Boyne approves of Alliance - MSU combination

Boyne City Commissioners gave their approval to a proposed plan which would unite the Northern Lakes Economic Alliance and the Co-operative Extension Services of Michigan State University at their Tuesday noon meeting. Approval was given even though some members of the alliance don't think it is a good idea to see the two in partnership.

City Manager Randy Frykberg told the commission that putting the two together would be valuable towards getting new businesses to locate in the area. He said the two groups will be holding a final vote as soon as Thursday which would combine the two ser-

Executive Director of the Alliance, Tom Johnson, added that the two units together "Makes me excited about the extra services and expertise we could offer."

While commissioners agreed with the idea, one could not understand why the City of Charlevoix was objecting. She said they have always wanted to go it alone for their best interests and they should not want to have to pass up a terrific opportunity.

If approved by the Alliance Board of Directors, about the only thing that would change would be the added abilities to use information and expertise from MSU said Rod Cortright of the Charlevoix County Co-operative Extension Service. He said the service was trying to react to the needs of the community it serves and that he didn't think their would be any conditions set by the staff at MSU. He told the commissioners that he has never seen any direction come from MSU as to what he was asked to do.

But the City of Charlevoix is advising members of the Alliance to not join with MSU and at their city commission meeting held Monday, voted to withdraw if the two decide to join. According to a city official, it was felt the move would add to a loss of local control. Members feel that funding that has come from the state could be found locally from area manufacturers or some other source.

If the two are joined Thursday, then Johnson would become an employee of MSU and would still work under the guidance of the Alliance Board. MSU in turn would pick up some of the expenses of employment and provide university resources that could help companies decide to locate in Northern Michigan.

The two groups would also have to get approvals from the three counties involved, Charlevoix,

Emmet and Antrim. As of now, they only other area to join with MSU has been Ogemaw County where according to officials, the combination is working out and providing new opportunities for finding additional

Then Frykberg announced United Technologies has donated $10,000 to the Alliance that would be used for marketing Boyne City as well as for finding jobs for the displaced workers at the soon to close plant.

He also announced that the final paving of South Lake Street would be delayed until next spring. The project was supposed to be a two week project but the rains have caused construction delays to the extent that when the paving of the leveling course was completed last Saturday, there was too much water in the ground which is causing a spongy effect on the base coat. After discussions with the paving firm, it was felt the job could be completed next spring which would allow for the ground to dry out. Street Supertinendent Dennis Jason said that the street would be like North Lake Street over the winter and that some areas of sponginess would have to be replaced next spring if they don't hold up this winter. He said all of the other work, with the exception of seeding will be com pleted this fall.

In other action, the commissioners approved a request for the expansion of a non-conforming use for James Blackburn of the Maple Shore Association which will allow him to expand his unit and add a second story. This was the second time through for the permission, which had to be started again since he revised plans.

They also decided to leave as is a request from residents for the closing or barricading of an alley between High and Wisner Streets.

They also approved the wording which will be on the November ballot for the city which corrects some of the wording regarding the leasing of airport hangers at the city owned facility. The wording presently, according to the city attorney, would allow a 25 year lease from the point where it was approved by the voters in 1985. This means a person who may want to construct a hanger for the city, would only have about 20 years of lease before it reverts to city ownership. The wording will allow hangers to be constructed with the 25 year lease starting at the completion of the new hanger.

The hangers constructed would still revert to city ownership at the end of the lease period.

Frykberg then told members of the audience that the annual leaf and brush pickups would start

Boyne City Planners OK canopy, expansion of condo unit

Boyne City Planners approved a request which will allow for the construction of a second story on one of the nine units of the Maple Shore Association on the corner of West Michigan Avenue and John Streets Monday evening at the monthly meeting of the Boyne City Planning Board.

They also approved a request to allow a lighted canopy for the new Little Caesars building on North Lake Street. The building is being constructed for Roger Skiba, the holder of the franchise for the piz-29 restaurants in the area.

In making the approval for the addition to the Blackburn residence, planners noted that the issue has to be approved by the City Commission before coming back to the board for the final approval. Blackburn said he would wait until spring to start construction, although he had asked the second approval by the board be waived so that construction could begin yet this fall.

