Was our winter that tough?

It sure must have been a tough winter, at least for this street sign on the corner of Line and Groveland. Plows, or construction workers in the fall must have bent over the sign making it hard to read from the road. Also bent was a stop sign. City workers will be replacing these signs as the

Boyne City approves refined launch ramp rules

Boyne City Commissioners took another step toward refining the rules concerning the public boat launching ramp on North Lake Street Tuesday when they approved the first reading of an ordinance regulating the use of the ramp for citizens of the community and visitors from outside of the community.

The changes in the previous ordinance followed months of work between the Parks and Recreation Board, the launch ramp attendents, the city manager and the city

Perhaps the biggest change in the rules is that people violating the rules shall be responsible for a civil infraction, and finding who is the responsible party would become liable for a fine up to $250 plus the costs of prosecution and attorney fees.

Previously, the rules were written that included a misdemeanor paragraph. That has been found not to be effective according to city officials, as the only people who could write a misdemeanor ticket were the police officers and they had to see the infraction and the person operating the vehicle at the time of the infraction.

The new rules changing the matter to a civil offense means that the police can write a parking ticket for a car or trailer left in the ramp area with no one around, and the owner of the trailer or car would be liable to pay for the

Another part of the changes allows the city to move any boat, trailer or vehicle if it is parked in the ramp area for more than 48 hours. The equipment would be impounded by the city at an additional cost to the owner.

Many other changes were made in the wording of the ordinance, most of them minor such as changing wording of the Boatmaster or Harbormaster to the Harbormaster or his designated assistant.

The rate structure for this upcoming season was not changed but changes were made to allow the city to raise or lower rates on an annual basis.

Presently the rates for launching a boat for those living outside of the city limits are set at $3.00 per 24 hour period for a parking space. Seasonal parking spaces are set at $200.

Those living inside the city limits will be able to use the launch facility for free providing they go to the City Hall and get a sticker that has to be displayed on the right-hand side of the windshield of their vehicle.

Still included in the rules is that there is no winter storage or no camping allowed. The maximum overnight parking is an approved space is 14 days.

The original ordinance was approved in 1989 with the fee structure to start for the 1990 boating season. This refinement will be enacted for this coming season,

The boating season is listed as starting April 1, and continuing through October 31 of the year.

The amendment to the present ordinance will become effective 15 days after the second reading which is scheduled for May 7th,

In other action at the noon meeting, the commissioners continued reviewing the proposed city budget with emphasis on street department, the library, debt summary, water and wastewater and the motor pool funds.

The city will be adopting the new fiscal year budget at the Tuesday evening meeting next week. It will go into effect May 1,

BC schools asking approval for building program

Boyne City School District voters will be asked next Tuesday to approve or disapprove an $8.9 million bond proposal which would allow the school district to add classrooms and renovate space at all three schools the district uses

The issue is actually $8,890,000 which would be paid off by voters for the next 21 years at a rate of about 1.5 mills on top of the present debt retirement millage. The current debt retirement millage will be continued at the present level and be used to pay off the bonds. This would make the debt retirement millage asked of the property owners within the school district 3.60 mills over the next 21 years.

The bond proposal, if passed, will allow the district to add a kindergarten classroom and hall, add general storage and a receiving are, increase the parking lot size to hold 50 more cars, fix and upgrade the heating and ventilation system in the cafeteria and interior of the elementary school.

It will also allow for the conversion of the present middle school to become an upper elementary school to house the fourth and fifth classes. Part of the money would problem of the building and to upgrade toilet facilities and make them barrier free.

The majority of the money would be used to construct a new middle school which would be placed and connected to the present high school. The plans show new classrooms for the sixth, seventh and eighth grades new science rooms for the sixth, seventh and eighth grades, a greenhouse to be shared by the seventh and eighth grade science classes, a life skills (home economics) classroom, three special education classrooms. curricula/instructional planning area, a special education parent conference and observation room, two computer labs, library/media center, gymnasium with locker rooms, and a cafeteria with a student serving area and chair storage area, two specialist rooms to be used by the Intermediate School District staff, an instructional staff workroom, and administration offices.

Some of the facilities will be shared with the high school and will include band and vocal room with practice and storage areas, an art room with storage, kitchen with appropriate storage and support facilities to become the central kitchen for all schools, receiving and maintenance areas, and a staff lunch room.

At the high school changes will include a new science room with a greenhouse and storage space, a new technology lab, distance learning lab large group instructional See Election/Page 4

Under the "It's Never Too Early" category, golfers are urged to sign up early for the second annual D.A.R.E. Golf Tournament which will be held May 24th on the Alpine Course at Boyne Mountain. The event, a four person scramble, will be featuring top personalities from around the state and will include sports celebrities and others. Information on the event can be obtained from Boyne Mountain or from Deborah Storm, Char-Em D.A.R.E. Association, 1000 Grant, Charlevoix, Michigan. All of the proceeds from the event go to the D.A.R.E. program within Charlevoix County.

