County road commission asks for study, road to Walloon to become county road

M-75 trunk line may be extended to Charlevoix

Charlevoix County Road Commission head Richard Fochtman outlined plans the road commission is asking the state to consider as it wants to change the state highway route of M-75 from going to Walloon Lake and make it continue through the business district of Boyne City, then continue up Lake Street to Michigan Avenue and on over to U.S. 31 just north of Charlevoix.

While Fochtman indicated that this idea is still preliminary, he has asked officials from the Michigan Department of Transportation to look into the possibility.

Fochtman said the funding for the road could come from a section of economic grant funds that have been allocated by the state several years ago which allow for county roads to be taken over and made into state trunk lines.

Fochtman also said the road commission is trying to link Boyne City's Air-Industrial Park with East Jordan's Industrial Park for another portion of the funds.

He then said it may take several years for the change to be approved but said the road commission is gently pushing for a faster approval.

As to the road to Walloon, it would become a county road and would fit into the criteria of a state turn back road which would allow for other funding for improvements and maintenance.

If the state agrees with the road commission, Fochtman said the amount of money generated by having M-75 go all the way to Charlevoix would allow a possible trail along side of the road from Boyne City to Charlevoix.

He said the county presently has a 99 foot right-of-way for the entire length with the exception of going through Horton Bay. He did not think that was much of a problem in getting the approvals.

Fochtman said that with the approval that state would be upgrading the road to carry more weight and would be spending about $150,000 per mile for the 14 miles to U.S. 31.

If the road is approved through the downtown area of Boyne City, it would be taken out of the city road criteria and would allow the city to expend money on upgrading other roads. The state would be taking over all maintenance, street cleaning, and possibly even snow removal. If the city continues to do the maintenance, it would receive a higher reimbursement rate from the state.

He added that there is still a lot that would have to be worked out to get the state to agree to the change, but the road commission has asked the study to begin. He said it could take three to five years before approvals are given.

Fochtman said the road currently has the highest traffic count of any road within the county, and that should have some bearing on the change.

In other action at the Tuesday noon meeting, Linda Christensen and Terry Lynch gave $1,000 in checks to the city to pay off the loan the city made to install lighting at Rotary Park. Christensen is head of the women's slo-pitch leagues while Lynch represented the men's leagues.

The city made the loan to the ball players with the stipulation it would be paid back within a ten year payoff time. The checks given Tuesday completely paid off the $10,000 that was loaned six years ago.

Both indicated they want to see additional lighting at the other ball field in the park some time in the future.

While the City Commissioners did not give a final approval, they seemed interested in a request from the Wally Byam Caravan Club to hold a mini rally of Airstream trailers in Veteran's Park September 10-11-12, 1993.

According to Fochtman, when the same group held a rally in Charlevoix they brought in about 200 trailers. He said they were well organized and told the commissioners that they helped the local economy greatly while they were in town.

With that remark, Commissioner Thelma Behling said, "If it brings people into Boyne City, it should be encouraged." The matter was turned over to the parks and recreations board for their approval.

City Manager Randy Frykberg said the trailers were the top of the line type of travel trailers and the group was mostly retirees.

City commissioners then heard a complaint from several Front Street residents who were wondering what could be done about boats being stored in front of the homes. Some of the boats have lines which are creating noise in the wind and keeping the residents awake.

The city said they couldn't do too much but would try to have the new owner of the marina operation comply with city requests concerning the storage of boats along the lake front.

Last year, the Harborage Marina Association had not allowed winter storage of boats on the lake front but have allowed the new owner to store boats on the property.

Residents were told to call the police when they were disturbed who will take action against the operator.

County growth continuing

Area schools increase enrollment

Area school enrollments are continuing to grow as the Fourth Friday Count of students at Boyne City Schools shows they are up 57 percent, East Jordan shows an increase of 21 and Boyne Falls an additional 13 students.

Specifically, Boyne City had the largest increase of the three schools with 606 students in the elementary school, 425 in the middle school and 332 for the high school.

In East Jordan, their elementary school has 579 students while the middle school is teaching 262 and the high school has 300 students this year.

Boyne Falls has 203 students in their elementary level while their middle school and high school has 132 students.

The Fourth Friday Count is used by the State Department of Education to determine reimbursements for state aid, and other programs if the school system qualifies. Currently, only East Jordan and Boyne Falls are within the guidelines to receive state aid.

News Briefs

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is once again reminding residents of the county that if they are going to be absent from their homes for any period of time, the department has a program to check on the homes in their absence. In order to participate, the homeowner must contact the sheriff's office in person to request the security check form or call the office at 547-4461 to request the form be sent to them. The form must be re-submitted every year and residents should be reminded the form does not take the place of private security systems, just adds to the coverage.

