

Weather

Weekday highs in the mid-30s dropped enough by Friday to allow 7 inches of snow to fall, mostly on Saturday, when a fine sifting of the white stuff fell almost non-stop throughout the day. Year-to-date totals (through Jan. 23) now stand at 70.5 inches, with little additional accumulation expected before the weekend. Temperatures remain in the double digits, even through the long winter nights. LAST YEAR: A brief warming trend was expected to reverse, dropping daytime highs back to the single digits. Snow totals surpassed 1993, jumping all the way to 128 inches by Jan. 21.

The Belle and the Knight

Jake Ryan and Mandy Reid are all smiles after being named Winter Knight and Belle of the Blizzard at the 1995 Sno-Blast Winter Ball and Sno-Cotillion Jan. 21. Ryan and Reid received the most votes from the community. Votes cost $1, and more than $300 was raised. The proceeds will help to pay Winter Ball expenses and fund other Jaycee projects. For more on the 1995 Sno-Blast, see next week's East Jordan Journal.

Township treasurer resigns

Jordan Township treasurer Laura Stanek will resign from her post effective April 1.

Stanek made her resignation known in a letter to township supervisor Joseph Haney, Sr., dated Jan. 17. Though Stanek was not in attendance at the Jan. 23 meeting, no mention of her resignation was made by board members.

"I'm surprised that it wasn't discussed at the meeting," Stanek subsequently said. "I thought they would let the people know."

"There was some kind of hush-hush talk before the meeting started that I didn't get in on," township trustee Darwin Morris said.

Morris added that Laura Stanek had told him prior to her Jan. 17 letter of her plans to resign.

"When she told me, it was in confidence, and she hadn't contacted the supervisor," he said. "I didn't bring it up at the meeting because I didn't want to betray her confidence. I didn't know where the whole matter stood."

Attempts to reach Haney and township clerk Leona Stanek for comment before press time were unsuccessful.

"If the clerk and the supervisor knew, I think they should have made the public aware," Morris said.

Laura Stanek would not state her reasons for resigning. "I'd love to, but I won't," she said.

She added that she "chose not to go" to the Jan. 23 board meeting. "I may not go to the March meeting (the next one scheduled), either," she said.

The treasurer explained her decision to stay on until April.

"I feel that this year, with all the Proposal A changes, I should finish out the (tax) collection year," she said. "By April 1, my books should be balanced and sent in to the county treasurer."

"It's not illegal, but it does seem unusual," Antrim County Prosecutor Charles Koop said of the township board's lack of comment. "Perhaps they are hoping to talk the treasurer into staying."

James Galbraith, head of the Jordan Township Citizen Committee that is considering recall action against Haney, Leona Stanek and trustee Lucy Lercel, said he was disturbed the township board made no mention of Laura Stanek's resignation at their Jan. 23 meeting.

"They're selectively deciding what people should know and what they shouldn't," he said.

Confusing signs equal snowmobile problems

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

The city has a snowmobile problem, and it's not just a lack of snow.

Signs directing snowmobiles through the city are generally placed improperly, according to Chief of Police Jerry Alward. He reported that he and DPW foreman Butch Breakey checked the route in early December and most of the signs were either in the wrong place or indicated the wrong direction.

Alward said he is working with the public safety committee of the East Jordan City Council to rectify the problem.

But the signs are only part of the problem. Milton Street resident Fred Ingram complained at the Jan. 17 city council meeting about snowmobilers driving through his yard. Milton Street is on the trail taking traffic north out of the city.

Police officer Paul Timmons acknowledged that trespassing is one of the main violations the department deals with regarding snowmobilers.

"They go right across yards," said Timmons. "It's our biggest problem."

EJPD responds to complaints by issuing traffic violations.

