Class project benefits Habitat for Humanity

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

"We were building something and so does the Habitat for Humanity," explained fifth-grade teacher Gary Peters. "It gave the project an appropriate world connection."

The project he was discussing is the handsome gambrel-roof, 6-by-8-foot storage shed built by the fifth-graders of East Jordan Elementary.

The project, funded by a Malpass Mini-grant, was a lesson in measurement, algebraic functions, geometry, the Pythagorean Theorem, and construction skills, among many others. Every student built a 1/6 scale model of the shed, said Peters, adding fractions and ratios to the collection of necessary proficiencies.

The completed project will be sold through auction, with the total sales price donated to the Habitat for Humanity, so the students gain the more worldly lesson of charity to their fellow humans.

Peters said working together helped strengthen cooperative skills, while language abilities will undoubtedly be improved as the students write advertisement copy for the auction.

The shed, which is now on display in front of the elementary school, will be sold to the highest bidder in a silent auction, now in progress. The school will accept daily bids until Wed., June 7, at 12 noon. The highest daily bid will be posted on the shed, so interested buyers can try to outbid until closing.

The shed was built with 2-by-4-foot walls and Wolmanized 2-by-4-foot floors under 3/4-inch OSB tongue-and-groove floor decking. The siding is OSB, rough-sawn look, a slate gray with pine trim, and the shed is roofed with 3-tab fiberglass shingles.

The starting bid is $200, although more than $500 worth of materials have gone into the construction. The successful bidder must pay the full price by June 15, and the shed will be delivered to the location of choice within the East Jordan School District. The new owner must arrange for transportation outside the district.

For more information, contact the elementary school at 536-7564.

Grandvue Medical Care Facility honors volunteers

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

"Volunteers mean the world to us," said the cake, as Grandvue Medical Care Facility staff members set aside an afternoon to say thank you to their large group of volunteers.

Many individuals and groups were recognized during the dinner, which was part of National Volunteer Week at the end of April. Activity director Cheryl Southard gave a sample of the variety of needs volunteers fill at the facility:

- Church programs for specific denominations, particularly for Catholic residents
- Music, crafts, and nature classes
- Providing transportation to appointments or other outings
- Arranging and providing field trips
- Contributions of materials, toiletry items, games and puzzles, and other necessary items
- Conducting Bingo, and other regular activities
- "Ice cream people," providing weekly treats
- Grandvue board members