But planners approved the request and agreed to have the matter come back at their November meeting for the final ap-

The reason for the planners giving approval for a second time was the changes in the blue prints made by the owner after getting approval in August. Planners noted that previously, the Zoning Board of Appeals had granted the association approval to expand each unit by 250 square feet and had to consider whether the addition of a second story to the unit was limited by that action.

Planner Todd Sorenson told the planners he spoke with a member of the ZBA about the ruling and was told their intent was not to increase the footprint of the residence by more than 250 square feet and second stories were not considered.

Board members concluded that the project should be approved as they had no objections from residents and thought it would be an improvement to the location as other homes in the area are already two story. Walt Coyle said the change would be a net improvement to the community.

In approving the request for the Little Caesars canopy, it was noted that there were no letters or comments against the lighted signage. Sorenson said the building almost next to the store. Glen's Market had a canopy and this would comply with all requirements and would not look out of place with the rest of the area.

Planners then discussed whether or not they should change some of the rules covering Bread and Breakfast operations as the city has had a request for another B&B within 500 feet from another. Planners felt the rules were adequate and should stand as writ-

Sorenson then added that although the planning body did not agree to make a change, this shouldn't be taken as a committment in the future. He said the ordinance could be changed as everything is open to change.

At this point there was no consensus for a change by the board.

They also discussed the blocking of an alley between High and Wisner Streets and concluded they did not want to allow the residents to barricade off the alley because of potential liability problems that could be caused to

Board members were also given an update on the exterior lit signage at the new McDonalds and were told the city is trying to work out some agreement with the corporation which would cause the lighting to be changed so it is not in the eyes of drivers making the American Legion helps raise money for memorial

A special bingo, for the purpose of raising funds for the Korean War Memorial, Washington, D.C., will be held at the American Legion, Boyne City, Saturday, October 26th at 6:30 p.m.

This long overdue memorial will deservedly honor the 5.7 million veterans who fought in the Korean War. The memorial design depicts 38 eight foot tall, combat-equipped statues advancing in two lines toward a standard supporting a U.S. Flag. The standard will be in a semi-circular memorial plaza framed by a row of hedges and a wall with sculptures depicting the history of the Korean War. The memorial will be located southeast of the Lincoln Memorial, near the Vietnam Memorial. Those attending will honor the 54.246 American dead, the 103,284 wounded and 5,178 prisoners of MIA's.

Should consider working together

Of those advocating jobs and more jobs by trying to eliminate all taxation from businesses, we wonder if that idea would really work.

Assuming all of the business taxes were lifted, we feel that those businesses that could evade taxation, through various tax abatements and the like, would probably have created the business anyway whether or not taxes were an issue for siting a new plant.

Research of various tax abatements made to some manufacturing interests show that the abatements just did not provide the jobs, or add that much to a local company.

While we are not advocating that all tax abatements currently being used should be dissolved, we think there should be better and more compelling reasons as to why a company or business may want to start up north.

Even if there were no taxes at all on any new business, we feel that startups probably would not want to come up north unless there was some reasons as to why it would be a good move for a company to begin in the northern climes.

What we have to do is encourage new business, both manufacturing and retailing, is to figure out what those reasons are that make this area so attractive to tourism, and use those same ideas to urge business owners to start up here in this area.

Selectively, this area offers a lot of things that could be developed that would enhance the business climate.

From a governmental entity allowing a bulk loading terminal for freighters on Lake Charlevoix to the siting of a hazardous type of landfill in Hudson Township or the completion of the US 131 freeway. All are ideas that could help to bring additional business to the area and help create those jobs the leaders want to see.

These and more ideas are things our county planners should be trying to fit into the scheme of things that would possibly bring major manufacturing into the area.

We are not advocating any of the ideas, but rather the thought process to get the planners, the projectionists and See Opinions/Page 10

Wants justice

Editor

Individuals seeking justice in the small claims court know the frustration plaintiffs experience when they win the case but then discover it is almost impossible to recover the payment of judgement from the defendant.

HB4476 would provide solutions for this problem. Tough actions could be taken to enforce recovery, and if the defendant was not present the judge could order him to pay within 30 days. The bill would also raise the award limit from the current $1,500 to $2,000 in the small claims court.