If you are looking for a bicycle this year, hold on to your money and wait for the upcoming Boyne City Police Auction, where the department will be putting several years worth of accumulation of bicycles up for sale at prices children can afford. Other items gathered through the years will also be offered. The auction is slated for sometime in May.

Sunday morning, April 14th, at 3 a.m. Consumers Power is planning a two hour power outage in the City of Charlevoix. The outage will include all customers on the City of Charlevoix Power System. The outage is necessary for Consumers to do some repairs on the Charlevoix sub-station. The city is asking that residents try not to use too much water during the outage as the pumps will not be able to replace it until power is restored.

Supplemental food program helps mothers and kids

Northwest Michigan Human Services Agency (NMHSA) has been awarded 861 CSFP slots in Northwest Lower Michigan. CSFP will be targeted to mothers and/or children under age 6 who have been terminated from W.J.C. For each qualifying household member, CSFP will provide a monthly food package worth approximately $50, consisting of canned fruits, vegetables, and juices, dry or evaporated milk, canned meats, dry egg mix, cereals, grains, beans, and dairy products.

To be eligible, the total household income must be at or below 185% of the Federal Poverty Income Guidelines.

For this program year, only 861 people in the ten counties served by NMHSA will be able to receive the CSFP products. If you are interested in applying for this program, contact the NMHSA office at 347-9070 or call toll-free at 1-800-632-7334.

Jack and Judy Gerrie came to town, supposedly to go to their daughter's for a little cake and ice cream in celebration of Judy's March 23rd birthday, but, while driving through town, they got caught by a bunch of people on the street corner who were all dressed in black and carrying signs that read "HONK-Judy is 50!" This same bunch of people escorted them to the home of Judy's sister. Cindy and her husband Dan Hall where a group of 30 were waiting to give her a party! Among much fun and laughs, they crowned Judy "Queen of Boot Hill" and made her put one foot in the grave before they would give her any gifts. All enjoyed refreshments and a good time and one of Judy's favorite gifts was a black tee-shirt, which read "I'm not old, I'm a recycled teenager."

Michelle Newville of Grand Rapids spent a couple of days of the long Easter weekend here with her parents, Doug and Joyce Newville and Sandra Newville and other friends and relatives.

Rick and Kay Casper hosted a family gathering on Easter Sunday which included their daughter Ricka, who has been home on spring break from the Interlochen Academy, his parents, Bill and Inga Casper, and their other daughter and husband Dr. and Mrs. Chris (Missy) Fair and son Jacob.

Floyd Cooper of Litzenburger Place was admitted this past Wednesday as a patient in Northern Michigan Hospitals.

Dan and Julie Schmittdiel of

Some late news but good news of last week, was that about 60 of the cast, technical crew, and adult support group of the high school spring play "Lil Abner" gathered at the home of Janet Moody following the final performance last Friday night. Several of the cast who also played instruments got the party mood going with good music. Included in the celebration party was an award presentation to those playing the various roles and gag gifts were given. A potluck of refreshments were enjoyed and a good time was had by everyone!!

The Boyne City Friendship Club met on Monday, March 25th, at the city hall auditorium for their monthly potluck and meeting with a group of 23 attending. Highlighting the afternoon was guest speaker, Basil Moore, the former supervisor of the water and street department. He spoke on the early days compared to the present. He also gave a personalized view of his life while growing up in Boyne City, which gave many in the group reason to be proud of Boyne City.

Opinions

The choice is yours

Next Tuesday may be one of the more important days for those living in the Boyne City School District. It is the day they will go to the polls to determine if the system will continue to expand in order to take care of the potential growth of the area as well as the current growth that is causing crowding problems at the elementary and middle school levels of education.

It is important that the voters know about the potential and perceived problems of the schools before they vote, and the talk around the community has provided much of the information voters will use in making their decision.

We all know that the school system is under some strain, finding room for a continuing larger number of students registering in Boyne City Public Schools.

On the one hand, we have a certain contingent that is saying no more taxes although the passage of the bond issue will only require about 1.5 mills more in taxes. We also have those who are saying that the plans the school has are too elaborate, would cost too much to construct and would not help the education of the students.

Some are saying that the school system should just teach the basics, eliminate the sports, the drama, the talented and gifted programs, and in general, teach the students how to read, spell, and make change.

Our problem is not with the basic or the extra-curricular activities that the community district enjoys frequently, but rather with what the community expects out of educating the children.

The way the community reacts to the upcoming election is more a means of discovering what the community thinks about the education the children are receiving.

