Protection sought for the lower Jordan River

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

An effort to preserve the pristine beauty of the Jordan River was encouraged by members of the East Jordan City Council at the Feb. 21 meeting.

John Richter, vice-president of the Friends of the Jordan River Watershed, Inc., told council his group is working to complete what the state began in 1972 when the Jordan became the first river in Michigan to be designated wild and scenic.

Wild-Scenic is the label given protected rivers with wild, forested borders, near development and moderately accessible. The protection is provided under Michigan's Natural Rivers Act (PA 231 of 1970).

The Wild-Scenic designation already follows the river for 73 miles from its headwaters in Chestonia Township, Antrim County, northwest to Rogers Bridge Road in South Arm Township. Richter said the FJRW is petitioning the Department of Natural Resources to continue the designation through the lower river and estuary to the South Arm of Lake Charlevoix, including Deer Creek as far as Barber Road in Wilson Township.

In a letter to the DNR, FJRW explained the petition as necessary because, "We believe that including the lower Jordan and Deer Creek is an essential element to the initial designation and would complete the original intent of the Natural Rivers plan. This in effect would connect and protect an entire riverine system and conforms with current ecosystem management concepts."

Richter said the eagles taking up residence in the lower river represents the high quality of the ecosystem.

"By luck or by design, we have a true natural river here," Richter told the council, "not levied or channeled. If we don't secure and protect it, this region will be irrevocably changed and could succumb to development pressures."

Richter said when the Wild-Scenic designation was bestowed by the state DNR in October, 1972, the lower river wasn't considered qualified for protection.

"We've learned a lot about rivers since then," Richter noted.

One more recently accepted environmental law has implications for the whole region - that of corridors. Ecological corridors, naturally or artificially developed, prevent biologic communities from becoming "islands" isolated by development. Corridors allow the movement

IF THE FRIENDS of the Jordan River Watershed are successful with their appeal, the entire Jordan River, from headwaters to the estuary and mouth in the city of East Jordan will be protected as a wild and scenic natural river.

Protection through zoning

Designation of the lower Jordan River as Wild-Scenic would have some effect on present zoning, but mainly on paper, as zoning within the city of East Jordan already protects the estuary to a certain extent.

The Friends of the Jordan River Watershed, Inc., are hoping the following management restrictions already on the rest of the river will be extended along with the Wild-Scenic designation:

- All new development is limited to where 200-foot setbacks for buildings are possible (100 feet on the tributaries).
- Commercial and industrial structures and uses, except campgrounds, are completely prohibited within the management area.
- Land fills or buildings are not allowed within the 400-foot management area where the ground water is within six feet of the surface.
- No damming, dredging, filling, or channelization is permitted on the protected part of the river.
- Docks, signage, grazing and logging have some restrictions.
- Only underground utility lines can be placed within the management area and other utility or pipeline use is generally prohibited.
- Mineral, oil and gas development is banned within the zoned area.
- No new public roads or highways can be constructed within the zone.

Fiddler prodigies

The East Jordan Cannery, talk of the north

A half century ago when independent basketball was in its glory, the East Jordan Cannery were the talk of the north country. Prior to World War II, independent basketball and baseball teams were as popular or more so than high school teams, and practically every little town had its independent quintet. Some small cities had several squads and would play almost anywhere. With other traveling teams available, it made for added interest in the sports. For a period of five years, 1936 to 1940, the EJ Cannery were the kingpins of northern Michigan and were champions, or at least proclaimed themselves so. The Cannery were coached by the late Alex Sinclair, manager of the East Jordan Canning Company and former Ellsworth High School coach. Ed Ruehling, local attorney, served as business manager, and Edward "The Bush" Bishaw did the scheduling.

Howard "Hud" Somerville, a former EJHS all-around athlete who played frosh football at Albion College in the fall of 1932, and Marlin "Spin" Cihak were the players around which Sinclair built his team.

Prior to their championship years members of the squad were: Chris Taylor, Abe Cohn (EJHS coach of all sports), Harry Jankoviak (shop teacher), Arne Hegerberg, Bill Taylor, and Harry Lee.

