BC All-Stars almost take 1st district championship

It only took one blow to end the dreams of the Boyne City All-Stars of making it for the first time to the state finals in the 11-12 Major League championships.

That one blow happened to be a fourth inning grand slam that gave Huron Shore a 42 victory over the Boyne City team in the District Championship play held over the weekend in Cheboygan.

The losing game was the second of the weekend for the Boyne City team as they ousted the home team, Cheboygan on Saturday 3 to 1. Winning the games was Jason Richards with a four hitter, striking out nine and walking Boyne collected six hits with Don Richards taking two, Scott Bradford a double and Corey King along with Shawn McPherson each adding a single.

Sunday looked good for the Boyne Players as they held Huron Shores scoreless through the first three innings and then Don Richards hit a solo home run to give the Boyne team a short lived lead. Huron Shores came right back with the four run grand slam that ended the scoring until the fifth inning when Boyne added their second run.

But it wasn't enough to put the team into the championships that will be held this week at Mt.

Even so, the players ended their long faces when they came back to Boyne to be brought into town with a fire truck escort and a treat at Billy D's Pizza.

Don Richards was listed as the losing pitcher allowing nine hits, striking out eight and walking one. Making hits for Boyne, not including the home run by Don Richards, were Dean Fiel, Corey King, Brian Mapes and Doug Archey, all singles.

The long Little League season may be over for the team, but they

Commissioner asks revision for Loding awards

"After thinking about this for several months because I knew it was coming up," Commissioner Vic Ruggles said at the Tuesday noon meeting of the Boyne City Commission, "I would like to abstain from voting on the approval for the Mary Loding Community Pride Awards."

Ruggles then read a prepared statement to the commissioners explaining his reasons for declining to vote. He explained that there was no real criteria for the awards other than a "beauty contest without the talent part."

Ruggles told the commissioners that anyone with an extra quarter of a million dollars to spend on a home or business might have been a nominee for the awards. "But probably 95 percent of our citizens don't have that kind of money and will never be in the running for this award as it stands.

Ruggles continued to say "If are truly concerned with community pride let's reevaluate the meaning of the this award. Consider the home on State Street, nearly burned to the ground, then rebuilt and now looking better than ever. Perhaps there is some inspiration and reason for community pride there."

Ruggles asked the Loding Awards be given some criteria instead of just nominations from community.

The Loding Awards were created back in 1984 and named after a former Mayor, City Commissioner after he died. The awards would honor those who take pride in their home, business or industry through landscaping, structure design, appearance, maintainance, and being harmonious with their surroundings.

The awards are given every August after the Planning Board reviews the nominations from residents of the community, picks the nominees and asks the City Commission to approve the nominee as winners of the awards.

With the abstention from voting for this years winners, the commissioners tabled the action until next week as they did not have a majority as both the Mayor, Keith Fitzpatrick and Commissioner Thelma Behling were absent from the meeting.

In other business, the commissioners agreed to send a letter to the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners inviting them to come to Boyne City to hold a County Commission meeting at least once a year.

The invite was approved after Commissioner Bill Grimm suggested to the head of the County Commission, Don Smith, they move some of the county meetings around the county similar to what Boyne City Commissioners do by holding meetings at Litzenburger Place and the Boyne City Library once a year.

Smith agreed it would be a good idea and said the only reason the county has not come to Boyne for a meeting was they they were never asked.

BC to hold new car show

Boyne City may be host of another car show, if area promoters can work out all of the details. The details include an okay from the city administrators who are looking over the possibility of two groups using the Veterans Memorial Park on the same eekend.

The car show is proposed to be held over the Labor Day weekend, the same time that the annual Red Fox Regatta is scheduled. Some people think the two groups may not be compatible.

But according to Tim Van-Alstine, one of the groups trying to develop the show, that is a good aspect for using the park together. "When people are waiting around for the sailboats to appear, they may want to look over the cars that will be on display. I think the two together would be great."

The car show group suggested they would not be competing for any of the area used by the boaters, except maybe the bathrooms. The boaters have used the pavillion for their annual corn roast late in the afternoon after all the boats finish the first leg of a two day race. They would back underway the next morning.

