

Boyne United Fund over goal!

Accepting a $3,000 check from Doug Gabrielsen, the plant manager of the Allied Bendix Courier's Operations that put the Boyne Area United Way above their goal is Jerry Van Treese, the head of the Boyne United Way Campaign. The goal, set last fall was to reach $35,000 in pledges and donations this calendar year. Monday, they had $35,700 on the books when this donation from the corporation offices was presented, making the total amount collected or pledged to United Way $38,700. Van Treese said that many community activities can be funded thanks to the donations of the community employees and employers. He thanked the community for their donations.

Boyne starts grant process for marina expansion

Boyne City Commissioners authorized the city to go after a grant to pay for the expansion of the city marina during the Tuesday noon meeting. The expansion would bring 24 additional slips for boats plus rearrange some of the present slips.

One possible hang-up would be the need for a breakwater that the Department of Natural Resources says may be required. If that is required, the funds to pay for it would come from the grant.

The process was started without the engineering that will be needed, according to City Manager Randy Frykberg, because the engineering would be substantial and may need to be modified several times. But, he added, the grant application will start the process and the engineering can be done later.

Several citizens expressed concerns over the revised dockage plan, asking that consideration be given to those who have permanent slips for their small boats. Bob Johns asked that those be given a "grandfather clause" that would let the small boat users use docks that are inland until such time as they give them up.

John Jessup asked that the fees to be charged for the small docks be given consideration as compared to those with the larger boats. He suggested a fee of $2-300 dollars be charged the small dock users.

That was contested by John Howard who said the cost of the docks should not be subsidized by the general public, but by those using them. Frykberg said that if the docks were included in the grant, and if the state pays for them, then the fees would be the same as the state standards.

In another part of the grant proposal was a mention of the docks being planned at the Peninsula Beach area. Another proposal was made where the city and the developers of the marina would share the dock on an alternate slip basis. Previously, the developers were going to give the city the most inward docks.

The agreement was approved by the commissioners pending a yearly review.

The agreement covers the use of the slips until such time as the city develops the city marina where the eight slips would be transferred to the marina and a permanent easement would be given to the developer for use of the docks. The developer is installing the docks at no cost to the city. Those docks are slated to be completed yet this boating season. The proposed work at the City Marina is slated for the 1990

East Jordan going after junk

Seven East Jordan residents who live on Mill Street and Elm Street asked East Jordan City Council Tuesday, April 18, for help in cleaning up and quieting down their neighborhood.

Nine out of ten residents affected by an alley cutting from Ninth Street to Elm and Mill streets signed a petition asking that the alley be closed. The one who didn't sign, Cliff Gibbard, said once the junk was cleaned out of the neighborhood he would sign the petition.

Closing the alley, which has not been used by the city for 17 years, would give more land to property owners adjacent to the alley, including those whose yards are already cluttered with junk.

Gibbard expressed concern that closing the alley would give the offenders more room to put junk.

Elizabeth Nessel said the situation in the neighborhood is sad, and she and Janet Rathbun voiced protests concerning snowmobilers, motorcyclists and rowdy children trespassing on private property while using the alley.

Nessel said if residents tried to discipline the children, they wrote obscene words on windows with wax.

Protests concerning the alley paled in comparison to those voiced about the junk. Nessel said there are people in that neighborhood fixing the property up and trying to keep it up.

City Superintendent Mike Dionne said one owner and one occupant in the area had been cited for breaking the city's junk ordinance. "We'll be seeing these people in court very shortly," he said.

He said the offenders had already been in court, but the judge gave them some time after the snow melted to clean up the property. "If not cleaned up at the time stated in the citation then I'll sign a warrant," Dionne said.

Council voted to table the request to close the alley in order to see if the junk ordinance citations were effective.

Dionne said 23 junk ordinance violations had been issued, including the above-mentioned old outstanding ones.

City Attorney Scott Beatty said a resident taken to court on a junk ordinance violation has ten days to correct the problem. If the problem is not corrected, warrants are issued to bring additional prosecutions. If the problem is still not corrected, he said, then the city should consider doing the clean-up and billing the property owner.

Because city council recently approved putting any outstanding bills owed to the city on the tax rolls, an unpaid clean-up bill could lead to the city placing a lien against the property.

Boyne City firemen quickly put out this grass fire Monday afternoon with the help of the DNR trucks and other firefighting equipment. Grass fires at this time of the year seem always to happen when the fire danger is extreme due to the lack of spring rains. The quick action prevented this fire, about one acre in size, from becoming a wild fire that could have consumed homes and other structures. Firemen are urging utmost caution if you have to burn something outside. You must get a burning permit from the DNR or from the county if you intend on burning something outside.

News Briefs

The Michigan Townships Association will offer a legislative update and educational program to District 4 township officials from Charlevoix, Cheboygan, Emmet, Otsego and Presque Isle counties on Tuesday, May 16 as part of the annual Spring Meetings. More than 100 township officials are expected to attend the all-day event at Boyne Mountain Lodge in Boyne Falls.

The deadline is nearing for the annual Charlevoix Transit's Poster Contest. The contest is open to all children in the county and is divided into three groups, pre-school through seven years, eight through 11 years and 12 through 14 years. Prizes range from $100 savings bond for a first place to a $25 savings bond. First place winners will have their posters used on the 1990 transit calendar. Any medium can be used but the size of the poster cannot be bigger than 24 inches by 24 inches.

In an attempt to control frivolous suits, a bill has passed the State House that would require those sued unfairly by the state to be reimbursed for their costs if the suit was shown to be frivolous. The bill is now in the State Senate for their approval.

EJ Industrial Park plans plodding along

South Arm Township officials have asked attorney Timothy Arner to draw up a draft of an agreement which would allow the city of East Jordan to proceed with its plans for an industrial park, Township Supervisor Harold Pletz reported at the township board's April meeting Wednesday.