Along with Howard "Slats" Elzinga (later to become a Central Michigan College football, basketball and track great), Harold "Skinny" Edson (Grand Rapids University letterman), and Herb Peebles joined the club to shore up the champs. All three were Ellsworth residents at the time.

Others who joined the club during the glory years were: Donald LaPeer, Colin Somerville, Donald Johnson, Clarence "Stub" Bowman, William "Tiny" Cihak, Louis "Monk" Cihak, Ed Stanek, Richard "Tich" Saxton, and brother Gayle Saxton (who lettered in basketball and track at Alma College).

The Cannery weren't unbeatable and when they were defeated it was likely by the Bon Tons of Petoskey, a team led by outstanding performer Ted Dombroski.

Foundation offers new medical school scholarship

An aspiring physician from Charlevoix County will soon get help with the high cost of medical school, thanks to a special scholarship fund established through the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

The Julius Gilbert Memorial Scholarship will award its first medical school scholarship in the amount of $500 this spring. The scholarship fund began several years ago to honor Julius Gilbert, a prominent community activist and dedicated trustee of the Charlevoix Area Hospital. With current assets of nearly $10,000, the fund was transferred from the care of the hospital to management under the community foundation late last year.

Applicants must be from Charlevoix County and have completed their undergraduate degree. The future doctors will be rated on their academic performance, student service, personal interests, and letters of reference. A committee representing the Charlevoix Area Hospital will evaluate applications and recommend a candidate to the community foundation for final approval.

Deadline for applications is May 1, and a decision will be announced by June 1. Those who are interested should contact Diane Kidder at the Charlevoix Area Hospital, (616) 536-2440.

The Julius Gilbert Fund joins several other designated endowments and scholarship funds held by the community foundation. The foundation manages and invests various types of charitable funds on behalf of donors. Only income earned on the funds is used to support scholarships and other worthy programs, so the endowments live in perpetuity, continuing to give back to the community for many years to come.

Those who wish to learn more about the community foundation, or who would like to make a contribution to the Gilbert Fund should call, or write, c/o PO Box 718, East Jordan, MI 49727.

Chamber raffle tickets

The East Jordan Chamber of Commerce is sponsoring a year-long cash raffle with a limit of 1,200 tickets sold and four $100 winners every month.

January winners were Dorothy Hudkins, Linda Teeple, Pat O'Brian and Jerry Zoulek. In February's drawing, Dorothy Hudkins was a lucky repeat winner. Other winners were Kay Arnold, Carmella Beck and Robert Paul.

Winning tickets are returned to potentially win again. Drawings are held on the third Tuesday of each month and ticket holders need not be present to win.

For more information, contact the Chamber of Commerce.

Superintendent discusses city potential

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

With a month of experience working in the city of East Jordan, interim city superintendent William Hughes is ready to make some observations.

He brought those observations to the Feb. 21 city council meeting.

"It seems the city is in an opportune position to make plans," Hughes told council members. He noted that the annual budget writing is in the final stages and several outside influences need consideration (the recently-adopted recreation master plan and DDA plans, for example).

"Perhaps we should consider a master 'wish list' of the capital improvements the community is looking to the city for," Hughes said.

He asked for an indication that his observations were consistent with the direction the council would like to see the city aim. Hughes included a "shotgun" estimate of the costs of projects, based on his experience, and outlined projects with grant potential, such as airport and industrial park road improvements.

Hughes gave high priority to several DPW and council-requested projects already in the works and budgeted for the 1995-96 fiscal year, primarily street, water and sewer improvements. One DDA request is on the high priority list — replacement of the Main Street water main.

Some ideas considered low priority are the DDA dream of relocating the police department; the recreation plan for resurfacing tennis courts; and a Ninth Street access to the new middle school the school district hopes voters will approve.

"We have more needs than the city can obviously accomplish, but prioritizing them gives us a place to start," Hughes noted.

