East Jordan Journal's Mother of the Year

Nancy Nyland believes that giving love, understanding, time, consistency, and "hugs and kisses" to her children will determine their success as adults. Perhaps those beliefs also explain why her family is very close and affectionate with each other.

Her role as mother certainly motivated Nancy's daughter Sarah, 17, who composed the winning submission to the first annual East Jordan Journal Mother of the Year contest. Sarah's heartfelt and imaginative poem was chosen from 117 tributes to the mothers of East Jordan.

In June, Nancy Graham Nyland will celebrate 25 years of marriage to Burt, an East Jordan native. Along with Sarah, the couple also have a son, Jeffrey, 23.

While Burt served a tour of duty in Vietnam, Nancy earned her bachelor of science degree at Central Michigan University. The couple came back to East Jordan to raise their children.

Although her degree was in education, Nancy never went into teaching, except for a stint as a substitute. Instead, she worked for MESC, and after staying at home through Sarah's early childhood, the job-training service found her a position at GHA Insurance as an office manager. Twelve years later, her job now also includes production of personal insurance lines for new businesses.

For Nancy, being a full time mom still comes first. She is proud that her family still sits down to dinner together every evening, despite busy schedules.

"It's a time for everyone to discuss the

I think my Mom's the very best
Acing every maternal test.
She's always there for those in need
With her kindness and a lack of greed.
When I talk she wants to hear
Always willing to lend an ear.
She gives me comfort when I am ill
And when I'm better she's right there still.

She believes in me in all I do things in their lives," said Nancy. "It's a good daily hour and a half we can all be a family."

A firm decision by Nancy to focus her outside involvements around her family's activities has probably been what made that dinner time possible. So when she is helping out with a community or school activity, you can be sure, it's something her kids are doing.

"Outside things will come later," said Nancy, "After the children are grown."

Her commitment to family life is reflected in her recreation choices. Camping in the back yard woods, cookouts and family weekends and vacations are how Nancy likes to spend her spare time. Animals also figure into the mix — the children have

New charter transition begins

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

"The new charter will create some changes for our community," Tom Sheridan told the East Jordan City Council at the May 2 meeting.

As chairman of the charter commission, Sheridan was there to arrange a transitional workshop with council members. The session, scheduled for Tues., May 23, 7 p.m., at City Hall, will include the city council, charter commission, and attorneys for each organization.

Sheridan said the session is necessary to educate the council on re-writing ordinances and other charter directives. Transitional elections will also be outlined.

The new charter takes effect Wed., May 24 — 30 days after the election.

One of the first actions taken by city council to comply with the new charter was to adopt a resolution consolidating city voting precincts. The complete boundaries of the city now define the one precinct, eliminating the former three wards.

All registered voters will be issued new voter registration informing them of the change.

During the first transitional year, 1995, voters will elect four commissioners as representatives. Those elected will serve a term of almost four years, beginning Jan. 1, 1996, and ending in November, 1999. Mike Dionne, Lyle Etcher, Russ Peck, and Brian Sweet face re-election.

After this November's election, the new city commission will elect a mayor from among the seven members. The commissioner chosen must have already served at least one year on the council or commission.

The deadline for submitting nominating petitions for commission seats is Tues., May 16, at 4 p.m.

Wanted: one good city administrator

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

East Jordan's interim city superintendent has eliminated himself from consideration for the newly chartered position of city administrator.

After an impressive performance in the superintendent's position, he may have been the front-runner for the new job, but Hughes announced at the May 2 city council meeting that he was not interested.

"I regret I won't be able to take on the opportunity," Hughes told the council. He cited both economics and the long winters in the area as reasons.

"After living in California," said Hughes, "My family and I had problems becoming climatized."

"I won't say I'm not disappointed," said council member Brian Sweet.

With customary efficiency, Hughes provided a job description draft and other information for council to begin the search for the right person to fill the position, as required by the new city charter (see box on back page). He agreed to stay on as interim superintendent until June 10, and said he hoped to be involved in at least the first screening of candidates.

Hughes also brought up the subject of price.

William Hughes

"It's to the city's benefit to establish a salary range," he told council. "You'll get more serious candidates."

He recommended considering a salary of about $45,000, and offered a survey of regional city administrator salaries as a guideline.

After some discussion, council fixed the range at $36,000-$46,000, and determined to advertise in local newspapers, Michigan Municipal League (MML) publications,

Sax says ...

by Gayle Saxton

It seems strange that during the past week I have had three different parents tell me their children, former students of mine, have just received their driver's license. It causes the parent some concern as they realize that their son or daughter is growing up.

