

Grant approved for EJ waste treatment facility from EPA

It's the culmination of a dream, and could be just the thing needed by the City of East Jordan to start new developments like other cities in the north.

The dream, an approval of a $1 million dollar plus grant to the city for the enlargement of the present waste-water treatment facility, is now a reality and the city was recently notified it had won the grant from the Environmental Protection Agency.

The city will now move forward with plans to enlarge the lagoon based system by deepening the existing ponds and lining them so the effluent will no longer leak into the ground water table. The lagoons are located near the city owned airport in South Arm Township.

The total cost of the project is estimated to be in the area of $1,654,800 with the city borrowing $540,000 from the Michigan Bonding Authority on a 15 year payback. The additional $110,000 will be paid from local monies.

Presently, the lagoon based system is designed to handle only 200,000 gallons of waste water a day. When the project is completed, the system will be capable of handling more than 377,000 gallons per day.

The city submitted the application for a grant last April and was notified by the EPA it had won the grant September 6.

The city has not been able to allow additional projects because of the carrying capacity of the lagoon system. With the enlargement, and when it is completed, several projects that have been slated to begin will probably get the okay by the city.

One of the projects that has been on hold is a new multifamily housing project that would add 40 additional housing units to the city including 16 senior citizen apartments and 24 residential units.

There are presently about 600 homes tied to the sanitary sewer system in the community. Homeowners can expect to see water and sewer rates raise slightly in upcoming utility bills to help pay off the loans.

Boyne cuts liquor in park

It is now against the law to consume alcoholic beverages in the Old City Park, due to action at the Tuesday noon meeting of the Boyne City Commission. The commissioners approved the ordinance after the second reading and made it effective immediately.

In making the motion to approve the ordinance, Commissioner Sandra Stanley said that she has heard nothing but positive comments concerning the action. Other commissioners said they had heard similar reports from members of clubs and societies within the city.

The commissioners then approved bids for repairing about half of the roof of the City Hall building, the repairing and replacing of doors for the street garage, and agreed to replace two additional doors in the old fire barn.

Winning the bid for the roof repair was the Hawkins Brothers firm, with a low bid of $15,420. They will be recovering the roof with a 60 mill thick membrane which will be fastened down to the present roof.

Seals and Roberts won the bids for the door replacements and repairs for both the street garage and the fire barn.

The street garage bid includes

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department in conjunction with the Charlevoix County Prosecutor has available six trained Victim-Witness Advocates as a resource for Charlevoix County citizens. "Crime victims have long been overlooked by the criminal justice system and this is one step towards rectifying that situation," Sheriff Lasater said in making the announcement.

The Victim-Witness advocates' role is to assist people in their understanding of the criminal justice system; to help identify other resources available to crime victims and/or witnesses; and to provide emotional support; for example accompanying a witness to court. Anyone interested in talking to an advocate should contact either the Sheriff's Department or the Prosecutor's office at 547-4461 or 547-7207, respectively.

Trying to beat the winter deadline

Workers from the C.H. Smith Company are close behind the bulldozers, spreading the gravel, working hard to keep a deadline, as they add road are the workers of H&D, who are paving a section of Park Street. The street has been blocked of Park with the first coat of asphalt. The city hopes the longest of all of the infrastructure work done so the work is completed by the middle of October or far, as the city has had to replace sewer, water and long before the normal winter shutdown for construction.

The Monday Study Club had its opening meeting for the new season with a dinner at the Depot on the evening of September 19, with 30 members and guests in attendance. After a short meeting, the group visited the Antique Shop of Virginia Bouska in East Jordan. Mrs. Bouska gave an interesting lecture on the history of glass making, the many different types and designs that were used in the 1800s, and how to identify the many different kinds. She showed samples of cut glass, pressed, vaseline glass, custard, frosted, sandwich, cobalt, and luster, to name a few. The group greatly enjoyed her dissertation and the viewing of her selective collection of antiques.

Dorothy Etzler of Lakeland Florida, has been here for a couple of weeks visiting her brother Frank and Skip Crompt. While here Dorothy and Frank's cousin, Eleanor Osgood of Benton, Washington made a visit, which was a special event, as Dorothy and Eleanor hadn't seen one another in 47 years! The Crompt and cousins recently returned from a trip to Chicago, where they visited another cousin, Grace Seeley and daughter Patti.

I had a note in my mailbox this past week from one of Boyne's favorite people, who is now a resident of Grandvue, letting me know that a favorite of Grandvue, Helen Deming, says "13" is her lucky number! It began with her being born on the 13th, then her son was born on the 13th, and now a granddaughter to share in a "13th" birthday!

On Saturday night, about 25 friends and relatives honored Judy Rebec with a bridal shower at the home of Patti Smith. Weekend guests of Marion Gartleman and her husband Bud, who is in Grandvue, were their daughter Mary and Jack Marceau and their daughter, Jackie Meeker and her daughter Maribeth, all of Romeo, and Helen Brady of Allen Park.

Geraldine Thompson of Sebewing is here, caring for her sister-in-law, Wanda Thompson, who was readmitted to Northern Michigan Hospitals as a medical patient on Thursday.

A welcome home goes out to my step brother, Richard T. (Dickie) May and family who arrived here on Sunday night from Sebewing, Florida, planning on making their home in this area. (Sorry, brother...I couldn't resist the "Dickie"!)

Matthew Alan Spaniak, son of Lance and Shawn, was among those children partaking of the christening service this past Sunday morning at the Presbyterian Church. The family, Lance, Shawn, and Matthew, grandparents, Bob and Nancy Hammontree and Victor and Linda Spaniak, and great grandmother Katherine Spaniak, all enjoyed dinner at the Country Star following the service. The Positive Side

"Planned teamwork and shared glory, will help insure success in reaching your goals."