City services update

The new superintendent's report included an evaluation of city services. Hughes felt the city has done well in budgeting the safety programs (police, fire and ambulance.)

"I haven't heard any real dissatisfaction from council or city residents," said Hughes.

He had the same opinion of the city transfer station, although he would like to see it operating with more profitability.

Hughes said the Department of Public Works needs some attention in the immediate future.

"Water and sewer services need to be self-funding," Hughes said. There are also some problem areas with streets, but he reported the situation is not out-of-hand.

The master plan for parks and recreation in the city is a good start on an another service in need of attention,

Hughes told the council.

"The abundance of facilities is an asset to the quality of the community," he noted, "But it is also a financial burden to the city." A council discussion ensued on the state of individual facilities and especially the future of Elm Pointe.

While there is no budget earmarked for economic development, Hughes pointed out its importance to the city.

"My philosophy is to assist in this in as many ways as possible," Hughes said. He suggested industrial park development, a business retention plan, and a city brochure as some ways to promote the economic viability of the city.

EJPD weekly report

February 17

Marie Beach was driving her 1989 Buick south on Echo St. at about 2:55 p.m., when she collided with a vehicle owned by Jennifer Pinney. The Pinney vehicle was illegally parked on the south side of Echo St. facing north.

February 23

An unattended 1986 Jeep owned by Steven Wiltfong was damaged when it rolled down the hill in the East Jordan Iron Works Garfield St. parking lot and struck the EJIW building. Wiltfong had started the vehicle and left it running to allow it to warm up.

EJ man injured on snowmobile

A 35-year-old East Jordan man was injured when he was thrown from his snowmobile while riding with two friends in an open field near Kramer Road in Echo Township Feb. 25.

Bradley Sweet was riding his 1982 Ski-doo at approximately 45 miles per hour around 3 p.m. when a ski became lodged in a rock pile hidden by the snow. Sweet was thrown from his machine, which flipped end-over-end through the air for about 24 feet.

He was transported to the Charlevoix Area Hospital by East Jordan Ambulance where, as of Feb. 27, he was listed in stable condition with fractured ribs.

Assisting the Antrim County Sheriff Department was the East Jordan Fire and Rescue Unit.

Warrant out for theft of pickup

The Antrim County Sheriff Department is seeking a warrant for a Gaylord man for Unlawful Driving Away of an Automobile.

On Feb. 14, East Jordan police found an '86 Ford pickup abandoned in a snow bank outside of town. It was traced and returned to a Coeling Road resident who had not given permission to the Gaylord man to drive the vehicle. The truck had a flat tire and other minor damage.

The Gaylord man later returned and apologized to the Ellsworth resident for taking the vehicle and offered to pay damages. However, the sheriff department, after investigation, has decided to pursue a warrant for the man's arrest.

Anyone with information on this case is asked to call the Antrim County Sheriff Department at (616) 533-8627.

Depot information needed

The Charlevoix Historical Society recently received some grant funding to restore the Charlevoix Depot, but are having difficulty finding out what the interior was like during its heyday.

The restoration committee would appreciate the donation or loan of any photographs or written material documenting any details of the depot. Any person that could share memories of the depot without having documents could also provide appreciated information.

Structural renovations are scheduled to begin as soon as weather permits, but the interior project will be postponed until some guidance surfaces.

Any one with information can contact the historical society at 547-0373, or by writing Harsha House Museum, 103 State St., Charlevoix, MI 49720.

Need a helping hand?

The Charlevoix-Emmet Housing Coalition has a program that may provide that help.

The coalition is seeking qualified applicants that have a housing need, be it paint, fix-up, or weatherization. The program is for home owners only, and the property must be located within the boundaries of Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

A special fund has also been established for Charlevoix County residents only which can assist first time home buyers in purchasing their home.

If you know of anyone who would benefit from these programs, refer them to the Housing Coalition director, Vickie Morgan, at 582-2894. Applications are also available at the East Jordan Housing Commission, 451 Water St., East Jordan.

