

A flip of the wrist makes them grads

With a flip of the wrist, Boyne City and East Jordan seniors flipped their tassels to become former students of the school system. Both Boyne and East Jordan seniors graduated last week in well attended ceremonies. Commencement speaker for the Boyne grads was former Boyne City student Carl Charon, a 1958 graduate.

County planners back peddle, approve of Boyne City marina

County planners, after being asked by the county commissioner to review the A-95 request, finally agreed to approve the request that will allow Boyne City to enlarge the City Marina by 12 additional slips at their monthly meeting last Thursday.

The planning body's executive board had originally decided to send a letter to the federal government saying that the proposed marina expansion was not in the best interests of the county as it went against the Lake Charlevoix Management Plan.

The problem arose when County Commissioner Phil Johnson raised the question about the letter at a meeting several weeks ago.

Another part of the problem is that the Lake Management Plan has never been approved by the county commission, which would have made the plan a matter of law. They just accepted the plan two years ago when it was completed and tabled any action upon it.

The planners thought they should use the plan, no matter what the commissioners had done, and, while looking at the request for expansion, decided the total number of slips that were being proposed to be rebuilt and constructed was not within the limits of the lake management recommendations.

They thought the city would need additional lake frontage based on the plan proposal of one slip for each 200 feet of lake frontage.

When they made the decision not to agree with the Boyne City request, they did it without notifying the city that the A-95 review was going to come in front of them at the meeting held last month. When they could not decide whether the enlargement was correct, they referred the decision to the executive committee who decided it was against the ideas expressed in the Lake Management Plan.

Last Thursday, with City Manager Randy Frykberg and about eleven other supporters of the project present, the planners reheard the marina expansion request.

When Frykberg presented the plan, he told the planning body that this was not a new plan, it has been in the proposal state since 1985 when the expansion of the marina was approved by the state. Frykberg told the planners the approval and the permits were good until December of this year.

After hearing the plan was permitted by the state, the planning body found a way to finally approve the plan.

Frykberg told the planners that after the DNR had received the letter of disapproval, they have had the plan on hold. The planning body agreed to send another letter that will allow the expansion, based on the new information that was presented at the meeting.

One of the county commissioners in attendance at the planning meeting, Walt Hufford, told the planners they should work up a policy that will clear the way for A-95 reviews. That way, when reviews come in front of the planners, they would have a procedure to follow.

In a discussion about the request, planner Larry Levegood told the other planners that the Lake Management Plan was intended to control the amount of boat usage on the lake.

But, according to Sandra Stanley, another planning commission member, the county does not have any control over the Home Rule Cities, and the usage of the Lake Management Plan could not come in to effect because it had not been approved by the city or even by the county.

The new motion which will cause a letter to be sent to the DNR says the planners now approve wholeheartedly, the proposed rebuilding of docks and the expansion of the marina by the city after reviewing the new information received.

EJ looking for additional millage

An East Jordan committee called Quality Schools for Quality Kids is hard at work soliciting support for the millage proposal which voters will be asked to approve at the school election Monday, June 12.

The Reverend Dave Downtown, Presbyterian Church minister who is chairman of the committee, said the committee is trying to make sure that people who feel the

Recall election may be stopped

There is a possibility that Boyne City school system residents may not have to vote in a special recall election June 27. That possibility depends on what Judge Richard Pajtas rules on a suit that was filed in the 33rd Circuit Court June 12.

The suit was filed by Rea Reinhardt, Dave Guzniczak and Richard May, the three school board members that were named in recall petitions, after learning that between 20 and 24 signatures were added to petitions after the eight day review period the three had to challenge signatures.

The signatures were added back by Jane Brannon, the Charlevoix County Clerk after reviewing the lists of active and non-active voters eligible to sign petitions she received from the township and city clerks.

Those names were not seen by the three named, and they have asked for a clarification of rules concerning the adding of signatures after the challenge period and without the three being able to review the additions.

The three have asked the court to either disallow the names that were added, or give them a chance to challenge the signatures with another eight day period.

If the court rules that the adding of names was wrong, then both Guzniczak and Reinhardt would not have to face the recall elections because there would not be enough signatures to force the election.

The suit also asks the judge to rule the recall vote for Richard May as moot since he is not running for election and is ending his term June 30.

The signatures count needed for Reinhardt is only four while Guzniczak has ten signatures over the amount needed for the election.

Originally, the recall drive supporters had tried to garner enough signatures to recall Thelma Behling, Judy Follette, Bea Reinhardt, Dave Guzniczak and Richard May. After the first challenge by the people named, Reinhardt and Behling did not have enough valid signatures to have their names added to the ballot.

Be sure to remember to vote in the annual school elections next Monday. Important issues are at hand and voters will be electing new members of their school boards. The voting place in Boyne City is at the middle school, in East Jordan, at the Civic Center. Over in Charlevoix, voters will have to go to the elementary school

The section of M-32 from east of the East Jordan bridge to outside the eastern city limits will be repaved by the state this summer. Prior to the paving, the city's department of public works is replacing an existing sewer — the reason for the construction and one-way traffic between Main and Third streets.

