East Jordan starts budget process for '89-'90

East Jordan Schools set Monday, January 23 as the date to start the budget planning process for the 1989-90 school year. The school board will have a work session to discuss the needs of the budget and work out the options available to reduce the current financial deficit the district is facing.

At the same time, they will start looking at the long term needs of the school system.

Mr. Chip Hansen, the new superintendent of the district, told the board they will need to involve both the staff and the community in the planning for the budget as well as the long range needs.

The board also authorized the transportation committee to start developing the specifications for a new school bus that is to be purchased for the 1989-90 school year. The board is expected to approve a bid for the new bus in February.

The board then heard a discussion concerning the proposed "umbrella league" by Keith Moore, the high school principal. The proposal will place all northern Michigan Schools in groups based by enrollment numbers and geographical area so as to reduce the amount of travel and increase the competitive level of all schools.

The board will be discussing the league proposal further at the February meeting when Moore will have more information.

Moore also informed the board that the school will be the host for the Char-Em and COP-1SD combined student leadership forum in February. He said over 400 student leaders are expected to come to the school.

Boyne Falls gets 'all clear' on construction concerns

Boyne Falls School District was given a clean bill of health after soil tests were announced during the monthly school board meeting when the school's architect Don Glowinski told board members that the smell of fuel oils and gasoline by the soil boring operator proved to be false.

The determination of the tests will be saving the school district as much as $30,000 it would have cost to remove tainted soils and dispose of them in a proper landfill.

Glowinski told the board the two sample areas that were concerns both proved to have less than seven parts per billion at the boring taken by the roadway near where the new classrooms are slated, and none was found in the area where the former fuel oil tanks were located before they were filled with water when the school switched over to natural gas.

With the announcement,

Glowinski said the drawings for the classroom addition are completed and asked the board for approval so the plans could be sent to the State Fire Marshall for his approval.

Plans at this point are to send out bid notices to contractors in March, award the bids around the first of May and start construction May 15 on the new classrooms and gym expansion.

The construction is expected to be completed in October of 1989.

In other construction information, the school board learned that the school is in compliance with the Asbestos Hazard Emergency Response Act (AHERA) in that the only asbestos left in the school is in the floor tiles used in the lunch room, kitchen, and coaches' office.

The floor tile is not presently a concern of the act, but Superintendent Chuck Smith told the board the rules may change in the future and that it will have to be removed as well.

The school spent about $11,000 on abatement of the asbestos so far, but Smith said the school system "is ahead of the game," as far as the current rules require.

In other action, the board learned the curriculum committee is discussing a new set of rules to cover those students who wish to attend North Central Michigan College. The new rules will be discussed in front of the entire board at the February meeting.

They also learned of the interest the Charlevoix Emmet ISD has in purchasing the portable classroom the school has been using this past year. The classroom will be moved and sold to make way for the new classrooms that are to be constructed this summer. The board agreed they hope to recoup some of the costs they incurred when they got the classroom, about $6,500.

They also had the first reading of the new AIDS policy the schools across the state are writing into the rule books.

Board members also learned the school has been commended by the University of Michigan accreditation committee for the things they have been doing at the school for the students. The accreditor listed many things the school was doing extra in providing an education for the students in the letter saying the school has met the conditions for compliance.

In the superintendent's report, the board learned that the school lunch program is looking into the possibility of adding a school breakfast program as well.

Board members then heard a report concerning the proposed SuperLeague covering high school sports. The consensus of the administration was that if such a league were formed, it would help Boyne Falls. They expect to take formal action on the new league next month.

BC to spend $113,000 this year on capital improvements

Boyne City will be spending $113,000 this year for capital improvements under a plan presented to the city commissioners Tuesday noon.

The proposed work includes about $60,000 that will be used for the third year phase of the infrastructure repair program the city has been implementing to eliminate waterline leaks and upgrade sewer systems.

Included in this year's infrastructure projects are replacing sidewalks on Front Street from Main Street to Pleasant Avenue, Main from Boyne Avenue to Park Street, and Boyne Avenue from Brockway to Pearl.

The sidewalk along Boyne Avenue would be done, along with other infrastructure work, when and if the State Highway Department decides to rebuild the highway as they have promised to do in 1989.

In the water department, streets to be worked on include Maple Street, from Front to Cedar streets, Morgan Street, between Pleasant and East Street, and the north side of Brockway to Main and South Lake.

Sewerwise, the city is looking at repairing or replacing sewer lines along Hannah Street, Water Street, North Street, Park Street, replace sewer leads along M-75 projects, South Lake Street, North East Street, Lincoln Street, Ray Street, Main Street, and see the completion of projects from the prior year along North Lake Street and the alley behind Water Street and the river.

Street paving included in this year's projects include working with the state on M-75 renovation and upgrade, Hull Street, Spring Street, West Street, Ann Street, Second Avenue, First Street, and complete the widening of Lake Street and Michigan Avenue and Charlevoix Street.