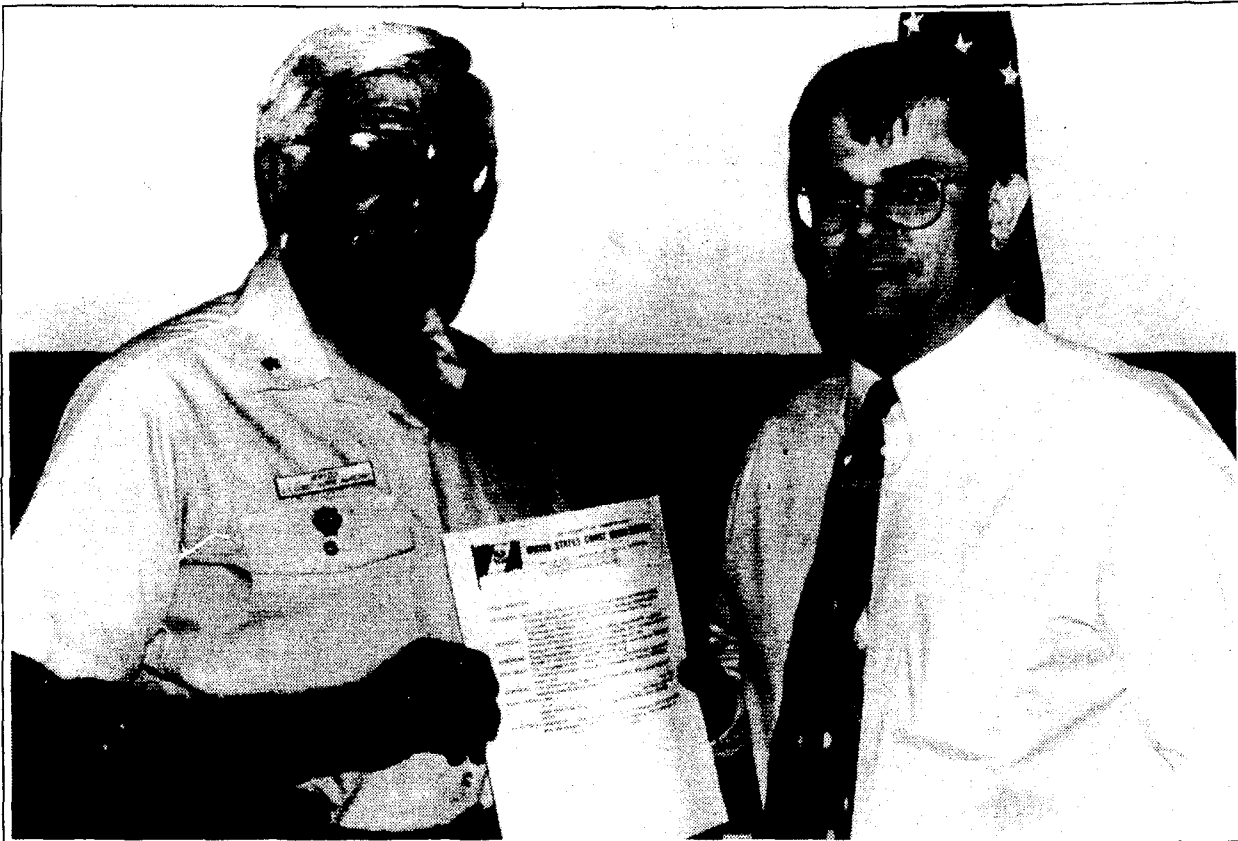

Southard noted many staff members donate time as volunteers, as well as residents themselves, who serve on a residential council or provide other services. She

Sax says ...

by Gayle Saxton

This is the time of the year when teenagers and young men and women are graduating from high schools, colleges and universities across the nation.

These young people have prepared themselves, at least to a certain degree, to face the work-a-day world.

For the high school graduate, it is a time of decision. They are at a crossroads. No longer can they put off the decision of choosing a direction. Some will choose goals that may prove to be unattainable; others will not pick any goals at all. This is tragic for they are apt to become drifters or doing little for themselves – a terrible waste of brain power, for given the right incentive great achievements could be accomplished.

Many adults wish they would have taken advantage of earlier opportunities to educate themselves. You often hear them say, "I'm too old now to learn anything." This is a lot of hogwash – the old adage that you can't teach an old dog new tricks just isn't so.

More and more middle-aged people are reeducating themselves.

If you have been thinking about getting back in school, preparing for a trade or occupation or bettering yourself in your present field, there's no time like now to get at it.

With the high costs of education today, one is apt to become discouraged in their efforts. As high as these costs may seem, I sincerely believe that the opportunities are greater than they were back in the Great Depression. "Where there is a will there is a way," still holds true today as it did then.

Persons who did not for some reason or another attain a high school diploma should think seriously of setting this as a goal for next fall when adult education courses are offered. With the adult ed program in East Jordan, it may surprise you how attainable this goal may be. Set up an appointment with the Enterprise Learning Lab, find out about the G.E.D. test, what courses you need, and get yourself in the right frame of mind.

Another aspect of preparing for the future that all too often is neglected is the matter of keeping yourself physically fit. That may not come naturally, but you have to work at it through proper exercise and diet.

Even if you are 40 or over, it's not too late, for you still have from 15 to 25 productive work years ahead.