The agreement is one of several steps that must still be accomplished before the proposed industrial park, to be built on city-owned land located within the township, can become a reality.

John Richter, vice chairman of the city's industrial and economic development commission, said in 1986 the city drew up a contract transferring taxing authority from the township to the city, as allowable under Public Act 425.

"That led to various legal complexities that have taken these three years to resolve," he said. "The contract represents a step somewhere in the middle of the road in this step-by-step approach."

Members of the committee attended the township's March meeting to encourage trustees to approve zoning changes requested by the city. At that time Superintendent Mike Dionne said until the city and township reached an agreement on how the industrial park will be zoned, there could be no agreement which sets tax jurisdictions. It is the latter type agreement that the township attorney has been asked to pursue.

"I'm delighted," said Richter. "That's a critical step that needs to be resolved at this point."

Dionne said he was pleased that "the ball is moving."

The city's IEDC cancelled its April meeting, and no members attended the township's meeting to find out if action had been taken upon the city's rezoning requests. None had, but trustee Neil Olstrom said the matter had been discussed at a township planning commission meeting.

City council proposed 25 feet rear and side setbacks, instead of 50-foot ones required by township zoning. Council also asked for a clearer definition of greenbelt, asking for wording to read: "Maintained grass area that may include trees and/or shrubbery."

Dionne said he would like as many trees as possible preserved in the industrial park's densely wooded site.

Olstrom said he disagreed with the city setting a maximum of eight acres on their proposed plat. When asked if joint meetings were planned between the township and city to iron out the conflicting viewpoints, township board members said a joint meeting had been held before.

Asked if the city would request such a meeting again, Dionne said the city would, but that now would be premature.

The township board also referred two other matters to their attorney: the current zoning on property proposed for the Charlevoix Cove Condominium project and a request from Metaltec for a tax abatement.

Developers previously showed the board a preliminary proposed plat for 40 acres with 700 feet frontage on Lake Charlevoix's South Arm. The property in question is the last northern property on the east side of M-66 inside the township lines.

Metaltec Inc., located on Rogers Bridge Road and on the north side of M-32 filed for an industrial facilities exemption. The company employs 12 people and will add three more within two years of completing an expansion.

In other action the township approved Charlevoix County's solid waste management plan.

The former Lillie M. Kleišt was born Feb. 20, 1987, in Centerline, the daughter of Charles and Minnie (Lenz) Kleišt. She lived in the Detroit area most of her life and in 1915 she married William Behm. He preceded her in death in 1966. In 1978, Mrs. Behm moved to Boyne City.

She is survived by: a son and daughter-in-law, Harold and Helen Behm of Boyne City; three grandchildren; six great-grandchildren; two great-great-grandchildren.

HANNAH NOTESTINE

Hannah Notestine, 81, of Petoskey, died April 15, 1989, at Little Traverse Division, Northern Michigan Hospitals.

A memorial service was held Wednesday, April 19, at the Walloon Lake Community Church. The Revs. Russell Aseltine and Rodney Ward officiated. Burial was in Greenwood Cemetery, Petoskey.

The former Hannah Sauder was born Feb. 13, 1908, in Brutus, the daughter of Abraham and Julian (Ringler) Sauder. She attended school at the Woodlawn country school in the Brutus area and on Nov. 16, 1935, she married Lot Notestine. The couple resided in the Petoskey area and Mr. Notestine died December 11, 1974.

Mrs. Notestine continued to make her home in Petoskey except for a short time when she lived at the Litzemberger Apartments in Boyne City.

She was a member of the Walloon Lake Community Church.

Survivors include: two sisters, Mrs. Esther Warren of Petoskey and Mrs. Elizabeth Heltzel of Bronson, Michigan; a sister-in-law, Mrs. Jake (Mattie) Sauder of Petoskey; a step daughter-in-law, Helen Notestine of Farmington and a stepdaughter Evelyn Unfried of California; a step son-in-law, Paul Hufford of Petoskey; a brother-in-law, Will Notestine of Petoskey; several grandchildren and great-grandchildren and several nieces and nephews.

The family suggests memorials to the Walloon Lake Community Church. Envelopes for that purpose are available at the Stone Funeral Home where arrangements were made.

A new consumer protection law designed to further reduce odometer fraud takes effect April 1 and Secretary of State Richard H. Austin is urging the buyers and sellers of used vehicles to become familiar with its provisions.

Under Public Act 470 of 1988, odometer tampering is upgraded from a misdemeanor to a felony. This change increases the likelihood that prosecutors will be willing to bring charges against individuals accused of odometer tampering.

"Over the past several years, we have enjoyed tremendous success in detecting and acting against odometer tampering and misrepresentation," Secretary Austin said. "This new law provides another enforcement tool which will allow the Department of State's Bureau of Automotive Regulation, the Attorney General, county prosecutors and other authorities to do a better job of eliminating odometer fraud."

In addition to making odometer fraud a felony, the new law requires persons selling a used vehicle to a dealer or another individual to write in the vehicle's mileage, as shown on the odometer, when completing the mileage statement on the back of the vehicle's title. Failure by the seller to fill in the mileage statement on the title could make them subject to a misdemeanor charge.

Finally, as of April 1 automobile dealers must show the purchaser a used vehicle's title and any title reassignment documents belonging to the vehicle, marking the first time that buyers will have easy access to a vehicle's title history before they purchase it. Currently, dealers are only required to give mileage disclosure statements on separate forms.

Department of State officials are emphasizing that Secretary of State branch office personnel will not accept applications for new titles if the existing title does not include the seller's mileage reading. Also, beginning April 1 the Secretary of State will print the mileage reading on the front of all new titles issued for cars 10 years old or newer.