State representatives should support this bill to provide quality justice for consumers

I finally figured out, after reading an article in the newsletter of Wisconsin Tourism Development, that this town needs a motto, a slogan of some sort.

My reasoning is that there is this extension agent over in Wisconsin that has collected all the mottoes from the various communities throughout that state and complied them into a book of sorts.

If that guy ever moves to a new job here in Michigan, he will probably want to do the same thing...collect the mottoes from the communities around the state and compile them into a book for Michigan.

So we need to be prepared for the day when someone starts compiling mottoes and slogans.

Sure, we used to be called Northern Michigan's Best Kept Secret, but that has fallen into disuse as we are now on the map of tourism.

What I think we need is something that will really set us off from the rest. We don't want to be known as Boyne the Beautiful simply because that name has been taken by folks at the other end of the lake.

But rack my brain as much as possible and all I can come up with is something like "Bodacious Boyne City". And that doesn't set well as the word bodacious is a southern word that none living here in the north would know what we would be talking about.

But maybe it's better than some that Wisconsin has found, like "Home of the Big Gust," "Butter Capital of the World," something else.

So I am thinking of a contest. No orizes, but if you send me a name that can be used by our community, I will put your name into Wait a minute, that might not be such a good idea as some people may not want their names known as the person who came up with "The Rumor Capital of the State," or some other slogan.

Well, okay, I will withhold the

No Meeting Of The Minds

The article's text says so, the pictured chap in natty duds topped by a shiny-toothed, satisfied smile obviously echoes the judgment that he, Dan Aslett, is "the world's No. 1 cleaning expert." Clearly not one who considers it wise to hang onto professional secrets (or much else either), he shares them in this piece entitled "Hassle-Free

Aslett states right off that to reach such harmony on the homefront, we have to pitch much of what we've picked up, crammed into our space. He calls this "dejunking."

As a hoarder of piles of ageing news pages plus sundry trinkets, evidence here shows that my housekeeping cries for dejunking. Still, where Aslett see junk, I find jewels.

To understand his view, the article, appearing in an insert (True Value Hardware co-sponsored) in USA Weekend section of the Detroit newspapers, indicated he earned his title cleaning commercial buildings. He parlayed a project to cover his college expenses into a sixteen-state cleaning empire now employing 1300 workers who clean 30 million square feet of floor every day. So he knows efficient set-ups for cleaning commercial space, and figures they'll fit, be warmly received by maintainers of private

Now to what Aslett says about why and how to dejunk.

So much of your stuff passed away years ago, pass it along to others or the trash," he advises.

That unflattering view of what we hang onto is just for openers. Then he gives specifics on how to unload it.

He recommends for the process of dejunking, getting up and getting at it at 5:00 a.m. He says folks are the most cold-hearted then. He also recommends playing peppy music while we're at it - a Sousa march for instance.

The music makes sense, but as to the cold-heartedness at 5:00 a.m., perhaps that's true of him. but for a whole bunch of us, numb is more like it. My body and I feel I'm a morning person, but to us, that hour is still nighttime. Even with big slugs of caffeine, assuming I can locate my mouth to pour the liquid in, I can't imagine being capable of making any decisions about anything at that time of day.

Moving right along, next get four boxes and label them "Junk, 'Charity", "Sort" and "Emotional withdrawal." I get the three, but the last puzzles me; no, it purely Aslett says not a word about what it means, or what goes in this box. Is it for stuff I know it's silly to keep but can't bear to part with? Or, for what I'm planning to pitch, but not yet? I wonder if he's making fun of me.

Whatever, I have to give the guy credit for making me look at my collection. None of it is stored on the floor, but most days, some of it slides there at least once. Usually I cause that with a careless movement. But then, sometimes it just takes sneezing to topple things over.

I know slippage like this wouldn't occur if I pitched stuff, like a bond paper box that's clearly been stepped on.

But there's much worth saving, such as bright tin boxes of all sizes once holding gifts. Colorful clutter I figure. Then there's a handcarved train car my daughter gave me years back, a sailboat carved and rigged by my father-in-law 50 years ago, and, of course, many splendid news clips too.