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

Looks like I will have to drive my car a little while longer, according to the information I just received from triple A folks.

Every year it seems like the cost of driving a car goes up. This year it is 2.3 cents per mile more than last year, according to their figures.

Of course, their costs are based on driving a nice new shiny 1988 six cylinder Chevrolet Celebrity 4 door with lots of options and computed out so that the car is driven about 15,000 miles a year for four years.

I wonder what it would be if they had used my almost five year old car that is driven about 25,000 miles a year with a lot of prayers that it doesn't break down somewhere between planned stops.

The cost of operating a new car is figured at an average of 28 cents per mile. I figure mine at slightly less, because, although the car is cheaper than a new car, and the mileage is more, I do a lot of stop and go driving around town. Very seldom do I get to do any expressway driving, which is where the lowest cost per mile figures can be obtained.

And I figure that since I can't remember all the time to change the oil, do all the maintenance required to keep a normal car normal, I just have to be spending less money than the averages AAA came up with when they figured this thing out.

They did say that the cost of driving is up greatly from the beginning of the decade. It has risen 7.2 cents per mile over the 1980 figures.

And if the increased mileage you get from a new car is figured in, an old car like mine which doesn't get as good mileage, ought to be higher.

Confusing, isn't it?

The only thing you can figure is that the longer you can keep a car, the cheaper it will be to run on a per mile basis.

I figure that if I can get my present car to last another hundred years, I could get that cost per mile figure down to a couple of cents.

I only have a few more miles before the odometer hits that magic figure and turns over to zero again.

Then the cost per mile figure should really drop.

Unless the license fees continue to go up, the cost of gas rises, and my insurance rates are increased because of an accident.

Or the repairs just to keep the thing running become so great I do what most folks do, and go out and buy a new one.

I always wanted to get a really neat sports car...one that I couldn't afford to run, but one that would make me feel like I was half my age.

Has their mailbox saved lives?

Editor: Due to our experience with mail boxes on M-66, it makes me wonder how many lives we have saved.

One New Year's Eve, years ago, our mail box was mangled. We put it up on the other side of the road and next New Year's Eve it was also knocked off and as before, we had to bump it out and repair.

A few weeks ago it was broken off at the ground level and the driver was able to partly wake up or sober up three feet short of the guard rail. So I called the sheriff, and no report was filed. I wanted his insurance company to assess them $150 for our trouble. In fact, our local mail carrier helped me put up a new post.

Then, last, but not least, I noted the box open so I went down and found the box had been hit. I was able to bump it out again. So I would like to know how many lives we altered or saved.

Curt and Fern Roberts

P.S. I see the Letter Box has come alive again. Let's keep it that way.

Marshall Sayles

The voting is over, but the dispute lingers.

Those wanting their children bused to Boyne City's schools are not dancing in the streets.

Those who wanted to show the school board what the bear did with the buckwheat, aren't dancing, either. Many are frustrated without knowing what steps to take next.

Yes, there were three sides to the school election. One faction wanted to teach the board a lesson; the other side wanted all offspring bused no matter how the board "tricked us in the last election."

Tricked is not my word. It's a word that's been flung hither and thither since the last school election. I have no control over the flap about town. If I had control over what people say, school boards all over the state would come a running to advise me and I would become a legend in my own time. What a nice thing that would be before my summons comes to drag me off. I sometimes think everyone would like to be well known before they are not known at all.

I mentioned at the high part of this column that there were three sides to the current spouting. And there are. The third and most important is that of the students. Their education seems to be a mere spin-off from this district-wide squabble.

Now, the reader is saying, "You are so smart, how did you vote?"

It's a good question and I must face it.

First, I'm not so smart. If I were, I would have mowed the lawn instead of sticking my head into a bucket of public tongue wagging.

