Teddy bears find new life easing trauma

BY CYNDI HUSTED
Contributing writer

Over 100 cast-off toys have found a new life through the efforts of the United Methodist Women of East Jordan.

The group collected 123 teddy bears and other stuffed animals from attics, garage sales, families and friends, freshened them up, and distributed them to police and social agencies in the area. The toys will be used to comfort children in stressful situations such as an accident or emergency illness.

Children served by the East Jordan police and ambulance departments, the East Jordan Family Health Center, the Charlevoix County Sheriff Department, and the Charlevoix County Prosecutor's office will all benefit from the donation. Each agency received 14 of the fuzzy comforters.

Charlevoix County Undersheriff Dale Boehm and East Jordan ambulance administrator Bernie Hammond both said they like to keep the animals in their vehicles, ready to give to children.

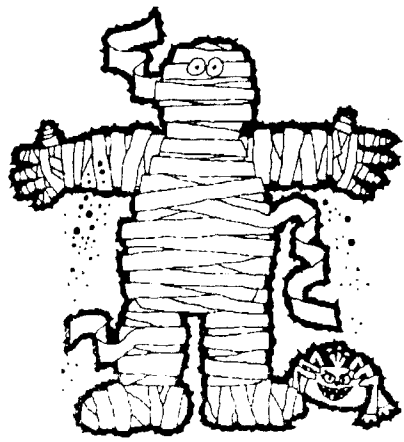

"It gives them something to cling to," said Boehm.

County prosecutor Richard May commented that the toys seem to help make court appearances less traumatic for children.

Two hurt in accident

The Charlevoix County Sheriff Department responded to a personal injury accident on Phelps Road in Eveline Township the evening of Oct. 18.

Patricia M. Sokolowski, 42, and William Zitka, 83, both of East Jordan, were transported by East Jordan Ambulance to Charlevoix Area Hospital for injuries they received when their two cars collided just west of Ranney Road.

Sgt. W.D. Schneider reported the investigation revealed that Zitka, driving a 1993 Oldsmobile westbound, was attempting a left turn into his driveway when an eastbound 1983 Mercury driven by Raymond G. Renkiewicz, 44, of East Jordan, crested the hill and was unable to avoid the collision.

Zitka was treated for facial, hand, and shoulder injuries, and was released the night of the accident. Sokolowski, a front seat passenger in the Renkiewicz vehicle, sustained chest, head and eye injuries, and was listed in good to fair condition at Charlevoix Area Hospital the day after the accident.

Renkiewicz, and another passenger in his vehicle, Matthew Sokolowski, were not injured.

Swan City Memories

By the looks of this group, a woman's right to vote was considered a serious subject in East Jordan in 1918. The ladies were holding their annual Women's Rights Committee convention, Oct. 28 and 29, at an unidentified building. No identifications were available, but we welcome readers to fill us in on the names of any of the women.

Women and the vote

Why did women want the right to vote in 1918? According to the National American Woman Suffrage Association, the reasons were:

- Women are people; no one would dare deny that. Abraham Lincoln defined an ideal republic as a "government of the people, by the people, and for the people," but ours is a government of the people by HALF the people.
- We cannot make this an ideal republic if we leave half the people irresponsible and unprotected.

- The country needs the working power of all its citizens.
- Men and women need the chance to make good together and on equal terms.

The suffrage movement finally achieved at least some of its dreams with the voting rights amendment in 1920.

We're happy to be here!

Pushing for Circuit Court split

Earlier this year I sponsored a new law authorizing the split of the 33rd Circuit Court into two separate circuit courts serving Charlevoix and Emmet counties. This measure also adds an additional judge. I want to publicly thank Rep. Beverly Bodem and other members of a bipartisan coalition that pushed for this important legislation. Because of Rep. Bodem's involvement the bill passed a key hurdle. She rallied support for the proposal when it was before the House Judiciary Committee. In addition to her own testimony, she also presented committee members with evidence of support by local officials in Northern Michigan.

Based on this information, the plan garnered votes from both Republicans and Democrats.

Having its own circuit court judge will be a tremendous boost for Charlevoix County. The growing population means a growing caseload of civil and criminal cases and now the system will be better prepared for the load.

