Grandvue to receive TIFA money from Boyne

Grandvue Medical Care Facility will be allowed to receive their share of the money Boyne City collects from the TIFA fund that paid for the cost of the infrastructure improvement for the Air-Industrial Park after the City Commission agreed to let the money for the next two years go to the facility.

Grandvue authorities had asked the city to allow them the funds to help them meet their budget which last year ended about $100,000 in the red. They borrowed the money from the County General Fund and are going to pay back the fund in two payments over the next two years.

In asking the city to return the TIFA money, their letter noted that the City of Charlevoix was also asked and complied with returning money they collected from the D.D.A. and TIFA funds in that city.

The amount of money that will go from Boyne City to Grandvue amounts to about $2,359 for this fiscal year and that amount will be sent to the facility shortly.

City Commissioners noted that the TIFA district will be paid off earlier than expected, hoping to make the last payment in 1991 instead of 1993 as originally projected. The reason for the early payoff is the growth of industry in the park.

The total SEV for the TIFA district has increased 19 percent from last year, according to city officials. The total capture of the TIFA funds amounts to $201,712 less the amount that would go to Grandvue, they said. The total amount owed for the infrastructure improvement amounts to $219,195.77 and is scheduled to be paid off by April, 1991.

The City Commissioners, in granting the request to help out Grandvue said the community owes the senior citizens a great deal and this money will help cover some of the costs of the facility.

Commissioners then passed a resolution that will allow the city to set up a reserve fund for major maintenance of the sewer system. The city used to have a reserve fund when they had a bond through the Farmers Home Administration that paid for the sewer treatment plant.

But that fund was absorbed into the General Fund when the city paid off the bond last year in order to save a considerable amount of money in interest.

That payoff is one of the reasons why the city has been financially strapped over the last couple of years.

The reserve fund would be built up with proceeds coming from the water and sewer bills residents pay to the city for the service. Eventually, the city hopes to have the fund built up with enough money they could use for expansion of the sewer lines throughout the city.

Andy Andrick, representing the Veterans of Foreign Wars, thanked the city for their help in getting the flag pole holes completed in the downtown area, saying it was a pleasure to work with the city for something that looks pleasurable.

Source not yet found in BF

Even though state officials can't find the source of gasoline that is contaminating the ground near the Unocal gas station located at the corner of U.S. 131 and M-75 in Boyne Falls, state health department officials said that the gasoline in the groundwater hasn't yet hit the Boyne Falls secondary water well.

The gasoline was located when an impending sale of the gas station had to provide some soil borings to show the new owners the station was not leaking any hazardous chemicals into the ground. The discovery that something was in the ground called the sale to be called off at least until the source of the gasoline is found and fixed.

One possible source of the gas could be from the 3-M gas station located across the street, but officials at the gas station say they have not detected any loss of gas from their underground tanks. That seems to be confirmed as engineers from the Department of Natural Resources have indicated the flow of the gasoline is coming from the wrong direction and probably couldn't be coming from the gas station across the street.

Recently, the DNR has installed a filtering system to try to filter out the gasoline from the groundwater, using a shed they constructed next to the Unocal station.

The owners of the station had agreed to drill three monitoring wells to determine if there was some leakage of the gasoline. Two of the three wells did have contaminated conditions. Near the middle of August, the DNR officials discovered about 10 to 12 inches of free gasoline floating on top of the groundwater.

As the Unocal station had recently completed a volume test which indicated the relatively new tanks were not contaminating the area, the DNR felt they had to take over and authorized the district office to hire an environmental contractor to begin the cleanup and to try to determine where the source of the gasoline was.

The firm began work at the end of the month and decided to install a recovery well to pump the water

BC United Way sets $35,000 goal

Having reached their $32,000 goal last year, and surpassing it by $363.40, organizers of this year's Boyne Area United Way Campaign set a new goal of $35,000 for the 1989 drive that will be kicked off this week.

The drive members met at the Country Star Restaurant in Boyne City Tuesday to work out some of the details and to allow those organizations that have requested funds from United Way to explain their needs for the upcoming year.

The committee looks at each organization and decides how much it will receive for the 1989-90 fiscal year.