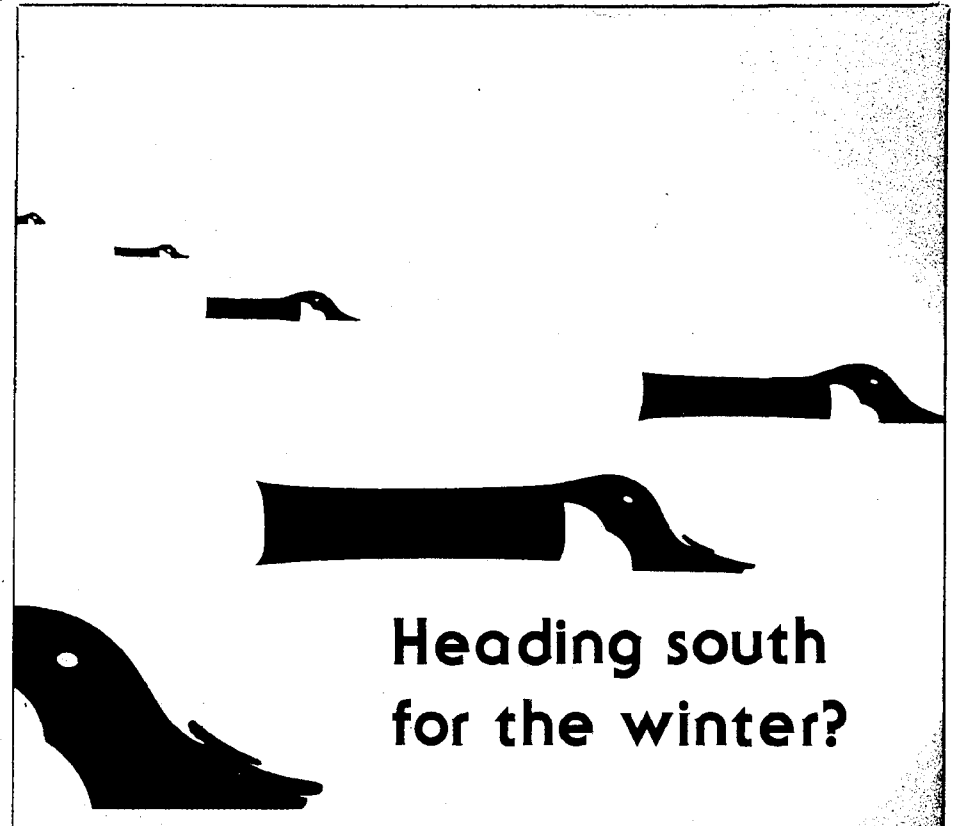

Second, I should not have told the election worker that I wanted to vote "maybe" instead of "yes" or "no".

The word "maybe" came me when I looked at my property tax return. Eighty percent of my money went to the school. Even if they had squeezed all of it out of me, I am beginning to wonder if the kids would have been bused.

I say this because some of our deep thinkers would have me believe that more money may not necessarily be the only solution to softening the voters' tempers.

Now, if you want the absolute truth, I voted "yes". Then I hurried to the nearest bar and bought instant coffee.

Heading south for the winter?

Don't forget to give us a call so your paper will follow you there.

MELONS

Watermelon time meant "cooning" time for the older boys in most farm neighborhoods some years ago. They went out after dark to steal a watermelon or two. They did not consider it stealing; they bragged about "going cooning" to the younger children. It was the only thing that we heard of being stolen in our innocent time. Sweet juicy watermelon was a great temptation.

Both watermelons and muskmelons have been cultivated for many centuries. It is possible that they were not all perfect specimens. A Spanish writer of 1513 recognized the extremes of quality in the muskmelon and said, "If it is bad it is a bad thing, we are wont to say that the good are like good women, and the bad like bad women." I am happy to say that the melons sold at our supermarkets can be counted upon to be good. I have recently enjoyed the honey dews, which are really muskmelons. My old National Geographic states that all cantaloupes are muskmelons, but not all muskmelons are cantaloupes. Confusing? Melons are very ancient; native to Iran (Persia) and near by countries. Cantaloupes are the most popular melon in America. One of the earliest records of the muskmelon goes back to Egypt when they were shown in illustration of funeral offerings in the period around 2400 B.C.

We have to thank Christopher Columbus for bringing many seeds, plants and even pigs to the New World. He brought melon seeds on his second voyage and planted them on Isabela Island in 1494.

Watermelons are so ancient that the culture goes back to prehistoric times. They have been discovered growing wild in Central Africa where it is believed they originated from. David Livingston found large tracts literally covered with watermelons. Even today in semi-desert districts they are grown for an important source of water during dry spells. The watermelon culture has spread around the world; they make beer from them in Russia, Americans made watermelon wine and the Chinese preserve them in brine.

The melons are at their very best now so let's serve them often, the most natural and delicious desserts. They truly contribute to the joy of eating!

I do not need to tell you to serve it at your next cookout. Melons of every kind are perfect for picnics; they come in their own containers and you do not need to carry anything home. If you are serving luncheon to the girls, they will welcome melon with assorted cheeses and crackers; the honey dews are special here. Now, for an extra special dessert you can serve this

1 pkg. strawberry flavored gelatine (3 oz.)
1 cup hot water
1 pkg. (10 oz.) frozen melon balls or 1 1/2 to 2 cups fresh melon balls
1/2 cup apricot liquid
1 (9 oz.) can apricots, drained, sliced
1 cup fresh red or green grapes
Dissolve gelatine in hot water. If using the frozen melon balls, break fruit apart with a fork and add to the hot gelatine, then the apricot juice and chill for about 10 minutes.

Add the melon balls, if using fresh, apricots and grapes. Pour into individual molds or in a square pan. Cut in squares or unmold onto salad greens. Very pretty and tasty.

There is something magnificent about melon desserts. Add melon balls or cubes to any fruit and pour this sauce over all.

FRESH FRUIT TOPPING
1/2 cup pineapple juice
1/4 cup lemon juice
2 eggs, well beaten
3/4 cup sugar
3/4 pt. heavy whipping cream

In a double boiler, mix juices together; add well beaten eggs and sugar and cook until thickened.

Cool and chill in refrigerator. Whip cream, add to the cooled mixture and pour over any fresh fruit or melons.

SHERRY MAYONNAISE

1 cup mayonnaise
1/4 cup pale dry sherry
1 cup whipped cream

Mix all ingredients together. Use on fruit salads, especially for desserts.

Michigan Educational Assessment Program testing now in Boyne City schools

Fall in Michigan means not only cool nights and bright colors, but also the testing of fourth, seventh, and tenth graders on the Michigan Educational Assessment Program. The MEAP results provide both the state and local districts with valuable information on the status of basic skills education in schools.

MEAP Coordinator, Barbara Martin, announces the Boyne City Schools' fourth, seventh, and tenth grade students will be tested the last two weeks in September for knowledge and understanding in the basic skill areas of reading, mathematics and science. Students are given as much time as needed to complete each section so they have a maximum opportunity to show what they know.

Although Boyne City Schools' MEAP scores are traditionally much higher than state averages, the results will be utilized by the district to identify student skill needs, to conduct curriculum and instructional program review to determine effective strategies to use in teaching the skills, and to involve parents in the educational process.

