

Weather

Not quite as much sun as most would have liked last weekend, but the rain stayed away, so who can complain? The "dog days" of August began with cloudy skies and a chance of rain throughout the week, but a change in the jet stream is expected to push the clouds off for a sunny weekend. Highs mostly in the 70s and low 80s for the week, overnight temps down near 50. LAST YEAR: The weather for the week was remarkably similar, with cloudy skies, a little rain and temperatures in the 70s, then a clearing and warming trend at the end of the week.

City council takes flack on library board appointment

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Torch/Journal Editor

Concerns about the most recent city library board appointment lead to a change in the appointment procedure when the East Jordan City Council met July 19.

Jordan Valley Library board member Dorothy Archer submitted a letter to the mayor and council protesting the July 5 appointment of Perry Bennett to the board. Archer cited a 1991 lawsuit brought against the library by Bennett's wife Karen for alleged wrongful discharge and unemployment benefits, as well as the fact that Bennett has no library card as indications that he may have an agenda that is not in the library's best interest.

Archer also charged the mayor and council with improperly handling the appointment procedure. She maintains that although there were three candidates for two positions, letters from only two candidates were received by council, and no discussion took place on the merits of the three.

Although several members of the council were in favor of reconsidering the appointment, city attorney Scott Beatty's opinion is Bennett has already been appointed and will have to be involved in misconduct to be removed from the position.

"The time for discussing whether he should be on the board is past," said council member Ruth Gee. "He was appointed. He has the right to serve now."

Council member Sherry Sineway agreed.

"It's up to Perry to prove his good intentions," Sineway said. "But we need to take very seriously the appointment process in the future."

Both Gee and Sineway are former library board members.

Sineway suggested forming a committee to screen candidates for all future council appointments. The Charter and Ordinance committee was directed by council to develop a procedure in the form of an ordinance or written policy, as advised by Beatty.

The council also discussed the disposition of two inactive trust funds.

The Century Club Fund, with $1,843, was established in 1980 to finish civic center and senior center renovations.

The Swan Fund, with $5,241.32, was established in 1974 to help pay the cost of burying electric lines along Bridge Street. Swans were regularly injured by flying into the wires, especially on the bridge.

City treasurer Susan Moreau researched both funds.

"They are just sitting on the books earning interest," reported Moreau. "I found no reason not to close the funds."

Council member Greg Chappuis said the issue had come up before the Ways and Means committee, which recommended a full council resolution to move the money into the Elm Pointe Fund.

Council member Brian Sweet suggested the DDA, which presently has no funding, as another recipient of the money.

After discussion, a decision was made to transfer $1,000 to the DDA until its source of funding is resolved and the rest to be deposited in the Elm Pointe fund for necessary building repairs.

In other action, the council:

- approved a $58,500 partial payment to Riba Marina for work on the harbor dredging project.

- listened to a description of run-off problems causing damage to the home of Arvida Walczak on Mill Street.

The run-off is caused by a plugged culvert, according to city superintendent Bob Johnson. Johnson suggested that eliminating snowmobile traffic through the area may help alleviate the problem. He reported that better trail designation is in the process of erection and will be complete "before snow flies."

- discussed difficulties for disabled pedestrians crossing M-32 in the downtown area and especially at Carey's Corner. The situation was referred to the Public Safety committee for further action.

Lloyd Burns

BY WENDY DETTLOFF AND JESSEICA CRAWFORD

This a summary of an interview of Lloyd Burns for the Michigan Historical Society. The interview took place April 21, 1994.

Mortensen's Funeral Home used to be a residents home a long time ago. North of the funeral home there used to be a big hotel on the corner. It was there until about 1940.

The Fire Hall used to be where Jan's Restaurant is now. The south end of the building was where the theater was.

There were two or three grocery stores. There was a hardware store called James' Hardware. Next there was a furniture store. Beyond the furniture store there was a bank called Stevens Bank. After they went out of the banking business the Post Office moved in there. Then The Applesseed took it over.

Up ahead of that, there used to be rooms they rented out to people. The first building used to be a telephone office. Then there was a grocery store. Next there was an appliance shop. There was a variety store in one half of Bachmann's. The northside of Bachmann's was the First State Bank.

Next was another hardware store. Chatterbox used to be a pool room. Then there was a barber shop. The next store was a women's clothing store. Then someone put a restaurant in there. In 1937 a grocery store called A&P took it over.

Jessica Crawford and Wendy Dettloff

Then there was a beer tavern. Next was the Post Office. (That turned into a beer tavern also.)

Across the street was a drygoods store. Next to it was the Torch Office. That was torn down and beyond that was a hardware store. That was torn down also. Next to that was a barber shop.

Beyond that was a gas station, since 1926. Then it went out of business. Beside that was a hotel. Across from where the laundromat is now, there used to be a canning factory, that was the main source of business. It started in about 1902. It burned down in 1968 and wasn't built back up. The bank used to be a blacksmith shop.