VanAlstine said the cars that would be coming to the show would be totally different than the present antique car show and flea market. He indicated 100 to 150 cars would be displayed, mostly "street rods," customized cars and muscle cars from the sixties." He said most of the cars will be street

He said that he expects everything to run smoothly between the two groups.

Van Alstine said the main reason for bringing the car show into Boyne City on that weekend is because it usually is a lackluster weekend for tourists and the community as it is the last weekend of the season. He hopes that the car show will help bring people into the community to see the cars and to help create some business for the retailers and restaurants in town.

According to VanAlstine, the first car show will be an experiment. First to see if it does draw people to the community and second, to see if it can generate enthusiam for show cars that the area has shown at other shows like St. Ignace, Petoskey, and Lewiston.

Involved with the developing show is Mark Wuerth from Car Quest Auto, and Everett Groh from Boyne City. Van Alstine is an owner of Boyne Auto. Others are also helping to bring the show into

Sulak - Farmer united at Elm Pointe

In an early afternoon ceremony on the lawn of Elm Pointe in East Jordan, overlooking the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, Brenda Marie Sulak and Thomas Michael Farmer were joined in marriage on June 15, 1991.

Under a trellis covered with pink silk flowers, ivy and pink and white bows, the couple exchanged vows in front of 200 guests who had gathered. Russ Peck, Mayor of East Jordan performed the double ring ceremony.

The bride is the daughter of Sandra Sulak of East Jordan and Jerome Sulak Jr. of Boyne City. The groom is the son of Gary and Margaret Farmer of East Jordan

Given in marriage by her father the bride wore a full length dress of white majestic satin with a basque waist and a fitted lace bodice, trimmed with sequins and pearls, cascading down to the hemline. The sweetheart neckline with a lace beaded yoke, extended to a beaded stand-up collar. Leg-omutton sleeves of satin and embroidered lace were adorned with sequins and pearls. Scalloped lace and sequins bordered the back of the skirt and along the edges of the cathedral length train. A waist length veil with a high poof, attached to a headband of white satin roses, pearl loops and sequin rosettes. Lilies of the valley showered down one side of the veil. As the final compliment, the bride carried a cascading bouquet of white and pink silk roses with baby's breath, lace loops and streamers of pink and white ribbon, lace and pearls.

Maid of Honor was Amy Sulak, sister of the bride. Attending as bridemaids were April Sulak and Theresa Harmon. They wore pink taffeta dresses with scooped necklines, crisscrossed backs and tapered elbow length sleeves. Each carried pink roses with greens, baby's breath and pink

The flower girl was Andrea Cooper, cousin of the bride. She wore a pink taffeta gown with lace overlay, dropped waist and a tiered ruffled skirt. A wreath of silk roses adorned her hair. Josh Farmer, nephew of the groom, served as ringbearer.

Best man was Jerry Sulak, brother of the bride. Serving as groomsmen were Curt Sulak. brother of the bride and Jack Thorsen.

The wedding music was provided by "Music Unlimited", brothers of the bride. The wedding cake was made by Nancy Sulak and was served by Cari Grunow and Kelly Breakey. All flower arrangements were made by April Sulak. Phyllis and Brian Olszewski attended the guest book. Gene Farley videotaped the wedding. Dress alterations were done by Jill Leestma of Petoskey. The groomsmen also acted as ushers.

Following the ceremony, a reception, given by the bride and groom, was held at Whitings Park, Boyne City as was the rehearsal dinner the evening before.

Following a honeymoon cruise to the Bahamas the couple plans to reside in East Jordan. The bride is a teacher at East Jordan Elementary. The groom is employed by East Jordan Iron Works.

BC families needed to host students

International high school students are scheduled to arrive soon into the Boyne City area for academic homestay programs, and the sponsoring organization urgently needs local host families.

