

Weather

A good week for vacationers, with only one rainy day and highs ranging from the mid-70s into the upper 80s. It was all capped off with a glorious weekend — blue skies, gentle winds and Saturday highs in the upper 70s warming to the low 80s for Sunday. The rain held off until Monday morning, which dawned dark and overcast, to the rumble of thunder. Roadsides are bright with purple knapweed, Queen Anne's lace and black-eyed Susans. Last year: An overcast week of highs that barely reached 70 was salvaged by a bright, warm weekend.

Basketball camp: learning for everyone.

Already an outstanding player, Kalamazoo College grad Sara Chase said she learned new skills as a coaching staff member at U of M coach Jay Smith's basketball camp in East Jordan last week. Sara will incorporate her newly-gained knowledge into her role as EJHS freshmen girls' coach this year. See more on the camp for kids inside this week's East Jordan Journal.

Art weekend a stunning success

East Jordan potter David Otis works with a customer at the 32nd annual Pottery Art Fair August 6-7. Beautiful weather blessed the exhibit, which featured a number of local artists as well as exhibitors from as far away as California. See more on the art fair in next week's edition of the East Jordan Journal.

McDonald's proposes full service restaurant for East Jordan

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Torch/Journal Editor

Sitting down to a Egg McMuffin breakfast or a Big Mac lunch may soon be possible for East Jordan fast food fans.

McDonald's Corporation approached the East Jordan City Council Aug. 2 with a proposal to buy city property for building a full service restaurant.

"I'm here to get feedback on whether or not we should pursue this," explained McDonald's Corp. real estate representative Roger E. DeHoek of Grand Rapids.

DeHoek showed council members aerial views of the site the company is interested in, on M-32 between Charlevoix Properties Real Estate and Murphy Field. He said the company wants to purchase about one acre, but is willing to consider a long-term ground lease instead.

DeHoek assured council the company would work with the parks and recreation committee to develop a coordinated access with Tourist Park, which adjoins the site, and would not encroach on the camping facilities.

DeHoek said the company has researched other possible sites, but "we feel this would be the best location in town for our purposes."

The proposed building is 2,800 square feet, seating about 50 people. DeHoek said the restaurant will employ 50-70 people and cost about $750,000 to build. The company is willing to comply with city ordinances concerning signage and landscaping.

Tom Holka, owner of the Jordan Valley Express Music Center McDonald's franchise, will own the M-32 franchise. He also owns restaurants in Boyne City and Kalkaska.

"He's a great operator," said DeHoek.

The company has been very impressed with business generated by the Express McDonald's, and intends to continue that operation.

Council members expressed enthusiastic interest in the proposal. But several said they would like to hear from the community before committing to the plan.

"I personally would like to see a public forum," said Sherry Sineway.

Ruth Gee agreed.

"This land has been in public use so I want community input and to get the facts out." Gee said that rumors about how much of the Tourist Park would be compromised have already begun, so some public education is necessary.

Sineway was also concerned about Chamber of Commerce plans, since access to the new restaurant from M-66 would require dismantling the chamber building. Mayor Russ Peck and council member Greg Chappuies said there is reason to believe the chamber wants to relocate to a larger building in the downtown area anyway. The mayor also noted a public hearing will be required on the site plan before the company can build.

Council came to a consensus that the city is definitely interested in the proposal and referred DeHoek to both the planning commission and parks and recreation committee for further discussion. DeHoek will have the site surveyed so a plan can be developed.

Real estate negotiations will be handled through Jack Anderson, an agent with a long-term relationship with McDonald's Corp., who was also involved in the Express contract. He said ground leases are typically for 20 years, with four or five-year extensions or options to purchase. An inflation factor is built into the contract, and McDonald's makes the payments directly to the city.

Fundraising and fun will quack together for a "Ducky Derby" sponsored by the East Jordan Holiday Decoration Committee, Fri., Aug. 12. See back page..

Pete and Iva Jane Eckhardt

BY ERIK MAJCHER and MAC ECKHARDT

Central Lake was a lot different when Pete and Iva Jane Eckhardt were young.

Cary's didn't own a party store, but a shoe store. Young's party store was a meat market, and there was a jail across from the post office. There were places to store potatoes where the post office is now.

Before the Standard gas station, there was a bandstand. Movies were projected on a white wall with a hand projector.

Thurston's Grocery Store was where the drug store is now. Harry Smith owned a gas station where the gas station in town is now. In the garage there was a very small basketball court.

Argo's sold coal and feed to people. They also bought cream.

There was an opera house over the grocery house that burned down in 1968. Gus Alberts owned a blacksmith shop where the bank is now.

The Lamplight, which was built in the 1920s, was just a hotel, not a restaurant. It was called the Wegoda Hotel.

The canning factory was on the north side of town and burned on graduation day of 1986. Youmans' owned a clothing store. Next to the post office was the Carpet Barn, a bakery, and an A&P store for a short while.

The north side of Bachmann's store was a hardware store. The south side of the store was a bank. The vault is still in the store somewhere.

The telephone company was on the corner of Main and State streets. There used to be a sawmill where Central Lake Industries is now

Many of the businesses in Central Lake have moved around over the years. There haven't been that many new stores in Central Lake, but the town has gone through major changes.

