

Weather

A typical summer week, with highs in the upper 70s to low 80s. Precipitation continues to be nicely spaced, with rain-fall Thursday clearing by noon Friday and followed by a bright and sunny Saturday and an overcast rainy Sunday. Forecasters are calling for dense Monday morning fog to clear away to a sunny day in the low 80s. LAST YEAR: Fears of another cold summer were permanently laid to rest by a second week of sunny skies and mercury in the 80s.

EAST JORDAN, MICHIGAN

East Jordan City Council Briefs: July 5

■ City Superintendent Bob Johnson presented a check for $20,314 in emergency assistance provided by the federal government to cover damage caused by last winter's extreme weather.

Johnson thanked Charlevoix emergency coordinator Earl Muma for the work he did to secure the funds. Over $200,000 was distributed in Charlevoix County, the largest portion going to the city of Charlevoix. Boyne City also received a sizable check.

Resident Tom Breakey, Sr. remarked about inequities of the distribution, but Johnson explained that the amount was based on damage sustained.

"We had a fraction of the damage they had," he told Breakey.

■ The council adopted a resolution to construct and replace sidewalks by special assessment throughout East Jordan.

Johnson said he took a walk with Superintendent of Schools Chip Hansen, and learned that the sidewalks around the middle and elementary school are in dangerous condition, especially on Fourth Street. Hansen feels strongly that repairs must be made before school begins in September.

Johnson said the school district will split repair costs with the city 60-40. The city's share is $720.

Johnson will take steps to work out getting the repairs completed as soon as possible.

■ Council member Ruth Gee resigned from her position on the library board, citing her wish to avoid the appearance of a conflict of interest. Another council member, Sherry Sineway, did not apply to continue her membership on the board for the same reason.

The council appointed two new board members to represent the city. They are Perry Bennett and Carlton Bishop, both residents of the city.

A third applicant did not apply in time, but was encouraged to try at the next opportunity.

The city has four representatives on the board. Dorothy Archer and Shirley Etcher will continue as city appointees.

■ Resident Jerry Cihak requested council look into the problem of boat trailers left unattended for long periods of time at the city boat ramp.

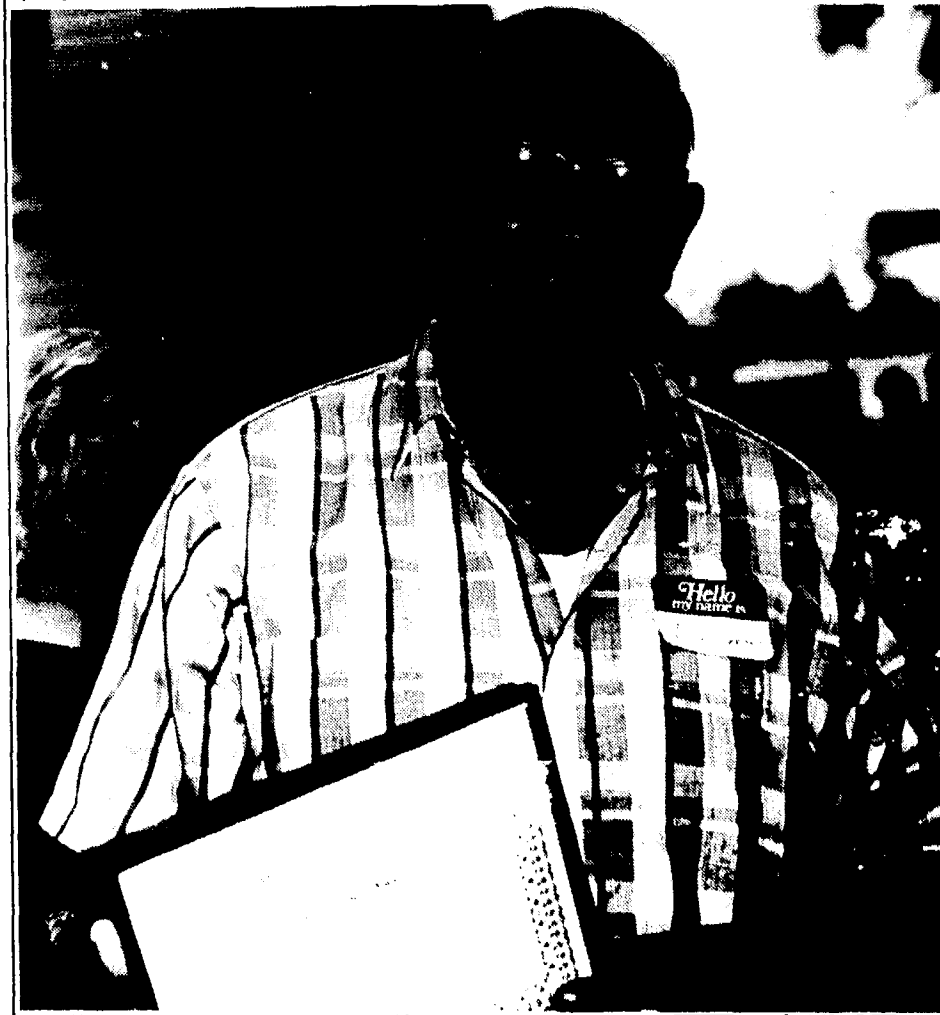

The issue was directed to the Parks and Recreation Committee with suggestions to consider signs prohibiting trailers left without vehicles, and suggesting alternate parking, along with more enforcement.

■ The owners of Busy Bridge Gifts and Antiques, were granted approval to repair an existing fire escape on city property adjoining the building. The descending ramp of the escape extends over the city right-of-way by one foot.

Mixing business with pleasure

A Business After Hours Strawberry Social presented by the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce, along with sponsors Duane and Debbie Chappuies and FMB-Northwestern, gave local business people a chance to mingle and tour newly renovated downtown space at the same time. Just one year ago, the lovely courtyard where the social was held was an unsightly dumping area. The Chappuies constructed the courtyard, as well as renovating the building that now houses three businesses: Hair Dimensions, Sunset Tanning and Fabulous Formals. They were recognized with a special plaque for their continuing support and dedication to the East Jordan business community. Also recognized was paint contractor Bud Barnes who donated the services of himself and two employees to paint a downtown building that would have been left unpainted. An anonymous donor provided paint for the project.