Individuals are encouraged to use the new disclosure requirements when selecting a used vehicle. Consumers should note the prior owner's mileage disclosure on the title, ask questions regarding prior ownership, particularly if the vehicle was formerly owned by a rental or lease company, and note whether there is evidence of erasures or alterations of information on the title. Finally, if the title is issued in the name of the selling dealer, consumers should ask why it was necessary to convert the previous title into the dealership's name.

Dealers and vehicle owners with questions regarding the new law are encouraged to contact the Department of State's Bureau of Automotive Regulation: Wayne-Oakland-Macomb Counties (313) 357-5108; other areas in Michigan 1-800-292-4204.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

Poopurri.
Dogs. Lots of them around town these days, some being trained to a leash while others are just being trained to paper.

Seems like a lot of dogs are using the old wandering technique of getting to know the neighborhood after being kept inside all winter.

Don't see many cats, though, I guess the owners of cats just keep them in the house to purr contently and scratch up the furniture.

We used to have a cat. Seems this past winter it went outside to explore the wilderness of the backyard and discovered the wilderness bites back. Anyway, he never returned and the kids hope he is living the high life at somebody's home out in the country.

Myself, I tend to think he was covered with snow from a county snowplow or some mountain lion decided to come out of the woods of Chandler Township to do him in.

Either thought is kind of gross, but has the same result... no more cat coming home to get a good meal, a warm rug to lay upon, and a human hand to scratch behind the ears.

I won't say that I miss the old boy, he was the only other male in the family, but Monday afternoon as I was driving back from someplace, I saw a sign on a tree that advertised puppies.

I wonder if I could get a dog to do the same things as a cat.

Better yet, I should probably go down to Ben Franklin's or to the Coffee Mill and get a real stuffed dog.

They don't eat much food, require trips to the outside, have to be trained to not mess up the house, and will take all of the loving that is called for in the contract.

They will also stand up to the abuse that the young cousins, future grandchildren and the occasional throwing-into-the-corner-to-get-it-out-of-the-way thing.

My kind of pet.

I wish the city would get off their austerity program. This seems like it is the sixth or seventh year of them telling us taxpayers they are going to be cutting the budgets and reducing the tax load. The only problem with that is that the reduction of tax load is more than made up for with the increased assessments we seem to get every year.

I asked a local real estate salesman if some of the homes being marketed around the town are actually sold for the asking price. He said some are, but most are sold for less than the asking price.

He also said that many are thinking that the rich folks from "down below" are willing to buy almost anything. I think the "rich" folks from down below got that way by being smart and not spending their money foolishly. They know a bargain when it is there and they are willing to pay what something is worth.

And that is why property sells in Boyne and East Jordan.

It is also the reason our taxes keep going up. You see the assessments are figured on the sale of property in the neighborhood.

Now if we could just get everyone to sell their homes at the same price at which they purchased them years ago, then the taxes would not increase. They would just stay the same.

Remembrances

BOYNE CITY, Michigan.

This picture, taken from one of the lumber mills along the waterfront, shows the aerial walkways that were used by the lumber workers taking the "wet" lumber that came out of the mill from the second floor to the drying areas. The workers loaded up a cart with the wood and then pushed it to where they were stacking it up to air dry. The corner of Lake and Water is in the background with the Handy Drug store sign on a building that is now Moore's Hardware. Other buildings in the background include the new high school, which is where the middle school playground is located today. In the right foreground are the repair barns for the railroad which was torn down eight years ago to make room for the parking lot of One Water Street.

Wherein we speak of the merry month of the tasty morel.

Within the past few days it would seem that every pork and beans salesman in the area has been snooping around our back forty checking for mushrooms.

We don't mind. But mushrooms at the hind end of April? Not in this kind of weather. Even the Chamber of Commerce knows that. It is too chilly at night for those potbellied hide-and-go-seek fungi to pop from mother earth. Some people may have found one or two in a shriveled state, but it is a foregone and widely accepted theory that mushrooms require rainy nights and warm mornings before they send good luck abounding in all directions.

That's why most early lookers give up in a gob of gloom and head back to the shimmering gaiety of Boyne City. It is a more sensible place to be when spring is still teetering on the brink.

A couple of guys came up here prowling around in a four by four musing up the land and using poolroom language when they failed to spot one mushroom. I chased them down the road with a stick and a cranked up voice that could have easily run competition to the fire alarm.

I know what the reader is thinking: "You old goat, you can't chase a porcupine off the lawn without becoming winded."

Ha!

Back when stubble began to show on my chin I was sent by the newspaper to cover a council meeting. After two hours of listening I developed a severe case of the heebie-jeebes. The doctor cured me, but the process held me back three years. That's why I am younger than most men my age.

Over the years I have become a seldom recognized genius concerning the why and wherefore of the mushroom. I know their likes and dislikes; one is their loathing for April. They are giggly about May if it is nice to them. In fact I been thinking of writing a pamphlet explaining why during April mushrooms ain't.

It's a caution how some people get the itch to go looking even if it is cold in the woods. Just last week I chanced to go down into our back forty for something and discovered a man and woman huddled in a blanket trying to keep warm after finding not a single morel. It serves them right, I said to myself.

Oh, oh, there's the doorbell. Wait a minute, please. I'll be back.

"Hello, there. What can I do for you?"

A man and woman stood there with a basket. "We picked so many mushrooms on your land this morning we thought it only fair that we share them with you," the man said.

I hope the reader understands that this column really ended up there with that man and woman shivering in a blanket.)

