

It was the week with a little bit of everything, except sunny skies. It opened with snow that totaled eight inches in some areas by Tuesday morning and ended with a weekend that saw temperatures climb all the way to 50. Treacherous roads were clear by Wednesday; shallow lakes saw their skins of ice totally disappear by Sunday. A return to normal or below-normal readings was predicted early in the week, with a mix of snow and rain and mid-30 highs expected for the balance. LAST YEAR: The last traces of the season's snowfall total of 12.5 inches disappeared as weekend temperatures rose to the 40s.

GBKB ARCHITECT Bob Stow shows facility review committee members a possible location for a proposed new middle school – on a 38-acre parcel donated to the district by the Malpass Foundation, north of Mill Street near the high school.

Facility committee's recommendation: new middle school

BY KEITH MATHENY Contributing Writer

Voters in East Jordan will likely have an opportunity at the polls March 26 to shape the future of children's education in the district well into the 21st century.

A facility review committee (FRC) decided Nov. 30 to recommend the school board seek a 15-year, $5.3 million bond proposal for:

- a new middle school.
- a a four-classroom expansion to the high school.
- increasing room sizes for elementary classes in the old middle school build-

heating and electrical upgrades at the old middle school.

A new middle school would take 300 students out of the existing K-8 school, Hansen said. The old middle and elementary schools would house classes from preschool to fifth grade. Non-bearing plaster walls in the current two-story middle school building would be knocked out to increase classroom size.

"We've simply utilized every single space in the (existing) building," Hansen said.

District a potential technology leader

"If this bond proposal passes, your district will be the lighthouse district in the north in terms of technology," superintendent Chip Hansen told the facility review committee at their Nov. 28 meeting.

The bond money would provide an average of four computers per class-room in each school, which would be an improvement over the computer lab systems currently in place, the superintendent said.

"They can only be used by one class-room at a time," he said.

"Smart Labs" could be created, where kids could learn about subjects such as pneumonics and hydraulics in a technology-based environment, Hansen said.

Expanded use of technology will, in addition to teaching kids about computers, enhance all aspects of education, the superintendent added.

"Instead of sending a student away to the computer lab, the instructor can provide guidance right there in the classroom," he said. "Teachers could use them for every instructional subject."

Size, science would grow at high school

Three classrooms and a science lab will be added to East Jordan High School at the end of the media center if the proposed $5.3 million dollar bond proposal is passed by voters.

The four new rooms would bring the high school's classroom total to 18, not including vocational education and the gym.

"We know we'll be serving 400 kids soon at the high school, and we know we're using every bit of available space to serve 325 kids now," superintendent Chip Hansen said.

Bond proposal would also expand
high school, K-5

Devoting one room for science was considered important by the facility review committee (FRC) because current science facilities are not enough to adequately serve students.

"Right now we have more lab classes than we do labs," Hansen said.

An advanced placement biology class is in the works for next year – East Jordan Schools first A.P. class, according to Hansen.

"Interest in math and science is on the rise here, and we need the lab space to accommodate the kids' interest," he said.

The current expansion plans would allow for an additional six-room expansion in the future, at the south end of the media center.

"That's important, because one of the committee's charges is to plan for the next time, when our growth needs once again require an expansion of facilities," Hansen said.

How much will it cost me?

The $5.3 million bond proposal for a new middle school and other expansions and improvements equates to about 3 mills, with estimated interest factored in.

For a home or property with a $30,000 SEV, the bond proposal would cost the property owner about $90 per year.

To get a very close approximation of how much the bond proposal will cost you:

- take your SEV and divide it by 1,000.
- multiply the product by 3.

Elementary systems slated for upgrade

Under current school-wide expansion lans, 600 kids will remain in the old middle school building as it becomes a preschool-fifth grade facility. In addition to room size expansions, electrical and heating system renovations are needed, superintendent Chip Hansen said.

Complicating the process is the federal Americans with Disabilities Act (ADA), which states that 20 percent of any money spent to upgrade a public facility must go toward making it more accessible to the handicapped.