Last year United Way disbursed about $35,000 using some of the extra funds that were accumulated over the years and not given out to organizations. But now the fund has to be replenished, according to drive officials.

Attending the meeting were new board members, Dr. Gary Mellon and Tim Seely.

News Briefs

Traffic on about one mile of M-75, from Bear River to US-131 at Walloon Lake near Boyne City (Charlevoix County), is slowed by intermittent, daytime lane closures, controlled by flagmen, the Michigan Department of Transportation reports. The work includes shoulder improvement, storm sewers, resurfacing and guardrail upgrading.

The project is scheduled for completion by mid-October.

About 3,000 members of the V.F.W. will be coming to Boyne Mountain and Boyne City this Thursday, Friday and Saturday as the annual Fall Pow-Wow takes place. The host post is Boyne City's and lots of activities are planned for the veterans. The vets seem to enjoy our community as this is the 10th time in the past 12 years that they have come back to Boyne Mountain and Boyne City for their get together.

Sheriff reminding absentee residents

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is once again reminding residents of Charlevoix County that if they are to be absent from their homes for any period of time, this department has a program to check on these homes in their absence.

In order to participate in this program, the home owner must contact this office in person and request the security check form, or call the Sheriff's office at 547-4461 and request a form be sent to them. If a resident has applied for this program in the past for this request must be re-submitted each year.

It should be noted, this program does not take the place of private security programs just adds to the coverage and works along with these private organizations.

Boswell Field gets face-lift

East Jordan High School is benefitting from the work of the East Jordan Athletic Boosters this fall. The Boosters, under the leadership of Club President Cal Gotts, have donated $5,000 to the school for renovations at Boswell Field, the football home of the Red Devils.

Among the renovations being made this season is the construction of a new storage facility/press box, which is under construction at the field. The press box, which measures 16' x 24', is located at mid-field, directly behind the bleachers, which have been moved closer to the field. The press box also includes a new public address system that is a vast improvement over the old system.

Future plans for the field include the construction of permanent restroom facilities and a new concession stand. All of the time and materials necessary for the projects have been provided by the Booster Club, according to Keith Moore, the Principal of East Jordan High School. Mr. Moore indicated that the gift of time, energy and funding is deeply appreciated by the school staff and student body.

EJ's Mary Jason re-elected to MASB

East Jordan school board president, Mary Jason, has been re-elected to a three-year term on the board of directors of the Michigan Association of School Boards (MASB).

"If you want to help make a difference in the quality of education for all students in Michigan, MASB's Board of Directors is the place to be," Jason explains. "MASB is making the difference in the quality of our boardmanship."

As a 12-year veteran of the East Jordan board of education, Jason has served as president for 6 years. She also served as vice-president.

With her reelection, Jason continues an active 8 years on the MASB board of directors. She has also helped at the national level, including National School Board Association (NSBA) Central Region vice-chair, NSBA Resolutions Committee and Federal Relations Network Conference.

The Monday Study Club held its opening fall meeting with a dinner in the Alpine Room at Boyne Mountain Lodge on September 18 with 22 members and one guest, Betty Alldred, present. The dinner was followed by an interesting and informative program with speaker Rod Cortright, who is the Director of Charlevoix County Extension Services, from M.S.U. He told many things of interest and concern about our Lake Charlevoix and ground water. It was an enjoyable evening by all and their next meeting, October 16, will be at the home of Irene Hennessey.

Dorothy Crandell reported that she had a phone call from her son, Marine Sgt. Kevin Crandell of Charleston, S.C., saying that all was well with him, in spite of the devastation of Hurricane Hugo.

On Saturday, Garold Myers and wife Marlynn Hughes Myers, enjoyed hosting an open house at their home on Hillcrest Drive in East Jordan for their many friends, family members, neighbors and colleagues. It was a memorable event for all.

Mr. and Mrs. David Ryan and her mother, LaBerta Lalone, Grand Blanc, were here over the weekend. The Ryans continued on to Lelanau, while LaBerta stayed here visiting Ella Nulph and other friends in the area.