Mr. Burns also told us a bit of local folklore. It was that one time when a circus was in town, an elephant died. They took it out by the corner store and buried it. To this day, it is still there.

Future visits past is a continuing series of interviews featuring many of Central Lake's most venerable citizens, conducted by Central Lake High School students.

Women's Resource Center memberships available

Battering is not an event, it is a lifestyle. It is a lifestyle in which a person uses many forms of verbal and emotional abuse, in addition to physical abuse, to control others.

The Women's Resource Center is launching its 1994-1995 annual membership drive in the five-county region. Our goal is to top last year's drive, which more than doubled our membership. We need your help.

A Women's Resource Center membership means your financial support will:

- house women and children in Helen's House emergency shelter;
- support and advocate for women who need individual and group services;
- educate students in local schools about family violence and sexual assault;
- help batterers end their use of violence and other forms of abuse;
- provide court-ordered adolescents with information about alternatives to violent behaviors; and

• guarantee that you receive the Women's Resource Center's quarterly newsletter.

A Women's Resource Center membership will give women, children and men who seek our services a chance for a better future. Please help us to continue our efforts to stop family violence in our community.

Enhancements noted

THE CENTRAL LAKE Area Chamber of Commerce would like to express our deepest gratitude for the improvements that have been made this summer in our community.

Of particular note are the flower beds surrounding the chamber signs on the north and east entrances to the village. Ron and Luanne Donaldson and the newly formed Central Lake Garden Club are the responsible parties and should be commended for their efforts of planting and maintaining the very attractive beds.

The Village Department of Public Works crew are thanked for the improvements to the Paul Burnett Pavilion at Thurston Park allowing effective water drainage away from the pavilion's kitchen.

The removal of the dying trees, replacement of sidewalks, and planting of flowers in front of the chamber office has added an attractiveness to that area.

The improvement to the sidewalk on Main Street next to Central Food Center will surely enhance the appeal to that portion of the street.

*Cathy Eckhardt, President
Central Lake Area
Chamber of Commerce*

Trip to EJ was enlightening

I am writing to you after returning from a visit to your area. I was hoping to find the places of my great-grandfather's farm, his children, and my grandfather's and father's house, where they lived, where they worked.

After a visit to your library and the great help we received there, we visited the Portside Historical Museum. What a wonderful place - found so much information on my great-grandfather, Joseph H. Lanway, my grandfather, Will H. Lanway, and my father, Lee M. Lanway.

What a jewel, the place and the people who gave of their time!

Claim Michigan has prettiest lake in the nation

Michigan has the most beautiful lake in the United States, according to the National Geographic Association and the state intends to extend a road which will wind around 18 miles of this lake shore, it developed at the state administrative board meeting here Monday.

Torch Lake, in Antrim County, according to statements made by members of a delegation from that section, not only is ranked first as a scenic American lake, but is given third rank in the world lakes by an International Geographic Association in Europe. The delegation, led by State Senator John E. Gillett, pleaded before the board that the state highway, M-66, be extended Northwest from Kalkaska, 38 miles to Eastport, along the eastern shores of Torch and Grass Lakes. The project would extend to Charlevoix and join US-31 later.

months and general depression where he claimed a road would bring a boom.

Several of the delegation spoke strongly against running the road easterly toward Charlevoix, passing through the Jordan Valley and then up to Charlevoix.

The board appeared highly impressed with the descriptions and at Governor Green's (1927-1930) suggestion, the project was referred to the road committee with power to act. This was taken to indicate from the trend of questions, that the requested approval would be forthcoming.

EDITOR'S NOTE: This memory from a Lansing newspaper is believed to be circa 1927. Many thanks to Linda Record for sharing. Obviously, despite the emotional appeals of the Antrim County delegation, the Road Committee saw fit to stick with the original recommendation for M-66.

We're happy to report that our dear Jo Somerville of Jo's News fame is recovering well and should be resting at home as you read this column. On their way to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey for a special delivery - their new son Weston - Dana and Steve deTar of Central Lake ran into Venetian Festival traffic in Charlevoix at the height of the day, July 23.

Talk about in the nick of time - as they passed over the drawbridge, the lights came on and the warning bells started ringing as the bridge opened behind them for the festival parade. Good thing they made it - that could have been the longest trip around Lake

Charlevoix that anyone ever took!

Via Shirley Farrell of Ellsworth, we heard that a former teacher at Ellsworth High School, Oland Kauffman, retired this year from Fairview Area High School.

Oland taught junior high social studies and high school shop and drafting from 1964-66 before returning to his home town school to teach for 29 more years. He also coached Ellsworth Junior High basketball and high school track, was assistant coach of the football team and taught driver's ed.

Oland and his wife Jo, who is also retiring after 25 years as school library assistant, plan to do some fishing and motorcycle riding. They also hope to take a trip to Alaska.