Junk? No way, Donny boy. Your stuff may be junk. My stuff enriches, delights me. It may be dusty but it's dear.

I don't mind that you've made a success out of the commercial building cleaning business. I wish vou continued success too. And maybe your ideas appeal to some home housekeepers. Some might consider them a blessing, in fact.

As for me, I'll pitch that bent box, just to show I'm not mad, except for that fourth box. But perhaps it's best I never know what you had in mind, given our differing views.

Hospital building fund receives Frey grant

The Frey Foundation has approved a grant of $150,000 to the Charlevoix Area Hospital building

"We are so pleased at this generous grant," said Dr. Jeffrey Porter, D.D.S., general campaign chairman. "With this wonderful support, all of our volunteers will certainly be motivated to raise the remaining dollars to meet our $1.4 million goal."

The first $75,000 payment on the Foundation's grant will be made in December, 1991. The second $75.000 payment, scheduled for December, 1992, is structured as a "challenge" contingent upon Charlevoix Area Hospital completing a successful campaign.

The Frey Foundation realizes that Charlevoix Area Hospital is a vital provider of health services for the Charlevoix/Antrim area. We are pleased to be of help to both ensure continuation of the hospital's services, and its future," stated John Frey, a Charlevoix resident and Trustee of the Frey Foundation.

The hospital campaign, which began in June, has raised $1,348,000 to date. Another week of soliciting in the Charlevoix area and outlying communities remains in the planned campaign period.

The campaign is to raise approximately one-half of the dollars necessary to build a new surgical facility, remodel the obstetrical unit, and provide larger waiting areas for the emergency and admitting departments. Richard Krueger, hospital administrator. "We want to bring our hospital in line with the kind of services it will be most appropriate for us to provide into the next century."

Both Porter and Krueger expressed their appreciation for the demonstration of support for the project shown by the Frey grant.

The Frey Foundation was established in 1974 by Ed and Frances Frey. It is a private foundation with assets of approximately $60,000,000. The Foundation makes grants for projects focused on critical and emerging needs in education, human services, health care, the arts and the environment in greater Grand Rapids and selected areas of Northern Michigan.

Mr. Frey was long time chief executive officer of Union Bank (now NBD) in Grand Rapids, and founded Foremost Insurance

Follow these safety tips for a safe Halloween

Halloween "Trick or Treat" activities are happily anticipated by many young children. District Health Department No. 3 would like all parents to read the following safety suggestions.

Warn children not to eat any of their treats before they get home. Examine all treats carefully before allowing children to eat them. Some local medical facilities will xray treats for foreign objects at no

Look for costumes, masks, beards, and wigs labeled "Flame "Resistant." Although these items could still catch fire, such labeling indicates that they will resist burning and should extinguish quickly once removed from the ignition source. Flimsy materials and outfits with big, baggy sleeves or billowing skirts should be avoided to minimize the risk of contact with candles or other sources of ignition.

Make or buy costumes light and bright enough to be clearly visible to motorists. For greater visibility in dusk or darkness, costumes can be decorated with reflective tape. Reflective tape is usually available in hardware, bicycle, and sporting goods stores. Children should also carry flashlights to see - and be seen - more easily.

Costumes should be short enough to prevent children from tripping and falling. Children should wear well fitting, sturdy shoes; mother's high heels are not a good idea for safe walking.

Hats and scarves should be tied securely to prevent them from slipping over children's eyes.

Swords, knives and similar costume accessories should be of soft or flexible material.

Smaller children should always be accompanied by an older responsible child or an adult. All children should use the sidewalk rather than walk in the street, and they should WALK, not run, from house to house. Children should be cautioned against running out from between parked cars, or across lawns and where ornaments. furniture. or clotheslines present dangers.

Children should only go to homes where residents have outside lights on as a sign of welcome. Children should not enter homes or apartments unless they are accompanied by an adult.

