Boyne budget cutting to save 1 mill on taxes

Boyne City residents may see a reduction in their city taxes of about a mill after the City Commissioners okayed all of the reductions in the proposed city budget for the fiscal year 1991-92 that other city boards had made.

Even with the cuts, the city will still be paying out about $351,900 for various projects in the coming year.

Much of the projects have been proposed for several years and involve matching grants to pay the city's share for such items as the new public restroom at the mouth of the Boyne River. Other parts of the capital improvement plan will be shared expenses with projects like putting in restrooms at the Minor League ballfield in conjunction with the Little League.

Each department made a list of what was needed before being paired down by the planning board or the parks and recreation board before coming to the commissioners.

In the parks and recreation area, the cuts included the building of an office for the harbormaster, a boardwalk at the Old City Park, and cost reductions for sidewalk and pedestrian walkways at the mouth of the river and the Old City Park.

Infrastructure work was also cut with the completion of the second phase of rebuilding North Lake Street put off for another year. Included in the budget will be $50,000 as part of the rebuilding of M-75 which will be used to pay for sidewalk on the north side of the road from Brockway to Pearl Street, $43,000 as the city's share of rebuilding the Park Street Bridge, $8,000 for replacement of sidewalks and the finishing of the first phase of North Lake Street including the paving of N. Lake Street, Hill, Groveland, and Altair

For the water department, projects for the coming year include $40,000 for the replacing of water mains, lead, and hydrants for M-75, $24,000 to install 800 feet of 12 inch water main in conjunction with the Park Street Bridge project, and the installation of two dry hydrants, one downtown and the other near the intersection of Marshall, Division, Front Street and Lakeshore Drive for $2,000.

The sewer department will be adding $30,000 as part of the city costs for M-75 to replace 200 feet of sewer main, $100,000 to replace 1,700 feet of sewer on South Park Street from Division to East Lincoln Streets and $13,000 for the installation of manholes and related laterals on North Lake Street.

In the city building department, the city will forgo a new equipment shed at the North Boyne lot but will spend $11,000 to finish the second phase of re-roofing the city street garage.

As part of the money the city intends to spend much of the improvements will be paid out of the infrastructure bonding the city residents agreed to several years ago. While the city is spending some money, the state or other agencies will be contributing slightly over $2 million on the projects throughout the city. Much of the money has come in the form of grants or as part of the rebuilding of M-75.

In the motor pool, the city will be replacing one dump truck at a cost of $60,000, purchasing a dirt compactor, replacing an old Ford tractor and purchasing a compressor this coming year.

They will also be purchasing a new fire engine which the city has been saving money for the past severals years. The engine will replace one that has seen quite a few years of service and is getting out of date as to pumping ability.

In other action, the city turned down a request for $500 to help support a play being put on by the Michigan Opera Theater group for the Crooked Tree Arts Center.

Then City Manager Randy Frykberg announced for the third year in a row, the city was awarded another "Community of Excellence" award from the state. The award ceremony will be held sometime in March.

BC Schools formalize bond issue asking for $9 million to build · Boyne City school officials made it official Monday night when they approved the wording that would be used in the upcoming special election April 9, that would allow the school district to build a new middle school, a new shared facilities building that would connect the new school to the high school, add classrooms and do other renovations to existing school buildings.

The additional millage figure is over and above the present 2.1 mills the district is already taxing the residents of the district making the total debt retirement millage asked 3.6 mills.

While the residents will be paying the 3.6 mills totally, Superintendent Bob Nakoneczny told board members that millage amount could be decreased to Nakoneczny also said that the payment schedule used by Stander, Barch and Associates was based on a very conservative estimate of State Equalized Value (SEV) growth over the bonding period. If the growth of the area continues at the same pace it is presently following, the bonds could be paid off earlier by calling them in and paying them off sometime after the first five years.

The entire issue would be paid

This could happen if the SEV of the district increases, or the extra SEV could be used to lower the amount of millage that would be required to pay the interest and the bonds each year.