Show invites submissions

The Traverse Area Arts Council invites submissions for a juried show called Regional Environments: Landscapes - Waterscapes - Cityscapes - etc. All artists residing in the Grand Traverse Region and current members of TAAC are invited to submit up to three original works of art based on the theme of regional environments. All media will be accepted for jurying.

The deadline for entries is at noon on Sat., Aug. 27. A reception is set for Fri., Sept. 2, 6-8 p.m., and the exhibition will run through Sept. 30.

For information and an entry form, please contact the TAAC Gallery, 106 1/2 Front Street, 947-2282.

Expo celebrates local environment

Splash on down to the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council's 1994 Lake Expo on Sat., Aug. 6, at Petoskey's Bayfront Park from 11 a.m. to 4 p.m. This day long festival to celebrate northern Michigan's lakes, rivers, ground water and wetlands is free and open to the public. There will be entertainment, hands-on experiments, nature walks, plus more.

A one-mile and three-mile Fun Run and Walk along Little Traverse Bay shoreline will kick off the event at 9 a.m. Registration begins at 8:30 a.m., and there is no entrance fee.

Boat excursions on beautiful Little Traverse Bay will be available providing a presentation on the natural history of the bay. Local musicians Ann Bailey and Gretchen Van Loozen will perform throughout the day, sharing their songs about ground water, conservation, and other environmental issues. Instrumental music will be provided by the trio of Leslie Hoerner, Tim Stedman, and Chauncy Tanton.

Short presentations on topics pertinent to the Great Lakes including, exotic invaders, shipwrecks and underwater preserves, and lighthouses of the region will be given throughout the day.

Fish printing provides an opportunity for children and adults to learn more about local fish while making prints of them on T-shirts or paper. T-shirts can be brought from home or purchased at Lake Expo.

Activities for the entire family are planned for the annual membership meeting of the Top O' Michigan Electric Company on Sat., Aug. 13.

Members of the customer-owned, electric cooperative will elect three directors to their board. Candidates vying for three-year terms on the nine-member board are directors John Blair of Charlevoix, Howard Carson of Boyne City, and Edwin Estelle of Elmira; and challenger Thomas Walenta of Petoskey.

The election and business meeting begin at 1 p.m. at the company's Boyne City office. But the fun and activities for all members and their families begin at 11 a.m.

Food, refreshments and prizes will be provided along with music by the Epsilon Jazz Band and entertainment by juggler Tommy Tropic of East Jordan. Special children's activities are planned while mom and dad attend the business meeting, and chicken dinners will be prepared by the Rotary Club of Boyne City.

A silent auction of handcrafted items will also be offered, with winners announced during the meeting.

The entire annual meeting highlights humor and family entertainment, but it also focuses on the serious side of the rural electric cooperatives and, specifically, the important role Top O' Michigan plays in northern Michigan.

This marks the 57th year for the rural electric cooperative which has grown from a four-county service area in 1937 to 12 counties in northwestern lower Michigan. Top O' Michigan is the largest distribution cooperative in the state, serving more than 46,000 customers with 5,500 miles of line.

The company, which began with a $250,000 Rural Electrification Administration (REA) loan, has now repaid nearly $23 million in principal and more than $27 million in interest to the REA and the National Rural Utilities Cooperative Finance Corp., another lender to rural electric cooperatives. Total payroll is up to $3.1 million per year and $12.8 million in patronage capital was returned to members over the past 11 years. In addition, Top O' Michigan paid $884,500 in property taxes to local communities during the past year.

The Ellsworth Tradesman August 5, 1926

■ Dr. Frosh of Columbus, Ohio, hooked and landed the largest muskie caught in Ellsworth so far this season. The big fish tipped the scales at 15 pounds.

The doctor is a guest at Ellsworth's Big Fish Inn, located in the heart of northern Michigan's best fishing area.

■ Fred W. Green stopped at Ellsworth Monday on his way to Boyne City, and delivered a very interesting talk, omitting the usual political promises, which we believe is several points in his favor.

■ The Ellsworth Canning Company started the season's canning Thursday morning.

The East Jordan Canning Company has shipped two car-loads of cherries this week.

■ Ernest Brown, oldest son of Mr. and Mrs. F.S. Brown of Atwood, had his tonsils removed at East Jordan last Tuesday.

■ Andrew Essenburg and helpers are doing a much-needed piece of road work near Bert De Youngs. They are widening the road and cutting off the short curves.

■ Dr. Duffie of Central Lake was in the Pleasant Hill vicinity Tuesday.

■ Jack Smith of Antrim City caught a swarm of bees; he did not find the warm end of them but the boys did.

■ F.H. Brooks of Antrim City finished his labors at Charlevoix and came home last week. Some of the buildings he had just built burned last week, so he is back building new ones in their place.

■ Mr. and Mrs. George Nichols of Ionia came Wednesday to look over their farm in Miles District.

■ Mr. and Mrs. C.L. Strong of East Jordan and James Holben and Mr. and Mrs. A. Miles of Miles District motored to Snowflake Sunday and spent the day.