On Wednesday, the Sterling Heights Police Department, who are runners for the Special Olympics, treated the Bergmann Center Olympic Champs of the June Special Olympic events held at CMU in Mt. Pleasant, to a pizza party lunch at Charlevoix's Little Caesars. They had a fun time of pizza and Coke and were also given white hats as honorary "Junior Police Officers", and badges, Michigan stick pins, and Caesars Coke cups to take home. Before the party was over, the Sterling Hgts. P.D. had to rush off to be in Traverse City by 1:30. Another noteworthy event of Bergmann Center happenings is that they are learning many new skills through photography. Marlynn Hughes, the Adult Community Ed. teacher at the Center, attended a workshop this past summer and was able to purchase 12 Polaroid 600 cameras to be used with her classwork. All of the client/employees at the Center got to use the cameras for the first time last week, all were successful, and for many, it was the first time they had ever taken a picture.

Olive LaLone of Grand Rapids, Mr. and Mrs. Marvin Howe, also of Grand Rapids, Beatrice Fiefield of Houghton Lake, and Delphine Peterson of Lake City were here this past week visiting Anne Jenkins and other friends and relatives in the area.

Lloyd Sherwood, who is here from Wildwood, Florida and a member of the Seventh Day Adventist Church there, led this week's Sabbath at the Boyne City SDA Church, in the absence of their pastor, the Rev. Homer Precartin.

There was a very good turnout at the Free Methodist Church on Friday, Saturday, and Sunday's revival meetings with Evangelist Hal Phillips. On Sunday morning, the home congregation surprised their pastor, the Rev. and Mrs. Lane Eddy and son Ian, with an old fashioned "Pounding Shower" of food and supplies.

How can you guarantee that you could replace your home?

No problem.

Auto-Owners Homeowners Policy offers optional guaranteed home replacement cost coverage for homes that qualify. It's broader coverage—so you'll never run out of money for covered losses. It may be more economical than your current policy that doesn't include guaranteed home replacement. Opinions

With the recent approvals and the entering into the zoning code, Boyne City officials should be very cautious about allowing the expansion of non-conforming uses.

Part of the problem of non-conforming lands throughout the community is that they should have never been allowed to build a business in that location in the first place. Most were built before the community had zoning rules and had to be grandfathered into the zoning code.

Up until the passage that allows a non-conforming expansion, if the business had a disaster, like a fire, it could not be rebuilt. The reasoning behind that was to eventually eliminate the non-conforming use from a zone.

We expect to see several land and business owners come in front of the planners with plans for expansion of properties that shouldn't have been allowed.

We think they still shouldn't be allowed to expand, they should only be able to rebuild if some condition warrants that rebuilding. We feel there is no reason for a manufacturing business, for instance, to be allowed to expand when the area around it is zoned for single family residences. There is no need to intrude further into the quiet neighborhoods of the community.

We think the planners should consider each one very carefully.

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

There's a new adage going on around town, goes something like this...

"Beware of the winds of September, for they forecast horrendous winds in November, and blizzards in December."

So with those thoughts in mind, I should tell you that this is the annual forecast for the winter.

Some say the woolly caterpillar was not seen very much this year, if only because the entire insect is brown or black where soothsayers say winter will be hard and cold.

The new Farmers' Almanac isn't in my hands yet, so I can't tell if we are going to have a bad or good winter, but if my luck is right, we will get a winter where we will be tired of shoveling snow, and welcome for the heat of the wood stove and can't wait for the weather to change into spring.

In other words, it will probably be a typical winter for those of us who will live around here.

We have not yet had the influx of address changes from all the people heading to Florida, but I am expecting them every day. It will all happen about the time the leaves fall from the trees.

I hope that everyone going to Florida remembers to call or write with their address change. It could save them some time getting the newspaper because of the delays in the post offices as they have to sort through to find the address change.

But, the skiers in the crowd will probably like the winter, we haven't had a had one since 1981, and will almost have to live on the slopes as they have some fun every day.

But for the rest of us, we will just have to live with the thoughts of shoveling, making sure the wood pile lasts, and bundling up the kids when they want to play outside.