Tired of finding out your property is being hunted upon without giving permission? The sheriff's office has a form which can be used by the property owner giving the permission to hunt. It is available at any of the sheriff offices throughout the county.

Anticipating a larger amount of recipients because of manufacturing plant closings, the slow economy and other inflationary reasons, officers of the Boyne City Community Christmas are looking for donations that can be used to purchase foods and other items for the expected higher numbers of families that are in need. Checks can be sent to Buz Walls, Care of the First Presbyterian Church in Boyne City, at 401 South Park Street.

The state legislature is considering a change in the way the Presidential Primary voting requirements. According to Ralph Ostling, the changes he would like to see include the declaration of party preference the day of the election instead of the 30 days before the election. The changes may be made to increase the number of voters and to eliminate confusion about the declaration process. With four running for the office on the democratic side and one on the republican side, the change could sway who the democrats would have to nominate.

Now that leaf burning is banned in Boyne City, Police Chief Randy Howard said that some burning will be allowed. Only brush and twigs can be burned, provided it is in an approved container and the police department gives an approval each time the burning is started. Howard added that if any complaints are called in, the burning will have to be extinguished. Permits for burning can be made by calling the Boyne City Police Department by phone. Permits will be issued if the burning will meet current DNR conditions as to wind, dryness and other factors.

Gettel named assistant chief

Boyne City Police Chief Randy Howard named Officer Jeff Gettel to become the new Assistant Police Chief. The position has been vacant since Howard was promoted from assistant chief to chief when John Talboys retired.

Howard announced the promotion at the Tuesday noon meeting of the Boyne City Commission

General store named to historical register

Horton Bay's General Store is now listed in the National Register of Historic Places according to Patrick Andrus, a historian with the National Register of Historic Places.

The store was named, in a large part because of novelist Ernest Hemingway who spent his youth and summers in the Horton Bay area and Walloon Lake. Hemingway wrote about the two story frame building with its peaked roof as well as the community in one of his short stories, Up In Michigan.

The 115 year old building was said to be historically and architecturally significant, particularly the locale according to Andrus.

The store was helped by Bill Ohle, Sara Gay Dammen as well as the present owner Gloria Wyn and Melissa Creasey along with a large group of local supporters who filled out forms and did all of the paperwork necessary in order to become listed.

"We are absolutely delighted" said the owners after working about a year to get the store on the register.

Members of the Boyne Falls Polish Festival Committee gave the Boyne City Ambulance Department $1,000 to be used for equipment and other items they need. Giving the check to Henry Erber was Gert Niedling, Della Sevinski and Geneva Towne. The Festival Committee has given other money out as well based on the profits from the Polish Festival. Some of these include Camp Quality, the fire departments of Boyne Falls and Boyne City as well as the Boyne Falls Schools. According to Erber, some of the funds donated will be given to the Fire department's drive for the Jews of Life campaign which is still short of it's goal.

World traveler, Joey Arbaugh and East Jordan Garden Club Program Chairperson, Cyg Riley comment on the many questions raised by Club members after the Antarctic presentation.

EJ Garden Club news

Unforgettable pastel sunsets and intriguing wildlife were highlights of the Antarctic adventure taken by East Jordan Garden Club members at their September meeting, as Joey Arbaugh described a trip around Cape Horn and throughout parts of Antarctica. Forty Club members felt Ms. Arbaugh's love of travel and unexplored places, which she credits to her mother and her father, the late Mort Neff. Slides and a narrative of the trip taken by Joey and her sister, two years ago were the featured program which followed the monthly business meeting.

President Shirley Butcher conducted the September meeting in which members approved the sponsoring of a Federated Garden Club sanctioned flower show in August 1992, and the preparation and planting of a perennial bed at the municipal boat launch.

Farmers Market Chairperson Bernie Grieg was commended for her work, as she gave the annual report of record participation at the Friday markets.

Finally, members approved a new slate of officers for 1991-1992. These include: President, Elinor VanDyke, Vice President, Thora Kotovich, Recording Secretary, Debbie Chappius, Treasurer and Corresponding Secretary, Evelyn Gidley. Officers will be installed at the next meeting.

Boyne Area United Way sets campaign goal

Boyne Area United Way, which last year reached only 96 percent of its $35,000 goal, set a new challenge to the community this year and is hoping to reach $30,000 as the goal for this coming United Way campaign.

The reduction in the goal was factored by the closing of the United Technologies plant which contributed almost $4,000 in donations from the company and through employee payroll deductions.

But even with the reduction, drive chairpersons Kris Leist and Penny Hardy are confident as the drive kicks off today they will be able to reach the new goal and continue to fund the many programs within Charlevoix County. The campaign helps fund 19 organizations.