Committee asks to share pending budget with community

Editor:
To the Citizens of Boyne City Public School District:

Soon, as moms, dads, grandmas, grandpas, aunts, and uncles, you will be asked to make a decision about the educational future of the children of the community. You will be asked to determine what the school programs will be for our children. You may not have been asked before, but you are being asked now! In an age of "high tech", our children will need special skills to compete in their life's work. We cannot continue to graduate students based upon yesterday's curriculum. We need to plan for their future - our future!

It never ceases to amaze me how complicated "education" had become. Much of it does not sound anything like it did when we went to school. Everything seems to be "high tech" and "high priced" today. It sure would be nice to go back into a time when we only needed to teach "the basics", a pencil was our calculator and kids went home to milk and cookies after school. The expectations of our schools today are much more complicated.

The many citizen volunteers who have served on the Budget Planning and Curriculum Review Committees for our school district have discovered just how complicated "education" is today. In fact, they will finish their work soon. They have been asked to make recommendations to the community on what school programs will be for the 1989-90 school year. Their work has not been easy. They have recommended cuts in some areas! They have made changes. Many times, they have weighed their pocketbooks against their hearts.

The committee has asked to share their pending budget recommendation with the community. They have scheduled two (2) different meeting dates to insure as much community participation as possible. The days of the meetings are Tuesday, May 2, 1989, at 7 p.m., and again on Saturday, May 6, 1989, at 3 p.m. Both meetings will be held in the elementary school cafeteria stage. All members of our school community are encouraged to attend and participate. You may want to bring your original Budget Review and Evaluation booklet with you. This booklet was sent to all households in February.

Citizens on the committees have talked to many members of the

Storyteller amuses audience with successful "Arts Alive" performance

BY LENORE BECHTEL
While adults sat in chairs arranged in a semi-circle, children plopped down on the floor, right at the feet of storyteller Patty Clark who performed April 14 at East Jordan Middle School.

To give her the intimacy she prefers with an audience, Clark presented her show from the gymnasium floor, rather than elevate herself on stage. Clark's closeness and innate gentleness endeared her immediately to the children, and her effortless angelic voice won immediate respect from the adults.

Young and old alike enthusiastically assisted "The Stone Cutter" character in her first story in achieving his wishes by chanting the repetitive refrain: "And because he believed (clap, clap) he became it." The same cheerful spirit continued throughout the evening.

Clark delivered an exceptional rendition of a song popularized by well known folk singer, Sally Rogers, "I wanta be somebody like me would like."

She also did an exceptional job of teaching the audience to sing two series of consecutive trills that added up to 39 notes. (I counted them!) Although most folks snickered when Clark demonstrated the tricky trill, most sang along, many surprising themselves at being able to deliver what she wanted.

By the time she started the Yiddish story, "It Could Always Be Worse," the audience was in the proper mood to cheer on the story's father, whom she adorned in straw hat and black beard, wielding a rolling pin.

All parts were played by young volunteers whose seriousness about their assigned tasks was a delight, including the two "adorable children" in their red and blue vests and the little old wise man in big-nosed Groucho glasses with huge black eyebrows and black moustache.

Everyone was willing to whine "na-na-nana-na" and "waa-waa" right on cue as the wife and mother argued and the children fought. By the time other volunteers were acting the parts of cows, goats, roosters and chickens, the audience supplied the required moos, neighs, crows and clucks with blithe abandon.

After presenting all the children with keepsake feathers, Clark concluded her program with a song called "Thanks a Lot" - a song the audience could have very appropriately sang to her.

by Gail Ware Ware-withal

Recently I read about a system called "fuzzy logic" which involves programming a computer to work with imprecise, conversational language instead of the exact data it usually processes. It can handle indefinite words like "slightly" or "expensive" in place of mathematical figures like one percent or one million dollars. Dealing with such loose language gives computers more humanlike intelligence according to the theory which also holds that computers reasoning like people can do more. It's worked too, but I can't see how.

Fuzzy logic, the 1965 invention of California computer science professor Dr. Lofti A. Zadeh, has caught on big in Japan. It's used in controlling cranes, elevators, even subway trains there making them run smoother in the city of Sendai. Now fuzziness is being considered for such as detecting driver drowsiness and helping golfers decide which clubs to use by analyzing their swings, which should raise the hopes of small ball losers everywhere.

Fuzzy enthusiasts claim greatness for the system pointing with pride to the fact that using it, a computer can balance a thin stick on end, something even people can't do. (Nor do most people yearn to, so far as I know.) Perhaps I'd be more impressed if I were more enthusiastic about computers, but getting a skinny stick to stand up straight doesn't strike me as a feat of noble proportions.

Anyway, scientists in China, the Soviet Union and Europe are interested in fuzzy logic now. Here at home, it's reception has long been cool, American scientists claiming that our technology is far ahead of that abroad and we already have other systems that do the same things. Rockwell International is considering using it though but says it must first figure out a way to tell how the fuzzy system will act before the company goes forward.

I should think so. Also it might want to consider whether using humanlike reasoning is such a grand idea. I only know my own mind of course, but if it's typical of the human mind, which the system supposedly mimics, then putting its reasoning to general application would not be the most efficient way to go.

Take for example this morning when I was making out my grocery list. I couldn't think what to buy for Sunday dinner. Then, remembering a lovely ad I'd just seen for Hawaii (surfers catching a wave, tanned, bathing suited folks on the beach, etc.) reminded me that my new cookbook has a marvelous recipe for chicken teriyaki pictured as the entree for a complete Hawaiian dinner, so I decided to buy chicken.

Bill paying is another example of my mind's reasoning. I think my doctor is great so I pay him right off. My husband Bob's doctor is kind of a jerk, I think, so I don't. I hold off for varying lengths of time, but not too long because I like him slightly for taking good care of Bob. Utility bills, of course, are paid when due, but payment for books depends on how soon I dip into them and how well I like them.