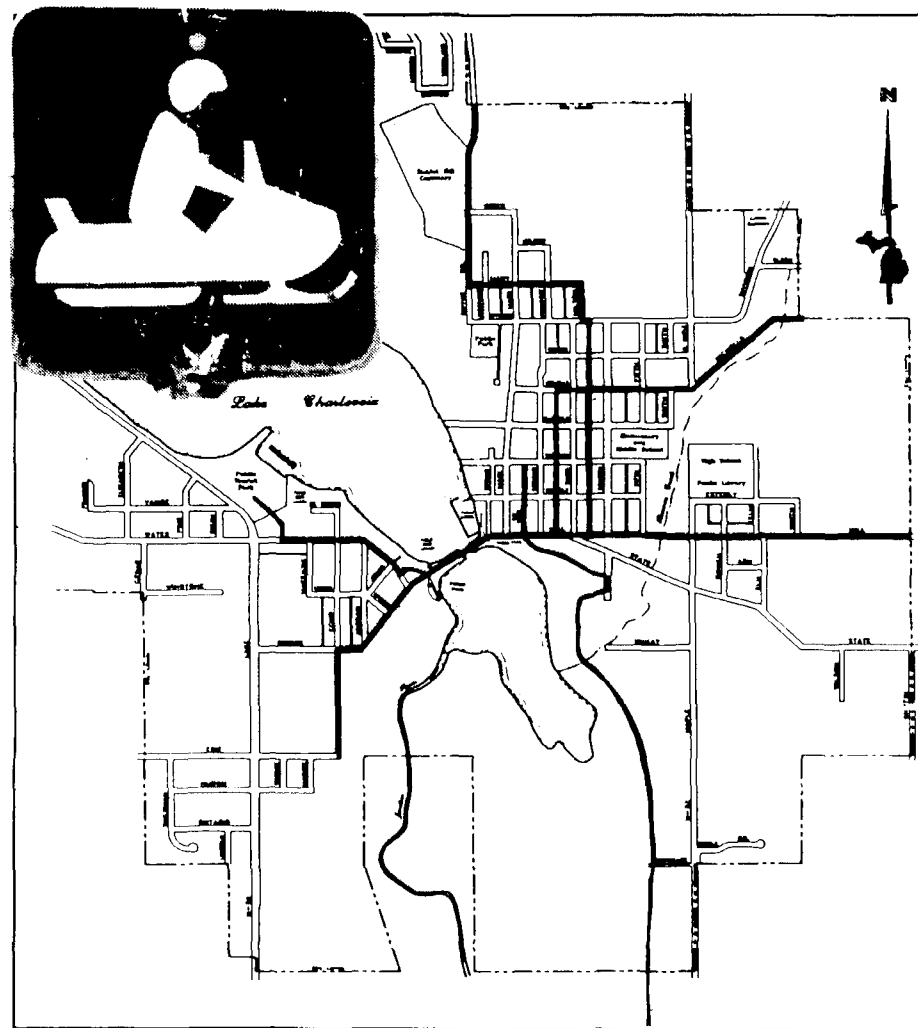

"Snowmobilers are expected to adhere to all laws and regulations pertaining to motor vehicles," Alward emphasized.

Speeding is also a common violation, Timmons said, and the department issues tickets to snowmobilers as they would to a speeding motorist.

Keeping snowmobiles off the state highways and sidewalks is another responsibility of the police department. The only place snowmobiles are allowed on M-32 or on sidewalks is crossing Memorial Bridge. Drivers are directed to use only the south side of the bridge.

With correct signage in place, the department will have fewer problems managing snowmobile traffic. Alward said he expects action soon.

"It has to be done and it's going to be done," he said.

SNOWMOBILES ARE expected to follow these trails while within the East Jordan city limits. Drivers may follow any of the north-south alleys along the trail. Snowmobiles are illegal on state routes, and must drive behind the FMB Northwestern Bank and other Bridge Street businesses to access Memorial Bridge. They are allowed on the south side of the bridge only.

Because snow made skidding the huge logs off the rolling hills of the Jordan Valley an easier task, this must have been a common winter scene in town. The view is thought to be looking east on State Street toward the Mill Street hill. The post card on the back was mailed Aug. 24, 1916.

Bodem to chair Tourism and Recreation Committee

Speaker Paul Hillegonds announced that state Rep. Beverly A. Bodem, R-Alpena, will chair the House Tourism and Recreation Committee during the 1995-96 legislative session.

"By assigning Beverly to this key post I am anticipating another productive term on tourism issues," said Hillegonds, R-Holland. "She will build on her experiences from the shared-power agreement and focus on bipartisan problem-solving. With 11 bills signed into law last session, Beverly was among the top five members in the House."

Hillegonds cited Bodem's 1993 revision of Michigan's Tourism Policy Act and her extensive efforts to create the Genevieve Gillette State Parks Endowment Fund. The latter was an integral component of Proposal P, approved by voters last November.

"Both measures will contribute to the success of Michigan tourism and Beverly was instrumental in getting them approved," Hillegonds said.

Bodem is strongly committed to rural tourism revitalization and infrastructure improvements.

"Industries and tourist attractions depend on good roads and bridges. Northern Michigan's future will be enhanced by maintaining and improving our transportation system," Bodem said.

The 106th District lawmaker also wants to cultivate innovative strategies between the public and private sector, such as the international ferry project between Alpena and Ontario.

"This is an exciting time to be involved in tourism. As a new century emerges, so are many new approaches in the travel industry," she added.