The drive is trying to urge employers to set up payroll deduction plans, even if they only have three or four employees. Leist said the campaign has about 75 to 80 percent of business in the area already providing payroll deductions but hope they can fine a few more.

According to Leist, campaign members will start going door to door to businesses in the area asking for donations or payroll deductions. They will no be campaigning door to door to residents of the area.

Those wanting to donate to United Way can contact Kris Leist or Penny Hardy at the FMB-Northwestern Bank in Boyne City or by writing United Way, P.O. Box 10, Boyne City, Michigan 49712.

When the campaign reaches its goal, officials will be deciding how much money the various organizations will be getting.

Opinions

Another good idea

Every now and then, our county officials come up with some good ideas.

The Road Commission wanting to change some of the route of M-75 to Walloon and let it travel over to U.S. 31 by Charlevoix is one of their better ideas.

The change, if approved by the state, would provide some added funds to the road commission which is not funded by any tax on the residents. It gets its funds from the state gas "tax" which is distributed back to the county based on the amount of state and county roads it has to maintain.

But before all the changes can be enacted, Boyne City should also do some work like changing the names of the streets that would be used.

Right now, the main road changes from North Lake Street to Line Street to Groveland before it leads out of town on Michigan Avenue. The Boyne City - Charlevoix Road actually starts within the city limits and that should be changed to comply with the new state trunk line.

We suggest the city officials look at changing the roads of Line, and Groveland to Upper Lake Street.

Most people think it is called North Lake Street but that veers off to serve the homes along the lake front and then up the hill away from the lake to Court Street. Perhaps that street should be renamed to Lower North Lake Street.

We are sure the name change would create some problems, and as one of the businesses on Groveland, we would have to change our address, our stationary and many other things that have the old address on them. But we think that is a small change when you can compare it against the confusion the three street names would be if you had to give directions.

Thanks to the community

Editor,

A community celebration just occurred this past Friday, 9-20-91, in Old City Park to celebrate the end of the M-75 and Park Street Bridge Construction that we have all endured this past summer. Even though it has been a major inconvenience to everyone, we must all admit that it has been a beautiful improvement to our already beautiful city.

This celebration Friday was a huge success and proves what a small number of dedicated people can do in a short period of time by working together. The parade and beautification sub-committee of the Boyne area support group should be commended for an outstanding job. I would especially like to thank the following for their donations and their time and hard work:

Jottings

BY JIM SILBAR

According to a recent press release from the National Restaurant Association, statistics are now showing that pizza is fast becoming the number one choice when eating out.

Around this town, eating pizza is not anything new as we have a great number of restaurants and places where you can get a piece or a whole pizza. In some cases you can get as many as three without having to spend too much money.

Pizza, it seems, is slowly taking over the number one spot of favorites and is closing the gap on hamburgers as America's number one choice.

Back in 1990, hamburgers and cheeseburgers were included in 17 percent of all restaurant orders, dropping from 19 percent back in 1987. During the same three year period, orders including pizza rose from 12 to 13 percent. The gap has been reduced down to four percentage points according to the latest figures.

According to the association, hamburger orders have decreased seven percent while pizza was up by 12 percent between 1987 and 1990.

While this news may shock some red meat lovers, and farmers running feed lots, it's not real news to many folks as they have cut back on the amount of red meat they are eating. In our family, eating a pizza is equated with not having to cook.

Not that cooking is a chore, it is usually a matter of time. Sometimes it is quicker to get a pizza than it is to go home, look in the fridge, find something that is appealing to the rest of the family, and then cook it.

Somehow, it is much easier to just call up and say you want a pizza with all the trimmings.

And have them deliver it to the office or the home.

To some minds, the eating of pizza is also like eating a junk food. But when you look at what is included in a pizza, you can get a good source of protein, the cheese adds calcium and some minerals and vitamins, and the crust is made up of complex carbohydrates. One slice contains components of all four food groups, grain, vegetables, dairy and meat.

Those who don't want all the meat, can get it topped with just vegetables, but myself, I like pepperoni.

And, according to the release, I am not alone. In the U.S., customer counts at fast food pizza restaurants was up three percent last year compared to other fast food restaurants at only two percent.

Of course I still like hamburgers and will continue to go to those restaurants serving it.

But what I really like is a good steak. And what I really, really like might be some Maine lobster.

The only problem with those two items is that I can't find any local restaurant serving either at the price of a pizza or a hamburger.

Someday, when I get to be king, I will decree that fast food restaurants in my realm serve the type of stuff I would like. After all, when you are a king, you don't have to pay for the stuff you stuff. Someone else could do that.

That may be one of the reasons why everybody would want to become the king, at least for the day or the week.

Then the headaches would start as you try to figure out how to lower the taxes, maintain the roads and infrastructure, and still maintain a lifestyle you would like to be accustomed to.