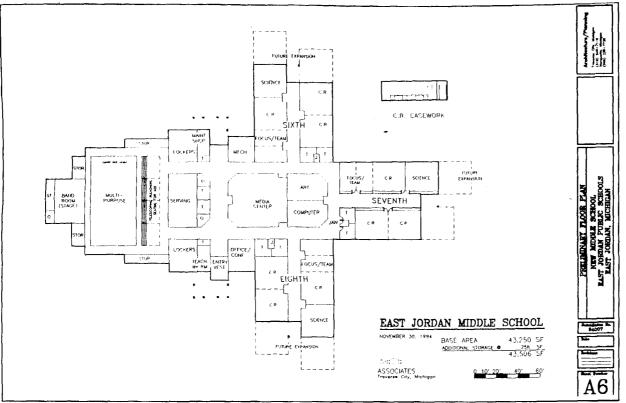

Bob Stow, architect with GBKB, the Traverse City architectural firm working on the proposed school projects, said any expenditures of more than $250,000 at the old middle school would require a big ADA expenditure, such as an elevator for the handicapped.

The facility review committee decided to stay below the "magic number," perceiving that voters would be turned off paying for an elevator that could be seen as unnecessary.

"It's those golden gooses that really get voters concerned," said one committee member.

The bond proposal calls for an upgrade of the electrical system at the old middle school.

the current K-8 facility would necessitate "adding another middle school to the structure," and create an unwanted "megaschool."

"The school is already dysfunctional – there are too many kids on one site," he said. Nine hundred students attended East Jordan elementary and middle schools in 1993.

The large number of students and limited space have led to many scheduling conflicts – particularly in regard to lunches, Hansen said.

"We start serving lunch prior to 11 a.m. and don't stop until after 1 p.m.," he said, "That's not right."

The 30-member FRC consists of a cross-section of school district residents. They have held meetings since July to work on solutions to crowding and other problems in the school district.

"I was pleased the committee had so many different voices," FRC member Katic Slough said. "It made me feel more confident in supporting the decisions we made. A lot of voices went into them."

Superintendent Chip Hansen praised the efficient work of the FRC.

"This shows that if unselfish, well-intentioned people work together for schools, for kids, good things happen," he said.

The FRC kept the defeated 1992 bond proposal for a new middle school in mind throughout the process.

"We're trying to be realistic about it, in terms of how voters will react," committee member Armand Drapeau said.

"Nobody wants to pay for fluff, and there is no fluff in this proposal," Hansen said.

The 1992 proposal was for $5.05 million, but the superintendent said the new proposal offers much more with not much dollar increase. The '92 proposal had no provisions for expanding the high school, no money for technology and no electrical/mechanical upgrades at all.

"You're getting a lot more for your dollars," Hansen aid.

The new middle school would have:

- three classrooms for sixth, seventh and eighth grades.
- a science lab for each grade.
- a large media center, art room and computer lab in the center of the new facility.

The FRC decided to go with a very large multipurpose area on the west wing of the proposed new facility. The area includes a band room, stage, gymnasium and cafeteria. A large barrier curtain would separate the gym from the dining area.

"By clustering these areas under one roof, the committee saved several thousand square feet, and a halfmillion dollars on the cost of the new school," Hansen

Another method of savings compared to the 1992 plan is having the project overseen by the architect (GBKB Associates of Traverse City) and the general contractor.

"With the 1992 proposal, we would have given $400,000 to a construction management firm," the principal said. "That's money that stays in taxpayers' pockets this time."

The committee chose to go with a 15-year bond proposal to further save costs.

"If we had went with 29 years, interest expenses would have been in excess of two million dollars more." Hansen said. "This also lets the community be financially unencumbered 15 years from now, when something else may need to be done."

Slough said she thinks the committee has come up with a good proposal.

"The new building is important, to separate the middle school kids from the elementary-aged kids," she said.

Slough and other committee members toured all three school facilities.

"The middle school is by far the most squished – every nook and cranny of that building is being used." she said. "My top priority became to give the middle school some relief from their overcrowding problems."

Slough has a child in third grade, in a classroom with 25 kids.

"That's way too many for that early of a grade," she said. "I'm really looking forward to seeing the class sizes go back down to where they should be."