Bodem said Michigan travel officials are planning an initiative to improve the hospitality service level of the state. They also want to emphasize product development as a tool for building economic activity through tourism.

"Above all, we must sustain an aggressive promotional strategy to compete against other states in the region. This is essential if Michigan's tourism industry is to thrive in the years to come," Bodem concluded.

Council exhibits work of two artists this week

The Jordan River Arts Council presents an exhibit of the work of Chad Pastotnik, printmaker and bookbinder, and Michelle Lennington, oil paintings and ceramics, continuing through Fri., Jan. 27.

Chad Pastotnik resides on the Cedar River in the Jordan Valley and works in the Deep Woods Studio and Press, which he established to create books and prints of his own and other writers. Pastotnik received his BFA from Grand Valley State University where he studied intaglio print techniques of engraving and mezzotint, ancient processes of carving copper plates without acid. He has attended workshops and seminars with master bookbinders, out of which came his first book, Trees, a limited edition of verse and intaglio prints.

For the last four years, Pastotnik worked with student apprentices from the Miaheyyun School.

Michelle Lennington is creating a ceramic studio in an old outbuilding on her parents' farm. She has a BA degree from Berea College in Kentucky and worked in the Arts and Crafts Department there before she returned to Michigan where her family has lived nearly 200 years.

In addition to her ceramic work, oil paintings of nature subjects, somewhat abstract in form and color, and highly personalized in perspective are Lennington's other methods of expressing herself.

Gallery hours during the exhibit are noon to 4 p.m. daily, through Jan. 27.

Community foundation teens practice philanthropy

Several programs that benefit area young people can stretch their budgets a bit, thanks to some help from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's Youth Advisory Committee. Members of the advisory group met recently to award grants totaling $7,300 to non-profit agencies and special programs that serve Charlevoix County kids.

Chosen for funding were:

- Charlevoix City Police Department – $1,500 to support D.A.R.E., a drug education and prevention program aimed at elementary students.

- Crooked Tree Arts Council – $1,250 to enrich classroom learning by bringing a variety of performing arts programs to Charlevoix County schools.

- Jordan River Arts Council – $1,500 to enable the Children's Theater Festival to produce three new plays.

- Little Traverse Conservancy – $550 to provide environmental field trips for Charlevoix County school children.

- City of Charlevoix Recreation De- partment – $600 to help underwrite the girls winter basketball league.

- Friends of the Pool – $300 toward construction of a new community swimming pool.

- Grand Traverse Regional Land Conservancy – $600 to develop the South Arm Nature Preserve on Six Mile Lake.

- The Charlevoix County Community Foundation – $1,000 to enhance training and leadership activities for the Youth Advisory Committee.

Funds for the grants come from a Charlevoix County Community Foundation special youth endowment, made up of local contributions and more than $400,000 in matching dollars given by the W.K. Kellogg Foundation. Only interest earned on the endowment is used to make grants, so the fund can continue to grow. This is the second group of grants made by the youth group – last spring they awarded $7,000 to various programs.

To prepare for their grant-making responsibilities, the Youth Advisory Committee conducted a needs assessment, gathering information from nearly 800 students and teachers throughout the county. Belgie Caballero of East Jordan High School, a committee member, said the exercise taught kids what kinds of problems need attention, and what types of programs could help.

"From surveying teens in our area, we learned that drug and alcohol abuse and a lack of recreational activities are some of the most pressing needs," she explained. "So those are some of the projects we tried to fund."

Students who serve on the youth committee represent each of the high schools in Charlevoix County. In addition to Belgie, members of the group are: Erin McDonough, Kendra Wojan, and Darryl Mooney from Beaver Island; Brian Seelye, Charity Hover, and Joe Richter from Boyne City; Laurie Massey and Jenny Patton from Boyne Falls; Jeff Hoffman, Rachel Newcomb, and Nicholas Bogart from Charlevoix; Tim Woodworth from Porter Creek; and Ben Banfield and Anna Salinas from East Jordan.

The Charlevoix County Community Foundation was started by a group of citizens in 1992 as a way to develop a lasting pool of money that could support worthy projects now, and for years to come. The foundation accepts charitable donations and manages them in a permanent endowment. Earned income is used to fund a variety of human service, educational, health, civic, and cultural programs in the county.

More information about the foundation is available by calling 616/536-2440, or by writing c/o P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, MI 49727.

Band Parents plan food drive, schedule next three meetings

We had a wonderful Christmas concert this year with a great turn out – the students really appreciate so much community support. The raffle held during the concert was very successful, and we want to congratulate all of our winners.