It has been said that bricks and mortar do not make an education, they merely make an environment more condusive to learning.

We have said in the past that what the district needs is more classrooms, not necessarily new buildings. What that means is eliminating some of the room space being used for non-educational purposes, adding only when the need is greatest in the area of greatest need.

Right now, the greatest need is in the area of the lower grades, but those children will soon be moving up the educational ladder and will be filling the upper levels.

Whatever the voters think will be the deciding factor of the community as a whole. If it passes, the schools will provide the quality education some feel the system should. If it fails, then the schools will be able to provide just an

It is up to the voters, so be sure to get over to the middle school and cast your vote next Tuesday.

Did you get to see the caravans leaving town last Friday? Or were you part of it reading the newspaper a week late?

I did. I saw about two caravans leaving town. I estimated that 40 percent of the first one was leaving for some warmer climate, while the other caravan was leaving for some western winter climate with about another 40 percent of the populace.

That only leaves about 20 percent of the people left in town to shop, to work and to play.

I know because one of my family left with one of the caravans leaving me behind. It is tough to let someone else go to enjoy themselves when you have to stick around to keep up with all of what's going on in the community.

There are days when I wish I could just leave like others, just shut the doors and go.

But in this business, there are no times like that unless everybody in town took out a subscription, and every business advertised with us exclusively so we could afford to have about six or seven people on the staff that aren't there now.

Then I could just get in the car and go. At least for a couple of

And I was just thinking about getting out for the day in a short eved shirt, too.

But that thought went into the cold as I dressed in my usual long sleeve shirt, got out the boots I had put away for the summer, and went off to work like most others who are still left in the community.

So it's up to us who is left around here to support each other and get us through the weeks

Let's see who can have the most friendly face around town? Who can have the best attitudes for facing still more winter? And who can keep a positive condition when

WITH GAIL WARE

Use of new drugs and technological tools to prolong the twilight years of the nation's older set have been publicly debated by a slew of social scientists, plus senators and other assorted actors, for several years. But watchful, enterprising baby boomers, heirs to the longer lingerers, haven't stood around chattig whilst their elders eat (often times also fly and cruise) away assets that as recent as 10 years ago boomers would've long since gotten hold of. Instead. they've figured out how to snag some of the roughly eight trillion dollars their parents' generation has amassed before the seniors expire - they've set up will

The detailed documents boomers ballyhoo these days they don't call wills but living trusts (a couple fellows in the trade, Robert Esperti and Renno Peterson, coined the name "loving trust," have written a book by the same name, made big bucks too). Boomers explain earnestly that trusts are not just for the rich but for everyone who wants to keep their affairs secret and intact for loved ones.

instruct the Boomers unenlightened that this means avoiding probate court, mostly what their business is about. They have charts showing how much money is saved by doing so no matter how small the estate; all it takes is one of their living trusts (cost for same discussed much

Boomers scorn plain wills, particularly those made with do-ityourself forms, which just yesterday like-minded members of their generation successfully sold as a cheap alternative to hiring a lawyer to handle the matter.

The new boomer business is doubtless legal, but both books and lectures on it are pushy, tedious too. They give endless forms and repeated touting of the trust's value: to control the cash not only today, tomorrow and right after for subsequent disposition of our money, that's covered too.

All explanatory information also overs that our present wills are useless or worse for keeping our affairs out of probate. Ditto for the lawyers who drafted them.

There's more on control forever, too, from our graves or whatever hereafter is imagined, and leading questions our goal. Such pushing and the other repeated messages get purely annoying. Older folks get physically less agile but most stay fairly fit mentally (some forgetting excepted) and don't this repeating. Discrediting fellow lawyers and, by inference, their clients, doesn't help either.

It does seem odd too that with so many detailed forms, these trusts don't have a "noteworthy other" form, or "intangible (nontaxable) assets" in legalese. There I could point out one last time that my tendency to wander off key isn't my fault. I inherited it frommy mom. Also that I'm glad neither offspring did likewise. Then too I could tell the younger generation how delighted I am that they did pick up their father's and my humor gene. Life's lumps don't look or taste so horrid frosted with a little laughter.

The cost for this "sophisticated" document, the living or loving trust, is less than the thousands upon thousands of dollars that would be paid out should the estate go through probate. Still the fee runs from the respectable hundreds to the no-slouch thousands. Yet it could be well worth the price. But while the earnest and brisk salesman clearly feel strongly that the public is being taken by probate court, they come on so strong they fairly quiver when they shoot out facts and figures, which makes their aim wobbly and easy for targeted

Surely they'd favor everyone by lightening up, smile, even laugh a bit. I could sing for them; that Sensible ways to reduce damage by gypsy moth cater-pillers are detailed in a series of publications produced by the Michigan State University Cooperative Extension Service.