Myself, I am going to get a real thick book, like the one I have been reading lately, and settle down to our usual long, cold winter. I will also make sure that I pay the bill to the cable company so I can complain when the cable goes out in some snowstorm and I won't be able to watch some show that probably wouldn't be worth watching anyway.

But winter has not yet come, and folks are just starting to go out and cut the wood they thing they will need for the winter. Some smart ones have it cut and stacked, but for the rest of us procrastinators, we have just gotten to thinking about it point.

After all, the leaves haven't fallen yet, so why worry about something like wood.

Ah, yes, this is the best time of the year...early fall. The weather, except for the last weekend when we had the aftereffects of Hugo and another low pressure system colliding in our county, the weather is just about right for doing all of the things that we should have done this past summer. But, we rationalize, there were too many other things that were more fun to do, weren't there.

You see, I figure I am not alone not keeping up with the work around the home. I figure, let's see, there are about 6,000 year around homes in the county, and if just 10% of them are go-getters, that leaves about 5,400 homes that are in the same shape as mine and yours.

At least that gives us a little something to tell the other half why we don't want to do the work...we are just keeping up with the Joneses.

Remembrances

These are some of the draymen who worked the yard at the Van Platten Lumber Mill which was located in North Boyne about the turn of the century. The men and horses would pull wagons loaded with fresh cut lumber out to the drying yards where the lumber was air dried for a period of time. The helpers would stack the lumber into large "ricks" which would allow the air to circulate around and through the lumber. This picture shows some of the reason why Boyne City was a very large town back then, with hundreds of workers at the mills, the chemical and pig iron plants, as well as the tannery. It took a lot of manpower to do the same work it takes a machine and one person to do these days.

Marshall Sayles

And Boyne City, too....

Three well-heeled Michigan cities enjoy the most pleasing appearance. They are Midland, Kalamazoo and Traverse City.

Within five years our "city of excellence" will have joined the list becoming the crown of northern Michigan with a thousand points of light sparkling in all directions.

Question: How come you alone are privy to such knowledge when our deep thinkers and future seers know nothing about it?

Answer: A couple of metropolitan computer wizards pushed data into a machine and came up with the stuff I'm about to impart.

Question: So, what's going to happen to our town that will throw it into a class with those other three municipal bigwigs?

Answer: Well, we will have no barons, counts, heroes or even a statue of a supposed hero.

However, and this is one of the biggest "howevers" I've seen in a long time:

Grass will no longer sprout between sidewalk cracks. Garage sale signs will fade from telephone poles. Pizza parlors will increase in number. Christmas decorations will disappear before March. With city street improvement, all potholes will have gone to pot, store-front churches will increase so more folks can be saved.

Question: Heavens to Horton Bay! Can you speak further about this amazing computerized crap?

Answer: Other changes will occur that are almost too frightening to mention. For instance, our orderly growth will no longer leave us like a summer trinket fit only for the two-week vacationer to play around with.

Question: What then?

Answer: Like Midland, our prominence will be somewhat subdued with vest buttons popping in silent pride. Boyne City, my friend, will have the head and stomach of a king.

Question: Have you been soaking your head in epsom salts again?

Answer: Tamper with this information at your own risk. My attorney says I have the right to charge so much per tamp.

Herewith we change the subject, and not too soon either.

A farmer writes from Texas saying that never again will he put his money in a savings and loan association.

My father once said that when he was a kid an Indian went into a bank to borrow money.