Also included in the city spending are plans to finish the phase two of the building at Avalanche Mountain Preserve, enlarge the parking lot at the park and make the ice skating rink bigger.

They also hope to enlarge the parking area at the city lunch site.

They will be spending another $20,000 on the Old City Park Erosion Project which is trying to stop the erosion of the City Park into the Boyne River.

They are also planning on building a garage to store water department equipment and re-drilling the well in Veterans Park.

For the next four years, the city intends to spend its Capital Improvement funds on additional sidewalks, sewer, water, widening the runway at the city airport, building restrooms at the mouth of the Boyne River, and starting a composting and recycling station at the North Boyne landfill.

In 1990-91 the city intends to commit $137,000 to some of those projects. They are intending to spend about $100,000 in 1991-92, $97,000 in 1992-93 and another $97,000 in 1993-94.

Broomball top feature of next week's BC Frostival

If you start looking for your broom and find it cut to the quick and all taped up, then you should know that some member of the family is preparing for the annual broomball contests that are part of the city-wide Frostival Celebration coming next weekend, January 28, in Veterans Park.

The broomball contests are one of the highlights of the festival which will also be providing plenty of other activities for the children and adults during the day.

For children, activities start at 1 p.m. with the area Girl Scouts providing the leadership.

Then at 2 p.m., the annual children's dog pull begins featuring, usually, a small child, a sled, and the family pet. The dogs are hooked up to the sled and have to pull the sled with the child through a course. The winner is determined by the amount of time it takes to negotiate the course and the number of pylons knocked down as the dogs run through.

The event brings out the crowds to see their favorite attempt to win.

Then at 3 p.m., the judging for See Frostival/Page 6

BC planners set up priorities, goals

Boyne City planners spent most of their meeting discussing what the city plans to spend money on during the next few years as they were given the first chance to review the next phase of the capital improvement plans and the long and short range goals of the planning body.

The goals were put into categories of high and low priorities and although they were discussed, no action was formally taken to finalize the items on the list from last year.

One item the planners did discuss, but no action was taken, was the possibility of making some changes in the zoning ordinance covering nonconforming uses.

The matter was brought to the planners by Bill McTaggart, City Attorney, as he works his way through the ordinance clearing up language problems that have occurred because of changes in court rulings and state laws.

The planners are looking over the proposed changes and will be taking more action on them at a future meeting after they are formalized.

Included in the changes would be a clause that would allow a building, for example, that burned in a non-conforming use zone, to be rebuilt with no or a diminished use.

Let's take a look at Reagan

Editor:

Seldom do we have a chance to witness anybody deliver their own eulogy themselves — let alone a president of the United States — but at 9 o'clock Wednesday night, there he was the Great Communicator, nearly breaking an arm patting himself on the back for returning the United States to its greatness. He just barely stopped short of nominating himself for sainthood. That would have been a bit unseemly though, seeing as how he isn't quite dead, as yet.

He told us his two greatest achievements were the booming economy and the rebirth of patriotism in our country. Let's take a look. He force feeds our economy using our national credit card to pay the bills. He pumps the money into our defense department and the resulting skim-off keeps our economy going. What he doesn't tell us is how we are going to pay off the credit card charges. That card will reach its limit just as all cards do — then what? The second claim is the most assinine he has ever made. I have been kicking around this old country of ours as long as he has, and in the real world — not Hollywood and Vine. Let me tell him this in plain words. There has never been any shortage of patriotism, pride or belief in the hard work ethic out here where I and two hundred forty million other American's live. He has done nothing to enhance the honor of the United States or improve its image world wise. What he has done is to give the green light to greed, graft, scandal and corruption. The evidence of this is everywhere about us.

On the next day (Thursday) he went to Andrews Air Force Base where the brass from the pentagon put on a real extravaganza, supposedly to honor him for his leadership and generosity as commander-in-chief of our armed forces.

In reality, it was an extra big thank you for giving them such a nice blank check, enabling them to screw the public out of billions upon billions of dollars. He scraped and bowed from the podium and mouthed still more of the inanities about how he has made the country strong. One needs a strong stomach to handle his rhetoric. Sainthood? You bet — with a twenty-one gun salute and all the trimmings.

I have said it many times and will say it yet once more. Ronald Reagan is a hypocrite and we will be well rid of him.

The Positive Side

"When you expect little or nothing from yourself, don't be surprised if you amount to nothing."

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

Why is it a few inches of new, white snowfall freshens your outlook, while six or more is a drudgery?

I think I have come up with a perfect solution to one of the greatest problems this nation is facing.

The problem is the loss of dollars caused by the rising amount of imports our nation is buying. Not just cars, but tools, appliances, electronics, and chemicals.