Freedom Festival triathlon winner

East Jordan student Josiah Middaugh, 15, represented his hometown well in the 1994 Freedom Festival triathlon, placing third in the men age 15-19 category of the grueling contest that had participants swimming, cycling and running. His time of 1:35:06 placed him 28th in a field of 69 men. Another well-known East Jordan runner Christie Barber, 21, was the winner of the women age 20-24 category. Her time of 1:43:54 placed her seventh in 21 women competing. First place overall for women was Laura Sophiea, 38, of Pleasant Ridge, in 1:20:55 and for men, Pete Bolen, 30, of Ypsilanti, in 1:11:49.

CIVIC AND BUSINESS leaders gathered around as city council member Ruth Gee broke the "ribbon" of cash that made McDonald's new drive-through an official part of the East Jordan community.

McDonalds (#15,082!) opens in East Jordan

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Torch/Journal Editor

McDonald's, the giant of the fast food industry, opened restaurant #15,082 world-wide in East Jordan, July 1.

In keeping with McDonald's policy of always giving back to the community, the ribbon used for opening ceremonies was made of 100 $1 bills. Afterward, the money was donated to the Freedom Festival fireworks fund.

The drive-through express is owned by Tom Holka, who also owns franchises in Boyne City and Kalkaska. Although the restaurant is drive-through only for the general public, it also serves as an indoor snack bar for patrons of the new Jordan Valley Express Music Center, where it is housed.

East Jordan community and business leaders joined Holka and McDonald's Field Representative Larry Lownesbery for the opening, then enjoyed lunch at the snack bar. Lownesbery said the new restaurant will provide 20-25 jobs.

Holka won't predict whether the drive-through will eventually expand into a full-service restaurant, but said he is optimistic about the success of the chain in the area.

"We're looking to the future of East Jordan," he told the group.

Drive-through hours are 6:30 a.m. to 11:30 p.m. daily. Inside, the snack bar is open during Jordan Valley Express hours and serves a variety of food, including nachos, pretzels and sparkling water, as well as traditional McDonald's fare.

Improved park playground possible

BY MARY FREY
Editorial Director

Visitors to the Echo Township Park may soon enjoy the addition of some new playground equipment.

Trustee Dale LaVan-way told fellow board members at the July 5 meeting that several residents have expressed an interest in expanding play options for children at the park on Six Mile Lake Road.

"There's nothing there for the little ones," he said, noting the installation of items like a self-propelled merry-go-round or play fort not only adds to kids' fun, but offers relief for busy parents as well.

Concerns over liability in case of accident have quashed such acquisitions in the past, officials noted.

However, it was agreed that if insurance concerns can be satisfactorily addressed, one or two unspecified pieces of equipment will be ordered, hopefully for installation this season.

No dollar amount was identified; however, board members seemed inclined to keep the total expenditure in the under-$2,000 range. In other business, the board:

- heard a presentation by 87th District Court Judge candidate Barry Cole. A 1973 Mancelona High School graduate, Cole stressed his local experience as one asset he brings to his bid for office. The Antrim County attorney also said statements from his incumbent opponent Judge Norman Hayes regarding thousands of dollars in unused funds returned to county coffers by the court last year failed to note the much larger budget increase that preceded that rebate.

- discussed requests for improvements at the township's cemeteries, including a plat identifying all grave sites, and water. It was noted that water service has been requested in the past, but would require a 150-foot well — an expense the township continues to be unwilling to incur.

The next regular meeting of the Echo Township Board is scheduled for Tues., Sept. 6, at 7:30 p.m. in the township hall on Six Mile Lake Road.

SOON AFTER OPENING ceremonies, the vehicles started lining up in a steady stream for lunch time.

Hospice elects officers

The annual meeting of the Charlevoix County Hospice was held at the District Health Department #3 in Charlevoix.

Re-elected to the board for a term of three years were Eleanor Freedman, Beverly Loewe and Mark Muniak.

The board meeting followed with the election of officers for 1994-95. They are Mary Ellen Baker, president; Beverly Loewe, vice president; Anne Weglinski, treasure; and Mark Muniak, secretary.

Hospice activities of last year were discussed and future plans made.

Corrine Empey

Future Visits Past

Corrine Empey

BY JASON KIESSEL

Interviewed Mrs. Corrine Empey. She is 88 years old and has lived in Central Lake for almost all her life. Rushton Road was named after her grandfather.

Mrs. Empey had three brothers and no sisters. One of her brothers was her twin. She and her brothers got along very well.

When she was a little girl, Mrs. Empey enjoyed going around town with her grandfather to deliver milk. She and her family lived next door to the present house, until it burned down.

Mrs. Empey attended Lakeview School until the eighth grade. She went to Central Lake High School. She enjoyed school very much.

When she was growing up, the town was very unpopulated.

Mrs. Empey has been cooking and baking since she was 11 years old. She really enjoys baking breads.

Mrs. Empey worked at the Ellsworth Canning Factory for 23 years, from 1941-1963. Mrs. Empey had four children in two marriages. Both of her marriages ended with the death of her husbands.

Two of her sons served time in the service. One son and both daughters are still living, but her family is spread out through Michigan and Texas. In the winter, Mrs. Empey lives with her youngest daughter, because she feels it's safer for herself.

Every year, her family has a huge reunion in Cadillac so they get to meet everybody again. The reunion is always some time around Mrs. Empey's birthday. When she is at home, she enjoys knitting and baking.

Sideroads

We were glad to hear from Bertha Knowles of Central Lake and Meadow Brook Medical Care Facility. It seems that her magnetic presence at her home in Central Lake during the July 4th weekend attracted over 50 family members for a visit!

A special collaboration of municipality and private citizens in East Jordan recently helped end the concerns of a group of neighborhood parents.

The problem: an unprotected culvert over Brown Creek, left by developers of the Olson Street subdivision. Nothing but luck was preventing a young cyclist or pedestrian from taking a tumble off the edge onto a jagged concrete dump or into the creek itself.

The search for a solution: Olson Street resident and parent Michana Gee approached the city council asking that a safety-guard rail be placed on the road where it crosses the creek.

The next problem: The bare-bones city budget had no extra dollars to pay a construction crew, though the materials were already owned by the city.