He also told the board members that if there is any "extra" money due to increases in the SEV or left over due to low construction costs, the district could use the available money for other facility inprovements.

If the school issue passes, Nakoneczny said this would probably hold the school district from further classroom needs until the class sizes reach in the area of 150 students per class. The present proposal is based on 135 students per class.

The district will be using a combination of serial and zero growth bonds to achieve the payback. Nakoneczny said the present plan, which is updated almost daily and refined and finalized after the election, shows the district using a 50-50 percentage of the two types of

The district would be authorized to borrow the almost $9,000,000 which does not include the costs of about $519,795 for financing the issue. The district will be making about the same amount of interest on the money due to the payout schedule for the contractors.

If the voters approve the bonding, contractors are expected to begin construction this spring with completion of the new construction expected by the Christmas break of 1992.

Last celebration of winter at Horton Bay

The last winter festival in northern Michigan will take place Sunday afternoon, March 3, in Horton Bay.

The annual Horton Bay Winter Olympics is scheduled to begin with fun and fanfare at 1 p.m., to be followed by a series of athletic events and other happenings dreamed up by people who live in Horton Bay.

Following the lighting of the "Olympic Torch" (a washtub filled with flammable oil atop a step ladder), singing of the National Anthem by Bob Munn, and opening of the games by Horton Bay historian Bill Ohle, competition will be held in many fields.

A frozen fish-throwing contest, apple bobbing through the ice of Lake Charlevoix (separate events for humans and canines), mini golf, bowling, and curling on the ice, a two-person shovel pull, luge and bobsled runs and a triathlon.

There will also be a hockey exhibition by two semi-pro players, a fortune-telling booth, and a wiggler-swallowing exhibition by Jon Hartwell. A llama or two from Maplewood Farms and the Windogo from places unknown will provide additional entertainment.

Ribbons will be awarded to winners of the first three places, in both adult and children's categories, in all events. Refreshments of roadkill bean soup, hot cocoa, and coffee will be available to consume around a huge bonfire.

Bowling on the ice is a popular event at the Horton Bay Winter Olympics. Any form goes.

Pat Motschall holds the letter she recieved from the White House after writing the President about her concerns with the Mideast situation. She is a worker and high school student at the Bergmann Center in Charlevoix. She wrote the letter after getting interested in government during one of her classes.

Motschall pleased with White House letter

The Bergmann Center in Charlevoix is very proud of Pat Motschall, as are her parents, friends, and co-workers. Motschall (known as Patty to her friends) is a bright, beautiful, and outgoing high school student and worker at Bergmann Center. Her class there has been studying government and Patty has shown a great deal of independent thinking and self-initiative about writing down her thoughts and feelings and then following through with action.

She got the exact address of the President of the United States from Helen Denny, the Center's secretary, and mailed her letter to President Bush on January 11, 1991, before the January 15th deadline of the then upcoming war, explaining her concern for her country and of the service people she knew who were in Saudi Arabia. Patty was very proud and pleased with herself when she received a reply from the President on February 19! He thanked her and appreciated her thoughtful concern and asked for continued prayers, as he himself was doing, for all of our men and women in the armed forces in the Persian Gulf conflict. He also sent her a White House "Report to the Students" booklet, which he hoped would answer, her questions and provide some helpful information, which in part, encouraged students to take advantage of school and its opportunities and to keep abreast of today's issues toward a better tomorrow.

A short business meeting gave reports that two boxes were sent out to missions in Mexico, and two boxes of gowns and cancer pads were sent out to missions in Africa in January. Following the business, the group worked on various mission projects and then ended the evening with a game of "counting the red hearts" in a small jar, with Margaret Compton guessing the exact number... 42! McManus promoting tax plan

Senator George McManus (R-Traverse City) today sponsored legislation to protect property owners against property tax increases beyond the rate of inflation.

McManus' resolution is part of Governor Engler's 12-bill property tax relief package.