East Jordan native Gayle Saxton has been writing, reporting, and broadcasting sports for many years. Now a retired educator in Houghton Lake, "Sax" will share his memories of East Jordan and his many friends through this column in futures issues of the Journal. Today's contribution is a reprint of his column originally published in the Houghton Lake Resorter during the 1980s.

Bless neighbors helping neighbors

All I wanted was the front of my house washed. Last Saturday afternoon when I came home from shopping, my driveway was full of cars, hoses, ladders, and people.

Former neighbors, the family of Mildred Rebec Harris, had decided they wanted to do something for me out of love and respect.

Those present were Joe and Robyn Rebec, JoAnne Rebec, Roger Rebec of Grand Rapids, Keith Rebec, Richard of Kalamazoo, Rose and Ted Rebec Karaszewski of Boyne City, Robert Harris of East Jordan, and Steve and Debbie Leaman of East Jordan.

Mildred said her children had a good feeling within themselves for doing something for someone.

God Bless this family. I love you, too.

A morel gold mine

Young Ryan Graham, 7, picked these beautiful black morels at his grandparents' house in East Jordan. The first-grader, formerly of East Jordan, now living in Charlevoix, is a veteran mushroomer, according to mom Cheryl – "He has mushroomed since he could walk." "I found the biggest mushrooms this year!" said Ryan. Who could argue with that kind of proof!

Assessor questions reimbursement

BY MARY FREY
Editorial Director

ECHO TOWNSHIP – A significant disparity exists in per-parcel payments for assessors in Antrim County's 15 townships.

At the Echo Township Board's May 9 meeting, township assessor Patricia Niepoth pointed out wage differences in up to $8.40 per unit in 12 townships responding to a request for information (see chart).

While Forest Area, Chestonia and Jordan townships didn't supply information for the chart, subsequent phone contact revealed the two latter townships average $5 to $7 per parcel, Niepoth said.

"Five dollars per parcel is about the average in Antrim County," she noted. "At this time, I'm being paid $2.73 per parcel."

According to available figures, only two townships pay less than Echo – Mancelona ($2.61) and Star ($1.07).

The highest per-parcel payment is made in Central Lake Township, where the assessor earns $9.47 per parcel.

The board will discuss the assessor payment issue at their next meeting, supervisor Bob Pearsall said. The next meeting of the Echo Township Board will be July 11 at 7:30 p.m. in the Echo Township Hall (a week later than usual, due to the July 4th holiday).

city council

briefs May 16 meeting

■ The council agreed to a request from Cheri Leach of Raven Hill Discovery Center to donate a section of old railroad track in storage at the transfer station.

Leach explained that a donated caboose will be mounted on the tracks to provide another attraction at the education center.

■ Interim city superintendent William Hughes reported that another possible hotel/motel complex may be in the works for the property behind the Jordan Valley Express Dance Center. He said the company may present a proposal to lower the cost of installing water and sewer lines to the site, since city ordinance requires a payment of $1,200 for each hook-up. The proposed building would contain 40 units, costing $96,000 to the developer.

■ The council heard a report that 35 junk ordinance violations have been issued by the East Jordan Police Department over the last two months. Chief Jerry Alward said 21 properties have been cleaned up, 13 received a 10-day extension to clean up, and one property owner will be jailed if the property is not cleaned up by June 1.

■ Five petitions were filed for the upcoming city commission election in November. Running for the four commission seats are former council member Greg Chappuis and current members Mike Dionne, Lyle Etcher, Russ Peck and Brian Sweet.

Mother-son team exhibits photos

Artistic partners as well as mother and son, East Jordan photographer Karen Walker and her son Will Ogden, 6, have been chosen to exhibit their photographic work at the Traverse Area Arts Council Gallery in Traverse City through the month of June.

The exhibit will feature photographs from a joint project they call Mother and Child: Two Visions, One World, with photographs taken during outings together. The focus is photos they have taken of each other, thus comparing the different viewpoints of adult and young child on similar subjects.