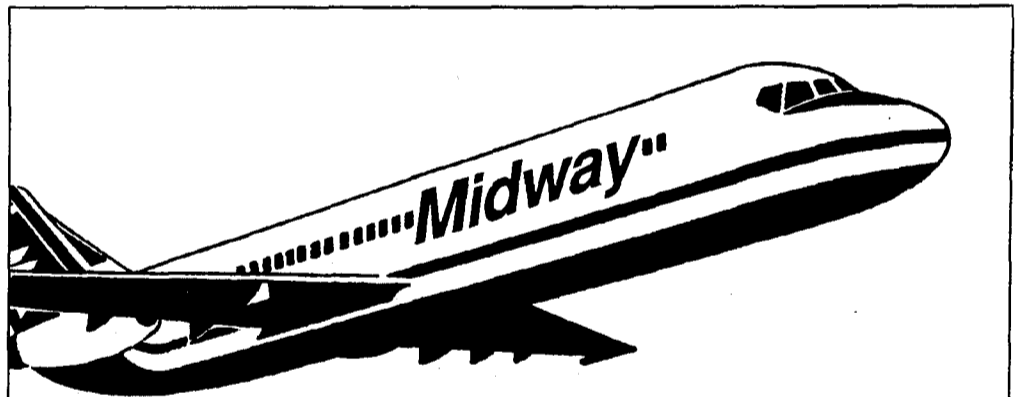

"What do you have for collateral?" he was asked.

"What's collateral?"

"Well," the banker said, "what do you have that's worth as much as you want to borrow?"

"I don't have nothing but four or five hundred ponies," the Indian said.

Well, before sand has ceased to cling to the inside corners of pants pockets, advertisements for fall fashions. The fall fashions for financially very fit females, move into the pages of newspapers and magazines. While their appearance can't influence the shopping decisions of those who are not in such good shape, still, over time, a regular newspaper reader who encounters the ads day after day gets to judging the merits of the items pictured, some of which are hereupon shared.

A survey of the garments advertised doesn't turn up any trends or heavily favored styles. There are noteworthy items, though, some of which are also perplexing. For example, there's a dressy tweed jacket, collarless with black velvet ringed neckline and sleeves growing wide at the wrists. It's worn with matching tweed shorts.

But worn where? Not likely to the theater with the knees hanging out, nor out to dinner where the sleeves would dance on the food, and this would be warmly awkward to play tennis in. Perhaps it could be worn to fancy dog shows. But the black velvet gloves the model wears with it don't aim it toward hairy events.

Then maybe it's for going to football games in, games at prestigious institutions like Yale or Harvard. Gloves would be sensible there on nippy autumn days and under a stadium blanket, the bare legs wouldn't show.

Another question mark is a brocade parka-style tunic. Open down the front, it's elastic-gathered about the center of the hipbones, the elastic ends attached to ribbons that tie in front to help hold it closed. Length isn't mentioned.

Also not mentioned is a suitable place to wear it. Romans once wore tunic everywhere, but where tunics are considered proper attire today isn't well-known certainly.

There is one truly practical garment, a coat cut like a bathrobe. Perhaps its designers didn't envision it this way, but it could be a two-in-one piece serving both at the breakfast table and out to lunch; with the right home environment that is. A bathrobe that's going out to lunch needs to look better than the stay-at-home kind, though. There shouldn't be shedding animals in residence, animal hair being attracted and gluing itself to most wearing apparel.

Then too there are the eating habits of the potential owners. One who doesn't handle food with finesse, whose cereal doesn't always follow a straight path from bowl to mouth, isn't a good candidate for a robe that leaves home. Strands of shredded wheat adhering to the front of one's outer garment makes for a poor image in the marketplace. So pet owners with untidy eating habits should skip this economic measure.

On the subject of economy, bathrobe coats don't come cheap. Versions in cashmere and wool cost almost half as much as a decent used car. Angora, lambswool and nylon ones can be had for about a tenth of that which is an improvement. But likely Sears or K Mart will soon pick this idea up and sell an even less costly version.

That does it for an overview of high fashion as seen by an untrained observer, but one who knows what she likes and prefers news stories to ads. In all fairness, though, it should be said that these ads are new stories to females who are very fit financially.

Michigan constitutional rights contained in Proposal B. Like many Michigan citizens you are probably confused about the legislature's Proposals A and B on the ballot this November. Proposal A is straight forward enough, a $400 million tax increase. Proposal B, however, is terribly confusing. It combines a 50 % increase in the sales tax with dramatic changes in school property taxes and school finance.

First, Proposal B establishes a new state property tax. Instead of sending your local school property tax dollars to your local schools, Proposal B would send a big chunk of it to the state legislature. Local control of local tax dollars would be the first casualty of Proposal B.

Second, the state property tax doesn't tax everyone the same. Business property would pay 1 1/2 times the rate of non-business property. This breakdown is the long standing principle of uniform taxation places every group of taxpayers at risk for the future.