Sincerely,
David N. Galloway

Evidence from B&E points to downstate men

Two South Haven men will answer to charges of breaking and entering with intent to commit larceny for the summer theft of numerous items from a store on Water Street in East Jordan.

Owner Jim Cesaro reported to the East Jordan Police Department that his store, A.J.'s, was broken into between 8 p.m., July 11, and 11:15 a.m., July 12. A window had been broken to gain entry, and the electric meter was removed from the side of the building. Items stolen included two Superwinches valued at a total of over $400, a speaker and an Audiovox cassette player.

Cesaro told police chief Jerry Alward that he observed two white males in their early 20s looking at the same merchandise on July 11 during store hours.

Cesaro said the men were driving a tan mid-1980s Ford with distinguishing marks.

Charlevoix County undersheriff Dale Boehm reported observing the same vehicle in East Jordan July 10. The plates were traced to James E. Gartner, 18, of South Haven.

Gartner and a passenger, Lester Karl Fowler, 17, were reportedly involved in an accident in South Haven about 1:35 p.m., July 12. South Haven police also informed Alward that Gartner pleaded guilty to a B&E at a VanBuren County home in early 1994. The electric meter had been removed from the side of the building in that incident.

Gartner was arrested Aug. 17 and bound over to 33rd Circuit Court in Charlevoix Aug. 31. His court-appointed attorney is John R. Michael of Charlevoix. A trial date has been set for Tues., Feb. 14, 1995.

Fowler is also charged with the felony count, but remains in the jurisdiction of the 90th District Court. His attorney, Robert McDowell of St. Joseph, was unable to arrange an appearance for a preliminary hearing into his schedule until Mon., Nov. 7.

The felony charge is punishable by up to 10 years in prison.

Law toughens drunk driving penalties

Most know it is illegal for people under age 21 to drink alcohol. However, fewer people are probably aware that beginning November 1, it is illegal for anyone under age 21 to have any alcohol in their bloodstream when driving in Michigan.

Traffic safety advocates around the state are sending the message to parents and young people alike that one beer can have serious consequences if they are behind the wheel. For example, while Michigan drivers under age 20 represented only 6.2 percent of the driving population in 1993, they accounted for 11.3 percent of crashes involving alcohol.

Alcohol-related motor vehicle crashes are the leading cause of death for youth who can legally drive. A young person under the legal drinking age is nearly twice as likely to die in an alcohol-related crash as someone over 21. Although alcohol use increases the risk of a motor vehicle crash for all drivers, for young drivers the risk begins to increase at very low blood alcohol concentrations.

These are sobering statistics - however, they are facts we can do something about. Already in Michigan, tough new anti-drunk driving laws have dropped the percentage of alcohol-related crashes for the first time in over a decade, and the new law is expected to have an additional impact.

Under the new law, minors convicted of operating a motor vehicle with a blood alcohol level of .02 percent (.10 percent is the allowable BAC for people age 21 or older) face a 30 to 90 day driver license suspension followed by a mandatory $125 reinstatement fee; up to 45 days of community service; and/or a fine of up to $250. Additionally, the violation adds four points to a driver record with penalties increased for a second conviction.

A zero tolerance law for minors makes good sense. Just ask any of the groups and organization including SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving), PRIDE (Parent's Resource Institute for Drug Education), DARE (Drug Abuse Resistance Education), the Michigan State Safety Commission, traffic safety advocates and organizations, which are determined to do something about the tragic toll alcohol takes on Michigan roadways.

Health dept. alert: infectious hepatitis reported

Brian L. Youngs, M.D., medical director and health officer for District Health Departments No. 3 and 4, is informing the public that six cases of infectious hepatitis (hepatitis A) have been reported in the Alpena area, one case from Charlevoix County, and three cases from the Emmet County in the last two months. Dr. Youngs wants the public to be aware of the symptoms of hepatitis A, how it is transmitted, and how it is prevented.

The symptoms of hepatitis A may include fatigue, abdominal pain, muscle or joint pain, nausea, poor appetite, fever, and vomiting. Urine may become darker in color and stools light colored, and then jaundice (a yellowing of the skin and whites of the eyes) may appear. The disease is seldom fatal and most people recover in a few weeks without any complications. Infants and young children tend to have a mild illness and may have no symptoms. They are less likely to develop jaundice than are older children and adults. Not everyone who is infected will have all of the symptoms.