According to Pacific Inter-cultural Exchange (P.I.E.) (P.I.E.) Executive Director, John Doty, the foreign teens are all between the ages of 15 and 18 years, will have their own spending money, are fully insured and are anxious to share their cultural experiences with their new American families. P.I.E.'s academic homestays range in length from one semester to a full academic year, where the students attend local public high

P.I.E. community representatives match students with host families by finding common interests through informal in-home meetings and provide year-round support to the students and host families. Prospective host families have the opportunity to review student applications and select the "perfect match". As there are no host families, P.I.E. can fit a student into just about any situation, whether it be a single parent, a childless couple, a retired couple or a more traditional large family. Doty says that their is currently an urgency to place the Yugoslavian students accepted for the program because of the civil unrest in the country. "The student visa applications have already been sent, but the final immigration documents cannot be issued until the students are matched with host families," he says. With the rapidly changing political climate, we are anxious to bring the students into the United States as soon as possible.

In addition to the Yugoslavians, for 1991, P.I.E. has students from Spain, Germany, Argentina, Brazil, the Soviet Union, Colombia, France, New Zealand and many other countries. P.I.E. is a non-profit education organization that has sponsored more than 12,000 students from 18 countries since its founding in 1975.

Criteria greatly needed

We totally agree with the remarks made by Boyne City Commissioner Vic Ruggles concerning the Marv Loding Awards when he said the awards may not be justified on behalf of the entire community based solely on beauty.

Given an extra couple of thousand dollars, we are sure there are several homeowners who would like to spruce up their domicile and make it attractive for the community.

But, with so many of our homeowners just having a hard time meeting the mortgage and tax payments, the idea of fixing up the homestead falls far down the list of priorities.

While those who do not have those problems of money and can afford to provide landscaping and exterior restoration will probably continue to be nominated and win the awards.

We agree that the Loding awards should be made to express thanks for beautifying the community, but we also agree that there needs to be some criteria other than just money spent for "beautifying."

We think the city officials should be setting up some sort of criteria that includes, besides landscaping and exterior construction, some sort of community involvement with making the community a better place to live and work.

If the homeowners could be "graded" on the help they have given the community over a period of years, then perhaps that could be added and counting towards winning the award.

We urge the Planning Board, which oversees the Loding Awards to come up with a better plan that includes more than just the fixing up or building a new home.

Not everyone can afford to live in a home that would rate a picture in "House Beautiful" or "Better Homes and Gardens." But almost everyone could contribute something more to the city to help make it a better place to live.

And that should be considered.

And to my way of thinking exercise should be something enjoyable, like golf or skiing.

I probably should arrange to call up a health club, arrange for a membership and pay them a little more to say that I can't be reached as I am in the middle of some exercise that isn't any good if it is stopped before completed.

Then I could nap my way around the club, and have them tell the boss I am unavailable.

And, unlike a few people I have met this past summer, I will not be carrying a cellular phone around when I plan to go exercising. I don't want any contact with anybody as they will want to join me while I am "exercising."

The Case For Cookies

"Summertime, and the livin' is easy" - so the song from "Porgy and Bess" goes. But seldom life goes that way for most folks, anytime, and in any place. Looks like what the council members aim for, though, in the village of Ocean Beach, Fire Island, NY. If tough laws help make living easy, they're on their way. Already they've drawn the dub, "the Land of No."

The village came by this title fair and square too. At one time or another, its municipal board banned doings in public places deemed natural, fruitful or both, elsewhere.

For example, eating or drinking anything on their beach has been forbidden. No mention made of how close concession wagons can come to beach borders to peddle their wares, but likely far enough to allow for dropping wrappers elsewhere. Apparently village fathers shoot for tidy turf, but with little work involved to keep it that way. The law probably keeps boisterousness down too, since it makes one thirsty.

Municipal lawmakers haven't confined their restrictive no-nos to the waterfront either. At one time, perhaps still, riding a bicycle anywhere within village limits was banned, he rationale for this, as for the other outlawed actions, wasn't revealed in the news release in which the laws were laid out. So one can only guess at the

The bicycle ban may well have come from distraught parents, those who recently observed their young crashing into all manner of things alive or inanimate, moving or not, and felt they'd had all they could handle of such scenes.