The packet of information consists of three fact sheets, a bulletin and an eight-page tabloid. The fact sheets and the tabloid are free; the bulletin, E-1983, "The Gypsy Moth in Michigan," costs 50 cents per

Copies of the materials can be obtained from any country MSU Cooperative Extension Service of-

The fact sheets and the tabloid can be ordered in bulk quantities from MSU by writing to Bulk Bulletin Distribution, 306 Central Services, MSU, East Lansing, MI 48824. The phone number is 517-353-6740.

The bulk quantities are intended for use by community groups, local governments, businesses or organizations that are trying to inform the public about what can be done to help control or reduce damage by the gypsy moth.

The information was compiled by MSU entomologists nad CES gypsy moth control specialists in cooperation with gypsy moth program officials at the Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA) and the Michigan Department of Natural Resources (DNR). Funding for the publications was provided by the MDA.

The tabloid contains information about the history of the gypsy moth problem in Michigan, recommendations for controlling the insect, and an outline of the MDA and DNR gypsy moth suppression program.

four-color It also has photographs to help readers differentiate between the eastern tent caterpiller, the forest tent caterpillar and the gypsy moth caterpillar. The tabloid depicts the life cycle of the gypsy moth, contains biological and chemical gypsy moth control recommendations, and lists the kinds of trees that the gypsy moth prefers as food and those that it does not.

Two of the fact sheets provide directions on how to use cloth, slippery and sticky barrier bands on trees to intercept gypsy moth caterpillars migrating up the tree trunks. The third fact sheet contains a color comparison of the eastern tent, forest tent and gypsy moth caterpillars.

MSU Extension has also produced a 23-minute videotape, "Living with the Gypsy Moth in Michigan," which costs $35 per copy and can be used for personal or group education programs.

The tape can be ordered from the MSU Bulletin Office, 10B Agriculture Hall, MSU, East Lansing, MI 48824-1039. Make checks payable to MSU.

Don't learn hard lesson about brush pile fires

One Northern Michigan man learned the hard way last spring how quickly a fire can escape. What started out as burning brush piles ended up destroying several acres of mature Christmas trees valued at several thousand dollars.

"Most wildfires occur on warm spring days when people are burning debris from backyard cleanup chores," says Nord Schroeder, Boyne City Fire Chief. "People forget that warm weather and windy conditions dry dead grass and leaves into prime tinder for a wildfire, even when the ground is still wet." Spring fires can spread very quickly and do a large amount of damage before firefighters can arrive to put them out. Homeowners must exercise care to avoid damaging their property, or the property of others.

Consider alternatives to outdoor burning. Leaves and grass make a fine mulch for gardens; they can also be plowed under to enrich the soil. Composting yard debris turns it into an excellent soil amendment that can be used to enrich the soil, or as a mulch to inhibit weed growth. Information on how to construct and maintain a com-

Newspapers and many other household items can be recycled instead of burned.

Open burning us unlawful in Michigan without a burning permit whenever the ground is now snow covered. Burning permits are not required for burning done in an approved incinerator constructed of masonry or metal with a metal cover having holes no larger than 34". Permits are free, and can be obtained by calling 582-6681 or 582-6611. Depending upon the fire danger, burning permits may restrict when you can burn, or they may not be issued at all. the conditions are not what we

Speaking of others matters, I am getting disturbed that the local school system spent $10,000 for those drawings that they are showing around the town in order to get support for the building of a new school and additional classroom space.

I think the school board got ripped off by the firm putting them

If that is what they received for $10,000, then let me make a bid. I figure I could bid $9,000 and do at least the same type of job. For that nine grand, I would go out and purchase a computer and a plotter along with computer assisted drawing program and present drawings of the same type of building.

Of course I would have about $3,000 to line my pockets but maybe, just maybe, that is spending change to those who did get

They probably have more profit since I don't own any of the equipment they used on this and other jobs they are trying to get. Like maybe about $9,000 profit.

I say this because the number of drawings, the detail, and the pictures they made, just don't add up to 10 grand in my book. I would have thought they would create several views of what the proposed school improvements would be, and they would do them faces today is not a new building but a superintendent and a school board that can rearrange the schools priorities putting the academic welfare of the student at the top of the list. If some of the extra curricular activities fall by the wayside, so be it. We are putting too much emphasis on sports and non-fiscal know-how to manage a six million dollar plus a year business. At the present time we have a career minded superintendent bucking for a gold star on his resume and a rubber stamp board. Instead of giving them another 8.3 million dollars to play with, I think we should enact a rule that would prohibit them from holding more than one election for at least one year dealing with the same thing. Maybe they would learn to cut the fat out of it the first time around.

