

Defensive efforts

If it weren't for the defensive efforts of the Boyne City football team, like this goal line stand that kept the Rudyard team from scoring on this series of downs, the score might have been the same as it was last year...lopsided. The team as a whole has improved 200 percent over the previous week according to Coach Jack Gebauer, even though they lost this game to a rated team, 22-0. Boyne Alternative Education step closer to reality

Boyne City Schools' plan to start an alternative education program was given the go-ahead for the next step at Monday's school board meeting after learning a little of what the program is about.

The program is being designed by school administrators to help those students who may not "fit" in the mainstream of students and give them a place to learn outside of the normal classroom. It is hoped the program will help to reduce the dropout rate of students within the school district.

According to high school principal, Joe Tibaldi and community education director Shelly Martin, the student will be able to enter the program only by the referral of the principal. The program will be documented in complete detail so that ongoing changes can be made in the future.

One of the changes may be to include students from other school districts, according to remarks made at the meeting.

School officials say there is a real need for an alternative education program to help the at-risk student. Tentative plans include the modeling of the program based on what the Kalkaska and Antrim County program has used.

According to plans, the school will use the curriculum from the high school although the students will follow a learning center concept.

The funding to develop and implement the program will be paid through the Straits Area Community Education Consortium, of which Boyne City is a partner. Other funding is also expected to come from such areas as the probate court system and the state. They will also be hiring the instructors for the proposed schooling.

Administrators told the school board that the plans would not be started until it has been determined the program can be funded with no cost to the Boyne City School system.

The school board members approved only the concept of the school, as there are many other details to be worked out. The formal okay for the program will be forthcoming, hopefully at the October school board meeting, according to administrators.

One of the problems came up after learning the use of the warming house owned by the City would require many changes in order to make it into a building that could be used for the alternative education program.

School officials are meeting with city and business officials to try to work out an alternative site, tentatively planned for downtown Boyne City, for the school.

Another problem to be worked out is whether or not to offer the program to other school districts in the area. Future plans include opening the school up to students from both Charlevoix and Emmet Counties.

Other problems will be worked out in the next few weeks officials said, although they expect to be refining the program as needed throughout the year.

Board members then ended up tabling a motion that would have allowed the school system to offer

Dobson named principal at BFS

Charles Dobson, from Camden, Michigan, will be the new principal of the Boyne Falls School after the school board completed their final interviews and made a decision to offer the position to Dobson.

Dobson will be on the job starting next Monday according to Superintendent Chuck Smith. Smith said Dobson needed to arrange leaving his current third grade position with the Camden School District before coming to Boyne Falls.

Dobson was given a two-year contract with a renewal clause and a starting pay of $36,000 per year. This school year will be pro-rated as the contract calls for him to begin the school year three weeks before the start of school and end two days after the last teacher day.

Dobson was the top of the list of candidates the board reviewed after learning a previous choice had taken a position at a different school system. Dobson and one other final candidate were interviewed last week by the board and the public to make the final choice.

Dobson is married and has six children. He said he will be moving into the school district and the children will attend Boyne Falls school.

With members of the custodial staff holding the ribbon to dedicate the room they developed for computers at Boyne City High School, Jim Gowell, one of the supporters and the person who collected the donations for the computers, cuts the ribbon to mark the opening of the room. Looking on are Robin Hissong, president of the school board; Nancy Gowell; Jim Gowell; Jeff Grice, president of the Chamber of Commerce;

Hangar construction causing BC concern

Boyne City may be having a problem with the builder who is constructing a new hangar at the Boyne City airport, City Commissioners heard at their Tuesday noon meeting.

The builder of the new hangar is not following the guidelines that the Airport Advisory Board had developed for the new hangar say members of the board, and they brought those thoughts to the commissioners to help resolve.

Most of the problems deal with cosmetics, said City Attorney Bill McTaggart as he explained the situation to the Commission.

He said the building was constructed using old wood and that the walls were out of plumb. He also said that the builder, thinking he was building the hangar compatible to the other buildings at the airport, used siding that did not reach down to the footings but was overlapped. The builder also did the same thing with the roof, rather than make it all one piece as the guidelines call for.

The builder of the hangar proposed the hangar last year and his permission to build was given earlier this summer. Airport board members were not happy with the way the building is turning out.

They feel so strongly about the situation that they have said they do not want to accept the building and want the City Commission to back them up in order to force changes the advisory board says are needed.

"The building, as it is now, is a disgrace to the city," said John Talboys, a member of the advisory board. He said the builder had known what was involved and what the city wanted before he started construction.

The builder contends he was not given the guidelines and had some questions concerning the word compatible. He thinks the building is compatible with the rest of the hangars.

In discussing the matter, City Commissioner asked if the Advisory Board had written down guidelines and had given out blue prints to the builder to show what was acceptable to the city. "The city should be providing plans if they want to control the building and it looks like we didn't do that. Because of that, I think we would have a very weak case if we had to go to court on the matter," he added.