Also included in the exhibit are the award-winning photos made by Will, with which he captured the first prize at last November's Crooked Tree Arts Council annual juried photo exhibit.

This is the second consecutive year Walker has been selected to exhibit her art at the TAAC gallery. Also featured will be the works of Leelanau County artists David Vance and Kent Weijaczka.

The opening reception for the exhibit is Fri., June 2, 6 to 8 p.m., with the show continuing through June 30. The gallery is located at 106 E. Front St., downtown Traverse City. Hours are Tuesday through Friday, 2 to 6 p.m., and Saturday, 11 a.m. to 3 p.m.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

The Sanctity of God's House

"In the temple he found those who were selling oxen and sheep and pigeons, and the money-changers at their business. And making a whip of cords, he drove them all...out of the temple. And he told those who sold the pigeons, 'Take these things away; you shall not make my Father's house a house of trade.'"

— John 2: 14-16

A house of worship can serve as many things: a refuge for the needy, a meeting place for social brotherhood, a setting for those groups supportive of and sponsored by the church. Yet we must never forget the primary purpose for such an edifice and that is the sanctification of God and the spreading of His word. It was against the defilement, the abuse of that sanctity, that Jesus railed against the money-changers and those who would sell animals for sacrifice. The only trade should be a commerce in faith and a barrier of ourselves for the wealth of God's love.

Boot Scootin' Boogie!

Thank you to Elaine Galmore Saxton of Lansing, for correcting our mistaken identification. It seems that the 1948 East Jordan driver's education teacher (featured in Swan City Memories, May 10) was not Max Davis but Max Damoth.

"I was in that first class in 1948, even though we didn't own a car," Elaine wrote. She told us Max was the history teacher as well, and called him, "a gentleman and a credit to the teaching profession!"

It's nice to know we encouraged some pleasant memories.

An addendum to last week's article on the educational boardwalk dedicated recently at the St. Clair-Six Mile Lake Natural Area in South Arm Township - East Jordan's own Joel Evans, naturalist and photographer extraordinaire, donated all the lumber for the new boardwalk.

Some time soon, take a walk at the preserve, enjoy the scenery, than perhaps, say thanks to Joel.

A group of East Jordan boaters recently completed the 12-week boating safety course offered through the Coast Guard Auxiliary.

Now all really safe boaters, they are: Tom Breakey, Jr., Debbie and Dwayne Chappuies, Greg and Kim Chappuies, Gene and Jeannie Plite. Instructors were Dan Miller, Roger Tyrrell, and Bob Veryzer, all of East Jordan.

Whoops! We forgot to give photo credit for the beautiful portrait of our East Jordan Journal Mother of the Year Nancy Nyland, and her daughter Sarah, that graced the front of our May 10 issue.

The photographer was the talented Karen Walker.

Lynn Clarice Hall of East Jordan recently had original poetry published in The Journey of the Mind, a treasury of today's poetry compiled by the National Library of Poetry. The poem is entitled The Nudge of Strength, with personal power as the subject.

Clarice has been writing for six years, and her favorite subjects are psychology, science, and ecology.

Congratulations to Central Lake High School 1994 grad Sara Roach. The famous slugger was an outstanding member of the Alpena Community College women's softball program this spring, hitting a .301 average, .344 on-base percentage, and .349 slugging percentage.

These impressive numbers won her an honorable mention to the All-MCCAA Eastern Conference team.

Sara is the daughter of Mike Roach, Central Lake, and Glenda Roach, East Jordan.

Back copies for most issues of the East Jordan Journal are available at our office, Main and Esterly streets, in East Jordan.

Piano students perform

East Jordan piano teacher Margaret M. Thomson recently held her annual recital, May 21, at the United Methodist Church.

Zitka promoted

Marine Pfc. Ryan M. Zitka, son of Clare A. and Kaye M. Zitka of East Jordan, was recently promoted to his present rank, while serving at Army Ordnance Center and School, Aberdeen Proving Ground, Md.