History tells us that the more money we spend on buildings, nonacademic activities and inflated salaries of administrators, the lower the quality of the graduate's education is. This is not just a Boyne City problem, but it is time to start doing something locally. We have simply got to start operating the school system for the benefit of the students and quit using it for the benefit of the school personnel.

Now, should we vote yes on the proposed tax increase? Absolutely not. I would suggest that instead of spending $10,000 on an addition concept, you should have hired an independent expert to come in and show you how to make the best use with the space available.

I might also suggest that all of you great loyal "Boyne Pride" people use your time and energies to improve the quality of the product the school system turns out instead of trying to add still more taxes on an already overtaxed electorate.

I shall vote NO on the proposal and if necessary, I will vote NO again and again and again until your beloved Dr. Bob and his spineless board get the message. I absolutely refuse to let them dos-ados me down that primrose path once more.

Why don't I have pride?

Editor:

Boyne Pride - what is it and how come I don't have it?

It can't be because I lack concern for Boyne City schools because I truly recognize the vital importance of education in the future of the children. And it can't be because I don't appreciate the need for more space to accommodate the growing number of students. I agree the space will soon be needed. What is it then?

Maybe its because I'm not ready to vote for twenty-one years of added taxation without firm plans of how the money will be spent. Maybe its because the "needs" look more like a "wish list" of the educators. Maybe it's because no local contractors were consulted about the best way to get the space. Maybe its because my school taxes have gone up 300% in the last ten years and we still had to vote a milage increase a few short years ago to keep the busses running. Maybe its because there isn't a business in the free world that would spend so much money with so little regard for their customers.

Maybe its because I have Boyne Common Sense.

Make sure tax returns complete and right, says CPA association

The Michigan Association of CPAs cautions taxpayers who have worked diligently on their taxes not to rush through the actual completion of the form. According to the Internal Revenue Service (IRS), one in five tax returns contain some kind of clerical error - wrong or missing Social Security numbers, a mathematical error or a missing form. These simple mistakes can affect the processing of your return and draw the attention of the IRS.

If you want to look back on tax season without remorse, the Michigan Association of CPAs suggests you review this lastminute checklist.

Here's one taxpayer pitfall to avoid: deducting reimbursed expenses. For example, Pat's annual medical expenses came to $3,700. As he understood the tax law, these expenses were deductible to the extent that they exceeded 7.5 percent of his adjusted gross income (AGI), which was $36,000. Thus, on his tax return, he deducted $1,000. What Pat failed to take in to account, however, was that his insurance company had reimbursed $3,000 of his medical costs. As a result. Pat could not deduct a single penny of his unreimbursed medical expenses.

Before mailing your tax return, carefully review your miscellaneous medical and carefully casualty-loss deductions to ensure that you have not accidentally included any expenses reimbursed by your employer or an insurance company.

Your filing status is important. It dictates the tax rate you will use to calculate your tax liability. Your filing status also determines whether you are eligible to claim certain exemptions, deductions

You should attach to your return a W-2 form from each employer for whom you worked, showing your wages and the amount of income and social security taxes withheld. If you receive a pension or annuity, you should receive a Form W-2P. Be sure the total income for all W-2 forms submitted corresponds to the figure you enter on your return. The IRS asks that you staple your W-2 form(s) to the front of your Form 1040 about halfway down the page. You should not

Banks, brokerage firms and other institutions issue 1099 forms to report the interest and dividends your investments have earned. Unlike W-2 forms, 1099 forms do not have to be attached to your return (unless tax withholding is shown on these forms). The forms should be checked to ensure you have reported all the interest and staple through the entire return.

dividends attributed to your ac-

On your 1990 return, you must report a Social Security number for any dependent who was at least two years old by the end of 1990. Next year, you will have to report Social Security for any dependent who is at least one year old. Failure to list this number may result in a $50 penalty. Also, if you are claiming a tax credit for a child or other dependent care, you will need to provide the taxpayer identification number or Social Security number of the care provider, along with the provider's name and address.

Your tax return should be submitted in a certain order. Form 1040 should always be on top, followed by Schedules A, B, C, D, E, F, G, R, SE, and W, in alphabetical order (as needed). Numerical forms should follow next in numerical order. Behind those comes any other statements or other unofficial documents you submit.

Check your return and schedules to make sure there are no errors in your math. If possible, have someone else go over your arithmatic. If you do need to change a figure, determine if this change affects figures elsewhere on your return.

To cut down on math errors, the IRS allows you to round off figures to the nearest dollar. Remember that if you choose to do so, you must be consistent and round off all entries on your return and schedules.

