An uneventful week weather-wise, with highs in the 50s exceeding expectations Tuesday and Wednesday, and a cold, rainy Thursday falling short of predictions. Friday, Saturday and Easter Sunday saw mostly sunny skies with highs in the low 50s climbing to mid-50s on Sunday. More of the same predicted for the coming week, with precipitation expected Tuesday and highs in the upper 40s to mid-50s. LAST YEAR: A warm-up with highs from the mid-50s to upper 60s had county residents shedding their overcoats.

Voters to decide on proposed city charter

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

With the vote for the proposed East Jordan city charter only days away – Mon., April 24 – members of the charter commission are making every effort to promote understanding of the document.

The commission was elected in November, 1993, to rewrite the present charter, which has not been revised since it was composed in 1911.

The proposed charter is a vision of East Jordan, both present and future. Chairman Tom Sheridan said the focus of the charter commission was to form a city government that would have the best opportunity to function in today's world and the future.

Sheridan explained that in many ways, the document officially sanctions practices already in effect because of state statute.

"The 1911 charter is in conflict with the state," said Sheridan. "It often causes discomfort for city government officials." He noted that state statute overrides city statute, forcing actions and decisions which may be in violation of the present city charter.

Sheridan said there are many examples of activities already in practice or within the realm of city powers not included in the old charter. The city's power to tax or to secure property easements are well-established practices regulated by the state, yet are not defined in the 1911 version.

Sheridan noted that anyone reading the proposed charter can easily identify the required state statutes (there are dozens of them), as each is followed by a Michigan code that looks something like this: MSA 5.2083[1]; MCLA 117.4k.

A look at details

One of the most positive aspects of the proposed charter, Sheridan feels, is the opportunity to provide more effective leadership of the city.

"The charter enhances the position of city council members," he said, "and makes the mayor a more effective leader."

The way the charter does this is, Sheridan explained, is through several changes:

A charter for the future

Some details of the proposed city charter:

- ◊ Mayor elected annually from within council membership by council members at the first organizational meeting after general elections; has one vote on council; serves as representative of the city
- ◊ All city voters elect seven council members for 4-year terms
- ◊ Seven member council oversees policies, ordinances and city administrator
- ◊ City administrator manages all departments; designs and implements an annual budget; executes policy directions of council; keeps council advised
- ◊ Each city resident has seven representatives on council
- ◊ A zoning ordinance, planning commission, and comprehensive land use plan are sanctioned
- ◊ The city is required to adopt a six-year capital improvements plan

■ Treatment of the city as a business organization – with a professional administrator that deals with daily activities, has the expertise to design and handle a million dollar budget, and is supervised by a board of commissioners elected by the people.

"The day is gone when the average citizen can comprehend huge budget decisions," noted Sheridan.

■ Provides for the board of commissioners to be elected by all the people, thereby eliminating wards.

"There will be one precinct in the city,"

Fire damages Iron Works

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

A stray spark during repairs of steel decking set off a blaze in the emissions control unit at the East Jordan Iron Works the afternoon of April 14.

Vice president Tad Malpass said the blaze was quickly contained and caused minimal damage. He attributed the limited damage, estimated between $10,000 and $50,000, to the quick response of the East Jordan Fire Department.

"They got here in a hurry and got it under control," he said. Boyne City and Charlevoix fire departments also responded, but the fire was extinguished before their arrival.

Malpass said the most visible damage was to fiberglass siding on the outside of the unit. A few extra workmen came in over the weekend and have already repaired the inside damage. The plant regularly shuts down operations for the weekend, and Malpass said everything was running normally on Monday. Operations are not expected to be hampered by the fire.

Malpass praised the fire department for quick action.

"They prevented what could have been an extremely serious situation."

Sax says ...

Dental occasions
by Gayle Saxton

It's about 59 years since I first had two of my top front teeth knocked out while playing baseball under the late Raymond "Chirp" Swafford at Harbor Springs in the middle 1930s. That was my initial experience with a dental injury. There have been more, but at the price of teeth today, I certainly hope it never happens again.