Those receiving trick or treaters should remove anything that could be an obstacle from steps, lawns, and porches. NUTS

The American Indians appreciated the food value of nuts and they gathered large quantities; they knew where the nut trees were and might travel some distance for them. Then when the pioneer was cutting down trees for his cabin he would leave a few promising nut trees that grew near by. In the southern half of Michigan's lower peninsula, hickory, walnuts and butternuts were plentiful, so hickory nut cakes kept cropping up in the old recipe books. Hickory nuts do not seem to be grown commercially, probably because they are so difficult to gather, crack-open and to remove the nut meats. Hickory nuts cannot be cracked with a nutcracker. One needs a hammer and a large stone or anvil, though those of use who have done this kind of nut-cracking say, "They are worth

My friend, Anne Jenkins has given me a jar of walnut meats from the trees in her yard for a number of years; and how I appreciate them; knowing about all the work it took to prepare them. I love them scattered on my morning cereal.

Nuts provided a way of socializing for our pioneers. They had the pleasure of collecting them during autumn days with friends, the cracking of them around the open fireplace during the long winter evenings and there were chestnuts to roast in the ashes before the blight killed most of the chestnut trees. We are now patiently waiting for them to return. We do not have the pleasure of gathering our own nuts, however we do have a very good variety to choose from at our supermarkets. Most of them, or all, are commercially grown and harvested.

Here is a tip: Take your everyday crisp garden salad and add the delicious crunch of nut meats, using almonds, pecans or walnuts; a special dish for your family. Take some along on your picnic. Or just add pecan halves to lettuce, sliced red onions and sliced fresh mushrooms, you'll be glad you did.

Ramblers take Devils in renewed rivalry, 34-20

If there is one thing to be said about the football game last Friday between Boyne City and East Jordan, it was a good chance for a rivalry to grow with teams that are totally even as far as ability.

That Boyne City won, 34-20, shows that for almost all of the game, both teams were in the contest. This was the second win for Boyne this season and while they went home the winner, the East Jordan Devils could also hold their heads up high.

Boyne City coach Pat Klooster gave praise to both teams although he said Boyne came out on top because of the team play all during the game.

The Ramblers also had a great amount of help with the running of iunior Kevin Smith. He scored three touchdowns behind some outstanding blocking by the offen-sive line. Smith ran for 121 yards during the game as the Ramblers avenged a loss last year to the Red Devils.

The game is turning out to become one of the great rivalries high school football is known for Devils' Coach Bob Rebec said afterwards, even though he was disappointed with his teams performance.

His team evidently figured this was going to be a cakewalk against the Ramblers but when Boyne City's Tim Jankowski recovered a fumble early in the game, they knew they were in a real contest.

The fumble set up the first scoring drive for the Ramblers and ended when a Bob McCullough to Brandon Stadt touchdown pass was completed and he ran, breaking tackles along the way, for the first score of the game. The extra point attempt failed.

But the Devils came right back

Boyne City's defensive work tied up Lyman Harris on this play during the match-up. Harris eventually broke away later in the game to a crowd thrilling run to set up a Devil touchdown.

Be sure to listen to the adding 6 points to their half of the scoreboard when Mike Noirot ran the ball into the endzone on a 30 yard scoring drive. The point after attempt did not make it, and left the score tied for a few moments in the first quarter.

Noirot led the team again a few plays later and scored his second TD on a six yard plunge about four minutes into the second quarter to go into the lead 126.

With just under a minute left before the half, Boyne's Smith also took a plunge from the one yard line to go back into the lead after Mark Reynolds ran into the endzone for the two-point conversion.

In the second half, Smith connected again about halfway through the third quarter but the Devils got to work and brought the score almost even when Lyman Harris ran up field on a 21 yard touchdown run. This time the Devils made the two point conversion leaving them only two points

About this time the misting rain had stopped giving the quarterbacks an opportunity to start throwing the ball but Rambler Ken Ordiway just intercepted ad Devils pass to end another scoring

Boyne then took over in the fourth quarter and scored two more touchdowns, another by Smith and a pass to Jason Joles.

Klooster noted that his spotters found a hole on the left side of the line that the Devil defense wasn't able to stop so he sent plays in using that advantage. The plays worked giving the team six-seven yards each time. The Devils were not able to see what was going on so they had a hard time trying to adjust to stop the runs through the left side of the line.

Offensively, Boyne City had an excellent night with Smith's 121 yards rushing, followed by Mark Reynolds adding 71 yards. Mc-Cullough completed five of eleven passes for 83 yards and two touch-

East Jordan offensively was led by Cliff Russell with 94 yards while quarterback Tom Zipp hit three of ten attempts for 50 yards.