Parents will receive a copy of their student's test results at or prior to fall parent-teacher conferences, and are encouraged to discuss these results with instructional staff.

Several tips for parents to help your student score as well as possible on testing include:

- Try not to be overly anxious about test scores. Too much emphasis on test scores can be upsetting.

• Give your student encouragement. Praise him/her for the things (s)he does well. A student who feels good about him/herself will do his/her best. A student who is afraid of failing is more likely to make a mistake.

• Meet with your student's teachers as often as possible to discuss your student's progress. Parents and teachers should work together to benefit the student.

• Make sure your student attends school regularly. The more often your student is in a learning situation, the more likely (s)he will do well on tests.

Ware-withal

"I'm definitely an over-achiever. This wasn't luck." Clearly not one given to modesty nor even the pretense of it, 22-year-old Gretchen Elizabeth Carlson spoke these words to a reporter on September 10, 1988, minutes after being crowned Miss America 1989. The Miss America pageant was televised as always, but little news coverage was given to the event or the winner. Either reporters didn't consider such matters as noteworthy as other affairs of the day or they skipped on the story to avoid criticism from the women who for several years have called beauty contests and the coverage of same degrading to women. Whatever, newsmen have paid little attention to an admirable lady.

Gretchen knows what she wants and works for it. She has an active mind, a distinguished talent and startling candor.

She came from Anoka, Minnesota. This is also the home town of Garrison Keillor, author and former host of the endearing radio program, "A Prairie Home Companion". He's made himself and Anoka famous with his fictionalized accounts of its people and places in his Lake Wobegon stories. Having two people rise to fame from this small town makes one wonder if its extremes of heat and cold set a body up for achievement.

Carlson's a classical violinist and a fine one according to contest judges. A 17-year student of the instrument, Gretchen agrees to perform parts of her contest performance "exquisite".

Miss America's a senior at Stanford University, close to a degree in organizational behavior. She hopes to go on to Harvard Law School and then "become a successful corporate executive". The $30,000 scholarship and chance for about $100,000 in appearance fees that go with her title will cover her schooling costs. As for career goals, she can doubtless manage those on her own although contacts she makes this year should give her a boost once she finishes her education.

How come the lady entered the Miss America competition? She says that she wanted an outlet for violin performance. Certainly this will provide her with plenty of audiences.

Gretchen hasn't gone in for beauty contests except for the Miss Teenage America contest a few years back. From then to her involvement with the '89 Miss America contest, she concentrated on her academics and violin. This is unusual for a Miss America as most spend years on contests first.

Unusual or not, what she'll speak about during her reign is how she got where she is. She wants to change the image of Miss America, a title looked down on as one for pretty girls with little else to offer. She'll tell people that this title's not about beauty, but about accomplishment.

Although intent on her goals, the lady's not humorless. A few hours after her crowning, she did the traditional frolicking at the Atlantic City shore while reporters looked on and urged her to jump higher. She said of this: "I think I was the first Miss America who didn't have jumping capabilities."

Jumping's doubtless one of the few things she's not developed, that and credibility, at least when it comes to preaching her concept of what Miss America's about. That she's an over-achiever is not hard to believe and that this rather than luck played a big part in her winning the Miss America title. Still, she'll have trouble selling the message that she won the title on talent and scholarship and her appearance had little to do with it, because whether she acknowledges it or not, Gretchen is beautiful, which neither the judges nor her audiences could possibly miss. But then, nobody's perfect.

Dan Pepin bursts through the line for a short gain during the game East Jordan played with Bellaire last Friday night. The gain was not enough for a touchdown though, and the Red Devils went on to lose. According to Coach Ted Jeffreys, the defense worked great while the offense had a little trouble getting going.

Devils lose to Bellaire even with good defensive effort

BY NIKKI BURR

The East Jordan Red Devils again performed well defensively Friday night, but couldn't come up with the offensive drive to take their first victory from the Bellaire Eagles. The final score was 29-14 in favor of the Eagles. East Jordan was handed their fourth consecutive loss.

East Jordan failed to score until the third quarter, when Jeff Burks recovered a fumble at the Bellaire 6 yard-line. From there, Dan Pepin passed to Matt Bishop to shorten the lead to 16-6.

Bellaire scored again in the third quarter, but that didn't stop the "never say die" Devils who took advantage of an open field, when Bishop ran 83 yards to score the second touchdown. Bill Gotts then came in for Pepin to quarterback and went to Don Cutler for the extra two points. Bellaire cinched the game when they scored with just under two and a half minutes left.

Leading the team defensively were Jeff Olstrom and Pepin, both of which had 14 and 12 tackles respectively.

Offensively, Pepin completed 7 of 25 passes and Bishop had an interception.

The Devils are hungry for a win and are looking to get it at Pellston, on Friday, Sept. 30.

BC girls take Falls, lose Detour

BY SCOTT KNIPE

Boyne City's Varsity girls' basketball squad hasn't had very many breaks go their way this season, but solid performance from the whole team resulted in a win over Boyne Falls. They were then plunged into enemy territory Thursday night and suffered a bad defeat to Detour.

Boyne's defense really shined against Boyne Falls as they held the neighboring rivals to only 7 field goals in the whole game and won 62-24. High scorer was Mindy Stadt with 16 points, followed by sophomore Kristen Harvey with 13, and Tysh Crozier with 12. The second sophomore on the team, Dawn Archambault, hit for 8 points. Amy Weeks scored 5, and Stacey McGeorge and Nancy McCullough scored 4 each.

The Ramblers were routed in Detour though, 75-36. Not one Rambler player hit double figures, but Crozier and Stadt did manage to net 9 each. Kristen Harvey followed that with 8 points. McCullough had 4, Weeks 3, McGeorge 2, and Archambault

1. The Ramblers hope to get back on track as they play

Charlevoix this week, a team that narrowly beat them in their previous confrontation.