The Commissioners agreed that the city should try to negotiate with the builder to try to repair or replace the structure to meet what the city desires for a building.

The hangar will belong to the city after it is accepted, at no cost to the city, under a program that allows a builder of a hangar to use the hangar on a 25 year lease. The city would then be able to re-rent to another user with a rental fee similar to a boat slip.

McTaggart, Talboys and Shelly Barnes, another member of the advisory board, will try to negotiate the corrections the city requires and will be reporting back to the Commission in the next few weeks.

The Commissioners then heard a report concerning the proposed alternative education program the Boyne City Schools hope to develop in a downtown location.

School Principal Joe Tibaldi told the commissioners that the location they would like to develop is in the former Bob's Pharmacy building after looking at the previously approved use by the school for the warming hut at Avalanche Preserve. Tibaldi said that site would not work out as they had hoped because of the Drive slowly through Walloon

If you find you have a hard time getting through Walloon Lake for the next few weeks, the work being done along the side of the road will end up making it a safer drive as a $210,000 storm sewer and road improvement project has been started in the small community.

The sewer will be installed between the Bear River and Si's Marine to help control the flooding that occurs on both sides of the road during storms. The storm sewer will take the water and move it to the river.

In addition, the work will include shoulder paving and the replacement of guard rails where needed from the river to the U.S. 131 junction.

Doing the work is H & D Inc. as the prime contractor. The company expects to have the work completed by November 1.

News Briefs

Boyne Falls students should be proud. Their school was just named as one of the noted schools in using a computer curricula by the University of Michigan Accreditation Bureau. While the notation doesn't mean extra money for the school, it is nice to be recognized across the state.

While the Boyne City Middle School has already had their first PTO meeting, the elementary school in Boyne City is planning on their's September 19th in the school cafeteria. The meeting will start about 7 p.m.

Glen's in East Jordan will be participating in a "Food Festival" September 18th. Claudia Grutsch, R.D. will be conducting a tour of the store starting at 9 a.m. to point out nutrition and ingredient information on the foods throughout the store. The goal is to improve people's awareness of the relationship between high-cholesterol, high-fat diets and heart disease.

Hospital Guild plans membership coffee

Anyone interested in joining the Charlevoix Area Hospital Guild is invited to the membership coffee on Thursday, September 28, between the hours of 10 to 12 noon at the home of Anna Belle Webb, 707 Park Avenue, Charlevoix.

Membership in the Guild can be very rewarding for both newcomers to the community as well as those who may now have time to devote in a meaningful way to serve the hospital and its patients. "Volunteers are the glue that holds the hospital together," says Virginia Rountree, Guild president.

Guild volunteers have the opportunity to choose among a variety of services which best suit their skills, personal preference and desired time commitment. Workers are needed in all areas.

Both men and women provide such important support as service to patients on the medical and surgical floors; operating the switchboard and information desk; staffing the Showcase Gift Shop; patient TV placement; and special fund-raising projects to purchase new and replacement hospital equipment.

Dues are $3 per year for either active or inactive membership. Guild members will be present at the coffee to explain all the services of the Guild. No reservations necessary.

APPLES

Autumn is apple time in Michigan. When I go for my evening walk the fragrant smell of ripening apples fills the air, and I am transported down a long memory road where every farm in our area had an orchard. Everywhere in Northwest Michigan there are a few old apple trees; a remnant of those old orchards. The harvest apples or the "early apples" as we called them, were filled with a sweet winery flavor.

I am happy to know that some of these apples are still available in the fruit markets along our highways. Recently we bought some yellow transparents, they make perfect applesauce, and I just had to make an apple pie for old times sake. I never make pie any more unless I have company. Today I made Helen Coble's delicious pie filled with that old time flavor.

IMPOSSIBLE FRENCH APPLE PIE

- 6 cups sliced, pared apples
- 1 1/4 teaspoon cinnamon
- 1/4 teaspoon nutmeg
- 1 cup sugar
- 3/4 cup milk
- 1/2 cup biscuit mix
- 2 eggs
- 2 tablespoons butter
- Strusel Topping
- 1 cup biscuit mix
- 1/2 cup chopped nuts
- 1/3 cup brown sugar
- 3 tablespoons butter
- Mix until crumbly

Heat oven to 325 degrees. Grease a 10 x 1 1/2 inch pie plate. Mix apples and spices. Turn into plate.

Beat remaining ingredients, except strusel, until smooth, 15 seconds in blender or 1 minute with hand beater. Pour over apples in plate. Sprinkle with the strusel. Bake until knife inserted in center comes out clean, 55 to 60 minutes.

It is hard to imagine cooked apples without cinnamon. Here is a special recipe using cinnamon-apple herbal tea bags for delicious flavored

CINNAMON APPLE CUP CAKES

- 1 1/2 cups boiling water
- 5 cinnamon-apple herbal tea bags
- 2 eggs
- 1/2 cup honey
- 1/3 cup butter or margarine, melted
- 1 1/2 cups flour
- 1 cup wheat bran cereal
- 3/4 cup raisins
- 2 teaspoons baking powder
- 1 small apple, thinly sliced.