Orders were taken for cheesecake and wrapping paper in November, and for our first time at a fund-raiser of this type it went very well.

The Band Parents want to return some of the support we have received from the community, and as a way of doing this we will be collecting canned goods and/or dry goods from each of our band students to be donated to the Care and Share food pantry in February.

Our next three meetings will be Wed., Feb. 1, Wed., March 8, and Wed., April 12, at 7 p.m. in the band room. We invite anyone interested in the Band Parents' Organization, whether you have a student in band or not, to come and join us.

Athletes set for SO winter games

Cold temperatures, blowing snow and frosty air may slow down many Michigan residents this time of year, but it brings out the best in the athletes getting ready to compete in the 1995 Michigan Special Olympics State Winter Games. Approximately 930 athletes will be ready to go for the gold and enjoy the thrill of competition at Sugar Loaf Mountain Resort in Cedar Feb. 7-10.

These Michigan athletes have been preparing for months to show what they can do in Alpine and Nordic skiing, snowshoeing and speed and figure skating. Action begins on Tuesday with recreational rounds of Broomball, while official competition begins on Wednesday.

Special Olympics athletes train and compete year round in community-based programs, working with volunteer coaches. These local athletic programs are the heart of the Michigan Special Olympics.

"Since we have limits on participation at the state and international levels, we emphasize the training and competition programs at the local level," said Lois Arnold, Executive Director of Michigan Special Olympics. "That is where all athletes have an opportunity to develop their skills and experience, all the benefits that come from participating in Special Olympics. The thousands of year-round volunteers in towns and cities all over Michigan are what makes Michigan Special Olympics work."

The Winter games are being sponsored for the 14th year by the Wertz Warriors Snowmobile Endurance Ride. The annual fundraising ride winds its way to the Opening Ceremonies of the Games from Mount Clemens, and then continues on the remainder of its 925 mile journey to Mackinaw City raising funds for the Winter Games in route. This year's honorary chairman is Mark "the Bird" Fidyrych, former Detroit Tiger all-star pitcher.

The four days of activities for the athletes include more than athletic competition. Numerous recreational activities and special events are scheduled for the evenings. Musical entertainment, a Victory Dance, a Tug of War and a Parents Reception are being offered.

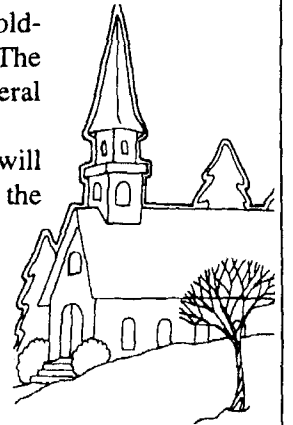

Michigan Special Olympics is a year-round program of sports training and athletic competition for children and adults with mental impairments. It is headquartered on the campus of Central Michigan University in Mount Pleasant. For more information call 1-800-644-6404.

Giving becomes learning for second-graders

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

It began with the desire to do something for others at Christmas.

Hands-on lessons in civic responsibility, financial planning and budgeting, marketing, and nutrition for a group of enthusiastic second-graders were the result. And the lessons will continue to affect not just the students, but the many people they touched because of that first impulse.

East Jordan Elementary School second-graders, along with teacher Kay Farrimond, decided to make angel ornaments to sell. Their goal was to make enough money to give something that would touch as many people as possible.

After devising a plan for the angels, the students applied for and received a $50 loan from the bank (41¢ interest!) to purchase wood. High school shop class students cut the forms and the second-graders sanded, painted, and decorated their angels – six to eight angels for each child. With donations of paint, ribbon, and dried flowers, they were able to keep their angels affordable.

Farrimond explained that the original price planned was $1, but they realized they didn't have enough angels to sell at that price and still reach their target of $200. So the class raised the selling price to $1.50 with or $1.25 without the dried flowers.

"We sold all the angels!" reported class member Jeff Clabby. He and his classmates explained the entire project to visitors from East Jordan's Care and Share Emergency Food Pantry. Margaret Thompson, the pantry administrator and Betty Sellers, the new president, were invited to the class for the second chapter of this success story.

After the students paid off their loan and donated $150 to the city holiday decoration committee for new banners, they still had $36.

"We brainstormed how we wanted to spend it," said Farrimond. The final decision was to shop for the food pantry. Farrimond was presenting a nutrition unit, so groups of students were each given an imaginary situation requiring a meal. Armed with budgets and calculators, the students planned their menus and made their shopping lists.

A trip to Glen's was the climax of the project. Looking for the best prices, students made discoveries about junk foods, as well as prepared foods versus individual ingredients, and chose nutritious and useful items for their donation.

