McDonalds to build in Boyne City this summer

By Labor Day weekend, Boyne City and area diners will be able to get a Big Mac, Fries and a drink say officials from the McDonalds Corporation who were in Boyne City Monday to get approval for their 2,250 square foot, 50 seat restaurant.

The Boyne City Planning Board approved the site plan for the new restaurant which will be located near the corner of M-75 South and Division Street between REA Acres and the former Wolverine Power Company.

The firm has settled on that location after considering several in the community over the past year, Tom Rackliffe, New Location Specialist for McDonalds, said after the meeting. And although they have not yet completed all permits, the firm expects to be able to start construction some time in July with the projected opening of the new fast food operaton by Labor Day weekend. They are figuring about 60 days to complete the construction of the new restaurant.

Company officials said they have not yet named the operator of the new restaurant, but officials from the Grand Rapids regional office said they have several names on a list who want to become the franee holder.

In reviewing the plans presented, the only point the planners would not allow, was the use of interior lit signage on the site. The planners recently approved an amendment to the sign ordinance that bans interior lit signage on buildings and sites throughout the city. The final reading of the ordinance will be this week at the City Commission meeting and it will take effect in ten days.

While the planners usually have problems with companies and developers over such things as dumpsters and traffic flow, they had no problem after looking over the plans presented Monday.

The new McDonalds will have parking for 75 cars along with two handicap parking spaces. Officials say they hope to employ as many as 14 people per shift.

If the market conditions warrant it in the future, officials say they could expand the size of the building to accommodate additional customers.

But the company officials weren't too happy about having to give up their interior lit signs. Ivan Cuppett, the construction manager for the firm in Michigan said that McDonalds needs the signs as the firm is based on impulse driving conditions. He told the planners the company figures that about 75 percent of the customers will be seeing the signs. "Signage is the most important means for us to attract customers and have a successful business. If you take that away we may not have a successful business in this location.

Planner Todd Sorensen was firm when he told the firm that he would agree to all of their plan with the exception of the interior lit signage. He asked that the firm comply with the city requirements covering the sign ordinan-

He was told that a wooden sign would allow a 25 percent increase in size over the maximum the ordinance allows. The firm plans on installing a main sign that will be 16 feet above the ground and will have less than 33 square feet.

Planner Walt Coyle then asked the rest of the board to approve the interior lit canopy the firm intends to install around the building as signage.

With the approval of the site plan, Rackliffe said that the firm still has concerns but will have to work with the city on solving them to everybodies satisfaction.

After setting up a belief statement, and about two hours of discussion, the Boyne City Board of Education made the decision where they will be housing students for next year Monday night in front of a large group of seventh and or eighth grade students will be bused to the High School for classes in the area of Language Arts or Social Studies. The High School has about three rooms they will not need next year according to school administrators.

In between making the decision, the board discussed many options and plans for the future if a building program is not authorized by the voters. Those plans call for the additional purchase of portable classrooms, the moving of the seventh and or the eighth grade to the High School and possibly ending up with holding split sessions for the students.

The board discussed the options for the school years 91-92, 92-93, and 93-94. If the voters can't approve a building plan by 1993, then the board may have to consider the split sessions.

Board members said they do not want to have to make that decision at present, but want to wall until it is required.

In the midst of the discussions about the housing problems of the school system due to the failure of the board to get approval of a $9 million building plan that was turned down by voters last week, they heard from a new group of concerned residents who are setting up a committee to try to come up with a building plan the residents of the district can ap-

Letters

You all showed 'em

I would like to address this let ter to the dissenting voters of the Boyne City School District regarding the millage vote of Tuesday, April 9, 1991.

Congratulations, you really showed'em. You made a statement on Tuesday that won't be forgotten for some time I'm sure. The only problem is that you made the statement to the wrong people. Your statement says - School Board, Administration, KIDS, make the best of what you have, don't expect any help from us because we are sick and tired of paying taxes. Who will suffer for this action? The kids that are depending on us to provide them with adequate preparation to pursue a higher education or those who are going to be entering the "real" world with a high school diploma? The answer is "both."

How many of you people actually addressed the real problem? SCHOOL FINANCING! How many of you people wrote letters to your legislators or even your governor? I'm sure none of these people woke up Wednesday morning hearing your "statement." Get their ears, tell them how you feel, don't take it out on your kids.

How many of you people go to the board of review. Do you just accept your assessment because you feel you can't do anything about it anyway? You stopped us from getting the room we needed, you ought to be able to get your valuations in line.