Someone said we owe Japan $800 billion dollars, but if we owed them one dollar that would be more than enough to suit me. And the same goes with every other nation we, as a nation, owe money to.

It is rather surprising to owe all of this money. At one time, just a few short years ago, we were victors in a costly war against many of these same nations.

As victor, we felt responsible to rebuild their factories and give them favored nation status with our trading.

Now we owe them more than the cost of the war, although I am not sure of the cost. It just seems that way.

So I have come up with a solution that follows along with history.

We just declare war on them.

We go over and drop a few bombs, not atomic, just those 500 pound kind, destroy a few buildings, kill a few civilians if they happen to be in the right place at the wrong time, and get those nations to get mad enough at us to declare war against us.

When and if they do that, we then admit defeat immediately. We are the loser.

If history is right, then those nations that were the victors, will come over here and help us rebuild our factories, provide our defense costs, and guide us into the twenty-first century.

And if history is still with us, then they will be owing us billions and billions of dollars in 40 some odd years.

Sounds kind of nice doesn't it?

We could use that money to pay off the federal deficit, which would in turn, make our dollar stronger and those nations would have to pay us even more dollars to make up the difference.

Right now, I think the Yen is worth about several yen to our dollar. Just think what it would be if it took a thousand yen to match up to one dollar. Why we could pay off the debts of the nation real fast.

If we owed some other nation, we could pay them off with some other nations money and use none of our own.

I can see it now, no more inflation of the dollar, just inflation of the foreign yens, liras, marks, pesos, pounds, and stones.

My only problem with all of this, is that if I can think this up, then why can't the politicians?

I guess it shows that we voters can't put anybody into office with any crazy sense like I may have. Heck, we just continue to put people into office with less sense than most people have.

After all, each politician is trying to protect their own constituents interests. That is why we have such things as "pork barrel projects". And each of those just cause the federal deficit to get a little higher each year as our nation funds favored projects instead of paying on the interest and principal of the debt.

The government is lucky though, they just print a few more bucks and let them fall where they may.

Appreciates fire department

Editor: This letter is addressed to Mr. Schroder.

I would like to take this opportunity to express my appreciation of your department's prompt and efficient re-action time in handling the fire call to the Boyne City Post Office on Sunday, January 8th.

Far too often, outstanding performance by the fire department goes unnoticed. From my observations, your firemen put forth an effort above and beyond the call of duty to provide this area with the finest fire protection

Remembrances

Looking into the old shingle mill that was located on the Boyne River shows some of the items used to make shingles back in the boom days of Boyne City. From the logs in the background, all cut to shingle size, to the completed stacks of shingles. The logs were pushed into the shingle machine and were split out by the mill one after another. One man fed the logs into the mill while several gathered them up and stacked them into turns. Those turns were then grouped into hundreds and bundled up ready to move to the warehouse where they were sent out to homes all over the midwest. This old picture wasn't in very good shape when we copied it so we are looking for more pictures of the early days that may be hidden away in the attic. Bring them to our office and we'll make a copy for this feature.

As I see January passing by my window, I am filled with a lump of discomfort knowing that both February and property tax time are waiting in the wings to make this lump more lumpy.

There are other mid-winter dues coming due and if I had my druthers I would go away to an obscure place where I could not be reached; then I would not return until the sap started in our maple forest.

I am saying these things because the deep freeze part of this milkweed infested domain of Wilson Township has finally got me. The winter and the paying of bills, I mean.

Summer out here is an all new ball of twine. Spring, too, has its wonderful dance. When the sun comes over the city of Boyne and applies its warmth to Wilson Township I find this place the Eden so many have talked about on Sundays. My cheeks have a delicate bloom on them like a russet apple, and my step is light and elastic. Its the time of year when I go out on the lawn and break out in song until I am interfered with by property owners and tax-payers down the road.

But winter time? Ugh. No, that's not enough. It takes three "ughs" to describe the weather out here.

Reader: If you are so all fired disgusted with winter out there in the boonies, why in the name of Boyne City don't you shift into low and move in to town?

Me: I can't do a thing like that. I live out here.

February isn't all that bad, really. Especially if you have a loved one who is waiting to see what you are going to do about Valentines Day, and by golly you had better do it.

***

But January. The only plus I find in this month is the super bowl football game. During last year's game my popcorn ran out ruining the whole afternoon.

Now let me step aside and say some other things. Thank you.

Research people are now saying that if you are over sixty, you have spent twenty years in bed and three years eating. It would have been more interesting if they had carried the research a little further.

***

As the world prepares for George Bush to become president of the U.S and A., one must remember that he does not have Harry Truman's mouth nor Teddy Roosevelt's big stick. I was told this by a Democrat mouth that would fit a full sized pumpkin pie.

***

I read the other day that if you quit when you are through it shows signs of intelligence.

So, until next week...