The Central Lake Torch August 3, 1950

■ Mrs. George Stevens of Central Lake is a very busy woman these days. She does her own housework, then drives to her mother Mrs. Frances Crawford's, and helps care for her through the day, then back home at night.

■ Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Frame and Mr. Martin DeBryan from California accompanied Miss Kate A. Wilson to Charlevoix, where they all enjoyed a picnic dinner in the Boulder Park. It is Mr. DeBryan's first visit back here since they moved from Central Lake 43 years ago. They lived where Miller Young lives now.

■ A surprise birthday party was given for Mrs. Hattie Willson at her home July 28.

The 23 persons who attended the celebration played games, enjoyed a delicious lunch and presented Mrs. Willson with a lovely gift and numerous cards.

■ Howard Mathers has painted his Central Lake filling station white and blue to coincide with the change he has made from Power Flight to Blue Sunoco gasoline.

The old gas pumps in front of the station have been removed and replaced with the latest model pumps available.

■ W.C. Gerathy of Cleveland, Ohio, a guest at the Bass Cove cabins in Central Lake, caught a five-pound small mouth bass last Friday night. Just between you and I, that is a lot of small mouth bass.

■ Archie Hosey of Central Lake can now qualify as a first-rate lion tamer. With his dog's hair clipped lion fashion, Archie parked his red pickup truck right next to a red Packard sedan. Archie told his dog to "Get in the truck," and the dog promptly jumped on top of the Packard. Anybody want their dog trained?

■ Mrs. Matilda Gust of Barhead, Canada, and Mr. and Mrs. Daniel Bulman and family of River Grove, Ill., are visiting their mother at the home of their brother, August Bulman of Miles District. This is the first time in 25 years they have been together.

■ Twenty-eight girls from Four-Way Lodge filed through Eastport last Wednesday, on horseback, on their way to Torch Lake Inn for dinner.

■ Harold Smith came to his Mahar Cabins in Eastport for the weekend and brought his grandson Melvin Growden, also of Toledo, to stay with his grandmother for a time to keep her company and to keep cookies from spoiling.

■ Rev. and Mrs. Jerry Pott and sons left Tuesday and will be leaving for South America. They have been visiting at the home of his parents Mr. and Mrs. E. Pott and other relatives in Atwood and vicinity for the last few months.

■ A new furnace is being installed this week in the home owned by the Ebenezer Christian School Society on south Main Street in Ellsworth.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Be Good With God

"I say to the Lord, 'Thou art my Lord: I have no good apart from thee'."

Psalm 16:2

God is goodness. If we deny that, we deny all. Everything we have been granted through the blessings of God. He created the earth and the things that live and grow on it and He gave us life. Even those things that may seem of little value or even harmful to us have a meaning in the overall plans of the Creator, some measure of goodness in His design for the world. God even continues to seek out the decency in the most evil of persons. We are all born in goodness, the evil we acquire when we depart from God's way. Surely the psalmist David knew that when he sang of his trust in the Lord and his need for the goodness he derived from that trust. Can we do any less?

HALLMARKS OF the Portside Art Fair are beautiful weather, relaxed browsing and hospitable surroundings, as well as fine art for purchase, such as the jewelry of local artist Gerry Aydrott, shown with customers at last year's exhibition.

Artists gather for the Portside Art Fair in EJ

The beautiful setting of the 32nd annual Portside Arts Fair, at Elm Pointe on the shore of Lake Charlevoix outside East Jordan, provides an appropriate backdrop for the art works exhibited. The show is set for Sat., Aug 6, 10 a.m. to 5 p.m. and Sun., Aug. 7, from noon to 5 p.m.

"We have a nice mix of local artists and people from all over the United States," said fair committee coordinator Anne Dingman.

Stringent application criteria for exhibitors helps keep the juried show of high quality. Dingman said there are generally about twice as many applicants as the 100 exhibitors selected.

A wide variety of media will be represented at this year's fair, including a number of new exhibitors. Several artists that work with paper will also add a fresh touch to the types of art available for purchase.

The highlight, especially for exhibitors, is the Purchase Prize awards. Each artist enters a piece for judging. If selected, the work is permanently displayed at the Cygred Riley Art Gallery, adjoining the Portside Art and Historical Museum. A $500 prize is awarded for two-dimensional media, while a three-dimensional work is selected for the $300 Purchase Prize.

Judge this year is Robbie Carmichael of Traverse City, chairperson of the Traverse City Arts and Crafts Guild.

Hospitality really sets the Portside fair apart. Numerous volunteers assist exhibitors and cater to fair-goers. A children's booth helps keep the younger set occupied with creative activities while parents shop. Homemade pie and refreshing drinks are available, provided by the Lutheran Church of East Jordan.

Visiting the Portside Art and Historical Museum and the Cygred Riley Art Gallery provides a pleasant and interesting diversion as well. Sadly, the museum's special ambassador George Secord passed away in July and will be deeply missed in his annual role as greeter.