The new middle school would most likely be built on a 38-acre piece of property north of Mill Street near Ninth street. The property was recently donated to the school district by the Malpass Foundation. The area is contiguous to high school property, according to Hansen.

"In terms of tying all of our facilities together, it really makes sense," he said.

Topography and other studies are now taking place, and an exact location for the new building should be decided upon within the next week or two, the superintendent added.

The FRC will formally present their proposal to the East Jordan School Board at a special meeting Jan. 4 at 7 p.m. If approved that night, the bond vote could be held by the target date of March 26.

"There are a number of items in this that need to take place for our district to have quality education in quality facilities," Hansen said, "With the very positive input of the committee members, we've got a proposal that's good for kids and good for taxpayers, too."

more computer capabilities and audio/visual equipment when each room only has one outlet to plug them into," Stow said.

Though the two boilers currently heating the middle school were purchased in 1977, both run at once, at near maximum capacity, to fully heat the building in the winter.

"It's a mess with the existing piping that's causing their inefficiency," Stow said. "One boiler should be a backup for the other."

The bond proposal increases efficiency through changes in the pipe system, and adds a hot water heating system to the 1955 elementary school to take care of some rooms that get uncomfortably cold in the winter.

The money also would add a new fire alarm system, and replace the domestic water main. Renovations to restroom facilities and the installation of wheelchair ramps would satisfy ADA requirements, according to Stow.

Though all difficulties would not be solved at the old middle school facility, Hansen said much is done for the money.

"For $250,000 we could solve many chronic problems," he said.

With your help, we'll get there

If your favorite weekly newspaper doesn't seem up to its usual sparkling standards for the next week or two, there's a very good reason.

Hard-working editor Deb Saygers Hobbs came down sick Nov. 29 and by Nov. 30 had been hospitalized with what turned out to be a nasty case of pneumonia.

She was discharged Dec. 3 and at this writing is expected to be back to work (on a limited basis, if we have anything to say about it) by mid-week.

I'm doing my best to temporarily pick up the many threads with which Deb weaves the written fabric of your community life - but you can imagine the challenge for a thick-fingered nearstranger to these parts.

My purpose in writing this column, therefore, is four-fold:

- To share the unfortunate news of Deb's illness.
- To alert you to the possible problems my attempts to fill her shoes may create.
- To apologize in advance for any and all such problems.
- To solicit your assistance during the coming days in filling these pages

In other words, I'm going to be scrambling to cover what I can, but if you don't tell us about an event or action, we might not even know it's happen-

Even if we aren't able to follow up on every tip, Deb will have a backlog of suggestions to spark her recovery.

Hey - it might not work for everybody. But knowing the lady's commitment to serving this community, I confidently predict that even in her weakened state, she'll be plenty pleased.

IF PRACTICE MAKES perfect, East Jordan's Middle School Choir should be well on their way! Fine-tuning their skills under the direction of music teacher Margaret Thomson, the melodic group is preparing for a busy holiday performance schedule that includes the Rotary Christmas Party (Dec. 13), Caroling with Santa at the EJ Senior Center (Dec. 15), and a Dec. 20 sing for Foster Care Homes followed by the Christmas at the Middle School program the same day.

Nursery school fund-raiser: 4,000 subs later

If you happened to be passing by East Jordan Elementary School Nov. 12, you may have heard the hum of electric knives and low chatter as 32 parents assembled and wrapped over 4,000 submarine sandwiches. Each sandwich consisted of a bakery fresh bun, bologna, salami, ham, American and Swiss cheese. This annual fund-raiser for the East Jordan Co-op Nursery School brought in close to $3,000, which is used to off set expenses the schools annual budget.

Committee representative, Laura Hansen expressed appreciation of the parents and people who purchased the sandwiches. "Without this type of support the Nursery School wouldn't be able to keep tuition so low," she said.

AMONG THE HELPING hands that made a recent East Jordan Co-op Nursery School fund-raiser a very savory success were (from left) Johanna Davis, Annette Rathbun and Dan Fuller.

Following cleanup, the Scouts played hide and seek and studied some stars. After tiring of this, they joined the Scoutmaster at the campfire, telling ghost stories and telephone jokes, as well as singing songs and roasting marshmallows.