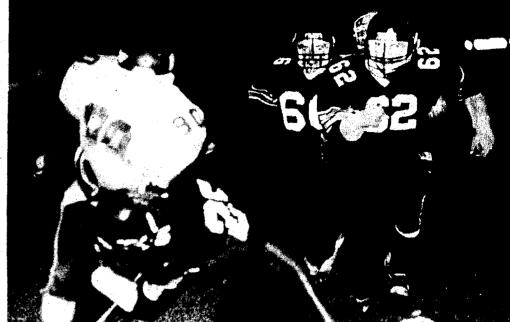

Defensively, East Jordan's Mike Muma had 12 tackles, Joe Brennan 11 and Enos Bacon tackled 9.

For Boyne City Andy Vondra took the first hit honors with 12, Smith and Stadt each had 7 while Jankowski and Reynolds had 5

This week, Boyne City faces another county rival, Charlevoix in their Homecoming contest while the Devils face Traverse City St.

EJ girls lose to Kalkaska

BY JENNI BARNETT

In a low scoring, but tough game, the Lady Devils took on the Kalkaska Blazers only to lose 35-

Dwanya White scored first for the Devils and that started both teams trading baskets. At the end of the first quarter, Kalkaska was up by one point, 8 to 7.

Danielle Looze started hitting in the second quarter, but the Blazer team started to hit better taking the lead up 20-15.

In the third quarter, Carrie Gee, Looze and White brought the team close, only two points behind. But Kalkaska kept out in front even with scoring by Looze and White, although not enough to take the lead.

Looze ended up leading the team scoring with 16 points and 17 rebounds while White added nine and 10 rebounds. Carrie Gee added three points.

Cellular 1 would like to invite northern Michigan bowlers to compete for the $600.00 guaranteed first place prize money in the new Cellular 1 185 and Under Super Classic Tour throughout the 1991-92 bowling season. A total purse of over $2500.00 in cash and prizes will be awarded at each tournament stop.

Seven Super Classic Tour stops are scheduled for the 1991-92 season beginning with the Super Classic kick-off Sunday November 3rd, 1991 at Timber Lanes in Traverse City. Other tour stops include: Caberfae Lanes in Cadillac on Sunday, December 1st, 1991, Boyne City Lanes in Boyne City, Sunday, January 5th, 1992, Wildwood Lanes in Traverse City. Sunday, February 2nd, 1992, Bellaire Lanes in Bellaire, Sunday, March 1st, 1992, Victory Lanes in Petoskey, Sunday, April 5th, 1992, and the Super Classic Championship Sunday, May 3rd, 1992 at Wildwood Lanes in Traverse City for those bowlers who participated in at least three Cellular 1 Super Classic Tour Stops

Both men and women are invited to participate with the only requirement being a 185 or under 1991-92 verified league average with a minimum of 21 games bowled. Almost $20,000 in total cash and prizes will be awarded throughout the Classic Tour season. A $45.00 entry fee will be charged for each regular season tour stop.

Everyone will bowl 5 games of qualifying, with the top 25 qualifiers continuing on in a special elimination format deciding the eventual champion for each event, with 1 in every 2 entrants cashing at each Super Tour stop.

This tournament will also benefit Listen Community Crusade Against Drugs in Northern Michigan. Listen C.C.A.D. funds and coordinates community based, drug prevention resource programs in over 30 school districts in Northern Michigan. Mainly working in junior & senior high schools, Listen C.C.A.D. programs supply drug education resources and services which include community awareness activities, antidrug use/abuse presentations, teacher training, in school assemblies and classroom drug abuse multi-media programs, videos, films, audio-visual aids, books, magazines and many other materials all carrying a no-use message. Listen C.C.A.D. is currently expanding it's program to include many more schools and communities in the upcoming year. Because of Listen C.C.A.D.'s involvement, alcoholic beverages will not be served in the bowling center during the length of each tournament.

The make reservations to enter this tournament, entries are available at your local bowling center or by writing to: Cellular 1 Super Classic Tour, P.O. Box 51, Cadillac, MI. 49601. For more information you may call tournament director George Corliss at 616-825-9938 after 6 p.m.