Devils defeat Central Lake in nail biter

BY PAMELA BURR

East Jordan's basketball fans can't say their team hasn't given them any excitement this year, for Tuesday night the Red Devils pulled out another nail biter by defeating the Central Lake Trojans 79-74.

On paper the game should have been a blow-out and no trouble for the 4-1 Red Devils team, but that wasn't the case coming down to the final minutes of the game. The first half was what the fans expected with East Jordan building an eleven point lead in the first quarter and finally settling on an eight point half time lead. The third quarter was also as expected with East Jordan and Central Lake pretty much trading baskets, but when East Jordan's Ted Sherman came in off the bench at the 1:43 mark and popped in two three-pointers, the score rolled up to a 12 point lead.

Nine seconds into the fourth quarter, Ted Sherman, drove the lane for another two points to put the devils up by fourteen and what was thought to be a comfortable lead, but the Trojans worked hard and behind the dead eye shooting of Brent Coaster they came within two points with just over three minutes left in the game. That's when the "Red Machine" put it into overdrive and pulled away for the win.

The pleasant surprise for the devil's team was junior reserve player, Ted Sherman, coming off the bench to lead the devils with a strong performance of ball handling, defense and shooting. Sherman finished the night with 21 points, which included three of four from the three point range, three field goals and sank six of six from the charity line. Also scoring for the devils were: Dan Pepin with 20, Jeff Burks with 14 and Gerry Ciszewski with 12.

The top rounders for East Jordan were Gerry Ciszewski with eight and Jeff Burks with seven. Burks also blocked four shots in the game to bring him to an average of three blocked shots per game.

The Red Devils Junior Varsity team defeated Central Lake 88-42. The team managed to put five players in double figures. David Patton was the leading scorer with 14 followed by Pete Inman and Scott Beal with 13 and Kris Snyder and Tim Shea with 12 each.

EJ brings home victory over Mancelona

BY PAM BURR

The East Jordan Red Devils traveled to Mancelona to take on the Ironmen Friday night and came home with an 85-73 victory.

The Devils, now 5-1 in Ski Valley Conference play, started out strong scoring 27 points in the first quarter and adding 15 in the second to take a 12 point half time lead.

The third quarter was typical high school ball with both teams exchanging baskets, the Mancelona Ironmen were able to gain one point on the fast paced Devils and seemed to be in a hole going into the last quarter.

The fourth quarter proved to be different from the usual nail biters the Devils have had this year. Even behind the great effort of Jim Lucas, who scored 24 of his game high 26 in the second half, Mancelona couldn't catch the mighty devils.

"We had a balanced attack with 11 of the 13 players scoring. Our rebounding was the best its been all year. We just had an all around good game." said Coach Hines.

Top scorers for East Jordan were Gerry Ciszewski with 20,

Boyne Falls jayvees defeat Ellsworth 24-8

BY BECKY HAUSLER

The Boyne Falls J.V. defeated Ellsworth last Tuesday night by 28 points. In the first quarter the score was 24-8, a dead giveaway for the outcome of the game. At the half the score was 33-15, and 50-28 after the third. The Loggers won the game 72-44.

The high scorer for Boyne Falls was Mark Reynolds with 25 points who also made 100% of his freethrows. Carl Oelfke followed with 15. Thomas Follette scored 13. Kurt Wilson scored 10, Jim Matelski scored seven, and Joe Westbrook scored two points.

Leading the team in rebounds was Kurt Wilson with eight, followed by Thomas Follette with seven, and Joe Westbrook with six.

Boyne drops two to Vandy and Onaway

BY SCOTT KNIPE

Boyne City's bad luck continues as they dropped two more games last week, one on Tuesday in Vanderbilt, and another at home Friday versus Onaway. Both games were close, but the recurring problem the Ramblers have had all season struck again as they failed to pull out the victory.

In Vanderbilt Boyne leaped out to a quick advantage, 17-12 in the first quarter, but Vandy pulled within two by the half, 28-26. Vanderbilt then took a lead in the third quarter before Boyne regrouped and went ahead by one, 42-41 going onto the fourth period. Vanderbilt again took a lead, and Boyne was looking from behind on several occasions throughout the quarter. With under half a minute left, Bo Williamson canned a three-pointer to give Boyne the one point lead, and shortly after that Keith Harvey was fouled and given the chance to put the Ramblers up by three. He failed to convert either shot, and Vanderbilt set up for the final shot. Unable to get off a high percentage shot, Vandy launched a three-pointer with no time remaining on the clock, and drained it, thus handing Boyne their sixth loss of the season, 59-61. Eric Smith led the Rambler scorers with 16 points, followed by Scott Hammtreee with 14 and Williamson with 11.