The Collecting Consort will again provide musical entertainment throughout the weekend. The duo of Anne and Gary Wakenhut combine story and song to the accompaniment of Celtic harp, hammered dulcimer, wood flute, pan pipes and penny whistle.

Admission to the art fair is by donation, with all proceeds going toward the maintenance of Elm Pointe.

Who will the University partners be?

In June of this year, the NMC Board of Trustees approved the naming of eleven inaugural partners for the NMC University Center:

Central Michigan University	Michigan State University
Davenport College of Business	Northern Michigan University
Eastern Michigan University	Spring Arbor College
Ferris State University	University of Michigan
Grand Valley State University	Western Michigan University
Lake Superior State University

These partners may change somewhat by the fall of 1995.

Hospital new new chief of staff

Dennis M. Joy, M.D., has been elected chief of the medical staff at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Dr. Joy has been a family practitioner on the Charlevoix Area Hospital staff since 1974. He is a graduate of Michigan State University with a bachelor of science degree in 1963 and a master's degree in 1965. He earned his medical degree at the University of Michigan in 1971 and served his internship at Bethesda Medical Center, St. Paul, Minnesota, and residency at the University of Minnesota. He is certified by the American Board of Family Practice.

The hospital's 22-member active medical staff also elected Mitchell Carey, M.D., as vice chief of staff, and Marc Lane, M.D., as secretary. Also elected to serve on the executive committee are Steven Wisniewski, M.D. and Edward Newcomb, M.D.

The chief of staff serves as an ex-officio member of the hospital board of directors and, along with the executive committee, oversees the medical staff policies, procedures and quality assurance at the hospital.

it's my job

John and Betsy King

John and Betsy King have many different jobs at their orchard on M-88, depending on the time of year. Last week it was cherries, cherries, cherries.

King Orchards was abuzz with activity, as the various types of cherries were ready for harvest. The orchard grows sweet cherries, gold cherries (often used for maraschinos), and tart cherries for pies.

"This is our first harvest every season," Betsy said. "This year we have 18 kids and eight migrant workers helping us."

"It's exhilarating to put together these three-and-a-half weeks of intense harvesting and effort," said John.

John's brother Jim, and sister-in-law Rose also run an orchard in Kewadin. The families often fill work orders together, and lease other fruit fields in addition to their orchards.

During this frantic time, the Kings work about 16 hours a day. At around 6:30 a.m., phone calls start, and deals are struck with packagers and food distributors. Then, it's off to the fields.

Cherries on the trees don't mean profits for the orchard, the Kings said. There's more cracking and decay of the fruit with every hard rain or strong wind. The more damage to the fruit, the lower the quality grade - and the lower the profits. Prioritizing by the owners becomes important.

"You have to figure out where to pick next - what will get you the most money and the most cherries," John said.

In the fields, a mechanical shaker is often used to get the cherries out of a tree quickly. Black sweet cherries, which bruise easily, must be hand-picked.

After harvesting all day, orders are trucked out of the orchard, often to packing plants in Elk Rapids and Kewadin, where the fruit is canned or frozen. Some cherries stay right at King Orchards' produce stand just off M-88, which Betsy often oversees.

In the evening, it's more dealing with wholesalers and making sure truck shipments got where they were supposed to. The Kings' day ends around 10:30 p.m.

"In a good year, we bring in more than a million pounds of cherries, including our leased fields," John said.

What do the Kings love about this hectic work?

"I like the business decisions - leasing farms, dealing with different people, the satisfaction when you make the right choices," John said.

"It's nice having all the kids around, figuring out how to solve all the problems that inevitably arise," Betsy said. "Things never happen exactly the way they're supposed to."

Though the cherry harvest may be wrapped up, the Kings have no time to rest on their laurels.

"Apricots are in, then it's peaches, then apples," Betsy said.

LISTENING (more or less) ATTENTIVELY to instructor Arlene Lueck, (from left) Byron Patton, Andrew Moran and Tracy Moran are prepared to enter the water with growing confidence.

A TEMPORARY RAFT just beyond the boundary markers for the Thurston Park beach got heavy use during the 1994 Central Lake Swim Program.

Program is "in the swim"

What's an essential skill for all children, especially those living in this water-blessed area?

The answer is the ability to swim, and in Central Lake, they've not only known that for years — they've been doing something about it.

In fact, an annual swim program sponsored by the village has been introducing or upgrading swimming skills among area kids for more than a decade.

The 1994 swim program saw 50 youngsters take advantage of the opportunity. For three consecutive four-day weeks, the 4- to 13-year-olds improved their water-worthiness under the watchful eye of Arlene Lueck.

A water safety instructor since her teens, Lueck has been the guiding force behind the Central Lake program since 1988. She teaches the classes (this year at five different skill levels) in 35-minute segments with five-minute breaks from 11:45 a.m. to 4:20 p.m., and does it all without the aid of an assistant.

"Sometimes kids from other classes help out," she said, noting that Brian Aenis assisted with some classes this year and, "That was wonderful."