June 20 at 4 p.m. is the deadline for East Jordan residents to file petitions to run for mayor or city council. Petitions, which may be picked up at city hall, need 25 valid signatures to run for mayor and 10 to run for council.

Members of the Class of 1969 dedicated a white oak tree in honor of Al Litzsberger, a former teacher at the Boyne City High School who died recently. Of each relative or friend placed a shovelful of dirt in remembrance of him. Participating at the ceremony was Joel Smith as class friend.

Horton Bay striving to become 'kinder and gentler.' Parade is "go"

Despite the rampant and unsettling rumors, there will be a Fourth of July Parade in Horton Bay. But — there will be no tall sailing ships, no thousand points of light, or no great promises. Just our usual erratic fare of what we like to think of as "Bay Mania".

Bay Township and Horton Bay, like the rest of the Nation, are striving to achieve a "kinder and gentler" place in which to live and grow. We cannot claim any new taxes but we can adopt a new unity of spirit while we work together to achieve what we believe in — a healthy, happy place to live. And to us, happiness includes a SUPER Fourth of July Parade!

With spring finally erupting around us, our new spirit seems to be showing those latent signs of the insane craziness which makes The Bay so unique. You were forewarned last year that these feelings might recur; and even now we can feel the presence of Windigo in the air, as if guiding us toward a major event. And, yes, we have noticed many of you displaying early symptoms of the dreaded "Bay Mania".

To refresh your memory, a Bay Maniac is a person ingrained with that irrepressible desire to parade, especially in Horton Bay. A Bay Maniac is truly an exhibitionist. They are proud of an undying faith in The Parade and will go to great lengths from the sublime to the ridiculous to help make it a success. That success lies in pleasing the folks who come to watch Horton Bayers "do our thing"! And once you have experienced Bay Mania, you will be forever addicted. So let's forget the troubles of the world for a day and Parade through Horton Bay on the Fourth with a smile, showing the pride we have for our country and for our community, knowing we are making the world a happier place for a day.

Random thoughts.

Have you noticed how frozen yogurt stores have become the latest business craze around the area? Seems like a new store is opening up every week in all of the communities of the north. I wonder if frozen yogurt sells better from the stores or if it sells better not frozen in the groceries?

We only have two more weeks of spring left before the tourist season is upon us. Some of the tourists are in the area already, due to downstate and out of the state schools shutting down earlier in the year. Must be the teachers get their fill of the students about the first of May and want to end the school year as much as the students.

After watching the county planners at a meeting last week, I am amazed that they can function with any authority at all. They seem to be doing their thing without informing the public what they are going to cover at a meeting. At least the cities tell everyone that a project is coming up for review. The county just does it without telling even those involved. At least that was the case in the Boyne City Marina Expansion plan.

And speaking of the planners, they had this top drawer committee a couple of years ago work up a lake management plan. But, they seemed to forget some of the aspects of planning like leaving some room for commercial boating activities. They only wanted to control the number of boats being put onto the lake by the homeowners and the present marina facilities. It seems like they forgot the lake has access to a big lake, and that any boater who wants can just sail on in without any of the controls. The controls are only for the property owners. Another factor in the plan is that when they tried to control boats, they came up with a theoretical number of boats, prepared a map of the lake with all of those boats in it, and showed the committee what it would look like. But like any statistical interpretation, they forgot to tell anyone that the lake would never see that many boats at any one time including the foreseeable future.

The lake and boating is self limiting, due to either the cost of the boat, the availability of ramp space, and the 11,000-plus lakes within the state.

If you were a boater and saw that there was no parking for your car and trailer, assuming you were a "transient" boater, you would probably truck off to another lake.

For the property owners who live on the lake, they would be self limited to two or three craft, depending on the richness of the property owner, the number of children, and the amount of time available for boating. Besides, you can only ride in one boat at a time.

But the planner bought the package and set up rules to limit something that doesn't need limiting.

Thank God the county commissioners saw through much of the plan and agreed to just accept it as a report. I don't think we really need it and I think that the well intentioned group of people that spent a couple of years putting it together should be thanked for their time, but told that it isn't feasible to direct the whims of mankind.

Rules or no rules.

Letters

Thanks to hunters of lost son

Editor:

With all the attention that the media gives to the tragedies of the world, it is nice, occasionally, to know that there are still some compassionate, caring individuals. The point was brought home to me on the evening of May 26th while making one of my periodic camping trips to the East Jordan area.

Shortly after 5:00 that evening my seven year-old son got lost in the woods about four miles south of town, just over the county line. There is no way to adequately express the thanks that are due to the people who dropped what they were doing to help in finding him.

I am sure there must have been a hundred people involved in some way in the search. I do not know their names or where they come from, but these folks deserve a bigger "Thank you" than I am capable of expressing.

There are a few whom I can single out. Harry Brooks, his friend Rex, and Larry and Carol Phaneuf, who live in the area, were out tramping through the woods as soon as they became aware of the problem. Antrim County Sheriff's Deputy Terry Skurnit coordinated the search efforts, and Ted Odell chose to ignore a directive to stay with his vehicle when he heard a noise in the woods. That noise turned out to be a very lost, very frightened little boy.