The Ramblers were looking forward to a little reprieve at home Friday, but found none. Boyne jumped out to a quick 11-2 lead in the first quarter, but Onaway quickly came back to make the opening quarter score 21-17. Onaway then outscored the Ramblers in the second quarter to tie the score at 34. The third quarter was also the visitor's, as they jumped out to a three point lead, 52-55. Boyne made up the difference in the fourth quarter, but could not take a lead, and the two teams went into overtime tied at 68 apiece. Onaway scored the first basket of overtime, but the Ramblers countered with a Hammtreee three-pointer. Onaway, however, established the momentum and held a one point lead with eight seconds left. Boyne gained possession of the ball, and tried working an out-of-bounds play to get the ball into Smith's hands, but Onaway read the inbounds pass. They stole the ball and drove the full length of the court for an easy basket, despite Boyne's attempts to stop the clock. Boyne went down 75-78, making their record 2-7. Smith again led the Ramblers with 25 points, followed by Harvey with 21. Two other Ramblers hit double figures, Williamson with 11, and Hammtreee with 10.

Boyne travels to Petoskey to take on the Northmen early this week and then comes home to host Newberry.

Boyne skiers place 2nd, 3rd

Boyne City ski racers finished second and third in races held Monday at Sylvan Resort in a three way meet against Gaylord and Bellaire.

The boys' team finished with a second place with Will Polleys taking a 4th in the slalom and an 8th in the giant slalom. Other Boyne finishers included Jeremy Butler, 8th in S1/12th in GS, Joel Smith 9th in S1/9th in GS, Aaron

See Skiers/Page 7

Scott Hammtreee, partially covered up by an Onaway arm, goes in for two points as he tried to bring Boyne a winning game. The team started with some aggressive action which took them into the lead just before the half. The Ramblers lost the game to Onaway in the closing minutes.

Deisler takes top honors in BC tourney

It's over for the 1988-89 season, but if anyone doubts the bowling ability of Boyne City bowlers, all they have to do is look at the results of the recently completed Men's City Tournament.

Taking the top honor as the best all-around bowler was Joe Deisler, Jr., who took the All-events title with a total pin count of 2236. Included in that count was a perfect 300 game which came during the singles bowling phase of the contest.

Deisler also helped the Charlevoix County Press team come in second, and took the doubles contest with Steve Daniels.

The winning team for this year was the Raveau Body Shop team who hit 3389 pins. The County Press team took the second place with 3243 followed by Northwestern State Bank who had a pin count of 3239.

Following the Deisler-Daniels doubles team scores of 1375 pins were Brad Knipe-Art Cosier who had 10 pins less for the second place. Jim and Joe Gregware teamed up to take the third with a 1358 pin count.

After Deisler's 777 pin count series in the singles matchups were Brian Korthase with 771 pins for the second place, and Ken Carson with 745 for the third.

In the All-events, Deisler was followed by Augie Stolt who had 2058 pins, and Jim Spencer who hit 2049 for the nine games that make up the all-events title.

The top finishers are listed this week below.

Cooking

ITALIAN COOKING

Almost everyone is into Italian pasta cooking now. Nobody but nobody eats just plain good old fashioned noodles, spaghetti or macaroni. Since World War II our people have gradually turned to Italian cooking and "How good it is!"

I am learning a lot about how people cook and eat here in California. My daughter, her husband and their friends are all giving me their favorite recipes. They love meals like the following:

SICILIAN SUPPER

1 lb. ground beef
 1/2 cup chopped onion
 1/2 cup chopped green pepper
 1 (8 oz.) pkg. cream cheese (cubed and softened)
 1 cup cooked egg noodles
 1-6 oz. can tomato paste
 1/2 cup water
 1/2 cup milk
 1/4 teaspoon garlic salt
 1/4 teaspoon pepper
 1/4 cup Parmesan cheese

Mix ground beef, onion, and green pepper in a saucepan and saute lightly until the beef loses its pink color, stirring to break up the beef. Drain.

Stir in remaining ingredients except the Parmesan cheese and heat through.

This recipe can be made early in the day, put into a casserole, sprinkled with cheese and refrigerated until needed and reheated in the microwave. It also makes good leftovers.

Here are a couple of valuable tips that I have recently heard of:

Gloria's tip: A terrific way to season those beautiful fresh avocados that are always available here is to just shake some Jane's "Krazy Mixed-up Salt and Pepper" over the avocado and sprinkle with lemon juice - very tasty! You can also mix this "Krazy Mixed-up Salt and Pepper" with lemon juice and use it as a dressing for green salads; great for those who are counting calories.

Don's tip: To thicken soups, sauces and his delicious clam chowder recipe which I will give you later, he uses the boxed potato buds. He shakes a little bit at a time into the sauce until it is just the correct thickness.

Don makes this Italian dish - a beautiful entree for any occasion.