The average price on housing in our area is $50,000. The millage was for 1.5 mills. If my arithmetic is correct, that comes out to $37.50 per year - per $50,000 of real valuation, or less than a package of cigarettes every two weeks - or less than one alcoholic beverage per week - etc. etc. You mean to tell me that your kids futures are not worth an additional $37.50 per year?

You see letters in the paper, hear words on the street, that attack probably the best overall administration that the Boyne City School system has ever had the privilege of employing. These people work hard for this school. but unfortunately a lot of their job is consumed with "baby sitting." They don't have the help they need to accomplish their jobs within reasonable hours, so consequently, they have to work

Is this Glory?

Editor.

What price glory? I have no idea who might have put these three words together and used them first but I guarantee they are more meaningful today than ever before.

Anyone that has followed our adventures in the Persian Gulf and the horrible slaughter in Kuwait and Iraq that President Bush so proudly call a just and moral war knows that something is terribly wrong. Officially we lost 124 people and many of which were killed by our own action. Iraq lost 150,000 including defenseless women and children. Those numbers should scare the hell out of us. Lets strip away the window dressing and take it step by step. I'll try to be unending hours to try to give these kids the kind of education they are entitled to. The sad thing is, that the people that make these statements don't even know that these people are supposed to be doing in the first place.

I was born and raised in Boyne City and still live in the school district. I like my home town and most of the people in it. I'm very proud of our school and try to keep in touch with what's going on with it. I'm proud of the kids that come out of the school for their accomplishments during their school years and afterwards - both those that sought a higher education and those that choose to go through the college of hard knocks. Boyne City has many good things going for it, but right now I'M EM-BARRASSED FOR THE AC-TION TAKEN BY THE GOOD people of Boyne City. I can't believe that you actually let a very few people, that CONTRIBUTE NOTHING but CRITICISM of EVERYTHING that ANYONE ELSE tries to do, play games with your own common sense to the point that you believed them. Shame on you! I certainly hope that one of you 1206 people have some legitimate answers to the problem. It's not going to go away without some common sense answers, as this is a REAL problem, and it is getting worse. You can't put two gallons of water in a one gallon bucket. Maybe we should hire David Copperfield, he made a train car disappear on television the other night, maybe he can make our problem disappear also.

I can understand the concern with the tax problem, especially for those of you that live in the city, but this action is not the answer or the cure. This is like putting water on the flames, instead of the fire. Contact your law makers and tell them you are fed up with the situation. Tell them you want some tax relief. Tell them that enough is enough! In the mean time we owe these kids absolutely the best we can give them. We. I mean our family have this cat. It actually "belongs" to a daughter, but I don't think the cat knows that. I think he thinks he belongs to me.

I say that only because whenever I set down to read, watch television, or just lay down on the couch, he jumps onto my stomach. Then puts his nose right into my face, thinking I will just drop everything and scratch, pet, or do something for him.

I feel that I already am doing something for him, I am providing him with food, a nice warm bed, opening the door when he wants to go out and then again when he wants to come in, and am allowing him to almost dominate the family.

Now this isn't the first cat our family has had. It seems like when someone is offering free kittens, my children go out of their way to try to bring one home. Especially if we don't have an animal at the

Anyway, this cat, who has been name "Manson" by one of the children, but called cat by me, seems to try to get in the way of everything I try to do.

If I want to go to bed at night, we have to leave the door aiar so he won't scratch and ruin it trying to get where the warm bodies are located.

Then he jumps on the bed and tries to find a comfortable spot to lie down.

After he walks all over the bed, investigating everything, he usually settles in at the base of the bed between the sleepers and proceeds to lick himself for a while before settling down.

Now this just drives the other half up the wall as she is a light sleeper and the motion of the cat licking himself wakes her up. She usually kicks the cat off the bed or something, but he jumps right back up and comes over to my

Being a good sleeper, I usually don't even recognize that something is laying on my feet until the next morning when I can't move them in order to get out of

But with the warmer weather, I think I have a solution to the cat concern. I will just let him sleep in some other room, or else I will put those stainless steel door protectors up on all of the bedroom them, they always win.

Thank goodness the children are almost out of the house, and maybe I can get one of them to take the cat with them, along with the food, the litter box that she takes care of almost twice or three times a week, the scratching post, and everything else.

Then I will probably end up with a dog as the next family pet who will do almost the same things as this cat.