Or, push for such a law may well have come from bruised victims of kids out of control - crashees so to speak. Then again, concern for tidiness may come into play here also. Wobbly bikers, surer ones too, can mess up landscape a lot.

Playing ball on sidewalks was banned in Ocean Beach as well. Clearly a public safety measure, it likely suits all but hopeful pitchers working on curves around pedestrians.

But the effort to prevent putting up potties on public beaches Ocean Beach to gain national attention. The village board tried to block a court order to build them by claiming the beaches are private property. State Supreme Court said such was "subterfuge and illegal." Village Attorney Frank Isler feels the board will appeal - again.

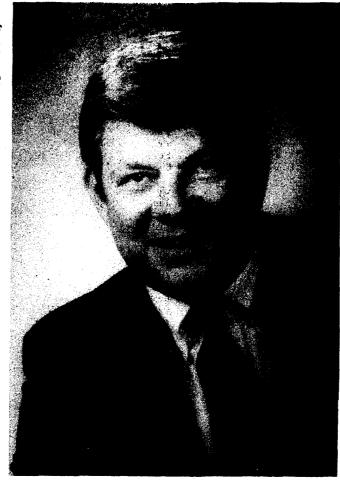

Families with little kids and individuals whose inner workings never got past that stage, would appreciate such facilities close by, but environmental factors, both visible and airy could well be argued here, especially in current political climate. And a reasonable case could be made for each noxiousness versus convenience. or odor versus urge.

But not reasonable at all, in fact, smacking of sheer ornery crankiness, the case of cookies wasn't noised abroad; that is the law prohibiting eating cookies on the sidewalks.

Whatever possessed village council members to ban munching law-abiding cookies on public concrete stands as an unsolved mystery to non-Ocean Beach dwellers. Cookie fans consider it a crime, in fact. But maybe a council member has a doughnut shop and wants to cut competition.

Then too, ants may have become a problem on public sidewalks and the fallout from cookies indicted for probable cause of same - not that any thoughtful person would believe such a thing. Cookie crumbs, after all, are so fragile that the briefest shower or air stir melts or moves them away.

After this revelation of village values, should anyone still feel drawn to visit Ocean Beach, certainly worthwhile would be to check on the presence or absence of potties on public beaches. But most of all check on the cookie ban. Good authority holds that Porgy and Bess loved cookies; in fact were eating them in a public square prior to singing of "easy livin'. So clearly the sweet memory inspired the song.

SUMMER SANDWICHES

Sandwiches make wonderfully nutritious meals these summer days for our families and guests. The fresh garden produce and summer sandwiches just go hand in hand, on what easy, colorful and delicious meals can be prepared on these busy days.

Mother always made her cooked salad dressing for lettuce sandwiches also for potato salad. From an old cookbook yellow with age that belonged to Nancy Fulkerson's grandmother's grandmother I found this old fashioned salad dressing recipe. It's the way Mother made her cooked dressing.

SALAD DRESSING

1 egg 1 t. salt 2 T. sugar 1 T. dry mustard

3 T. flour Put egg in a dish, stir in other ingredients until smooth, add 1 cup of vinegar and 1 cup water. Put over moderate heat and keep stirring until thick.

Now, many of those old recipes used tea cups for measuring so I would start with 1/2 of a cup of vinegar for this recipe and taste it before putting in a full measuring cup. In fact just put the amount of vinegar according to your own

With a salad dressing like the above made ahead one can make some garden sandwiches like the ones my friend, Anne Jenkins,

ANNE'S GARDEN SANDWICHES

With your radishes, leaf lettuce, green onions you can add a slice of lunch meat, sliced hard boiled eggs, left-over roast beef or a slice of cheese for a complete meal in one sandwich. A dish of berries, cherries or a slice of melon is the perfect dessert.

For breads try dill, rye, pumpernickel, whole wheat or old fashioned home made bread for vour summer sandwiches. Just be sure that your vegies are crisp and you have a delicious sandwich even with just lettuce alone with the old fashioned dressing.