Even the smallest mistakes, such as forgetting that both you and your spouse must sign a joint tax return, can have serious consequences. CPAs warn taxpayers that the Internal Revenue Service may treat unsigned returns as if they had never been filed. As a result, you could be penalized 5 percent of the net tax due for each month the return is late, with a maximum penalty of 25 percent.

Be aware that if you paid someone to prepare your return, that person must sign as the perparer and furnish you with a copy But remember you are responsib for the accuracy of every line of your return even if you pay a preparer to complete your return. If you owe tax, be sure your check is signed and made out for the correct amount. It's a good idea to write your social security number on your check.

If you are simply unprepared to file a carefully prepared and documented tax return, the worst mistake you can make is failing to file for an extension. You can request a filing extension by submitting Form 4868 by April 15. 1991. Thé one-page form requires you to estimate your tax liability for 1990 and pay any tax due. By submitting the form, you can push the filing deadline to August 15, thus gaining an additional four months to prepare and file your tax return.

Whether you meet the April 15 or August 15 deadline, be sure to carefully review your tax return before mailing it - that last-minute check-up can save you the time and trouble associated with corresponding with the Internal

Spring turkey season workshop set

BY REG SHARKEY

The Michigan spring wild turkey hunting season is only a few days away, and once again the Traverse Bay Wild Turkey Federation will hold their annual Wild Turkey Hunters Workshop at the Gaylord Sportsman Club on Saturday, April the 6th, with registration beginning at 9 a.m.

This is an interesting and informative event. Although it is pointed toward those pursuing the wiley tom turkeys, it is also interesting for those who appreciate seeing them in the wild.

There will be demonstrations by top turkey callers; an art that takes hours of practice to perfect.

DNR Conservation Officers will cover and show a graphic film on turkey hunting safety, plus discussing current hunting laws pertaining to turkey hunting. Wildlife biologists will give reports on turkey numbers and where they are concentrated, as well as answering any questions pertaining to the colorful birds. And seasoned hunters will discuss hunting tactics with those who anticipate their first hunt.

There will be many door prizes given out during the day. The ladies of the Federation Auxiliary will stand by to feed hungry participants.

Topping it all off will be a raffle drawing for donated prizes: A Winchester 12 ga. 3" magnum pump turkey gun, donated by ADS.; a weekend at Boyne Highlands, or Boyne Mountain, donated by Boyne Country Resorts; a Martin Compound Bow, donated by Steve's Archery, Boyne Falls, and a half-day Fishing Charter, Donated by Kris Mills/Predator.

The registration fee and money from raffle tickets, along with lunch money taken in goes to buy shelled corn for winter turkey feeding. In this area of Michigan where deep snow hinders natural feeding, survival of the concentrated flocks is dependent on the feeding programs.

The last winter the Traverse Bay Area Chapter of the National Wild Turkey Federation dolled out 44 ton of shelled corn costing over $4,000, that fed approximately 3500 birds in a five county area: Charlevoix, Emmet, Cheboygan, Otsego and Antrim. Volunteers distributed the feed as needed by volunteer feeders.

P.S.: Am I crying in my beer! This is the third year that I failed to get a spring turkey hunting permit for Area J that includes Charlevoix, Emmet, part of Cheboygan, part of Antrim and Otsego. Two thousand permits were issued by lottery for that I guess I'll have to go out with my camera and call a tom into shotting range. It won't fill my belly with that delectable meat, but it's the next best thing to actually bagging one of those bearded, strutting toms.

Addendum: The cutline on last week's picture of a rabbit hopping through the snow, heavens forbid. is a cottontail, not a snowshoe hare as the editor dubbed it.

Turkeys like these will be the object of hunters holding a spring turkey hunting permit.

ORV must be licensed and decals displayed

Beginning April 1, off-road vehicles (ORVs) will be licensed through the Department of Natural Resources (DNR) and must display ORV decals to operate in Michigan.

The license decals must be purchased annually from the DNR for a 12-month period, beginning April 1 and ending March 31 of the following year. Only owners of unexpired ORV registrations previously obtained through the Department of State for a threeyear period do not need to renew licenses April 1.

Highway centers attracts record numbers

Continuing a trend of increased travel on Michigan highways, the number of people served by Michigan's 13 highway welcome centers set a new record in 1990, State Transporation Director Patrick M. Nowak reports. More than 8.6 million people stopped at the centers, up eight percent from

"The growing numbers of visitors tell us that the variety of services we offer are important to highway travelers," Nowak said. "The centers are a key component of M.Dot's commitment to customer service.'

The 13 centers, nearly all located near state borders, are staffed by trained travel counselors who handle millions of travel questions by motorists. About seven million pieces of travel literature are distributed every year, including Michigan's official transportation map, which promotes the state's attractions and recreational areas.