In teapot, pour boiling water over the tea bags; cover and brew 5 minutes. Remove tea bags; cool.

Preheat oven to 350 degrees. In large bowl, beat tea, eggs, honey and butter. In medium bowl, combine flour, cereal, raisins and baking powder. Gradually add to tea mixture, stirring only until moistened. Completely fill 12 greased and floured muffin cups. Top with apple slices. Bake 20 minutes or until cakes

A.C. and Versa Fineout were pleasantly surprised after returning from a weekend in the UP, to find their children at their home, who had gathered there to help their folks celebrate their September 11th 58th wedding anniversary! They all participated in making a tape of this event to send to daughter, Marion Lanz, who fell down a flight of stairs this past Christmas night, striking her head. She was in a coma for several weeks and is still unable to communicate but some family members feel that she is able to recognize them. Marion is in the Kelsey Memorial Hospital in Lakeview, Michigan. Those present for this event were: son Larry and wife Helen, daughters Janet Adams and Jean McGhee, granddaughters Shawn Elizabeth Adams and Jill Crissman. Unable Besides those from the local area, they came from Florida, New York, Detroit, Stanton, Sugar Island, Portland, Muliken, Lyncouts, and Traverse City. The Fineouts hope to make this an annual affair, as they all enjoyed taking pictures, seeing pictures, talking over old times, and eating.

Opinions

We need involvement

If there is one thing that this area does not lack, it is sidewalk superintendents, bleacher coaches, and general sandbaggers.

It seems that everybody who can fall into those categories has the answer to almost everything that is being done by others. Those wishing to destroy a worthy project, idea, team, or some other thing should all stand up and be counted.

It almost falls into the guise of those that can do, do, and those who can't, do their utmost to deride and detract those who are doing.

That is why we were pleased to see something being done.

The football coach at Boyne City has taken the steps to try to involve those who think they know the answers from the sidelines. He has instilled a "Play Of The Week" that will be written up by someone who thinks they know something about football.

The coach will be picking one of the plays for the team to run during a game. If it plays well, then the sideline coach will be a hero, but if it doesn't, then.....

But whether he is a hero or not, the idea is to develop some community involvement. The coach thinks that community involvement could be a big help to producing a winning tradition in Boyne City.

We need that sort of thing in other areas as well.

The City Commission could use an "Idea Of The Week" to decide how the city could develop parks and infrastructure improvements with the limited amount of money they have available.

The County Road Commission could use a "Road Idea Of The Week" to help them figure out what roads would get plowed first.

The County Commissioners could use ideas to decide which part of the county budget is more critical than the other parts.

The County Planners could use it to decide toward which direction they want the area to go.

And businesses could set up a "Business Idea Of The Week" to figure out how to get those empty stores and shops filled with new merchants.

The key is community involvement. The more people become involved with the place where they live and work, the better the community will become.

Remembrances

This picture was taken just before the then-new bank opened up on Water Street back about the turn of the century. The bank eventually closed after a fire a few years later. Currently on that location is the Ben Franklin store. The little store on the right is where the Gray Flannel is located today.

Drugs... a drop in ol' bucket

Editor,

After listening to President Bush's speech on drugs and the Democratic response last night I couldn't help but wonder when our politicians are going to really address this issue in an honest and up-front manner. Sure the drug problem among the children is a terrible thing, sure they snatch purses, sure they mug, sure the girls sell their bodies, but all the money these actions generate is but a very small portion of the billions upon billions of dollars this country spends on drugs.

Now just where does the biggest percentage of money come from? It comes from our middle class affluent citizens and let's not forget the so-called upper class of Americans nor the idle rich. This is where the bulk of the hard cash comes from. As long as there is a demand for drugs some one will fill it. That's a pure and simple fact of life. The drug producing countries of Central America could stop production today and the drug suppliers would find another source tomorrow. To think differently is being naive. Every time we knock off a drug king-pin there's two more waiting to take over.

If we really want to stop the drug traffic we will make drug testing mandatory for every one that could in any way be involved—bar none. Our government and public officials should be number one to be tested and if found to even a casual user they should be fired. We should have federal penalty laws passed—with no loopholes for lawyers to use—and enforce them.

It's time to quit pussy-footing around this issue and call a spade a spade. It's time for all sections of

The leaves of brown come tumbling down.....September!

Dope is big in the news these days. Somethings I think I know what users are going through.

Whenever I get a nice high from eating a Sunday dinner, four or five hours later my stomach is demanding more.

I've lived much of my life in various cities and on park benches, but never in a township other than Wilson...out here among the wild gooseberries and Canadian thistle.

Here in the valley and hills of maples and nightly rituals of baying at the moon, life is indeed strange.

Here's an oddball for instance: Whenever we mow the lawn it refuses to stay mowed. When I shave, my beard starts coming back the same day. When I get a haircut, my hair just laughs and sprouts anew.

