News Briefs | Boyne adds water lines to M-75

"When they are done," said Randy Frykberg, Boyne City Manager, "The city will have new water main the entire distance of M-75 from Division to State

Frykberg made the remarks as the Boyne City Commission was considering adding additional new water main to the work that is already under contract through the State Highway Department during the reconstruction of M-75 along Boyne Avenue.

The commissioners agreed with the project and gave their approval to adding 1,830 feet more of eight inch water main to the area of the project from Brockway to Division Streets.

The new main will not be under the road as the present main is located, but will be installed along the roadway in the greenbelt area so in the future, if there needs to be some work on the main, it would not disturb the new road.

The additional cost of the project was estimated at $14,990 and the money will come from the reserves of the water department maintenance and replacement fund. Frykberg added.

Water Department Superinten-

main will complete a loop of the system and will provide better water service to the schools and residents along Boyne Avenue, and will help in case of a fire as the present main is a six inch main. It will also provide additional water to the north side of town due to the new main under the East Street Bridge. Another safety factor noted was when the bridge is replaced on Park Street this summer, all of the water for the north side of town will go through the East Street main during the construction.

Frykberg said the state will be participating in the improvement and will be paying about $6,500 of the total costs for the additional

The commissioners then approved a new resolution which will allow the main to be in the state highway right-of-way and will permit the construction of the main.

Commissioners then passed a resolution to allow the final payment from the state for the Peninsula Beach project to go into the city's general fund. The transfer of funds is really a reimbursement to the general fund as the dent Mike Banfield said the new fund had paid for the project pending receiving money from the state grant which paid for the Frykberg announced the Boyne City Fire Department will again be washing down the streets and sidewalks in the downtown area this coming Sunday morning. The department will start washing at 5 a.m. and merchants were told to add protection to their front doors to keep the water from coming into the buildings.

In other action, the commissioners approved the closing of a portion of Ray Street between Park and Lake Streets and the alley going to the west on Saturday, May 18 between noon and midnight to allow a fund raising project for Camp Quality by the support group and The Station House Restaurant.

The fundraiser will include entertainment from many local entertainers and bands from the area, and will include activities throughout the day and evening.

The commission then agreed to a budget amendment that reflects the changes in revenues and expenditures between the budget and what was really spent by the city. The procedure is actually a bookkeeping move to let the budget reflect the real costs and to let the auditors have the right

Traffic slowdown advised in Charlevoix

Beginning April 22, traffic on one and one-half mile of US-31, from Hurlbut Street northeast to the north city limits in the city of Charlevoix, will be slowed and detoured, the Michigan Department of Transportation said today. The work includes resurfacing of the roadway and joint traffic will be detoured via State Street. From Park Street to the north city limits, intermittent, daytime lanes closures, controlled by flaggers, will be in effect.

The project is scheduled for completion by late June.

Completion of the project will improve traffic flow on a major thoroughfare in Charlevoix.

Planned Parenthood sets open house

An Open House at the new clinic of Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood is scheduled for Tuesday, April 30 from 4-7 pm. The new facility is located at 1003 Spring Street in Petoskey, one block east of the Crestview Mall. The Open House is open to the

The new building houses Planned Parenthood's Petoskey clinic and administrative offices. It is a 70 year old house which was the former location for the Horizon Program, a residential program for pregnant and parenting teens.

Planned Parenthood's new building has approximately onethird more space for both the clinic and offices, and the layout of the facility enables staffs to see clients more efficiently and with greater privacy. The new location, near the new K-Mart, is more visible and more easily accessible to Planned Parenthood clients.

Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood was founded in 1970. For the past 11 years, the agency has operated in the Lockwood-McDonald Professional building.

"After 11 years in the same location, we had simply outgrown it." states Martha Lancaster, Director of Development and External Affairs. "Our Petoskey clinic now provides over 2,500 visits per year, and hundreds more people are benefited by our outreach education program. We will be able to serve the community more effectively in a larger facility."

Renovation of the new building was funded primarily by donations. The Capital Campaign to complete the funding of the project is continuing.

The goal of the final phase of Planned Parenthood's Capital Campaign is $23,000. To date, we have raised over $15,000," says Lancaster. "The Open House will give our donors and those still considering helping with the funding an opportunity to see how their contributions are being used."