The Harbor Springs incident happened in my senior year while playing baseball for my native East Jordan High School in 1936. The bases were loaded with no one out and Coach Swafford ordered me to move in from my position at third base. Although I felt that I was in as far as I dared, I obeyed his order.

"Spike" Russell, a left-hander, was on the mound. The late Clarence "Stubb" Bowman was behind the plate. At bat was the hard-hitting Ram's outfielder, Mose King, who later played with a number of semi-pro teams before World War II.

I had no more than arrived at my close-in position when I heard a wham! as King connected, and a bam! as the sphere sped through the lacing of my glove, and knocked two of my upper teeth somewhere - I never was able to find them.

Shortly after graduation, I was raking the ball diamond at the old Charlevoix County Fairgrounds, smoothing the surface for the ball game that was about to start, when I heard and felt the same "Bam!" This time I had one tooth missing in my lower jaw.

I immediately looked down and there was my pearl-white tooth. I picked it up and one of my brothers drove me to a dentist, Dr. George Betchold, who gently put it back in place saying, "This may work, but if it does it will likely give you trouble some time in the future."

That particular "some time" was three or four months ago, when it appeared that I had an infection in the area where the tooth was implanted almost 60 years ago. I called my dentist, Dr. Raleigh Newman, who did a root canal or something like that to it. I am back in circulation with no pain and the tooth is solidly in place.

I'll take inventory of what has happened to my teeth since 1936 - three times broken playing football at Alma College, and two other occasions when playing basketball in the U.S. Army while stationed in Chicago.

So help me, this is the Gospel truth, though I am not going to fight with you or anyone else for fear of again having dental difficulty.

Who knows - sometime soon I may even have a set of dentures, but I hope not!

East Jordan native Gayle Saxton has been writing, reporting, and broadcasting sports for many years. Now a retired educator in Houghton Lake, "Sax" will share his memories of East Jordan and his many friends through this column in future issues of the Journal.

jordan memories

From Jordan Township Chatter by Mrs. Vern Bundy (Rosalind Westcott) Mancelona Herald, Feb. 23, 1956

In this issue I will acquaint you with the community as a whole. Perhaps I should say township, as our communities are seemingly divided by our hills. There is a highland district on either side and a long broad valley district between. This is the district in which I live.

It reminds me of a gravy dish sent to me from Japan. There is no handle on it, but instead a lip at each end.

M-66 comes in at the south end of the dish, at the division. The new road skirts the Hogs Back range of hills all the way along the west side of the valley (or gravy dish) finally leaving at the north end and entering East Jordan in Charlevoix County. You can also turn right at Chestonia on the Old-68 Road and skirt the Bohemian hills, joining the eastern side of the bowl. That also brings you out the northern lip into East Jordan.

The valley is about one mile wide at the widest point with the Jordan River flowing the full length of it.

Probably many of you are well acquainted with these facts. But if you have not driven over these roads, let me tell you that the valley has a very special beauty, both during the growing season and in the fall when the hills glow with color. Every road seems to call for exploration.

Have you ever sat down with an old atlas of our county (1910) and studied the old roads? Looked at the names on the old homesteads and tried to locate them on existing roads or to connect them with people now living?