Do you recall how you learned to drive? If you are like me, you did not have the benefit of driver's training. I was 14 years old at the time and barely able to reach the pedals of the Model T Ford, or "Tin Lizzy" as it was commonly known. One could get a driver's license in those days at age 14 for a mere 50¢ - no written test or demonstration drive.

As I recall, my dad gave me approximately five minutes of instruction and told me to get behind the wheel. I had long before learned how to crank the Model T - that's the way you started a car in those days, at least in the summer. Our Model T was a mighty hard starter in the winter months.

There were two levers attached to the steering column - the spark and the speed control.

I can still remember my dad telling me time and again to make sure the spark was up before cranking the jitney (another name for a Model T.) Failure to have the spark lever up in those days often resulted in a broken arm. If you think a mule kicks, you should have seen the Model T.

The horn was attached to the driver's side of the car. You had to shove down on it, and the sound that came forth was something else. With the touring cars in those days, you were just about as well off to holler, "Here I come, get out of my way!"

There were three pedals and the emergency brake. The left pedal was used to put the car in gear as you lowered the emergency brake; the center pedal was for backing up and the right pedal was the brake.

With all these instructions firmly in mind, I took off with a chug. I don't think my dad trusted my steering, because he had me drive for the first time on a country road. I was safe as long as I kept the wheels in the ruts and didn't meet an approaching car.

Passing in those days on such roads was out of the question, but that was okay with most people as they weren't going any place in a hurry. It's odd how the speed capabilities of the automobile have also sped up our lives. Most of us always seem in a hurry.

Today there is the question of whether a teenager should learn to drive with a stick shift or an automatic transmission. I didn't have either to contend with - nor did I have a turn signal, speedometer or stop light.

I found one of the most difficult tasks I had in driving a Model T was operating the windshield wiper. One had to operate it by hand. Notice I said wiper not wipers, for they were only on the driver's side in those days.

I was dealt a low blow today while having my morning cup of coffee. Hearing about my first experiences driving a car, a waitress casually remarked, "I didn't know they had automobiles in those days."

What could I say?

Volunteers aid chamber

A business or organization can only be as successful as its employees, members and volunteers enable it to be.

The East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce has been so fortunate to have an overwhelming outpouring over the years of dedicated and committed individuals who give of themselves to implement the many programs, events and goals of our organization.

As we recognize our volunteers throughout the nation, it is truly my pleasure to thank the following individuals who comprise our Ambassador's Club: Doug Smith, Marie Beach, Anna Messink, Bev Loewe, Ann Clever, Muriel Ahlborn and Jan Bultrud.

Our Ambassador's Club celebrated its third anniversary in March and has been one of the chamber's most successful programs. Due to our limited budget, yet increasing workload as our community grows, this program has enabled our office to maintain longer hours, better serve our membership and guests and to complete a number of goals and projects that otherwise might not have been completed due to lack of assistance.

On behalf of the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce, I extend a huge thank you and sincere appreciation not only during Volunteer Week, but each week throughout the year to each of you! You all make such a huge difference in not only the chamber's operation, but also in my life and my position as executive director!

Tribunal reinstates original Jordan assessments

BY KEITH MATHENY
Contributing Writer

It was nearly a clean sweep of vindication for fired Jordan Township assessor John McDonald in the commissioners room of the county building last month.

After reviewing the assessments of seven Jordan Township agricultural property owners April 26 and 27, state tribunal hearing officer Douglas Lasher ruled the reductions granted to six of them by the township board of review last year were unwarranted.

"I am restoring the assessments to their original 1994 levels," Lasher said. "All of the data and testimony support that the assessments were not excessive to begin with."

Spring is here and that means the bicycle season has begun. Throughout the spring and summer, the East Jordan Police Department commonly receives many lost or stolen bicycles, and one 20-inch model has already been turned in.

Most of the time there is no way of knowing who the bicycles belong to, so if you or your child are missing a bicycle, either stop at the police department or call 536-2273.

Larry Boyer was stopped at the intersection of Main and Mill streets in his 1988 Ford pickup about 3:30 p.m., when his vehicle was struck from behind by a 1990 Dodge driven by Nancy Gibson. Both drivers were wearing seatbelts, and although both vehicles were damaged, no injuries were reported.

■ May 4

At about 8:45 a.m., Larry Smith was backing his 1995 Ford pickup from a parking space in the Mill Street FMB Northwestern Bank lot when he struck the side of a passing 1988 Toyota driven by Mary Barnum.

Review board chairman Lawrence Nemecek had the lone board of review reduction upheld by the tribunal. His two parcels were originally lowered $15,600 by fellow board of review members.