Northern Michigan Planned Parenthood provides family planning services, pregnancy testing and counseling, testing and treatment of sexually transmitted diseases, and general gynecological care in the new clinic. The building also houses offices for agency administration, outreach education, public affairs, and development.

Boyne Valley Garden Club visits Benzonia

Thirteen members of the Boyne Valley Federated Garden Club (BVGC) attended an all day meeting, which included an excellent buffet luncheon, at the Sail Inn in Benzonia on Thursday. One of the guest speakers, Jane Taylor, Currator and Director of Michigan State University's 4H Department, gave a very interesting talk and slide presentation on the University's Childrens Water Garden, a current hands on project of horticulture and landscape design students, which is located on the campus in Lansing. The group thoroughly enjoyed the many garden scenes of the impressively creative work, which began with replicas of the terrestrial dinosaur at the entrance gate, and the following walkways past spouting frogs, a

Most all of the District 5 have made donations for its continuance and the BVGC donation of $250 will be rewarded with the perpetuation of the Club's name in the brick walkways of this enchanting garden. Opinions

While we all can complain about our tax load, those in Boyne City should be thankful that the city is redoing as much roadway into and out of town this year, rather than waiting for several more years to get the project off the

The only problem with waiting, is that prices for the construction increases about 10 percent every year, and with the declining kick-back of the state gas taxes, it could be many years before the city could afford to do the work on rebuilding city streets.

Thanks to the continuing efforts of several of the city fathers, the State Department of Transportation finally got around to replacing and resurfacing M-75 South, our state highway that the department seems to think should not be a state highway.

It has only taken about ten years for the state to find the money and even then they had to shorten the project to fit the money they projected the cost would be ten years ago.

That is a prime example of doing it today to save money, something the state has always had a hard time considering. For roads or almost every other budget.

And with the governor saying that the state has to learn to live within its' means, what he is saying to the residents of Boyne City is that it will be another ten years or more before the state can find enough money to continue on with the M-75 rebuilding effort.

After all, M-75 north was only constructed in the middle sixties, it should last for another 200 years without anything being done to it.

Maybe the state can reduce the amount of lottery ads promoting dreams and apply that money to rebuilding roads throughout the state with the savings. It may help as much as the lottery does the schools.

Calling names not answer

Editor.

If you can't beat 'em then call them names, sneer at their motives and accuse them of hating children. Oh yes, and don't neglect to infer that a six-pack is the most important thing in their lives. I am referring, of course, to the recent newspaper letters attacking the 1206 Boyne City taxpayers who had the good sense to reject the latest school bond proposal. Whatever happened to civilized debate where carefully considered facts are argued on their merit and people can disagree without being disagreeable? But back to Boyne City schools. I doubt that very many of the citizens who said "no" are indifferent to the problems facing our school system. They are, however, against the only solution that was offered and the price tag it carried. The message the Boyne City voters sent was, "Get real! show us something we can afford." There was another message, too, "Don't try to con us, don't try to shove a flawed proposal down our throats with pretty banners and simplistic slogans."

Would the 647 yes-voters really want it any different? Would they want public spending and taxing decisions made by boards and committees rather than by referendum? I think not. A wise man once said that democracy is an imperfect form of government but it is much preferable to any

Remembrances

Pretty soon, a member from the garden club will be making a visit to the Old City Park to plant flowers in what was once, a fountain. That fountain and the old gazebo were the centerpieces of the park which also included a small zoo for deer and a bear. This picture was from about 1915 and shows some of the growth in the park at that time. Since then, the park has a new gazeho, thanks to Gordon Floodquist, a new walkway where the bear and deer played, and of course, the former fountain now as a planter.

This column is being devoted to all those folks around Horton Bay, and to all those who have one of those bumper stickers that say "I eat my road kill".

I know, there are just tons of people around here who do that, well, maybe one or two who take home a road killed deer that also did about $2,000 damage to their car after they hit it.

But good news folks, those people at our illustrious Department of Natural Resources has come up with some new rules at their last meeting.

Now, you can keep road-killed animals, with the exception of spotted fawns, bear cubs, or migratory birds without a permit if the hunting or trapping season is open for that species. And if the person has a valid hunting or trapping license.