I hope these people all know that they will always be in my thoughts. Again, thanks everybody!

Regards,

Terry T. Brown

Boyne City's PRIDE needs voters' help

Editor:

American Pride is the theme of Boyne City's 4th of July parade. Think about the word PRIDE. What does it mean? The dictionary defines PRIDE as a sense of dignity, self-respect, and value. Boyne City needs to nourish PRIDE in its community and its school system through caring and involvement.

People have asked me what has happened to our school sports program. Why has it gone downhill? It is my feeling that the reason is a lack of parental and community involvement and support.

We, in the Boosters, are looking toward the future with vision. We hope that with the community and the school staff working together, our PRIDE will return and more people will get involved.

This community and the schools belong to all of us and we

Opinions

One tax increase we must have

After reviewing the mass of information concerning the Boyne City and East Jordan millage proposals asking the voters to approve additional millage requests, we have finally concluded that we are for the addition, even if it means that we will be paying more in taxes.

In Boyne City's case, we don't want to see the school having to cut out something that is non-academic like busing the students. We went through that last year and the only result of the whole matter was the approval in November of a one year request and a recall campaign that suggested the school board members did not spend the school's money prudently.

This year, the request for the additional three mills includes money to pay for the busing of students. The other money that the millage will bring into the system will go for the additional costs of running the school as almost everything, from school books to insurance and salaries have risen over the last several years.

Sure, some are going to say that the school gave away all their money to pay for additional salaries of teachers, but you have to remember, almost 80 percent of the expenses at the schools are costs related to teachers and administrators.

And if we intend to provide a decent education to the children of the community, we have to bear the costs of providing the teachers who will be doing the job.

If we don't approve Boyne City's request, then the school board will have to look at programs that will be cut. That means there may not be a gifted and talented program, there may not be athletics, there may not be a wood shop, or a science lab. Teachers may be canceled out because the school system cannot afford them to teach things like Spanish, homemaking, drama, and other activities that many consider important to our children's education.

In East Jordan, the additional millage will all go to pay for the increased costs of providing an education, much like Boyne City.

We approve both requests.

And we hope that others will see that the needs require us to dig a little deeper into our short pockets to provide a quality education for our children.

For many, the request will not see much of a change in their tax load as they are protected by the clause that allows the state to reimburse the taxpayer, based on the amount of money earned during the year. This will see many of our senior citizens not having much of an argument against the increase as they will see a cap on their tax load.

For the others who will see their taxes increase, we urge them to see the situation in the same light as we do.

The schools need the money and have shown us that they are not spending it frivolously.

Marshall Sayles

A professional deep thinker with his fingers on the pulse of America's current events used a national television news broadcast to impart certain findings about we who have our being in this half-brother section of the Wolverine State.

He said: "Northwestern Michigan is the fastest growing area in the United States."

Now there's a man who knows what he is talking about. The other morning I tried to get out of bed and realized that I was growing older faster than necessary.

No, I cannot criticize his findings about our fast growth. A week ago we hired a young fellow to mow the acre of lawn surrounding our house. Today it is higher than when he cut it. Seven days of astonishing rapid growth. Never have I seen such quick growth in northwestern Michigan. Right now this is the only area in the United States where you can sit on your porch and see the grass grow.

And the man was correct in other respects. He allowed as how our resort areas are developing more rapidly than any in the entire fifty states with Canada thrown in for good measure. (It always disturbs me when Canada is thrown in for good measure.)

But the man was right. You can't go downtown these days without seeing someone. Strangers seem to be rushing here from all sections of mother hen.

When I was a Boyne City boy piling cord wood for a quarter, nothing ever happened quick.

You had to water the grass to make it grow. You had to invite friends from Cross Village, or throw a celebration to get a joyful bunch in town.

Some quit in the tenth grade, leaving town to find work in the busy haunts of Detroit. Some stayed, working and griping at the shoe sole factory; others worked on farms that weren't really farms at all. There was a small summer resort stirring at Walloon, petting out after ten weeks of sunshine. The best years of our lives, I always say.

Ah! But something happened. I've never seen a time when something hasn't happened.

After World War II crept off into the sunset, large numbers of people began to see the big cities for what they were. Big cities. Many came north to vacation and forgot to go home. After settling down they whistled up their relatives, "Get yourself up here." Their kin had friends and those friends had friends.

And now, over forty years later, we hear a government VIP stating on national TV that "Northwestern Michigan is the fastest growing area in the nation."

I really don't mind growing older faster, or seeing grass pop from the ground, but I do wish someone would tell those pilgrims that if they don't stop invading these incorporated limits, our brand new sewer and water system ain't going to make it.

Consider the ballpoint pen. It doesn't have the great green glow nor the status price tag of the more highly regarded hero of the home and workplace, the computer. Still the simple tool has a more colorful history; in fact too much color delivery has been its problem except for the version in which the marks it made soon became colorless. It also took longer than the computer to get whipped into shape, almost 60 years.