The solution: volunteerism! On June 4, the mayor, several council members, a number of Olson Street residents and DPW workers made it happen. Using the available materials, the "crew" met for a work bee and the well-completed result is evident, proving once again that where there's a will, there's a way!

Without seeking to do so, the Torch office seems to have lately become the receptacle of lost and found items. If you or someone you know lost a very nice jean-style winter coat in Thurston Park last March, or a pair of wire rim spectacles on Main Street about May 16, come and claim them now.

They are both in good condition, so if you are the owner, don't procrastinate!

Singing peacemaker to entertain in EJ

Singer-songwriter Rick Meisterheim will present a free show Fri., July 22, at 7 p.m. at East Jordan Memorial Park. His appearance is the third of series of Free Fridays in the park sponsored by Jordan River Arts Council.

An East Jordan educator, farmer and artist, Meisterheim uses music to share his perspective on our world and its people. His underlying theme is peacemaking, which he considers his life's work.

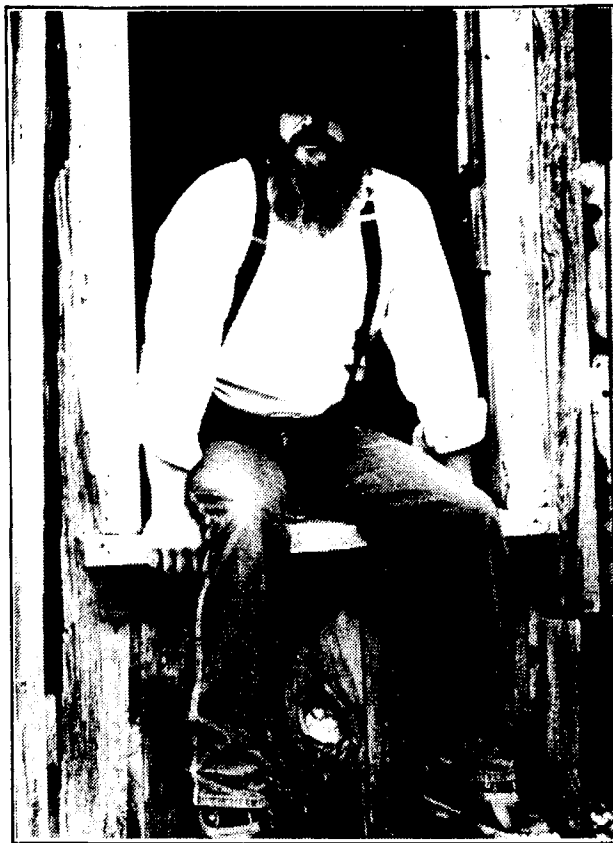

His repertoire of original music includes "Like the Dove," "Season's Promise," "Swords to Plowshare" and "Peace in Your Soul." He will accompany himself on acoustic guitar, mandolin, lap dulcimer and sweet stick - unique handmade instrument that sounds like a banjo.

Meisterheim teaches environmental education to school groups at nature centers around the country. Maintaining a simple lifestyle that includes farming with draft horses, he and his wife Tracy are developing the Wagbo Peace Center south of East Jordan. For the past three years he has run the Peace Coffee House in Wolverine.

Also a craftsman and artist, Meisterheim constructs furniture and wood carvings, makes a variety of Native American crafts learned from an elder Odawa and draws pencil sketches of nature and people.

He has entertained at coffee houses around the country, including Scottsdale and Phoenix, Arizona; Lake Placid, New York and the Kerrville, Texas, Folk Festival. In northern Michigan he has appeared at Bliss Fest, Lumberjack Fest, Sylvan Resort and the Castle Farm Story Tree.

The public is invited to bring their own lawn chairs or blankets for the free program. In case of rain, the performance will take place at East Jordan High School.

Central Lake Citizens Group outlines platform

Since January, I have been meeting with a group of people and discussing local events. We originally got together because of our opposition to the anti-blight ordinance, but soon discovered that we felt that there were other problems that needed to be addressed as well. We attended township meetings and became informed on the local issues. We call ourselves The Central Lake Citizens Group. We believe that at the township level:

1. The annual spring meeting should be reinstated to discuss the officials' salaries and the budget.
2. There should be a local newspaper report of the meeting and the minutes reported.

3. There should be a notice of future meetings posted at a prominent main street location as well as the township hall door.

4. We feel that there are too many special meetings and that most township business can be handled at the regular business meetings.

5. There should be more information on the issues available at the monthly meetings and more discussion so the public can voice their opinions or objections.

6. We would like to see a New England-style meeting that offers more public input. It might not be as speedy or as efficient as the present system, but would allow dissenting opinions to be aired.

7. We feel that township offices are part-time jobs, and that the money spent for officials' pensions and health insurance is wrong and could be better spent on roads or other projects to benefit the citizens of Central Lake Township.

8. We feel that the condition of our local road system is deplorable, there has been no resurfacing of our highways in years and no money is budgeted by the township officials to match county or state funds.

9. We would study the budget and if there is not enough surplus that can be diverted to road improve-

Supports anti-blight ordinance, but not this one

I WISH TO thank the citizens who rose up and opposed the so-called anti-blight ordinance. This ill-conceived and poorly written ordinance first made its appearance several years ago in the Pontiac-Clarkston area of Michigan. The Michigan Township Association picked up on it and it was first presented at a Central Lake Township meeting presided over by Supervisor Ames. Surprised by public opposition to this ordinance, the township board either tabled or dropped their support for the ordinance.

The exact, same ordinance was presented to Bellaire, Charlevoix and Ellsworth area townships and passed, in some cases, without residents being aware of all the ramifications.

Fortunately, here in Central Lake citizens were aware of the ordinance's drawbacks and when again presented for vote, opposed it. This does not mean that blight problems do not still exist. It does mean we should attempt to find a better way to deal with these problems. The ordinance as written would pit neighbor against neighbor, and poor man vs. wealthy. I feel a better ordinance can be written and with the clause that anyone wishing to lodge a complaint against their neighbor pay a NON-REFUNDABLE filing fee of $100.

Now I will turn to the other side of the coin and request that the township come up with a general, simple zoning ordinance within the next three months. We have a lot of available land here in Central Lake Township and a fat-rendering, chemical, noise and/or air-polluting plan (or a visual producing pollution i.e. cellular phone towers) could come in and set up business tomorrow.