CHICKEN BREASTS

PARMESAN
 1 can (8 oz.) tomato sauce
 1 tsp. Italian seasoning
 1/4 tsp. garlic salt
 1/4 cup grated Parmesan cheese
 1/2 cup crushed corn flakes
 1 tsp. dry parsley flakes
 2 large boneless chicken breasts, split and skin removed
 1 egg beaten
 1/2 cup shredded Mozzarella cheese
 Grated Parmesan cheese

1-Mix tomatoe sauce, Italian seasoning and garlic salt. Heat in sauce pan and simmer 5 minutes. Set aside.

2-Mix corn flake crumbs, 1/4 cup Parmesan cheese and parley flakes.

3-Dip chicken breasts in the beaten egg then into the crumbs. beaten egg then into the crumbs. Place in shallow baking dish and bake in 375° F. oven until the chicken is tender. About 1/2 hour or more.

4-Pour sauce over chicken. Sprinkle with Mozzarella. Put back in oven until cheese melts and sauce is hot.

I am enjoying the beautiful fresh fruits and vegetables on the market here. This is the way Don makes:

FRIED EGGPLANT

1 medium sized eggplant
 Bread crumbs Italian style
 Flour
 1 (15 oz.) can good grade spaghetti sauce
 Mozzarella cheese
 1 egg beaten with 1/4 cup water
 Vegetable oil for frying (About 1/2 inch of oil in bottom of large frying pan.)

Heat the spaghetti sauce, let simmer while preparing the eggplant. Slice the eggplant in about 1/4" slices.

Dip in beaten egg then roll in Italian bread crumbs mixed with flour using 1/4 as much flour as crumbs. Fry in oil turning to brown both sides using medium high heat.

Remove to serving dish, top with slices of Mozzarella cheese then the heated sauce and sprinkle with Parmesan cheese.

He served sliced, steamed yellow summer squash with the fried eggplant and we sprinkled some of the Parmesan on it also. A tasty, complete meal. I loved it!

the snowman and snow sculpture contest begins. Whole families, groups of children and adult groups build sculptures out of snow that the city has piled up in the park.

At 4 p.m., the action will move to the city ice skating rink at Avalanche Park for the children's ice skating races. Prizes will be awarded to all who enter and many classes of competition are planned. It is also a great place to get a cup of hot chocolate as you watch the skaters and sledgers using the area.

Although most of the activities will be underway on Saturday, the weekend starts with the professional ice sculpture contest that will be held all day Friday with judging to begin Friday night at Stafford's One Water Street.

During the following day, sleigh rides will be offered, along with a bean pot, chili and refreshments to be enjoyed while sitting around a large bonfire to keep warm.

Again this year, there will be no activities on the ice, as in the days of the old Smeltania Festival. Fishermen will be working the shanties and they have started to appear out on the ice in front of the park.

Broomball registration forms can be obtained from the Chamber of Commerce office along with permit forms for the dog sled competitions. Sign ups for the registration is not later than Thursday, January 26 at 3 p.m.

For additional information, call the Chamber office at 582-6222. All events will be held weather permitting.

Ware-withal

In time for the height of the '89 freezing season, Dr. Peter Whybrow's self-help book, "The Hibernation Response", has come out in which the author lays out his ideas of improving the outlook of those who view winter as ranging from irritating to outrageous depending on the day's weather. Whybrow says that with a few changes in their lives, these people can trick their bodies into thinking it's warm and sunny so that they'll feel in a vigorous, optimistic summertime mode. No doubt Whybrow believes in his theories, but his faith has lifted him over some soft spots in his plan for making winter converts.

He says a hibernation response is what ails some people from November through February, a condition caused by excess melatonin in their system. This hormone, a depressant or tranquilizer, is made by the pineal gland which produces best in darkness, making it a marvel of productivity this time of year. In some people, the pineal makes so much that the melatonin gets out of balance with the other hormones resulting in their losing interest in much more than sleeping and eating and since their metabolism slows down too, they gain weight which depresses them even further. Also their bodies, not growing extra hair like animals, get and stay cold, not a day-brightener either.

Whybrow says that these responses can be short-circuited with a little effort though. Redecorating for instance. He suggests turning one room in the house with a southern exposure in to a spring room. Splash it with the season's hues of green, orange or ivory, blue and yellow too. Don't make the room overpowering with color though, just springy and enlivening.

He says that those who fade in winter need more light too. He can't say how much, how intense or the best time of day for it because behavioral scientists can't agree on these points. They only agree that lack of light in winter makes people cranky and dull as well as chubby and chilly.

For all of the above, Whybrow suggests walking briskly starting in the early fall and wearing as few clothes as possible to acclimate the body to the falling temperatures. The walks should last 20 to 45 minutes at least and should continue daily through winter even on the coldest days.

Another of his ideas is a change of diet. Eat mostly protein in the daytime like cheese, eggs, lean meat, yogurt, tofu and seaweed. Protein makes people perkier, he says. Come dinnertime, carbohydrates get their turn. Foods like pasta and pastry make people logy and get them ready for bed.

