

The lull before the storm of tears

Moments before the medals were handed out, the Boyne City Rambler girls' basketball team had time to reflect on their loss in the regional finals against Houghton Lake. Shortly after the picture was taken, the girls broke out in tears as careers ended and the season was over.

Could lower insurance costs by 9.3% for residents

Boyne, EJ get new improved fire insurance ratings

It's an excellent announcement for the residents of the city," said City Manager Randy Frykberg as he told the city commissioners the city has received a new improved Fire Insurance Rating.

The rating, used by insurance companies to base their rates on home and business owners, has been upgraded to a classification from the Class 7 it has had for the past 18 years.

The rating change was completed recently by the ISO Commercial Risk Services, Inc. an arm of the state insurance companies and the State of Michigan.

The rating change means that homeowners and building owners will see an average reduction in their fire insurance of about 9.3 percent for homeowners.

Business and manufacturing firms will see reductions averaging 2.9 percent for wood frame structures and 6.2 percent for masonry buildings.

The reduced costs will be reflected in insurance policies starting December 1, 1990 according to the ISO.

Residents and building owners are urged to contact their own insurance agent to find out exactly what the reduction in fire insurance means as part of the total insurance package.

According to Bill Stanley, a local insurance agent, building owners are cautioned that the reduction is only on the fire insurance portion of their homeowners policy. Those policies also contain insurance against other hazards like lightning, water and smoke damages. He also said the reductions could be absorbed by inflationary factors as well. Overall, though, most residents should see some reduction in their insurance bills.

Those residents living in the townships within four miles of Boyne City may also be effected with lower premiums for fire insurance although not as much as city residents.

Previously the city was rated as a class 7 city, based mostly on the equipment and training of the local fire department. With the replacement of many water lines throughout the city, the new equipment the fire department has purchased over the past 18 years, and the training of the firemen and support staff, the rating was improved.

East Jordan also will see their insurance rating improved to a level 6 as well with the same effective dates as Boyne City.

Other communities, like Charlevoix' have a 7 classification along with Petoskey. Both have been recently rerated and the rating may change for some of the communities.

After making the announcement, Frykberg introduced Nord Schroeder, the fire chief who said he was pleased with the way the many departments of the city worked together to prepare for the examination.

He told the commissioners it took two days for the inspector to complete his survey who worked with the fire chief and the water department testing water lines and checking out equipment.

The city has purchased many new trucks since the last rating survey was done 18 years ago. Schroeder said the ISO usually rates cities on a 15 year cycle although Boyne had their last survey 18 years ago.

He said the rating is based 50 percent on the fire department, 40 percent on the water department and the rest on having a dispatcher, additional training for the firemen and record keeping.

Schroeder added that the big factor in the improved rating came from additional infrastructure work that was completed within the past several years as well as the additional equipment the department has purchased to help fight fires.

In other action, the commissioners approved the first reading of a new amendment that would ban the new interior lit signage from the city. The ban was approved by the city planning board recently and the first reading was made during the Tuesday noon meeting. A second reading of the amendment, which will put it into law, will be held January 8, 1991.

The ban covers any interior lit sign, usually with a plastic face. An exception was made for interior lit awnings which will have to be approved by the planning board as a conditional use.

News Briefs

Besides Santa appearing in Boyne City and East Jordan, he will also appear in Boyne Falls at the Mill Street Cafe from 12-4 p.m. and again between 5 and 8 p.m. Friday and Saturday December 21-22. Sunday, December 23, he will be available for Boyne Falls and other children between 12 and 8 p.m.

After many years of having to reconstruct and rebuild toys that have been given to the Boyne City Community Christmas basket program, officials of the organization announced that they would also like to be able to put one new toy into the many Christmas baskets they give out to families that can't afford Christmas. In order to do that, they are starting a "Local Toys for Local Children" program where boxes are being set up in Glen's Market and other locations for those people who may want to purchase a new toy for a child. The new toys can be purchased from local stores and dropped into the boxes for distribution to the needy families. They do not need to be expensive toys, said Thelma Behling, who said they are looking for items such as rattles for newborns to dolls, cars and trucks for the older children. Boxes are being set up at both Carter's and Glen's stores so those wishing to participate may drop off new and used toys for the program so they can be included into the baskets that are distributed close to Christmas.

Meet the teams nights will be held at both East Jordan and Boyne City this Thursday evening as the latest high school boys basketball teams will be displaying their skills in scrimmage and displays. There will be a charge at the door for those wishing to attend that will be going to promoting the basketball programs.