Thompson noted that the students also chose a number of Spartan brand foods, which she said made their gift go even further. The pantry redeems the labels for bonuses.

PACKING THEIR gift for the food pantry, Kay Farrimond's second grade students take their task seriously, but with great enthusiasm.

CARE AND SHARE Emergency Food Pantry administrator Margaret Thompson (left) and new president Betty Sellers are surrounded by civic-minded second-graders as they accept groceries for the pantry.

During the visit, students had the opportunity to ask questions of the pantry volunteers. Along with wondering how the pantry started, students were curious about what the pantry looks like and whether everyone who uses it is very poor.

"Not always," said Thompson. "Maybe they just need a little extra help while the dad looks for a job. If anyone is in need, they can ask, and we give them help."

Thompson coincidentally was in the check-out line at Glen's behind the second-graders as they spent their $36. She said she enjoyed the opportunity to see the young shoppers in action.

"It was really fun watching them," agreed Farrimond.

The children themselves will no doubt remember this project with special affection, and the many lessons may make an impression that lasts them far beyond the second grade.

The East Jordan Care and Share Emergency Food Pantry was started many years ago to help one needy family. This past holiday season, the pantry distributed 439 food baskets.

The pantry is open all year, with regular hours from 9 a.m. to noon on Mondays and Thursdays. Emergency service is available by calling 536-7375. The pantry is located in the basement of the East Jordan Family Health Center.

a word fitly spoken

Another Chinese story

"Now also when I am old and gray headed, O God, forsake me not; until I have shewed Thy strength unto this generation, and they power to every one that is to come." Psalms 71:18

In my files I came across another Chinese story. Seems my generation was educated in part by the lessons found in such stories.

How many arguments have I participated in? No, I can't see where fairy tales are too violent as compared to the insensitive, violent, hedonistic, blasphemous fare on television, full of obscenities, and in human behavior towards others.

There is a degree of wisdom in the fairy tales. What parent didn't teach their children that the stories are make believe? Most of all didn't "once upon a time" and "they lived happily ever after" finalize the story?

Good always overcame evil and you sure knew who was the good one, just like our old movies.

I know many of my views are unpopular, so write and debate your opinion for that is what makes our country great - freedom to be heard and acknowledged.

Way back when, a Chinese family was getting low on food, and the old grandfather was considered an unwanted burden - just another mouth to feed, to consume the meager supply on hand.

So the father of the home decided to put the old man in a wheel barrow and take him up the mountain to die.

The eight-year-old grandson went along, for he was curious and full of questions. The boy's father explained that the grandfather was old and helpless, a real nuisance and there was nothing else to be done with him.

Then the young son said cheerfully, "I'm glad I came along, father, because when you get old I'll know where to take you."

The father stopped in his tracks and thought better of the situation and brought the grandfather back home down the mountain.

Let's be more tolerant and humane than the man in the Chinese story, for as the Bible states, it is appointed once for man to die, but only God sets the exact hour before He calls each of us home.

Happy 80th birthday celebration

A surprise party was held at the Argonne, Jan. 14, to celebrate the 80th birthday of Louise Hart of East Jordan.

Attending were Bob and Suzi Hart of North Tonawanda, N.Y.; Mary Jane and Glen Segraves and their two children and spouses of East Jordan; Anne and Bill Olstrom of East Jordan and their four children; and Dave Hart and daughter Danielle from Las Vegas. Three great-grandchildren were in attendance. Family friends Roger and Lori Moses and daughters Teresa and Katie also came to help celebrate.

Louise's son Peter, who is serving in the U.S.

Air Force in Guantanamo, Cuba, was unable to attend, as well as Stephanie Hart of Vermont, and Rob Hart, who is serving in the armed forces in Alabama.

Louise's children also hosted a coffee hour in her honor, following mass at St. Joseph Catholic Church.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Can You Hear the Voice of God?

"God said to Moses, 'Come no nearer; take off your sandals; the place where you are standing is holy ground'."

— Exodus 3:5

Most of us have difficulty relating to the stories of Moses. We have not seen a burning bush or heard the voice of God as he did. Therefore, we conclude that Moses was a "Super Saint," possessing human power, insight, and wisdom unavailable to us. This is not so! He had the same fears and doubts that we possess but he was a man of faith because he responded to God's prompting in his life. Although God may not speak to us through burning bushes or loud voices, He does speak through His "still small voice." Instead of filling our prayers only with endless petitions, let us be silent this week and listen to God. He will speak to us through the stillness and make Himself known through His still small voice!

people up north

By Kathy Dipzinski 536-0282

Hello everyone! Our People Up North column will begin featuring the senior citizens of East Jordan and the surrounding area.