Only he will not, I hope, scratch up the furniture or the fixtures of

Then I may be able to take the dog hunting, fishing or just driving around in the car like so many others do in these parts.

Of course I will have to start hunting, fishing or get myself a pick-up truck so I can look "cool", while I am driving around.

Callywobble Chees

Two cases involving Ph.C.s (the Physically Correct) - self-appointed guardians of public health, both present and future generations have appeared in the news recently. And they came to mind Saturday afternoon as I mucked in the kitchen trash due to buying heartapproved but astonishingly awful tasting cheese - and two packages of it to boot.

Anna Quindlen's New York Times article, defining Ph.C. persons as above, mixed in there too, but she'd not mind by fat-sleuthing food shopping ways as I don't brag about them, couldn't; I'm to prone to buying duds, like crummy

Before more on my incredible, and what I deem, for me, inedible cheese, a report on the newsmaking Ph.C. cases.

A company named Johnson Controls makes car batteries, a primary component of which is lead. This means most of its factory floor jobs call for handling lead. Studies show that pregnant women exposed to lead can bear babies with birth defects as a result. So the company barred all women of child-bearing age from most manufacturing jobs, the kind that pay the most at Johnson Con-ladies filed a sex discrimination suit; management claimed Ph.Cness, citing its obligation to their unborn should the women get pregnant. Recently Supreme Court Justices reviewed the matter and ruled that employees, not management, should choose for or against the risk. So women won and can now compete for the better paying jobs.

The other case concerns a pregnant lady at a Seattle area restaurant. She ordered a daiquiri. two Ph.C. waiters tried to talk her out of it citing risk to her unborn baby, and a restaurant manager. more into PR (public relations) than Ph.C., fired them for doing so. He said, in effect policing pregnant ladies was not in their job descrip-

Back to my cheese. I don't preach Ph.C., but I try to practice it, the fat and cholesterol part anyway. So I look for new "lite" food every week and last week found this fat free cheese, which any thinking person would have suspected right off. Then, I didn't read the back of the brick, the fatless claim on the front having begun to unravel me. A familiar oblong package and manufacturer's past performance completed the job. That's why I bought two then and there.

Once home, I opened one, tasted it, and puckered up-chemicals. Then I saw in quiet type that it's processed. All such cheese tastes some that way which is why I've never liked it. Still no fat makes hearts cheer, and maybe thin sliced on hearty multi-grain bread, I'd not notice it much.

No dice. Cheese clobbered bread all the way. I stuck with it. "Wast not - want not", I can hear my mom say.

Then I put the matter aside till next day when I tasted it again. Ghastly, appalling, no point in trying anymore. Also I remembered that I'd had collywobbles the previous afternoon, a rarity for me, my digestive system being mostly well-behaved. Perhaps the chemicals cavorted a tad then.

So I finally looked on the back. read the list of ingredients - all SEVENTEEN of them. They included several chemicals, of course. and no surprice since that's all I could taste. Still, dipotassium phosphate sounds explosive, more for a cherry bomb than cheese. And what's carreegan doing there? I just read that it's algae McDonald's uses as low fat hamburger filler in its new McLean

I found the register tape I. sought in the trash, and so I'll take the unopened cheese, get my money back tomorrow. Quindlen wrote: "Freedom's just another word for being able to act stupid if you want to." I figure that freedom is also the right to admit your mistakes, cut your losses and try

BC, Evang. Twp., state hold meeting on park sewer

Boyne City, Evangeline and state officials gathered together Tuesday afternoon to discuss the future connection of Young State Park to the Boyne City sewer system at the Evangeline Township Hall, but the only thing resolved was to set up another meeting in a few weeks.

The reason for another meeting is that until costs are figured out as to connecting residents along Glenwood Beach and Michigan Avenue to a sewer system are worked out, the township and city officials are asking the state to hold off making a decision as to which way they will run a sewer pipe into the city.

The park system came to the city several months ago and asked permission to bring a sewer line into the city from the park that would serve the park campground. The proposed sewer line would come from the park entrance on the Boyne City-Charlevoix Road along the road right-of-way into the city and connect with the city sewer at John Street. When the city responded, they asked the park to consider bringing the line along Glenwood Beach in order to pick up sewage from the residents along that street in the township.