The symptoms can appear from two to eight weeks after exposure, but four weeks is the general rule. An infected person can spread the virus (contagious period) from about two weeks before symptoms appear to one week after the onset of jaundice. Once individuals recover from hepatitis A, they probably are immune for life. There are no special medications or antibiotics that can be used to treat a person once the symptoms appear. Generally, bed rest is all that is needed.

The most common route of transmission is person to person spread from fecal contamination and oral ingestion of the virus. The hepatitis A virus enters the body through the mouth, multiplies in the body, and is passed in the stool. If careful hand washing with soap and water is not done, the virus can be carried on an infected person's hands and can be spread by direct contact, or by consuming food or drink that has been handled by that individual. In some cases, it can be spread by consuming water contaminated with improperly treated sewage. It should be emphasized that hepatitis A virus is not normally spread in the usual office, school, or factory situation.

Good sanitation and personal hygiene, particularly careful hand washing and sanitary disposal of feces are important general measures. The single most effective way to prevent spread is careful hand washing after using the toilet. This measure cannot be emphasized strongly enough. Infected persons must not handle or prepare food during the contagious period. They also must not provide care or have intimate contact with others while contagious. They must practice good personal hygiene and hand washing at all times. Immune globulin may be useful in preventing illness in individuals exposed to hepatitis A.

If you have any questions or concerns, please contact a physician or the county public health nurse.

Chorale and chamber orchestra to perform in Charlevoix

Requiem by Gabriel Faure will be performed by the Charlevoix Community Chorale and Chamber Orchestra Sun., Oct. 30 at the First Congregational Church at 4 p.m.

Featured soloists at the annual concert directed by Ellen Addington again will be bass baritone Jeffrey Norris, soprano Nancy MacArthur Smith and violinist Rosemary Malocsay.

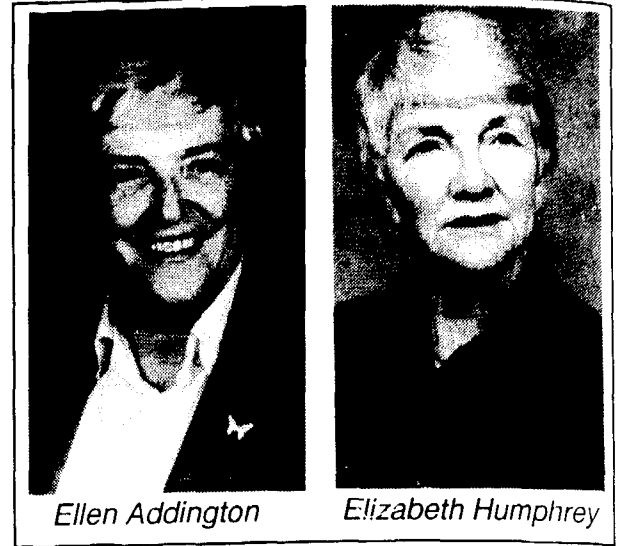

Canticle of Remembrance, composed especially for the occasion by Elizabeth Humphrey, is as short work being performed for the first time by the chorus, soprano and baritone soloists with Humphrey at the organ. Texts for the work are those commemorating loved ones who have passed away.

Also to be performed will be Antonio Vivaldi's in Memoria Aeterna.

Ellsworth and East Jordan residents, Addington and Humphrey are well known in musical circles. They are, respectively, music director and organist for the First Congregational Church. Members of the chorale and chamber orchestral are from the Charlevoix area and the Interlochen faculty.

The Faure work will be performed as he originally scored it in 1893 for a small chamber orchestra of divided violas, cellos, basses, harp and horns with one solo violin. It is not a purely liturgical Requiem, as Faure selected texts emphasizing rest and peace, omitting any mention of the Day of Judgement. Lovely rich melodies are Faure's gift in this popular work.

A reception following the program will enable audience members to greet the performers. No admission is charged, but donations are suggested.

Authors highlight women's retreat at Boyne Mountain

The theme for the 23rd annual Win-Some Women's Retreat to be held at the Boyne Mountain Convention Center in Boyne Falls Friday and Saturday, Nov. 4 and 5, will be "Wisdom."