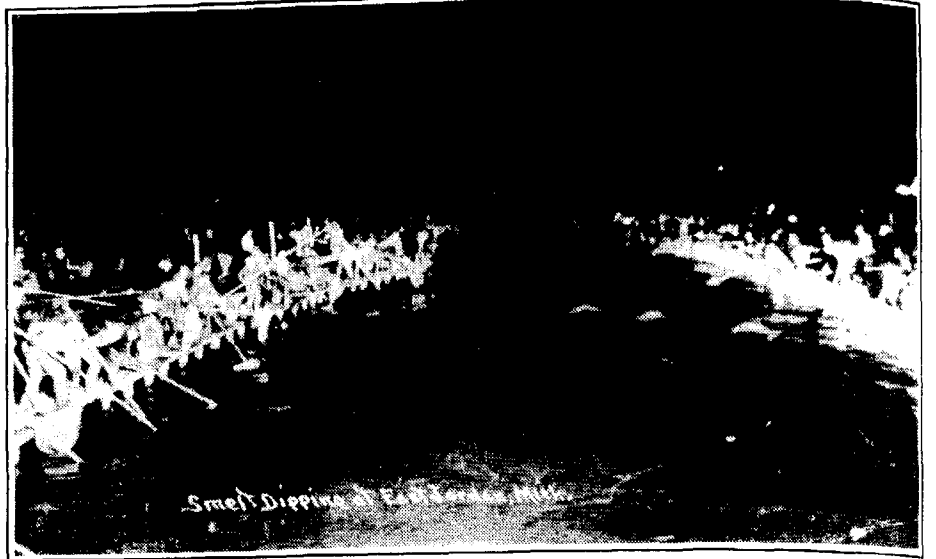

I have, and to me there is as much mystery and romance to be found here as on our western frontiers. What adventures in homebuilding they must have had, and where are they now?

Some of them are still here! We have some newer neighbors too, and some visitors. Would you like to meet some of us through this column?

You might even see someone from home!

Correction

The writer of a letter (April 12 issue) from the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce supporting the upcoming charter proposition was incorrectly identified. The name should have been Mark Postma.

Swan City memories

The smelt run was a very big deal in East Jordan, as the site of the National Smelt Jamboree (a tongue-in-cheek festival with royalty and a banquet) for about a decade in the 1930s.

This photo taken on the Jordan River in 1944 demonstrates the seriousness of the smelt run, which still exists annually today, albeit in smaller numbers.

Sheriff recognizes efforts

The Charlevoix County Sheriff is recognizing the stalwart efforts of several members of the sheriff's office and the Michigan State Police Lab of Grayling for the efforts that resulted in the arrest and conviction of the person responsible for the murder of Charlevoix County resident Clark Lee Washburn.

Recipients of the Sheriff's Recognition Award are: Sgt. Mike Wheat, Deputy Sheriff Roger Moses, Prosecuting Attorney Richard May, and Michigan State Police Lab of Grayling.

When this case was reported to the sheriff's office on May 6, 1994, investigators had to start with limited evidence and no suspects. Between Friday, May 6, and the arrest of the perpetrator on the following Thursday, investigators put an excess of 200 hours on the investigation, working several nights 16 hours straight.

This was a true case of team work and cooperation between members of the sheriff's office and crucial assistance from the crime lab. As sheriff, I'm very proud to have the professional caliber of officers working for the sheriff's office and the citizens of Charlevoix County.

Hospice touches lives

During National Volunteer Week, April 23-29, 1995, the Charlevoix County Hospice would like to recognize the dedicated services provided by its volunteers. Hospice care offers a very special kind of care for terminally ill persons and their families and is one of the fastest growing health care services in the United States.

Since November of 1983, the Charlevoix County Hospice has brought dignity and quality to the lives of hospice patients due in large part to our hard working volunteers. We applaud and thank each of our volunteers for the wealth of time and compassion they give to the patient, family and community.

Hospice seeks to enable patients to carry on an alert, pain-free life so that their last days may be spent with dignity. Hospice care is provided through an interdisciplinary, medically directed team. The volunteers are a very valuable part of this team, providing respite care to the patient and family in their home.

Nationally, about 100,000 hospice workers are volunteers. Last year these volunteers gave over 5 million hours of their time to serve terminally ill persons and their families. In 1994, in Charlevoix County, 45 persons donated their services. These volunteers are very special, caring people - they truly care! A thank you to all hospice volunteers!

said Sheridan. "Every individual has seven representatives instead of just one or two."

■ Provides that the elected board of commissioners choose their mayor—someone they trust as their own leader, and someone with the skills and experience to be an effective leader.

"This change prevents someone with no experience, or with a different agenda, from being elected mayor," said Sheridan. "It will allow for a smoother working relationship within the commission." He added that voters will choose every commissioner, and one of those elected will be mayor.