My logic, which works well for me, could be considered a bit fuzzy I suppose qualifying it for Zadeh's system, but I can't see where it fits in with smoothly running cranes and trains. Of course that's in Japan and the Japanese may think differently.

Perhaps if I used a computer I'd understand how and why the fuzzy logic system works. But as it is, I can't see it, not even fuzzily.

EJ Family Health Center to sponsor talk on cholesterol/heart disease

On May 2, 1989 the East Jordan Family Health Center will be sponsoring a talk on cholesterol and its association with heart disease. Dr. Steven J. Wisniewski will explain cholesterol and how to decrease its use in one's diet. Also included will be a discussion of other ways to decrease risk of heart disease and arteriosclerosis. This presentation will be offered twice: at 2 p.m. following the monthly free blood pressure clinic, and at 7 p.m.; both talks will be in the Community Room on the lower level. There is no charge to the public.

Dramatic duo brings oral tradition to arts council's "Arts Alive" stage

"Human Voices Talking to Human Hearts" will be the theme of a program of poetry, comedy and drama presented by the Jordan River Arts Council at 7 p.m. Friday, April 28, at East Jordan High School and Saturday, April 29, at Bellaire High School.

The presenters are Split Ivorie, a two-person team dedicated to promoting and preserving the oral tradition of reciting and storytelling.

Anne-Marie Oomen and Raymond Nargis both have entertained audiences at Elk Rapid's well-known Stone Circle, where recitations begin at sunset and continue into the night every summer Saturday.

Both have also acted and directed at Old Town Playhouse in Traverse City. Together they have written and published their first chapbook, "Moniker", and both have been published in literary magazines.

They bring to the stage the same excitement they have shared at performances, workshops and presentations at major conferences and writing workshops throughout the state.

Their performance is the fourth of five events scheduled by the arts council in two locations. Still to come is the Fitch Dance Troupe in East Jordan May 12 and Bellaire May 13.

All performances will begin at the high schools at 7 p.m.

Tickets for attendance to both of the last two series events cost $16.50 per family, $11 per couple and $8.25 per person. Equally low-priced single event tickets include special prices for families, seniors and students.

Tickets are available at the door and at chambers of commerce throughout Antrim and Charlevoix counties.

The programs are supported by the Michigan Council for the Arts and the Cheboygan Area Arts Council.

Ann-Marie Oomen is one of a duo that will be presenting a program of poetry, drama and comedy. Ray Nargis is the other half of the duo that together call themselves "Split Ivorie". The two are the fourth performance of five that the East Jordan Arts Council is presenting to the community.

NMHTSA to distribute higher allocation of surplus to needy

The Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency

(NMHTSA) is receiving a much higher allocation of surplus commodities from the U.S. Department of Agriculture (USDA) for distribution to needy families. This is due to a congressional decision last year to counteract the loss of dry milk and cheese with the purchase of food items never before seen in the give-away program. Those new commodities have arrived in Northern Michigan and are expected to be available at the higher levels through the end of the fiscal year.

With only butter and flour being given away in recent months, the average number of household recipients has dropped from a one time high of 12,000 to less than 6,000 in the ten county service area. The food items currently being distributed are: butter, flour, corn meal, canned beans, canned pork, peanut butter, dry egg mix, raisins, and honey. The projected delivery schedule calls for distributions for the months of April, May, June, August, and September.

For additional information contact the NMHTSA office nearest you or call 1-800-632-7334.

community during the budget planning process. All meetings of the committees have been open to the public. The committee members have heard feelings about high taxes. They have seen and heard about assessment increases. They have heard people say, "now more".

They have also heard about "child abuse and neglect" in the community, and the need for a full time social worker to help these otherwise defenseless children. They have heard the school's plea for a drug abuse/social worker in the community, too. They have heard and felt our frustration with the many things schools must do just to begin to teach. They have begun to understand why these sometimes costly programs are important to the environment of all children in the school district, and not just to the children they serve.

Yes, schools today don't merely teach! Schools today are required more and more to solve many of the problems current to our society. Ten years ago Boyne City Public Schools had three special education teachers and there were 25% more students enrolled. Next year we will be mandated by state and federal guidelines to hire our eighth special education teacher. Why? Is it drug and alcohol abuse? Is it the breakup of the American family? All we know is that these kids need help when they come to school! We do feel however, that in the future, our communities, as well as our Nation, need to pull their heads out of the sand and address the problems before they happen (and not after the fact) in our schools.

The maintenance of our existing school program is impossible without all members of the community understanding what it takes to make "education" work. You can do this by sitting down with the budget planning committee to understand the committee's recommendation at one of the above meetings. They will be available to answer your questions and address your concerns. They will make their final recommendation to the Board of Education on May 8, 1989.

Again, the goal of the Budget Planning Committee was to establish an educational program level that meets the needs of all the children and grandchildren of the community. The budget requirements for their recommended programs will be outlined at the budget review meetings on May 2nd and 6th. Also, a special "truth-in-taxation" meeting has been set for May 22, 1989. At this meeting community members can ask questions about how individual property assessments and reassessments in some townships have affected our school district's budget.

Whew! I don't like talking about that budget stuff! I'd rather be working on strategies for improving math or science scores. I would rather be telling you about the exciting things we see happening in our school district. So, let me tell you about the broad direction we see our school district taking and what we see ahead. This is just a simple vision of the work that needed or needs to be accomplished.

First of all, we have established a community-based Curriculum Council. The council will oversee the maintenance and development of the curriculum of our children. All curriculum decisions will be school/community based and board approved. Community participation will continue to be strongly encouraged.

We have established a five year textbook curriculum review outline which will be the basis for an overall "school improvement program" that will be gradually implemented (provided funds are available). The "improvement program" will be developed with active participation by the community. The first step in the development of a "School improvement program" will be a comprehensive statement of educational philosophy. What are we all about? What is it that we feel we should be doing? What should be the educational emphasis for our students? Our Curriculum Council is currently working on this philosophy.