The music ministry this year will feature Phyllis Massy, a woman who says her heart is truly the Lord's, and she will usher listeners into God's very presence with her music.

Patsy Clairmont and Karen Mains will be the featured speakers at the retreat.

Clairmont began speaking with Winning Women Inc., providing lively book reviews for their annual retreats. As her unique style became known her audience demanded more. Her ministries grew to include Bible studies, women's luncheons and retreats. She will be featured during the opening assembly Friday, and her teaching seminar is titled "W-Wow."

Wise Sources in an Unwise World is the title of the seminar Karen Mains will teach. Her national prize-winning books address deep spiritual issues drawn from her ability to encounter God in her every day experiences. Her first and best selling book, Open Heart, Open Home is a classic dealing with Christian hospitality. Karen often co-hosts with husband David Mains on the radio broadcast of "The Chapel of the Air."

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

We Are All Hallowed Saints

"They shall suffer the punishment of eternal destruction and exclusion from the presence of the Lord and from the glory of his might, when he comes on that day to be glorified in his saints."

— 2 Thessalonians 1: 9-10

There is nothing in religious observance to account for Halloween, the eve of All Saints' Day. It is strictly a custom of pagan origin. Yet one might draw analogy between the devilishly supernatural nature of the night and the torments inflicted on early Christians by those oppressors of whom Paul wrote in his second letter to the Thessalonians. Faith can win through the long night of Halloween just as it will in the long fight against those who deny the word of God and the preachings of His only Son, Jesus Christ. It is they who will be repaid in kind for their wickednesses while the believers shall be sanctified for their faith and shall exult on that day when the Lord "comes to be glorified in his saints." You should be among them.

Proper precautions ensure a safe Halloween

From Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater

It is the time of year when fallen leaves are blown and scattered about; when cats howl in the brisk moonlight; and when pint-sized ghosts and miniature goblins roam the streets after dark. It's a child's holiday; a dentist's nightmare - it's Halloween!

It may be the second most important event of the year for kids, says Charlevoix County Sheriff George Lasater. But it can also be dangerous if proper precautions are not observed. Basic common sense and lots of parental input are necessary ingredients for a fun, but safe trick-or-treat night. The sheriff encourages parents to discuss the importance of being cautious with their children, and offers these safety tips:

- Parents should escort small children to homes in the neighborhood, visiting only people they know.
- Older children should use the buddy system; don't go alone.
- Children should wear reflective clothing or tape on their costumes, to make them easier to see at night by motorists.
- Costumes should be fire-retardant and unrestricting.

Children should always look both ways before crossing the street; never run from between or behind parked cars.

- Children should avoid dark streets and alleys; stay away from stranger, cars and trucks you don't recognize.
- Use makeup or facial paint instead of a mask so a child's vision is not blocked.
- Advise youngsters to approach neighborhood pets with caution; wearing a costume may frighten an animal.
- Advise children not to eat candy and food before getting home.
- Check candy, food and fruit carefully for tampering, dangerous objects or discoloration.

If you find any contaminated foods or other safety violations, please report them to the sheriff department. Sheriff Lasater and his deputies are looking forward to a fun, happy and haunted night, but they remind parents that an organized, chaperoned party is often a good alternative to going out on Halloween.

Local welcome wagon is named

Candace Viau has completed training as a Welcome Wagon representative and will soon begin visiting households in East Jordan, Torch Lake, Ellsworth and Central Lake.

The announcement was made by Barbara Marshall, President of Welcome Wagon International, Inc. Candy will call on households to present useful gifts from local businesses and professionals. As a community service, she will also distribute helpful information for many civic and cultural groups as well as governmental agencies. To request a Welcome Wagon visit, contact Candy Viau at 588-2113.

The largest and only national service of its kind, Welcome Wagon provides personalized advertising for over 100,000 commercial businesses and professionals in the medical, dental, health-care, and animal - care fields nationwide. Annually, thousands of Welcome Wagon representatives call on households to greet or congratulate new U.S. citizens, engaged women, new parents, and movers. In many college communities, they also reach students with the company's campus welcome program.

The organization was founded in Memphis, Tennessee, and derives its name from the Conestoga wagons of frontier days. As westward moving wagon trains neared a frontier community, townspeople sent out a wagon loaded with provisions in hopes of enticing the travelers to settle in the town. This tradition was revived with the formation of the company in 1928.