Matthew 1up for road job

With three people trying to become members of the Charlevoix County Road Commission, the battle lines have been drawn between a member looking for re-appointment, John Kujawski, a former County Commissioner and Board Chairman Larry Matthew and a former Road Commission employee, Leonard Zakrzewski.

The three were being interviewed for the open seat on the board presently being held by Kujawski Monday in Charlevoix by the Charlevoix County Township Supervisors. The appointment will be made by the County Commissioners.

The apparent leader so far in the contest is Matthew with a recommendation from Paul Hoadley, Hayes Township Supervisor and chairman of the MTA chapter covering Charlevoix County. Hoadley said that since much of the road work is done in the townships, the townships should have a

EJ Board sets aside bucks for improvements

East Jordan School Board members put some financial backing behind their words last week when they voted to allocate $7 per student to be used at each school in the system. An additional $3 per student will be put into a special fund that would be available to the three schools on an application basis as well.

The total allocation will be $11,239 according to Superintendent Chip Hansen. The elementary school would be receiving $4,319 the middle school level would be getting $1,610 and the high school $1,932. The additional $3 fund would total out to $3,378.

The allocated funds are to be used strictly for school improvement at the building level, Hansen said, and would be controlled by the building level school improvement committees. Hansen said he expected the schools to use the money for such things as staff development, inservice training, supplies, materials and other professional program needs.

The funds set aside as a bonus fund would require school staffs to apply to the school board for permission to use funds for special needs.

The funds were approved at the monthly school board meeting last week.

The board then decided to call

Bedroom of this Victorian doll house shows some of the fine details and warrants additional looking.

From 2 to 4 p.m. on Sunday, December 2nd everyone is invited to the Christmas Open House at the Boyne City Historical Museum, 319 N. Lake Street, south end of the City Hall building.

A very special treat will be the exquisite, Vermont Country house decorated in Victorian style that will be on display. The miniature house is the project of Dorothy (Skip) Crompt of Boyne City. Her husband, Frank, has been very helpful with this endeavor.

Skip is a miniaturist, building almost all of the components of the house on a 1-1 scale. This requires tiny miniature tools as well as infinite patience, skill and imagination. The wicker pieces are a wonder! Lace curtains, pots and pans, upholstered furniture, tiny silverware, electrified light fixtures can be seen throughout the house even to the tiny kittens playing on the fireplace hearth.

The house is occupied by a family of tiny handmade porcelain dolls. The house will be completely decorated for Christmas.

This is a "must see" display for everyone. Please stop in at the museum Sunday, December 2nd from 2 to 4 p.m. and enjoy this display. Refreshments will be served.

Historical Society members and friends will decorate the Museum's Victorian Christmas Tree on Thursday, November 29th at 10 a.m. Anyone wishing to join in on the fun is cordially invited.

A lovely cherrywood cradle was recently donated to the museum by Anna Dietze. If anyone has an antique doll quilt, doll or toy that could be displayed in the crib during December, please call Lois Pollock, 582-2747 or Stella Clute at the Museum weekdays 12 to 4 582-2839.

The Monday Study Club met November 19, at the home of Irene Hennessey and enjoyed a special program by Jody Adams, who showed spectacular slides of her 1989 trip to Kenya, Africa. With her commentaries, from an artist's point of view, and the large clear pictures, members felt almost like they were there, experiencing the beauty of Kenya in February, between rainy seasons. Adams does most of her art work in black and white and later carries the same picture to canvas in oils. She assists her husband, Bruce Janssen, in his award winning sign business and she has won many awards at exhibitions for her work. She has a BA in Wildlife Management/Ecology from Lake Superior State University. Hostesses for this special evening were Olive Bernier and Delcie Phillips.

Jim and Kathy Rice and son Jeremy of Tecumseh were here for the long holiday weekend with her parents, the Charles Inmans of East Jordan and family.

On Thanksgiving, Anne, daughter Myra of Alpena, and Myra's son, Barry Lewis of Gaylord, and the Jack Morey's of Vanderbilt enjoyed dinner and the holiday festivities at Anne's daughter June and Jim Morey's home in Traverse City. Anne stayed over on Friday to hear her granddaughter, Jessica Morey, play her violin at the "Festival of Trees" program Friday evening at the City Opera House. The display of trees was fantastic, including those trees decorated by the local schools at Con Foster Museum, in Clinch Park. Jessica had contributed to the tree from the Silver Lake Elementary School.