Long ago the telephone company had a clerk that would answer the phone when you wanted to make a call. She or he would ask you who you wanted to call and would plug your wire into that place. You would be connected with the turn of a crank.

Pete Eckhardt

People collected ice off the lake and got sawdust from the sawmill. The sawdust would be used as an insulator to keep the ice cool for the summer.

People walked to school in the winter from all around. Kids that lived in Pleasant Valley would have to walk the six miles to school every day.

Doctor Duffy was the town doctor, and he would check the kids for frostbite every morning on their way to school. So when we always heard the stories about having to walk six miles to school in -20 degree weather, part of it was true.

Erik Majcher and Mac Eckhardt

For fun, people did a lot of different things. Some would roller skate on the sidewalk in front of the Wegoda Hotel (the Lamplight), or they would play marbles on the sidewalk. On Halloween the neighborhood kids would roll outhouses over hills or move them into town and line them up along Main Street.

There wasn't a football team back then, but there was a basketball team.

The way the girls played was a lot different than it is now. There were six people per team. The court was divided up into six parts and the guards, forwards, or centers couldn't leave their spots.

On Wednesday nights the free show was in town. Everybody went to watch a band play or watch a movie.

At the A&P store people could play cards or shoot pool for 20 cents a game.

During the winter the kids would sled down Dean Hill. They could fit six to eight kids on a bobsled and slide from the top of the hill to somewhere where the sports shop is today.

Kids had to do some things that weren't fun, like working on the farm. They would have to pick two or three acres of green beans. Kids hated to get ice from the barns, rinse it off and put it in the icebox. During the summer, they picked up stones from the fields that had come up during the winter.

The Eckhardt farm raised potatoes, beets, carrots, squash, pumpkin, cherries, and sweet corn. They took these to the canning factory in town. All they bought in town usually was sugar and flour. They grew or raised everything they needed.

Mrs. Eckhardt's family lived on the lake and fished quite a bit. During the Depression, fishing came in very handy and was free.

Times have changed since things were like that, but many things were the same. Kids had chores to do that they liked and disliked. They might have had to do more chores long ago, but now people expect more from you. We are glad that we were born in the late 20th century and not the early 20th century.

Future visits past is a continuing series of interviews featuring many of Central Lake's most venerable citizens, conducted by Central Lake High School students.

Township resident objects to receiving anonymous letters

SEVERAL DAYS PRIOR to the Aug. 2 election I received a letter from "A Concerned Citizen."

Enclosed was a flyer listing what in the writer's judgment were the shortcomings of Central Lake Township Supervisor, Paul Vernon. In addition to what I felt were many distortions and false statements, it was mean-spirited, in my opinion.

If a "concerned citizen" is convinced in the truth of his or her statements, at least show the strength of your convictions and sign your name!!!

Committee presents curriculum changes to CL board

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Torch/Journal Editor

A presentation on the language arts curriculum was given the school board Aug. 8 by teacher Alan Hickman.

A committee including Hickman, teachers Kari Groll, Ruth Allen, and Larry Platto and elementary principal Lori Finnerty developed a curriculum guide based on ODDM (outcomes driven developmental model) principles.

The entire K-12 language staff will be involved in specific curriculum development. Finnerty noted the math and science curriculums have already been developed through the same process.

"This whole framework makes a lot of sense," said Hickman, explaining the model focuses attention on important concepts more than past curriculum models.

The board will study the document and make recommendations on its adoption at a later meeting.

Board treasurer John Springstead, as a member of the parent-teacher committee, gave a progress report on elementary playground construction.

Excavation is scheduled for next week, with a sprinkler system to be installed as soon as possible. Springstead said bids for the asphalt work are running higher than expected.

The committee is considering purchasing materials and asking for volunteers to do grass-seeding of the area.

Excavation will include a rough road extending from the end of Ballard Street into what will become the parking area for the baseball field.

Springstead said the committee expects the work to be finished before school starts.

Lunch prices will be higher this school year in an effort to avoid a $2,600 deficit in the program in the 1993-94 school year. Students K-5 will pay $1.10, up 10 cents from last year; grades 6-12 will pay $1.45, up from $1.35; and adults will be charged $2.25, up 25 cents.

Athletic ticket prices for varsity teams will remain the same at $2.50. Junior high and JV games will cost $1.50, up 50 cents from last year. District superintendent Lary Blamer said the change is necessary to keep in line with other area districts.

Next board meeting is Mon., Sept. 12, at 7:30 p.m. in the superintendent's office.

GTRLC annual meeting Saturday

The Grand Traverse Regional Land Conservancy's Third Annual Meeting will be held Sat. Aug. 13, at the First Congregational Church at the base of Old Mission Peninsula. Members, guests, and non-members are invited to join the Conservancy in celebrating the accomplishments of the past year and the Aug. 2 passage of Peninsula Township's Purchase of Development Rights (PDR) ordinance.

Marlene J. Fluharty, Executive Secretary for the Americana Foundation and former Natural Resource Commissioner, will be the guest speaker. Discussing the importance of local efforts in preserving agricultural land, Fluharty will emphasize the impact this region's decisions have on a statewide and national level.

Following her presentation, Senator George McManus, along with representatives from the Department of Natural Resources, will be on hand for a presentation.

After a luncheon buffet, two field trips have been scheduled to tour potential PDR projects on Old Mission Peninsula, the Pyatt Lake Preserve and other points of interest.