Third, and most importantly, the new state property tax, along with the local foundation property tax, would never be subject to voter approval, renewal, or review. Today voters get the opportunity to periodically vote, up or down, on their school property taxes. After Proposal B that type of voter control would be just a memory. Discussion of this major change in voter control is cleverly avoided by the proponents of this devastating proposal.

Fourth, the new state property tax and a new local foundation property tax would be joined by yet another set of property taxes, 4 mills of "optional" taxes. While Proposal B promises "property tax relief" in fact that relief would be only temporary. One of the ways that relief will be eaten away will be from these four optional property tax mills.

Five, Proposal B would exempt most school property taxes from the provisions of the Headlee Amendment to the Michigan Constitution. Today assessment increases alone cannot increase taxes faster than the rate of inflation plus new construction. Assessment increases that exceed this limit rollback the millage rate so that the total property tax bills grows at the rate of inflation plus new construction. Under Proposal B that limit is gone, except for the four optional mills. If you are one of the many citizens who saw double digit assessment increased in the past year, you should be especially concerned about Proposal B. If Proposal B passes there will be no limit on the growth in your property taxes caused by increasing assessments. The rollback provision would be eliminated.

Finally, Proposal B contains a shocking clause that should scare every citizen of this state, whether they pay property taxes or not. Section 11 of Proposal B contains these words, "The legislature may provide by law for the revision of elimination of any of the requirements of this section." Unbeknownst to most citizens of this state, Proposal B would allow the legislature alone to amend this state's constitution without the approval of the voters.

In looking over Proposal B, I cannot believe that the supporters of Proposal B actually understood that their amendment would destroy so many constitutional protections that the citizens have worked so hard to place in their constitution. Whether you think a major tax increase is justified or not, I urge you and your readers to actually read Proposal B. After you understand that it would do to our constitution and your efforts in the past, I am sure you will vote NO.

Ed Hettig records sensory observations made by blindfolded Josiah Middaugh as he examines a grapefruit. In teaching a unit on observation, East Jordan Middle School Science teacher, Todd McNitt, organized 17 "stations" with unknown objects. Half of the class was blindfolded. The other half acted as recorders to record the sensory perceptions of the blindfolded students as they examined the unknown objects. Students quickly learned the importance of feel, touch, smell and sound.

East Jordan High School students enter computer world

East Jordan High School students are entering the world of computers in a big way. While students have had the opportunity to take computer classes before, a semester of computers is now required for graduation. This year, students are working in the computer lab on state-of-the-art Apple IIgs computers, which were purchased with funds obtained from the successful computer millage last June.

In addition to the computer classes, the Office/Clerical Block Vocational Program, under the direction of instructor Jerry Hawes, is also utilizing the computer for word processing and computer-assisted accounting projects.

The addition of an Apple Macintosh system with a laser printer and Journalism software had also greatly enhanced the Journalism and Yearbook classes and programs. The addition of the Macintosh is also expected to help the district publish monthly newsletters and a variety of other special publications.

EJ Middle School students attend camp school

Sixth grade students for East Jordan Middle School encountered a new form of classroom last week when they attended Camp Daggett. Their outdoor classroom was science-oriented and was conducted during the school week.

During the day, students were divided into color groups, each group focusing their attention on a different scientific topic. One group practiced orienteering through the woods, compasses in hand. A second group followed pre-constructed trails learning the names of trees and leaves. A third group examined insects and other life found in swampy habitats. A fourth group examined flowering and non-flowering plants, including types of mushrooms. The entire group converged to play a wildlife simulation in which each person assumed the role of animals, food, or diseases and learned first hand the relationship between predators and prey, the workings of a food web, and the effects of disease on species of animals.

Evening activities included a lecture on star constellations by camp director Paul Bennington, a night hike made only by the light of the moon, and a successful attempt to hear the call of the barred owl.

Kitchen crew Belgie Caballero and Megan Towne smile while they clean dishes during kitchen duty.

The two-day, one-night camp experience was organized by the sixth grade team teachers, Bonnie Brunett, Phil Goebel, and Todd McNitt. Each student was asked to contribute toward the cost of the camping trip and many students used grocery slips from Glen's Markets to help defray the cost. Overall the camping trip was a success for the middle school students who are anxiously looking forward to another "natural classroom" excursion sometime next spring.