Also, this fall we will revisit a 1987 community report and recommendation on student housing. This community recommendation was to add a wing and move 7th and 8th graders to the high school. This would make room at the middle and elementary schools for more students. A community based "facilities utilization study" will review the 1987 student housing recommendation, re-establish its validity, and/or determine a plan of action to recommend to the board of education. When you have 80 and 90 students in the upper grades and 110 to 130 in the lower grades, something has to give!

Every department in the school district has actively developed a list of recommendations for their respective areas. All employees have been asked to be involved and plan for the maintenance and improvement in their departments. We feel strongly that every employee is a "budget manager" and each of us needs to be aware of costs and cost control measures. The new board policy on purchasing firmly establishes this responsibility.

There are many other "foundations building" things happening in our school district that we are proud of, but we are most excited about the potential for curriculum development and school improvement. I get excited for the kids and the community! I'm pleased with our staff and their accomplishments to date. I'm thankful for the community involvement! See you at one or both of the scheduled meetings. We need your help and understanding! I cannot do it without you! Thank you!

Sincerely,
Robert W. Nakoneczny, Ed. D.

Cooking

COMPANY MEALS

It seems that company meals are out of style. Many times now we go out to our favorite restaurant which is easy on the cook, however, looking back I like to recall the Sunday dinners when we were growing up. Sunday was when we had company or went to a relative's home for the best meal of the week. Restaurants were not available in the Thumb of Michigan at that time and we would never dream of going to one anyway.

Our fathers were dressed in their best Sunday suits and the women were still wearing their church dresses topped with their frilly aprons. The tables were covered with a white table cloth and chicken was usually the main dish with mashed potatoes, gravy and biscuits; and we were expected to use our best table manners.

So I feel that for our children's sake we need company dinners. It is my opinion that young children should be taught good table manners at a very young age so it will be natural for them to handle any situation later in their lives. Table manners inspire tact, diplomacy and respect for others at the table or anywhere else; it is important to their future. We oldsters who were taught to come to the table only when dinner was served, asked for food with "Please and thank you" and "May I be excused" when leaving the table are appalled at the lack of good training on the part of the younger generation.

Enough from an old-fashioned Grandmother! Let's plan a company dinner. I am reminded of a menu like the following which was quite popular a "while back." You do not need to stay home all day—your roast is slowly cooking in the oven and needs no attention. Your salad should be made the night before, and what would be better than cookies and ice cream for the kids of all ages. Grandmother would have pickles, olives and jelly on the table so let's not forget these colorful items for our beautiful table.

Our dinners are more casual now, often served cafeteria style where everyone fixes his own plate and I am all for it. I love the fun of doing this, yet, even here good manners are so very necessary to show respect for our host or hostess who has prepared this meal. I love the place mats, paper plates, napkins and yet I know that we need to know how to use fine china, crystal, and silver without mishaps or confusion.

MENU

Potroast with rice
Perfection salad
Jiffy beans and pineapple
Hot rolls or biscuits
Ice cream and cookies or Strawberry shortcake

POT ROAST OF BEEF WITH RICE

1 lean chuck roast (4 to 4 1/2 lbs.)
3 teaspoons salt
1/4 teaspoon pepper
1 cup uncooked rice
Brown meat on both sides in heavy skillet.
Season with 2 teaspoons salt and pepper. Line 9 by 13 inch pan with heavy duty aluminum foil. Allow sufficient foil to fold over and seal. Place meat in center of foil lined pan. Pour drippings over meat. Seal ends and sides of foil tightly. Roast in slow oven (250 degrees) for about 2 1/2 to 3 hours. Open foil, being careful to save all meat liquid. Place rice in meat broth. Season rice with 1 teaspoon salt. Seal foil again. Return to oven to about 1 hour longer or until rice is tender. Makes 6 servings.

This salad will complement the potroast and rice.

TART PERFECTION SALAD

1 pkg. lemon flavored gelatine
1 cup boiling water
1 cup cold water
1 teaspoon salt
2 tablespoons lemon juice
1 cup finely shredded cabbage
1/2 cup finely diced celery
1/3 cup chopped radishes
1/3 cup chopped green pepper
Lettuce
Mayonnaise

Dissolve gelatine in boiling water. Add cold water, salt and lemon juice. Chill gelatine until partially set. Fold in vegetables. Pour into a 5 cup ring mold and chill until set. Unmold on lettuce leaves and serve with mayonnaise.

Makes 6 servings.

Grandma always had a dish of baked beans on her Sunday dinner table. Here is an easy recipe. It has a beautiful crusty top and the flavor is delicious.

JIFFY BEANS AND PINEAPPLE

2 cans (1 lb. size) pork and beans
1 can (14 oz.) chunk pineapple, drained
2 tablespoons brown sugar
1/4 teaspoon ginger
2 teaspoons soy sauce

Pour beans into a greased baking dish or casserole. Cover with the well-drained pineapple. Sprinkle with brown sugar, ginger and soy sauce. Bake in moderate oven 350 degrees for 25 to 30 minutes.

Arrangements for concert also a symphony

Editor:

On Friday, April 21, the Michigan State University Orchestra treated the Boyne City citizens to an evening of powerful music. The arrangements for the concert were a symphony in themselves. I would like to extend my heartiest thanks to all the individuals, businesses and organizations who worked together to make the magnificent concert a reality.

To Bob Wollenberg who not only came up with the original idea, but also made the initial contact with Michigan State and then shouldered the immense flood of arrangements at Boyne City High School. His enthusiasm inspired the students to prepare the warm welcome of balloons, streamers, signs and flowers. He arranged for the orchestra's dinner in the school cafeteria beforehand and for the reception following the concert.