And now for the strange part: Whenever we leave this cluster of June grass and go to town to spend money it stays spent.

Life is not only strange, it ain't fair.

I was surprised the other day to realize that I had arrived at an age when I no longer regard my elders as senile.

I got all worked up reading how George Bush plans to take millions away from the poor of the country to settle the hash of those rich drug traffickers. Cut down on programs for the needy so we can fight the wealthy drug-selling people, he says.

I was so angry I stepped into the backyard to let out a swear word that was building up in my mouth. It's not normal for me to cuss. It's abnormal. But upon special occasions it is normal for me to be abnormal.

Not wanting to take the creation maker's name in vain, I stood there twisting my words around so no one would understand if they heard.

I yetted at the top of my voice: "Miest-O-criedy"

Having let off the proper amount of steam against the government, I turned to go back into the house. A ground squirrel was sitting on the woodpile looking as though he knew what I had meant. A sudden chill came over me as I felt the deep shame of being understood by a ground squirrel when most women don't understand me at all.

I would like to say that this was all George Bush's fault. In fact, I'm going to: This was all George Bush's fault.

Remember last week when I said I didn't think there were any bears in this neck of pine and hemlock? Well no sooner had the paper hit the street than a man said a bear was seen coming out of the lake, crossing Lake Shore drive and going into the woods.

If I see a bear up on this hill I will not be able to report it because I will be gone, gone, gone.

BCHS Class of 1939 holds 50th

Members of the Class of 1939 from Boyne City High School came from Ohio, New Jersey, Florida, Minnesota, Idaho, Arizona and California and many Michigan cities recently to join in a two day celebration marking their 50th year since graduation from old Boyne High. More than 60 class members and guests met at the Holiday Inn at Petoskey Friday evening August 25th to enjoy a grand buffet. Yellow roses and lighted tapers graced the tables. A table for Memorabilia among other things featured the large brass fire gong from old Boyne High School. A separate memorial table displayed a picture of Miss Caroline Geiken, in full dress uniform as a U.S. Army nurse of World War I. (Caroline Geiken was school nurse from kindergarten through graduation and during the program that followed was heralded as "a mother to us all.") A black and silver frame enclosed a composite of pictures of 14 deceased classmates and that of senior class sponsor Ross Matteson. A miniature U.S. Flag, single yellow rose and lighted votive candle completed the memorial arrangement.

Special guest was Florine Davis, high school English teacher, retired.

Attending a class reunion for the first time were Virginia Lindsay Phillips, Margaret Morton Swaluk, Geraldine Leist Thompson, Rex Harper and Norman Middleton.

Warren Davis, master of ceremonies, welcomed all and briefly reviewed a calendar of events of the 1939 senior year. Anna Friend Bowman conducted the memorial service. All graduates were acknowledged and related briefly life's highlights since graduation.

Recipients of Special Awards were: Who came the farthest—Rex Harper; The time stood still award, person who changed the least—Anna Friend Bowman; Most number of years in the military—Norman Middleton; Person who weighs closest to high school weight—Phyllis Kime Lites; Man with the smoothest head—Atwood Sheaffer; Person with the most children and grandchildren—Geraldine Leist Thompson; Person with the most great-grandchildren—Dorothy Towne Jensen; Most eligible single person—Anne Willson. Most recently married—Leslie Fineout.

During a special recognition ceremony the M.C. stated the Class of '39 is unique, having 24 members from a class of 50, who served their country in the military during World War II. First named were the deceased veterans: Ellsworth Anderson, Floyd Conkright, Edwin Dodds, Robert Hosegood, Elwood Kelts and Allen Lockman. Veterans present who came to the podium for pictures were: Arlyne Nichols Alkire, Anna Friend Bowman, Helen Mapes Charon, Christy Davis, Warren Davis, Leslie Fineout, Rex Harper, Richard Hocquard, Carlton Hutton, Walter Jensen, Norman Middleton, Reva Kirby Ritland, Atwood Sheaffer, Wendell Sutliff and Margaret Morton Swaluk. Each was presented a miniature U.S. Flag by Midge White Ackland, courtesy of the American Legion. Three veterans recognized but not attending were Iliff Goodman, Robert Poirier and Dr. Calude Scott.

As the program came to a close the grads were hailed as a prolific group, having to their credit a total of 138 children, 252 grandchildren and 26 great-grandchildren and that record alone qualified all for The time did not stand still award. The remainder of the evening was devoted to conversation and becoming re-acquainted.