Boyne drops to 0-4 as team improves

Coach Shorty Smith tried something different during the week of practice leading up to the game held last Saturday afternoon with Battle Creek Pennfield, but it still wasn't enough to bring home the team's first win of the season.

Smith went easy on the players during the week, hoping it would help them save their energy for the game. But after it was over, Pennfield took home the win by a score of 29 to 6. Boyne is now winless in four tries so far this season.

But the game was not without some bright spots. Boyne players possibly had their best game so far with the defensive unit providing most of the brilliance.

From the opening kick-off, Boyne started using a no-huddle approach and moved the ball downfield, piling up a couple of first downs using short passes. But Pennfield tightened up and Boyne had to kick the ball away.

On the first series, Pennfield ran the ball through the line for a touchdown, but it was called back because of a pushing penalty.

That woke the Boyne team up defensively and they started to play tough, stopping Pennfield several times at the line and in the backfield. After several plays and both teams trading the ball, Pennfield blocked a kick and went on to score the first TD of the game on a one yard run. They then ran in the point after making the score 8-0.

But Boyne came right back, moving the ball 41 yards on a Jim Bush to Shawn Vondra pass that almost went for a TD. The ball was placed on the four yard line where Jason Hunt ran off tackle for the Boyne touchdown. Boyne also tried for two points, but that effort was contained by the Battle Creek team.

Four seconds from the end of the first half, Pennfield collected a 12 yard pass and went into the endzone. They kicked the extra point and went to the dressing rooms for the half, with the score 14-6 in their favor.

After the break, both teams failed to move the ball enough for a score in the third quarter with Boyne recovering a fumble to stop one of the drives on the Boyne 23.

Boyne then tried to pass, but lost ten yards on the play. It was quickly made up on the next play as they picked up the ten and then some, but had to kick the ball away. The Boyne defense worked well to hold the Penn crew, and did not allow them to sustain a drive.

During the fourth quarter, Pennfield drove down to the Boyne side of the field and ended with a 35 yard run for the third TD, making the score 21 to 6.

In the closing moments of the game, Pennfield again scored on a pass to end the game.

Smith said it was one of the best games the Boyne players had, with Steve Baird and Jim Baker each having 10 solo tackles. Baird also recovered a fumble.

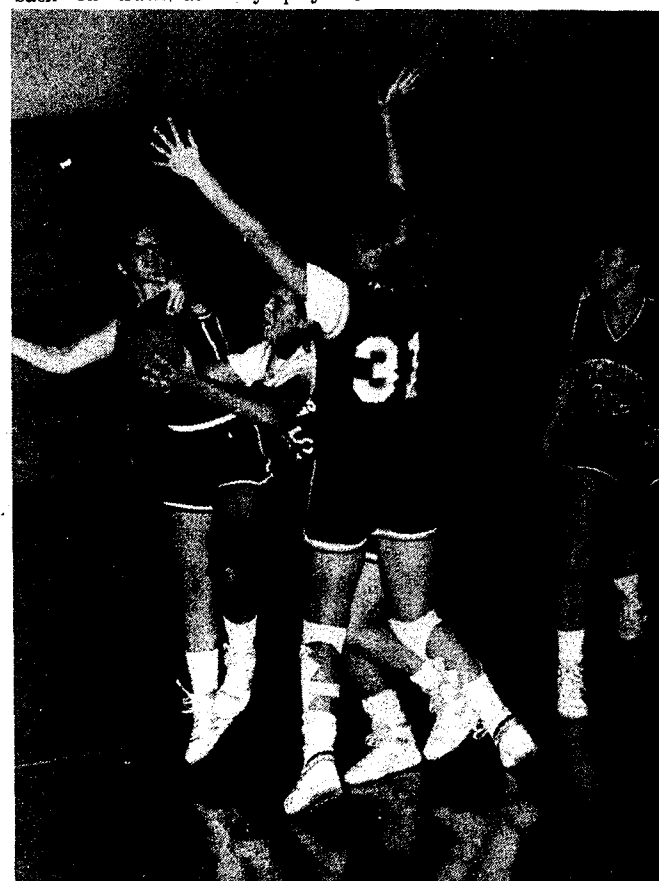

Jeremy Babcock rushed for 32 yards while Hunt picked up 27. Bo Williamson picked up three of six passes for 67 yards.

Boyne also lost the junior varsity contest which proceeded the game. This weekend, Boyne faces Olivet for a game which will start at 3 p.m. Saturday.

Going for a big gain on this play, was Jeremy Babcock of Boyne City, as he broke tackles and carried opposing players trying to stop the attack. Boyne lost in what the coach said was the best effort so far this season. The team is getting ready to play another Saturday game against Olivet, with game time starting at 3 p.m.

Amy Weeks, of Boyne City, gets a hand on the ball during the game with Boyne Falls last week. Boyne City won the game, outmatching the players from the Falls. The two girls from Boyne Falls are not identified as they may have been recent move-ups to the varsity level of play from the jayvee team, and their numbers were not identified in the program.

Boyne jayvee girls still undefeated in play

BY SCOTT KNIPE

Boyne City's Junior Varsity basketball squad has had little trouble maintaining a good record this season. Their only real close game came against Cheboygan earlier in the season. Boyne Falls posed no challenge as the Ramblers opened up with an 11-4 lead, and led 27-11 at the half. Boyne Falls scored seven points in the third compared to the Ramblers' 13, and then were subjected to the Rambler final quarter, a humiliating experience for just about any team Boyne played this year. They won the game by more than doubling Boyne Falls score, 56-23.