The resolution would ammend

the Michigan Constitution to ensure that if property values rise at more than the rate of inflation, or 5 percent - whichever is less - millages would automatically be reduced to limit the increase in property taxes on property owners to the rate of inflation or 5 percent.

The Headlee provision would continue to allow local voters to override the millage reduction if they choose to do so.

"In many areas, increases in property values have far outpaced ability to pay. At the same time, they've also discouraged job retention and creation," McManus said. "My resolution puts a cap on property tax increases, to encourage job creation and prevent people from being driven from their homes because of high taxes."

McManus praised the governor's tax relief as being "straightforward and effective."

"The governor's plan will immediately and substantially reduce our oppressive property tax burden and greatly improve job opportunities and the economic climate in Michigan," he said. "It would reduce property taxes by more than three-quarters of a billion dollars, just this year alone. Local school districts would be reimbursed that amount from the state's general fund."

Cutting arts, welfare good for our pocketbooks

Much to the chagrin of the members of the arts establishment and the social services people, the state has seen fit to drastically cut the budgets of these organizations which promote and foster humanity.

Unfortunately, when there isn't enough state money available to fund these agencies, we then concede that the state should follow the course John Engler has set. The welfare system must be trimmed and art grants should be

Those of us who can afford attending cultural events should not cry about losing state funding, but should be willing to pay for the privilege. In other words a user fee to support our community musicians and artists.

It is the same with any governmental budget that is in the red. Funds have to be cut and culture is one area where the programs benefit a small number of citizens, who in many cases, could afford to give the grants themselves.

The sad fact is that the money for art grants seems to go to those who could afford to pay, not those who are working their heads off to stay even with the other rising costs of

It may be the same for those on welfare who don't deserve to be getting the handout from the government. We don't like to see people get money for not working and if they cannot find a job that pays enough to maintain those living expenses, then maybe they should move to someplace else.

Even if they are getting money from the rest of us, they should do some work to help earn their keep.

We are reminded of the old hobo system where a hobo would ask for work before he got a meal.

It should be that way again.

So whether it is what some consider necessary to enhancing the lifestyle of the community through an arts grant, or getting a handout to maintain an existence, we need to see some action of those wanting to pay for it.

Hospice Thank yous

The Charlevoix County Hospice, Inc. Board of Directors would like to take this opportunity to thank EVERYONE who was involved with our 1991 Valentine Raffle. First, we must thank Jim White and Mo Bacciocchi, Boyne City, the Co-Chairmen who did such a great job of organizing and selling tickets. They are so committed to this project and worked VERY HARD!! Special thanks to these people who sold a great many tickets - Mary Ellen Baker, Ken Giem, Camille Greene, Mary Glenna Malpass and Sue Miller.

Out of 200 tickets for sale, 175 were sold. However, there were several hundred people involved, because many were a tenth of a ticket, a fifth, fourth, third, half, or just a whole ticket. WE AP-PRECIATE ALL OF YOU!!

There were some special requests made with a few tickets. But Northwestern State Bank and

First State Bank of Charlevoix purchased tickets, with the winnings to be given to hospice. Very nice! We are sorry their numbers were not drawn!

Several organizations purchased tickets - winnings to be used for their special projects - and we all know how involved these organizations are in our communities. Boyne City Rotary (2), Boyne City Lions (2), Boyne City Eagles, Charlevoix Rotary, and East Jordan Rotary, we are sorry none of your numbers were drawn as many worthy organizations would certainly have benefited.

If you have not seen it in the paper, I am sure everyone who was on a ticket would like to know the winners. Grand Prize, $10,000, Tad and Brenda Malpass of East Jordan. The four $500 winners were: Jim Shepherd of Boyne City: Carolyn Wilson, Burt Lake and White Fish Bay, WI; Women's marvelous homemaking machine, the one some rushed women turn to these days for an absolutely genuine, homemade loaf of bread - no muss, no fuss, no hands even (except for popping the proper ingredients into its mouth.) Some may snicker at this tidy, efficient machine pretending to duplicate yesterday. Still, even most skeptics have to admit it took a creative mind to come up with such fakery, which points us (sort of) to technology's latest aids to coming up with quick creativity brain machines.