The person who can figure all that out probably deserves to become the king.

Weighty Matters

When I read about the latest lusty thrust at Longevity, the words, "Do not go gentle into the good night", popped into my head. Clearly nowadays many older folks won't surrender to death, offer no resistance to it that is. Nor will they wait till the end, then rage against it as this echoing line of a mid-century poem by Dylan Thomas begs his dying father do. Current oldsters don't settle for railing at death; they go for getting a good strong grip on life, work on muscle to ensure that they do.

Where do they get it? With pumping iron, of course.

Medical surveys show that weight lifting is good for older folks. This news has been acted on with such vigorous enthusiasm by the grey-haired set that the medical community has been forced to pull back a bit. Doctors have not ceased to endorse it, but they press caution on it now.

Actually, plain old weight lifting still gets the go ahead by most doctors. What can do more harm than good for those in the upper age bracket they say, if oldsters aren't careful, is entering power-lifting competition.

What possesses well-seasoned, sensible senior citizens to get so involved with weight lifting? Most likely led by the "if some is good, more is better" theory Americans hold dear. And so older folks, retired from the working world but still feeling perky, have the time to devote to pumping iron. Then those that get pretty good at it, and feel still knitted together fairly well, no major unraveling occurring anyway, get carried away, get competitive, do themselves in.

I first learned of weight lifting as life-lengthening exercise, when I read the warning to late life athletes about possibly hurting themselves if they went in for competition. The warning came in a short news story buried beneath a long feature. Clearly doctors don't want to make a big deal about the problems encountered with the program.

And so we get mild messages like this from Dr. Robert Marcus of Stanford University Hospital, who says that those who do competitive power-lifting "can face complications."

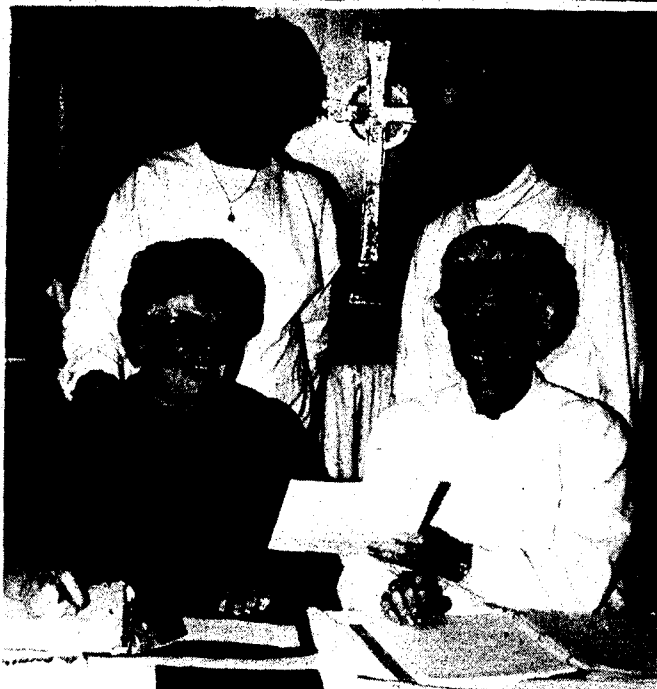

This soft suggestion is followed by a couple of others. But they get stronger as Marcus warms up to his subject.

"I think it may be foolhardy for an 80-year-old to do that," he says of power-lifting, then lightens with: "But it could vary by individual." But hear this: "I would not encourage any older person to really go in for something that is very heavy-duty."

He doesn't come right out and say so, but apparently he considers weight lifting "very heavy-duty", especially since this is followed by guidelines for oldsters who would take up pumping-iron. These include seeing a doctor, taking a stress test, and doing the weight lifting at a medical facility where the personnel can keep an eye on their reactions, their blood pressure in particular.

Thus Dr. Marcus ends up illustrating that he does have reservations about weight lifting. So do I. But I show mine by avoiding it. I'm not set up for weight lifting, have nothing but meager mush where muscles are needed to get a rise out of heavy discs. Once more I don't long to build a bunch of muscles. I'll stick with the "Silver Foxes" exercise program, a feather weight disc, led by Richard Simmons. This curly-headed moppet-like fellow gets me up and moving as much as I care to. He acts kind of silly, but silly sounds like jollier company as I head toward old age than muscle.

So neither weight lifters nor I appear slated to "Go gentle into that good night", but neither are we likely to rage at death when the time comes. The iron pumpers will probably be too pooped. And I, I'd like to exit laughing.

Ostling co-sponsors state property tax increase

Legislation designed to equalize property taxes between state-owned land and similar privately owned land has been co-sponsored by state Rep. Ralph Ostling, R-Roscommon.