The largest increase in visitors in 1990 was at the Monroe center on northbound I-75 freeway in southeastern Michigan, which experienced a 32 percent gain over last year. Nearly 1.2 million travelers stopped there during the

The Michigan Department of Transportation (M.DOT) attributed the large increase to completion of work on I-75, which has been under reconstruction in Monroe County for six years.

Rail passenger counts hit a record high in 1990 on the "Pere Marquette" route between Grand Rapids and Chicago and increased on the other two Amtrak routes in Michigan, the Michigan Department of Transportation reports.

Buy-Low opens 3rd store in Charlevoix

"This will be the last new store for us for a few years," said Director of Development Jim Maybank, as he looked over the new Buy-Low Supermarket that is opening

The store is located on the south of Charlevoix next to the new K-Mart and hopes to draw customers from Charlevoix as well as East Jordan and Boyne City store officials said.

The store has 36,414 square feet of selling space that is filled with items customers may want to purchase. The store will feature a scratch bakery, where breads and other items are made from scratch rather than just a finishing type of bakery where baked goods are given their final bakeoff.

They will also be featuring a full line meat department with both self serve and full service counters, ready and willing to fulfill any and all needs of customers they said.

Other features of the new market include a hot and cold deli, a floral shop, a complete video department including Nintendo games, and a full fresh produce department.

The goal of the firm is to have foods available for those who may want gourmet items to those who will want to make the food dollar go a little further through their "Price Saver" items.

The new store, the third in the area for the new chain, features the latest in store design and technology. From the check-out counters to the specialized refrigeration units, the entire store has the latest in design.

"The driving force is service to our customers with one stop cconvenience," said Jack Smith the Director of Development and Real Estate for the chain, "With our focus on customer service and having very clean stores and operations '

Maybank joined the conversation saying this new supermarket is for the 21st century and features an upscale look with a low price image.

The store will have 63 employees and will operate 24 hours a day, Maybank continued.

Managing the store will be Pat Handy, formerly of Boyne City. Handy has worked for Carters and Buy-Low stores before becoming the manager. He has moved to Charlevoix to be close to the store's operations.

The Assistant Manager is Joe Hebden, who came to the chain from the Dingman's Market in Bellaire. The two have many years of grocery experience and are eager to serve the customers from

New Buy-Low Store Manager Pat Handy and Assistant Store Mana Joe Hebden, started the stocking of the produce aisle as they and 63 other employees of the new supermarket in Charlevoix complete the task of filling the shelves in preparation for the store's opening today.

Quintet to perform at McCune April 9

The Asbury Brass Quintet has rapidly become one of the nation's most respected chamber music ensembles. In one season they won first prize at the Fischoff International Chamber Music Competition and the prestigious Sanderson Award at the Coleman Chamber Music Competition - a combination that has not been equalled. The success of their concerts on the west coast, in the southwest and midwest, and residencies in communities and at universities, has generated enthusiastic audiences for their special blend of virtuosity, musically and superb musical while graduate students at Northwestern University in Illinois. Their adventurous programming includes inventive transcriptions of classical compositions, jazz standards, spirituals, rags, folk songs and dances, marches, and music of the American musical theatre.

Quintet members have played with the Chicago Symphony, Milwaukee Symphony, New York Philharmonic, and Seattle Symphony. The Asbury Brass Quintet began making music together

The Quintet will be appearing at the McCune Arts Center as the last performance group on the Crooked Tree Arts Council 1990-1991 Concert Series on Tuesday, April 9 at 8:00 p.m. Tickets are available at $10 for General Admission. Patron tickets are $12, with reserved seating and attendance at the Afterglow to meet the performers. Please call the Crooked Tree Arts Council office at 347-4337 for reservations if you are not already a member of the Concert Series. Tickets will also be on sale at the Box Office.

BARBECUES

When I think of college barbecues I recall my daughter's first when she was invited to one at Purdue University. Of course, she wanted to do the correct thing and was even concerned about how to dress. She asked her date and, believe it or not, he said, "The girls will probably wear drindel skirts and blouses." Which they did. Oh dear, I guess this tells my Gloria's

She came home happy and exgited and said, "I'm glad that you and Daddy taught me that steak is best medium rare, I loved it." Also she had no problem eating the watermelon. I doubt very much if girls have these kind of problems anymore; our society is so much more casual in their dining and the way they dress.

Americans have always been casual about eating their corn on the cob even though some etiquette experts, especially the French, have frowned upon such "grossness." From "Hints on Etiquette" published in 1844 by Clarence Day. "It is not elegant to gnaw corn. The kernels should be scored with a knife, scraped off into the plate, and eaten with a fork. Ladies should be particularly careful how they manage so ticklish a dainty, lest the exhibition rub off a desireable romance.'