Investment in abilities is emphasized

To increase awareness of the employability of the disabled the Charlevoix - Emmet Parent Advisory Council is naming October as Invest in Abilities Month.

People with disabilities need to work for the same reasons as the rest of the population. Yet, according to Patrick Cannon, executive director of the Michigan Commission on Handicapper Concerns, 400,000 working age persons with disabilities are unemployed in Michigan, but not because of a lack of ability or desire to work.

Too many people with disabilities continue to be denied the opportunity to compete for jobs on the basis of their ability even though hiring the disabled is good business sense. Studies have shown that handicappers are as productive as non-handicapped workers with better safety and attendance records.

Phylis Haggard, spokesperson for advisory council, believes that the community loses out whenever a disabled person is denied employment. The disabled have numerous skills and knowledge that are lost to all of us when they are not allowed to use them in a productive way.

The disabled want to be able to use their salaried to support themselves and their families, spending their money in their community. They want to make a meaningful contribution to their community, pay taxes, buy goods and support local business, the same as any of us.

"People with disabilities do not want handouts or make-work," said Ron Svatora, a social worker with the Char-Em Intermediate School District. "What they want is the chance to show what they can do, and to be judged on their ability and competence. Many employers in our area have found out the value of hiring the disabled and the satisfaction of having good, loyal employees. Students with disabilities from Charlevoix, Emmet and Antrim counties have been working in local restaurants, hotels, service stations and other businesses with satisfied employers."

The goal of Investing in Ability Month is to convince employers in Northern Michigan that hiring people with disabilities is not a matter of charity or "good citizenship", but a sound business practice that's good for the bottom line.

Any employer wanting more information on the benefits of hiring the disabled may call 1-800-SAY-ABLE or Phylis Haggard at 547-6600.

East Jordan Devils dominate Harbor Springs Rams, 37-6

Despite trailing the Gladiators in the Lake Michigan Division, it looks very possible for the local Red Devils to finish ahead of the St. Francis team in 1994 football playoffs. Add to that the fact that Rogers City (the region's number two team) lost, and it looks possible that the Gladiators could be in Boswell Stadium for a playoff game the first weekend of November. Knock on wood.

East Jordan continued to move toward their playoff goal, romping past Harbor Springs on Parents Night 37-6.

East Jordan took three plays to send a message to the Rams: play one, 37 yards in the air to Steve Wiltfong; play two, 18 yards to Adam Skrocki; play three, 15 yards of running by Matt Sherman into the end zone, skip the conversion and take the lead 6-0.

"I dreamed it would happen that way the night before," claimed happy Red Devils Coach Al Peterson.

The next dream came on the East Jordan third possession, with Yaro Middaugh tearing through for a 66-yard touchdown and a 12-0 lead. Possession four early in the second quarter finished with a 35-yard touchdown pass to Adam Skrocki, set up by a 26-yard toss to Steve Wiltfong. The Devils led 18-0.

Midway through the second, Skrocki added a nine-yard touchdown reception, for a 24-0 lead, and the half was capped by Nate McWatters returning an interception 29 yards, setting up Cory Cutler's 13-yard stroll for a touchdown. The PAT was blocked, but halftime beckoned the 30-0 leading Devils.

Harbor Springs was unlucky even when things went well. The Rams scored with 10 minutes left in the game, kicked off – and had Yaro Middaugh run the kick back 84 yards for a touchdown! Solomon Townsend added the PAT and the scoring ended there, 37-6.

Despite the loss, Harbor remained in good spirits, a fact that earned them praise from Coach Peterson. "Harbor Springs showed great sportsmanship, and that says something."

Karl Redmer finished with 125 yards passing, with 63 credited to Wiltfong, 62 and two touchdowns to Skrocki. Yaro Middaugh ran for 110 yards, Matt Sherman for 48, each scoring once. On defense, everyone had a tackle for East Jordan, with Chuck Murray leading the way with nine tackles, Troy Dunson and Adam Skrocki each with six, Toby Prevo, Shawn Russell, Tom Worgess, Cory Cutler and Yaro Middaugh each with five.