Introductory classes begin with water exploration, and successful swimmers can continue all the way through to advanced skills, including diving.

Years of experience with small children has provided Lueck with considerable insight into the best way to familiarize tots with the water.

"I'd say the most important thing is to get in the water with them, if at all possible," she said. "That's where it all happens. Too often the adult sits on the blanket and tells the child, 'Go play in the water.' But many children have to be taught how much fun water can be.

"We play games like tossing sponges back and forth. If they fall, they'll usually get right up without a fuss, because they're concentrating on playing a game and not thinking about being afraid."

The program is underwritten by the Village of Central Lake, with additional funding coming in the form of a $10-per-student fee.

FRESH FROM A SWIM across the northern end of Intermediate Lake and their promotion to the next level of swimming proficiency, Brian Aenis and cousin Tracy Smith have been enjoying Central Lake's swim classes for several years.

Snowflake Road public access: Myth or fact?

BY MARY FREY
Editorial Director

It's only 24 feet wide. But it leads to "the nicest sandy swimming area on Intermediate Lake," according to Knipe Road resident Louise Ernst.

And as far back as she can remember, it's been a public access - one of the few on the lake's well-traveled west side.

Ernst has reason to remember. The property at the end of Snowflake Road was once owned by her great-grandfather Wilson Eggleston. Foreseeing the day when lakefront development would limit the public's access to the lake, in 1946 Eggleston released at least one right of way "for the sole purpose of conveying to the Township of Forest Home a right of way over the above described lands for highway purposes and to permit the use by the public of the existing line of road and to the parcel of land above described."

Officials say that deed refers to a strip "20 to 30 feet wide" at the end of nearby Eggleston Road that was split and sold to adjacent property owners for $2,300 each around 1989. (See related box.)

Ernst isn't so sure. She remembers two accesses deeded to the public - the Eggleston Road strip (which fell out of public consciousness decades ago), and the more frequented Snowflake Road access.

As a child, she often heard that gift to future generations proudly referred to by relatives, who indicated the specific strip of land now being contested.

Snowflake access 'melts' away

Until September 1993, a public access sign confirmed that location. That's when the Antrim County Road Commission, at the request of Forest Home Township, removed the sign.

The written request referred to an attached letter from adjacent property owner Kathy Thompson. "As you can see, this letter indicates the Thompsons own the property in question," wrote township supervisor Arland Lovett in the Aug. 5, 1993, communication. "The Thompsons are requesting the public access signs be removed from highway M-88.

"The township has no objection to the signs being removed, since we have no legal authority over said property."

DOES THIS PILE of fencing planned to block the road ending leading to Intermediate Lake violate a long-standing public access? Louise Ernst, great-granddaughter of the original owner says yes; current owners Bill and Kathy Thompson say no. Dennis Snarey, a neighboring resident who has enjoyed use of the access for years, is pictured with Ernst. He noted the access is even more popular in the winter months, as ice fishermen have long utilized the spot.

The attached letter, signed by assessor Robert Logec, stated in part, "My examination of the current and former assessment cards indicates that this parcel assessment has been based on 165 front feet for at least as long as I have been assessor with the township ... This 165 feet, according to the survey sketch, includes 33.03 feet of what might normally be construed as 1/2 of Snowflake Road."

Residents try to sink marina plans

BY KEITH MATHENY
Contributing Writer

Lakefront owners and representatives of the DNR's Parks and Recreation Division met face-to-face at the Torch Lake Township Hall July 20 - but not to discuss the public access proposed by the DNR just north of McLachlan Road.

The topic instead was township supervisor Kim Schmidt's attempt to get a marina permit for the facilities at his Torch Tip Resort off US-31. Schmidt said he's been renting two pontoon boats and two jet skis to cottage renters and the general public for more than a year. The facility also has docks where at least eight visiting boats can be moored overnight.

More than 70 residents came to the informational DNR hearing, the majority opposed to the marina. Most cited congestion on that part of the lake, additional pollution and safety concerns.

"This is a small, highly-developed cove," said resident Norm Milewicz. "It's already an obstacle course of docks, boat hoists, tethered boats and swimmers. That will only be compounded by renting watercraft to mostly inexperienced operators."

Jack Norris, water quality chairman for the Three Lakes Association, said the last water quality survey on Torch Lake showed a "hot spot" with a high bacteria count just off from Schmidt's resort.

"It's a poor idea to further pollute that area without cleaning up the pollution that exists," he said. "A marina there would be a destructive exploitation of the resource."

Resident Jack Pilkington said he didn't like that the rental watercraft were refueled while still in the lake.

"No matter how careful you are, if you're filling a gas tank on a jet ski and it overflows, the gas is going into the lake," he said.

Lawrence Tomlinson,

However, a review of other surveys of the same area shows the Thompson property spanning 165 feet without the inclusion of Snowflake Road.

Meanwhile, spurred by an early '90s lawsuit when a renter was injured on the disputed access site, Thompsons have been seeking to terminate public use of the land.