Sorority hosts fundraiser for Charlevoix County Hospice

beta sigma phi

Eta Nu Chapter of Beta Sigma Phi Sorority's annual "Lights of Love" fundraiser for the Charlevoix County Hospice will be underway beginning Friday, November 30, 1990. The outdoor Christmas tree, located at One Water Street Restaurant in Boyne City, features colored lights which friends and relatives are invited to purchase in honor or in memory of a loved one. Names of honorees will be posted inside the restaurant and proceeds go to the Charlevoix County Hospice.

"The holidays are often the most difficult time of year to get through because of the emphasis on being with family and friends. A light on the tree can be a comforting symbol of that closeness and of the relationship between the donor and honored loved ones," said Margaret Lasater, Director of the Charlevoix County Hospice.

A tree lighting ceremony will be held on Wednesday, December 19, 6 p.m. The public is invited to attend.

"Lights of Love" order forms can be picked up from the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce, at One Water Street and from Eta Nu members. For more information, call the Charlevoix County Hospice, 536-2842.

Opinions

Another Grand Jury?

We happen to think that the idea of forming another "one-man" Grand Jury is not the right idea. For several reasons...

One being that just good police work can and usually does accomplish the same thing as a Grand Jury can do. Sheriff George Lasater should appoint one of his deputies to become a detective so the work could be done to investigate all of the leads, the rumors and the hearsay involved in what the sheriff and the prosecutor desire a Grand Jury to do for them concerning the investigation of people who disappeared.

We feel grief for those people who have lost someone, but even if the case involved our own family, we would have appreciated better police work from the sheriff, done more quickly and more thoroughly when the people turned up missing.

In the case of Mrs. Salisz of Boyne Falls, the search should have been handled by a trained investigator, one who is familiar with cases such as that. It is the same with Heather Klieber.

Another reason is the additional cost to the taxpayers. A "retired" judge or special prosecutor isn't going to work for free. And he or she will need additional help like secretaries, investigating officers to do the foot work and others who will be working with the court system.

Our County Commissioners say that they are already having a hard time adjusting the books and budgets of the county. They have transferred funds from other departments just to make the budget balance.

A third reason is that while we recently had a Grand Jury to investigate the drug problem of the county, we taxpayers have not seen where the promised "income" from seizures and confiscations which were to help pay for the grand jury has contributed enough to help the load on the taxpayer.

Fourth, we citizens of the county are already paying for a Grand Jury, another attempt to control drugs, through a consortium of counties in the northern part of the Lower Peninsula.

The question is, how much does it cost the taxpayers, every time some governmental officials want someone else to do the work they are being paid to perform without additional cost to the taxpayer?

Do people who have worked for the government all of their careers, think the money to provide them with hundreds of extra man hours, extra personnel, and additional offices comes from a money tree that grows without having the money fall for the season?

We think the county commissioners could do better by hiring or training a detective that could work throughout the county on many different cases.

We don't need another Grand Jury.

Remembrances

There were skidders and there were loggers in the woods around the turn of the century, cutting trees for the mills around the Boyne City area. This picture shows a skidding crew of Wasyl Skop standing on the log and his father pulling a large log out to the end of the rail line that took the wood into Boyne City or to some other mill. The crews used teams of horses, much like the present day logging crews, to pull out the logs as the horses have sure footing and can maneuver around trees and other obstacles.

Jottings

with Jim Silbar

Did you get your fill of turkey? I can't say I did, even though the Thanksgiving dinner was great. Our family ended up at a place where the leftovers weren't.

There were just too many of us to have enough left over for a turkey sandwich, usually the first thing made from yesterday's turkey. I could have had some Turkey Chow Mein last Sunday from an uncle's leftovers, but I didn't have the time for that sit down type of meal.

So, I am going through the withdrawal symptoms of not having sandwich.

The symptoms are getting so bad that I am almost ready to go out and buy a turkey for myself, if I can get the other half of the family to make up the stuffing, and do all of the other stuff a turkey requires... like cooking it.

In the meantime, I guess I will just have to go to a restaurant for that sandwich.

Well, the Bah Humbug season is upon us, according to several people I have mentioned having a Merry Christmas. Seems those people don't like the idea of spend, spend, spend as being part of the Christmas idea.

I will admit that I don't like it either, especially when the bills come in. Heck, I think I am almost caught up with the last season of spending when we all have to do it again.

It is a never ending world. I only wish that everyone can get through it without too much trauma.

Oops, I almost forgot. This is also the season for the annual Christmas Tree Hunt. You know, the search of all of the lots to find that perfect tree.

This year, I think I will turn that project over to the same person I am hoping will cook my turkey that I am going to buy, then she will not be able to complain to me about the tree I brought home.

I don't know what it is, but I don't think I will ever, ever find the perfect tree for the house.