A river celebration concert

The River Tour Band of Traverse City, a folk and blues group, will be performing a benefit concert entitled "Sights and Sounds of the Jordan: A River Celebration" on Sun., March 12 for the Friends of the Jordan River Watershed, Inc. (FOJ).

The event kicks off at noon at the Jordan Valley Express American Music Center on M-66 in East Jordan.

Audience members will have an opportunity to view wildlife and environmental art and photography exhibits displayed by local talent, until music begins at 1:30 p.m.

The concert will feature Jim Crockett, Mary Ann Rivers, and Pat Niemisto performing a variety of "river and environmental" folk-style music.

A slide show featuring many shots of the Jordan River Watershed and other nature scenes will be interwoven with the music. Narration will accompany the slides between music sets.

The program will also serve as a forum to propose the protection and preservation of the lower Jordan, including Deer Creek, through the DNR's Natural Rivers program. Currently, the Jordan River is designated as a "wild and scenic river" from the headwaters to Rogers Bridge. The original designation did not include the portion of the river from Rogers Bridge to its mouth at Lake Charlevoix.

JRAC Coffee House presents singer Susan Grace

The Jordan River Arts Council will present a Coffee House featuring Susan Grace, 4-6 p.m., Sun., March 12, at the Arts Center, 301 Main St., East Jordan.

A singer/songwriter, Susan is well known to area audiences and returns for her third Coffee House appearance from her home in Alaska.

The material she performs is an exciting mix of contemporary and traditional folk, as well as original compositions. Her songs carry a message of the wilderness, speak to the human condition, and capture the spirit of life in Alaska. Complimenting her strong rich voice is the clear resonance of acoustic guitar, banjo and fiddle.

Always driven to see the view from the next horizon, Susan has traveled extensively throughout the United States, Canada, and the British Isles, sharing her music, gathering stories and experiences, and turning them all into music with a depth of feeling that can come only from having been there.

Her wonderful sense of humor and warmth endear her to both adult and children's audiences, and her deep respect for the human spirit is infectious.

Although her roots are deep in northern Michigan, Susan has made her home in Alaska since 1985. She sings with great love and respect of the vast wilderness that is such a part of her.

The arts council invites all to bring their families for this exciting evening. Refreshments will be served. Entrance by donation.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

The Privilege of a Fool

"How gladly you bear with fools, being yourselves so wise!"
— 2 Corinthians 11:20

It isn't easy being a missionary, and no one knew this better than Paul, who was whipped, beaten, stoned and shipwrecked trying to spread the word of God. Paul may have been bragging when he said, "Let no one take me for a fool, but if you must, then give me the privilege of a fool, and let me have my little boast like others." But Paul was no fool and thirst, danger, hunger and fear were no strangers to him. He had an overriding sense of responsibility and concern for his congregations. Christian missionaries today may not have to face the same trials and tribulations, but their sense of responsibility and concern are surely still there.

EJ splits non-conference games

BY S.F. PUCKETT
Sports Writer

East Jordan finished out the regular basketball season by thumping the Ellsworth Lancers, then falling to the Cardinals of Onaway, both non-conference games.

Ellsworth proved to be of little difficulty for the Red Devils Feb. 28. The East Jordan squad rolled to an 87-46 win over the Lancers. Everyone had a hand in the team effort. Josh Spears, Ed Hettig and Kirk Falco all excelled at moments.

The visit to Onaway March 3 was less than successful, the host Cardinals giving the Red Devils fits at times and holding on to win 60-53. Andrew Otis, Steve Wiltfong and Mike Newkirk provided the bright spots for the Devils.

East Jordan hoped to salve its wounds by hosting the district tournament, which began March 6.

The Devils played Mancelona in that opener. The winner plays on March 8 against Boyne City.

duced to typical military daily routine, and personal and professional standards.

All recruits participate in an active physical conditioning program and gain proficiency in a variety of military skills including first aid, rifle marksmanship and close-order drill. Teamwork and self-discipline are em-

Recently we featured a recipe created by a man (Jim Pemberton) for all you fellows out there who like to spend a little time at the stove. Well, we hope you didn't drink all your beer with the Tulsa Eggs because this week's recipe is just as hot and finger-lickin' good. Jim created this recipe, which is very quick and easy, but loaded with hot and spicy flavor.

