Bringing history to life

By Deb Saygers Hobbs
Journal Editor

History doesn't have to be a dry, dusty collection of boring facts. It can be a living, breathing sharing of memories and personalities, full of real people and events.

At least that's what a group of East Jordan history buffs are striving for as they work to put together a collection of folk tales born in the facts of the people and places in East Jordan's past.

Plans are to publish the memories - with lots of photos - in book form. The goal for release is the July, 1996 20th anniversary of the Portside Art and Historical Museum.

Spearheaded by the Portside Art and Historical Society and the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce, the idea has been simmering for a number of years. The history book committee, headed by Jean Pardee, is now helping the dream become reality as they collect the fruit of labors of many writers in the East Jordan area and beyond.

Producing a book

Once the submissions are all in (the deadline is August 1,) the real work begins, according to project advisor Dave Knight, editorial director at Harbor House Publishers in Boyne City. Knight, along with the two other editors for the project, Joan Sheridan Hoover and Jody Malpass Clark, will divide all the contributions, plow through the written materials, and meet for discussions on format and consistency in editing.

The editors will also select the materials for the book - unfortunately, there will not be enough room for every contribution. Knight said the contributions chosen will be those with the facts straight, but also with personality - providing profiles of characters or events that tell a lively story.

"Stories that get into the depth of the people involved are much more interesting," said Knight.

For example, the story of East Jordan railroading can be told in a fact-by-fact, date-by-date manner, but most readers will be more attracted to the story of one passenger, engineer or brakeman, or a homeless drifter hopping the freight cars.

"The facts and places will flow as part of the story," said Knight.

Although some contributions can not be incorporated into the book, all the contributions will be kept forever, both Knight and Pardee promised. Everything will be stored in the archives of the historical society.

Photographs will be an integral part of the project. East Jordan is especially fortunate in the variety and amount of photographs available, mainly through the vast collection of veteran photographer Bill Huckle. Pardee said that Huckle, who took many of the photos himself during his years as a photojournalist, has agreed to provide an assortment for the book.

The Portside Art and Historical Museum's own impressive photo collection will also be available. Greg Boswell and Jim Sherman will take on the task of matching photos with the written contributions, seeking to provide quality illustrations for the stories.

The project is dedicated to the memory of George Secord, one of East Jordan's most avid and learned historians, who passed away a year ago. Pardee said Secord's death actually inspired the project.

"There had been talk of the need for a book like this," said Pardee. "But when George died, we realized that a wealth of information was slipping away."