Picture small flashing blips like miner-hatted elves flitting through the brain busily flipping switches that release streams of chemicals. which then release creative ideas. Add odd music - sounds befitting elves at work.

There you have it, that's how it goes with one brain machine, Mind's Eye Courier, one of the cheapest at $395.

That's not how it goes officially, of course. For those hung up on exactitude, an oscillating tone comes from a stereo headset and the flashes from light emitting diodes projected onto opaque glasses, both worn by machine Brain machines can't whip up original ideas themselves, but the images most people visualize while hooked up to them start imaginations whirring on their own. That is, people willing to get wired up to brain machines.

There are many who believe that, in time, machines can be programmed to do rapidly all manner of things people now spend tedious time doing, look forward to the prospect with delight too. But for those who are intimidated by anything more mechanically complex than a rotary egg beater, the thought of being plugged into light emitting diodes and oscillating tones that bang around in their brains is distressing.

Fortunately for mechanically muddleheaded, research has come up with several machineless creativity boosters. Three of them involve closing your

Meditating is one of them, purportedly a great all-over relaxer. The problem here lies in sitting still, saying the same word over and over for 20 to 40 minutes. No deviation, like word association games, standing on your head, is allowed. (Scratching where you itch is likely out too.)

Another sounds easier; simply close your eyes, shut out the world, visually at least. Some restraint is needed here, such as not doing so when propelling yourself at appreciable speed or when other hazards may present themselves as in diapering babies, boy babies especially.

Now for the best - take more naps. Researchers found that the biographies of many famous people tell of frequent napping. Seekers of creativity could do no less, certainly.

Of course, even more care must be exercised here as to the time and place for this. Perhaps a good rule of thumb in this case would be: take care not to nod off in a public place lest an accident occur and subsequent events reveal the state of your less than motherapprovable underwear.

It's not that there's doubt brain machines work that plague those incompatible with machinery. It's that they fear they do, may work all too well, in fact. There's a chance that, coursing with chemicals, their brains may take a good look at current housing and decide to take a walk, find a better residence, where the caretaker pays more attention to upkeep both inside and out. Then they'll be left with a vacancy in the brain department, a loss of sentimental as well as prac-

Anyway, they're out there, brain machines and genuine homemade bread makers. But naps to accomplish great works of creativity are clearly the most appropriate way to do so.

You can't be sure, but likely elves nap frequently too.

The eighth grade teachers at East Jordan Middle School recently completed an interdisciplinary unit in architecture. Titled "A Towering Success," the middle school students investigated architectural styles throughout history, and built a replica of a distinctive building structure. Some examples of the replicas included the Empire State Building, a pyramid, the Eiffel Tower, and even the Mackinac Bridge. The interdisciplinary unit touched on bridge terminology and important terms a person would encounter in accounting.

The students were divided into groups of four and given a budget with which to buy building supplies: straws, toothpicks, tape and glue. The students also worked in the middle school computer lab creating a database (for their projects) and bar graphs. Each group was challenged to use their budget to construct the tallest structure able to support two classroom dictionaries. The culminating event in the unit was the testing of the structures.

The interdisciplinary unit was developed by Gayle Gotts, Sharon MacJennett, Mike Farrimond and

EMU seeking 1 room school info

Eastern Michigan University's College of Education is seeking information about one-room. schoolhouses in Michigan to establish an inventory of these 'disappearing' landmarks and provide a network for schoolhouse owners.

The survey, funded by the EMU Chapter of Phi Delta Kappa, international education fraternity, the EMU College of Education and the Washtenaw County Historic District Commission, needs those with information on one-room schoolhouses in Michigan to complete and return a two-page survey form to EMU.

"Before one-room schoolhouses" completely disappear, we are taking steps to inventory them to determine their current number, use and condition," said Dr. W. Scott Westerman, dean of EMU's College of Education. "In the process, we hope to draw citizens' attention to this historical and symbolic edifice of our American educational system." According to Thomas L. Jones, executive director of the Historical Society of Michigan, many oneroom schoolhouses have been purchased for private homes, some have been converted into museums and a few are used by historical societies to provide hands-on learning experiences for children.