Saturday, classmates from out of town spent time rediscovering Boyne City. In the evening some 40 met at the American Legion Hall for a final get-together. The hall was decorated with streamers and balloons of the class colors, Blue and Gold. The stage area featured a barrage of helium balloons at either side, tied by streamers to handles of large jugs of like color. The social hour was from 6:00 to 7:00. At 7:00 a buffet dinner was served in the dining room, where colors of blue and gold predominated and a single yellow rose centered each table. Following dinner all returned to the hall while the assembly room clock from old Boyne High ticked away the hours till midnight. Georgia Hall Peterman and husband Lyle presented the group with singing and playing musical instruments such as the dobro guitar, harmonica, fiddle, spoon and bones and mountain dulcimer. Providing background music was Norman Middleton on the ukelele and Shirley Middleton Wuertch played a chord organ. Intermittently tapes of the 40s were played for dancing. At evening's close an anniversary cake was cut and served by Anna Friend Bowman, class president.

the media to stand up and be counted. We must do away with the demand to win.

Every drug user is not an addict any more than every alcohol user is not an alcoholic, but they are the ones that fund the drug trade just as surely as they are the ones that fund the alcohol trade. If we truly want to kill this snake we will start by cutting off its head rather than its tail.

Those of us who can remember far enough back to recall the fiasco of prohibition will note the remarkable resemblance between our efforts to enforce the law then and now. The law came down hard on those without clout leaving all the better hotels and watering holes for the rich and famous alone. They had the best of Scotch whiskey and French champagnes. It is exactly the same thing today with drugs.

Now I certainly do not endorse making drugs legal—by no means. But when we spend over 300 billion dollars a year on war materials and such and we can't find an enemy to use it on and Bush wants to spend only 8 billion dollars to fight a real life drug war that affects each and every American citizen and is tearing our culture to shreds day by day, then we are not being realistic and all our brave words ring hollow.

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING BOYNE CITY ZONING BOARD OF APPEALS

Thursday, October 5, 1989
5:05 p.m.

Commission Chambers - City Hall

Pursuant to rules and regulations as set by the Boyne City Zoning Ordinance concerning granting of variances, the Boyne City Zoning Board of Appeals has scheduled a Public Hearing for Thursday, October 5, 1989 at 5:05 p.m. in the Commission Chambers of City Hall, 319 North Lake Street to consider the following variance request:

Application by James Stackus, 417 Elm Street requesting a variance for a side yard set back of 5 ft rather than the 7 ft. required in an R-2 zoned district. Plans for a proposed new residence at 423 Front Street call for a 52 ft. exterior wall with projected overhang. The request is to accommodate the overhang to the dripline.

More details and a location map of this variance request is available for review at the City Clerk's Office. Every property owner situated within 300 feet of each of the variance locations, is being notified via U.S. Mail.

All interested persons are invited to attend the Public Hearing on the variance request. Additional information is available at the City Hall during regular business hours or call (616) 582-6697.

In bygone days, our mothers told us what we had to do in order to get in society's good graces. They instructed us to be clean and neat, hold our heads up, shoulders back, tummies in and, when seated, our knees tight together. Then they had some thou-shalt-nots: fidget, mumble, talk to loud or too much, chew gum noticeably or ever, in public, scratch itches in certain places. With some individual variations, this covered the matter.

In today's age of specialization, trained experts like Roger Ailes do the teaching in this discipline. Do they do a better job than our moms did? They do have more to say about it certainly.

Ailes, media advisor to three Presidents, has, along with many others, written a book on the subject. A condensed portion of it appears in the September issue of Reader's Digest magazine in an article entitled "How to Make a Good Impression".

The article leads off with a brisk discussion of how not to get mugged. Ailes interviewed a group of teen-age criminals, one of whom makes a tidy $1500 a week in the mugging business. The youth said he picks for victims those who shuffle along with their heads down and act afraid of him. He stays away from those who appear confident and unruffled by his presence.

Ailes relates this interview to his teaching by saying that our appearance is the key to making a good impression. (Mom was on the right track.)

Appearance, the first impressions we make, are all important and what he means by the title of his book, "You Are The Message". Ailes says that once we know our best qualities and how to project them, we should do just that. No theatricals, simply act natural, our natural best that is. Then we're bound to make a good impression.

He doesn't say how to be our natural best when a scary situation like making a speech or socializing with a bunch of strangers makes nervous wrecks of us. What he says is that the most effective people never change, never seem any different whether they're talking to friends, making a speech or interviewing for a job. (Mom didn't expect that much of us.)

Then he says that when we come into a group of strangers talking, we should listen first, find out not only what they're talking about but how they feel about the subject so that when we speak, we're less likely to say things that annoy them. (Mom would approve.)

Also important is getting our energy up and then focusing it before we head into social situations. To do so, Ailes breathes deeply, thinks about who he's about to talk to and tries to think of something he likes about these particular people. (It's comforting, although small comfort, to find that at least Ailes is enough one of us to find it hard to like some people.)

Ailes also counsels that we should lighten up, not take ourselves so seriously. (Mom did suggest that too.)

Ailes instructions are more complex than those our mothers gave us in earlier decades, but the world has grown more complex. Our mothers might had said more and different things on the subject given current conditions.

Still, it's hard to imagine that even today they would have failed to mention clenching the knees or the delicious but forbidden pleasure of scratching ourselves wherever, whenever we itched.