A visit to the Reffit

Preserve in East Bay Township will give members and guests an opportunity to experience the valuable results of generous landowners' efforts to preserve and protect this critical area along Mitchell Creek.

"This has been a landmark year for the Conservancy and we are hopeful that lots of our members and friends will join us at the annual meeting to celebrate this year's accomplishments. On the heels of the successful passage of the Peninsula's PDR, this should turn out to be quite a day," stated Executive Director Glen Chown.

To date, the Conservancy, a private, non-profit organization, has protected over 2,200 acres of significant natural land in Antrim, Benzie, Grand Traverse and Kalkaska Counties.

Charlevoix Art Fair is this weekend

Organizers of Charlevoix's 36th Annual Waterfront Art Fair announced an exciting array of new artists among the outstanding painters, sculptors, jewelers, fabric designers, ceramicists, and photographers, accepted for the Sat., Aug. 13 show.

"We think the followers of this art fair are going to be delighted by some of the new artists," observed Alicia Mosher, co-director of the one day event, which officially opens at 10 a.m. on Saturday and continues until sunset.

"The combination of new artists' work and those of well-knowns like water colorist Dee Knott, painters and ceramicists Sue and Russ Bolt, enamel sculptor Norman Brumm, potter Barbara Godwin, photographer Terry Salmonson, and watercolorist Rick Burger give the fair consistency and balance."

The artists who show at the Charlevoix Waterfront Art Fair come from all over the United States. Many consider it their single most important show of the year, knowing that buyers for collectors and galleries make their new acquisition decisions that day.

"Most important to us," Mosher said, "this fair underwrites the Charlevoix Council for the Arts."

Diabetic education network set

Charlevoix Area Hospital and District Health Department No. 3 have formed a community network to provide education to diabetics and their families. Area nursing personnel are invited to a special training session on Wed., Aug. 17, at noon, at Charlevoix Area Hospital.

Charlotte Lundy, R.N., said, "We have developed a care plan that follows the patient from the doctor, to the hospital, and home health care, or nursing home." Now, she says, each aspect of the patient's care, whether it is in the hospital, by a visiting nurse, or in the doctor's office, is coordinated so that there are no information gaps in learning to live with their diabetes.

"Doctor's office nurses, home health nurses, and nursing homes will be an important link in the information chain," Lundy continued, "and we hope they will attend to learn about the program." Patients will be learning dietary restrictions, administration of insulin, proper exercise, foot care, complications, and testing. Each person in the network must be able to answer any questions the patient may have.

Lunch will be served. Call Kathy Boss at 547-4024 for reservations.

Story hour 'round the campfire in CL

The cholesterol testing clinic at the East Jordan Family Health Center will be held on Sat., Aug. 13, from 10 a.m. to noon in the Community Room on the lower level.

There is a special fee of $5 for tests at this time. Since a limited number of patients can be seen, please make an appointment by calling 536-2206.

CCC alumni to meet

Members of the Civilian Conservation Corp, Chapter 129, will meet at the Grayling Holiday Inn, Wed., Aug. 17, at 1 p.m.

The meeting is open to the public. There will be a discussion on what CCC alumni are accomplishing, including placement of a statue in North Higgins Lake State Park to honor the 103,000 Michigan CCC youth of the 1933-1942 era.

Bank, arts council bring art exhibit to EJ

The exhibit features work by East Jordan photographer Karen Walker and Traverse City photographers Steve Ballance and Sheila Stafford, who will be showing recent work involving the figure in unconventional photographic processes. Also featured is new work by Omena potter Cathy Look titled Rock Pots.

Figure/Form was on exhibit at the Traverse Area Arts Council Gallery in Traverse City the month of July and is being brought to East Jordan with the sponsorship of FMB Northwestern Bank. An opening reception will be held Fri. Aug. 12, from 6 to 8 p.m. at the Jordan River Arts Council Gallery. The exhibit will be on display Aug. 13 through 27 from noon to 4 p.m. daily.

SHHH group to meet

All persons with a hearing impairment are invited to attend a support group meeting Wed., Aug. 17, from 7 to 9 p.m. in classroom C&D, Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey. Family members and friends are encouraged to come, too.

The group offers support in the forms of coping strategies, discussion of common problems, and availability of Assistive Listening Devices. Burns Clinic Audiologists will be present at the meeting.

SHHH is a national support group for the hard of hearing. For information, call 616-348-2237.

MEA picnic planned

The Antrim County Michigan Education Association-Retired meeting for August will be the fourth annual picnic held at Richardi Park, Bellaire, on Mon., Aug. 15, at 12:30 p.m. Each person is to bring a dish to pass and his or her own table service. Both old and newly-retired school personnel are welcomed.

Clinic announces new message system

Patients of Burns Clinic Internal Medicine physicians may now use a voice mail system on their touch tone phones to request prescription refills and to leave messages. The number is 348-2460 and began operating Mon., Aug. 8. Messages may be left at anytime, and calls will be returned the next working day.

Patients with rotary or pulse phones will not be able to use the voice mail service, but may call the same number during business hours and remain on the line until a receptionist is able to assist them.

Callers are advised to listen carefully to the greeting and leave as much information as possible.