Lady Devils outduel Elks, 54-50

East Jordan went for a wild ride on its own basketball court Oct. 18, as Elk Rapids refused to go quietly into that good night. The Red Devils held off the Elks' furious charges for a hard-earned 54-50 win.

The Devils showed a finer shooting touch to finish the first quarter ahead 11-8, but that was a brief stop on the road to the finish.

Elk Rapids retuned their offense quickly, found the net twice more than the Devils in the second quarter, and scurried into the locker room with a 20-19 halftime advantage.

East Jordan then turned loose their big guns – Amanda Pepin and Kristina Ruhling – inside. The result was a commanding 21-12 surge that made a 40-32 lead look strong. The Elks decided to test that strength, cutting the lead to a scant two on different occasions, only to have the Devils come on big at the defensive end and escape with the win.

Daughters of the Stars
by Phyllis A. Whitney

This is a novel of a young woman's search for the truth about her father's disappearance. Lacy Elliot appears to be a woman who has it all, but there are many questions that have been left unanswered in her life.

For the past 30 years, her mother has refused to tell her what happened to her father. A letter from a woman claiming to be her great-aunt drives Lacy back to Harper's Ferry, Virginia, by the Shenandoah River, which is known as "daughter of the stars" in Indian legends.

The pieces start falling into place when Lacy discovers seduction, murder, and untold truths. Her aunt believes a killer has returned to walk among them again. This book is hard to put down until the killer is known.

Dentists urge against using snuff

Recent headlines across the nation read: "Smokers Addicted to Nicotine Advised to Switch to Snuff." The author of the article in the American Journal of Medical Sciences argues that, while cigarette smoking is linked to a host of hazards from heart disease to lung cancer, smokeless tobacco is associated only with an increased risk of oral cancers.

Suggesting this switch is like telling someone to use a rifle instead of an Uzi.

As oral and maxillofacial surgeons, we are all too familiar with the ravages of smokeless tobacco. Its devastation is not restricted to the spot in the mouth where smokeless users place the pouch. According to the American Cancer Society, "the use of chewing tobacco or snuff increases the risk of cancer of the mouth, larynx, throat and esophagus and is a highly addictive habit."

Some other disheartening information regarding smokeless: while cigarette smoking has declined for the seventh year in a row, consumption of snuff has risen for the fourth consecutive year. And who's using it? More than 22 million persons, age 12 and older have used some form of smokeless. Usage among high school students is as high as 35 percent, 19 percent use some form daily.

Even more shocking, a recent government survey found that smokeless users pick up the habit at the average age of 9 years old and more than 25 percent of users start dipping snuff by age 5.

So, do we want to suggest that smokeless is a "better alternative"?

The answer is a resounding no! No, we don't want an increase in the more than 29,000 cases of oral cancer that doctors diagnose each year. No, we don't want to increase the number of persons who die as a result of oral cancer from 8,000 each year to an even larger number.

And, for those who are among the millions of current smokeless users, we advise you to perform a self-examination at least once a month and see a dentist or oral and maxillofacial surgeon for a yearly exam. To learn more about how to perform a self-exam, a free brochure is available by sending for "A Look That Can Save a Life" to AAOMS, 9700 W. Bryn Mawr Ave., Rosemont, Ill. 60018.

Don't burn - recycle yard waste

It's that time of the year again - the air smells crisp and the temperature has dropped. Leaves are dropping too, and it is not too early to think about the best way to dispose of leaves and yard waste. Burning leaves causes air pollution and public health problems, and is illegal in many Michigan communities. Hauling yard waste to solid waste landfills is not a solution either. So what's the environmentally - responsible public to do? In a word - mulch!

"The DNR strongly encourages residents to reduce both air pollution and fire hazards by choosing to compost or mulch leaves and yard waste instead of burning the debris," DNR Director Roland Harnes explained. "It is a matter of replacing the environmental problems of burning and landfilling with the environmentally positive choice to recycle waste into a useful product."

The best option is to mulch leaves to tiny bits with your lawnmower and leave them on your lawn. Another alternative is to rake and compost the leaves. Many communities operate a municipal composting program. Check with your local government to see if your community offers this service.