This means that hunters, who now spend hundreds of dollars for rifles, clothing, tree stands and like, can just drive up and down roads looking for any animal that is crossing the road.

They can then take their automobile or truck and aim for the animal and make sure they hit it. It could possibly be cheaper than buying all of that hunting equipment every year and not being able to shoot at anything.

Of course it you don't have a hunting or trapping license, the DNR will be happy to provide you with one for the road-killed deer as they are required in order to keep any animal that has been roadkilled.

And, heavens to heavens, the same rules also apply to those animals who are not considered game animals, except for those protected on the endangered species list. And they can be kept without wardrobed willows executing wide waltzes, spring brings out an annual parade of interior designers bursting with bright ideas. These arty offerings often run to extremes, frightfully expensive being one of them. This year, however, in keeping with the practical, pennypinching (not to mention, parsimonious) mood of most Americans, decorators have refrained from the costly, the kooky to somewhat, relatively speaking anyway.

At least, four interior experts in Baltimore made a stab at resonableness when they gave their latest views on what to do to make a house look and feel comfortable, relaxing - homey. They came up with five ideas, none of which refer to the one I had in mind. But then likely it didn't occur to them. it not being a cash commodity.

Furniture? Overstuffed, they say, covered in hardy fabric to withstand tough wear. Now that sounds sensible.

But their drapes idea doesn't. They suggest soft material for draperies with panels so long that they "puddle" on the floor. This instead of the popular verticals or mini-blinds, which are too severe, they say.

Perhaps blinds are overdone, tiresome too, since they make you feel obliged, urged at least, to stand up straight. But this "puddling" - drapes dragging on the floor - sounds disquieting. Few people would find droopy drapes relaxing.

Then there's putting a throw or folded blanket on a chair arm to encourage cuddling. Sounds fine. But only in winter, they caution, warm weather makes this inappropriate.

Why not a loose weave or cotton throw for summer? And, whichever, put it on the sofa, pudgy little pillow nearby to suggest stretching out, a capital idea year around.

Furthermore, collections of things on display, like spoons or cups, mustn't have items that look too much alike. The pieces should be a varying textures or in different sizes to avoid a formal, artificial appearance. (The same goes for candlesticks.) No mention was made of the proper size of a display, only that an odd number works better than an even one - no reason given.

Plants indoors are lauded, better still, small trees. Natural greenery is homey, the bigger the better. Small plants don't give the desired effect, say the experts.

This is all very well if you live in a house with big rooms that can accommodate such greenery, especially if it's trees you're talking. Having lived 14 years with a scrawny one but with grand aspirations, I feel such things belong outdoors (or at someone else's house which was my

These experts recommend a ficus (fig or rubber) tree, purported to fill a corner with nice, natural greenery. Well, if it's near as ambitious as our leggy calemondin, a miniature orange stingily doling out bitter fruit, its branches will threaten the entire room in short

What did I have in mind that decorators didn't for making a house homey? Love. Alone, it decorates the place.

A song from the musical. "L'Il Abner", puts it this way: "You can tell when there's love in a home by the smile and the glow of a room... So no matter what else a home has or doesn't, if it has love, it's not only homey; it glows.

I say let Mother Nature make real puddles, cultivate the greenery, her kind of thing especially in spring. Then people can work on cultivating homey. All it takes is love.

Of course, no harm in a throw of your choise on the sofa, too, an inviting little pillow nearby. With luck you can settle there a spell and watch spring unfold, trees, flowers, right where they belong,

ARTICHOKES

It's fun to eat artichokes. I have found that it is a good idea to have a can of artichoke hearts in the cupboard; then you can prepare a quickie for someone special in no time flat. You will surprise someone with a real gourmet luncheon or supper. Just heat the artichokes in the microwave or on the stove; drain, put on individual plates along with some frozen or fresh cooked spinach and some scrambled eggs.

ARTICHOKES WITH SPINACH This recipe will serve three.

1 can artichoke hearts (2 for each plate) 1-10 oz. pkg. frozen spinach (or fresh) 6 eggs, salt and pepper to taste. Cover with this easy

Salt and pepper to taste. Place butter in 2-cup measure and microwave on high for 21/2 to 4 minutes or until melted. Beat in egg, using a wire whip. Microwave uncovered at low or defrost for 11/2 minutes or until egg appears slightly set.