To provide the best possible service, the clinic is asking patients to leave their name, their physician's name, a telephone number where they can be reached and a best time to call, as well as the reason for the call.

When requesting a prescription refill, give the name of the medication, the dosage, how frequently it is taken, and the name and telephone number of the patient's pharmacy.

"We hope this new system will provide a convenient option for internal medicine patients who don't need an immediate appointment," said department manager Nancy Hendricks. "It should also allow patients to reach our receptionists more quickly during the day, since phone lines are less likely to be tied up with requests that do not require immediate attention."

The department discourages patients from using voice mail options as a means to immediate medical care. Anyone requiring immediate medical attention should be able to talk to someone directly so any problems can be addressed as necessary.

To schedule an appointment, call 348-2460 during operating hours and remain on the line until a receptionist assists you.

Solace through a psalm

"The Lord is my rock, my fortress, and my deliverer; my God, my strength in whom I trust; my buckler, the horn of my salvation, and my high tower." KJV Ps. 18:02

I find much solace from reading the Psalms in the Holy Bible.

David is the author of Ps. 18, and he addressed the words on the day the Lord delivered him from all his enemies, including Saul.

Addiction expert to present workshop

An internationally known expert in addiction and sexuality will give an open presentation at Northwestern Michigan College in Room 217 of the Science Building on Wed., Aug. 24 at 7 p.m.

Dr. Charlotte Kasl, author of Women, Sex and Addiction, has worked extensively with survivors of childhood abuse and people in recovery from all forms of addiction. She is especially well known for her work with women and minority people.

In conjunction with her public presentation, Kasl will also present a series of workshops, registration for which is due by Fri., Aug. 12. More information can be had by calling Central Diagnostic and Referral Services of Traverse City at 929-1315.

In verse 2, David calls upon God and uses the word my several times, to show that God is a personal God - not a far-away, unreachable God, but a God that we too can reach through prayer. We can call on Him at any time.

First David said: You are my Rock; Christ is the rock of our salvation and we are eternally secure in Him.

Then: my Fortress; kept secure by God's mighty power.

My Deliverer; He has delivered us from sin and the wrath that is to come and one day even from death.

My God; all that God is, in His person and power is available to every Christian so we can say with authority, "I am His and He is mine."

My Buckler; God is our protection for His truth is our shield and buckle. In Ephesians 6:16 it states: "Above all taking the shield of faith, wherewith ye shall be able to quench all the fiery darts of the wicked."

My Horn of Salvation; like a horned beast drives into his enemy, so Christ powerfully confronts our enemies and brings us salvation.

My High Tower; we are out of reach of our enemies and completely safe, for He is our High Tower.

Who could be more protected than all who have accepted Jesus Christ as their personal Saviour and Redeemer?

What a blessing, what comfort! What a promise for most of all we can trust Him - at all times, for God is eternal. He was and is and shall be everlasting.

Praise the Lord!

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

We All One to God

"And he made from one every nation of men to live on all the face of the earth..."

— Acts 17:26

The "one" mentioned by Paul in that passage was Adam, the first man whose descendants went forth to populate the earth. Thus did God manifest His desire for the brotherhood of all men. In His eyes we naturally are just that, for He created us all. Yet many of us forget that. We see surface differences and let such consideration override the fact that we are all created in God's image and share His spirit within us. When Jesus and later His disciples spread God's word, they made no distinction among the men of various nations. And their ministry took root in the hearts of all peoples. We should remember that in our relationships with others.

family reunions

King family

The King family reunion was held July 30. Seventy descendants of Thomas and Nancy Olive Hadcock King gathered at Richardi Park in Bellaire.

Music was presented by John King Jr. A poem was read by Mrs. Earl Brewer, entitled "Grandma's House," by Vergie Reed.

History and family tree booklets were handed out to family members.

A sentimental journey and history tour was taken by some of the King family. First stop was a visit to the ghost town of Essex, in Banks Township. Two Banks Township Historical Society members met with the family, talked and showed pictures of Essex and ancestors. This was important to the King Family as the Thomas King homestead in 1866 was very near to Essex.

The next stop was the homestead of Arthur and Eliza (Deforest) Maxwell in Central Lake Township, then to Forest Home Township for a tour of the Earness and Sophrona (Maxwell) King homestead.

Family members came from New York, Illinois and many cities in Michigan.

Petrie family

The 48th Annual John A. Petrie family reunion was held at the E.J. Snowmobile Club on July 30. Descendants (75) came from various towns and cities in Michigan. Dale the only surviving son, came from Florida.

Mrs. Rodney (Doris) Petrie was the oldest person attending, and her great-granddaughter Ellen Boyer was the youngest.

By Bertha Petrie

Chapin-Johnson family

The 93rd Chapin-Johnson reunion was held July 31 at the home of Dr. Harvey Chapin in Petoskey.

After a bounteous potluck dinner and business meeting, an auction took place. Some of the auction articles were of historical value.

The children were entertained with games and prizes.

The family traveling the farthest was from Texas. People left for their homes after saying goodbye until next year.

Rosemary and Elwyn Smith

Celebrate 50 years

Elwyn and Rosemary Smith of East Jordan celebrated their golden wedding anniversary at a luncheon buffet open house hosted by their children and grandchildren Aug. 6.