The first concept for a ballpoint pen came from John J. Loud of Weymouth, Massachusetts. Back in 1888 he got a patent on a pen tipped with a small ball bearing that rotated in a reservoir of fluid and produced the desired figures and letters on paper. That's how Loud envisioned it anyway. In practice the pens loosed fluid uncontrollably when used making a smeary mess. Disheartened, Loud and his pen were heard from no more.

Then in 1919 in Hungary, Landislas Biro with brother Georg thought up a ballpoint pen. As luck would have it, they happened to show their experimental model to a fellow who turned out to be Augustin Justo, President of Argentina. Impressed, Justo invited the Biros to set up a ballpoint factory in his country.

Apparently in no hurry, Landislas didn't act on this offer for quite some time. As a teenage army veteran, likely he couldn't afford just the expense of making such a long trip. Twenty years later, though, he could and did but barely, arriving in Buenos Aires in 1939 with ten dollars in his pocket.

Nevertheless, four years later his pens were in production and went on the market. Alas, they leaked too, but Landislas made money on his ballpoints. He sold his North American and Caribbean marketing rights to the pen to the Sheaffer Company for a half-million dollars.

Back home in the land of its first conception, the ballpoint pen was reintroduced by Sheaffer a year later, 1944. The pen made a big hit this time, one store selling $100,000 worth in a single day.

But the big sales lasted only until a little drawback was noted; the ink disappeared after being exposed to sunlight. Once the banks took a dim view of this shortcoming and of checks signed with such a pen, the ballpoint boom was over.

In 1945, the ballpoint went back across the sea, this time to France where Baron Marcel Bich fiddled with it in a suburban Paris shed. He soon came up with a version that both hung on tight to the ink flow and had color that didn't fade in fair weather. A star was born.

And so it was that after 57 years the ballpoint pen was finally refined. Within a few years, 18 factories were turning out Bic pens, seven million of them a day.

One has to grant a measure of respect to this tough little tool that proved so hard to tame. The saying, "The pen is mightier than the sword," may or may not be true, but for sure the ballpoint pen has proved a greater challenge than the computer when it comes to getting shaped up.

BOAT GALLEY RECIPES

I had qualms; I was not sure I could be a good sailor when we planned a weekend on Don's sailboat. We were to sail from Marina Del Rey to Long Beach in California.

We went to a fast food place and stocked up on sandwiches and salads for the trip and sailed out about noon on Saturday. I was immediately transported into another world and I was very relieved to find that we were always within sight of land. We saw seals resting on the buoys and tanks, and porpoises and on the way home we sighted one whale. I could not believe the size of the Long Beach Harbor. I learned that there are marinas where people can register their boats and stay for the night; we arrived at ours just before dark. These marinas have everything for the traveler; places to shower and dress, walking distance to restaurants and other shopping places. We had a delicious dinner at a "Rusty Pelican" then back to the boat.

I had misgivings about sleeping. I was to sleep in the little galley where a bed was made up on top of the stove! There was a bed in the bow for Don and Gloria. The gentle motion of the boat and the sound of the water lapping its side put me to sleep almost immediately. I was up with the sun the next morning and Don put the stove to use making our breakfast — the best breakfast I ever had. Sausages, eggs, hash browns, English muffins and good hot coffee. This meal was to last us until we arrived back at Marina Del Rey. We sailed around the Queen Mary and Howard Hughes' Spruce Goose and arrived home just before dark. My diary for that day reads, "Feb. 27, 1982. I will re-live this trip over and over again in my pleasant memories. This is the kind of memories that boat owners all over are making for their families."

Now, Don is re-building his small kitchen at home to be exactly like a real ship's galley. A sailor from "way back" he knows that everything has to have its own solid place and the need to use a minimum amount of utensils. So our recipes must be the kind to use just as few dishes as possible. Many times when the weather is rough the recipe must be very simple with few ingredients, however at other times the cook can "go all out" preparing gourmet foods. In most ships' galleys anything that can be cooked in an apartment kitchen can be prepared. Put some potatoes to bake in the oven with this meat loaf and you will have a stick-to-the-ribs meal for hungry sailors.

GALLEY STYLE MEAT LOAF
 1 1/2 lbs. ground beef
 1 1/2 cups dry bread crumbs
 1 lb. ground pork
 1/2 cup diced carrots
 1/4 cup milk
 1/4 cup chopped onion
 2 eggs, beaten
 1/4 cup celery, diced
 About 1 teaspoon Worcestershire sauce
 salt and pepper to taste

For the bread crumbs, I toasted fresh bread lightly to make them. Combine ground beef and pork and all other ingredients. Mix well. Place in a 9x5 inch baking loaf pan (greased). Bake in a moderate oven (350°) for 1 1/2 hours or until done. My family really liked this meat loaf.

This is the kind of soup that Don would make either at home or on his boat.