Beat in lemon juice, whisking briskly with wire ship to prevent lumps. Season to taste with salt and pepper.

Artichokes originated from a large wild thistle plant of Mediterranean Lands before the Christian Era. First they ate just the leaves, It was one of the most popular garden plants in Rome and in the second century, used as greens (a potherb) and as a salad plant. It was called cardoon and grew all over Mediterranean countries for hundreds of years.

The first record of artichokes with an edible flower heart with bracts and fleshy bases show that they were developed in Naples around 1400 A.D. These modern artichokes are now grown mostly in Louisiana and California by people of either the French or Spanish background. There are now, some thousands of acres grown in California and they are becoming more popular all the time. They are available in an increasing supply at out markets and we can enjoy this vegetable that is so much "fun to eat." They come to us fresh whole artichokes used the marinated artichoke hearts here from a glass jar, drained.)

This recipe will serve four. generously.

I skinned and cut the fat from the chicken breasts. (This is optional) On waxed paper coat chicken breasts with flour and fry in a 12" skillet in the oil until golden brown. Place in a 12" by 9" baking dish and set aside.

In a medium saucepan over low heat, melt the two tablespoons butter or margarine, stir in 2 tablespoons flour with the salt and pepper until smooth. Gradually stir in the brandy, lemon juice. water and chicken bouillon cubes, cook stirring constantly until thickened and smooth. With wire whisk, gradually blend in the sour cream; pour mixture over chicken. Cover baking dish tightly with foil and bake chicken 45 minutes.

Remove foil from baking dish and add artichokes hearts. Cover and return to oven; continue baking 15 more minutes or until chicken and artichoke hearts are fork-tender. This is a very special chicken entree; my family loved it.

Artichokes are delicious no matter how you serve them. Whole fresh artichokes steamed, one for each person on a special plate to deposit the bracts after dipping them in butter and scraping out the delicious meat through your teeth is a wonderful way to start a meal, and don't forget the frozen, canned and marinated ones. Happy Eating.

Families needed to host foreign students

Foreign high school students will be arriving soon into the Boyne City area for homestay programs, and the sponsoring organization urgently needs local host families.

According to Pacific Intercultural Exchange (P.I.E.) Area Coordinator, Patricia Blundy, the students are all between the ages of 15 and 18 years, have their own spending money, are fully insured and are anxious to share their cultural experiences with their new American families. P.I.E.'s academic homestays range in length from one semester to a full academic year, where the students attend local high schools.

P.I.E. representatives match students with host families by finding common interests and lifestyles through an informal inhome meeting. Prospective host families are able to review student applications and select the "perfect match." As there are no "typical" host families, P.I.E. can fit a student into just about any situation, whether it be a single parent, a childless couple, a retired couple or a large family.

Mrs. Blundy says that the situation in the Persian Gulf created a drop in student participation, but now that the conflict is over, the organization has received many applications for students wanting to take part in the program.

For 1991-92, P.I.E. has students from Spain, Germany, Japan, France, Denmark, Yugolsavia, Italy, Argentina, Brazil, the Soviet Union, Colombia, France, New Zealand and other countries. P.I.E. is a non-profit educational organization that has sponsored more than 12,000 students from 18 countries since its founding in

Wildfire safety tips

Contact your local fire official before burning to obtain information about the burning regulations in your area. Some communities forbid burning debris, such as leaves, grass, brush and trash-others allow burning only during specified hours.

Obtain a burning permit (free) from your local fire agency. State Law (P.A. 329 of 1969) requires a permit for open burning whenever the ground is not snow coveredeven on your own property. On dry, windy days, burning restrictions may be in effect. State law prohibits burning anything other than yard debris, brush, or household trash. All burn barrels must be covered with a weighted metal cover, with holes no larger than 3/4 inch-it's the law!

ning...leaves and grass makes a mulch for gardens; newspapers and many other every-day household items may be recycled.

Always use the ashtray when smoking in your vehicle. A match tossed from a car window, farm vehicle, or off-road vehicle (ORV) can ignite leaves or grass, causing a wildfire. Never grind a cigarette, cigar, or pipe tobacco out on a stump or log.

Even though the ground may be wet in the spring, the grass is not, and swiftly burn out of control in seconds from any flame.