Elwyn Smith and Rosemary Sheridan were married Sept. 8, 1944 in Flint at the home of his sister, Ada Carley. His brother-in-law, Rev. Lloyd Euler performed the ceremony. Donald Haines, a friend of the groom was best man and the bride's sister, Florence, was the maid of honor.

Elwyn completed four and a half years of Army Engineers service in November, 1945. In July of 1946 they moved to the farm on Looze Road, which is their present retirement home.

They are members of

jo's news

by Jo Somerville 544-6347

Bob and Charlotte Somerville and two sons of Pensacola, Fla. spent from Monday to Friday at a cottage on E. Intermediate Lake Drive visiting their grandparents Dora and Dale James (Dora is a patient in Meadow Brook) and grandmother Jo Somerville, aunts Maureen Patton, Barb McDowell and Pauline Scott and families.

Lloyd Burns was among the many musicians at the Thrasher Show last Saturday afternoon at Walloon Lake. A large crowd attended to enjoy a fun afternoon.

LaVern Spence of Dallas, Tex. and brothers Ken Spence of Fla. and Vic and Lynn Spence of Six Mile Lake celebrated their mother Ruth Spence's birthday on Wednesday with dinner at the Lamplight Inn.

Allan, Suzie and Paige Burns of Bellaire enjoyed Sunday dinner with their parents Lloyd and Ella Burns.

A big DeForest family reunion was held and enjoyed by 105 people last Saturday at Barnes Park. Pearl Martindale's four children were present and with grandchildren. Following the party, they all came to visit and her apartment was filled to overflowing.

Joe and Kay Springstead and children of Indiana came on Friday to spend the weekend visiting their mother Lodema Springstead, sister Lissa and Jerry Kent and brother John and family and friends.

Maureen and Dave Patton spent the past weekend at K.I. Sawyer Air Force Base with their son Bart. They attended graduation exercises for their daughter-in-law Amy at Bay De Noc Community College from practical nursing. Chuck Gordon from Wayne also went along. He and uncle and Bart had some good fishing expeditions.

Card of Thanks - Many, many thanks to my families, neighbors and friends for all the concern, prayers, cards, flowers, telephone calls and visits while I was in the hospital and since coming home. Many thanks to Rev. Morrison for being present at the hospital when he was most needed - I am much better. Love you, Jo Somerville.

Comment on school lunches

Bold new changes to the nation's 48-year-old-school lunch program are being heralded by the U.S. Department of Agriculture's "Healthy Kids" campaign. This new initiative seeks to update the nutrition standards for the National School Lunch and Breakfast Programs and reverse a national trend that indicates Americans consume too much fat.

The centerpiece of the proposal is the requirement that school meals meet the Dietary Guidelines for Americans by the 1998 school year. A recent USDA study of school lunches found that only one percent of our nation's schools meet the U.S. dietary guideline of no more than 30 percent fat. The proposed rules set limits on fat, sodium and cholesterol and increase the use of fresh fruits and vegetables.

Under this proposal the current meal pattern for school breakfasts and lunches, now based on quantities of foods served, would be replaced with a more flexible nutrient standard menu planning system. Improving customer appeal through more nutrition education for students and helping schools get the best value for their nutrition dollar, are key elements of the proposal.

USDA's school lunch program reaches more than 25 million children each day, half of whom are needy.

Parents, teachers, school administrators, and other interested parties are encouraged to submit comments on the proposed rules by Sept. 8.

The proposed rules were published in the June 10 Federal Register. Interested parties may obtain a copy of the Federal Register at their library or write to USDA FNS, Child Nutrition Division, 3101 Park Center Drive, Alexandria, VA 22302.

Tour Big Rock nuclear plant

The public is invited to pay a visit to Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear plant.

Big Rock Point, a Nuclear Historic Landmark, will host its annual public tour program the week of Aug. 15. Tours will be held hourly from 10 a.m. until 2 p.m. on Aug. 15, 16, 17, 18 and 19 and are free of charge. Visitors must be at least 10 years old and present some form of identification. Tickets for the tours are available at the Petoskey Chamber of Commerce on Mitchell Street in Petoskey and at the Charlevoix Chamber of Commerce on Bridge Street in Charlevoix.

"Because of our small size, touring Big Rock Point is possibly the most comprehensive tour an individual will have of a commercial nuclear generating plant," said Big Rock Point plant manager Pat Donnelly.

"These tours, and the others we conduct throughout the year, help take some of the mystery out of nuclear power by allowing our visitors to view the inside of an operating nuclear power plant."

Tours will begin in the plant auditorium with a briefing and video presentation. After passing through the security building, guests will tour the plant grounds and visit the control room area and turbine deck. Big Rock Point employees will serve as tour guides and answer any questions.

Each tour will take approximately two hours to complete. Visitors should wear comfortable walking shoes. Photos of the plant from the parking lot are allowed. Cameras will not be permitted inside the plant.

Big Rock Point was the world's first high power-density boiling water reactor and an important research site for the nuclear power industry. The plant has generated electricity since 1962 and was named a Nuclear Historic Landmark by the American Nuclear Society.

Q: You are probably aware that Northwestern Michigan College is establishing a University Center in Traverse City and you may have some questions about it.

A: How will the University Center be funded?