"There are many instances of state land being assessed at a lower level and local assessors currently do not have the authority to raise it to match similar privately owned property," Ostling explained.

Under Michigan law, the State Tax Commission sets the value of all land under Department of Natural Resources control and local assessors have very limited authority to change it.

Under Ostling's House Bill 5163, DNR-controlled property would be treated the same as all other property, although the department could appeal if it believes the assessment does not reflect 50 percent of true cash value. In addition, DNR land could be sold for non-payment of taxes.

"Some property owners have had their taxes raised unfairly to cover the unrealistically low value placed on state land," Ostling pointed out. "This proposal establishes tax equity for everyone who owns land. Assessors would be obligated to assess DNR land to reflect the value of comparable parcels of property."

While the DNR does not pay property taxes per se, it does make a payment in lieu of taxes to local governmental units for land owned by the state and controlled by the department. This situation is a problem in many counties where the state owns large tracts of land, Ostling said.

Low vision screening clinic to be held in Charlevoix on Monday

The Michigan Commission for the Blind is sponsoring a free low-vision screening clinic in Charlevoix on Monday, October 7.

The low-vision clinic is designed to evaluate people who have already been examined by a vision specialist, but who continues to have difficulty reading normal print or seeing distant objects.

Specialists at the clinic will also determine whether low-vision devices will help the people evaluated maximize their existing sight.

For additional information about the clinic or to refer someone to it write or call the Michigan Commission for the Blind, 209 W. First St., Suite 102, Gaylord, MI 49735, (517) 732-2448 or 1-800-292-4200 toll free.

Cooking

WITH BEA SMITH

STIR-FRY

Stir frying is old but new; it was not until the last few years that the term stir-fry became popular. Our grandmothers heated up leftovers in the big iron frying pan, though I do not believe that they ever thought to start with raw vegetables and meats.

About 20 years ago everyone was buying a fondue pot, and many of us still have them in the back of the cupboard. Then the wok became the way to entertain, non-cholesterol oils were introduced and stir fry came into its own.

In my review of old cookbooks I do not find a stir-fry recipe until the early seventies. Books published before 1968 did not mention the word. My 1980 Goodhousekeeping Cookbook gives about three recipes for stir-frying chicken; explaining the procedure of slicing chicken breast, cutting crossways of the grain in 1/4 inch strips, stating that "Stir-Fry" meant (stirring quickly and frequently.) It seems that stir frying has really increased the sale of chicken breasts. I wonder what came first? The stir fry or the chicken breasts.

It seems that the real secret to good frying is to start with vegetable oil (many are non-cholesterol) or use the spray type. Be sure to have all of the ingredients prepared before you start frying. Fry the seasonings you wish like garlic, onions, celery first and remove them from the pan with a slotted spoon then add the vegetables and/or meats, putting the larger pieces in the pan first because they take longer to cook. Add vegetables that cook quickly, "Stirring quickly and frequently" until crisp tender.

Stir frying is in and I hope it is here to stay. It's such an easy, healthful and colorful way to serve our meats and vegetables. Here is a new classic from American Pork Producers.

PORK PRIMA VERA

Serves 4
1 pound pork tenderloin, cut into 2 x 1/2 x 1/8
2 cloves garlic, minced
1 tablespoon olive oil
4 green onions, sliced
1 zucchini grated into coarse pieces
1/2 pound fresh peapods
8-10 cherry tomatoes, halved and drained
1/2 teaspoon oregano
1/2 cup dry white wine
1/4 cup grated Romano or Parmesan cheese
2 cups fettuccine, cooked
In large frypan, saute garlic and pork strips in oil until lightly browned. Add vegetables and seasonings. Simmer for a few minutes, stirring until moisture is almost gone. Add wine and simmer to reduce liquid. Pour over pasta, toss all together with cheese. Serve immediately.

Our beautiful vegetables have come into their own with stir frying. Broccoli, cauliflower, cabbage, peppers even slices of radishes, and halves of cherry tomatoes and fresh mushrooms are easily stir fried. Zucchini is one of the best because it cooks so quickly. Try this next combination for a delicious lunch or supper.

GREEN BEANS WITH ZUCCHINI

1 med. can sliced green beans or partially cooked frozen or fresh ones.

4 slices bacon
1/4 C. butter or margarine
1 small onion, minced
2 med. zucchini, sliced 1/4 inch thick about 1/2 t. salt
1/4 t. pepper

In 12 inch skillet, over medium heat fry bacon until crisp; drain? crumble and set aside. Pour off fat. Wipe skillet clean. In skillet melt butter, cook onion until tender, stirring frequently and quickly until tender crisp; about 4 minutes. Stir in beans, bacon, salt and pepper just until beans are hot.