March of Dimes Birth Defects fundraiser at Nordic Bar Oct. 1

The March of Dimes Birth Defects Foundation will hold its 8th Annual Auction & Jamboree at the Nordic Bar in Boyne City on Sunday, October 1st, 1989 from 1:00 p.m. until 10:00 p.m. Several bands will perform during the day with Rawhide as the host band.

Dozens of items donated by merchants and individuals in Boyne City, East Jordan, Ellsworth, Charlevoix, and Petoskey will be auctioned off between sets. As always, items will range from clothes, to furniture, to dinners, to appliances and knick-knacks. There is something for everyone! Dick and Noreen Selissen of the Nordic Bar will be serving drinks at regular prices. A menu featuring fried chicken and sloppy joes will be offered along with all the fixings. The food has been donated by area stores so all the proceeds go to the March of Dimes.

Peggy Thompson and Lee Arnold, who have been instrumental in organizing this event for the past several years, ask everyone to come on out for a fun and worthwhile day. "Remember that the money goes to help fight birth defects," says Thompson. "The people around here have always been great and we expect another good year."

A donation of $2.00 at the door covers the entry fee and puts everyone in the drawing for the door prize. For further information call 947-2488.

Stipends cause concern

a stipend, or pay extra money, to those professionals working on developing curriculum upgrades.

The school administration asked to have the stipend added to the teacher or administrator's salaries because of the extra work that was involved in developing or restructuring a curriculum in such areas as math, English or social studies.

Administrators felt that the work involved should be compensated for by the school system but that idea was not accepted very well by board member Dave Guzniczak who said that the timing was not appropriate for the plan as the school system has just come out of, and is still coming out of, a money crunch. He added that the board is trying to hold the line or cut expenses, not add to them.

Superintendent Bob Nakoneczny said the stipend would only be about $2,000 to $3,000 per curricula and only one per year would be allowed.

Principal Ed Snyder said the offer would only go to the professional staff which brought up the question that if the board agreed to offer stipends would they end up becoming part of the negotiation with the teachers' union contract.

The board was told that it would eventually become part of the contract, but the administration was not sure as to when.

Another board member said it hurts to see the school having to pay extra to see someone do their job.

With the board at an impasse with the administrators, the matter was tabled until the details could be worked out.

In other matters, the school board approved the building of a new building trades class house on Lot A located on Lewis Street. The house will be a single family residence with 1,400 square feet and will include a half basement and a crawl space.

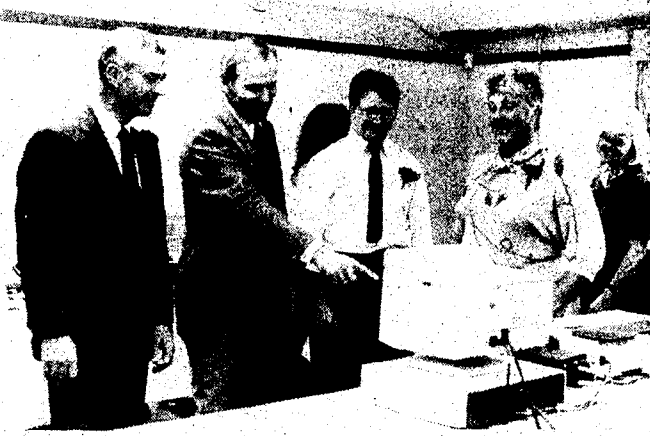

The board then approved a resolution calling for a commemorative postage stamp featuring the 50th anniversary of the school bus.

They also approved the wording on the educational philosophy for the school system that now becomes a part of the school board manual. Also approved was a resolution covering the State Aid Incentive program although the school system does not receive any State Aid.

The board then heard reports covering the proposed budget planning process that is starting for next year, along with the Facility Utilization Study Committee Review Process.

They then approved the naming of coaches in the Middle School and the hiring of bus drivers to replace those who have retired or resigned.

The meeting started with a cheer from the high school cheerleaders in praise of the custodial staff which worked extra hard rebuilding a classroom over the summer for use as the new computer center. The board had a presentation dedicating the room shortly after the meeting started.

Superintendent Bob Nakoneczny shows off some of the features of the new IBM computers that are in the computer room at the Boyne City High School to Jim, Gowell, Jeff Grice and Gloria Anderson after the dedication of the new computer room.

Steel shot now required for waterfowl

Mandatory use of steel shot will be the statewide rule during the 1989 Michigan waterfowl hunting season, according to the Department of Natural Resources (DNR).

This is a change from the 1988 season when only the Lower Peninsula and two small zones in the east Upper Peninsula were required to use steel shot.

The Natural Resources Commission approved this action in February, 1988, in an effort to significantly curtail lead poisoning in waterfowl.

"Historically, lead poisoning has been caused by the deposition of lead shot from the guns of waterfowlers," DNR Director David F. Hales said. "Michigan now joins Iowa, Minnesota, Mississippi, Missouri, Nebraska, North Dakota, South Dakota, and Wisconsin in adopting statewide requirements—all states in the nation must use steel by the 1991-92 season."