Around 11:30 p.m., everyone hit the sack – just in time to listen to the rain.

Antifreeze awareness

This is the time of year we start making preparations for the upcoming winter. One of the most common, and unfortunately most hazardous things to our pets, is the use of antifreeze in our automobiles.

If left uncovered, drained on the ground or garage floor, it may be ingested by dogs, cats, wild life or Animals will drink antifreeze because of the sweet taste. If ingested, severe and often fatal poisoning

The chemical used in conventional antifreeze is called ethlyene glycol. This chemical causes severe or fatal, often permanent, kidney damage.

Immediate medical attention is essential! Hospitalization and intensive treatment are required to treat most antifreeze poisonings. If you suspect antifreeze ingestion, seek professional help at once!

As little as two ounces of ethlyene glycol antifreeze can kill a dog - one teaspoon can be lethal to a cat. A small child can be harmed by only two tablespoons. By the time symptoms have appeared, it may be too late to successfully treat the patient.

The good news is there are now several brands of antifreeze available that do not contain ethlyene glycol. These new products are made with a safer, less toxic chemical called propylene glycol.

Look for: Sta-clean; Uni-z freeze proof; Safe; Eco-3; and Sierra. These products are comparable to conventional antifreeze in engine protection. Another antifreeze use I would mention is in plumbing. Here in the north we often use the chemical in toilets of summer homes that are closed for the winter.

Animals will often take the opportunity to drink from the toilet bowl. Keep the lid down on any treated toilet. A piece of duct tape to secure the lid will also serve as a reminder in the spring.

Keep all chemicals in their original container and out of reach of children and pets. Always dispose of them in accordance to label instructions.

It's Looking A Lot Like Christmas By Anne F. Messerschmidt

The song It's looking a lot like Christmas is very appropro as I am writing this column. After all, it has been snowing since Sunday and today is Tuesday. As we address our Christmas cards to family and friends near and far away, we notice the oft - repeated phrase, "Peace on earth, Good will to men."

The scripture reads in Luke, chapter 02 and verse 14 as follows:

"Glory to God in the highest, and on earth peace, good will toward men" - near identical to the sentiments on our Christmas cards. But how can there still be so much hatred and so many wars throughout the world when Jesus came to bring peace and love?

The angels proclaimed it, too, but that isn't exactly what the angels said. It was, "And on earth peace to men of good will." I discern that those of good will and all who are kind and helpful to one another and obey God's word meet this qualification, don't you?

Oh, but then think on the many unloving people who act cruelly and selfishly and are full of hatred like old scrooge in the Dickens classic story most of us remember at this time of year; surely they won't have peace too?

In Matthew 05:44 it says, "Love your enemies, bless them that curse you, do good to them that hate you, and pray for them which despitefully use you and persecute you." What a "tall order" this is and so very difficult to do! Really, you can hardly do it unless you have accepted Jesus as your personal Saviour. When He lives in us and we are obedient to Him and emulate Him, well, it is then we can love the "unlovely" in spirit and all those who have caused us heartache and pain. God is so wise and so good and He has an unfailing purpose throughout the Bible.

"And we know that all things work together for good to them that love God, to them who are called according to His purpose." Romans 08:28.

We can even forgive all the people in our lives who have hurt us - way, way back in our childhood. After years of turmoil and harboring resentment and ill will I have finally made peace with my Dad 33 years after his death because of The Holy Spirit living within me. Yes, it can be done and a burden is really lifted.

Comfort for Our Losses

"Blessed are those who mourn, for they shall be comforted." - Matthew 5:4

We all appreciate that the end of earthly life is death, but when that death occurs during war it is a more sad occasion than the usual giving up of life. Most of us go to our heavenly reward surrounded by the comfort of family and friends. The soldier in battle has no such consolation, many going to unmarked graves. It is only fitting therefore that as a nation and as a people we dedicate a day of recognition to all who served to bring about the peace, especially those who did at expense to themselves. We can all take solace in the words of Jesus in His Sermon on the Mount, for we know we will be comforted through our faith and in our belief in a life after death in God's

All Our Yesterdays By Robert B. Parker

Robert Parker is the bestselling author of the highly acclaimed Spenser novels. He has written a total of 26 novels.