I either bring one home or find one that has needles too long, like a scotch pine, or boughs too far apart. Or, heaven forbid, a tree which has a hole somewhere in the branches.

I don't think I will ever get anyone to accept the fact that God does not make a perfect Christmas tree, all have some sort of blemish that sets it off and makes it unique.

Getting someone else to agree with me that that "hole" in the branches can be set against the wall, just doesn't cut it in our family.

Why, I don't understand. Years ago when I had a plastic Fuller Brush Chimney Sweep type of artificial tree, I was almost accepted into the Great Tree Club.

But then, after a few years of the same tree, the post holding the branches started splintering and enlarging so as to make the artificial limbs hang lower than they should, and the branches themselves started to shed, just like a real tree.

I thought it was a natural phenomenon. The family thought it could be better.

So I went down to the local lumber yard and purchased a piece of stair case railing and copied the hole pattern, drilling new holes where the old ones showed.

That lasted another couple of years before the urge to clean out the basement came and the artificial tree ended up on the curb waiting for the trash truck.

A real tree was the answer for the next few years, although I had to endure the wrath of a tree not being perfectly round and full.

I still have to, as the new plastic trees are just not up to what the family wants.

Boy, I will be glad when she finds the tree. Then she will know what I have endured these past few years.

Storms ahead mean planning for snow shoveling

Some of the worst storms and coldest days of this winter are still ahead for Northwestern Michigan. Many of us find outside winter chores unpleasant. This attitude tends to make us stay inside until winter's snowy activities demand that we venture out to attack the largest and heaviest snow drifts.

It's fine to enjoy the slower paced winter lifestyle, but it's also important to remember not to get too relaxed. Summer activities can include digging in the garden, mowing the lawn, or perhaps jogging or swimming. Without this constant type of activity in the winter our bodies tend to relax. It's very important to give our bodies time to adjust to the strenuous intermittent activities that winter can demand.

Dr. Brian Youngs, Regional Medical Director for District Health Department No. 3 recommends that "people with certain medical conditions such as hypertension or anyone over the age of 40 should consult their physician before undertaking any strenuous winter activities."

Snow shoveling is strenuous work. It involved lifting heavy snow and turning and throwing each load. This activity strains both the heart and other muscles. The cold weather makes the strain even greater since your heart has to work overtime in order to keep you warm. Every year we hear unfortunate reports of individuals who suffer severe and sometimes fatal consequences as a result of shoveling snow, pushing cars out of snowbanks, or becoming over-exerted in the cold while hunting or ice fishing.

It's a good rule to avoid the kind of activity that puts lots of stress on your heart and upper body unless you are sure you're in good enough shape to handle such strain. Remember that getting into proper condition takes more than a day or two. Ideally, we should be in good shape long before the first heavy accumulation of snow arrives.

If you must go out to shovel your walks and driveway, be certain to dress in warm clothes. Wear a hat or scarf, since an uncovered head guarantees a significant loss of body heat. Remind yourself that speed is not essential when you're shoveling; pace yourself and take as much time as you need. Take rest breaks as often as you need them. Consider your physical condition and stay within your limitations.

You may want to examine some of the alternatives to shoveling. It's always possible to hire a plow or use a snow blower, especially a self-propelled one.

In any case, it's always wise to approach snow removal with caution. By doing so, you can best defend yourself against the rigors of cold weather and the risk of sprains or heart attack. If you're going to use that snow shovel, you definitely need to be in good physical condition.

EJ Snowmobile dealer sees more participating

Snowmobiling is growing as a family sport in East Jordan, MI, according to local snowmobile dealer Tom Galmore who was named the top Ski-Doo dealer in the East-Central region which includes Michigan, Indiana and Ohio.

"Snowmobiling is attracting more young people and more families," according to Galmore, the principle in Galmore's Inc. "There are several snowmobile clubs in the area and today's snowmobiles are easy to operate, which adds to the broad family appeal," he said.

Galmore, who has been selling snowmobiles for more than 20 years, has noticed more couples and families riding. "Many couples find snowmobiling a great way to spend time together away from it all," Galmore said. "It's a great way to relax."

There may still be slightly more men involved in the sport, but they don't have as large a majority as they used to, according to Galmore, who noted that men and women look for different things when purchasing a snowmobile.

"Not too surprisingly, men are interested in power and high performance while the women are more concerned with color, comfort and ease of operation," Galmore noted.

The snowmobiling business keeps the Galmore family very close together. Tom's wife, Carol, and son, David, work with him at the store. His father, Tom Sr., who has run the family dealership since 1965, decided to retire three years ago, enabling Tom Jr. to assume responsibility for the business.