In Michigan, the rule will also apply to the hunting of coots, gallinules, rails and snipe, in addition to ducks and geese. Steel shot is not required for hunting woodcock, however.

school board, the city commission, the county government, the state, and almost everything else except the ongoing conflict of the East Germans leaving their country for the freedoms of the west.

I guess that is one of the things that helps to make our country a little better than most. The freedoms. We have the opportunity, through freedom, to fall flat on our faces or to make millions.

Those millions could be dollars, or could even be friends... it is our choice.

That is the answer, it is our choice. Perhaps that is the greatest freedom we Americans have. The freedom of choice.

Oh, it is not written into the constitution, there are other things written into that, but we have the privilege, and almost the right, to have that choice.

Like I chose to become a newspaper publisher. Mel Howard chose to become a petroleum products dealer. Bob Huff chose to become a pharmacist, and the list can go on.

The only thing that differentiates what someone is doing or wants to do is the amount of education they receive. That education could be from the school of hard knocks or some prestigious college. Again, it is our choice.

Not the government. At least not yet.

I hope we never get to the point where those decisions of life are made by others, it is bad enough we have to conform to so many rules and regulations already.

But, at least we can still have a choice.

I only hope my choices are enough and in the direction I want to go.

multiple use between the city and the school.

The program would try to keep students within the school system and allow them to graduate from high school instead of dropping out of school.

Tibaldi said that it was a shame that the northern part of the state did not have such a program underway. He hoped the program would have 14 to 20 students participating to start, and said that the school could grow to about 40 students if Emmet and Charlevoix County students are allowed to enter.

He said there are some concerns with the students and that a set of rules would be developed with the students involved to help control the students in the downtown location.

Parking was one concern of Commissioners who suggested the students driving to the school use a parking lot by the Co-op that is not presently overused. They said that since school would start earlier than the present users of the parking area between the Depot Restaurant and the stores, the students would fill those spaces up which would leave no room for the workers working at downtown stores.

Tibaldi and Martin said that a lot of problems would be resolved in the next few weeks and others would be resolved as they happened.

The two said they would be meeting with other groups concerning the use of the downtown store later this week.

City Manager Randy Frykberg announced that paving was to be started and completed Wednesday on Michigan Ave. if the weather would allow. Other construction has started throughout the city and that he was working closely with middle school officials concerning some construction in the area.

Reg Sharkey's Northern Journal

St. Francis of Chandler Hill

BY REG SHARKEY

For eight years Dave Siegrist has taken care of orphaned whitetail fawns at his Chandler Hill farm southeast of Petoskey.

Most of those fawns have been recovered by DNR conservation officers from "fawnappers" who deliberately pick up what they say are motherless fawns.

This summer so far, Dave has seven of the little spotted gamins partaking of goat's milk supplied by Dave's nanny and those of a neighbor. When not enough milk is available to satisfy the increasing appetites of the growing fawns a lamb milk replacer is supplemented.

Dave figures it costs about $2.00 a day to feed each fawn and he receives no monetary assistance from the DNR, nor from any other source. Dave says, "Time is the biggest item in caring for them."

Luckily Dave has a wife, Eva, and a little daughter, Jolene, who share in caring for the woodland orphans until they are released and are no longer dependent on human foster care.

When first brought to the Siegrist "orphanage" the fawns are confined in a wire enclosure. At feeding time Eva prepares the goat milk, filling enough nipples bottles to go around. The fawns know when chow time draws nigh. And when the kitchen door opens they become agitated emitting soft bleats of anticipation. When the bottles are placed in a rack the fawns crowd around the artificial udders setting up a rhythmic beat of pulsating bottles and sucking sounds.

After about two months the wire enclosure is removed and the fawns roam freely, gradually extending their range to nearby woodlands and swamps, only coming back in the evening when they are called to "hit the bottle."

By early fall they have joined their wild brethren and are on their own.

Dave says that the four fawns taken care of last summer made it through the 1988 hunting season and the winter, showing up early this spring. They were bucks, too.

One of the seven being cared for this summer is a cripple. It was found on an old railroad grade unable to move its hindquarters. It was thought it might have been struck by a careless ATV operator.

Dave has given the little buck special attention, massaging and getting it on its feet, supporting it as it struggles to regain natural mobility.

Dave also plants about 25 acres of corn near a swamp that is left standing for wintering deer.

Yes, it is a labor of love for Dave and his family, taking on a task that only a few special people care to undertake.

Twenty-eight successfully reared orphan fawns in eight years proves the point.

BC team improves greatly against rated foe

BY JERRY FROATS

"We've got to stop making mistakes," said Boyne City Rambler head football coach Jack Gebauer. "Without the penalties it would have been a different game." Racking up 11 infractions for a total 92 negative yards was certainly one of the big factors in the Ramblers' loss to the Rudyard Bulldogs Friday night as Rudyard carried a 22-0 victory. Regardless of this defeat, Gebauer was not down in the mouth about the loss to Rudyard. "When we started the season we said we wouldn't win them all, but we played a great Rudyard football team and our kids played well." The Bulldogs have what is perhaps their best team ever and is expected to gain a playoff berth at the Silverdome this year.