This book is a great read about the second generation son of a Corktown-raised Detroit detective, during the roaring 1930s and 1940s. There is plenty of violence, intrigue, and sex with many intricate side plots. It makes the story over beers between son and retired father very relative.

I can still recall those burly, rumpled black-suited detectives of the past. This is excellent reading in a deer blind waiting for Bambi.

All Our Yesterdays is available in the new book section at the Jordan Valley District Library. Other books by Robert Parker include: Walking Shadow (1994); Paper Doll (1993); Double Deuce (1992).

Apply for homestead exemption

Homeowners who owned and occupied their homes prior to May 1, 1994 and did not previously apply for the Homestead Exemption on their school operating tax may submit an application to their local unit of government in time for the December Board of Review. The exemption will be granted to qualified homeowners and will apply to all regular school operating taxes for the tax year 1994.

The exemption allows owner-occupied property (principal residence) to be taxed at 6 mills for school operations instead of the 24 mill tax on business and non-homestead property. In some communities, there are additional "hold-harmless" mills and/or "enhancement" mills that will be added to the 6 state mills for homeowners.

It's that time of the year for the cookie exchange and you just don't have the time to make all those holiday treats. Our next two recipes will solve that problem. They are quick and easy. It looks just like you spent all night in the kitchen.

Chocolate-Glazed Peppermint Cookies

1 (20 oz.) pkg. Pillsbury Refrigerated Sugar Cookies

3 tbs. finely chopped hard peppermint candy

1/2 c. semi-sweet chocolate chips

1 1/2 tsp. shortening Heat oven to 350° F. Slice well-chilled dough into 1/4-inch-thick slices. Place slices 2 inches apart on ungreased cookie sheets. Sprinkle 1/4 teaspoon peppermint candy in center of each slice.

Bake at 350° F for 7 to 11 minutes or until light golden brown. Cool slightly; remove from cookie sheets.

In small saucepan, melt chocolate chips and shortening over low heat. Drizzle over cooled cookies. Let stand until set. Makes 3 dozen cookies.

Easy Cherry Rum Balls

2 c. crushed vanilla wafers (40 to 45 wafers)

1/2 c. finely chopped candied red and/or green cherries

1/4 c. rum

2 tbsp. butter, melted

1 c. powdered sugar

1/2 c. finely chopped pecans or walnuts

3 tbsp. corn syrup

1/4 c. powdered sugar

In medium bowl, combine crushed vanilla wafers, 1 cup powdered sugar, cherries and pecans. Add rum, corn syrup and butter; blend well. Shape mixture into 1-inch balls; roll in 1/4 cup powdered sugar. Cover tightly; let stand 24 hours to blend flavors. Makes 3 dozen cookies.

The rum flavor "mellows," so make these no-bake confections at least 24 hours before serving them. This recipe comes from Pillsbury Cookbooks.

Here are some hints for storing your cookies after baking so they will retain that just-baked flavor.

- Be sure your baked cookies are completely cooled before storing. If they are warm they might stick together.
- Store cookies unfrosted, as the frosting may cause the cookies to stick. Also, cookies tend to absorb moisture from frosting and lose their crispness.
- Store your crisp and soft cookies separately. Stored together, they'll just become
- Freeze cookies in freezer bags or air-tight containers, arranged in layers separated by sheets of waxed paper, Freeze for up to 12 months. To thaw, let cookies stand in container at room temperature for 15 minutes.
- Store cookies at room temperature for up to three days. Cookies with frosting or filling that contains cream cheese or yogurt must be stored in the refrigerator. Use sealed plastic bags or tightly covered containers to store cookies. This will prevent humidity from softening your crisp cookies and air from drying out the soft

School fluoride program offered

Through a grant received by the District Health Department No. 3, schools in the area are being offered a school fluoride mouthrinse program at no cost to parents. This program is endorsed by the Northland Dental Hygiene Society and the Vacationland Dental Society.

Tooth decay is a disease which begins in early childhood and can continue throughout adulthood. Few children escape the destruction this disease produces. It is the leading cause of tooth loss before the age of 35. In order to control tooth decay, preventive measures must be taken. Today, fluoride is still the most effective weapon to reduce the incidence of tooth decay.