The 1992 graduate of Avonworth Senior High School, Pittsburgh, joined the Marine Corps in November 1994.

EJ student named top academic performer

A.O. Wood, a member of East Jordan High School Class of 1995, was given honorable mention in the 12th annual Detroit Free Press Top State Academic Performers of the Year.

Each of the state's 945 high school principals were invited to nominate one graduating senior. The Michigan Association of

Secondary School Principals uses a mathematical formula that takes into account the student's grade point average and score on the Scholastic Aptitude Test (SAT) or the American College Test (ACT) to select the nominees.

Wood is the son of Prudence and Larry Kurtz, and Rusty Wood. He plans to attend the University of Michigan, and has not yet decided on a course of study.

The Wizard's Crystal

Playing characters in search of a lost crystal, thespians Jake Ryan (left) and Thor Leach enact one scene from the story. The play was recently presented, directed, and acted by East Jordan High School students for elementary children.

Devils sweep No. 1 Bellaire

East Jordan hit the highlight of its softball season May 22, sweeping a pair of games from the number one Class D team in the state, on the Bellaire Eagles' home turf, no less.

From the onset, the Lady Devils had Bellaire's number. They scored four in the second, allowed the Eagles to come back and lead 8-6 into the last inning, then took away the game with four runs to win, 10-8.

Dawn Meads got the victory. JoDee Cam and Amelia Fleming each pounded Eagle pitching for four hits. Kylie Krause matched Meads with two hits.

Game two was tight—that is until East Jordan posted a six-run inning to give Bellaire a double-dose of the blues, 7-5.

Angie Snyder picked up the win in the nightcap. Fleming had two more hits, and Cathy King, Meads, Snyder and Krause all added hits.

"What a great day!" exclaimed exuberant Red Devil coach Meg Fowler. "Angie Snyder pitched a great game, and our defense worked hard throughout the entire game."

Kalkaska came to East Jordan for a rain make-up game and swept the Devils, 6-5 and 10-4. Still, the wins over big, bad Bellaire should give the team a boost of confidence as it heads into district playoff action this week.

Grandvue MCF honors volunteers

also mentioned a very special appreciation for the Grandvue Auxiliary.

"Volunteers make a big difference in the quality of life of Grandvue residents," said Southard.

Southard said the continuing rise in numbers of Grandvue clients with some form of dementia makes the future work of volunteers even more important. Presently with 63 percent of the residents in this category, at least 63 percent of staff programming efforts are dedicated toward them. Volunteers provide more and more for the other 27 percent - the alert residents who have interests and activity needs.

Grandvue Administrator Penny Drury added that future projections point to an increase of Alzheimer residents to as much as 90 percent of total Grandvue residents.

Drury also outlined some of the changes at the facility, including a kitchen renovation, and expanded dining area. The kitchen is designed for more accessibility for residents. Both improvements make possible expanded resident-directed activities, and a need for volunteer help.

But Drury's primary focus was to thank the volunteers. She called the dinner a small token.

"We really can't express our appreciation in just one dinner," she told the group. "You provide a service we couldn't do without."

Echo Township Board - May 9

Big saving in paving

The township's costs for paving 2.33 miles of Skinkle Road have been reduced by $25,000, thanks to cooperation from the Antrim County Road Commission.

Originally budgeted at $96,000, asphalt costs will tumble by taking advantage of the availability of materials being used to pave a portion of M-66, supervisor Bob Pearsall said.

The cost-saving measure reduces total township outlay for the project to about $114,000. An additional $43,000 in road preparation costs will be paid by the county.

Ready for children

A long-awaited slide and playground merry-go-round have been installed at Echo Township Park.

"It wasn't easy, but we did it," supervisor Bob Pearsall commented. "That merry-go-round must have had 10,000 bolts. Next time, I think we'll get it installed."

Pearsall and trustee Dale LaVanway volunteered their time to set up the new equipment.