■ Places hiring and firing decisions into the hands of a professional administrator, thus taking those actions out of the political arena.

"It takes the responsibility of personnel considerations off the back of council," said Sheridan. "Members won't have to worry about firing a neighbor or someone they've known all their lives."

Sheridan feels the proposed charter provides the best of two worlds—the city council will do all the policy-making, yet won't have the responsibility of enforcing the policies. Council will hire someone to do the administrative work, yet that administrator will be "at will" to the council and ultimately to the people.

"The power is with the people," said Sheridan. "The voter is always in political control and can always exercise his rights by voting."

Sheridan said most of the feedback he has heard has been positive.

"A lot of people have studied the charter and have intelligent questions." He and other commissioners have fielded a number of concerns, often coming from people misunderstanding what they have read or heard about the proposed charter. There is a great deal of "legal language" in the document that can be difficult for the layman to comprehend.

"Most have responded favorably to an explanation," he noted. "People have been overwhelmingly positive that it's time for an update of the charter."

He emphasized the proposed charter has a built-in review schedule of every 10 years. An appointed citizens committee will be charged to study the document and any recommended amendments must be approved by the voters.

"We tried to make a document that would last for eternity," said Sheridan.

The proposed charter has been approved by both the state attorney general and Gov. Engler, as was required before taking the document to the vote. Charter commission members are available to answer questions or discuss the issues the document addresses. They are Sheridan, Dorothy Archer, Ray Fisher, Joe Hammond, Dennis Jason, Jeanette Norton, Harry Pearsall, Connie Roberts, and Jack Vincent.

City completes budget process

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

The East Jordan City Council approved a resolution to adopt the 1995-96 fiscal year budget at the March 21 meeting.

The budgeted general fund expenditures total $960,487, about $80,000 more than in 1994-95. Expected revenues of $1,113,306 are an increase of $163,000 over last year.

The overflow between revenues and disbursements will be distributed among other tax-supported funds including the transfer station, which will be in the red for about $8,000, and street maintenance costs ($293,535), both of which are budgeted at a deficit. The transfer station is expected to eventually break even.

Other tax-supported funds go to purchase and maintain city equipment. That fund is balanced at $254,460.

Self-supporting city services include the harbor ($107,897 – down about $30,000 from 1995-96); Tourist Park ($91,144 – down about $2,000 from last year), sewers ($265,269 – up from last year's budget of $180,980) and water ($265,130 – an increase of about $30,000).

Debt funds and capitol projects the city manages have balanced revenues and expenditures. They include harbor debt ($68,505), and sewer lagoon debt ($117,128).

The police department's budget request was trimmed by about $10,000 for a total of $273,826. The fire department faced similar treatment with the budget request of $89,965 trimmed by $13,000. The ambulance department actually requested less than the final figure of $104,593.

Elm Pointe buildings will receive some sorely needed repairs with $5,000 budgeted for garage improvements, and $3,500 budgeted for general repairs. These account for the increase in Elm Pointe's budget from $15,120 last year to $27,745 in 1995-96.

Burglary suspect spotted leaving home

A person checking on the home of a vacationing friend may have disrupted a burglary in progress April 8.

A friend of Douglas Bennett, owner of the home at 4317 Mount Bliss, was inspecting the residence while Bennett was on vacation. While approaching the home, the complainant noticed a white male running out from the back of the building and into the woods.

The suspect is described as weighing about 200 pounds, is six-foot tall, and was wearing a black jacket with white sleeves.

Entry had apparently been gained into the home by breaking out a west side bedroom window. Windows in a storage building and a camper on the property were also discovered broken.

It is believed nothing was taken, but the sheriff department is awaiting confirmation by the home owner.

No injury in rollover

Janice Fenske, 40, of East Jordan escaped injury when she lost control of her vehicle and rolled over in the ditch April 4.

Fenske was southbound on M-66 just south of Eddy School Road about 7 a.m., when she hit an icy patch and ran off the road into the west side ditch.