TUNA BROCCOLI SOUP
 1 (7oz.) can tuna
 1 (10 oz.) pkg. frozen, chopped broccoli
 3 tablespoons butter or margarine
 2 tablespoons flour
 1 teaspoon onion salt
 Dash of pepper
 Dash nutmeg
 1 qt. milk
 1/2 cup liquid from the broccoli

Drain tuna. Break into large pieces. Cook broccoli as directed on package. Drain. Save liquid. Melt butter; blend in flour and seasonings. Add milk gradually and cook until thick and smooth, stirring constantly. Add broccoli, liquid and tuna; heat. Serves 6.

You might not be making fancy desserts, however, salads are always in demand. Here is an old recipe from a Wilkin Whiskey Book. This is just the way my mother made...

MOTHER'S COLE SLAW
 1 head cabbage
 1 cup sugar
 1 teaspoon mustard
 1/2 teaspoon salt
 Pepper
 2 eggs
 1 cup top milk
 1 cup vinegar
 Cut cabbage in quarters and soak in cold water until crisp. Drain and shred fine. Mix sugar, mustard, salt and dash of pepper. Add eggs and mix well, then add the milk. Add vinegar slowly and cook over a low heat, stirring all the while, until thickened. Chill. Pour over the cabbage and serve.

Mrs. Wilkin states that "This recipe has been in our family for eighty years, passing from generation to generation."

millage should be passed get out to vote.

"If the millage doesn't pass, we're going to see reductions in programs, or staffing, or in materials the schools have," Downtown said. "There are a lot of basic needs not being met because of costs running ahead of income, and we need a big part just to stay even."

Downtown pointed out that East Jordan spends much less per student than other counties, particularly mentioning computers as so necessary in society today.

"The students in the schools need to have quality education which includes good discipline, computer sciences and academic proficiency to compete in society when they graduate," Downtown said.

His committee has looked through voting lists from the last ten years, identified people apt to vote favorably and spent two days contacting them by phone.

Superintendent Chip Hansen said he is "cautiously optimistic" that the millage will pass. "I think the school has lots of friends in the East Jordan community, and the citizen committee defining goals is likely to have a positive effect on the election," he said. "We've had good support."

The get-out-the-vote committee is a branch of the Public School Citizen Committee, which recently evaluated the district's needs and made staff, facility and curriculum recommendations to the board of education.

The East Jordan Board of Education followed the recommendations in asking voters to approve 3.95 mills which will enable the district to maintain the status quo, reinstate a middle school principal and hire a K-8 guidance counselor.

A second proposal asks for .25 mill to purchase computers and vocational education equipment. If passed, it will add nothing to residents' tax bills because it will replace a .25 mill debt retirement reduction.

A third proposal asks voters to override a Michigan constitution amendment and allow the school district to levy the maximum millage rate authorized by the voters.

In June of 1988 voters turned down a 1.5 mill proposal, and the board of education had to dip heavily into the school district's fund balance during the 1988-89 school year. It is depleted to the point that it can't withstand any increases in expenditures, Hansen said. The millage is therefore necessary just to maintain the school's status quo.

If all three proposals pass, the cost to the average East Jordan resident (based on a $12,000 SEV) will be $44.40 a year. East Jordan millage has been historically stable, with the current millage

The top ten students of the Boyne City High School graduating class received a rousing applause during the graduation ceremonies last Friday. After getting their diplomas, the graduates released balloons and boarded buses for the second annual BAC-PAC All Night Graduation Party where the grads were feted with plenty of activities all night long. The party was deemed a success by many who were in attendance although a few of the parents and organizers were dead tired the next day. The students, though, were up and off after a short nap in many cases. Included in the Top Ten were Brian Ledahl, valedictorian, Joel Smith, salutatorian and Keith Harvey, Elizabeth Eddy, Mindy Stadt, Stacy McGeorge, Julie Karkosak, Jennifer Bernthal, Julia McCullough and Marci Center.

Prepare students for tomorrow

Editor:
With this year's graduation exercises behind us, signalling the end of our career as "parents of students", we are reflecting on what the Boyne City Public Schools have meant to us.

When we made the decision to live in a small town in Northern Michigan over 20 years ago, we did not know what this would mean in terms of our children's future education. As the years went by, we became increasingly impressed by the opportunities afforded to the children of the Boyne City School District. Our schools not only provide the education which is mandated by the State of Michigan and the Federal Government, but have had the foresight to create programs which add academic challenge for students at all levels including our most talented and highly achieving pupils. The parents and students of this community are most fortunate to have such a dedicated professional teaching and support staff in our schools. These individuals work very hard to provide our children with the necessary tools to function effectively in the world we live in.

Now it is time that we, the community, provide the schools with the tools necessary to continue the task of preparing our young people for the world of tomorrow, their world. What was "good enough" for us 30 or 40 years ago, will not begin to be good enough in years to come with the rapidly changing work place. Quality education is not available at discount prices, and if we want to continue quality education for the children of this community, we must be willing to put our money where our mouth is and pay for the tools that will make it happen. The money needed represents an increase of 1.14 mills; the wording on the ballot, requesting 3 mills, includes millage already being levied for transportation. Support our children, the Boyne City of tomorrow, on June 12th!