If you know of someone that is a long time resident, give me a call. I would love to tell their story, and I hope you will enjoy them.

Don't forget to let me know about birthdays and other events that People Up North was designed for.

Loreta Dipzinski

As a young girl living through Prohibition, Loreta was one of eight children of coal miner Baily Hibbs and his wife Nora.

Loreta remembers watching in the early mornings before dawn the line of lights coming from the carbide lights in the hats of the miners going to work. There were, indeed, hard times, but somehow the family always managed.

They lived in Illinois. That's also where Loreta met and married Leo Dipzinski in 1929. The couple, along with their two sons, moved to East Jordan around 1949.

Leo and Loreta owned and operated Dips Tavern, which is now Sam's. The tavern lasted only four years and Leo then began Dipzinski Decorating. Loreta also stayed busy, working for most of the taverns in town, and for many years she worked at the E.J. Shop.

Leo passed away in 1968, and since then Loreta has filled her life taking care of grandchildren. Loreta turned 86 Dec. 4.

Loreta can't get out and do what she loves most, walking to town and visiting friends because of arthritis, but she still loves cooking and insists on making the potato salad and pies at all family gatherings. She spends most of her days now reading and watching TV.

Loreta would love visits from her friends and can be called at 536-2951. To many people Loreta is known as Grandma Dip, and we want to thank Grandma Dip for choosing East Jordan as her home.

PUBLIC NOTICE

CITY OF EAST JORDAN PUBLIC HEARING ON AMENDING ZONING ORDINANCE RELATIVE TO CHURCH DEVELOPMENTS

PLEASE TAKE NOTICE THAT the East Jordan Planning Commission will hold a Public Hearing on Thursday, February 9, 1995 at 5:15 p.m. in City Hall, 201 Main Street, East Jordan, MI, for the purpose of receiving public comments on amending the City's zoning ordinance relative to church developments. Current zoning ordinance language requires that church developments be located on at least 5 (five) acres of property. The Commission is considering new text language that would reduce the acreage requirement to 2 (two) acres for the first 100 seats of a main congregation hall.

A copy of the proposed new language is available at City Hall during normal business hours. Persons unable to attend the Public Hearing may submit written comments to: East Jordan Planning Commission, P.O. Box 499, East Jordan, MI 49727.

Recipes designed with East Jordan cooks in mind

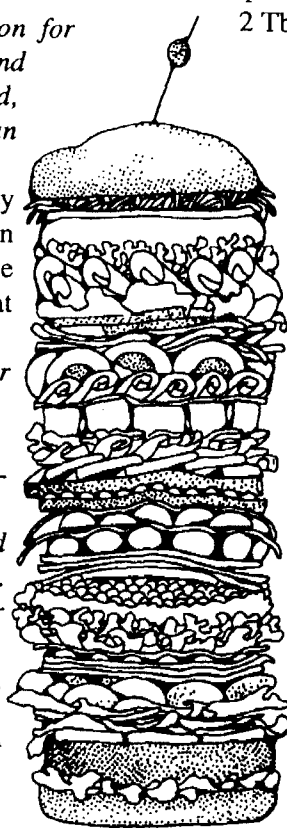

Hopefully that New Year's resolution for healthier eating is still working for you and your family. Keeping that goal in mind, this week's recipes are for lean and mean sandwiches.

Sandwiches are quick and versatile. They can be served either hot or cold and eaten as any meal of the day. Here are some suggestions for a great tasting low-fat sandwich:

- Use low-fat or nonfat mayonnaise or salad dressing.
- Use low fat cheeses.
- For added texture use lettuce, mushrooms and sprouts.
- Try avoiding salami, pepperoni and most hot dogs as they are high fat meats. Instead, use lean ham, turkey, beef or chicken.
- Avoid frying or sautéing—why not bake, broil, poach or steam?
- Remove skin from poultry and trim fat from meats.

We also need to limit eating those tasty croissants and biscuits because of their high fat content.

There are so many low-fat options available at today's grocery store that are high in taste and flavor. Just use your imagination! If you are low on imagination this week, we've done the work for you with our "Very Veggie Melt."

Very Veggie Melts

2 c. frozen broccoli, cauliflower and carrots
1 Tbsp. water

2 Tbsp. prepared fat free Italian salad dressing
1/2 c. sliced fresh mushrooms
1 small onion, sliced, separated into rings
4 slices multi-grain bread, toasted
8 slices of tomato
4 oz. Provolone cheese slices
Chopped fresh parsley (optional)

In a 4-cup microwave-safe measuring cup or 1-quart casserole, combine frozen vegetables and water. Microwave on high for 4 to 6 minutes or until vegetables are crisp tender. Drain, stir in salad dressing.