Here is another delicious recipe from "Bellaire's Kitchen Secrets DONNA'S SUPER VEGIE

SANDWICH Place in food chopper and chop coarsely:

1 carrot

1 small onion 1 stick celery

1/2 green pepper 4 radishes.

1 can tuna, shrimp, ham or chicken,

2 T. mustard & you would not need this if you used the above salad dressing.)

Make sandwiches with 4 slices of whole wheat bread.

Here is a delicious sandwich made with two different kinds of Combine cucumbers, radishes, and vinegar. Sprinkly lightly with salt and pepper, cover and refrigerate at least one hour. Drain well. Spread each slice of pumpernickel with butter; top with some liverwurst, mustard and lettuce. Then spread a fourth of the cream cheese on each slice of the regular bread and one half place on the lettuce. Top each with a fourth of the cucumber mixture. Sprinkle lightly with paprika. Eat at once with knife and fork. 4 servings. Good with buttermilk or beer.

Here is another full-meal sandwich. Add or substract any of the following ingredients to your taste or just use whatever you might have on hand.

BRUNSWEGER ON RYE Just butter rye bread, add a little horse-radish mustard then a slice of Brunsweger, a slice of Swiss cheese, add a thin slice of a

Just another tip: It's nice to have a few hard-boiled eggs in the refrigerator to add to tuna and ripe olives for delicious sandwiches. Spread bread with mayonnaise for these sandwiches.

Directors elected to Charlevoix needed for Area Hospital Board

Norman Perkins and Al Ranger were re-elected to serve new terms on the Charlevoix Area Hospital Board of Directors at the annual membership meeting on Tuesday, July 16. A new member elected to the board is Rebecca Haney, who with her husband on operates Don's Charlevoix, is active in the hospital Guild and is president-elect of that group. She is also president-elect of the Garden Club and is 1992 Kappa Sigma Home Tour chairman. She has a long-standing interest in the Girl Scouts and is the northern association chairman for the Crooked Tree Girl Scout Council. The Haneys have three grown children and moved to Charlevoix from St. Joseph four years ago.

Haney was elected to a position on the board that was filled for the past 18 years by Thomas Carey. Richard Krueger, administrator, said of Carey's tenur, "He never hesitated to pitch in and help wherever he was needed. No jobs was too menial for him. And he was extremely helpful when it came to raising funds. We are going to miss him very much." Carey received a standing ovation from members following presentation of a plaque in appreciation for his efforts by Al Ranger, board Hugh Mason, Board Finance Committee Chairman, gave the financial report which showed the hospital ending its fiscal year on March 31, 1991 with an operating fund surplus of $146,925. Total operating income for the hospital was $6,917,829 with salaries, wages and fees amounting to $3,874,952.

Guild President Margaret Landman reported that 4,776 hours of service were given last year by these volunteers and they raised $6,700 for equipment needs.

Both Ranger and Krueger mentioned the amount of time and expended by administration and the board for facilities planning and developing a long-range plan during the previous year.

Krueger pointed out that exhaustive surveys by the Joint Commission on Accreditation of Health Care Organizations resulted in the hospital receiving a three-year accreditation which is the best a hospital can be awarded.

He also reported that the Boulder Park Terrace nursing home, a joint venture with Northern Michigan Hospital entered into last year, is now beginning to take shape. Foundation work, after repeated delays at the State level. is now started.

Members of the hospital are those who made a monetary contribution to the hospital in the past or who paid $3 membership dues.

Marine Lance Cpl. Stephen A. Vincent, son of Sandra L. Bush of Boyne City, MI, has completed the Radio Fundamentals course.

During the course, conducted at Marine Corps Communications-Electronics School, Twentynine Palms, Calif., Vincent received instruction on the basic procedures for maintenance and repair of the radio equipment used in the Marine Corps.

His training was centered on the functions of transmitters, receivers and antennaes; and the techniques for operational texting and troubleshooting. He also received instruction on the use of Marine Corps supply and maintenance publications, the operation of maintenance shops and electronic theory.

The 1990 graduate of Boyne City High School joined the Marine Corps in July 1990.