Thank You,
Rick and Renate Smith

Congrats to BAC PAC for party

Editor:
Congratulations to the BAC PAC group for a very successful second year "all night graduation party" for the Boyne City seniors. I understand it was very well attended. They deserve all the support the community can give them.

I'm really happy with the way the citizens are turning out to support the many activities available to the residents of the area.

Keep up the good work. Be involved.

Sincerely,
Sandra R. Stanley

Garden Club says thanks

Editor:
We want to thank Jack and Marty McCleod at the Boyne Avenue Greenhouse for their generosity in helping us with our beautification project. For the past two years we have asked for their assistance with our sale of Crab Apple Trees, and they gave of their time and effort with help and patience.

They accepted our order, took delivery, stored them and didn't mind taking back the few we didn't sell. Thanks, Jack and Marty, we are truly grateful.

Says 'common frontage' abused

Editor:
We have a cottage on Lake Charlevoix, and we have owned it for twelve years. The lake has changed over the past twelve years. When we were first at the lake, mainly cottages were built there. Today, however, many new developments such as, condominiums and several cottages, are using common beach frontage. The past few years have shown a dramatic increase in the number of these developments. Such developments include, condominiums and groups of several cottages that use the same beach. The newest and largest complexes are Hemingway Point and the Harborage, both of these are large condominium complexes. They both also use common lake frontage. There are a couple of other new subdivisions that are also using common lake frontage. Common beach frontage is detrimental to the beauty of the lake.

the land they were on was a nice wooded area. If single cottages had been built, some of the trees probably would have remained around the cottages. The condominium complex cleared all the trees.

Common beach developments also bring more people to an access area. More people bring more boats and noise to the surrounding area. Even now a new development is going in near our cottage. This development will include several cottages and use about 300 feet of frontage. Of course, this development will bring in more boats and cause more boat traffic and noise around our cottage. I like to water-ski, but the increased boat waves will make it harder to ski.

Developments using common beach frontage should not be built anymore on Lake Charlevoix. There are enough common beach developments on the lake. More common lake frontage developments will cause the cottage owners around them to be aggravated because they go to the lake to enjoy the peace of the lake.

If someone wants to be on the lake, they can buy a cottage and own the lake frontage outright.

Sincerely,
Brian Olson

EJIEDC laments lack of township approvals, action

BY LENORE BECHTEL

Four members of the seven member East Jordan Industrial and Economic Development Commission lamented three years of problems at their regular monthly meeting, Monday, June 5.

That's how long they've been acting as liaison between the City of East Jordan and South Arm Township in the attempt to get an industrial park started on city-owned property within the township.

John Richter, the commission's vice chairman, compared the process to keeping a plan up on a slippery rail, while it keeps wanting to fall off in one direction or another.

"People don't know the frustration we've experienced trying to be negotiators between these two parties," he said.

The thing the four commissioners said they couldn't understand was why the township and city can't seem to get their acts together to get the park off the ground.

Commissioner Fern Morris said, "We should all work together to make it work."

Commission secretary Mary Longton said, "It will be such an advantage to both the city and the township."

The commission's general feeling is that the township has held up the plan, but the general feeling previously expressed by the township board is that the city has held up the plan.

Commissioner Bob Strehl said, "The township has been dragging their heels for two and a half years."

Longton said the commission has been working to make the park happen since April 4, 1986. By July 23, 1986, the particular piece of property for the park had been pinpointed. On December 17, 1986, city and township officials had a joint meeting, and the city presented the township with a proposed contract.

The contractual agreement, pursuant to Public Act 425, is necessary before the city can take jurisdiction over the property, a 40-acre parcel accessed by a road off M-32 adjacent to the west border of the city airport.

Once the city takes jurisdiction, it will have the power to levy and collect taxes. The city will pay one mill of collected taxes to the township every year.

South Arm Township Supervisor Harold Pletz reported at the township board's April 12 meeting that he had asked attorney Timothy Arner to draw up a draft of an agreement which would allow the City of East Jordan to proceed with its plans.

Commissioners wonder if he's starting from scratch or using the contract proposed in 1986.

The contract has been far from the only holdback to the park progress. Commissioners said a 6-month delay was caused when township officials questioned the legality of Public Act 425, without which the township itself would levy and collect taxes on the property in question.

They said township officials said they were advised by the Michigan Township Association not to enter into the agreement, but then the attorney general ruled that Public Act 425 was legal.

"There's been no continuity," Richter said.

Longton explained that when the industrial park plans first began, the township was in the process of revising their zoning. That process is still continuing, but language relating to industrial parks was completed last summer.

The commission wanted some zoning changes for the industrial park property. They wanted only 25-foot rear and side setbacks and a clearer definition of greenbelt.

At the commission's request, city council agreed at their March 7 meeting to ask the township for these changes, and Mary and Mike Longton were on hand at the township board's March 8 meeting to plead the commission's case. Supervisor Pletz said the board could not act without having the city's proposed ordinance in writing. The proposed changes were referred to the township planning commission.