"I think his will end up pretty close to where the board of review put it," Lasher said.

The tribunal hearing officer did not rule on the case of Jordan Township agricultural property owner Lawrence Trojanek, pending review of the documents he provided.

The agricultural assessments were appealed to the tribunal by the state tax commission, an unusual occurrence, Lasher said. Tax commission representative Patrick Suboski, who attended the hearings, declined comment.

"Upon investigation, it was determined that the board of review acted improperly and the reductions that were made are unwarranted," Suboski said in a written statement to the tribunal explaining the tax commission's involvement.

Five township property owners waived their tribunal hearing and agreed to pay the pre-board of review assessment on their disputed agricultural parcels. Property owned by township clerk Leona Stanek and her husband Charles was among those assessments reinstated without a hearing. The assessments on the Staneks' two parcels were lowered $10,000 by the board of review last year.

Property owners ruled against by the tribunal included:

- Review board member Sue Falco. Three parcels owned by her and husband Roger were lowered $9,500 by the review board.

- Township supervisor Joseph Haney, Sr., whose original assessment was lowered $5,100.

The amount the landowners are now to pay will not include the factor that was placed on all agricultural property in the township by the tax commission, due to an unfair distribution of the tax burden. While those farm owners who didn't have assessments lowered by the review board paid more than their share of property taxes, those who ended up at the tribunal will not.

Lasher offered no explanation, only saying, "This is the way it's done almost all of the time."

McDonald, who attended the hearings to answer questions about his 1994 assessments, was satisfied with the tribunal's rulings. He was fired as assessor last month by the township board, which originally cited "repeated mistakes" as the explanation for his dismissal.

"It makes me feel good - I thought they (the original assessments) were fair all along," he said. "I thought I did a good job, and this verifies it."

Suboski's written statement to the tribunal concurs.

"I was favorably impressed with the correctness of McDonald's appraisals and resulting assessments, and request that these assessments be reinstated," he wrote.

Jim Galbraith, part of a Jordan Township Citizen Committee seeking to recall Stanek, Haney and trustee Lucille Lercel for reappointing Nemecek and Falco to the review board (among other reasons) said he was pleased with the tribunal's findings - but not surprised.

"I couldn't imagine them doing anything other than reversing the board of review's actions - it's the correct thing to do," he said.

Individual property owners may not receive notification of the tribunal's rulings for two to four months, Lasher said, due to a small clerical staff processing departmental paperwork for the entire state.

Open audition for summer plays in East Jordan

Auditions for adult and children actors to cast three plays will be held Mon., May 15, and Tues., May 16, from 3:30 to 5 p.m., at the East Jordan High School auditorium.

The plays have been selected for the Jordan River Arts Council's fourth annual children's theater festival to be presented at EJHS this summer. They feature speaking roles for 23 females and 18 males, as well as numerous non-speaking roles. Some of the roles require singing.

The Boy Who Left Home To Find Out About the Shivers, written by Max Bush, is scheduled for performances on June 22, 24 and 25. The play has roles for five women, four men, six girls, and three boys.

Adapted from a tale by the Brothers Grimm, the play revolves around a teenage boy whose lack of fear involves him in some harrowing escapades.

The Hamilton, Mich., playwright was a recent winner at the National Youth Theater Playwriting Symposium in Indianapolis. He has had plays commissioned by Emmy Gifford Theater, Honolulu Youth Theater and Nashville Academy Theater.

The Boy Who Left Home will also be produced at the Grand Rapids Circle Theater in August.

The Three Musketeers, written by Bryan Zocher, with music by Jon Reeves, will be presented on August 10, 12 and 13. The play requires eight males and four females, along with numerous guards and musketeers who will need extra rehearsals to learn sword-fighting choreography.

Adapted from the novel by Dumas, The Three Musketeers deals with France's political climate during the reign of King Louis XIII, in particular the quarrels between the Royal Musketeers and the Cardinal's guards.

The playwright is from Kalamazoo, where the play had a successful world premiere in February at the Kalamazoo Civic Youth Theater.

Frankenteen, a musical by Frumi Cohen, will be presented Sept. 21, 23 and 24. There are parts available for six males, two females, and a flexible number of extra young people.

The story revolves around high school students who create a Frankenstein-type human as a science project, with the hopes of defeating a rival school in the science competition.

The Ambler, Penn., playwright and composer has been a finalist in the unpublished plays project sponsored by American Association of Theater and Education and the National Youth Theater Playwriting Symposium. The East Jordan production of Frankenteen will be the world premiere.

In keeping with the arts council's tradition, the three plays are new and unpublished. They were selected from scripts submitted by playwrights not only from Michigan, but as far away as New York and Texas.