Crissy Gervasi led all scorers and defenders with 21 points and 13 rebounds. Kris Crozier added 11 points and 8 rebounds, and April Silbar contributed 9 points and 11 rebounds. Other contributors were Kim Stadt with 8 points, 2 rebounds, and 4 steals; Aulani Kuheana with 5 points and 10 rebounds; and Christina May with 1 point and 10 rebounds.

Thursday night, Detour provided a little more competition, but Boyne got solid support from the likes of Gervasi and Crozier to go on and win the game, 48-29. Gervasi was again high scorer, again with 21 points along with 8 rebounds. Crozier aided with 12 points and 13 rebounds, to give herself top defensive honors. Kuheana had 6 points, and May and Stadt each scored 4 points.

EJ girls suffer 1st loss

BY NIKKI BURR

On Tuesday night, East Jordan's girls' basketball team suffered their first loss to a strong Indian River Bulldogs team 52-46.

Leading scorers for East Jordan were senior Jill Burt leading the team like she's done so often with 23 points. Dia Jones added six and, Sara Chase, Christie Barber, and Buffy Kooyer, each contributed four. Defensively, Burt brought down 6 rebounds and Kooyer grabbed 5.

The girls then hosted Bellaire to regain their tie for the Conference, by defeating the Eagles 53-49.

Again, Burt lead the scoring with 25 points, Chase came on strong to add 14. Barber gave them 6 and Dawn Noiroth handed the Devils 4. Defensively, Kooyer crashed the boards bringing down 8 rebounds while Burt grabbed 7.

Sharkey says pigs faster than you'd expect

Grandvue plans fall games and bake sale

BY REG SHARKEY

Recently I attended the Emmet County Fair, and I witnessed an unusual event: pig racing.

And I came to the conclusion that from the wild "Rooshian" boars I hunted while in Iran after World War II, to those little 50-pound porkers streaking around the sawdust oval, there was a vast difference in looks but not in intelligence. One thing both members of the family Suidae have is brain power. Don't let anyone tell you hogs are dumb.

Those grizzly, massive-shouldered, scimitar-tusked boars of the wadies of Iran showed intelligence and stamina when being pursued; and like the pretty little porkers at the Fair they could pick 'em up and lay 'em down, mile after mile. And when finally brought to bay their charges were swift and agile, requiring fast, accurate shooting to put them down.

Now those little shoafs at the fair weren't ferocious and bore no resemblance to the cantankerous Rooshians. They were slick and clean as a whistle.

There were different breeds: pure white Polands, spotted Polish, hairless Spanish and the little pot-bellied Vietnamese pigs.

But every domesticated hog springs from swine domesticated in China since 2900 B.C.

So you can see hogs as we know them today have been around a long time.

There are a lot of misconceptions about pigs; that they're filthy, wallowing in their own excrement. Tain't so. If you give them the opportunity they'll use isolated areas to defecate. They can even be housebroken, without too much trouble.

Given a chance they show their intelligence, able to solve problems, making excellent pets. However, as they continue to grow, becoming massive if allowed to live, who would want a 4 to 5 hundred pound hog ambling through the living room?

An Iranian wild boar, four hundred pounds of producing pigs. meaness, is a far cry from domesticated bacon-

Now, through selective breeding, they are reducing the mature stature of adult pigs to miniature size.

In fact, I've seen an add in the October issue of Country Journal, advertising miniature Vietnamese pot-bellied pigs, that says they're absolutely adorable. Small, intelligent, easily trained. Can be housebroken, clean and make ideal pets.

Anyone for a pig in the parlor?

But one thing is as sure as God makes little green apples. Turn all those pet pigs loose and after a few generations they'll take on the characteristics of those cantankerous boars I shot in Iran.

They're smart survivors.

Addendum: A call from Charlie Campbell of Petoskey who said while joy riding near Joy Valley next to the Harmon place he saw a flock of around 50 wild turkeys. Says most of them appeared to be young of the year.

Good deal Charlie, I'll probably be after a tom come next spring. That's if I'm lucky enough to draw a permit — and a helluva lot smarter than on my last spring's hunt. Turkeys may look dumb this time of the year and during the winter, but when breeding time comes the toms are a turk of a different color.

Then, too, Alfred Hass of Walloon Lake called the other day to say there was an injured barred owl out at Camp Daggett. He wondered what should be done with the owl. I referred him to Sue Butler, Boyne Country's Mother Teresa of Wildlife. It now is at her wildlife infirmary.

Plans for the annual fall games party and bake sale to be held at the Grandvue Medical Care Facility Thursday, October 13, and tentative plans for an Open House, to be held at the facility Sunday, November 6, were made at a meeting of the Grandvue Medical Care Facility Auxiliary held recently.

Members are asked to fill a table with a game of their choice and supply prizes and baked goods or other goodies for the bake sale. The party will begin at 1:30 p.m. The event is one of the auxiliary's fund-raising projects.

The open house on November 6th is being held to acquaint the public with the redecorating and refurbishing project now underway at the main entrance and the large all-purpose room which serves as a chapel-recreation room. It also commemorates 30 years of residence in the present building, which opened its doors in October, 1958.

This project has been made possible by contributions from the auxiliary and various individuals and organizations interested in the facility and its service to the public. The auxiliary will join the administration in hosting the open house.

At the same meeting, incomplete results of the annual Grandvue Tag Day held in July were announced by Betty Boswell, who reported that $805.00 was donated in East Jordan. A total of $178.26 was contributed in Charlevoix. Additional contributions will be announced as they are received.