The planning commission had not made any recommendations to the township board in time for action at their April 12 meeting, but trustee Neil Olstrom reported that the planning commission had discussed the matter.

Longton said she had been told by Peggy Midener, township planning commission chairperson, that the township board approved the zoning changes at their May 10 meeting. However, Midener, contacted by phone, said she did not know if the board did so. She said all she could confirm was that the planning commission recommended at their May 9 meeting, which Pletz attended, that the board approve the changes requested by city officials.

No township board members could be reached for confirmation.

On Ferris Honors List

Nearly 1,200 Ferris State University students were included on the academic honors list for the spring quarter, University officials have announced.

To be eligible, a Ferris student must have compiled a 3.50 grade point average in at least 12 quarter hours of graded work. The total list of 1,258 includes 252 who earned 4.00 grade point averages, or all A grades.

Among the honored students were: William F. Marquardt, Michael T. Louiselle, Scott E. Morgan, and Amy L. Pischner, all of Charlevoix; and Charles J. Drapeau, John A. Hribljan, and Danny Gene Six, all of East Jordan.

Graduates

Lara J. Thomas, daughter of James Thomas and Paula Thomas, both of Charlevoix, graduated from Albion College during May 6 commencement ceremonies.

Thomas, an English major, was one of about 400 seniors who received degrees in a ceremony presided over by Albion College President Dr. Melvin L. Vulgamore.

On Dean's list

The Dean's List for Northern Michigan University's winter semester, which ended April 28, includes 1,167 undergraduates.

Heading the list are 86 students who earned all A's (4.0 grade point average).

The remaining 1,081 also earned high academic honors with grade point averages between 3.25 and 3.99.

According to Registrar Gerald J. Williams, those from Charlevoix area qualifying are: Jamie C. Coon, of Boyne City; Paul R. Theisen, of Boyne Falls; and James T. Martin of Charlevoix.

Recall

If the judge rules on Monday that additional names should not have been added to the petition without a review period by those being up for recall, then both Follette and Guzniczak may not have enough signatures to force the election. They both say they intend to look closely at the signatures to ensure they are valid. They also expect to challenge some of them.

Or if the judge rules that the signatures should not have been added at all, then the election would be cancelled for both Guzniczak and Follette.

It is also hoped by the three that the judge would agree with the question that the election is moot against May so there would not have to be a recall election at all.

And if the judge rules the addition of signatures is valid, gives the three another review period to challenge the signatures, and if the three cannot challenge enough names to cause the names to be invalid, then the election would be set for a later date. That date would have to be chosen by the County Election Board.

Members of the Boyne Valley Garden Club celebrated their notification as the best garden club in the United States by planting some more flowers in the Old City Park. The group has been planting flowers around the community for many years and won the award last weekend. They also won other awards as part of the national award.

Boyne Valley Garden Club named best in nation

The Boyne Valley Garden Club returned home from the fifty-eighth annual meeting of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, Inc. held in Port Huron May 31, June 1, 2 with a most coveted award for civic beautification.

The prestigious Kellogg Medal for Civic Achievement was presented to Boyne Valley Garden Club President Jackie Arman, Wednesday evening by Mrs. C. Manning Smith of Charles Town, Virginia. Mrs. Smith is president of the National Council of State Garden Clubs, Inc.

Books of Evidence are submitted first on the state level and then on the national level.

Boyne Valley's book shows various civic projects undertaken by the club in an overall plan to beautify Boyne City. Each year the club purchases annuals to plant and maintains seven sites at a cost of approximately $1000. The June plantings tie in with Garden Week. In the fall 1,000 daffodil bulbs have been planted throughout the city.

Flowering Crab trees were planted at a new beach park and Old City Park with its new gazebo benefitted from club efforts to add landscape plantings and restore sidewalks.

The club also received a Community Improvement Award for the sale of 400 Flowering Crabapple trees in the past year and the Michigan Award of Merit for Civic Achievement presented by Mrs. John (Nancy) Passfield, president Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan, Inc. of Farmington Hills.

It's skunk time again

BY REG SHARKEY

Once again, like in the fall of the year, I get skunk calls. People get uptight when they discover that the purveyor of Nature's Channel No. 5 is around or under their residence.

It's the same old story. "What can I do — the whole house stinks to high heaven?" Or if Rover, in his nightly wanderings, crosses swords with the aromatic atomizer, they want to know how to make Rover smell like a dog again.

I have an affinity for those black and white bombshells. They are a part of Nature's fauna. Skunks feed on insects. Nearly half of their food is insects. They are particularly fond of potato beetles, white grubs and cut worms. This I know for when I lived on the outskirts of Petoskey, I saw a skunk trundle down a row of potato plants picking off the juicy leaf chompers.

To me a whiff of skunk perfume wafted on the night air tells me that man hasn't taken over all of our natural environment; that this little five pound critter can hold his own against an unarmed aggressor be they human or animal.

Then, too, nothing is more appealing than a mother skunk with a half dozen skunklets in tow. Communicating with muted grunts and chuckles they amble about, the youngsters learning lessons of survival.