"Now that my dad has retired he has plenty of time for trail riding. He does a pretty good job of steering snowmobilers in our direction. He's a great ambassador," Tom Jr. said.

In addition to the campaigning by Tom Sr., the dealership has been the beneficiary of good early and long-lasting snow each season, which keeps the traffic coming into the store.

According to Tom Jr., the secret to his success is plenty of hard work. "Winning this title says we're doing something right and that's very gratifying," said Tom Jr., "because we've been working awfully hard to satisfy our customers."

This hard work and performance placed the Galmores among the top 25 Ski-Doo dealers nationwide and also earned them an all-expense paid trip for two to Jamaica last April. They hope to melt away this coming winter with a similar award trip next spring.

EJ Schools

off the search for a new high school principal until the spring. It was felt that the pool of people looking for administrative positions would be greater at that time and would allow a larger pool of candidates than if they went ahead to choose one from the present list.

The board authorized utilizing acting Principal Steve Hines for the remainder of the school year.

They also approved a resolution authorizing Hansen to begin negotiations with the school districts' townships in order to allow them to collect summer taxes for the 91 tax year. Presently the school system is collecting some summer taxes and Hansen told the board the estimated savings this year would be around $50,000. He said the tax savings are realized through lower expenses associated with tax anticipation borrowing the school has to do each year in order to start the school year, as well as the higher revenues being earned through the interest on summer taxes as well as the winter taxes.

The board then agreed to hire the firm of Elzinga and Volkers, Inc., as their construction management firm during the upcoming facility review process. The school system has been experiencing growth rates which will require the system to increase classrooms in the future.

They also received a plaque from the Department of Natural Resources for the success with getting a Youth Environmental Service (YES) grant recently. The $8,150 grant from the DNR will be used to improve and maintain the Browns Creek Natural Area as it runs through the school property. The school system will be utilizing students and staff in projects and activities to help the creek.

The board then accepted with regret the resignation of Peg Myers, a first grade teacher, effective December 31st. Her position will be filled by returning teacher Karen Sweet, a first grade teacher who had been on maternity leave.

They approved several coaching positions for winter sports and appointed Ruth Gee to a vacant playground assistant position and Ralph Kitson to a vacant bus driver position. They also approved the firm of D.L. Smith and Hoffman for snow removal.

They then approved setting new rates for tuition for students from outside the school district, and were given an informal update on the progress the administration is making toward the board's goals for the year. The board will review the goals at the December 10 meeting.

Wetlands act enforcement means removal of house

Director David Hales of the Department of Natural Resources today praised a decision by a Charlevoix County District Court Judge which ordered the restoration of a wetland which had been illegally filled.

Judge Harvey Varnum ruled that Albert Shindorf, a Charlevoix County resident violated the Wetlands Protection Act when he filled in a wetland on Harwood Lake and without a permit, constructed a home in the wetland.

The court ordered Shindorf to remove the house and fill, restore the wetland and pay a $1,500 fine.

Hales credited the action of Charlevoix County Prosecutor Kraag Lieberman for the successful litigation in the case.

"It is extremely important that local prosecutors and judges act swiftly and use the full power of the law to protect our natural resources," Hales said. "One of the most challenging problems we face in this state is the destruction of habitat and wetlands."

Under the Wetlands Protection Act, a permit is required prior to the dredging, filling or development of a wetland. Wetlands play a critical role in protecting the water quality of the Great Lakes and inland lakes and streams; act as buffers to prevent erosion; provide habitat for the production of fish and waterfowl and control flooding.

say in who gets appointed for the six year term.

The township officials are looking for someone who lives in a township, has local government experience, communication and managerial skills.

Candidates were asked questions concerning the road commission and how they thought it could be improved. All three had differing ideas on the way the road commissioner should be run, but that was expected.

The supervisors after a secret ballot vote, decided they would support Matthew in his quest for the position.

County Commissioners are expected to name a new member after the first of the year.

How safe are ye, tree

More than one million lush and sturdy natural Christmas trees are available at 104 "cut your own" tree farms in Michigan this holiday season, AAA Michigan reports.

The most prevalent are scotch pines, averaging about $3 per foot, and spruce, costing an average of $4.30 per foot.