And Louise Ernst, with support from the Association to Preserve Public Accesses, Michigan United Conservation Clubs (MUCC) and concerned local residents, is seeking to stop them.

While lawyers sift through the details, an Aug. 11, 7 p.m. meeting at the Forest Township Hall in Bellaire will invite the public to debate the issue.

Also interested in the dispute, the Antrim County Road Commission has placed the access question on their Aug. 23 agenda. The public is also welcome at that 9:30 a.m. meeting, in the road commission building (behind Avery's Restaurant).

Residents try to sink marina plans on Torch Lake

who's family has lived near Torch Tip for nearly 100 years, said increased usage of the area has meant a change for the worse.

"I don't see the swans anymore at the north tip of Torch Lake," he said. "I don't see the ducks I used to see."

Others expressed their support for the marina.

"There's nothing too much different there now than there was under the previous owners," said Donald Gaskell, who said he's resided on the lakeshore for 30 years.

"It's a beautiful lake, and there's plenty of room for everybody," said resident Thomas Deacon.

"I don't think (Schmidt's) two pontoon boats and two jet skis cause all of the noise, traffic and pollution problems on the lake," said Dave Hoeft, a local marina owner.

Many opposed to the marina at Torch Tip pointed out that Schmidt has been operating it without the proper permission from the DNR, and that he received a special use permit from the township planning commission to rent watercraft without having the necessary state permits.

Schmidt said he "honestly didn't know" he needed a marina permit from the DNR, and that he applied for one last summer when he learned it was necessary.

Many said they couldn't believe the DNR was letting Schmidt continue to operate while the marina permit was still unapproved.

"This hearing is a reward for Schmidt for violating the law," said resident Virginia Mouch. "We shouldn't even be here."

"If I catch a perch, and the sheriff marine patrol or DNR officers pull up beside my boat and ask me for my license, I can't tell them, 'it's pending,'" said local lakefront owner Walter Rakecky. "Next time you get pulled over for speeding in your car, try telling the officer that your license is 'pending.'"

DNR official Carrie Hardigan, who oversees inland marinas in the state, told the audience that Schmidt was allowed to keep the marina open because "there has been a certain degree of historical use at the site."

John Arevalo, DNR district representative for land and water management, said getting quick action from his department, the police or prosecutor, is often difficult in such issues.

"If you can prove it's destroying the environment through its operation, or that it poses a provable safety risk, then you have an easier time getting a cease-and-desist order," he said. "Law enforcement and the prosecutor have to weigh these complaints against all of the other criminal activities going on."

Schmidt pointed out that no other rental watercraft are available north of Clam River, and there are no rental operations for Torch Lake off US-31.

"I'm providing a service for people who don't live on the water, giving them access to Torch Lake on these watercraft," he said. "This is a clear case of some of the lakefront owners wanting to keep the lake private."

An opposing resident characterized the situation differently to the DNR representatives.

"You're granting a franchise to make money off of a natural resource to one individual," Rakecky said.

Hardigan and other DNR officials will make the decision on the marina permit within 60 days. Only one thing is assured: If the decision is appealed by either side, a long wait for a final outcome can be expected.

"We currently have a two-and-a-half year backlog on contested cases," Hardigan said.

Discipline workshop

"Positive discipline," a workshop for licensed foster parents will be offered on Tues., Aug. 16, at 6 p.m. This workshop, facilitated by Kelly Sterk, M.S.W., C & FS Licensing Supervisor, will be held at Child and Family Services, 3785 Veterans Dr., Traverse City.

Positive discipline teaches children good behavior without using punishment. A step-by-step approach using natural and logical consequences will be explained. Information will also be provided on what motivates a child to misbehave and techniques will be shared to help each foster parent deal with inappropriate behavior.

At the same workshop "Silent Partners" will be offered to the biological children of foster parents. The children will be grouped by age. Activities will be provided that promote communication and empathy skills.

This training is being offered by the Northwestern Michigan Foster Training Coalition. To register or for more information call 946-8975.

Warning: remove strings from children's clothing

The U.S. Consumer Product Safety Commission recently announced a major cooperative effort with manufacturers and retailers who will remove drawstrings from hoods and necks of children's clothing including jackets and hooded T-shirts by next spring.

In the meantime, parents should immediately remove head and neck drawstrings from children's jackets, sweatshirts, and similar clothing or sew a seam through the drawstring in the middle of the hood and neck so neither end can pull out and catch on an object, the safety commission warns.

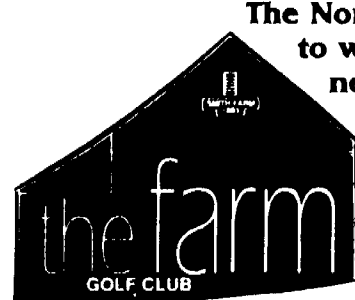

The string ends on such garments should be cut as short as needed to close the garment.