The Glenwood beach area has been trying for many years to solve continuing sewer problems and is, according to Larry Levengood from the County Health Department, the area of greatest need within the county along the lake because of those problems over the past several

The meeting Tuesday was to try to work out a solution with the state as to which way the residents of the township and city would like to see the state proceed with in determining the path of the proposed sewer line.

Gary Arnold, the consulting engineer for the state on the project, told the residents and city officials that his firm, Capital Consultants, Inc., of Lansing, has considered the other option of coming through the park and then along Glenwood Beach in order to pick up those residents and those along Michigan Avenue but rejected the idea as not being an effective way to serve the park.

Arnold cited the state would have to get approval from another agency of the state to pass through the wetland of the park as well as Corps of Engineer permits. He doubted the state or the Corps would provide those permits. Another factor is that the state would have to maintain the sewer. which would mean a road of some sort in case the main broke and needed repair. He also said the change to along Glenwood Beach would mean the line would have to be 25 percent longer.

Evangeline Township Supervisor Doug Shields said that the township posture has been that if a sewer line is installed to serve the park, it should also serve the residents of the township along Glenwood Beach.

That was reiterated by Boyne City Commissioner Bill Grimm who added that the state should be willing to work with the city and township to help alleviate a problem.

Bob Helmic, the Department of Natural Resources park planner and the person responsible for the recreation bond program for park improvement said the DNR was willing to work with the other governmental agencies if at all possible.

City Manager Randy Frykberg suggested that the city and township share some of the cost with the state if they would change the path of the line to pick up those residents.

The meeting, which will be held May 1, in the Boyne City Commission Chambers at City Hall at 7 p.m., will look at the potential costs of the sharing of the project before deciding whether it is feasible to go through the permitting process of the other governmental agencies. They will be looking at potential costs to the residents, how it could be paid for, and how much each agency can do for the project.

They then approved their tax allocation board budget for next year and authorized the superintendent to submit it to the county board for tax allocations hearings that are being held this week. The regular school budget will be finalized in late May and will be available for public inspection during the annual truth in taxation hearing which will be held May 13 at the board's regular monthly meeting.

The board then approved a textbook selection and adoption policy. All school principals will now utilize the policy for all new textbook requisitions.

They then agreed to transfer Lynne Zimmer from her present teaching position in the high school learning center to the position as a sixth grade teacher. They also approved a leave of absence for Marie Healey, the Junior Primary Teacher and appointed Tim Drenth to the bus mechanictransportation supervisor position.

Hot-Dogs

Frankfort, Germany is famous for the humble product, "Frankfurter Wurstchen", the great grandfather of the American hotdog also for "Applewoi", a potent apple cider.

However, sausages were known as far back as Ancient Babylon. During the middle ages German food was about the same as all other European countries with the same natural resources. Their dishes were prepared with a spiciness that we can hardly imagine today. The spices were needed to preserve their food as well as to season it. The richer they were, the spicier their food. The spices brought from the Far East were expensive and could be used for money exchange. With this spicy food they drank beer, cider and milk; only the rich people drank wine, then it was usually served, spice and hot.

The hot-dog was brought to America shortly before the Civil War by a real Frankforter, Charles Feltman, who opened up a stand on New York's Coney Island, serving grilled sausages on warm rolls. First for a dime apiece then later he charged a nickel. Ted Dorgan, a Hearst sports cartoonist, gave the frankfurter it's nick-name in 1906. While munching a frankfurter at a ball game, he noticed that it resembled a dachshund. He drew a cartoon of it naming it "hotdog." The name spread like wildfire and since then Americans have consumed billions of hot-dogs.

What would a good hot dog be without a tangy mustard? Most American mustards are from light mustard seeds which gives it a mild flavor. An American version of Dijon mustard is delicate and pleasant. A Creole mustard from New Orleans has a grainy texture and mild spicy flavor. The Cajun mustards are peppery. I learned recently that Dijon mustard gets it's enticing quality from "verjuice", an acid juice extracted from unripened grapes.

Anyone who grew up in Flint, Michigan will remember the Coney Island place downtown on the bridge. It was famous and everyone visiting the Flint area had to sample the perfect hot-dog. It was served with a delicious, meaty and spicy sauce. My friends still talk about the most delicious hot-dog they ever tasted.