BC girls lose heartbreaker

BY SCOTT KNIPE

The Boyne City girls' basketball team went into Grayling last week with a 2-2 record, but had to downgrade it to 2-3 after a heart-breaking loss to the Vikings, 49-47. It was a hard fought game all around. Boyne led Grayling in the rebounding edge, but the Vikings hurt the Ramblers from the foul stripe. When all was done and said, it was the Vikings' 12-7 made free throw ratio that spelled the difference in the game.

Leading the Rambler assault was Dawn Archambault with 14 points. Her eight rebounds also contributed significantly. Crissy Gervasi followed with 12 points, and topped out the team rebounders with 11. Kristin Harvey threw in 9 points, and added a like number of bounds. Nancy McCullough scored five points, Kim Stadt four, and Kris Crozier had three.

Boyne Falls girls take Mackinaw

Boyne's top scorer was

Christina Barnadyn with 15 points, followed by Jeanie Lewis with 13, Wendy LaCroix with nine, Becky Carson with four, and Shani Hawes with two points.

High scorer for Mackinaw City was Fran Holsizer with 14, followed by Chris Alexander with eight points.

The Loggers are scheduled to play Alba on Tuesday.

BC endures 4th loss at Penfield Lack of offense hurts EJ football

BY JERRY FROATS
Dropping to 0-4 Saturday against Battle Creek-Penfield, the Boyne City Ramblers enter the mid-way point of their independent football schedule. The 26-0 loss marks the last game the Ramblers can drop if they are to wind up the season with a winning record.

And things look just as tough for most of the remaining schedule. The next two Rambler opponents, Whittemore Prescott and Hopkins both are sporting winning records and are familiar with the feeling of victory. Boyne City hopes to get a taste of such a victory before the season ends.

Following up a decidedly one-way contest—a 68-8 Ramblers JV loss, was not a particularly enjoyable undertaking for the Boyne City Varsity. Battle Creek-Penfield scored twice in the first period to lead 14-0 and added six more points in the second quarter to lead 20-0 at the half.

Replacing injured players and re-aligning the positions has caused Boyne City head football coach Jack Gebauer to call two sophomores up from the JV team. Junior Mike Feagan has been placed into the starting quarterback position while JV draftees Shawn Peterson and Roy Angel are running the ball from the Rambler backfield, an attempt to fill in for injured players.

Turnovers plagued the Ramblers again against Battle Creek as Boyne City penetrated within the Penfield 20 yard line, but fumbled two scoring opportunities away.

Assistant coach Dave Bricker thought that Boyne City played pretty well defensively in the second half of the game. "Defensively we played as well as we could play," said Bricker, "we held them to six points."

This Friday the Ramblers will travel to Whittemore-Prescott for another long road trip. Although Whittemore-Prescott is sporting a winning record, they don't play as many high caliber teams as Boyne has faced in the likes of Rudyard and Battle Creek-Penfield.

Through the second quarter, the Red Devils ran nine plays on four possessions. Not being able to pick up the blitzing Eagle defense put an immense amount of pressure on the East Jordan quarterback and enabled Bellaire to cruise in under lofty Devil passes for two interceptions in the period. Trailing 12-0 late in the quarter the Red Devils found themselves deep in their own territory, putting up another defensive stand from the six yard line, ending a 41 yard Bellaire drive on downs.

Early in the third period the Red Devils forced the Eagles to punt on fourth down, but the punt carried into the endzone, setting East Jordan back again, deep in their own territory. After moving the ball out some 20 yards, the Devils fumbled and Bellaire took over in excellent field possession and quickly moved in to the East Jordan nine yard line on first and goal to go. After three attempts at running the ball in, Bellaire went to the air for an 18-0 lead. The third period too, found East Jordan with very little possession time, as they ran just nine plays from scrimmage in the entire quarter.