Graduation Day

Members of the recently graduated Medical First Responder class show off the certificates that represent their eligibility for licensing by the state of Michigan. The entry level ambulance and rescue potential crew members are from East Jordan, Charlevoix, and Banks Township, and were instructed every Thursday evening for three months by East Jordan Ambulance chief Bernard Hammond. The graduates are (back, from left): Dale Miller, Ward St. Pierre, Jim Pettis, Mark Vanniman, Jeff Piechocki, Mark Kowalske, John Fiedorek, (front) Lori Gee, Tinea Spence, Agnes Clark, and Bill Mason. Missing is Shawn Hodges.

Local students win scholarships

East Jordan High School students Callista B. Ransom and Solomon Townsend are among the prospective freshmen who have been selected to receive a share of $7 million in academic scholarships from Western Michigan University this fall.

The awards are part of WMU's Medallion Scholarship Program. The recipients were among more than 1,000 leading high school seniors from 12 states who competed for the scholarships during events this past winter on campus. The competition included written testing and group problem solving activities for students and information sessions for parents.

To be eligible, participants had to carry at least a 3.7 high school grade point average, or a 3.5 GPA and an ACT score of at least 30.

Both East Jordan students earned University Excellence Awards, receiving scholarships of $8,000 over four years at the Kalamazoo school. Ransom is the daughter of Rodger and Carol H. Ransom, and Townsend is the son of Philip and Elizabeth Townsend.

OM winners

First, regional gold medalists – now state bronze medalists – East Jordan High School Odyssey of the Mind teammates (from back left) Andy Wood, Gary Brooks, (front) Mike Mazzella, Kristina Nelson, and Belgie Caballero took third place in state finals at Central Michigan University, April 8, with their presentation of A New Twist. The team built a structure of balsa wood and glue designed to twist in a specific way while supporting as much weight as possible. Angie Swan (not pictured) is also on the team.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

The Last Journey

"We are now going up to Jerusalem; and all that was written by the prophets will come true for the Son of Man." — Luke 18:31

With these words to His apostles, Jesus began His journey to Golgotha. On the way, the Twelve witnessed many of Jesus' miracles and listened to His parables and yet they did not understand Jesus when He spoke of His Crucifixion and Resurrection. They had to accept what He said on faith alone and though they did not completely understand, they had to believe in the truth of His predictions. In much the same way, we, too, should accept the wisdom of His words in our daily lives today. We may not completely understand but we should all try to follow the path He sets for us.

Senior swimmer keeps fit in community pool

If you're looking for Frank Abbett, 81, on a Monday, Wednesday or Friday morning, you'll find him swimming laps at the East Jordan Community Pool.

"The pool is a Godsend!" the Boyne City swimmer explained. "It does wonders for my arthritis."

Frank's routine consists of one-quarter mile of swimming laps using a variety of strokes (his favorite is the crawl) and a series of exercises against the pool wall - push-ups, leg kicks and presses.

Frank started swimming as a boy of 10 in Indianapolis, Ind. By the time he was 12, he was swimming a mile a day and earned a Boy Scout badge for his efforts.

He made a move to the east coast during his 20s, working as a manufacturer's representative in electronics. Eventually he became a partner and president of Coakley, Boyd & Abbett, representing six companies in New England. He settled in Dover, Mass., living there until 1976.

During Frank's working years, his wife, Mariadna, with their two daughters and son, summered in the Walloon Lake area. Frank spent time with them when he could. Mariadna's grandfather built the first house on the north shore of Walloon Lake and she had been coming to the area since she was a young girl.

When it came time to retire, Frank asked Mariadna where she wanted to live. There wasn't a moment of hesitancy - Walloon Lake was her immediate answer. They had traveled extensively, but northern Michigan held a special attraction for them.

They bought a home in Petoskey. But after Mariadna fell in 1980 and was confined to a wheelchair, they moved to a condo in Boyne City. Her health continued to fail and she passed away in 1986.