Hot dogs were always an excuse for a picnic; the kind we had during those depression years. Someone would furnish the weiners, another the rolls, mustard and chopped onions. We would build an open fire and when the coals were just

We are pleased that Boyne City High School has been granted accreditation by the North Central Association for the 1990-91 school year. The school has been a member of the North Central Association since 1984, and has been accredited continuously since that time. This should be a matter of pride to the students and the parents of the school, since accrediation gives assurance that the school meets those precondition for effective education established by the Association. Through this voluntary membership in the NCA, the school and the people inthis district have committed themselves to the pursuit of quality in

By setting basic standards and by requiring a comprehensive selfstudy once in each seven-year cycle, the NCA stimulates the school toward continuous improvement. This is accountability in action, for a school evaluation involves students, faculty, and parents. The external evaluation team is composed of teachers, administrators, university personnel, and state department of education representatives. The year the school spends on evaluation enables every teacher to participate in the development of a comprehensive plan for school improvement.

Decentralization is the hallmark of American education, still there is a need for some thread of consistency and a common commitment to quality to integrate this rich educational diversity in our nation. By providing optional, voluntary, self-policed standards, regional accreditation achieves a large degree of quality control but does not forfeit that unique and invaluable feature-local goverance of the schools.

No. 13; Bush was finally pressured into dropping some aid for the fleeing refugees. Some were killed by the falling aid.

No. 14; The emir of Kuwait slaughters the Palistians.

No. 15; Bush has steadfastly refused to harm Saddam Hussein as a point of act he actually is protecting him.

Now I ask, where is the peace, the freedom, the honor, the justice, the humanity and morality? Where is the glorious victory?

Where are the three men responsible for the slaughter of hundreds of thousands of people including so many innocent women and children? Bush is safely in the Oval office, the emir of Kuwait is safely in his palace and Saddam Hussein is safely doing business as usual in Iraq. God is in heaven and the Devil is in Hell. What price glory? indeed What Price Glory.

TTEM IV - B - BOYNE CITY COMMISSION WEEKLY MEETING - April 16, 1991

SECTION 1. TITLE

This Ordinance shall be known and cited as the BOYNE CITY PROPERTY DIVISION -RECONFIGURATION OR-DINANCE, will be referred to herein as "this Ordinance".

SECTION 2. PURPOSE AND AUTHORIZATION

This Ordinance is adopted pursuant to, and under the provisions of Act. No. 279 (Home Rule City Act) of the Public Acts of 1909, being MCL 117.1 et seq., as amended, and Act No. 288 (Sub-Division Control Act) of the Public Acts of 1967, as amended, being MCL 560.101 et seq., to provide a procedure for the division and/or reconfiguration of properties located within the City of Boyne City, Michigan, and to regulate and control, in the interest of the public health, safety and welfare, the division and/or reconfiguration of properties within the City of Boyne City; to prescribe rules and regulations relating to such divisions and/or reconfigurations; to provide penalties for the violation of this Ordinance; and to provide for the relationship of this Ordinance to other Laws and Ordinances.

SECTION 3. DIVISION-RECONFIGURATION OR PROPERTY

Any real property which is divided, split, or reconfigured (such as in the case of eliminating or re-locating lot lines), or is proposed to be divided, split, or reconfigured after the effective date of this Ordinance, must first be approved by the City Commission in accordance with the procedures set forth in this Ordinance, in order to insure conformance with lot area, lot width, and road frontage requirements, and other requirements of this Ordinance and the Boyne City Zoning Ordinance. Review and approval must be obtained prior to the real property being recorded as a separate and individual parcel on the Boyne City tax rolls. Further, before approval of such a division, split, or reconfiguration can be granted, the person, firm, corporation, partnership or other entity requesting the property division, split and/or reconfiguration must first provide the following information to the City of Boyne City, and follow the following procedure:

- A. The applicant shall submit a sketch to the Zoning Administrator for his examination. The sketch shall contain the dimensions of the property to be divided, split or reconfigured, and the dimensions of the properties resulting from such divisions, splits or reconfigurations, together with such information as is necessary to determine its location within the city.
- B. The Zoning Administrator shall determine whether the proposed divisions, splits or reconfigurations comply with Act 288 of the Michigan Public Acts of 1967, if applicable, and whether the resulting parcel (s) are of sufficient area and size so as to comply with the applicable, and whether the resulting parcel (s) are of sufficient area and size so as to comply with the applicable, not proposed division, split or reconfiguration shall create a lot or lots which would be unbuildable according to the provisions of the Boyne City Zoning Ordinance. Since it is the desire of the City to avoid the creation of irregularly shaped parcels or lots within the City, any new lot line which is created as a result of a proposed division, split or reconfiguration shall be located so as to be consistent and in harmony with existing lot lines of the property being divided, and/or adjacent lot lines (i.e., the new lot line(s) shall parallel existing lot lines). When, in the opinion of the City, exceptional or extraordinary circumstances or conditions exist that do not generally apply to other property and have not resulted from any act of the applicant, and such circumstances or conditions warrant a deviation from this standard, the new lot line(s) may be approved which are not consistent and in harmony with existing lot lines.
- C. The Zoning Administrator shall do one of the following:
 1.Tentatively approve or disapprove the proposed divisions, split or reconfiguration, or
- 2. Refer the decision on tentative approval or disapproval of the application to the Boyne City Planning Board. The Boyne City Planning Board shall tentatively approve the proposed division, split or reconfiguration, or disapprove the same with the reasons provided to the applicant in writing. In the case of a tentative denial by the Zoning Administrator or the Planning Board, the applicant shall have the option of resubmitting a revised proposal to the Zoning Administrator, or appealing the decision to the Zoning Board of Appeals.
- D. Following tentative approval of the proposed division, split or reconfiguration by the Zoning Administrator or the Planning Board, the applicant shall furnish to the Zoning Administrator the following information prior to the application being processed for the final approval:
- A survey certified by a registered land surveyor showing the dimensions of the property to be divided, split for reconfigured, and the dimensions of the property or properties resulting from such divisions, splits or reconfigurations, Such surveys shall show all buildings located thereon, and the distance from the same to all lot lines.
- A full and complete legal description (in the shortest form possible), which fully describes the property or properties resulting from such divisions, splits or reconfigurations.
- 3. Written verification and proof of ownership in the form of a policy of title insurance or a commitment for the same, by warranty deed, quit-claim deed, land contract, or other legal document of conveyance, which identifies the owner, or owners of both the parcel of property proposed for division and/or reconfiguration and the resulting property or properties.
- 4. A copy of the Land Divisions Availability form, available from the City of Boyne City, which must be signed by the applicant certifying that proposed splits under 10 acres are available without triggering the subdivision requirements of the Subdivision Control Act.

SECTION 5. REVIEW AND FINAL APPROVAL

Upon receiving all of the information required by Section 4(D) above, the Zoning Administrator shall refer the application to the Boyne City Planning Board, on approval or disapproval of the application. Final approval or disapproval shall be determined by the City Commission, following a hearing to consider the same. Following approval by the City Commission, the City Clerk shall direct a letter to the Charlevoix County Treasurer and the Charlevoix County Equalization Department indicating such approval. Copies of said letter shall be furnished to the Boyne City Planning Board and the City Commission

SECTION 6. DIVISIONS NOT APPROVED

Any property division, split or reconfiguration which has not been first approved by the City in accordance with the provisions of this Ordinance, will not be considered a valid division, split or reconfiguration of such property under the terms of this Ordinance; and any property which has not received approval by the City pursuant to the provisions of this Ordinance will not be placed on the City tax rolls as a separate and individual parcel of property.

Any applicant aggrieved by a tentative decision of the Zoning Administrator or the Planning Board, or by a final decision of the Boyne City Commission, may appeal said decision to the Boyne City Zoning Board of Appeals.

SECTION 7. ISSUANCE OF ZONING PERMIT

After the effective date of this Ordinance, prior to the issuance of any zoning permit for construction upon a parcel of real property which has been divided, the person or entity applying for the zoning permit must first provide the following items to the Zoning Administrator:

- A. Written verification and evidence of the approval of the division of real property by the City of Boyne City:
- B. A tax roll number which has been assigned to the particular property division or reconfiguration:
- C. A recorded copy of the survey, with legal description and drawing of the said parcel, or parcels, or property (as heretofore described in this Ordinance); and
- D. A recorded copy of the legal document which establishes the applicant's ownership interest in the property (that is, a warranty deed, quit-claim deed, land contract or other written evidence of ownership and title to the property).

SECTION 8. VIOLATIONS AND PENALTIES

A violation of any provision of this Ordinance shall constitute a misdemeanor. Any person, firm, corporation, partnership or other entity who violates, disobeys, omits neglects or refuses to comply with a provision of this Ordinance shall be guilty of a misdemeanor, and upon conviction thereof, shall be subject to a fine of not more than $500, or imprisonment in the county Jail for a period not to exceed 90 days, or both such fine and imprisonment at the discretion of the Court, and in addition, shall pay to the City of Boyne City the cost of prosecution, including actual and reasonable attorney fees. Each and every day, during which such violation continues, shall be deemed a separate offense. The imposition of any sentence shall not exempt the offender from compliance with the provisions of this Ordinance.