We can not expect township board members to do it all. The negatives have spoken, now let us all come up with positive solutions - either by serving on committees or attending committee and board meetings and expressing our constructive opinions. If we are not willing to give a little time and thought to these important problems, we have no right to complain about the final results.

*Barb Faas

Writer supports anti-blight ordinance

I CAN'T IMAGINE anyone opposing "anti-blight." Not only is it an eye-sore, it is polluting and a health hazard.

Our largest investment is our homes. We taxpayers of Central Lake Village and Township deserve more than we are getting.

Since when is clean a dirty word?

Also I think all taxpayers should have the right to vote. They have the right to pay taxes.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Be Wise and Seek God

"The Lord looks down from heaven...to see if there are any who act wisely, that seek God."

— Psalm 14:2

It might seem to many in this period when violence and corruption and evil seem to dominate the world that godliness has gone from the earth. That is not so. Goodness does not make for sensational headlines or news programs, yet those who labor for the love of their fellow man and the deeds they perform receive the attention they deserve — in the hearts of those they help and in the sight of God. The wise man does not choose the devilish path of the evildoers but follows the route of those who do God's work. They seek God and the spirit of the Lord that will allow them to live in peace and in the holy glow of the Father. It is not always easy to elect the wiser course, but once chosen it will truly ease the search for God.

EDITOR'S NOTE: Newspaper reports in the Antrim County News and The Torch follow every meeting of Central Lake Township. A synopsis of minutes of every meeting also appears in The Torch.

Apathy is an insidious disease

AS A FREQUENT visitor to Central Lake, your community (and in a way, mine) has become familiar. When I refer to community, I refer to the village and Central Lake Township.

Arriving from any direction always brings mixed emotions of the joy of being here again, and the apprehension of wondering whether the next curve will bring into view another abandoned car, a cedar pole teepee stressed with the weight of an engine held by a chainfall, or another lakefront polebarn done in Central Lake Harvest Gold.

What sad entertainment it is to speculate what, if anything, must be on the minds of those who signed a recall petition to oust an intruder who would even suggest that their community have a planning commission, a zoning board, or heaven forbid, an anti-blight ordinance.

I think what we have here is a fundamental issue requiring no reinvention of the wheel. The people who signed the petition simply want to continue to be able to burn garbage in their yards, to perpetually store several generations of abandoned cars behind the garage, and will not be baited into a discussion as to whether a pole barn is legitimate architecture.

They simply want to be left alone, and will generally sign anything they think will further being left alone. It's called apathy. It's an insidious disease affecting millions in this country, whether inner-city Detroit or Central Lake Township.

I don't even know Paul Vernon. I never met the man. I do wish him the best in his efforts because I do know that dealing with people who don't care is a much larger project than passing a simple anti-blight ordinance.

Oh well, if they succeed, Paul, why don't I retire up here and you and I open up a junk yard? There's some nice lakefront available down on East Intermediate Lake Road.

Enjoy the water – safe boating urged

Michigan has more registered boaters than any other state in the nation with more than 11,000 inland lakes, over 3,000 miles of Great Lakes shoreline, and more than 36,000 miles of rivers and streams.

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council wants them to enjoy northern Michigan's water resources in the safest way possible by making sure everyone on board the vessel has a life preserver and all children under six are wearing them.

One-half of all fatal boating accidents involve alcohol, the council reported. Operating a boat under the influence of alcohol is illegal and dangerous.

All motorized boats, including jet skis, must stay 100 feet from other boats, swimmers, docks, rafts, and developed shorelines. Boaters should educate themselves on the rules of the water. The local sheriff department marine division has information available. Know the rules and respect others. For more information, call the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council at (616) 347-1181.

Historical Society to meet July 21

The July meeting of the East Jordan Historical Society will be held on Thurs., July 21, at the museum at Elm Pointe.

Dave and Sherry Gaunt will talk about muzzleloading guns and the living history of the Black Powder Rendezvous.

They will bring articles of the time period. Everyone is welcome.

Two robbers boldly walked into the home of Fred Yettaw, one mile east of Ellsworth on the East Jordan road, Saturday night about 11 p.m. and made away with nine dollars in currency.

Mr. Yettaw was asleep when they entered and was not awakened until one of the men gripped him by the throat.

No word was spoken until the robber who had done the ransacking, made the remark, "Let him up, we have what we want." It is not the loss of the money but, that for one who has always been considerate of others and had fair dealings with all, should suffer such treatment is what seems to Mr. Yettaw to be the most inconsiderate part of the night's affair.

Mr. and Mrs. Albert Parsons of Ellsworth have announced the marriage of their daughter Ester to Mr. Emmet Bernt of Grand Rapids, the ceremony being solemnized at Crown Point, Ind., July 8.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter Fowler and son Bruce left Tuesday for their home in Detroit. After a visit at the home of his grandmother Mrs. Mary Clark, Miles District, they will stop over enroute at Frankfort, Manistee and other points along the way. They were accompanied by Mrs. Clark who will visit a brother in Nunica and one in Grand Rapids and expects to be gone about two weeks.

The Council of Agriculture Picnic will be held Aug. 11 at East Port.

There will be a Jersey exhibition and picnic held at Ellsworth, July 24.

Ellsworth school board adopts handbook changes

BY KEITH MATHENY
Contributing Writer

ELLSWORTH - The Ellsworth school board adopted a new detention policy, and addressed the use of legal substances in a drug-like manner in its student handbook changes for the 1994-95 school year.

"In many cases, these are policies that we have been operating under," said principal Marvin Ruis at the board's July 11 meeting. "We needed to change the wording in some spots of the handbook to reflect our active policies."

The school's drug policy now includes "improper use of legal substances such as glue, paint, over-the-counter medications, etc." Following state guidelines, the school must now inform both parents and law enforcement official if a student violates the drug policy.

In another policy change, student detentions cannot be served before school begins in the morning starting next year.

"A lot of the time, they were already here before school started, so we decided after school was more of a punishment," Ruis said.

Detentions not served by the end of the year now must be made up within two weeks after school is out, or a student's class grades will be marked incomplete.

"This puts a little teeth into getting students to serve detentions," Ruis said. "This is the policy we operated under this year, and we didn't have anybody who didn't make up their detention days this year. So it does work."

Students also cannot use motor vehicles during a school day, even if they are not parked on school property.