Jones said a 1987 study by the Michigan Department Education found 21 such schoolhouses still in use by Michigan school districts and added, the survey is an attempt "to find out if that figure is accurate in EMU and the Historical Society plan to form a network of owners who can benefit from sharing information and resources. In addition, traveling exhibits to enhance the interpretation at functioning schools or schoolhouse museums could result.

Westerman and Jones announced the survey as part of EMU's plan to renovate and create a museum of its own one-room Town Hall Schoolhouse, donated to the University in 1988 by the Geddes family.

The Town Hall Schoolhouse, which EMU relocated from its outcounty location to central campus in 1989, has been fully restored on the exterior and awaits interior completion.

Already, Westerman said, the building symbolizes EMU's history as a teacher training institution, the first teachers' college west of the Allegheny Mountains.

The Historical Society of Michigan plans to use EMU's Town Hall Schoolhouse as the logo model for its Center for the Teaching of Michigan History. Supported by a three-year grant from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, the center will assist Michigan teachers in the preparation and presentation of state and local history classes.

One-room schoolhouse owners and/or those with information about one-room schoolhouses anywhere in Michigan are asked to write: College of Education, Eastern Michigan University, Ypsilanti, Michigan 48197. For more information contact Dr. Mary Green at 313-487-3134.

Ramblers drop Devils in close, well contested game, 55-52

It was billed as almost a grudge match between two evenly matched teams and at the end of an exciting game, Boyne City came out on top for the second time against East Jordan last Tuesday,

East Jordan Coach Kurt Lungren stated after the game, 'We did not win, but it was an exciting high school contest between two evenly matched teams. That game was a good indication how 'up for grabs' the District tournament will be."

"I was especially pleased with the defensive efforts of Chris Cizewski and Any Malpass. When you hold an all-state candidate Eric Smith to only 12 points and obviously frustrate him, you have to be happy. Next time we will keep our eyes on Joe Jankowski, too. He had a great game."

East Jordan was never way behind in the matchup, the quarter scores throughout showed Boyne with a slim lead in every quarter after a first quarter jump by Boyne. The other quarters were 35-31, 45-41 going into the final period.

Leading the scoring for Boyne City were Joe Jankowski with 25 points followed by Eric Smith with his 12. Top scorers for East Jordan were Ross Miller with 11, Pete Inman and Cizewski with nine, while Dave Patton had three

Rebounding for the Devils were Miller with eight and Inman with

The Ramblers were six for nine from the free throw stripe, made 25 baskets and committed 23 fouls. East Jordan was 24 for 37 from the line, hit 14 baskets and made 13 fouls.

The junior varsity from Boyne was victorious over the Devils 68-56. Mike Noirot led the Devils with a season high 29 points followed by Scott Chands with 11.

Friday, the Devils got back on the winning track when they hosted Mancelona and swiped another win for the plus side of the column, 87-46.

The Devils began the game by jumping out to a strong 207 lead and were up 41-19 at the half. AFter the break, East Jordan continued to dominate and the Ironmen were doomed.

Taking the scoring honors for the game were Cizewski with 21 points, Chris Snyder had 15, Inman 13. Rebounding for East Jordan included eight for Cizewski and Malpass pulled in five.

Pairings for the District Basketball Tournament to be held at Boyne City were made Monday with Boyne to play against Charlevoix Wednesday, March 6th.

The tournament actually gets underway Tuesday, March 5th, when East Jordan plays against Harbor Springs.

Both games will start at 7 p.m. The winners of each night will meet in the finals Friday, March 8 at 7 p.m.

The district winner will advance to regional play to be held at Grayling High School the following week.

One way to make sure your team will get the ball after seeing it fly out of bounds is to grab it in the air and fling it against an opposing team mem-her, as Kevin Smith did in the game against East Jordan. He hit Ross Miller with the ball, right in the middle as Miller was defending against the Ramblers getting another basket.