Host families foreign students

Share the American Dream with a teenage from another corner of our world. Students from many countries, including Australia, Denmark, Finland, Germany, Hong Kong, Italy, Japan, Poland, Spain and Yugoslavia wish to come to the United States to study this fall. All share a common dream, to live as a typical American teenager with all the responsibilities and privileges that are involved.

I.E.F., International Education Forum is a non profit organization, involved in international high school student exchange. Students come with their own spending money and are fully insured. They arrive with many misconceptions about life in the United States, but leave with an understanding that can only benefit us all. Students are skilled in English and academics and usually have other interests or talents to share with the family.

I.E.F. has a coordinator in your area who would be pleased to meet with your family to explain the joy of hosting an international student and to answer any questions you may have. Coordinators provide orientations for the host family and for the student. They act as a liaison between the student, family and school and will assist the student in adapting to our lifestyle.

If your family might be willing to share your home with an I.E.F. student, please call 1-800-825-8339 today. We will be pleased to send you information on our various programs.

If you wish to share the American Dream with a teenager from another country; if you wish to learn about another culture; if you wish to promote better understanding by bringing the future leaders of the world together, please call today. World peace begins with understanding and understanding begins with you.

over last year's winning team

BY JANENNE FROATS

Saturday's humidity made for a sweaty day, even for spectators while nearly 30 teams competed in the three on three basketball tournament held at the Boyne City Middle School. With only twelve minutes between games, all the participants pushed it to their limit until victors were declared by the final hoop.

The playground was temporarily transformed by the presence of registration tent, Boyne Valley Lions P.M. trailer for concessions, lawn chairs and music.

Organized by the efforts of Rob Nue, Russ Harvey and Tom Neidhammer, the competition went smoothly. "It was virtually injury free," Harvey said.

Players were separated into six different divisions, four for men and two for women.

The upset of the day left

Ground Crew sweeping first place over last years defending champs in the Men's Competitive Division as the two teams almost repeated their performance of last year.

Team work and youth seemed to be contributors to the victory as brothers Kevin and Kyle Fitzpatrick teamed up with John Thompkins and John Ruddell to maneuver their way into the winning spot.

Other first place teams in the men's categories included Bob Mathers Ford in the Men's Recreational Division, Four Play from the 15 to 17 year old guys and the 12 to 14 year old Intimidators captured the winning spot in their

The number of women who turned out to shoot their way through the bracketed competition was down compared to the men. "The girls over 14 agreed to play in a nament is out of the red.

single bracket," Harvey said.

He noted that this would give younger players a chance to "play against some ball players they are going to learn from."

The condensing of divisions proved to add to the sweltering action as a three way play-off was required before the Courtrets gained their first place title. Kristin Harvey, Dawn Archambault, Christina May and Kris Crozier pulled together for the first place finish.

Meanwhile, the younger girls played their own game. B.C. Youth took the title in the 12 to 14 year old division.

After losing money on last years tournament, the registration fee for each team and the sponsorship by Boyne Valley Lions Club P.M., Subway and an anonymous gift by an interested individual, the tour-

Habitat For Humanity gets ok to build first home in Boyne City

Boyne City may be seeing former President Jimmy Carter showing up around town to help build a new home after the planning board approved some lot splits for the Boyne City Housing Commission.

The lot splits which will reconfigure some city owned lots on Jefferson, Arthur and Jersey Streets will allow the Housing Commission to donate one of the lots to the Northwest Michigan Habitat for Humanity so they can construct a low cost home for some family to

If the home is constructed, said Todd Sorenson, then the city will try to include other homes on lots included in the split action taken Monday evening.

After the split is approved by the city commission, there will be four lots that will become available

The planners put some conditions on the splits asking that the Habitat group pay for all survey work for the entire parcel, and pay for the development of an access road to the lots as they are developed. The first lot which will be given to the group would require a 20 foot alley be opened and to city specifications so the city could maintain it like a city street. Planners also asked for a cul-de-sac turnaround at the end of the city owned property be developed when the alley is created.

If any utilities have to be moved because of the widening of the alley, that would also be covered by the building group.

The group builds homes at the most reasonable prices possible, always looking for donations of labor, materials, and land. This would be the first Habitat for Humanity home in Boyne City.