Cauliflower and broccoli are a good combination; add a little bit of sliced red onions. I like the mixed frozen packages for this they are just right for stir frying; don't forget red and green peppers and those delicious tender snow peas, they add color and flavor to any stir fry.

Grandmother made this next recipe though she did not call it stir fry.

SAUTEED CARAWAY CABBAGE

1 small head of cabbage
3 T. salad oil
1 t. caraway seed
1 t. salt

Coarsely shred cabbage. In a 5 quart dutch oven or 12 inch skillet over high heat in salad oil, cook cabbage, caraway seed and salt, stir fry until cabbage is tender crisp; about 10 minutes. Grandma would have a crust of cider vinegar to go with this.

Fried green tomatoes are not stir-fry, yet I cannot resist mentioning them at this time of the year when we have picked them green before an early frost.

FRIED GREEN TOMATOES

2/3 C. flour
1/8 t. pepper
2 t. salt
3 lbs. green tomatoes, cut in 1/2" slices
Salad oil

In a paper plate mix flour salt and pepper. Dip in the tomato slices and coat both sides. In a 12 inch skillet over medium heat in 1/4 cup salad oil, fry slices, a few at a time until golden on both sides and heated through. Drain on paper towels. You might want to cut this recipe in half. Serve at once.

How can you guarantee that you could replace your home?

No problem.

Auto-Owners Homeowners Policy offers optional guaranteed home replacement cost coverage for homes that qualify. It's broader coverage—so you'll never run out of money for covered losses. It may be more economical than your current policy that doesn't include guaranteed home replacement. Ramblers dominate Harbor in first win of season

The Ramblers found out they could put a whole game together last Friday when they played a hapless Harbor Springs team that was down to 16 players, some playing for the first time in new positions caused by the broken leg of the quarterback a week earlier that forced the cancellation of Harbor Springs game against Charlevoix.

Boyer took control of the game early with the return of team leader Kevin Smith who ended up with one of his best games in his career, running for 80 yards.

But that was overshadowed as he blocked several times for Roy Angel who ran for a fantastic 159 yards. His effort was aided by Mark Reynolds who added 36 yards in 6 carries. Also helping was Luke Hausler who carried the ball twice for 26 yards.

In the end, Boyne City took the win, 29 to 8.

Control was the word as the Ramblers took the ball on their first possession and moved down the field after taking the kickoff on the 31 yard line. They had four first downs in 10 plays good for 69 yards and Reynolds getting the touchdown. The extra point conversion was a pass that was also good giving the Ramblers their first scoring in the first half of games this season.

Boyer took the ball back on an interception when Nick Sharp grabbed the ball away from a Ram player.

Angel scored four plays later, running the ball in from the four yard line.

With less than a minute left in the first quarter, Ram Stuart Hutter took the ball off tackles and ran for 68 yards and a TD. The Ram pass for the conversion was good giving them eight points.

It was the only points the Boyne defense would allow for the night as the Ramblers continued to dominate the play. Only the running of Hutter gave the Rams any yardage.

But in the second half, the Ramblers shut off that door to yardage for Hutter as they figured out how to close down an inside trap play that was giving Hutter running room.

After what one team observer said was a great halftime talk by Coach Pat Klooster, the Ramblers continued the offensive drive. They took the kick-off and went 58 yards in eight plays before Angel took the ball in from the 14 yard line. The two point conversion pass to Reynolds was good giving the team another two points.

The last touchdown came as the defense caused the Rams to turn over the ball on their own 39 yard line as they failed in a fourth down and one yard attempt. Boyne took over and Angel ran the ball in from the 20. Ken Ordiway kicked the extra point making the score 29-8.