At about the same time, Frank was forced to give up golf (he shot in the low 80s) because of arthritis in his hands. He had always tried to keep physically active. So when several of his neighbors invited him to come to the pool in East Jordan with them, he agreed and has been coming regularly since.

Frank likes to keep busy. In addition to swimming, he bicycles from Boyne City to Boyne Falls and back, usually five times a week during the summer months. He says he doesn't like to read because he falls asleep.

He is also a member of the Northern Michigan Hospital Auxiliary and volunteers at the hospital one day a week.

Frank Abbett

While there he helps patients - guiding them to their rooms, helping them get settled, helping those who are wheelchair bound, and so on. As a member of RSVP (Retired Senior Volunteer Program), he is frequently called upon to pick someone up and take them to appointments, or otherwise help out.

Frank's daughters are in Boyne City, and Maine, and his son lives in Washington State. He has seven grandchildren.

For those who swim regularly with Frank, he is an inspiration to stay active and keep physically fit. With his 82nd birthday just around the corner (April 24), he is a role model who should motivate us all!

Annual pageant candidates vie for title, scholarship

Five young women are beginning the countdown to pageant night as they vie for the title of Miss East Jordan in the annual scholarship competition, Sat., April 22.

According to pageant official Chris Kempton, at least $2,100 in scholarships will be awarded, as well as many other gifts and prizes.

The pageant is open to high school seniors, or students at least 17 years old, with a 3.0 grade average or higher. Judges base the final selection on a talent presentation, a speech, and individual interviews with the candidates.

"This is not a beauty pageant," emphasized Kempton. "It's a scholarship pageant." Poise and grooming are also considered.

Each candidate solicits area sponsors and sells tickets, as well. Although ticket sales are not a factor in the final selection of Miss East Jordan, the top sales candidate earns a special prize.

The candidates for this year's pageant are:

■ Catherine Bowerman, 17, a senior at EJHS, and daughter of Donald and Margaret Bowerman. Cathy plans to pursue a degree in photography and creative writing at Columbia College in Chicago. She has been involved in volleyball, track, band (playing flute), and drama at school, and enjoys horseback riding as well as practicing her career goals in her spare time. She is employed at Bolt Design, Inc., in Charlevoix.

■ Amelia Fleming, 17, a junior at EJHS, and daughter of James and Margaret Fleming. Amelia has been active in drama, plays trumpet in jazz and concert bands, is president of Students Against Drunk Driving (SADD), and is a member of PRIDE, an organization promoting cultural diversity. She also plays on the volleyball and softball teams. She hopes to be a teacher, but has not yet selected a college. She is employed at McDonald's in East Jordan.

■ Heather MacNaughton, 17, a senior at EJHS, and daughter of Carl and Janet Massey and Don MacNaughton. Heather is a member of National Honor Society and SADD. She received a scholarship to attend Misericordia College in Dallas, Penn., and is undecided between nursing, psychology, and pre-law as a major. Heather enjoys horseback riding and drawing in her spare time, and is presently not employed.

■ Catherine Mills, 17, a senior at EJHS, and daughter of Francis and Charlotte Mills. Catherine plays flute in the band and pit orchestra, and is on the volleyball team. She was a candidate in the 1994 Miss East Jordan pageant. She will attend Western Michigan University, and major in child psychology, with a minor in philosophy. She fills her spare time with reading, writing poetry, riding horseback, and enjoying the beach and her friends. She is employed at K-Mart in Charlevoix.

■ Mandy Wittengen (Cutler), 17, a senior at EJHS, and daughter of Claude and Roselyn Cutler. Mandy is a cheerleader at EJHS, a member of SADD, and participated in the Children's Play and as a candidate in the 1995 Sno-Blast Belle of the Blizzard contest. She has been accepted in the North Central Michigan College nursing program. She is employed at Boyne Mountain, and enjoys traveling, shopping, and being with friends in her spare time.

The 1995 Miss East Jordan Scholarship Pageant begins at 7 p.m., Sat., April 22, at the East Jordan High School auditorium. Miss EJ represents the city for one year, in activities at home and across the region.