"We would have kids parking up-town, then on lunch break, they would be zooming all over the place," Ruis said.

Other changes will include:

- a raising of ticket prices for athletic events.

"We haven't raised the prices for several years now," Ruis said. The principal told the board he will ascertain what nearby schools and other schools in the Great Northern Conference charge to "find a fair price."

- converting the elementary grading system to a letter-grade system like the high school's.

"It makes it easier for all concerned," Ruis said. "It will get kids used to it as they come to the high school from the elementary school."

- closing the school at 3:30 p.m. instead of 3:45 p.m.

- not allowing students back in to sporting events after they leave.

"With the old policy, they could pay to get back in," Ruis said. "But if students leave, they could be out drinking, and not letting them return might discourage the practice."

■ In other action, the board approved the hiring of Matt Peters of Manistique as the new math and computers teacher, replacing the retired Hugh Campbell. Peters will also coach the boys varsity basketball team.

■ The board also voted to change the time of their monthly meetings from 7:30 p.m. to 7 p.m.

Bay Harbor development begins on Lake Michigan

Ground was broken July 12 to initiate Bay Harbor, a private golf and yacht club community on a unique five-mile stretch of undeveloped Lake Michigan shoreline on Little Traverse Bay west of Petoskey.

The ceremonies included Michigan Governor John Engler, the developers and more than 500 people at the Bay Harbor site.

"The conversion of an abandoned cement plant property into a world class golf and yacht club community is a classic 'lemons into lemonade' conversion that has never been done before," said William T. McCormick, Jr., chairman and chief executive officer of CMS Energy Corporation, whose CMS Land Company subsidiary is co-developing Bay Harbor.

"This will be a beautiful example of what can be done throughout Michigan with former industrial sites. It is proof that we can reclaim old industrial land and reuse it so people can enjoy all that Michigan has to offer," Governor Engler said. "The Bay Harbor development is bound to become another jewel in Michigan's crown."

Michigan Attorney General Frank J. Kelley said, "One part of Michigan's Environmental Response Act provides that a covenant not to sue may be given to a developer who undertakes to rehabilitate a property. I have entered into such an agreement with these parties so that they can help transform this abandoned site into a beautiful, environmentally sound recreational, residential, and wildlife area."

Coach Olszewski - a model of community service

BY DEB S. HOBBS
Torch/Journal Editor

July 2 in East Jordan was a busy day for Phyllis Olszewski.

She took over registrations and coordination of the Freedom Festival Youth Parade when, at the 11th hour, illness sidelined chairman Jeanne Snyder. Olszewski and her East Jordan High School Varsity cheerleaders were in charge of cleaning the civic center after the parade.

All afternoon Olszewski was involved in conducting the massive Grand Parade, and could be seen running up and down Main Street with a walkie-talkie glued to her ear.

A hectic day like this is not all that unusual for Olszewski - community involvement takes a lot of her time. The main chunk of it is as coach of the cheerleading team.

She takes her commitment to her work with young people very seriously, keeping abreast of new ideas, staying involved in the Michigan High School Athletic Association, Michigan Cheerleader Coaches Association, and Cheer Michigan coaches council. She wants to keep informed on the safety aspects of her sport.

Olszewski has several safety and liability certifications for which she takes regular re-testing.

"I always want to be more educated," she said, "to help the kids."

Others have noticed Olszewski's generous spirit and professionalism, including Charlevoix cheerleading coach Pat Drost, who nominated Olszewski for the National Cheerleader Coaches Conference 1994 Coach of the Year. The letter Drost wrote convinced the selection committee that Olszewski fit the profile. From over 800 nominees across the country, Olszewski was one of 350 to be selected to submit a resume.

That was when a surprised Olszewski found out about the nomination.

The 22 judges on the committee surprised her even more by selecting her as one of the final 25 candidates. She was invited to attend the conference in Fayetteville, N.C., and a special dinner where the finalist would be chosen. Olszewski and husband Brian took a vacation around the conference in May. Although it was difficult leaving 6-year-old Stephanie at Grandma's, Olszewski, who has only attended state-wide conferences in the past, found the national very enlightening.

"It was interesting to hear about other situations in other areas of the country," said Olszewski. "I found out we do things pretty well in Michigan."

Although Olszewski was not chosen Coach of the Year, she realizes that it was a great honor just to be on the list. She said it was exciting and inspiring listening to keynote speaker Duke University basketball coach Mike Kryzewski. John Saunders of ESPN also spoke at the conference.

Olszewski, who was an EJHS cheerleader herself, is rightly proud of the program she has developed. With the exception of a few years break after Stephanie was born, Olszewski has been coaching since 1981.

For Olszewski, that means more than just games and after-school practice. It means summer camp, and any fundraisers, or community service activities the cheerleaders are involved in. As coach, Olszewski is responsible to be with the team where ever they are.

She never forgets to praise the commitment of the team. They have the same eligibility requirements as any other sport, but a small budget that doesn't include annual uniform replacement.

"They work hard all year long," Olszewski said proudly. "They raise a phenomenal amount of money."

Sometimes she worries about the time her work takes her away from her family. But she really loves the kids she works with.

"They are really dedicated," she said. "They're just great."

And ask any one of them - they will say exactly the same thing about her.

I LOVED THESE BOOKS!

Downtown

By Anne Rivers Siddons

This book is Siddons' newest entry into the best sellers. She writes about the south, and I believe it is better than her last book, Hill Town. Her heroine is Smokey O' Donnell, a beautiful shanty Irishwoman from the docks of Savannah. The action takes place in 1966 as the city of Atlanta is poised to meet the violence of the civil rights movement and the Black Panthers.

Smokey, ambitious and talented, is drafted to write for the magazine, Downtown. She encounters the glamorous mecca of the city and the attentions of an aristocratic southerner, Brad Hunt, III. But Smokey is not stupid and she finds herself observing and becoming a part of the struggle between Martin Luther King, Jr. and the Black Panthers. With intelligence and dynamics, Siddons makes Smokey and her two romances rewarding and page-turning. Lucas is a photo journalist and co-worker. John Howard is a leader of civil rights, black attorney and charismatic character.

This book is destined for the best seller lists. It can be found at the Central Lake Township Library.