The plays will be directed by Martha Dodge, Deb Saygers Hobbs, and Terri Warnos. No appointment is needed for auditions. If further information is desired, call festival director Lenore Bechtel, at 536-2445.

The productions are partially funded by grants from the Michigan Council for the Arts and Cultural Affairs, Charlevoix County Community Foundation and the Malpass Foundation.

a word fitly spoken

A mentor, circa 1935

As I meditate and pray, my memory goes back to Mrs. Putnam. She was an English teacher, and also the principal of my grade school in Ohio. She was chubby, small of stature and smelled strongly of perfume.

Mrs. Putnam's quote was: "Count that day lost whose low descending sun, views from thy hand no worthy action done." She wrote this in my autograph book. Remember those? Some were downright silly while others profound. The frivolous one were usually by a classmate, while words of wisdom were the forte of our teachers.

I did not have a personal relationship with our Lord and Savior, yet Mrs. Putnam's poem seemed profound and sacred.

God wants us to do our best in everything we do and thus bring glory to His name. So adhering to those words I married, raised our family and Praise the Lord, I accepted salvation.

The daily grind can be tedious and tiring but there is a secret—Christians are privy to this secret—it is Jesus living within our hearts and minds, making us loving and compassionate as we emulate Jesus Christ and turn from self to others.

As Paul said, be content where you are and with what He provides. Do your best in all things. Pray! for God is so good!

NMU sponsors weekend

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Living in the Valley Dark as Death

"Even though I walk through a valley dark as death I fear no evil, for thou art with me, thy staff and thy crook are my comfort."

— Psalm 23:4

Throughout our lives there are many difficult circumstances and problems which come our way. Often we as Christians live with the false assumption that our faith in God will shield us from all problems. In reality, however, our Lord never promised us a problem-free existence. Rather, He offers us His presence in the midst of the difficult circumstances which life brings our way. Even when we walk through the painful and difficult valleys of life, we have the assurance that our Lord is with us. In fact, it is often precisely when we confront the pain and darkness of life directly that we yield to God's marvelous love in our lives. Instead of worrying about your problems or circumstances, why not yield them to the God who made you? ©1995 by King Features Synd.

Every mother is special!

The first annual East Jordan Journal Mother of the Year contest was a spectacular success, with responses from about 120 proud children in the East Jordan area.

It was tough to choose one letter from all those beautiful and loving tributes, but Sarah Nyland's special poem about her mom Nancy was especially outstanding.

Here at the Journal, we know that everyone (including all of us) thinks their mom is the best – and it's true, too! We all want our mothers to be acknowledged for the many sacrifices and the many ways they make our lives pleasant.

That's why we decided to include in this issue several full letters of tribute, a number of excerpts, and all the names of all the children (of all ages!) who took the time to express their admiration for their own very special mothers.

Ruth Loper

She is still beautiful at 70 and has the will and determination of any lady.

Mom has been there and back, so to speak, with all she has been through. She was left a widow at 40 with ten children at home. She has battled cancer three times and won.

She raised all of us with the strictest of values and morals and now we are all productive adults. We are so proud of her, and the love she has given us has been returned ten fold!

She was always there for us. We would walk through fire for her!

Brenda Chanda

Donna M. Inman

I think my mom should be Mother of the Year because she really cares about my brother and me. She tried ever so hard to give us a wonderful life and she has.

My mom never stops trying. It seems she's always busy, but she makes time for us always. I pray for her most at night. I ask the Lord for all bad things to stay away from her.

When my grandpa and great-grandma died, she still had time to give us sympathy. We help each other through everything, but she's the strongest. She tries the hardest.

Jessie Tison

Rosanna Marie Jones

I have been trying to figure out just what my mother needs for Mother's Day. And the only thing I could come up with was the same old thing, you know, a card and a big hug and kiss.

My mother has been there for all of us. We've had many good times over the years, but she's been going through tough times herself right now. She had surgery and her mother had a stroke, and she's been very busy with that. And on top of all that she's raised my daughter since 1991 - I really do appreciate what she has done for me. She is the most important person in my life along with my father and daughter.

We all agree she deserves to be nominated for Mother of the Year.

She has never let us down, so now we want her to be able to count on us and I also want her to realize she is the best mother anyone could have.

I hope she realizes she will always be my Mother of the Year every year, all the days of my life. I love you, Mother.

Dear Mother ...

Santiago Hernandez (mother Gladys Hernandez)

When my mother passed away almost two years ago, my step-father took full responsibility of my younger brother and me. Dealing with everything was all very difficult but we're all we had and we stuck together.