The Devils came out quickly to show that they meant business. They allowed the Lady Hornets to score only two points in the entire first game. They won the first game 15-2.

In the second game, the Hornets managed to score a few more points, but were no match for the Red Devils. The Devils won the second game 15-7.

The third game continued the same as the first two. Pellston was only able to score four in the game as East Jordan won the game 154, and the match 30.

The Lady Devils came out fighting in the first game. They held the lead through the whole game and won 15-5.

The second game was quite different with the Glads taking the lead and winning the game 15-3.

The third game flipped back and forth with each of the two teams having the lead several times. Then East Jordan took the lead and won 15-8.

The fourth game was taken by the Glads, but the Devils put up a fight all the way. This longest of the five was filled with long volleys and skilled plays by each team. In the end the Glads won 159.

BANANAS

What is the most popular fruit in America? If I was polled I would vote for the banana. It satisfies us all hours of the day from atop our breakfast cereals, plain in our lunch pails or brown bags, or in a salad for lunch or dessert for din-ner; it even makes a T.V. bedtime snack, it's always there!

Mashed bananas were our baby's first food to eat from a spoon before baby foods came in little glass jars; how they loved it. Youngsters of all ages love them, just to peel and eat and there is nothing better than a banana on that impromptu picnic.

Do we appreciate them? I won-der, though looking back down memory lane, I recall how we missed them during WWII. Nobody had them; the banana hoats did not run during the war years. We were so hungry for them; maybe just the fact that they were unavailable made us feel that hunger even more.

Bananas have been available in our fruit markets and stores for many years. They grow in Central America and are picked green which gives them time to ripen by the time they are delivered to our markets every season of the year. They have always been an economical buy. In grandma's time every corner grocery store had a stalk of bananas hanging in the window. When grandma had a few bananas she made this delicious...

Goals

challenge sponsored by Century 21 Kowalske and Associates of Boyne

He was part of the all school challenge that encourages students to improve their grades by setting a goal they hope to reach.

The students set a goal at the beginning of each marking period. If they reach the goal the first time, they are awarded a certificate and each time after they reach their goal, their names are put into a drawing for a $100 savings bond each semester.

Students reaching their goal three out of four marking periods are given an achievement pin.

Providing the award, Mark Kowalske stated that he started the program after learning how it has helped him in the business world. He also said the idea didn't come because he was a great student, but after he determined it might be an effective means of getting the students to achieve better results. He said he was surprised at how many students have participated in the contest and how sharp they have become.

Now I'm not saying that every deer-vehicle accident is the fault of the vehicle driver.

I like to think that I was involved in such an accident in September of 1987, the only one since operating motor vehicles beginning in 1932; and most of the miles I've logged were in deer country.

It all happened that September evening just after dark while tooling along through the flat, wide open Elmira potato country. Traffic was sparse and the headlights pierced the darkness uninterrup-

Then it happened! Like a ghostly apparition a large buck loomed in the headlights, arching across the hood in seemingly slow motion. But in the fleeting second that I thanked Lady Luck for the clean miss, another deer whalloped the left front fender, the impact slewing it around, smashing into the left front door with a resounding thud. Shaken I pulled off to Making a grab for a hind leg, I was able to drag her off the road thus avoiding one more potential accident to a speeding vehicle.

A pickup truck stopped to see what had happened. I asked one of the three young lads if they had a tire iron or some other form of weapon available so I could administer a coup de grace to the struggling doe. But I was spared the task as the doe expired as I was walking toward her.

Not wanting the dead doe, I wrote a note giving my name, address and telephone number to one of the lads, stating how the doe

If there was a lesson to be learned in the deer-vehicle encounter it is this: Deer, especially after dark, during the rut, and after the winter breakup, can be anywhere; and that encounter I had made me realize that night driving tends to give one tunnel vision: looking straight down the road in the headlight beams, without scanning the outer fringes of light.