The Family Stalker

By Jon Katz

This is a pleasant "feel good" mystery with more substance than many of the mystery tales that are out today.

Forty-something ex-Wall Streeter, Kit Deleeuw, the Suburban Detective, is approached by a client who feels another woman is stalking families by offering friendship, then destroying the family relationships.

The client's husband is found dead and the client disappears. Kit races the clock to locate the only person who can prove his client's innocence.

This book can be found on the Central Lake Township Library's lease book shelf as well as Katz's Death by Station Wagon.

Child safety seat campaign begins

More children are killed and crippled in traffic crashes than from any other cause of injury.

In Michigan 21 child passengers under age five were killed and 2,636 injured in 1991, the last year statistics are available.

For these and other reasons, District Health Department No. 3 is undertaking a Child Safety Seat Educational Campaign that began in May and ends Sept. 30.

It begins with the formation of a community coalition to provide leadership, community support and resource development for programs in the counties of Antrim, Charlevoix, Emmet and Otsego.

The target audience of this campaign is the infants and toddlers who are not placed in safety seats, their parents and caretakers and the overall community.

This activity is made possible by a grant from the Michigan Department of Health and will be coordinated by Robert V. Cullen, a long time traffic safety professional. "It is imperative that the correct use of child safety seats be increased in the four county district" stated Cullen. "There is great concern about estimates that only half of the children age birth to 4 years may be protected by a safety seat when riding in a motor vehicle. This means that as many as 2,450 children are constantly exposed to the risk of injury or death."

Cullen also reported that safety seat usage observations will be conducted throughout the district to establish an up-to-date use rate.

Some objectives of this campaign are to:

- conduct training programs for 500 women through the Family Health clinic and individual counseling for an additional 500.

- promote increased use of child safety seat loan programs in the four counties.

Senator McManus begins re-election campaign

State Senator George McManus, R-Traverse City, kicked-off his campaign for the 36th District State Senate seat.

"Northern Michigan needs representation of the north and for the north, not of Lansing and for Lansing," said McManus, a life-long resident of northern Michigan. "As your state senator I will continue to put our communities first!"

McManus highlighted the fact that since he was elected in 1990 Michigan has cut taxes six times, including last month's passage of Proposal A which caps property assessment increases at the rate of inflation or 5 percent, whichever is less. He also mentioned that Michigan's unemployment rate in 1993 was 7 percent, its lowest in 15 years and that Michigan leads the Midwest in job creation.

If elected in November, McManus said he'll focus on welfare reform, anti-crime legislation, and expanding upon the state's job creation gains.

"If a family has a job, if people are able to earn a living, if they have a chance to buy a house, that is the beginning of a healthy Michigan," McManus said. "It doesn't matter how many social programs we establish - none is as valuable or important as a good job."

McManus is a cherry farmer who was elected to the Senate in 1990 in the 37th Senate District which stretches from Traverse City to Escanaba. Redistricting in 1992 placed McManus' home in the new 36th Senate District which includes Leelanau, Benzie, Manistee, Wexford, Missaukee, Roscommon, Crawford, Otsego, Antrim, Kalkaska and Grand Traverse.

Gov. Engler signs Farmland Exemption Act

Gov. John Engler recently signed legislation that allows virtually all Michigan farmers to pay six mills in school property taxes and exempts farms from the additional 18 mills levied by local school districts.

The governor signed the bill at a mint farm in St. Johns on May 24.

"Two months ago, I made a promise to Michigan farmers that they would be treated fairly and that they would pay the same property taxes as other families," Engler said. "And with my signature on this bill, we mark another promise made and another kept."

Engler commended the sponsor of the bill, State Rep. Dan Gustafson, R-Williamston, and said kind words to State Rep. Alan Cropsey, R-DeWitt, and Sen. Joel Gougeon for their support of the bill.

"Agriculture is one of the largest job providers in our state," Gougeon said. "This bill clarifies the Legislature's intent to treat all farmland equally and increases the ability of Michigan farmers to compete with other farmers from all over the country. If we want farmers to thrive, we must have a fair tax system," he added.

Under terms of Proposal A, school property taxes for non-homestead agricultural property would have been 24 mills, while the same tax for farm homesteads would have been six mills. House Bill 329 eliminates that disparity and requires that all qualified agricultural property be taxed at the lower rate.

The legislation states that an affidavit claiming the exemption on qualified agricultural property should have been filed with the local assessor by June 1, 1994. However, farm owners need not file the form if the property is classified agricultural or if they have already filed a homestead exemption for their farm property.

Pesticide safety urged

Although homeowners who apply weed and feed fertilizers to their lawns possibly do not think of themselves as "pesticide applicators," they are, according to Michigan State University Extension.

One university study recently found that homeowner use of pesticides exceeded agricultural use when measured on an area basis. Homeowners applied proportionately more pesticides to their homesteads than farmers did to their crops.

The fact that many homes are situated on lakes and streams makes them a greater potential threat to water quality than threats from agricultural uses of pesticides and fertilizer.

For the homeowner who is interested in learning more about safe pesticide use, some materials are available from Michigan State University Extension which might fill the bill. The same manuals that farmers and commercial businesses are required to study and know to become certified pesticide applicators are also available to the general public. All materials are available for purchase or review at the MSU Extension office, room 212, Antrim County Building, Bellaire.

MADD accepting entries for injury photo board

Mothers Against Drunk Driving, Michigan, is developing a state drunk driving injury photo board as a tribute to those persons who have survived alcohol-related traffic crashes. As with many of MADD's projects, this collective work is intended to help enhance the public's awareness of the devastation caused by drinking and driving.

The survivor photo board will be displayed throughout Michigan to increase the public's awareness of the number of people whose lives are affected by drinking and driving each year. In 1992 in Michigan alone, 15,105 persons suffered injuries in alcohol-related traffic crashes. MADD believes that the photographs displayed on this board will teach those who see it that not only is alcohol-impaired driving against the law, but that it affects the lives of real people every day.

Any person injured by a drunk driver is welcome to submit a photograph for inclusion on the board. The photograph may be pre-crash, post-crash, or during recovery; a MADD release form granting permission to use the photo must accompany all entries.

While photos will continue to be received, to insure inclusion in a ceremonial unveiling of the project, photos must be received by Sept. 1.