Meanwhile, spray small nonstick skillet with butter flavor nonstick cooking spray. Heat over medium-high heat until hot. Add mushrooms and onion; cook and stir until onion is tender.

Top each slice of toasted bread with 1/4 of mushroom-onion mixture; top each with 2 slices of tomato. Spoon about 1/3 cup of vegetable over tomato slices. Top each with cheese.

Place 2 sandwiches on microwave-safe plate lined with safe paper towel. Microwave on high for 30 to 60 seconds or until cheese is melted. Sprinkle with parsley if desired. Repeat with remaining sandwiches.

Does eating light mean you have to deprive yourself of all sweets and treats? No! Watch for next week's low-fat recipe, Black Forest Cheese Cake.

Free tax assistance for seniors offered

Citizens aged 60 and over in the Grand Traverse area may receive free assistance with income tax preparation again this year starting the end of January. This is the 18th year volunteer income tax assistance and tax counseling for the elderly is being sponsored by the Retired & Senior Volunteer Program.

Help is provided by 25 RSVP volunteers who receive training from Dennis, Gartland & Niergarth CPAs, the Internal Revenue Service and the Michigan Department of the Treasury.

Almost 1,500 seniors were assisted in 1994. Any senior in Antrim or Kalkaska counties who would like help with state and federal income tax forms are asked to bring the following items to their appointment:

- Tax forms or postcard received in mail with your name and address label;
- All W-2's, interest statements, dividend statements and all 1098's and 1099's;
- List of all other income, including Veteran's Pension;
- 1099 SSA (white Social Security form);
- Copy of last year's return;
- 1994 property tax bill;
- Medical insurance premiums paid;
- If you sold assets in 1994 (house, stocks and bonds) need to know when you bought. Bring all relevant papers;

- total of 1994 heating bills;

- Total 1994 out-of-pocket expenses for prescriptions drugs; forms can be obtained from druggist;

- Two business size envelopes for mailing taxes.

For an appointment, call the Antrim County Commission on Aging, (616) 533-8703 or the Kalkaska County COA, (616) 258-5030.

Heating help is available

The good news: Home Heating Credit may pay income-eligible consumers more than $100 to help pay for heat this winter. The bad news: Many eligible low-income customers don't know about the credit.

The Home Heating Credit, offered through the state government, helps low income families who spend a large portion of their income to heat their homes.

Homeowners and renters who are low income, receiving public assistance or unemployment are eligible for the Home Heating Credit if they meet certain income guidelines. Additional benefits may be available if the customer is deaf, blind, a person with a disability, or age 65 or older.

Obtain a Home Heating Credit form (MI-1040 CR-7) from the Michigan Department of Treasury at 1(800) 827-7000. It's not too late to qualify for the Home Heating Credit for 1990, 1991, 1992, or 1993.

Once a Home Heating Credit form is submitted to the Michigan Department of Treasury, it takes an average of three weeks to receive your credit.

Dark Rivers of the Heart – By Dean Koontz

Dean Koontz has once again given us a readable and fairly fast-paced tale. And once again, his protagonists are strong, intelligent, and capable people pitted against evil forces and overwhelming odds.

Spencer Grant, ex-Army Ranger, ex-LAPD officer with the computer Crimes Squad, is a gentle man with a scarred face and a horrifying past. Valerie Keene, also a computer whiz, is a woman who "knows too much" on the run from an "off the books" federal agency.

This agency, the brain child of Valerie's ex-father-in-law, is charged with the mission of cleaning up the messes left by politicians and by other federal agencies. Backed by a super-colossus of a computer called "Mama," the ultimate goal of this fascist agency is the enslavement of the populace.

Alone at first, and later with the help of an underground resistance movement, Valerie and Spencer try to elude the agents sent to eliminate them. The lead agent (whose personal hero is Jack Kervorkian) is a murderous psychopath with a cheery Santa Claus face and a perverted Utopian dream. There are heart-pounding chases and hair-raising escapes aplenty, all aided by high-tech weaponry and computer wizardry.

This novel certainly plays into the current popular paranoia directed at government and big business: the electronic super-highway is going to be used to spy on us all; politicians are all greedy, power-hungry crooks; everyone is engaged in cover-up; Armageddon is coming.

Koontz has even made his clandestine agency responsible for the Branch Davidian debacle in Waco and for the made-to-look-like-suicide murder of Vince Foster. Gee, I thought I was paranoid. Next to Koontz, I'm Pollyanna.