Use a spark-arresting screen on your fireplace or woodstove chimney. Use a wire mesh grating, with holes no larger than 1/2 inch. Make it a practice of keeping your roof clear of leaves and other debris. This will prevent sparks from falling on your roof and igniting leaves and pine needles trapped in roof valleys and gutters.

Maintain a ring of safety around your home to protect it from wildfires. Keep grass mowed 100 feet from all buildings-a mowed lawn is usually a lawn that is protected from wildfires. Remove all trees within 25 feet of any building, and trim the bottom branches of all evergreen trees to six feet above the ground.

Make sure your house number is visible from the street, so fire trucks can locate your home quickly. Keep your driveway wide, accessible, and in good condition for fire trucks to get to your home. Plan safe evacuation routes in case of a large wildfire. Have more than one means of getting to your Extinguish all outdoor fires operly. Drown fires with plenty of water, then stir. Continue adding water and stirring until everything is cold to the touch. Do not throw live charcoal on the ground and leave it; it will smolder and could start a wildfire.

Before building a campfire, scrape away any burnable material until you get to mineral soil which will not burn. Keep your fire small and have an adequate water supply to extinguish it properly. Make sure every particle of fire is cold to the touch before you leave.

Be careful with matches. Keep all matches and lighters out of sigh and reach of children. In only 10 percent of the child-caused fires do children have to work to obtain matches or a lighter.

Never leave a fire unattended. Sparks can blow into leaves or grass and quickly spread. Keep a shovel and charged garden hose nearby while burning so that they can be quickly used to extinguish a fire in an emergency. Maintain a 10-foot diameter circle around your debris pile or burn barrel clear of tall grass and other burnable material.

Parents, caution your children about playing with matches or lighters. Teach them that fire is a useful tool, not a plaything. Also teach them to report any fire they see, or any child playing with fire, to an adult.

Keep all internal combustion engines used outdoors properly tuned. Such engines must also have a properly functioning spark arrestor. Poorly tuned engines without spark arresting mufflers can emit carbon sparks, causing a

According to a DNR news release volunteer bald eagle watchers reported a total of 222, including 50 immatures and 172 adults in the January count. The UP counties had 70 eagles, while 111 eagles were counted in the northern Lower Peninsula, and 41 birds were sighted in the southern Lower Peninsula. There were 400 counters involved in the yearly exercise.

In this area no eagles were reported in Charlevoix County, although a pair were observed fishing open water in the vicinity of the Advance power plant recently. They probably were migrators.

Emmet County reported 3 of which I reported a pair, now again nesting in the vicinity of Pickerel Lake. Without a doubt its the same pair I spent 24 hours observing and photographing last sum-

Living on a bluff overlooking Crooked Lake near Conway, we see eagles flying the shoreline looking for dead or shallow swimming fish.

like fighter aircraft after an intruding bomber, a formation of crows straffed the eagle with angry avian curses. We are indeed fortunate to have our countries majectic symbol making a strong comeback, especially in the Great Lakes area where DDC laced fish contributed to the near doom of this beautiful raptor. The pesticide injested by the female bird produced thinshelled eggs which shattered under the weight of the brooding oldsters.

Then, too, indescriminate, thoughtless shooting of eagles has been made a costly offense. If I remember correctly a federal fine of $5,000 can be levied, plus Audubon and other environmentally oriented organizations adding monitary rewards for those apprehending the violator.

Although Indians were exempt from collecting eagle feathers for cermonial regalia in previous years they now must comply with the eagle preservation law.

After observing the nesting eagles last summer I realized how hard the old birds work to feed a pair of youngsters, They were on the wing almost constantly from daylight to sunset in search of food. And even after the eaglets have fledged they have a tough row to hoe. They must be taught how to fish or find other food sources, and mortality takes its toll at this point.

So it is good, indeed, to see that our National symbol is making a comeback.

So, dear people, don't hesitate to donate a little of your State income tax return, checking off the aid for non-game species. Too late this years, but there's next year and all the years after that.

Addendum: Ed Lotspeich, my Walloon Lake correspondent, says he saw a coyote loping across the ice just before it went out shortly after he returned from Florida.

There seems to be a goodly number of the wild canines around these parts. The natural preditorsman included-don't seem to care about shooting or trapping them anymore.