In addition, the City may institute injunctive, proceedings to prevent or enjoin any violation of the provision of this Ordinance. The rights and remedies provided herein are cumulative and in addition to other remedies provided by law.

SECTION 9. SEVERABILITY

This Ordinance and the various parts, sections, subsections, sentences, phrases and clauses thereof are hereby declared to be severable. If any part, sentence, paragraph, section, subsection, phrase or clause is adjudged unconstitutional, invalid or unenforceable for any reason by a court of competent jurisdiction, it is hereby provided that the remainder of this Ordinance shall not be affected thereby. The City hereby declares that it would have passed this Ordinance and each part, section, subsection, phrase, sentences and clause thereof irrespective of the fact that any one or more parts, sections, subsections, phrases, sentences or clauses by declared invalid.

SECTION 10. RELATIONSHIP TO OTHER LAWS AND ORDINANCES

Whenever regulations or restrictions imposed by this Ordinance are either more or less restrictive than regulations or restrictions imposed by governmental authority through legislation, rule or regulation, the more restrictive regulations or those which impose the higher standard shall govern.

SECTION 11. EFFECTIVE DATE

This Ordinance shall take effect on April 1, 1991.

Ermine or least weasel returns to wilds

They are called ermine when they are in their winter coats.

This term referrs to the weasel clan, be it the tiny least, shorttailed, or the long-tailed one.

At one time commoners were prohibited from wearing the white winter pelts of those bloodthirsty little demons for they were considered the badge of royality.

Recently I had the good fortune to observe and photograph a winter-coated least weasel that my friend Bud Schulz had captured last fall.

It seems that a Petoskey woman called Bud to ask him if he would trap and remove a white rat that had invaded her basement.

Bud set his homemade live trap for the unwanted guest, but ended up with a winter-coated least weasel.

Not wanting to kill the weasel, Bud kept it over the winter and found out the little killer was everything bad ever written about these archenemies of mice, shrews, and even rabbits and hares. And Like all members of the Mustelida family they have an unpleasant body odor, accentuated when they become excited, which is most of the time.

But with the advent of spring, and the beginning appearance of brown summertime pelage, Bud decided it was time to release his hyperactive prisoner, giving the terror of the outback his freedom.

We decided to release the weasel on the Little Traverse Conservancy Headquarters preserve on Round Lake, of which I am the steward.

Lugging the caged critter into a swampy trail, where signs of varying hare were plentiful, Bud opened the cage door as I squatted nearby to photograph the little demon making his exit.

Not quite knowing what the open door policy meant he hesitated. Then with a quick look around exited at full throttle, and I hoped my Minolta, with its focus and exposure set on automatic, would do the trick as the weasel streaked for a hole in a nearby

Dashing to the spot I adjusted my zoom lens and waited. After a minute, or so, the little blighter stuck his head out, hesitated for a moment, just long enough for me to fire a frame, then dashed away into the swamp.

Hopefully he'll readjust to the new-found freedom, and that his hunting ability will not have been blunted by his over winter incarceration.

Another odd thing about this hyperactive carnavore is that when in white coat it will fluoresce a vivid lavender under ultraviolet streaking through the snow under those mentioned conditions.

Imagine seeing this little demon

Even the goshawk that patrols our domain, looking for easy pickings, is a welcomed preditor, even though he might pickoff one

Gaylord Resort to host Starker Mann

The name "Starker Mann" is German for "strong man" and combines 6 miles of running and 31 miles of biking. In 1988 the biathlon was rated among the top eight biathlons in a 21 state region.

A total of 300 participants are expected to complete the race which begins and finishes at Hidden Valley Resort one mile east of Gaylord. Starker Mann registration fee is $17.00 until May 5th and $22.00 after that date.

Registrations will be accepted the day of the race. Proceeds will be distributed to local charitable organizations and new travel events.

3 kinds of caterpillars threatening area

Three kinds of caterpillars commonly raise havoc with homeowners' shade, fruit and ornamental trees.

To minimize the damage these caterpillars cause by chewing on leaves, homeowners should learn to distinguish between the eastern tent caterpillar, the forest tent caterpillar and the gyspy moth caterpillar, says David Smitley, Michigan State University Extension entomologist.