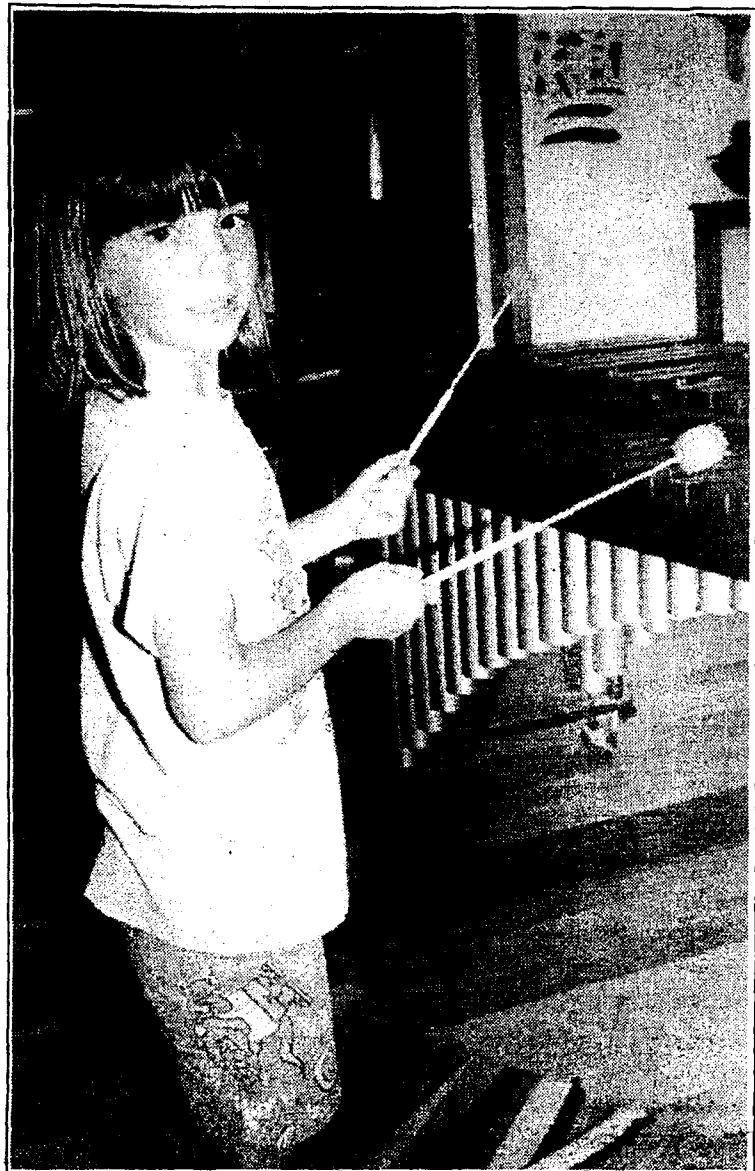

Pardee and her crew have organized a number of the area's perennial residents to write about people and landmarks they remember, as well as researching businesses, industries, churches, events, and natural resources. Local cultural inheritance such as the Norwegian and Bohemian settlements have attracted special interest.

Pardee hasn't forgotten those who remember, but may not be able to write any more, either. Volunteers have been visiting with several area residents and tape-recording their memoirs.

Paying for the project

Financing the book will be a challenge in itself. There are two phases to the project - production and printing. Just to produce the book, the sponsors will have to also produce $4,000. This covers the cost of design, typography and format. An example of the book, ready

Jordan Valley Express - in pursuit of development

By Deb Saygers Hobbs
Journal Editor

Francis Themm, owner of the Jordan Valley Express American Music Center, wants more motel rooms in East Jordan.

Themm's business draws people, and he believes it would draw many more, if the people had a place to stay. Being a man of action, he recently made a proposal to the city that may help start the development he needs.

Themm told city commissioners he would help finance the cost of installing a sewer line to property behind the Express building on M-66, proposing he absorb half the cost of the line, which may run as long as 800 feet. Themm said he would make the arrangements, hire a contractor, and have the line (an 8-inch sanitary sewer pipe) installed. When the project is complete, he will turn it over to the city, including the easement for the line.

In exchange, Themm asked for a lower sewer and water tap

From Looking around Jordan Township by Mrs. Vern Bundy (Rosalind Westcott)

East Jordan News-Herald, mid-1950s, date unknown

Once again we are trying to pull back the curtains of obscurity so that we may see a little of the past.

There are probably not many of you who, though you may have heard of Hitchcock, have seen it as it is today. Did you realize that at one time the people who lived there had as much hope of becoming a permanent town as any one of several other settlements in the area. Some settlements did survive, while others, like Hitchcock, have long ago surrendered their place on the map.

But there are a few people who remember and I think others might be interested in their stories. For this tale about Hitchcock, I am indebted to Jim Mires of Chestonia who gave me the facts.

The story of Hitchcock

The location is about one mile inland in Kearney Township from the corner where Kearney, Jordan and Chestonia lines come together – or about five miles south of Chestonia by way of the E.J.&S. Railroad. The timber consisted mostly of hardwoods – maple, elm, birch, beech, ash, hemlock, and also some basswood. As it was near the railroad as it ran between East Jordan and Bellaire, it was one of the earlier spots to be logged.

In 1900 when the lumber company arrived, the best available camp site seemed to be on a hill which had at one time been homesteaded by a man named Brown. It is believed he retired to Bellaire to run a meat market.

The camp was set up with Fred Larson as foreman, and Mrs. Walt Pierce as cook, and promptly called Camp 10. There were about 60 men quartered in the camp buildings and 10 teams of horses. Some families moved in about 10 separate houses. There was also the general store, blacksmith shop, and the school, which served as a church on Sunday.

The store handled groceries, clothing and other necessities, as well as serving as post office for the mail delivered daily by the E.J.&S. Running this store was a man by the name of Hitchcock. That name was chosen for the settlement, and was recorded on maps of the time.

The land here was rolling but not a bad place to log and the timber held out for five years. The logs were hauled on sleighs to the railroad in the winter, and the big wheels took over in the summer. For awhile the area logged was still close to the railroad, so these logs were skidded to the track and loaded with a cross-haul team.

Dick Kalleyshaw drove the cross-haul team. He was killed one day as he was hooking the toggle chain and a log rocked off the car on him.

Sometimes in logging the big trees, the men came across one with a limb that was broken and dangling, caused perhaps by the wind or by another tree falling into it.