The Ramblers were not a push-over by any means against the Bulldogs either. In the first half of the game things were pretty evenly matched. Defensively, the Ramblers thwarted the first Bulldog possession, forcing a punt that set the Ramblers back on their own 19 yard line. Sporting their new look on offense with the spread backfield, Boyne was forced to shake off a terrible start and begin over when Rudyard fumbled their punt reception away to Rambler Joe Jankowski at the Boyne City 36 yard line. From there the Ramblers rolled, running the ball to a near first down on three plays. Lacking about half a yard, Gebauer gambled for the first down and it paid off with Rambler quarterback Bo Williamson on a keeper to the Boyne City 49 yard line. The eight and one-half minute drive was highlighted by a 35 yard pass reception from Williamson to Jankowski to the Rudyard 12 yard line, but the 78 yards gained on the possession proved to be fruitless as the Ramblers fumbled the ball away with 45 seconds remaining in the period.

Rudyard was quick to put on an impressive show, gaining 37 yards in four plays, but the Rambler defense stiffened up as Jankowski brought down a second-and-six play for no gain and Shawn Vondra penetrated the backfield on the next play, forcing the Bulldogs to punt. From there, the Rambler offense was plagued with mistimed and broken plays and the defense was forced to spend an incredible amount of time on the field.

The Rambler defense was doomed to failure, or so it seemed, as they were questionably called for pass interference, giving the Bulldogs excellent field position at the Rambler 29 yard line, but a 13 yard sack at the hands of Leigh Woodbury and a stingy front line forced the Bulldogs into a fourth down pass play that was batted to the ground by Rambler Mike Feagan in the endzone, spoiling the Rudyard hopes of drive culminating touchdown.

One of the biggest Rambler mistakes took place shortly after they had relinquished possession of the ball at their own 25 yard line. Rudyard was able to spring a receiver loose through the backfield and ran unguarded down the field for a reception and touchdown run.

Although the Ramblers trailed 6-0 at the end of the first half, they had performed admirably against the tough Bulldogs. Offensively Boyne City had gained 82 yards in field position, including all the negative penalty yardage that had to be countered, while the Bulldogs gained 90 yards in field position.

Lacking the straight-ahead power of 200 lb. fullback Matt West, (injured in the first half), the Rambler offense never got rolling through the entire second half. Suffering from their inability to turn a first-and-ten, plagued with penalties, and not being able to defend against Rudyard counter plays all proved to be fatal for the Ramblers in the second half of play.

Early in the fourth quarter, trailing 12-0 the Rambler defense finally was able to dig in for a thrilling goal-line stand that killed a Rudyard 53 yard drive, but that too turned into points for the Bulldogs as they caught the Ramblers in their own zone for a safety and two points. The Ramblers inadvertently set up the final Bulldog touchdown, deflecting a Rudyard punt off a Rambler player at the Rambler nine yard line where the Bulldogs recovered the ball. Another good defensive stand seemed feasible for the Ramblers as they pushed the Bulldogs to the 15 yard line when Stacey Ernst and Vondra sacked the Rudyard quarterback for a ten yard loss, but a wide run to the left enabled the Bulldogs to score again, setting up the 22-0 Rudyard win.

Reflecting back on the game, Gebauer was not at all displeased with his team's performance. "The kids improved 200% over last week in both attitude and enthusiasm", adding that "the kids deserve to win, and they will." "Our objective is still to play a 5-4 season."

This Friday night the Ramblers travel to Lincoln-Alcona area schools and Boyne City set their sights on that game immediately following the Rudyard game. Before leaving the field the Ramblers ran their traditional four 40 yard sprints and gathered under the west goalposts to get their minds on the right track—next week's game.

Attention fans:

See your expertise in action

If you have thought that you know something about football, new Boyne City High School Coach Jack Gebauer has started a new program for those "sideline" quarterbacks, Monday morning coaches and others interested in football.

Gebauer asked that any fan, or anyone interested could develop a play for the team and maybe see it run during a game.

He said he and his staff will evaluate each play that comes in to the school, pick the best one, and run it at least once during every home game starting with the next home game and will run a "Play of the Week" for all of the home games for the rest of the season.

The plays can be written up on anything, Gebauer said, and he also has forms available at the High School or the Middle School for those who want them.

The plays should be turned in to either the High School office or the Middle School office so that the coach can choose the best for the week by Mondays. That way, the team will have a chance to practice the play before using it during a game.

Little Jolene Siegrist helps her father, Dave, feed one of the seven orphaned white-tailed fawns they care for at their farm south of Petoskey. The fawns are fed on goat's milk supplied by Dave's nanny and those belonging to a neighbor, at a cost of about $2.00 per day for each, and he receives no monetary aid in feeding these fawns.