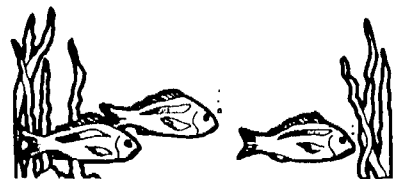

Mulching is actually the easiest method to dispose of yard waste. You don't need to hang around with a bucket and hose to make sure your bonfire doesn't ignite the neighborhood as with burning; nor do you have to spend your money to pay a trash collector or landfill operator for disposal.

Mulch can be used in flower beds and around shrubs, or it can be added to the garden as a soil conditioner. It can also be spread (or left) on lawns as a top dressing.

Monster muskie

HOLDING THE BIGGEST fish he's ever pulled out of Six Mile Lake is Echo Township Supervisor Bob Pearsall, who hooked this monster around 2 p.m. Sept. 2. Weighed at Carey's Corner Market in East Jordan, the potential prize-winner tipped the scales at 26.78 pounds and measured 48 inches. "He didn't go down to the bottom, like a lot of big fish," the experienced angler commented. "He came right up out of the water." Pictured with Pearsall is grandson Matthew of Rochester Hills.

THE SHARP LOOK and sound of the East Jordan bands, and the enjoyment of the members are – for the band parents – what it's all about.

EJ parents work for the bands

"I came to see the band!" That's the slogan that might best describe the parents of East Jordan Schools band members at sports functions, but this group doesn't just sit and watch. They have organized into the East Jordan Band Parents – and they are now in their third year. Originally setting their goals toward providing summer camp scholarships, the group has expanded their attention into a number of other areas.

"We were very new at fund-raising," said group member Carol Weidlich about their first "learning" year. "So we kept our goals small."

Not any more. Raising enough money to send three students to Blue Lake Fine Arts Camp the first year, the parents group sent two students last year, and purchased 24 much needed music stands for the high school band room.

So far this year – with their rapidly expanding fund-raising skills – the parents have contributed half the cost of purchasing supplemental four-piece band uniforms. They hope to purchase more music stands and help replace some of the oldest (and most beyond repair) instruments. They also have plans for a small college scholarship.

The group has the full support of band director Tom Steggall.

"There are things happening that just couldn't happen without them," said Steggall, especially citing the students who have gone to band camp with the group's help.

Weidlich noted that community support is really the basis of their success. That may be true – most fund-raisers, including the most lucrative, a booth at the annual Freedom Fest – are founded on family and friends making the purchases.

But the EJ Band Parents provide more than just financial encouragement to their kids and to himself, according to Steggall.

"They're really helping with moral support," he said. Getting to know the parents has been a plus for Steggall, and he feels it definitely helps the kids, too.

"Instrumental groups are like a family," he noted. "It makes sense to have the parents a part of that family, too."

Autumn may bring slippery bridges

Brilliant fall color in Michigan is often accompanied by another phenomenon of nature - slippery bridges. The Michigan Department of Transportation (MDOT) said that crisp fall mornings create optimum conditions for the formation of a coating of frost and ice on bridges, even when the roadway remains ice-free.

This may create quite a surprise, especially to motorists who have not modified their summer driving habits.

MDOT offers these tips to drivers:

- Be prepared to lower your speed on bridges.
- Avoid hitting brakes too hard or making panic stops which may cause a car to skid. Pump brakes to reduce speed.
- Avoid lane changes or other abrupt steering maneuvers.
- Be especially careful during early morning and evening hours, the time bridges tend to ice. Always wear your safety belt.
- Observe the "Bridge may be icy" signs since they will help you identify bridge locations.

Band Parents news

The pizza and pop sale after homecoming was a great success, especially because of the work of our students.

A bake sale is planned for Fri., Nov. 11, at Glen's Market in East Jordan, from 4 p.m. until the goods are gone. Get there early for the pick of the goodies – they won't last long!

Band members will be taking orders for gourmet cheesecake and quality wrapping paper from Thurs., Nov. 3 to Fri., Nov. 11. We would like this to be our best fund raiser of the year.

Please come and join us at our next two meetings, held on Wed., Nov. 2, and Wed., Dec. 7, at 7 p.m. in the high school band room.

The United Methodist Women also collected items from area businesses to make up day bags for victims of domestic violence that may have to leave their homes in a hurry. Each bag contains a nightgown and personal items including comb, deodorant, toothbrush and toothpaste. The bags were given to the Women's Resource Center and the sheriff department.