Cajun Barbecued Shrimp

- 1 c. butter, divided
- 1 small onion, chopped
- 2 cloves garlic, minced
- 1 tsp. red pepper
- 1 tsp. black pepper
- 1/2 tsp. white pepper
- 1/2 tsp. crushed red pepper
- 1/2 tsp. dried whole thyme

- 1/2 tsp. dried whole rosemary, crushed
- 1/8 tsp. dried whole oregano
- 1 tsp. Worcestershire sauce
- 1 lb. unpeeled jumbo shrimp, uncooked
- 1/2 c. chicken broth
- 1/4 c. beer
- 2 c. hot cooked rice
- Fresh parsley sprigs (optional)
- French bread

Melt 1/2 cup butter in a large skillet. Add onion and next 9 ingredients; cook 1 minute stirring constantly. Add shrimp; cook 2 minutes, stirring constantly.

Add remaining 1/2 cup butter and chicken broth; cook 2 minutes, stirring occasionally. Stir in beer and cook 1 minute.

Remove from heat. Remove shrimp from skillet. Mound rice in center of skillet and arrange shrimp around rice. Garnish with parsley if desired. Serve with warmed French bread. Yield: 2 to 3 servings.

Whenever we have this dish at home, we put the skillet right on the table and go for it. Be sure to dip your bread in the sauce - you won't want to waste any of it. It is also a good idea to give everyone a moist towel or napkin as this dish is a bit on the messy side.

This whole meal takes about 15 minutes to prepare, so guys, how about making it for dinner tonight? We guarantee it will put a little spice in your life!

Did you know?

Modern corned beef is soaked in a brine that contains salt, seasonings and sodium nitrate, which helps preserve the meat and give it its distinctive red color. A 3.5 ounce portion of corned beef brisket get 68 percent of its calories from fat.

Dairy products are a good source of calcium, which can help prevent osteoporosis. To get the same amount of calcium that you get in two eight-ounce glasses of milk, you'd have to eat 20 eggs, 30 slices of white bread or 2 1/2 cups of greens.

Richter called the Jordan Valley corridor "a crucial and vital link to the entire watershed."

The FJRW hopes to have the support of the city in their petition. Richter noted the identity of the city centers around the river.

"We can't put a value on the eagles, but thousands of people visit annually just to see the Jordan Valley," he said. "The value of preservation outweighs the profits of development."

The FJRW proposal requests that state zoning be extended to protect the lower Jordan along with the Wild-Scenic designation. According to the present DNR management plan for the river, the management zone is a land strip 400 feet wide on each side of the river.

Land ownership is not affected by the management plan, but certain types of development and use are controlled. Such management (see box) is designed to protect and enhance the river's unique qualities while continuing to provide quality recreation opportunities. Recreational use of the river would be generally unchanged, as the restrictions against motorized vehicles in the estuary already exist.

Council members seemed not too concerned with the state zoning requirements as most of the affected shoreline within city limits is already zoned with waterfront restrictions. The city would continue administering the management area. Only in the case of a conflict does the state zoning supersede municipal zoning.

The council will consider an endorsement of the designation after reviewing available information and a zoning impact study suggested by interim city superintendent William Hughes.

The Friends of the Jordan River Watershed are sponsoring "A River Celebration: Sights and Sounds of the Jordan," Sun., March 12, from noon to 3:30 p.m., at the Jordan Valley Express on M-66. The benefit concert will feature local artists and musicians in an afternoon promoting the unique qualities of the river and the need for its protection and preservation.

This fine tom was captured on film by Jerry Herholz just outside his basement window as the gobbler enjoys his daily sunflower seed breakfast. The tom and several of his brothers have been frequenting the Herholz "cafe" for a number of weeks before disappearing into the Wilson Township woods on their daily rounds.