To Dale Meyer and Dave Smith of the MSU Alumni Association who enthusiastically contacted the sponsoring businesses, whose backing insured the fee to MSU.

To Gen Varnum and Anne Thurston who arranged with Boyne City families to house the 90 students.

To Vicki Williamson and the Xi Gamma Sorority and to Ralph Stowe and the Eta Nu Sorority for the hundreds of cookies that they baked for the reception.

To John Hunt and the Boyne City Boosters for spreading the word.

To the sponsors, the East Jordan Iron Works, The Harborage/Water Street Inn, Staford's One Water Street, NBD Petoskey and Boyne City, Tallberg Chevrolet-Oldsmobile, Inc., Meyer True Value Hardware, Northwestern State Bank, Allied Signal/Guidance Systems, Industrial Magnetics, Inc., Glen's Family Center, Lake Street Video, Carter's Market, the Petoskey News Review, the City of Boyne City and the Crooked Tree Arts Council.

To Debbie Rohe, Kathy Raney, Linda Snyder, Gen Varnum, Bob Wollenberg, and Jean Warner for handling the distribution of tickets and posters.

To Anne Thurston for designing the poster.

To Doug Shields and Prestige Press for printing the posters, tickets and programs.

To Sean Ley of Crooked Tree Arts Council who directed and expedited the entire effort.

To the wonderful citizens of Boyne City who turned out by the hundreds to hear the Michigan State Symphonic Orchestra and gave them a standing ovation.

Public hearing set for EJ signs, shopping center

BY LENORE BECHTEL
The East Jordan Planning Commission has scheduled a public hearing for 5 p.m. May 11 to consider a rezoning request that would allow Jim Petrie of Petrie Construction Company to build a shopping center on East State Street, which is Deer Lake Road.

Both Commission Chairman Tom Sheridan and Commissioner Don Skinkle said they had spoken to neighbors of the property in question and had found no opposition. Although the area is zoned R-2A, the predominant use in the area is now R-2. The zoning needed for Petrie to construct the proposed building is C-2.

The building is of the mini-mall type, which would house three businesses under one roof, including a grocery store and a laundramat.

Commissioners scheduled a second public hearing for 5:15 the same date to consider a proposed change in zoning from R-1 to R-2 on Nichols Street property owned by Don and Teresa Skinkle. The rezoning is necessary to allow them to build a duplex on 2.9 acres on the north side of Nichols just west of the creek.

Sheridan pointed out that granting the request would continue with the use existing and would not constitute spot zoning in that there are three non-conforming duplexes adjoining the property.

The planning commission will hold its regular monthly meeting following the two public hearings.

Variations granted to EJ businesses

The East Jordan Board of Appeals granted variances for an extra large canopy and sign after public hearings Monday, April 24. Arland Leonard of Alf Corporation, which has purchased Jerry's Bar and Grill, asked for a variance to put a canopy on the building. The 40-inch canopy — 10 inches larger than zoning regulations permit — will extend around the corner of the building, located at the intersection of Main and Mill streets. The bar has been renamed Lumberjack Saloon.

Leonard said he planned other improvements to beautify the building, including the replacement of 18 windows with new windows and shutters. The other improvements do not require a variance and will not have to be considered at the public hearing.

The board of appeals also granted a request to replace Glen's Market's existing sign with a larger one.

Tom Amor of Amor Signs Studio in Gaylord said the food chain is making a change of logo and image in all 18 stores. The existing 384 square foot sign on the building, which sets back 500 feet from M-66 will be replaced with a gray awning with a red-lettered sign area of approximately 100 square feet.

Rather than appeal to the public from the building itself, Glen's would like to better identify the entrance at M-66. He said the same color coordination would be used at all stores, and approval for the sign had been given by all other involved governing bodies except in Charlevoix, where their building is in a shopping center in which no signs are allowed.

The internally illuminated proposed sign of 14 by 9 feet will have two smaller signs under it for businesses that might locate on the same property. The existing sign is 5 by 10 feet.

The variance procedure requires the property owners within 300 feet be notified of the request and a public hearing be held.

Twin Rivers 4-H plants 3000 pines

The Twin Rivers 4-H Community Club has just finished planting 3000 red pine trees this past weekend on South Shore Drive. Sixteen members put in six long hours. Each member will have something to be proud of as they drive by these pines in 20 years.

The Club has 50 members from ages five through 18 and 12 leaders. The Community Club leader is Leo Behling. At the monthly community meeting, the general membership meets to discuss future fundraisers and activities. There are 14 project areas of which the members may choose to be in. Such as: lambs with Trisha Tuggles; steers with Terry Reinhardt; veal, dairy and competition judging with Sue Seitz; swine with Behling; rabbits and poultry with Rosemary Karkosak; veterinary science with Dr. Colleen Thorpe; ceramics with Lucinda Hall; archery with Steve Miller; auto mechanics with Tom Reid; art with Rebecca Andrews; photography with Janice Deckrow; and goats with George Grundner.

4-H is a means of developing leadership and parliamentary procedure. Members get to better themselves in a project area or try something new. The members also organize and prepare for events like Achievement Day and the fair.

For the last two years the club has gone on a canoe trip the week after the fair. This year they'd like to go to the State Fair in Detroit. So to build up their funds they are going to have spaghetti and salad bar dinner May 5 at the Eagles Lodge in Boyne City, from 5 p.m. until 8 p.m.

If you are interested in becoming a member of a 4-H club contact Jane Regenmorter at 582-6232.

Visitor's Bureau thinks mushroom season behind

This year's mushroom season may be running a bit behind due to cold weather, said Peter Fitzsimons of the Boyne Country Convention and Visitors Bureau.