To obtain a release form or further information contact the MADD, Michigan State Office at (517) 631-6233; 1-800-323-MADD (Victim Assistance); or 910 Eastlawn, Midland, MI 48642.

MADD's mission is to "stop drunk driving and support victims of this violent crime."

Smoke-free guide available

A copy of the "Michigan Guide to Smoke-Free Restaurants," a 35-page booklet which contains a listing of 172 totally smoke-free restaurants throughout Michigan, is available at no cost by writing to Michigan Citizens for Smoke Free Air, P.O. Box 69042, Pleasant Ridge, MI 48069.

The new law that went into effect on April 1, requires that most restaurants set aside at least 50 percent of seating capacity for non-smokers.

However, the eateries listed in the booklet offer the public much better protection from contaminated air than the minimum standards allowed by present state law. The guides will be available until the supply is exhausted.

ASCS reports crop conditions

Crops that fail after planting, or are prevented from planting because of weather conditions, should be reported to the Antrim County Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Service (ASCS) office.

All crops, including orchard crops, should be reported for history credit before destroying the crop or removing the orchard, according to Jim Byrum, Michigan ASCS State Executive Director.

"Congress has not authorized a 1994 Disaster Program. However, producers should report failed crop acreage to the ASCS Office before destroying evidence of that crop so the farm history is properly credited for future ASCS programs," Byrum said.

Recent heavy rains and flooding coupled with last winter's record breaking cold weather have caused problems with many crops and orchards in Michigan, and producers should report to ASCS before evidence of the crop is destroyed or removed so ASCS personnel can verify the existence of the crop.

Call the ASCS office in Bellaire, 533-8542.

Kirtland's warbler census shows 30 percent increase

The 1994 Kirtland's warbler census indicates that Michigan's current population of the endangered bird is the largest ever recorded since the annual census began in 1951. Researchers, biologists and volunteers counted 633 singing males during the official census completed in mid-June.

This year's count is a 30 percent increase over the 1993 count of 485, and surpasses the previous record of 502 singing males counted in 1961. The numbers have increased every year since the record low of 167 singing males counted in 1987.

"This is great news, and it shows that the Endangered Species Act can and does work," said Department of Natural Resources Director Roland Harmes. "It is a testament to scientific wildlife management and the cooperation among the DNR biologists, the U.S. Forest Service and the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service in restoring the warblers' needed habitat."

The Kirtland's warbler is a small, blue-gray and yellow, sparrow-sized bird that nests only in jack pine stands located in northeast lower Michigan. As a ground nester, it selects stands of trees between five and 20 feet high, with branches that extend to the ground.

According to DNR Endangered Species Coordinator Thomas Weise, this year 92 percent of the warblers counted were located in Oscoda, Ogemaw and Crawford counties.

"The numbers of singing males found in nine northern Lower Peninsula counties were: Alcona, 23; Clare, 2; Crawford, 46; Iosco, 16; Kalkaska, 3; Ogemaw, 153; Oscoda, 381; Otsego, 2; and Roscommon, 5. In the Upper Peninsula, one singing male warbler was reported in Schoolcraft County. These Upper Peninsula sightings are rare, although one was located in Marquette County in 1981 and 1982, and one was seen in Schoolcraft County last year," Weise said.

The Kirtland's warbler is a small, blue-gray and yellow, sparrow-sized bird that nests only in jack pine stands located in northeast lower Michigan.

As a ground nester, it selects stands of trees between five and 20 feet high, with branches that extend to the ground.

Historically, these stands of young jack pine were maintained by naturally-occurring wildfires that frequently swept through northern Michigan. Fire suppression programs altered this natural process, reducing the Kirtland's warbler habitat.

Wildlife biologists from state and federal agencies now conduct a combination of clearcutting, burning, and replanting to mimic the effects of wildfire. These techniques appear to be successful. DNR wildlife biologist Jerry Weinrich of the Houghton Lake Wildlife Research Station said that this year the plantations showed a dramatic increase in the number of Kirtland's warblers using them. Fifty percent of the warblers counted in this year's census (314 males) were located in the areas specifically planted for the warblers' nesting habitat.

Reader challenges contents of Vernon letter

AUGUST 2 IS fast approaching Paul Vernon has sent a letter to some Central Lake residents. I would like to comment on a few of those statements.

Anti-blight and/or zoning ordinances could apply to the villagers, if they ever decided to move into the country. Anything done by the township could and does affect the villagers. They voted for you, Mr. Vernon; they have the right to vote against you. Let's not forget zoning raises the taxes.

Paul Vernon states the Village Planning Commission is working on a zoning ordinance. The people know that statement is wrong; you have to be a zoning board to work on zoning.

Mr. Vernon, with so many years in government, and experience with Central Lake, I am surprised you printed that statement.

The township holds monthly meetings so it shouldn't matter who comes in and how many meetings one goes to, just so they get involved.

Why does most everything concerning the township and you, start with I? Paul Vernon, you are not working alone. The citizens and township board have made contributions.

We need a township leader who cares about the people, both villager and township, not to try and separate one from the other.

The circulators of the petition and the people who signed them do have Central Lake's best interests in mind, that's why we are holding the Aug. 2 elections.

South Street lake access is not out of the woods yet, but thanks to Bill Gadwau, Bill Murray, A.P.P.A. and MUCC, the chance of handing it back to the people is great.

Time has come for Central Lake citizens to get out of the backseat and take the wheel. Put our government in order and on a trusting level.

Support Vernon for taxpayers' sake

HOW OFTEN HAVE you said, if our paid public servants would run our government the same way we all have to run our homes, why can't they balance the cost of services with the amount we approve for taxes?

Central Lake is getting a balanced budget. In fact the cost of local government is coming in under budget.

Each month a monthly newsletter informs all residents of the accomplishments of our township board working as a team. Do you know of any other township that receives a detailed update of the actions their boards have taken?

It is a sad commentary that the recall petition lists positive actions to support a planning commission, a zoning board and an anti-blight ordinance. In fairness, they should have listed all the other achievements. The most noteworthy one is more services for less cost.

I urge all Central Lake voters, whether they are lifelong residents, or more recent newcomers, to vote for Paul Vernon on Aug. 2. This should not be a vote along the lines of us and them but we. I believe we all want the best for our children, our community, and ourselves.