Building and equipment needs will be met through a $5.9 million fund-raising campaign. The State of Michigan has pledged a $2.4 million matching grant to the project. The five-county Founders 21 Committee recommends that operational funding come from a combination of partner support, state money, endowment earnings, and a regional millage.

Are you as glad as we are to see Jo's News back in the Torch/Journal? She was only down for a few weeks, but what a long few weeks - for Jo Somerville and for us!

A proud uncle, former Torch publisher Bob Eckhardt stopped in to the office for a visit. He brought his grand-nephew, CLHS student Mac Eckhardt along, (he stood taller than anyone at the office!) and some information about grand-niece Mandy Kittleson, 17, of Frankfort.

Mandy was named all-state for the fourth year, as pitcher of her softball team at Frankfort, and earned the Michigan High School Softball Coaches Association title "Miss Softball."

Mandy's high school career statistics: 103 games won, 20 lost; 19 no-hitters; 5 perfect games; 910 strike-outs with only 137 walks; are so impressive that she got a rare (for high school sports) and lengthy write-up in the Detroit Free Press, May 31, 1994, including a back page photo spread. Last season alone, she pitched 190 innings, struck out 263 batters, and had her picture on the cover of the MHSSCA state tournament program. No wonder Bob is a proud man!

Congratulations to the new Miss Pre-teen of Charlevoix, Julie Ann Essenberg. Daughter of Lester and Cheryl Essenberg, the young lady from Ellsworth won the title at a July 16 pageant in East Jordan. Her prizes include a photographic portrait, a savings bond, crown and trophy.

While the nice ladies, Betsy Peterson and Jo Wartinbee, declined to be photographed as they sold off the last of their goodies at a recent bake sale, they did report that some of the money collected would go towards the Crystal Hershberger Fund and some to the scholarship fund.

Our advice to readers: If you hear of a Central Lake Women's Club bake sale, get there early. The ladies said there were buyers waiting when they came to set up at 9 a.m., and they were just about "cleaned out" by 11!

Members of CLHS Class of '84: We're interested in publishing photos taken at your recent reunion. In the hope of getting them in an August issue of the Torch, we ask you to submit your memories, with identifications of those pictured, by Aug. 19. Stop by the Torch office or send them with a self-addressed stamped envelope to P.O. Box 575, Central Lake, MI 49622.

basketball for kids

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Torch/Journal Editor

The all-time leading scorer in Michigan high school basketball history recently shared his expertise with youngsters in a special basketball camp at East Jordan High School.

Jay Smith, assistant coach of the University of Michigan basketball program, worked five days with about 132 kids from the third to fifth-grade in the mornings, and sixth to eighth-grade in the afternoons. The camp attracted kids from all surrounding school systems, and some vacationing in the area as well.

"It's a great opportunity to get a guy of this stature," said East Jordan High School basketball head coach Del Ingalls. Smith was a member of the Mio High School class D basketball powerhouse from 1976-79 and racked up 2,841 high school career points. As assistant to the Wolverines Steve Fisher since 1989, he has coached such Michigan luminaries as Chris Webber.

Each camp day began with a mass drill of unison stretching, stomping, pivoting and jumping that thundered through the gym. The drill leader, whether Smith or one of his assistant coaches, set the attitude with encouraging chants, clapping and energy, energy, energy.

The kids were divided into small teams, each headed by Smith's assistant coaches. The assistants are impressive in their own right - the short list includes Purdue University student assistant coach Jeff Irwin; Alma College student assistant coach Jeff Smith; UofM player Leon Derricks, and East Jordan's own Sara Chase, a nationally recognized basketball player from Kalamazoo College, now back home to coach EJ frosh girls; plus high school players from East Jordan, Central Lake and Gaylord.

Although coaches are paid to participate in the program, Chase said she would have done it for free.

"I think I had more fun even than the kids!" she said. A camp coach veteran, she called each day a new learning experience.

Smith often stopped small group drills to demonstrate a new move or fix something kids were not getting quite right. Using easy to understand allusions like "gooseneck" and "reach in the cookie jar," he divides the necessary skills into small pieces the kids can practice until they master the techniques.

Always in action, Smith moved from group to group to work with individual children - giving a pointer, praising a good effort, or helping with proper form.

With so many loose basketballs and pre-teenagers in one huge room, control may seem impossible, but Smith is alert to the situation. With a short whistle all is silent, and 75 sets of eyes and ears are waiting for his directions.

"The kids and coaches are really enjoying this," said Ingalls. "We're all learning a lot." Ingalls has run basketball camps himself and knows how the kids' attention can fade, especially toward the end of the week.

But Smith keeps the youngsters constantly busy and engaged, and they really like it. One after another spoke of how much fun they had, how much they learned and how great Coach Smith is.

Parents were also happy with the program.

"I was impressed with how many coaches there were," said Mancelona mother Kathy Hibbard. "The kids really got a lot of one-on-one attention."

Ingalls said Smith is already signed up for a repeat performance next summer. Smith did a short workout with high school roundballers one evening during the week, but Ingalls hopes to include more time with the older kids next year.

Smith, who has been running the camps several years, said he only takes his program to northern Michigan, where schools often have fewer resources for their sports programs.

"I wanted to help out kids in the area where I grew up," he explained. This summer's camps have included Cheboygan and Grayling. He limits himself to four weeks of camp per summer.