"We expect a good crop, but mushroom hunters may not find their usual numbers until later in the season," he said.

Some of the better locations for morels include the state lands north of Harbor Springs and forests east of Boyne Falls and Petoskey.

Mobile nitrate testing van to visit county

The MSU Cooperative Extension Service Mobile Nitrate Testing Van will be in the area Monday, May 1st to test soil & water samples for nitrates. Nitrate testing of soil is an excellent, inexpensive way of evaluating the available nitrogen status of your soil. Michigan State University research and demonstration studies have shown that many farmers could reduce their nitrogen fertilizer applications rates on corn and potatoes without risk of reducing yields.

Nitrate nitrogen in drinking water may be a sign that some contamination has occurred.

Deep soil samples to a depth of 24 inches are required to accurately measure the amount of nitrate nitrogen in the field. Fields which have received heavy amounts of manure and/or large amounts of nitrogen fertilizer should be tested.

If you are interested in participating, call either the Charlevoix CES office at 582-6232 or the Antrim CES office at 533-8706 by Monday, April 24th. We will come out and take the test. Cost for soil test are $5 per field. Water samples are $1.

In other action, the commissioners sent back to the planners the proposed amendment to the zoning code which would allow non-conforming uses to be expanded, replaced, or changed to a lesser degree of land use. The commissioners were supposed to have had the first reading which would start the amendment into law. Instead, the planners will have to see some changes the commissioners made in the wording, approve the changes and bring it back to the commissioners for final approval.

They also agreed to sign a quit claim deed to Mr. and Mrs. Elwood Hardy for some land they own and have claim to. The land was sold in 1943 and the deed was never registered. A new deed would be issued to clear up the property.

Finally, the city approved the setting of the millage to be set for the community. The total amount of millage to be collected in taxes will be 21.40 with 16 mills going for city operation, 5.09 mills for the voted infrastructures debt retirement and .031 for the city hall debt retirement.

PUBLIC HEARING

BOYNE CITY ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS Thursday, May 18, 1989 5:05 p.m.

Commission Chambers - City Hall

Pursuant to rules and regulations as set by the Boyne City Zoning Ordinance concerning granting of variances, the Boyne City Zoning Board of Appeals has scheduled a Public Hearing for Thursday, May 18, 1989 at 5:05 p.m. in the Commission Chambers of City Hall, 319 N. Lake Street, to consider the following:

The variance request is from the Harborage Marine Company, 901 E. Division Street and includes the following request:

1. A variance is being requested for a sign to be installed at the entrance to the facility advertising sales and services of boats and motors and accessories. The company has already used up their allotted allowance of square foot signage. They would like a variance to exceed the maximum allowable square footage by 48 square feet for a one sided, wooden freestanding sign. A free standing sign is allowable in a Highway Commercial District.

Additional details and a location map of the variance request will be available for review at the City Clerk's Office, during regular business hours, prior to the Zoning Board of Appeals Meeting.

All property owners residing within 300 feet of this property are being notified via U.S. mail.

All interested persons are invited to attend the Public Hearing on this variance request. Anyone for or against this variance request may be present at the meeting to present testimony or may make their statements via letters or phone calls to the City Clerk. Phone (616) 582-6597 for more information.

PUBLIC HEARING

BOYNE CITY ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS Thursday, May 18, 1989 5:05 p.m.

Commission Chambers - City Hall

Pursuant to rules and regulations as set by the Boyne City Zoning Ordinance concerning granting of variances, the Boyne City Zoning Board of Appeals has scheduled a Public Hearing for Thursday, May 18, 1989 at 5:05 p.m. in the Commission Chambers of City Hall, 319 N. Lake Street, to consider the following:

The variance request is from Doreen Wright, owner of Unit No. 5 at the Maple Shore Condominium Complex at the corner of W. Michigan Avenue and John Street and includes the following request:

1. She wishes to construct a 16 foot by 19 foot addition to Unit No. 5 and add a second story over the entire enlarged home. Since this complex is zoned R-2 and all units do not have defined lot lines to adhere to the required setback requirements, a special variance must be granted for this home to be enlarged.

Additional details and a location map of the variance request property location will be available for review at the City Clerk's Office, during regular business hours, prior to the Zoning Board of Appeals meeting.

All property owners residing within 300 feet of this property are being notified via U.S. mail.

All interested persons are invited to attend the Public Hearing on this variance request. Anyone for or against this variance request may be present at the meeting to present testimony or may make their statements via letters or phone calls to the City Clerk. Wildfire cautions listed by DNR

Wildfires are a serious problem Michigan faces annually, especially in April and May, before "green up" of vegetation occurs. "Warm, windy spring days are when most wildfires occur," said DNR Fire Prevention Specialist Art Sutton. "The majority of our wildfires stem from backyard cleanups such as burning trash without a meshed lid, burning brush, leaf piles and grasses along ditches and fence and tree rows. Even when the ground is still wet, warm weather and winds dry dead grass and leaves into prime tinder for a wildfire," Sutton said.

Most wildfires can be prevented if everyone would use extreme care with all fires, according to DNR wildfire prevention specialists. They recommend the following guidelines for burning.

- Contact your local fire authorities for burning regulations and permits. Burning restrictions may be in effect in your area.
- Don't burn on windy days. Burn in the evening when wind speed is down and control is easier.
- Have water and hand tools (shovels) available while burning.
- Clear area of burnable material at least 10 feet in diameter of burn sites.
- Never leave a fire unattended.
- Have a cover on the burn barrel with holes no larger than 3/4 inch. It's the law!
- Keep leaves, tall grasses and wood piles away from buildings.

For reporting someone who has intentionally set a wildfire, call Michigan's toll-free arson line: 1-800-44-ARSON.