Drawstrings caught on playground equipment, fences, cribs and an escalator were associated with 12 deaths and 27 near-strangulations since 1985, according to the safety commission.

People can report incidents involving drawstrings on children's clothing, unsafe consumer products and product-related injuries by calling the Consumer Product Safety Commission at (800) 638-8270.

PUBLIC NOTICE

The Village of Central Lake intends to apply for a CDBG grant in the amount of $400,000 to be matched with $400,000 of local funds. The funds will be used for improvements to the water system being a new supply well, storage and distribution mains for the benefit of the residents of the Village. A public hearing will be conducted at the regular meeting of the Village Council on Monday August 8, 1994 at 7:00 p.m. at the Government Center. The Village Council will at that time hear comments from the public concerning the proposed grant application and project.

State grants aid law enforcement

Antrim County law enforcement and the Traverse Narcotics Team, which serves the local area, got a financial boost as the state recently awarded over $360,000 in grants to the two agencies.

For the Zero Tolerance Offender Treatment program in Antrim County, $45,349 is targeted for offenders who need regular testing while on probation. Under the program, any infraction results in the imposition of immediate sanctions, including jail time.

Over $323,000 is funneled through Benzie and Grand Traverse counties for TNT to continue a multi-county grand jury targeting suspected major dealers. It supports undercover operations and prosecution of drug cases.

Easter Seals seek equipment

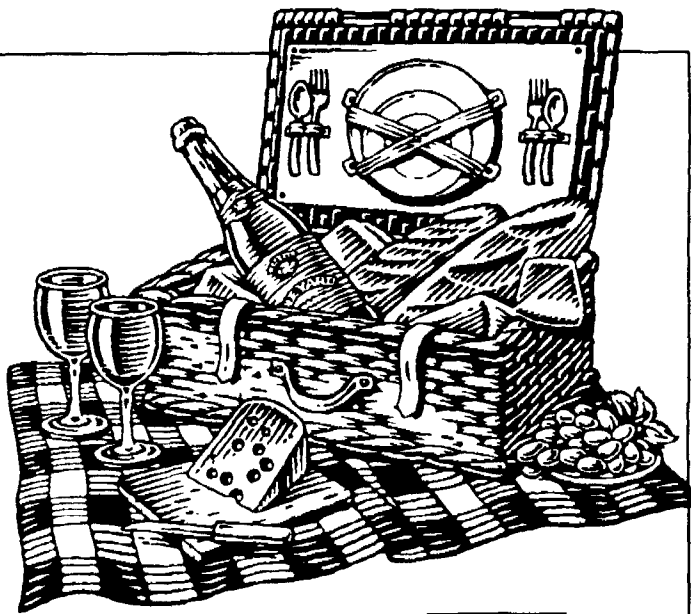

Used medical equipment may be turned into tax deductions by donating the equipment to the Easter Seal Society Loan Equipment Program.

Equipment such as wheelchairs, walkers, bath benches, canes and crutches are needed to upgrade this program.

The Easter Seal Society is also expanding its loan equipment program and needs communication devices for this expansion. They are looking for devices that will allow a person with a speech/language/hearing impairment to communicate more effectively.

To borrow or donate equipment, communication devices or toys, call Verluria Cobbs at 1-800-292-2729.

Banks Township needs participants

The Banks Township Board accepted, with regret, the resignation of Thelma Chellis from the zoning board of appeals at their July 18 meeting.

"She did a great job, but I guess she had too many other things going on," township clerk Donna Heeres said.

Heeres said the board is always looking for interested township residents to get involved in various local government boards. Two openings are expected on the board of review for tax assessments in January, she said.

Anyone interested in joining a board can contact Banks Township officials at 588-6126 and leave a message.

Meals-on-Wheels to get new vans

Meals-on-Wheels volunteers will no longer have to use their own wheels when helping out the organization.

A $29,500 grant to the Antrim County Commission on Aging will provide two new vans for the program. The COA recently received the grant from the Herrick Foundation in Detroit.

Nancy Whyte, COA Director, said she was currently seeking bids from local dealers for the vans.

"No one seems to have any right now, so I guess we will be waiting to purchase the 1995 vans that come out in September," she said.

The Meals-On-Wheels program has been operated by the COA in Antrim County for more than 20 years. It provides at-home meal distribution for seniors age 60 or older who, for one reason or another, cannot provide nutritious meals for themselves.

The vans will have shelving added to hold the meals. One vehicle will cover the Bellaire, Alden, Central Lake, Ellsworth and Eastport areas; the other will serve Elk Rapids. Whyte hopes the new vehicles will encourage people to volunteer as drivers for the program.

"It's so hard to recruit drivers when they have to put a lot of miles on their car, and have wear and tear on their vehicles from some of these country roads," she said.

"Now, we already have people lined up to work for free as drivers in the program - but we could use a few more."

Anyone interested in volunteering as a driver for the Meals-on-Wheels program can contact Whyte at the Commission on Aging, 533-8703.