Ruby VanAlstine, Treasurer, reported $4,279.02 in the Memorial Fund and $3,530.86 in the checking account.

It was announced by Helen Deming of the Facility staff that RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program) services would not be funded in Emmet and Charlevoix Counties after October 1st, and that volunteers for transporting patients would be needed. RSVP has been providing volunteer drivers to take patients to doctor and dentist appointments when families are unable to do so. Anyone interested in providing transportation is asked to contact Mrs. Deming or Mrs. Knys, auxiliary president.

building a 32 inch extension to the building as well as replacing the original door, so the city can bring in some of the larger equipment during the winter, and still be able to close the door to work on the trucks and machinery. That bid amounted to $8,462.

The door replacement for the fire barn will see new doors installed on the old part of the fire barn. The cost for that replacement will be $3,124.

All of the projects were included in the present city budget, according to Randy Frykberg, who also said the city will be saving some money as the bids came in lower than what was projected for the repairs.

Charlevoix, Emmet declared drought disaster areas

Effective August 19, 1988, Emmet, Charlevoix, and Cheboygan, along with the rest of the counties in Michigan, are designated as natural disaster areas where eligible family farmers may qualify for Emergency (EM) loans due to damages and losses caused by extreme drought which occurred January 1, 1988, through July 28, 1988, and continuing, in all 83 counties.

Charlevoix and Cheboygan counties have also been designated for frost damage occurring from April 15, 1988, through June 10, 1988; and Charlevoix County for hail and high wind damage occurring from July 15, 1988, through July 29, 1988.

Farmers in Emmet, Charlevoix, or Cheboygan counties covered under the above disaster designations may apply for Emergency loans from the Farmers Home Administration according to Keith A. Greenwald, County Supervisor.

The deadline for receiving applications is April 19, 1989. For further information, contact the local FmHA office at 2206 Mitchell Park Drive, Unit 11, Petoskey, Mi, 49770, or call 616-347-4551.

Maynard Ferguson at Interlochen Oct. 4

One of America's jazz greats Maynard Ferguson will present a classic Big Band concert Oct. 4 at 8 p.m. in Corson Auditorium at Interlochen Center for the Arts.

The performance is part of the International Concert Series at Interlochen and will feature Big Band standards, contemporary fusion charts, and a selection of Ferguson's own jazz hits.

Tickets are available by calling the Concert Office at Interlochen at 616-276-9221, ext. 440.

A leading member of the Stan Kenton Orchestra in the 1950s, Ferguson is one of the few Big Band musicians of the era to make a successful transition to contemporary jazz. He has sold more albums than any other band leader in the 1940s.

With a record number of hits such as "Birdland" and the theme from "Rocky", Ferguson and his band tour nine months a year with almost nightly performances at festivals, concert halls, jazz clubs, and universities around the globe.

Ferguson is a potent force in the world of music education, making time to personally encourage young musicians. He has offered a number of workshops and master classes on the Interlochen campus.

An instrument designer, a record producer, composer, arranger, symphonic guest artist, and film soundtrack artist, Ferguson is a diverse and energetic musician whose talents are acclaimed worldwide.

The stocky trumpeter was born in Quebec in 1928 and studied violin and piano from the age of four. He attended the French Conservatory of Music at age nine, and by 1950 was a member of Kenton's orchestra. Later, he recorded film soundtracks as first-call studio musician for Paramount Pictures before finally forming his own band in 1956.

In the mid 1960s, Ferguson signed with CBS Records, and an exciting new career phase began. Following a best-selling album titled "M.F. Horn", the virtuosos musician had seven more successful Columbia albums released.

One of his most celebrated moments was the performance of the closing ceremonies for the 1976 Olympics from his native home in Montreal, Canada. Then, in 1977, with the album release of "Conquistador", Ferguson accomplished what no other jazz artist had. Says critic Leonard Feather in a Los Angeles Times article: "Conquistador" earned Ferguson a unique place in the Big Band world; he alone was able to crack the pop charts."

In the late 1970s, Ferguson's recording career centered around motion picture projects - all part of his next five albums: "New Vintage", "Carnival", "Hot", "It's My Time", and "Hollywood".

He received two Grammy nominations, one for the hit single "Don't Stop" and the other for "Gonna Fly Now."

When Ferguson's contract ended with CBS, he chose to become a free agent. Since the early 1980s, he has had a number of renowned albums released under various labels, including the 1986 blockbuster hit "Body and Soul".

Last year, Ferguson and his band presented more than 40 shows around the country, appeared at the Playboy Jazz Festival in the Hollywood Bowl, and starred in an HBO special filmed in New Orleans.

MAYNARD FERGUSON

Instead of building their own nests, female European cuckoos lay their eggs in other birds' nests. According to Ranger Rick magazine, the female cuckoo usually lays her eggs in the nest of birds with eggs that look like hers. The other birds are often tricked into raising the cuckoo babies just as they would their own.

Autumn in Michigan— a dazzling spectrum of colors

Despite the summer's long drought and unprecedented heat, Michigan forests will likely unfold their annual panorama of spectacular colors on schedule, AAA Michigan reports.

"The relatively mild weather in recent weeks should encourage many people to plan a fall color tour," said Brian Potter, AAA Michigan Touring Manager. "Color buffs will begin trekking into the Upper Peninsula a week before the first day of autumn, Sept. 22 this year."

Generally, peak periods to admire autumn's artistry are mid-September to early October across the Upper Peninsula from Copper Harbor to Mackinac Island; late September to mid-October in the northern third of the Lower Peninsula, above a line between Ludington and Standish; and early to mid-October for the central section of the Lower Peninsula, north of a line from Muskegon to Port Huron.