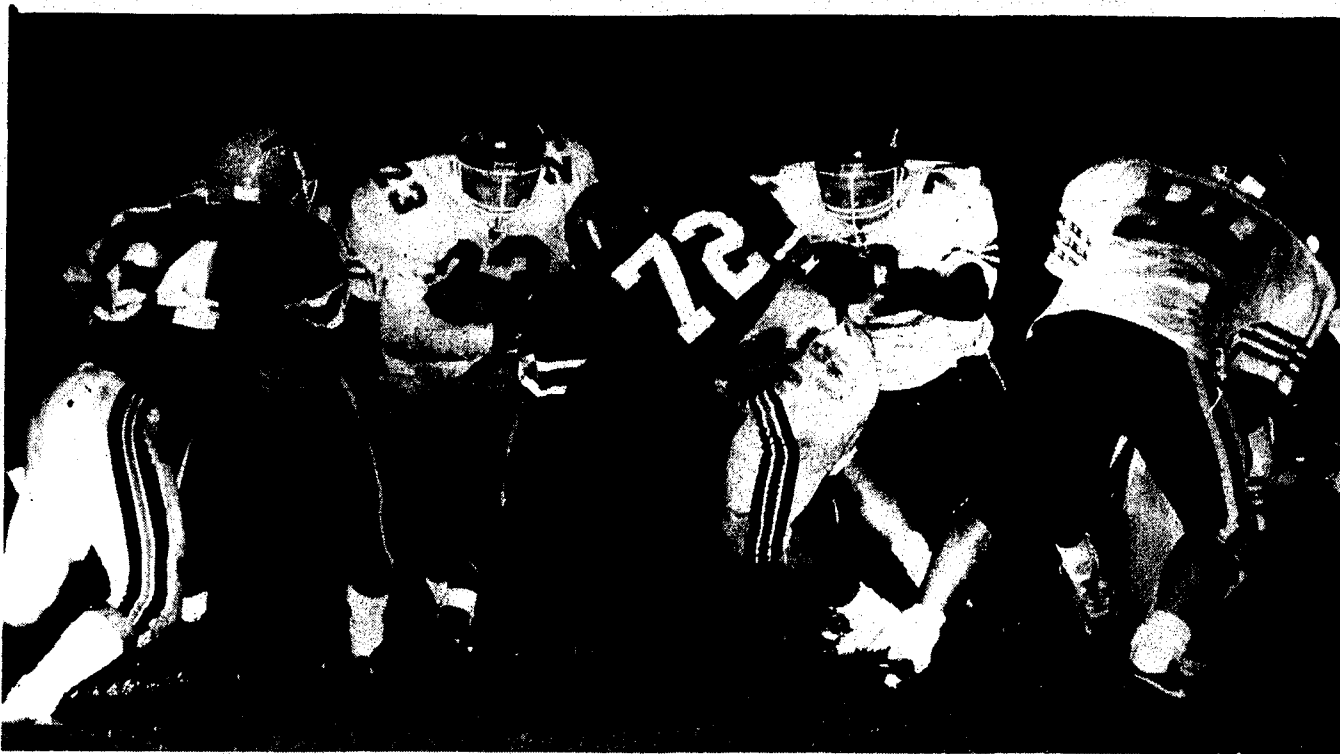

Credit should go to the defense said Klooster as they held the Rams to two first downs in the first half and none in the last half with Jason Joles leading the team as the defensive player of the week, having six tackles and three assists. He was helped by Smith who had 4 tackles and 5 assists while Andy Vondra and Steve Seelye each added more tackles. Sharp and Brandon Stadt each had an interception.

Klooster said this week's game was just opposite of last week against Mancelona as the team had 60 offensive plays and 33 defensive plays.

Klooster named Seelye and Angel as the offensive players of the week.

While the win was good for the team, Klooster said the toughest part of the schedule is coming up as the team faces St. Ignace, Traverse City St. Francis and Charlevoix the next three Fridays. He said he expects the team to play hard against all three teams and they might as they have enjoyed their first taste of victory this season.

They still want more team members said Klooster.

Boyer City's Kevin Smith busts through the Harbor Springs line as he made some yardage for the Ramblers in the first game the Boyne City team has won this year. He ran for 80 yards in the game while Roy Angel ran a career high 159 yards to help the Ramblers dominate the play.

Mistakes costs Devils in loss to Onaway

BY JENNI BARNETT

East Jordan found out last Friday how strong Onaway was and how important errors made cause their opponent scoring opportunities when they ended up with a score of 0-14 when the final whistle was blown.

The Devils' coach, Bob Rebec, said the two mistakes gave the Cardinals the chance to go ahead as they capitalized on those mistakes. Other than that, the Devils played well against the big, fast and good team, he added.

The Devils held up well defensively against the Cardinals, stopping a Onaway drive in the first quarter when Kent Gilmore and Mike Noirost stopped them from getting a first down.

But that play was nullified by the first mistake and the Cardinals continued on to the goal at 5:50 in the first quarter. They missed the extra point attempt.

It was another mistake in the second quarter that led to another Onaway TD when the Devils were moving the ball up field and fumbled at their 48 yard line. Onaway recovered and slowly moved the ball down the field as the defensive unit started to tighten up to hold them back.

But they went on to score again after several fourth and short plays. This time the conversion was good for two points as they ended up at the half with the score 0-14.

Coming out for the second half, the Devils were determined and put together a sustained drive down to Onaway's 10 yard line, but a pass attempt was intercepted and the drive was stopped.

From that point on, neither team could move the ball on a sustained drive as they played evenly.

Leading the team offensively was Cliff Russell who had 45 yards on 9 carries. Tom Zipp was 6 for 12 and 47 yards. Noirost rushed for 36 yards and caught four passes.

Defensively, Noirost led the team with 10 tackles while Tom Reid and Ross Miller had nine each.

This Friday, the team plays at home against Mancelona for the annual Homecoming game.