Proper safety tips should be followed to make sure a Christmas tree does not turn into a fire hazard once it is put up in the home and decorated. AAA Michigan offers the following tips to tree buyers:

- A live dry tree is a serious fire hazard. Make a fresh cut in the base of the tree and keep plenty of water in the stand and check water daily.
- Check wiring in light strands for cracks, frays or other deterioration which can be hazardous. Replace old bulbs with new "cool burn" bulbs.
- Do not use candles to decorate a tree. Even a well-watered tree can ignite in moments.
- Keep lights out of reach of young children who may rearrange them in a potentially dangerous manner.
- Keep cords off furniture, curtains, etc. Contact with an electrical arc could ignite them.
- Turn off all decorative lighting before leaving home.
- Feel live tree needles daily. When the needles become dry and brittle or break off easily, the tree should be removed.
- Artificial tree buyers should make sure their tree has been approved by Underwriter's Laboratory or another reputable testing facility for fire and combustion retardance.

Reg Sharkey's Northern Journal Ground hogs can't tell about winter

BY REG SHARKEY
Most of us are familiar with Candlemas Day, also known as Ground Hog Day. February 22nd, when 'chucks are supposed to come top side to see, if they can, their shadow. If they do it means six more weeks of winter sledding.

If you put stock in that malarkey you probably fall into the mentality of the now sleeping marmot.

But how can this chisel-toothed rodent predict the length of winter when he already has been in hibernation since September? Yep, that's when Big Mamma, our resident 'chuck, disappeared below ground for the four years we had her living with us.

So you can readily see that 'chucks aren't to be trusted with meteorological interpretations when it comes to winter's length.

Nevertheless 'chucks are curled up asleep in their underground quarters, their metabolism slowed down to practically nil. Breathing slows down until it practically ceases. A mere trickle of air moves into the lungs. The pulse becomes barely detectable and the animal grows cold, down to the lower fifty temperatures. Regardless of whether winter weather will be of long or short duration most 'chucks in this part of their range have their thermostats set for six months of winter: Sept. to March.

First to come topside are the male 'chucks who scour the countryside for still ensconsed females. After a brief, stormy courtship 2-8 blind, naked, helpless young are born. At about four weeks they come topside. Active and playful their voracious appetites consume hordes of various greeneries. Growing rapidly they go into hibernation and when March-April roll around are ready to multiply the number of winter length forecasters all over their range from the Gulf of St. Lawrence to Hudson Bay, central Alaska south to Montana, Nebraska, Louisiana, North Carolina, and New England.

With that many 'chucks scattered over that much range how can they possibly correlate their winter's length forecast so there is no dissent in the ranks?
Reminds me of our politicians in Washington.

This woodchuck stood still long enough to let Reg Sharkey take his picture. It wasn't on groundhog day, though.

Dream ends for BC girls in Grayling

The dream season for the Boyne City Girls' Basketball Team ended last Tuesday when they ran into a team that had height, had skills and had depth as they were defeated by Houghton Lake in the finals of the regional tournament play in Grayling.

According to basketball fans, Boyne wasn't supposed to be that good in tournament play after their so-so season, but the team came together and developed a great defensive effort to win the District Championship and move into the Regional play. After the effort controled the play of Farwell, the Boyne girls had to face Houghton Lake for the finals.

It turned out to be the finals, alright, the final game of the season for the Ramblers as they lost to the Bobcats, 52-31.

The first quarter started off well when Dawn Archembault hit the first basket for Boyne in the opening minutes, but by the end of the quarter the Bobcats had control of the game and a one point lead.

Houghton Lake opened up even more in the second quarter as the Ramblers couldn't penetrate the defensive effort Houghton Lake put up with the height advantage. At the end of the second quarter, they were ahead 23 to 11.

After the half time break, Boyne started out strong as they attempted to make a comeback, hitting eight points. By the end of the quarter Boyne had cut the lead down to 37 to 24 almost matching the Bobcats.

The fourth quarter saw the Ramblers hit a dry spell and the game ended with the Ramblers hitting only seven points.

The game ended the best Rambler girls' tournament run in 13 years.

Smith, West, Kujawski, Beal, Zipp and Poole named to all-star squad

Three Boyne City and three East Jordan football players were named to the Great Northern Conference Lake Michigan Division Football Team.