The best corn that I have ever eaten was at a picnic long ago. The corn was picked fresh and soaked in cold water until ready to put on the grill and roasted with the husks on. You can cut off the pointed end of the ear of corn and pull out the silk if you wish before the roasting. This makes it a little easier to handle.

I wonder why everything cooked in large quantities always tastes better. I have never tasted beef as good as at Ogdensburg Methodist Church on Old Mission Peninsula. Every year they have an ox roast, roasted over a pit. The food is out of this world.

Then there is the famous barbecued chicken that the Rotary Club puts on every Fourth of July in Boyne City. There is a real party atmosphere, the chicken is delicious and people don't even mind waiting in a long line for it.

If you are preparing a barbecue at home, I am sure that you would MARINATED SLICED PORK

The other white meat. 1 qt. beer

1 cup soy sauce

1 tsp. black pepper

1 Tosp. fresh lemon juice. Sliced pork to equal twelve 5 oz. portions of sliced pork, cut 1/2'

Mix all ingredients except pork and marinate pork slices over night. Grill over hot coals to desired doneness.

We can even barbecue for one or two. Many of us have discovered the mini barbecue kettles and the small hibachis. It takes only about 10 to 12 briquettes to produce long lasting coals for a dinner. Anything that we would fix in a larger barbecue can be done on a small scale. It's fun! There are no pots and pans to wash and the food tastes so good.

TURKEY SHISH KABOBS You can make these kabobs with beef, chicken or firm fish as well as the turkey.

1/4 cup pineapple juice 1/4 cup catsup 1 Tosp. honey

Pineapple chunks

1/2 tsp. prepared mustard 1 tsp. Kitchen Bouquet

34 lbs. turkey or other meat cut into 1/2 inch cubes

Combine the first 7 ingredients and marinate meat for several hours. Just before time to eat, thread turkey pieces alternately with pineapple chunks on skewers and broil over hot coals, turning regularly and basting with marinade. Grill until meat is done and pineapple sizzling hot. Serve

Try this barbecue sauce on hamburgers or any broiled meat. VERNORS BAR-BE-CUE

SAUCE 1 large can tomato sauce 1 small can tomato paste 11/2 cups ginger ale 1 tsp. salt 1/2 tsp. pepper 2 Tosp. brown sugar 2 Tosp Worcestershire Sauce 2 garlic cloves, mashed or 1/2 teaspoon garlic powder Combine tomato sauce and tomato paste. Measure ginger ale and let set for 30 minutes. Stir int o tomato mixture with salt, pepper, sugar, Worcestershire and garlic.

Simmer over low heat about an hour or until thickened. Brush on spareribs during the last hour of cooking, or any time while hamburgers are broiling.

Farmers eligible for disaster loans

Farmers in 15 northern Lower Peninsula counties are eligible for disaster assistance because of damage to fruit crops by frost, freezing temperatures, hail and high winds from May 2 to July 4, 1990. Former Gov. James J. Blanchard requested the assistance for farmers in Antrim, Benzie, Grand Traverse, Leelanau, Mason and Manistee counties. Fruit and vegetable farmers in the neighboring counties of Charlevoix, Crawford, Kalkaska, Lake, Missaukee, Newaygo, Oceana, Otsego and Wexford may also qualify for federal low-interest emergency loans through the Farmers Home Administration. Applications must be received by April 29, 1991. For further information, contact the local office of the Farmers Home Administration located at 2206 Mitchell Park Dr. 11, Petoskey, Michigan or phone the office at 616-347-4551.

Michigan Bell Service Bulletin

Important: Action you must take if your phone number begins with 536.

Now you have a choice of long distance companies for Dial 1 Plus service. Don't leave that choice to chance.

Watch the mail and make your choice soon.

If you have not already received it, you soon will be getting complete information from Michigan Bell by mail, along with a ballot listing your choices of Dial 1 Plus long distance companies. Your Dial 1 Plus options and the steps you should take are described in detail. And you will be given the date by which you must make your selection to avoid having a long distance company randomly selected

If your phone number does not begin with the number above, don't worry. You will be notified when your area is ready for Dial 1 Plus service.

What is Dial 1 Plus?

Dial 1 Plus is simply dialing "1," plus the area code (when necessary), plus the telephone number to complete a long distance call outside of your LATA. Companies offering long distance service can now offer you the same Dial 1 Plus service previously available only to customers of AT&T.

Don't give up your right to choose.

As part of the restructuring of the telephone industry, you must choose a company for Dial 1 Plus service or such a company will be chosen for you. Should this happen, it will be a random selection by computer. We urge you to make your own choice—because a company selected at random will not necessarily be one that best serves your specific needs. The information you receive will include telephone numbers for the various long distance companies, so you can easily look into their services and charges before you make your