Certainly the idea of adding more light in winter sounds good as does the idea of creating a spring room. As for the walks in the depths of winter, although they'd make takers feel noble and warmer at least later, not likely will winter wilters see the sense in going outside when they're already swathed in shawls to keep from shivering inside.

Whybrow's daytime protein choices won't attract other members of the medical community either what with doctors frowning so on eggs and cheese these days. They might smile on seaweed, promote it even, but not likely eat it themselves.

Some others who won't take kindly to this conversion plan are those who enjoy their winter woes, especially telling all about them. Adjusting to winter would rob them of their fullest conversational material leaving them with only a short list and a short season to tell of their summer miseries.

Still, Whybrow wants to help chilly people. Maybe if he were willing he could drop his present work and help Steven Lab and David Hershel, who want to put climate controlled domes over cities. This would keep everybody warm, like it or not.

The chilling effects of hypothermia

It's called "the insidious killer." It can come upon you when you least expect it, and it almost immediately attacks and diminishes your capacity for reason and logical thought.
"It" is hypothermia, the loss of body temperature. It is dangerous and is the most common reason for outdoor deaths listed as "caused by exposure." Hypothermia is not literally freezing to death because - and this is the most insidious part - serious and even fatal cases of hypothermia can occur at temperatures well above freezing!
As with all warm-blooded creatures, the human body requires a certain body temperature to function and can maintain that temperature - about 98.6 F - under "normal" conditions. When body heat is lost more rapidly than the body is generating it, hypothermia occurs.
At 96 F (a mere two degrees!), one begins to shiver and shortly loses the ability to perform complicated tasks. At 91 F, the victim is uncoordinated, he stumbles, slurs his speech and can't think well. At 86 F, the victim begins to act irrationally. At 81 F, the victim is in a stupor; a bit colder, he is unconscious. At 78 F, death is near.
This is not solely a concern of Arctic explorers and ice fishermen. Even at temperatures in the 40s and 50s, an unprotected, unprepared person caught in the wrong set of conditions could be in serious trouble in less than six hours.

Preventing hypothermia is, of course, the best treatment. Persons venturing into the outdoors should understand that particular environment and its climates and prepare accordingly.
Dress in layers. Layers of clothing trap more air and keep you warmer than one heavy garment.
Carry enough clothing to keep you comfortable under the coldest conditions expected. A rain and wind resistant outerwear garment should be part of your gear on any trip.
Remember adequate headgear. You can lose up to half of your body's heat through an unprotected head and neck.
Stay dry. Getting wet greatly accelerates heat loss, and most fabrics lose insulating properties when wet. Wool is preferred in cool regions because it retains a measure of its insulating ability when wet. If you expect to get wet (as a boater or angler), carry along dry clothes in a waterproof bag.

Take along high-energy snack food such as candy or trail mix to help your body generate heat.
Keep matches with you in a waterproof case and learn to build a fire even with damp materials.
Learn the signs of oncoming hypothermia - shivering, clumsiness, slurred speech.
Should someone in your party show these symptoms, take immediate measures to get him warm - into shelter, away from wind and insulated from the cold ground. Get the victim's wet clothes off and put him into a sleeping bag or blanket near a source of heat.

Give a conscious victim warm liquids and food. Do not give alcohol as it impairs the body's heat regulatory mechanisms. Toast to good health after the crisis is past.

Suet for winter bird feeding

One of the best cold weather bird foods is suet, and a winter suet feeder in your yard invites birds you might never play host to - if it were not for the suet. Many birds love suet and so it's a valuable addition to your bird feeding program. Suet is dense beef fat and it can provide birds with the extra energy they need to stay warm in winter.
From late fall through early spring I like to buy two or three pounds of suet at a time and freeze it in half-pound chunks. That way, my suet feeder never runs low. You can usually find suet at a super-market or if you want to be sure you're getting real beef suet) at a butcher shop.
Most suet feeders are wire mesh cages. The mesh needs to be just large enough for a bird's bill to reach through, but not so large that a crow or raccoon could make off with large pieces of suet.
A suet cage (bought or hand-made) should be constructed of plastic-coated wire rather than uncoated metal, even though it's highly unlikely that any part of a bird or other animal would freeze to the uncoated surface. The cage needs a back door for inserting the suet.
Hang your feeder from the trunk or branch of a tree. A suet cage 6 or 8 feet off the ground will regularly attract woodpeckers, titmice, chickadees, nuthatches, perhaps brown creepers, and other birds that find suet a good substitute for their natural high-energy foods (insect eggs, larvae, etc.). The good height will keep the feeder out of reach of dogs, foxes, skunks and other poor climbers, though it won't guarantee that a raccoon or an opossum won't raid the cage.