The planners also approved lot splits for Ken Hunt, Denver, Colorado, who asked permission to create two 99 foot by 145.5 foot lots out of three 66 foot by 145.5 foot lots on North Park Street.

The other lot split was for John Buick Real Estate who asked approval to split and reconfigure two parcels at the corner of Front and Second Streets into four lots, All would be slightly larger than the requirements for lot sizes within the city.

Planners also approved a request that will allow a second story addition to be constructed on a house within the Maple Shore Association, located on Michigan Avenue.

The request drew some concerns for the planning body as the property presently has a non-conforming, pre-existing use. Several years ago, the planners approved an expansion of the homes within the association to a larger size. They continued that rule by saying that any home within the association could add a second story provided it does not exceed over 250 square feet.

In this case, the owner of the home, James Blackburn, will have to figure out a way to decrease the second story slightly as he has constructed a previously approved chimney on his site.

Planners want to be sure future additions will follow the same

One question that came up in the discussion was the past expansion granted based on the footprint of the home on the site or was it based on the total amount of footage allowed in the home.

Planners approved the ex sion for a second story for the home and recommended it be approved by the City Commission which is overseeing the planning body on pre-existing, nonconforming uses within the city.

slipped by the defending champs for first.

Campaign organized by snowmobilers for M.S. started now thru fall

Michigan's Northwest Lower Peninsula, that area west of the I-75 corridor extending from Gaylord to Mackinaw City, has been organized for several years in the promotion of snowmobiling in the area. Stressing early, heavy snowfall and consistant cold weather to retain the snow, their annual rally the week after new years attracts snowmobilers from around the midwest.

The rest of the year is getting iustifiable attention now. Beginning with the start of Gaylord's Alpine Festival, July 16 and ending Labor Day with the "Big Mac" bridge walk at Mackinaw City, a fundraiser is planned to help support the programs of the multiple sclorosis society. This will draw attention to the exceptional vacation/recreational activities and events that the "Northwest Lower" offers during the springsummmer-fall seasons. "It's natural for our area to stress all seasons among the tourist public. We literally have everything at it's finest year-around. There are things to see and do at or near one of the "Northwest Lower" communities every week of the year," noted Joe Breidenstein of Walloon Lake, Coordinator,

For a donation to MS of $1.00 or more, you will be eligible to win prizes of dining, lodging and other worthwhile gifts appropriate to a seasonal activity the area offers. Many businesses throughout the area, Gaylord, East Jordan, Boyne City, Boyne Falls, Walloon Lake, Charlevoix, Wolverine, Indian River, Alanson, Harbor Springs, Petoskey, Pellston, Levering and Mackinaw City, will have donor slips to fill out with your donation for a chance to win a prize. So, if your are travelling north or planning a trip this summer, head for the northwest lower. Enjoy Michigan at it's finest and invest $1.00 or more to help the MS Society's research and education programs. You'll enjoy vacationing in the area, and might win a prize to introduce you to another spectacular season in this vacation paradise. Information can be obtained by calling the MS Society Michigan office at 1-800-243-5767. # Readers around the horn just call

Reg Sharkey 347-2825

Over the years that I've been writing an outdoor column, around thirty, I get numerous calls from my readers who have problems with wildlife. Some want to know how to handle a skunk problem or what kind of a bird they are siting; how to handle poaching or trespassing problems, and sometime they relate interesting wildlife observations and encounters.

I do my best to satisfy their questions, and where appropriate refer them to an agency or individuals who can help them.

But, mostly, the calls I get are in the realm of sharing my knowledge of wildlife with them.

Over the past winter, whenever I was in Boyne City to deliver my copy to the Charlevoix County Press, I noticed a white duck amid the hundred, or so, mallards resting and waiting for handouts on the roadside pond just passed Glens. It wasn't an albino mallard for the eyes were dark, not red as in true albinism.

Then recently Hugh Gidley, living on the lake just off M-66 in East Jordan called to tell me that a hen mallard had a brood of eight ducklings and one was white; that last year the same hen also had a white duckling. Could that one

13th annual rendezvous in East Jordan

have been the same one I saw in the pond at Boyne City?