Opening the fourth period, Bellaire had possession of the football on their own 24 yard line and were in punt formation when Freel busted through to block the punt. The ball carried backwards into the Eagle endzone where Steve Shepard covered the ball for six Red Devil points. Enter sophomore quarterback, Steve Poole. Poole tossed the conversion pass to Freel in the endzone for two more points.

The Eagles were unable to mount another drive for the remainder of the game as East Jordan engineered their most impressive drive of the game. Taking over the ball on their own 25 yard line, the Red Devils swept down the field with Poole passing to Ted Sherman and Freel as his primary receivers. A 36 yard run by Sherman and four complete passes took the Devils into Eagle territory, but the drive was short lived when the Eagles intercepted the ball on a misdirected pass.

Three incomplete passes later, East Jordan had the ball again with time running short, but a dropped lateral set the Eagles up within striking distance and two plays later were in the endzone for the 24-8 win.

Top scorer for Boyne Falls was Michelle Cousineau with 12 points. Boyne also managed to sink two 3-point shots.
Mackinaw's top scorer was Jalynn Stillwell with 17 points.

The full slice most of it falls back to the ground with the crows retrieving it, pronto.
But those darned jay birds wised up in a hurry. Now when a crow attempts to get the bread the jays give out that harsh slurring jeeak! jeeak! jeeak! cry of alarm, and the crows take off without the bread. Then the jays swoop down to get the loot.
But the crows finally caught on to the loud-mouthed liars. Now it's a different story.
The other day I observed a crow turn the tables on a jay. As the bread was thrown out the crow swooped down and the jay trying to airlift the slice was forced to drop it. Before any other jays could latch onto the bread the crow hopped to the bread, broke it into pieces, gobbled what he could, then gathered up the remainder and flew off.
When the crows leave for winter quarters we'll miss them, but, perhaps, the jays will stay. Not so many, I hope.
Last winter we didn't have a single bluejay cramming sunflower seeds at our big feeder.
But even if we don't we'll look forward to spring and the renewal of intertribal warfare 'twixt the jay birds and birdland Black Barts.

Falls defeated by Mackinaw

BY BECKY HAUSLER
In last Thursday night's game at Mackinaw City, Boyne Falls fell behind in the first quarter and never caught up with Mackinaw. Mackinaw City's good defense beat out Boyne's drive and Boyne

Reg Sharkey's Northern Journal

That sassy little jay bird

BKY REG SHARKEY
Next to a crow the bluejay is the smartest feathered critter in the avian world—at least I think so.

Both of the feathered Einsteins belong to the family Corvidae. You might say they are kissin' cousins.

But there is no love lost 'twixt the two.

Crows will raid a jay's nest, eating the eggs or even the nestlings. And jays are continually harrasing the crows.

We have had a front seat to the intertribal war going on in our back yard between the two species.

Somehow we've got a trio of crows coming for handouts. It all started early this spring when a pair of crows used our woods for a caucus staging area. In the process we threw bread out on the back lawn trying to entice them to partake of our handouts.

It wasn't long before they took the cue, and in the process let us know when they expected a handout.

Sometimes they come before we are about in the morning, announcing their arrival with a series of rasping caws, keeping it up until chow is tossed out on the lawn.
After their young were fledged they came along with their panhandling folks to learn the profession, their babylike begging cry adding to the din.
We have fun with the moochers by tossing out a full slice of bread. The fun begins as soon as the bread hits the ground.
Bluejays—and this summer we've been inundated with the flashy scoundrels—descend on the bread, trying to fly off with a full slice before their black nemeses get a chance at it. Unable to airlift and the gas from the ground, filter out the gas and put the cleaned water into the Boyne River at the Boyne Falls mill pond.

A recently fledged young jay bird.

Officials are worried that if the contaminated groundwater gets into the secondary village well it could cause problems. Village officials say they only use the well, which is about 70 feet deep, when there is a demand for water more than the primary well can handle, or when the primary well is down for repair and maintenance.

The gasoline is floating above the ground water at about the 14 foot level below the ground.

Health officials have decided to put the well on at least a semi-annual monitoring schedule to determine whether the contamination has reached the well so it would be shut down if necessary.

If it is determined the well is unusable, village officials will have to determine another site for a secondary well. For right now, officials are being urged to only use the well as a standby.