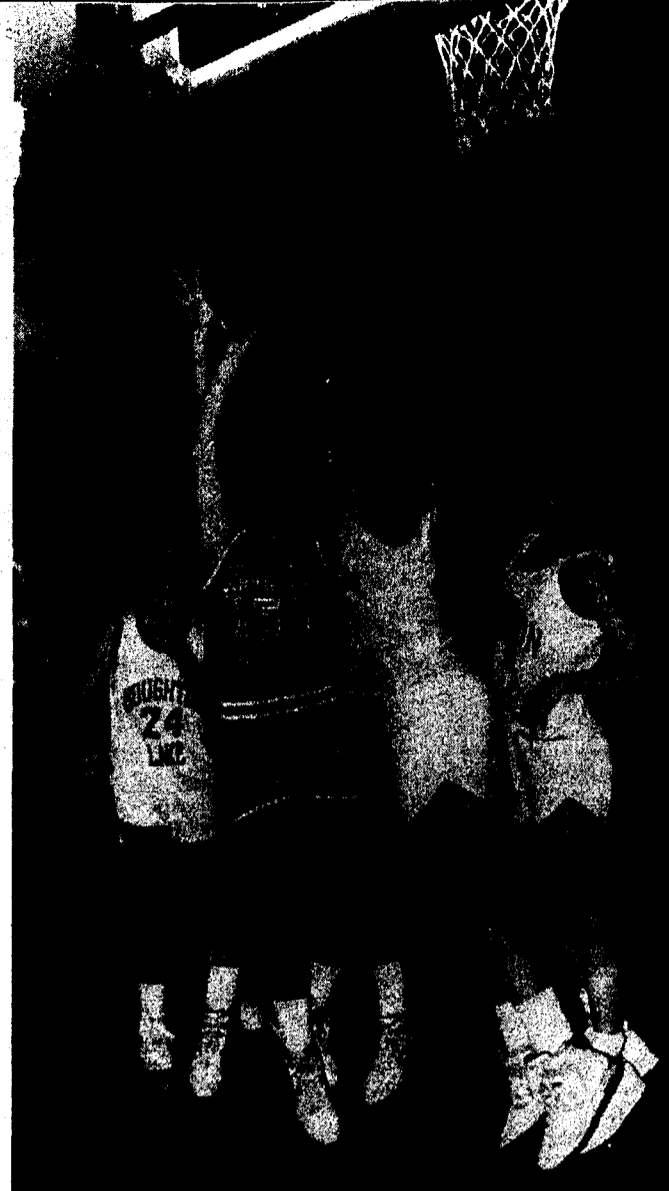

The honorary squad included Kevin Smith, Matt West and Eric Kujawski from Boyne City and Scott Beal, Tom Zipp and Steve Poole from East Jordan.

The players were part of the twelve from the area that were named to the squad.

Also given honorable mentions were John Wilson, Jim McWatters and Tim Freel from East Jordan, while Kevin Lockman, and Chuck Frisk were named for Boyne City.

Each school makes its own selection with the number of picks based on the final standing for the season. In special cases the coaches added players if the quota for the team were filled.

Chrisey Gervasi gets off a shot in the final moments of the regional game against Houghton Lake. Boyne lost when they came up against a team with height and shooting skills. They also had strong defense, just like the Ramblers. It was the defensive efforts that took the Ramblers into the regional finals last week.

Tips offered for jump-starting cars

A motorist could find it expensive and dangerous to use the wrong procedures when jump-starting a dead battery, AAA Michigan reports.

"Before attempting to jump-start a battery, car owners should consult their owner's manual for specific instructions," said Paul Gliesman, AAA Michigan Emergency Road Service manager. "Improper procedures can lead to explosions, serious damage to the automobile's electrical system and personal injury."

Gliesman advises motorists to wear safety glasses and remove all jewelry to avoid the possibility of unwanted sparks when working near the battery. No smoking or open flames should be allowed near the automobile when attempting to jump-start, and clothing and hands should be kept away from moving parts under the car's hood.

Prior to hooking up the cables, the battery should be inspected for cracks or bulges and the battery posts should be cleared of acid build-up with a pasty solution of baking soda and water.

To jump-start the car, AAA Michigan advises motorists to follow these procedures:

- Position the cars so they are close enough for jumper cables to be connected but not touching. The transmission on both vehicles should be in park, or neutral for a manual transmission. Be sure the parking brake is on and the ignition and accessories are turned off.
- Connect one end of the positive cable to the positive terminal of the good battery.
- Attach the other end of the positive cable to the positive terminal of the disabled battery.
- Connect one end of the negative cable to the negative terminal of the good battery.
- Attach the other end of the negative to a good ground like a bolt on the engine or other unpainted, metallic surface on the car with the dead battery. Do not connect the negative cable to the negative terminal of the dead battery.
- Start the engine on the car providing the jump. When attempting to start the disabled vehicle, don't crank the starter for more than 20 seconds. If it doesn't start in 20 seconds, wait two minutes before trying again.

DNR Fisheries Div. to hold hearings

In service

Director David Hales of the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) today announced the Department will hold four public information meetings in November and December concerning proposed fisheries management objectives for Lake Michigan.