At the end of the week, prizes of T-shirts and posters were awarded for best spirit, best teamwork and so on, because after all, basketball is a competitive sport. But everyone got a U of M notebook, certificate and basketball program, and Smith spent a good deal of time signing autographs after class, taking time to say a kind or encouraging word to every individual.

His last words to the kids, besides "keep practicing," were "thank your parents - remember everyone is not as fortunate as you." Words of wisdom, in any sport.

EAST JORDAN middle-schooler Josh Evans prepares to grab the ball and "use it" as the teams begin to pull together the many skills they learned through the week.

ARMS RAISED in "gooseneck" and follow-through positions, youngsters work at mastering important shooting skills as demonstrated by Coach Jay Smith.

EAST JORDAN varsity standout and camp assistant coach Steve Wiltfong faces off one of his young players as they practice an offensive strategy.

the Misses Jentina and Jean Steenhagen and Miss Katherine Piet of Grand Rapids; and Mr. and Mrs. G. Steenhagen and sons Gerrit and Henry of Miles District motored to Old Mission Sunday.

The music lovers of this community will be given the opportunity to hear this talented family on this date, at the M. E. Church for the small sum of 35 or 50 cents.

■ Mrs. Henry Vanderark entertained with a surprise miscellaneous shower last Friday evening, honoring Miss Jennie Vander Heide, bride-elect of the near future.

■ Work was begun last week on the new Christian Reform Church of Ellsworth with the expectations of having it completed by Nov. 15.

The building will measure 40 by 70 and is being built on the lot north of the parsonage.

The corner lot west of the parsonage has also been purchased and will provide plenty of space for sheds to house the teams during bad weather.

Aug. 10, 1950

■ In an accident Friday morning, a 1941 Oldsmobile driven by Lloyd E. Dalton of Mancelona rolled over twice when he failed to make the corner east of the Boss farm, located northwest of Central Lake on the Central Lake - Eastport road.

The car was so completely demolished, the steering apparatus was pushed up through the windshield. The motor was torn loose from the mountings, falling back into the frame when the car was righted. The driver received a minor scratch on the hand.

■ Assurance of a new factory for Central Lake reached an almost certainty Monday night with the forming of the Industrial Improvement Association of Central Lake.

■ Rev. Shaver and family, who are vacationing near East Jordan, will show slide pictures of the Holy Land at the Assemblies of God Church next Sunday evening.

Rev. Shaver returned to the United States last March. The slides he will show were taken along the route from England to the Holy Land.

■ Bob Benz of the Betty Pearl cottage, Eastport, unable to shut off a stubborn throttle on the motor engine made a quick turn to avoid striking a row boat and ran into the Pilkington diving dock, sustaining a broken shoulder. So, a week in Charlevoix Hospital and no more boating or swimming for this 15-year-old boy on vacation.

■ Bob Killackey, the journalism student who has been working at the Torch office, received a broken left collarbone while making a spectacular catch during a softball game with the Y-Camp last Friday night.

■ We were glad to hear that Mrs. Willard Bearinger won the deepfreeze that was given away at the Central Lake Homecoming this year.

We're in the newspaper business. Newspaper companies are always looking for ways to reduce the usage of newsprint. Recycling newsprint means saving trees. Recycling newsprint also means keeping the newsprint out of the landfills. For the past three years Michigan newspapers have voluntarily and dramatically increased their recycling efforts. In 1992, 75% of newsprint in Michigan was recycled compared to only 14% in 1990.

We just thought you, as a reader, would like to know.

CENTRAL LAKE HIGH SCHOOL Class of 1928 was the first class to graduate after the old school burned down. Members are (from back left): James Clark, Superintendent Tyndall, Merrill Adcock, Marvel Boyce, Harry Flickinger, Lyle Rushton, Bill Cobb, Donald Emery, (front) Alice Baxter, Audrey Triplett, Wendell Burlew, Wilma Burlew, and Mary Robinson. A copy of this photograph will be on display at the Central Lake Governmental Center, courtesy of the Central Lake Area Historical Society.

BY PRISCILLA ARCURE
Contributing writer

When former Central Lake resident Wilma Thomas read the interview with Frances and Miller Young (Torch, July 13, 1994), she was reminded of her high school days and she dug out some old photos.

According to the collection of composites on the high school walls, Miller's was the first graduating class from that school building in 1931. Wilma found her 1928 graduation photo. It wasn't a composite but simply a professional photo of the 13 graduating seniors.

Wilma easily identified each member by name as she did with many other photos. Her recollection of her experiences growing up in Central Lake are impressively vivid. When asked if her husband Mondue grew up in Central Lake also, she replied, "Oh, no! He lived part way between Central Lake and Bellaire where Buck Austin's place is."

Wilma and Mondue will have their 66th wedding anniversary in October and although they made two conscious efforts to live and make a living downstate, Central Lake always lured them back. All but eight years of that married life has been spent in Central Lake and today they reside in one of the Meadowview Apartments where they seem to share their household responsibilities (Mondue was efficiently doing the laundry downstairs while we visited.) They can also enjoy being close to their daughter and her family Kathleen and Carl Dingman of Bellaire.

Wilma has fond memories of her school days and often mentioned Superintendent Tyndale, who evidently was well acquainted with each student of such a small class.