Nature's paintbrush usually spreads through the southern third of the Lower Peninsula from Lake Michigan toward Metropolitan Detroit during the latter half of October.

There is much to admire along the way: Michigan is endowed with almost 19 million acres of forest and 65 species of trees, more than any other state. Add thousands of miles of scenic roadsides and lakeshores to all that for superb sightseeing.

According to Melvin Koelling, Michigan State University forestry professor, the brilliance of fall colors depends partly on September weather. Tree leaves contain chlorophyll, a substance which makes them green when combined with sunlight. Many varieties of leaves also have pigments called carotene and xanthophyll, which create yellow and orange hues after the chlorophyll begins to break down. Brilliant reds result from high concentrations of sugar.

"A warm, dry summer often produces more sugar in the leaves, hence better colors," Koelling said.

"What we want to see now are sunny days averaging about 80 degrees and nights in the 50s, with rain once a week or so. But a severe early frost or a spate of dark, rainy days in September could upset the chemical process and cause a late, lackluster display."

To help travelers enjoy autumn's splendid color show, the AAA Michigan Travel Agency offers an Oct. 14-15 tour via motorcoach and ferry boat to Mackinac Island, with two nights in the Lake View Hotel or Island House Hotel and two meals each day, from $235. A one-day bus excursion on Oct. 5 to Marshall costs $42, including lunch at Schuler's Restaurant.

AAA Michigan also issues a weekly report on leaf colors during September and October.

Mackinac-area shoal light back in use

When the spectacular new Michigan Historical Museum opens this January, one of the many unusual artifacts on display will be the nearly 5-foot-tall Fresnel lens from the Lansing Shoal Light in northern Lake Michigan. The Fresnel lens, an early 20th century lighthouse, and the events leading to its construction are detailed in the September/October issue of Michigan History magazine.

"From the beginning of industrialization shipping through 1928, the shallow water around Beaver Island and other small islands northwestern of Petoskey was hazardous because there was no permanent light to warn of the shoals or islands," said Michigan History Editor Sandra Clark.

"Finally in 1928, the federal Light-House Board set aside $65,000 to build a permanent light in the area," Clark explained. "Atop the lighthouse was a 5-foot-tall arrangement of glass prisms, helical glass bars and a Third Order Fresnel lens. These magnified a single 500-watt lamp so intensely that the Lansing Shoal Light was visible 16 miles away." The lighthouse's Fresnel lens was replaced by a solarized light in the early 1980s. The lens is on long-term loan to the Department of State from the U.S. Coast Guard, and will be featured in the "Growth of Manufacturing" exhibit in the new Michigan Historical Museum.

For more history of the Lansing Shoal Light read "A Prism of the Past" in the September/October Michigan History magazine. The current issue also includes articles on former Michigan Governor G. Mennen "Soapy" Williams, the early history of Michigan's Bureau of Labor, an early West Michigan archaeologist, and the 75-year-old Michigan Historical Commission.

First recital features rich violin repertoire

"Going It Alone", a solo violin recital featuring Rosemary Malocsay, will be presented Sunday, October 2, at 4 p.m. in the Michael P. Dendrinos Chapel/Recital Hall at Interlochen Center for the Arts.

The program is designed to display an extensive repertoire of music written specifically for solo violin. "In fact, it represents a wealth of literature," said Malocsay, who is instructor of violin at Interlochen Arts Academy, coordinator of the String Department, and a member of the Interlochen String Quartet.

A graduate of the Composers from the 17th to the 20th centuries will be featured, including George Philipp Telemann, Niccolò Paganini, Henri Wieniawski, Fritz Kreisler, Bela Bartok, Johann Sebastian Bach, and Eugene Ysaye.

Kansas City

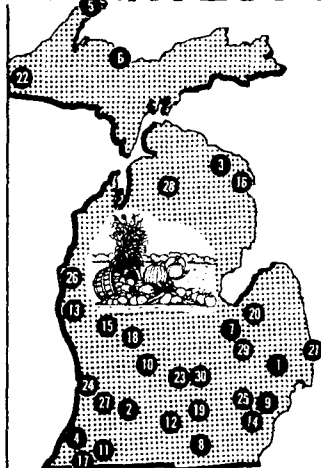

Conservatory of Music, Malocsay was taught at the National Music Camp and Cambridgeshire High School for Girls in England. She is a former member of the Kansas City Philharmonic, Baltimore Symphony and Chicago Little Symphony Orchestras, and is currently a member of the Northwood Orchestra and the Village Bach Festival Ensemble. This summer she conducted a string workshop in Traverse City and was part of "Seminar '88" at Western Michigan University in Kalamazoo where she conducted and coached quartets. Malocsay's recital is the first of several faculty recitals scheduled throughout the 1988-89 Academy year. Admission is free.

Interlochen Arts Academy, the National Music Camp, and WIAA-FM fine arts radio station, comprise the prestigious Interlochen Center for the Arts located 15 miles southwest of Traverse City. For more information, call 616-276-9221.

HARVEST FESTS

FALL FESTIVAL FINDS include a cornucopia of activities ranging from tasting homegrown treats to entering the past. Taste bud tempters are arriving by the bushels, containing apples, applebutter, cider, wine, peaches, potatoes and pumpkins. Blair's Farm Festival offers old-fashioned corn-grinding and a reenactment of the 1912 Woodrow Wilson election. Hands-on fun involves sorghum-making in Three Oaks, pony-pulling in Adrian and wine-tasting and grape-stomping in Kalamazoo and Bridgman. Bassemer's Pumpkin Fest challenges runners with a 5-mile harvest marathon.