He has raised me - along with my mom and now that she is no longer here, my dad has been Mr. Mom for my brother and for me. He helps me out with all kinds of things that my mom and I dealt with together - from guys to regular "girl things," and I love him for that.

He definitely deserves the "Mother of the Year" award!!

I think my mother is extra special. She is very strong emotionally. When my two grandmothers died, she was there for every member of her family and friends. Three years ago my grandpa was diagnosed with emphysema.

For almost every day of those three years, she's been in East Jordan taking care of my father's father. As I grew older and had problems in school and with boys, she's always tried her best to help me out. Same goes for my three brothers, too.

My mother has always put her own problems aside and helped us first. I think my mother deserves to win.

Ransom leads lady Devils at meet

BY S.F. PUCKETT
Sports Writer

The Warren Converse Invitational Track Meet held May 6 brought cooperative weather and championship performances from the Charlevoix boys and Harbor Springs girls.

The Red Rayders took the boys meet with 163.25 points, well ahead of second place Kalkaska and its 120. St. Francis took third with 80.25, followed by East Jordan scoring 67.25, Harbor with 47.25. Elk Rapids netted 39 and Bellaire seven.

The Lady Rams had a tougher time with their side of match, scoring 118 to East Jordan's 108 to win. Kalkaska girls were third with 94.5, Bellaire fourth at 82, Charlevoix had 47.5, St. Francis 16 and Elk Rapids 0.

Callie Ransom ran wild, taking four wins for the Red Devils. Ransom won the long jump, 100 dash, 400 and 200, easily making her the individual star of the meet.

Devils dump Rams in softball action

BY S.F. PUCKETT
Sports Writer

East Jordan Red Devil softball continues to speed past the rest of the Lake Michigan division, surging to the top of the standings early in the schedule.

A sweep of Harbor Springs May 4 meant the Red Devils have the only unblemished record in the division. How long that zero stays in the loss column will be hotly debated this week, as a trip to Boyne City and a visit from Traverse City St. Francis will challenge the girls.

With Harbor May 4, the Devils scored every inning, using a three-run third and four-run fourth to beat the Rams 11-6 in game one. Dawn Meads struck out four and allowed four hits in the opener, while Angie Reid gave Meads offensive support with two hits, Amelia Fleming and Mandy Reid adding key hits.

Game two was over early as the Devils pounded across 11 first-inning runs and cruised to victory, 17-4. Kyle Krause worked the mound chores this game, allowing three hits and striking out a trio. Amelia Fleming had three hits, including a home run, JoDee Cam added three hits and Kristy Bennett two.

"The girls played great. They really look like a ball team, playing good defense and limiting mental errors," said coach Meg Fowler.

International City Managers Association publications, and larger metropolitan newspapers. City clerk Kathy O'Rear called some of the advertising expensive, but said it is a way to reach out of state.

The city will use the MML screening service to handle the first applications and develop a serious candidate list. Although a tentative date of July 1 is set for hiring the new administrator, Hughes called that timeline ambitious.

Sweet agreed.

"We shouldn't rush to fill the vacancy with a lower-quality candidate," he said.

Re-writing it

The name of one of the women in the four generations photograph (April 26 issue) was misspelled. It should have read Carol Frantom.

Upcoming public meetings

Several city and area issues will be discussed in upcoming meetings:

- Thurs., May 11, 7 p.m., Civic Center - Preliminary public meeting with the DNR and Friends of the Jordan River Watershed discussing the designation of the Jordan River as a wild-scenic river from Rogers Bridge Road north.
- Tues., May 16, 5:45 p.m., Civic Center - Public hearing to receive comments on the city's intent to increase the general operation and fire debt millage. There is no actual tax increase; rather, the city is required to go through this process because increases in SEV's has caused an increase in real dollars collected through the present millage rate.

- Tues., May 16, 6 p.m., Civic Center - Public hearing on the adjustment of Downtown Development Authority boundary lines, and to establish a TIFA (tax increment fund) to finance the DDA. A TIFA redirects money collected from SEV increases from the municipal body to the DDA, a branch of the municipality. The plan has been tentatively approved by the Charlevoix County Commission.

- Tues., May 16, 7:30 p.m., Civic Center - Regular meeting of the East Jordan City Council

Although she obviously enjoys motherhood, she realizes her children must also face disappointments in life, and that's tough for her.

"But being there to help when it happens is what counts," she emphasized.

What does Nancy Nyland want most for her children? Probably what every mother wants - health and happiness. But whatever their lives bring them, she will be there to share, to wave good-bye, and tell them to wear their seatbelts!