European starlings are suet-loving birds who are all too apt to take over your whole yard once they've lined up your suet feeder. If you live in starling country, there are two ways to starling-proof a suet cage, thereby discouraging an invasion:
(1) Suspend a baffle or dome over the feeder (a pie tin may do). Unlike nuthatches, chickadees and such, starlings are not very good at hanging vertically or upside-down to feed; they prefer to perch on the top.
(2) Buy or make a double-mesh cage. The wire mesh basket that holds suet fits inside a larger-mesh (1 to 1 1/2 inch) cage. The small birds can hop in and reach the inner basket but the larger birds (including starlings) cannot.

On the coldest of days your suet feed may draw birds that rarely visit any kind of feeder. During such weather, we receive reports of red-shouldered hawks, pileated woodpeckers, American kestrels, Carolina wrens, juncos, thrashers, and yellow-rumped warblers visiting suet feeders.
So, don't let frigid weather get you down. Put out the suet and watch the ensuing spectacle of birds vigorously energizing themselves.

Canada geese making this area 'home' year around

BY REG SHARKEY

A couple of years ago the Michigan Department of Natural Resources live-trapped nuisance Canada geese from southern Michigan metropolitan areas and released them around this area.

Canada geese (not Canadian) are beautiful birds. Who is there that can't respond to the honking, or gabbling, of a wavering V-formation overhead? Or a pair of oldsters conveying a flotilla of goslings on a quiet bay or backwater.

In recent years the giant strain of Canadas was on the verge of extinction. But through judicious protection and various methods of propagation those Canadas have responded with an unbelievable increase in numbers.

And in their resulting close association with man they lost some of their wariness. With increased numbers the geese wore out the welcome mat in southern Michigan areas.

Without a doubt people living around southern Michigan's crowded waterways considered the stately Canadas a novelty encouraging them to stick around by feeding. All well and good as long as there were a pair or two. But the Canadas responded with a prolific vengeance. Soon the burgeoning numbers left their calling cards all over the well-manicured lawns. Goose dab comes in copious piles; and the bare feet of swimmers squishing through the mess became intolerable.

Then, too, Canadas are gabblers. Awakened at the crack of dawn by communicating geese, lakeside dwellers soon tired of the loud-mouthed serenading.

So it was that the DNR live-trapped the offenders, exiling them to northern Michigan.

Some of the first transfers were ringed with numbered plastic collars. People were asked to report the movements of the expatriates.

All was well and good for awhile. But low and behold, those southern Michigan immigrants are beginning to proliferate and in some cases are wearing out their welcome.

Up to a year or so ago, a limit of one goose per day during a short season was allowed because of a scarcity of the big birds.

Now just this last season they even had a special ten-day hunt the first part of September, with a two goose limit per day in order to eliminate some of the surplus birds.

Right here close to home I have seen a small gaggle of Canadas from downstate proliferate into a flock of one hundred and fifty. That's by actual count.

My neighbors down the lake a ways, with their verdent green, well-manicured lawns, are beginning to see the large webfoots as pests. Grazing on the lawns they leave an interest in the form of squish droppings.

Proof that more development and more people, plus more Canada geese don't make a good mix. Then instead of limiting human growth and activities, wildlife must go.

In this case it would be the geese.

And how about this? Police Chief Nabs Escaped Buck.

It seems that the eight-point herdmaster whitetail buck at the Harbor Springs deer park somehow managed to break out of the fenced enclosure across from the Police Station.

Seems the big buck somehow found a hole in the fence and went out looking for new business as the rut, at the time, was still in full swing.

Touring the nearby area the buck nonchalantly sauntered about enjoying his new found freedom.

Alerted to the buck's escape by a city work, the Chief, Dean Rye, began a search for the wayward wanderer.

Finally catching up with the footloose buck near Pennsylvania Ave., the Chief began to herd him back towards the deer yard.

Cutting through the storage area near the park, Rye began to crowd the escapee.

Evidently the buck had an op-

This flock of geese really should be called a gaggle of geese as they stood on the ice of a frozen over pond. Canada geese seem to make a portunity to think things over. Nearing the fence, the buck threw in the afterburner and with one magnificent, arching leap soared over the 7-foot fence.

Clear evidence that even a supposedly animal with a limited mental capacity realized that things on the outside weren't as good as three squares a day of good food and the girl friends he had on the inside.

And Rye quipped: "Maybe I should put him on bread and water for a spell."

Aircraft slides off runway at Boyne Mt.

Because of icy conditions on the Boyne Mountain Airport runway, a plane almost ended up driving down M-75 after it slid down the runway after landing at the airport.

It hit the snowbank at the end of the strip of pavement and tore off the nose wheel when it slid to a stop.

Another plane almost added to the excitement when it started to slide at the same runway moments after the plane was damaged. It was thought it would slide into the first plane but stopped short.

The runway was immediately closed until the ice could be scraped away by the airport crew at the Mountain.