The eastern tent caterpillar makes a silken tent where a branch joins the trunk or a larger limb. Large numbers of the caterpillars hide in the tent during the day. coming out at night to feed on foliage. Homeowners often think that tents mean the gypsy moth is attacking their tree. The forest tent caterpillar and the gypsy moth caterpillar do not make tents, however. That is one very obvious difference between the eastern tent caterpillar and the other in-

The eastern tent caterpillar prefers to eat the leaves of wild cherry, apple, pear and crabapple

The adult moth lays its eggs as a silvery, spindle-spaped mass wrapped around twigs. When the eggs hatch in early spring, the larvae (young caterpillars) spin their prominent silk tent in the crotch of

At this early stage, homeowners can easily destroy eastern tent caterpillars by using a stick or similar object to remove the tent and then crushing, burying or burning the caterpillars.

If the trees are small, homeowners can also control eastern tent caterpillars by spraying an insecticide such as Bacillus thuringiensis (B.t.), malathion (Cythion) or carbaryl (Sevin) on the tree leaves. Spraying the tent with insecticide is usually ineffective.

"The spray must be applied to the leaves of the tree and the caterpillar has to eat the leaves before the insecticide is effective," Smitley says.

A large eastern tent caterpillar has a black head, a prominent light stripe down the middle of its back and small blue dots on both sides of the stripe.

When the forest tent caterpillar is large, it has a blue head, a prominent row of yellow dots down the middle of its back and

This insect's resting sites are often covered with silk, but it does not form tents.

"The forest tent caterpillar is native to Michigan and has been an off-and-on problem for decades." Smitley says. "It is doubtful that many homeowners will see the insect this year because it is on the collapse side of what has been a large caterpillar population during the past two year.

The preferred foods of the forest tent caterpillar include poplar, alder, sugar maple, birch, willow. plum, cherry and hawthorn leaves.

When forest tent caterpillars populations are high, the destruction of trees can rival that caused by the gypsy moth caterpillar.

Homeowners are likely to begin seeing gypsy moth caterpillars during late May and early June. The young caterpillars emerge from patches of fuzzy beige or yellow egg masses and begin crawling to the tops of trees.

Large caterpillars have dark heads and prominent blue and red dots on their backs.

The gypsy moth caterpillar will eat the leaves of a wide range of trees, but they prefer oak, aspen,

BC Commission finalizes sign, lot split Ordiances

City Commissioners finalized and adopted an ordinance amendment covering interior lit signs within the community, and adopted an ordinance covering future lot splits in the first moments of their Tuesday noon meeting.

The sign ordinance has been an ongoing thing that has come back to the commissioners the second time after the first attempt at passage caused some concern among several business owners. The ordinance was developed by the Planning Board along with the corrections to allow interior lit signs within the store signifying the store is open or closed.

The ordinance covering the lot splits, defines the rules needed for future splits, something the city has not had and will, in the words of City Clerk Tom Garlock, "Eliminate a lot of problems", the city has had covering splits in the

In other action, the commissioners agreed to follow the advice of their insurance company who wanted the city to try to eliminate as much insurance liability as possible. The agreed to eliminate the use of lifeguards at the city owned public beach. In making the recommendation to the commissioners, City Manager Randy Frykberg said that the state has also eliminated lifeguards at state owned public beaches several years ago because of the same liability reasons. He told the commissioners that with there not being lifeguards, the parents of children pay more attention to the children and the possibility of suit because of lifeguards not being able to control the whole area is less, the city should adopt the resolution.

They also agreed to accept and enter into a contract with the State Department of Transportation covering the reconstruction of the Park Street Bridge. The contract is a formal agreement with the city as to what is covered for costs. The state, under the Critical Bridge Act will be paying for 95 percent of the cost including the approaches to the bridge, the city will have to pay for the rest of the work.

Bids for the project were opened last week in Lansing and were higher than the estimates the state had figured. The low bidder was a company specializing in bridge work Hardman Construction Inc. from Ludington, MI for $374,963., about $26,000 difference from the estimate. According to Dennis Jason, the city Street Department Manager, the state called the city to announce a preconstruction meeting in a few days and will award the bid at that time.

Completion for the bridge project is supposed to be around August 15th.

The city then entered into a contract with Wade Trim/Granger for the engineering inspection services the firm will be doing as part of their work on the bridge project. It will cost the city $21,700.