The objectives were prepared by fisheries biologists from Michigan, Wisconsin, Indiana and Illinois and Michigan's Chipewewa/Ottawa Treaty Fishery Management Authority. The states are studying Lake Michigan in this initial step to develop joint fisheries management objectives.

"Our fishery is important to all of us," Hales said. "It not only provides a source of food, recreation, and livelihood, it also acts as an environmental barometer. By working together, with the public, we can develop a new strategy to keep this vital fishery healthy."

The public information meeting schedule follows:

- Nov. 28, Benton Harbor, 7:30 p.m., Lake Michigan College, Mendel Center, 2755 E. Napier (Exit 30 off I-94).

- Nov. 29, Grand Haven, 7:30 p.m., Grand Haven Township Hall, 13900 168th Ave.

- Dec. 4, Traverse City, 7:30 p.m., Northwestern Michigan College, Oleson Center, Rooms 1, 2, 3, 1701 E. Front St.

- Dec. 6, Escanaba, 7:30 p.m., Bay de Noc Community College, Learning Resource Center Auditorium, 2001 N. Lincoln Rd. (US-2).

Persons unable to attend the meetings, may submit written comment to the Department by Dec. 15. To receive a copy of the 22-page draft document, write to DNR Fisheries Division, P.O. Box 30028, Lansing 48909, or call 517-373-1280.

Proposed Lake Michigan fisheries management objectives follow:

1) Restore and maintain lake trout populations at a level capable of contributing four million pounds of harvested fish annually - 25 percent of which would be produced by natural means by the year 2000; 75 percent would be naturally produced by the year 2010. Achieved by maintaining recommended stocking levels and providing protective measures to keep mortality under 40 percent. Additional research efforts will address the role of contaminants, predation and habitat on natural reproduction.

2) Maintain other trout and salmon species at a level capable of contributing 13.7 million pounds of harvested fish by the year 2000 - 25 percent of which would be naturally produced. Species mix and adjustment would be maintained by stocking adjustments and through fishing regulation.

3) Maintain yellow perch populations at present levels, yielding 4.5 million pounds per year. Achieved by regulating the yellow perch harvest and proper habitat management.

4) Increase walleye production from current 0.2 million to 0.3

million pounds per year, 50 percent of which would be naturally produced by the year 2000. An additional 0.1 million pounds of self-sustaining walleye would be harvested a decade later. Achieved by judicious walleye stocking and proper habitat management.

5) Maintain self-sustaining populations of muskellunge, northern pike, small mouth bass and panfish at near-present levels, capable of producing one million pounds of harvested fish by the year 2000. Achieved by habitat protection and rehabilitation and stocking and regulatory controls.

6) Enhance threatened lake sturgeon populations through prudent stocking efforts and enhancement of spawning tributaries.

7) Control abundant burbot populations through commercial harvest at levels compatible with lake trout objectives. Burbot compete with lake trout for space and food.

8) Maintain self-sustaining whitefish populations at a level capable of yielding 5.5 million pounds of fish by the year 2000.

9) Maintain self-sustaining forage fish populations, which large gamefish depend on as a food source, at the following levels:

- Alewife: no less than 132 million pounds annually.
- Smelt: no less than 88 million pounds annually.
- Chub: 110 to 220 million pounds annually.

Consumers offering winter plan for users

Senior citizens and low-income customers of Consumers Power Company can take the worry out of winter by signing up for the Winter Protection Plan.

Bonnie O. Baughn, Consumer Affairs Director for Consumers Power, advises that the plan assures continuous utility services during the coldest months of the year and lower utility bills during this period.

The Winter Protection Plan allows senior citizens and low-income customers to pay a reduced amount from December through April. The balance of each customer's actual energy cost is spread over the rest of the year. Consumers Power has voluntarily extended the protection period through April for this coming winter. The program normally ends in March.

Senior citizens, age 65 and older, can make special monthly payment arrangements. Low-income customers pay seven percent of their annual bill during the winter period, plus one-twelfth of any amount they already owe when they enroll in the plan.

Details about the plan can be obtained by calling the Consumers Power office listed in your telephone directory or 1-800-643-1815 (toll free).

Consumers Power Company's Northwestern Region, headquartered in Grand Rapids, provides electric and natural gas service to more than 543,000 customers in all or parts of 27 counties located in the northern and western portions of Michigan's Lower Peninsula.

Consumers Power Company, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation, is Michigan's largest utility serving almost six million of the state's nine million residents in 67 of the 88 Lower Peninsula counties.