ELECTION NOTICE

NOTICE OF RECALL ELECTION TO THE ELECTORS OF CENTRAL LAKE TOWNSHIP, ANTRIM COUNTY, MICHIGAN TO BE HELD AUGUST 2, 1994.

To the qualified electors of Central Lake Township notice is hereby given that a Recall Election will be held on August 2, 1994; question to be as follows:

RECALL PROPOSAL

REASONS FOR DEMANDING RECALL OF PAUL VERNON, SUPERVISOR

1) He does not have the township's best interest in mind, with his continuing support of a planning commission, zoning board, and a anti-blight ordinance.

JUSTIFICATION OF CONDUCT IN OFFICE OF PAUL VERNON

1) Recall elections are intended to remove an elected official because of some wrongdoing such as fraud, embezzlement or incompetence and not just because of a difference of opinion.

2) Supervisor Vernon is not guilty of any wrongdoing.

3) He has more than twenty years of public service with an untarnished reputation for honestly and fairly representing the interest of the entire community.

4) Voters of Central Lake Township elected him by a large majority to be their supervisor for four years.

5) He provided leadership for the township board during very difficult time and has the experience to continue providing that leadership.

6) He deserves the privilege of serving for the balance of his term and then the people can vote for the candidate of their choice rather than recalling Supervisor Vernon without knowing who will fill the vacancy.

RECALL QUESTION

Shall Paul Vernon be recalled from the office of Supervisor of Central Lake Township, Antrim County, Michigan?

The Central Lake Township polling place is located on Cameron Street in the Village of Central Lake.

All's well that ends well?

New well site on Jordan River on line soon

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Torch/Journal Editor

City well #6, the new well site on the west side of the Jordan River, may soon be on line.

A major construction project in planning since 1990, the well will serve city residents that presently get their water from across the lake.

"We're trying to get the west side self-supportive," said city superintendent Bob Johnson. "It's important in case we ever lose the underwater pipe." Johnson said the goal is to eventually install a reservoir on the 29-acre parcel where the new well is located.

The $254,000 project was funded by the city, along with a federal community development block grant of $154,000. Directed by Timothy Roache, P.E. of Gosling Czubak Associates Engineers and Surveyors of Traverse City, the undertaking was actually two distinct construction projects.

The well drilling and construction, still incomplete, was awarded by bid to McNeily and Son Contracting of Farwell. The new water main, required because the former pipes were of insufficient size and outdated materials, was contracted to Corvette Construction of Grawn.

Both contractors and Gosling Czubak have been receiving payments as work progressed over the past eight months.

"It wasn't a difficult project," said Johnson. "Underground projects usually have difficulties, but actually, this project is coming along well."

The perception has been somewhat different in city council. In March, council member Guy Vallance urged the council to withhold final payment of $1,180 from Gosling Czubak. He was angry about the need to drill several times before finding a satisfactory well site.

Test sites were drilled in 1992, but were too close to a neighboring property line. The sites were marked as possible for the well by the former engineering company on the project, Williams and Works of Grand Rapids. Last fall, the mistake continued, as Gosling Czubak engineered the final well site. After two borings, water was found, but in an area that should never have been considered, less than the 100 required feet to the property line.

The city appealed to the health department, which issued a variance after neighbor Francis Pepin agreed never to build within a 50-foot restricted area.

DPW committee chair Brian Sweet believes lack of communication during the transition between the two engineering companies was the cause of the error.

"There seems to have been no coordination of the change between the engineering companies," Sweet said. "When the project changed hands there were some problems."

To add insult to injury, the first boring pulled water out of what Roache called a "dirty aquifer." He explained the site was pumping water with grit and pieces.

"Unfortunately, we're working with a variable aquifer," he told council.

Johnson explained that the East Jordan area lies on a "glacial dump." Soils change unpredictably and quickly within a small space because as the glacier receded it left deposits of materials collected while in motion. Johnson said soil can easily be two completely different types within 10 feet.

Sweet feels that the city had to pay for two "dry" (faulty) wells that shouldn't have been drilled.

"Those wells cost $30,000 each," said Sweet.

Even the satisfactory well site ran into problems when developed.

"The aquifer can only deliver about 200 gallons per minute instead of the 400 we were hoping for," said Roache. The pump had to be refigured to allow a faster rate of water flow.

Because Gosling Czubak had offered no contractual guarantees on the well, council eventually released the final payment, but were then faced with another payment decision, this time by the water main contractor.

Dick Brye of Corvette Construction approached the DPW committee with a request to pay $7,100 above the contracted price of $126,000. Brye submitted notice for the additional compensation citing extra construction delays and expenses, including the replacement of gravel on the parking lot of the Jordan Valley Express Music Center.

Council member Lyle Etcher said he believes the problem with the music center parking lot was caused by Corvette waiting too long to work in that area. Neither the DPW committee or the council were receptive to the contractor seeking additional money over the bid price.

Johnson said the difficulties were typical and contractors bid to provide for such problems. He didn't see any extraordinary or burdensome circumstances that would justify the extra payment. He also pointed out that the contract specified pre-approval for any extra expenses incurred by the contractor and Corvette had never requested such approval.

"The contractor told us in no uncertain terms that he will press this claim," Roache told the council.

"He made that clear at the DPW meeting," said council member Greg Chappuies, adding Brye said he would contact an attorney.

At the July 5 council meeting, Chappuies supported Vallance's motion not to pay the extra, as did the rest of council.

"I have worked with Brye a long time and never seen him do this," said Roache. "He is generally very cooperative and good to work with."

At the same meeting, Roache reported well progress was poor. On that date, the walls of the housing were up, but no well casing, floor pump, or electrical installation had begun. The contract had a completion date of July 9.

"This contractor has been unresponsive to continuous correspondence," said Roache. "I see no reason not to assess damages of $300 per day (as specified by the contract) and contact the bonding company to notify that the contractor is in default."

While the pump system still needs to be installed, Johnson said the pace of the contractors has picked up some since the meeting. The job was bid by McNeily and Son at $93,463.

When the well finally goes on line, the city will have four wells in operation. The other three are located on the east side of the river.

Break-in suspects to be arrested

The East Jordan Police Department reported a break-in at AJ's on Water Street July 11.

Several large radios and speakers with a value totaling $3,000 were taken from the store.

Police reported two white males are suspected and arrests are forthcoming. No further information was available at press time.