"I remember skip day," she explains, "The whole class took hot dogs and buns over to Birch Pointe and spent the day. One of the girls in the class knew a daughter of a resort owner there and showed us where to go. We even used their boat!"

"We thought we would surely be in trouble the next day," she admits, but all the superintendent said was,

Wilma Burlew Thomas

Wilma and Mondue Thomas

"I just wish you had invited me to go along!" Wilma has snapshots of that memorable day. Mr. Tyndale's graduating gift to them was "No finals!" and that couldn't have pleased the class more.

Wilma worked at the local drug store when it was owned by Zeno Schoolcraft. She was paid $5 a week for 100 hours of doing "a little bit of everything." She can give a history of the drug store naming the sequence of owners and their years of operation. She remembers hearing about when former owners, Fessendens, moved from the original corner location where Central Foods is located to the drug store's present location.

"They had large, deep built-in drawers full of medicines and records and they called upon high school boys to carry those full drawers to the new store," she explained. In addition to Zeno Schoolcraft she worked for Doyle Sage, Harold Meggison, and Mike and Betty Huntley.

When Huntleys had the store at its present location, the soda fountain was still the popular spot. Wilma described the lattice partitions built by Fred Doty, creating a cozy area in which there were five tables plus one small table which would accommodate four children.

Soda fountains offered a wide variety of delicious fruit concentrates and syrups for the sodas and sundaes. Wilma remembers how young summer patrons would place their orders by pointing to the various dispensers saying, "I want this, this, this and this."

Mr. Sage, the owner at that time, felt that he might be overextending his generosity, so instructed Wilma to tell them it would be five cents for each additional "this."

Talk of prospering jobs attracted Mondue to business downstate where he was employed by the Detroit Creamery and later at the bomber plant in Ypsilanti, but there was "no place like home" for the Thomas' and each time they found themselves back in Central Lake. Upon one of their returns they stayed temporarily with her parents.

"I was so glad to be home again I didn't even bother to look for a place for us to move until my mother finally reminded me!" she recalls with a laugh.

It all speaks well for Central Lake and just one of those nice-looking seniors in that 1928 graduating class.

Papineau awarded

Marine Cpl. Scott A. Papineau, son of Barbara A. Shooks of Central Lake recently received a Certificate of Commendation.

Papineau was cited for superior performance of duty while assigned with 3rd Battalion, 6th Marines, 2nd Marine Division, Camp Lejeune, N.C.

He consistently performed his demanding duties in an exemplary and highly professional manner.

He joined the Marine Corps in September 1991.

Legislation is good news for community foundations

Two bills that extend income tax credit for contributions to community foundations were recently signed into law by Governor Engler. Local foundation leaders are saying the move will have a positive effect on charitable work in the area.

House Bill 5566 and Senate Bill 1113 received Engler's signature last month, continuing both single business and income tax credits for those who make a donation to their community foundation. Individuals who give $200 will receive a $100 credit for their gift; married couples who file taxes jointly can give up to $400 and receive a $200 tax credit; businesses, estates, and trusts are allowed up to $5,000 in tax credits. Since the tax credits were first introduced in 1988, gifts to Michigan community foundations have more than doubled to more than $503 million.

"This is wonderful news for our community," said Scott Beatty, president of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. "Governor Engler and the Michigan legislators have recognized the important role we play in addressing needs and they've encouraged more people to include community foundations in their charitable giving."

Since beginning about two years ago, both the Charlevoix County and Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area foundations have grown considerably: Each now has assets in excess of $1 million. As assets have increased, the foundations have begun to make grants for a variety of worthy projects. In the last 18 months, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation has channeled more than $52,000 back into the community, funding projects as diverse as Habitat for Humanity, 4-H hockey, meals for senior citizens, breast cancer screening, and Raven Hill Discovery Center. Founded and led by local civic leaders, community foundations were established to receive charitable donations from individuals and organizations, and manage them in permanent endowment. Only investment income from the endowment is used to fund charitable projects - so the endowment lives in perpetuity and donors know their gifts will continue to have a positive, lasting impact for many generations.

For information about the local community foundations, call Robert Tambellini, Executive Director of the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, 536-2440.

Have a ducky time at the Ducky Derby

Fundraising and fun will quack together for a "Ducky Derby" sponsored by the East Jordan Holiday Decoration Committee, Fri., Aug. 12.

Even Donald's Uncle Scrooge McDuck would enjoy this party, which will begin at 6:30 p.m. at Elm Pointe on M-66 in South Arm Township.

The swimming (ducks only!) will commence at 7 p.m. One hundred rubber ducks will "race" along Monroe Creek.

The first duck to reach Lake Charlevoix wins its owner $3,000. Second place takes home $1,000 and the next five ducks win their masters $200 each.

Even those with sluggish ducks will enjoy the punch and fancy hors d'oeuvres.

Each duck costs $100. Committee member Debbie Chappuies suggested sharing the cost among friends.

"But remember," advised Chappuies, "the more you split the purchase, the more you have to split the prize!"

To purchase a duck, or for more information, contact Heather Pater, 536-2652, or any other committee member. Jordan Valley Pharmacy and Carey's Corner IGA will have ducks for purchase and committee members are willing to deliver the ducks to purchasers' doorsteps.

"There aren't many left," said Chappuies, "so contact us soon."

Proceeds will help fund new holiday decorations for East Jordan city streets.