Lady Ramblers dumped by St. Francis, Elk Rapids

BY ANNETTE KNIPE

Boyer City's Lady Ramblers took their act out onto the road last week, but still ended up losing two more games. Their first game on Tuesday took them to Traverse City against St. Francis. Boyne had a hard time hitting the boards that night, they just couldn't get the ball to fall their way through the whole game. St. Francis won 56-34.

Hustling hard for the Ramblers was Kris Crozier with 11 points, 10 rebounds; and Abby McCrumb with 8 points. The whole team played a good game, they just had a hard time getting everything together and working out their problems.

On Thursday Boyne City left for Elk Rapids and all though the score says it was one of their worst games so far, the girls hustled very hard through out the whole game. The game got off to a bad start when one minute into the game one of the starting five hurt herself. Abby McCrumb found that one of the best ways to release frustration was by hitting the floor with her fist. Although she reentered the game shortly after, her hand was not up to par.

Thursday night seemed to be an off night for the Elks too, with two of their players being injured during the course of the game. One player dislocated her shoulder after being rolled over, and another player was cut above her right eye which later required stitches.

The final score was Boyne City 16, Elk Rapids 58. High scorers for Boyne that night were K. Crozier with 8 points, Kuheana and Williamson with 4 points apiece.

Boyer City's JV didn't do too much better on the road. They also lost both games last week. The score on Tuesday night against St. Francis was 16-46. The score for Thursday night's game against Elk Rapids was 28-62.

It's the season bow hunters love

With the courts

PURSuing THE ENDURING WHITETAIL

It's that time of the year again when North America's grandest big game animal, the cagy, elusive whitetail deer is being pursued by Michigan hunters.

Already, since the first of October, the modern day Robin Hoods with their sophisticated bows - looking more like a Rube Goldberg invention - are perched in their elevated tree stands waiting for a love-stricken buck to amble by.

Patience is the password for these bow twangers. If they did their preseason homework scouting out whitetail concentrations, and related movements, they have the advantage over the ensuing lead slingers, simply because there aren't so many of them barging through the boonies trying to scare up a deer.

Not being of the Sherwood Forest clan (archer Robin Hood's bailiwick) I hunt with a rifle: an unscoped, iron-sighted 30-06; and after sixty-some seasons (subtract a couple, or so, for time out for World War II) I still like to hunt whitetail deer. But every season as I grow older I realize I am coming to the end of my deer hunting days as my eyes aren't what they used to be, and I'll be damned if I'll wear glasses in the woods.

So much for crying in my beer. But, anyhow, I'm looking forward to November the 15th when Coxe's army of fluorescent clad, rifle toting nimrods will be out looking to put meat on the table and "horns" on the wall.

If this will be my last season I'll live with my memories: That long ago eleven point buck downed west of Cadillac on a frosty sunrise morning fifteen minutes after I left my vehicle; or the tall-spiked buck shot in the early morning on the swampy southern edge of Wilderness State Park, and the hour long drag over bare ground to get it to my vehicle; or the big ten-point buck shot in the Pleasant View area that weighed 195 pounds field-dressed; or the morning of the first day in the Weber Lake area when it was below zero with crotch deep snow and I didn't want to take a chance on freezing to death waiting for a buck so I filled my doe permit and went home to mamma; or more recently the standing 50-yard shot at a buck with the cartridge failing to fire. Dumbfounded I watched the buck give me a rear end tail-up salute as he disappeared into a nearby swamp. Then going out the same day in late afternoon and downing a six point buck as he streaked across a harvested corn field.

So, once more, on the morning of November the 15th I'll begin my sixteenth (or so) season. If I'm successful I'll tell myself this should be the last one; that I've had more than my share of pleasurable deer hunting.

So, I'll hang up or sell my Remington 30-06 and give the rest of the paraphernalia to a tyro deer hunter and live with my memories of the many seasons of trying to outwit, or out-luck Odocoileus virginianus, the magnificent white-tailed deer.

Addendum: Shirley Rudd of the beautiful Birchwood Farm Golf, Country Club and Property Owners Assn., near Harbor Springs, called to tell me about the two whitetail does she saw near her home. One had four fawns and another had three. She wondered if this was possible.

Yes, Shirley it is, but not too often. One or two is the usual norm. I've even heard about five. Then, too, does will adopt other fawns sometimes.

Back a few years ago, Reg Sharkey downed this 195 pound dressed out deer while hunting with his rifle. The bow season opens soon and while Sharkey says he is not a bow hunter but appreciates the harvest that all deer hunters make to the herd.

Shirley also says that the deer around Birchwood are raising hob with shrubbery. This is why we have the harvest of deer by hunting. Man must assume the role of a predator in order to control the proliferation of game animals. Hunting, so far, is the only solution.