That long ago buck

It was the deer season of 1939 and I didn't have a firearm, having sold my Winchester 30-30, lever-action carbine, to another hunter because it had malfunctioned at a critical time the previous season.

Caught in a bind prior to that 1939 firearm deer season I waited too long and ended up with a rented, vintage Russian military bolt action rifle of World War I extrac-

So late one afternoon we hiked over to that area. Ernie started circling the marsh and I continued hiking down the road.

About five minutes later I heard Ernie's 32-caliber Winchester cut loose. Looking around I saw that huge buck bounding towards the road where he stopped on the brow of the hill.

Slipping off the safety of the Russian relic I took deliberate aim and squeezed off a round, and I saw the gravel kick up between his front and back legs-and then the big fellow was gone.

We tracked the buck across a winter wheat field to where he had crowded through a pine stump fence. There we lost the spore.

But that wasn't the end of the

About a week later Ernie went back before daylight to a nearby alfalfa field where the buck made occasional nighttime feeding

Getting there before dawn, Ernie settled down for a frosty wait on a runway leading from the alfalfa field to an aspen stand.

Ernie didn't have to wait long. Just as daylight made shooting possible Ernie heard a deer coming towards him across the frosty terrain - and there he was! One shot in the neck and the antlered monarch lay on the frosty

So a couple of Saturdays ago I had an auction and on one table of assorted collector items was the antlers of that big buck which I had mounted. Although it was only a nine-pointer, it was a massive rack with heavy beams, long brow points of knife blade proportions. It went for $150. It could have brought at least $300 downstate.

P.S. (Personal Salute) It isn't very often that I signal out an eating place for it's excellence of food, service, atmosphere, and in this case an aged man of giant proportions who has been eating there three times a day for thirty some years.

In our numerous trips to my sister's place east of Big Rapids, we stop at Reed City's Osceola Inn, a venerable century old structure to have a martini and partake of their excellent cuisine.

Most of the time you are greeted by Deb Uhlich, a gracious, brunette hostess. Seating us at the same window side table we were fortunate to get Laura Aukland, a shapely blue-eyed, blond waitress with a sunny personality.

After our martini we order from an extensive menu - and the food is excellent. And if we terry long enough we see this huge man shuffle in, one white-gloved hand holding a cane.

There was something about this aged 90 year old man that set him anart from the native population. And I knew he was a part of history

Finally one evening we had the privilege of talking to him. Lo and behold he was from Cadillac, Michigan, my wife's home town.

He had been a Great Lakes radio operator sailor and he was a living encyclopedia of the early history of Cadillac and the Great Lakes, pertaining to boat traffic thereon.

But the odd thing about this remarkable man, being alone in the world, he had come to Reed City, looked it over, liked it, and established bed and board at the Inn, where he has become an interesting part of that establish-

Mark Kowalske asked the planners to consider a request to not eliminate some downtown parking spaces next to his office. He told planners the state was considering asking the city to eliminate the spaces as they wanted to install a right turn lane. He said the problem was caused when they added a couple of feet to the sidewalk next to the building as part of the rebuilding of M-75 as it came into the community.

BC Planners

He was told it was a state highway and the city has little options access along their property saying it belonged to them. But some residents don't agree and believe the road should remain open for use and want the gate taken down.

According to Road Commission officials, the road is a county road although it is not maintained or open in the winter time. They have listed the road with the Michigan Department of Transportation as being under their jurisdiction.

Road dispute

So it will be up to the courts to decide the issue. The court date has been set for about six weeks from now in the 90th District Court. One of the agruments for opening the road is that it has been used for over 40 years by residents. The land is near state forests and hunters are using it to get back to prime hunting areas.

others to see some of the many things they will have to do if they want to see good solid growth that will allow the residents of the area a decent living.

The planners should be working with growth alliances and economic development groups on some long and short term solutions to attracting business.

Then if the laws change and no businesses are taxed, the area will be ready to provide the services needed.

It has always been said, which comes first the chicken or the egg. In our case, the egg may just be providing the services a company will need to survive outside of the main national traffic flow.