Participants will rinse their mouths in school with a 0.2 percent neutral sodium fluoride solution for one minute each week under adult supervision. The solution is not swallowed.

This topical application of fluoride helps teeth that are in the mouth by rebuilding tooth surfaces that are in the beginning stages of tooth decay. Latest research demonstrates that fluoride mouthrinsing is safe and effective in reducing decay by up to 35 percent.

This preventive program, however, should not take the place of regularly scheduled dental office care or proper home care, health department officials emphasized.

Parents are encouraged to visit their dentist for treatment and dental sealants. The combined use of sealants and fluorides has the potential to virtually eliminate dental decay as a major health problem for most children.

Questions regarding the fluoride program or dental sealants should be addressed to a local dental professional, or call Patti Ulrich RDH, District Health Department No. 3 at (616) 547-6523 for more infor-

Festival reflections

It's almost time for the annual celebration known as the Festival of the Bells! Events get under way Dec. 12 with the judging of business decorations and the opening of a "Christmas Wonderland" at the EJ Senior Center (evenings from 5 to 8 p.m.). Also in the early-week schedule: a special Creches Exhibit (noon to 4 p.m. Dec. 12-20 in the JRAC building); and Dinner with Santa (4:30 to 7 p.m. Dec. 13 in the elementary school).

Rubella Alert issued for local area

Dr. Brian Youngs, Medical director for District Health Department No. 3 and No. 4, is alerting the public about a probable cause of rubella or German measles reported from Cheboygan County.

Rubella is passed directly from person to person by direct contact or by contact with nose and throat secretions from coughing, sneezing, and talking. The disease is most contagious as the rash is appearing, but can be spread from one week before to five to seven days after rash onset.

Rubella may be transmitted by infected persons who exhibit no signs or symptoms. The period from exposure to actual onset of rubella symptoms, called the incubation period, varies from 14-23 days, with an average of 16-18 days. Children are apt to have a milder case of rubella than adults.

For rubella illness developed after birth, symptoms are often mild with 25 percent to 50 percent of cases having no signs or symptoms. In older children and adults, there is often one to five days of low-grade fever, tiredness, headache, conjunctivitis, runny nose, and upper respiratory tract symptoms preceding the rash.

Rubella in a pregnant woman is a very serious problem. All women who want to become pregnant or are pregnant should know their rubella antibody status (a blood test which indicates prior exposure or a response to the vaccine). There is a vaccine (measlesmumps-rubella) that may prevent the illness. It is given to non-pregnant women.

When a pregnant woman is exposed to rubella, or a similar illness, she must immediately contact her doctor. A blood specimen should be obtained as soon as possible and tested for rubella antibody. The pregnant woman is then tested on several different occasions to see if an infection has occurred.

Women who become infected during pregnancy must review this issue with their physician.

Send in Santa letters now

Kids! It's time to get those letters off to Santa — with a stop at your hometown newspaper on the way! Here's how it works: Write your favorite Christmas wishes (be sure to put your name, age and town in), tuck them in an envelope and drop it off at your local post office or mail it to Santa at the North Pole. You can even send it right to our newspaper office: P.O. Box 405, East Jordan, Mich. 49727. We'll print all the letters we get by Dec. 15 in our December 21 issue, and then send them straight on to Santa in plenty of time for Christmas.

people up north

Thris Martin, owner of Willie's Up North, was the host of the Goodies Tour Bus that took 23 people to the casino in St. Ignace Nov. 21. It all started with breakfast at Willie's Up North. Snacks and beverages and (I'm sure) plenty of good country music were served on the trip. I also heard that one of the ladies on that tour won over $3,000. (Wow!) Chris told me he plans to do this again Dec. 4.

■ MaryAnn Roberts of East Jordan has turned 50. She celebrated her birthday Nov. 19. Happy Birthday, MaryAnn!

■ Betty Dipzinski spent Thanksgiving in the hospital. We wish her a speedy recovery.

Taye Leaman spent the day in the emergency room Nov. 29. Faye slipped at her job and broke her arm. We hope she will be able to enjoy her next six weeks off.