Naturally no one wants a nestful of the little stinkers under their residence. Here, again, it's just plain dumbness on the part of humans that make non-paying renters so undesirable.

If you don't want them under a porch, house, cottage, or anything that hasn't a solid foundation wall do some skunk-proofing. And for heavens sake do it before the problem arises and remember a five pound skunk can squeeze through a 2 3/4 inch opening. Heavy metal hardware cloth anchored a foot in the ground and attached to the sills will solve skunk squatters' rights. Do it before fall when the woodland kitties scout for winter quarters.

Now about Rover. The best way to keep him from getting soused with Nature's Eau de Cologne is to make sure you just don't turn him out for his night's constitutional unattended. Case the neighborhood before taking him out on a leash, as required by law. That way he won't run into a skunk or leave his calling card in the neighbor's yard.

If Rover does get atomized by Mephitis mephitis you've got your work cut out.

As soon as possible dunk Rover in a tub scrubbing him with a shampoo detergent. And to make double sure you'll be getting rid of the gaggy eye-tingling concoction go to your vet and get a bottle of Skunk-Off. It should do the trick. However, everytime Rover gets a little damp you'll notice a faint aroma of that little striped survivor. It goes with the pleasure of owning a dog.

After reading my column concerning the age of the tree that was recently cut down, my eyesight got better and I called the newspaper concerning a mistake that was made. The tree was about 100 years younger than what had appeared in the paper since the rings only counted back to 1852, not 1752.

One of the places you don't want to be is this close to a skunk. The animals can become a pest to homeowners by causing a smelly problem.

Davis introduces legislation dealing with Indian rights treaty

Congressman Bob Davis, fulfilling a promise made to 11th District constituents, has introduced two pieces of legislation dealing with Indian treaty rights.

The first bill would set up a Presidential Commission to investigate current treaty rights court interpretations and provide guidelines for states and tribes to follow to protect natural resources, the rights of off reservation property owners, and tribal members engaging in lawful treaty activities. Davis says the bill reflects the growing frustration with court interpretations of treaties signed over 100 years ago.

"It seems to me that we have to begin to recognize that the world has changed in the last 150 years," Davis said, adding that he does not believe the signers of the treaties intended that tribal use of natural resources would lead to the exclusion of non-Indian users.

A second bill would limit the unregulated Indian fishing going on now by Wisconsin as well as Michigan Chippewa tribal members in Western Lake Superior. The legislation would allow the State of Michigan to determine a "safe harvest" level of fish to ensure the continued growth of the fishery, and then set a limit of 10% for tribal fishermen harvesting the excess.

Davis said that he expects the legislation to be controversial.

"I will no doubt be labeled racist and anti-Indian which would be unfortunate since I am neither," Davis stated. "I believe that there are many citizens across the country who believe that the granting of Indian treaty rights has not only gotten out of hand by going beyond the intent of the original treaties, but has in fact become discriminatory against non-Indian Americans."

Davis pledged to be open to discussion with all affected parties in an effort to resolve the increasing conflicts over Indian treaty activities.

DNR announces its Free Fishing Weekend June 10, 11

Michigan's fourth annual Free Fishing Weekend is June 10-11. All fishing and trout/salmon stamp fees will be waived these two days for residents and outstate visitors on the state's inland and Great Lakes waters, according to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

This special weekend is held each year in Michigan in conjunction with the National Fishing Week, June 5-11, which is chaired this year by General Chuck Yeager. Michigan joins 24 other states in offering free fishing days.

"We're not just offering a free license these two days, but also a special opportunity for veteran anglers and fishing groups to share their fishing skills and ethics with new anglers," said DNR Director David F. Hales.

A fishing event planner packet and other fishing promotion and support materials are available from the DNR to groups planning fishing clinics, derbies and tournaments during the special weekend. The packets can be obtained by calling the DNR's Fisheries Division at 517-373-1280.

Many fishing derbies and clinics will be held statewide to coincide with the state's Free Fishing Weekend.

The Departments of Natural Resources and Transportation and the U.S. Coast Guard Auxiliary will host these fishing information and boat safety stations. Hours of operation will be from noon to 6 p.m. on Friday, June 9 and from 10 a.m. to 6 p.m. on Saturday, June 10.

The DNR also will waive the $2 car and $4 car/trailer entry fees at its 44 user-fee public access boat launching sites (not State Parks) during June 10 and 11. Many restaurants plan to cook the fish people catch and some motels are offering fishing weekend packages on June 10-11.

DNR statistics show more than two million anglers fish in Michigan each year, including an estimated half million salmon anglers. The state offers a large variety of fresh water game fish for the angler within its 38,000 miles of Great Lakes waters, 12,000 inland lakes and 36,000 miles of rivers, including 12,600 miles of trout waters.

To keep abreast of fishing conditions statewide, anglers may call the DNR's 24-hour, weekly updated fishing conditions hotline at 517-373-0908. The DNR's Free Fishing Weekend phone line, 517-373-0257, offers additional information on the special free fishing weekend.