In summary, I thought it was a good story. It could have moved faster with a little less political preaching. This book is available at the Jordan Valley District Library.

Red Devils hot home game keeps streak going

BY S.F. PUCKETT
Sports Writer

A little luck, a lot of guts, and a screaming frenzy of a home crowd doesn't hurt, either.

East Jordan refused to die this week, living on for yet another game in the undefeated category. It took overtime and a last-gasp, crowd pleasing shot to continue – against the Devil's two nearest and dearest rivals, to boot.

Charlevoix was in town for the Jan. 17 game, and the Red Rayders did all they could to destroy that zero in the Devil's loss column. East Jordan led 17-11, 25-23 and 40-38 at the breaks before a flurry of activity turned the game into a 61-61 tie. Helping the Devil's reach overtime was Steve Wiltfong's 8-of-8 from the free throw line.

In overtime, Wiltfong hit a trey, Andrew Otis scored and added two free throws, and the end result was a 70-65 win.

Wiltfong finished with 25 for the night, including four triples. Andrew Otis scored 17, Nate McWatters matched Karl Redmer with nine, and Josiah Middaugh chipped in with seven.

Jan. 20 was not just another visit from Boyne City. The Rambler and Red Devil faithful packed the East Jordan gym.

Boyne held the early advantage, 14-13. They expanded it to 34-29, but by the start of the fourth, the margin had shrunk to just 51-49.

In the fourth, Wiltfong tied the game for the Devils, Otis putting them up by two; Boyne retied it, then Nate McWatters rebounded in a shot, 55-53 Red Devils.

The action stayed furious into the final minute.

After Mike Newkirk rebounded a miss and laid it in, the Devils trailed 63-62 with 16 seconds to go.

Boyne was fouled, and their ace at the line missed. The crowd rose up in anticipation as East Jordan brought the ball downcourt. Otis was guarded too well, he dished to Josiah Middaugh at the top of the key with eight seconds to go.

Josiah dribbled, feinted into the middle, moved around to the left of the paint, and launched.

Into the air went the ball, into the net went the ball, and the air is filled with the sound of the horn.

Gamewinner, 64-63!

The fans poured onto the court in celebration, Josiah buried in hugs and congratulations.

Steve Wiltfong fought off the coverage to hit four treys and score 23 points. Andrew Otis scored 13 with three treys, Mike Newkirk added nine, Josiah Middaugh had eight, and Karl Redmer finished with seven.

East Jordan remains undefeated, thus setting up part two of the showdown – Judgment Night at T.C. St. Francis, Jan. 24.

No Talent wins six-foot tourney

BY S.F. PUCKETT
Sports Writer

For the second time in five years, No Talent of Traverse City went undefeated in bracket play and claimed the title of Northern Michigan Champion in the six foot and under men's basketball tournament held in East Jordan Jan. 21-22.

Fifteen teams participated in the event, the offspring of the grand-daddy of all, six-foot-and-unders, the Chain O' Lakes (now the Burwood Products SF&U).

No Talent defeated Andrew Kan Travel Services of Charlevoix/Petoskey in the finals 80-67 after defeating LJ Ormsbee-Hancock of Cheboygan, JD's Place of Atlanta, and Hart Recreation from Ferris State University.

Andrew Kan reached the finals with wins over Sports Hub of Dearborn, LJ Ormsbee-Blaskowski of Cheboygan, and Provmont of Petoskey.

The Consolation bracket was won by LJO-Hancock, 100-91 over JD's Place. LJO Hancock got that chamampionship by winning consolation games over LJO-Blaskowski and Kruzel Excavating of Boyne City. JD's reached the final disposing of Sports Hub and Knust Masonry of Rapid City.

Other participants included Mancelona Lanes, Joe Skop Builder, BRI, The Party Shop of Boyne City, T.C. Traders, and GHA Insurance of Charlevoix.

Awards went to the top players in various categories: Top rebounder Stu Hancock of LJO-Hancock; top overall scorer Ryan Marlatt of JD's; top three-point shooter Ken Fitzek of No Talent; top defender Kerry Kruzel of Andrew Kan; assists, Scott Olsen of No Talent and Kim Thompson of Andrew Kan.

Members of the No Talent team include Rob Jabara, Steve Scott, Ed Scarborough, Ken Fitzek, and Scott Olsen.

Money raised from the event went to the East Jordan High School athletic department, the major portion to the basketball department.

The Tournament would like to thank GHA Insurance of Charlevoix for its continued support for the past five years, and the community as well.