It should be noted that most of our domestic ducks stemmed from the wild mallard.

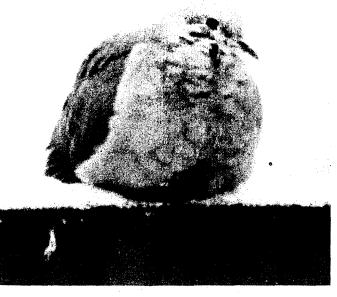

Then, too, Harrison Elzinga of Charlevoix, who lives across from the high school said that mourning doves nesting in a spruce tree on his property had a young one (squab) fall out of the nest and that the old birds continued to feed it on the ground.

I told him this is not unusual. Mourning doves build flimsy nests composed of small sticks and twigs laid on a horizontal limb in a hodge-podge manner. So eggs and squabs falling from the nest is not unusual.

Any mortality resulting from poor nest building habits is overcome by the sheer number of broods reared successfully. A nesting pair will rear 2-5 broods in a nesting season, and the young, unless fed on the ground, as mentioned, will fly from the nest in around 14-15 days. Sometimes the old birds will be incubating a new clutch of eggs while still feeding maturing squabs.

An interesting thing about mourning doves, as well as rock (barn) pigeons is that the first feeding of newly-hatched squabs is called "pigeon milk." And that's what the crop-processed weed seeds, grain, berries look like when they are regurgitated into the gullets of the squabs. And as the squabs mature the crop contents becomes courser until near fledging time it is the whole unprocessed grain.

Prolific, and resourceful, mourning doves are hunted in 31 states. But here in Michigan unwarranted sentiment keeps them on the songbird list. Seems we help rear them and states to our south, the nearest Indiana, harvest them.

Addendum: Yes we do have a few mourning doves that winter over around these parts. But the majority migrate southward into the states that allow dove hunting.

Endangered bird shows population increase

The 1991 count of the endangered Kirtland's warbler has shown the bird's largest population increase in 30 years.

A total of 347 singing males were located in six Michigan counties, along with one warbler in Wisconsin. This represents a 31 percent increase from 1990 and the largest count since 502 singing males were found in 1961.

"We believe this is a good sign for continued recovery of the Kirtland's warbler population," said Department of Natural Resources Director Delbert Rector. "The 1.3 million trees that were planted this year under the Kirtland's warbler management program will provide habitat in six to 10 years, helping sustain the birds in the future."

"Several of those plantations showed increases in the number of birds using them this year," added Wildlife Division Chief Karl Hosford. "Almost 25 percent of the warblers this year were found in areas specifically planted as nesting habitat for them."

The entire world's population of the bluegray and yellow warbler nests in the young jack pine forests in the northern Lower Peninsula.

The six counties where warblers were found this year and the number of warblers in each for 1991 are: Alcona-7, Crawford-65, Kalkaska-7, Ogemaw-17, Oscoda-226, and Roscommon-7.

Crawford and Oscoda Counties account for 84 percent of the birds. Sixty percent of the total are in an area in Oscoda County that was burned in 1980, known as the Mack

The survey is done each year during a 10-day period in the first two weeks of June. The 1991 survey was a joint effort with the Michigan DNR, U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, U.S. Forest Services, Michigan Department of Military Affairs, and citizen volunteers.

Buckle up, make my day

Motorists who won't buckle up for their own sake, or who don't encourage their children to buckle up, may want to do so for the sake of the local police officer.

Traffic crashes are America's number one killer, especially among young people. When crashes involve an unbuckled teen, it's the local police officer who must knock on a door at 2:00 in the morning and ask someone's parent to come indentify the body. And that's the worst job a police officer has.

Think of your worst day at work. If you could have solved it by simply buckling your belt, would you have buckled?

Safety belts double your chances of surviving a serious crash, and lessen the odds that a police officer may knock on your door at 200 a.m. So if you won't buckle up for yourself, or for your family, do it for the local police officer. It's the easiest way to make someone's day.