These limbs were very dangerous, and they could swing freely in almost any direction – they were known by lumberjacks far and near as “widow makers.” Another of the fatalities in this camp was caused by a widow maker when Haliver (Handskipe) Peterson was felling trees one day and a limb came down out of a tree and hit him on the head.

When you consider the length of time on this job, the toll in lives was small for this hazardous occupation. Mostly the work went well, and it was a happy camp. The daily work of logging continued – logs were cut, hauled, skidded, and loaded. The best of the rock elm was taken over by the square timber men and hewed into square timbers, for special uses.

Sax says ...

by Gayle Saxton

Northern Michigan is blessed with an abundance of wild berries – berries out there for the picking. The trouble is that only a few relatively old timers know where they are.

There are strawberries, cranberries, gooseberries, raspberries, blueberries, huckleberries, wintergreen berries, and blackberries in the area. For the most part they are found on state land and are yours for the picking.

Wild berry picking isn't as popular today as it was a half century or so ago. As a youngster I can still recall camping in the Frederick area with my dad and some of his friends for a weekend of berry picking (huckleberries.) Huckleberry pickers back then used a berry picker of a cradle variety, which has since been outlawed, to harvest the berries.

In those days, it wasn't uncommon to pick as many as a bushel or washtub of huckleberries in a single day. By the way, to this day I haven't figured out the difference between a huckleberry and a blueberry.

Canning wild berries was in vogue during the depression days. I can still recall my mother spending endless hours sweating over a hot kitchen stove as she canned as many as five and six hundred quarts of the precious berries, not to mention numerous jars of jelly and jam.

One thing for sure then was that we always had an ample supply of canned berries and there were days when we had berries at every meal. You might think one would tire of such a diet, but I never did. To this day a dish of wild berries is a delicacy. I especially like wild strawberries – it could be because they are so hard to come by.

Though the strawberry season is waning, there are raspberries, blackberries and huckleberries out there somewhere. Will someone tell me where they are? After all bears shouldn't be the only ones blessed with these delicacies.

Now a retired educator in Houghton Lake, "Sax" will share his memories of East Jordan and his many friends through this column in future issues of the Journal. Sheriff credits officers and citizens for apprehension Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater recently recognized several deputies and private citizens for their role in the apprehension of the suspect of a bank robbery at the Old Kent Bank in Walloon Lake. The sheriff presented appreciation awards to department officers, Deputy Bill Cousineau, Deputy Jim Owens, Sgt. Jim Pettis, Sgt. Mike Wheat, and Sgt. Don Schneider.

Also recognized were Trooper Brad Meyer, Post #78 of the Michigan State Police, and Dog Handler Steve Norman and Canine "Boone," from Post #73 of the Michigan State Police; Emmet County Deputy Don Arman, dog handler and Canine "Hobo"; Tom Sweet of the Department of Natural Resources; Charlevoix County Prosecuting Attorney Richard May, and Al Reeves, a resident of Walloon Lake.

Lasater called the apprehension of the perpetrator and recovery of the stolen money and vehicle within four hours a classic example of citizen involvement and interdepartmental cooperation.

"Driving is serious business"

Police officers speak to young drivers

By Deb Saygers Hobbs
Journal Editor

"It's not just drinking that causes accidents," said East Jordan Police Chief Jerry Alward. "Although 50 to 60 percent of accidents are alcohol-related, the rest are caused by stupid mistakes."

The chief was speaking to a group of young drivers at their summer driver's education course at East Jordan High School. He and Charlevoix County Sheriff's Deputy Rex Behling were there to make some important points for the students soon to be on the road.

"Don't think you're only hurting yourself by being careless," the chief told the students. He shared some of the difficulties of dealing with the death of a loved one due to a traffic accident — his son Jeff, 19, was killed in an April, 1994 accident on Ellsworth Road.

"It doesn't stop hurting," he said. "And it's not easy on us picking you up out of a ditch, even if we don't know you."

He warned them not to play with the radio or allow other distractions instead of watching the road.

"I know you think you know everything about driving," said Alward, "But I don't know everything."

The two officers also cautioned the teenagers not to expect every vehicle-handling skill to come immediately.

"The skills will come over time," said Behling. "Just be patient and take it easy."

Behling and Alward discussed many other issues with the class, including how to act when stopped or passed by an officer or emergency vehicle, and dealing with different types of intersections. Behling said intersections are the most common location for accidents to occur.

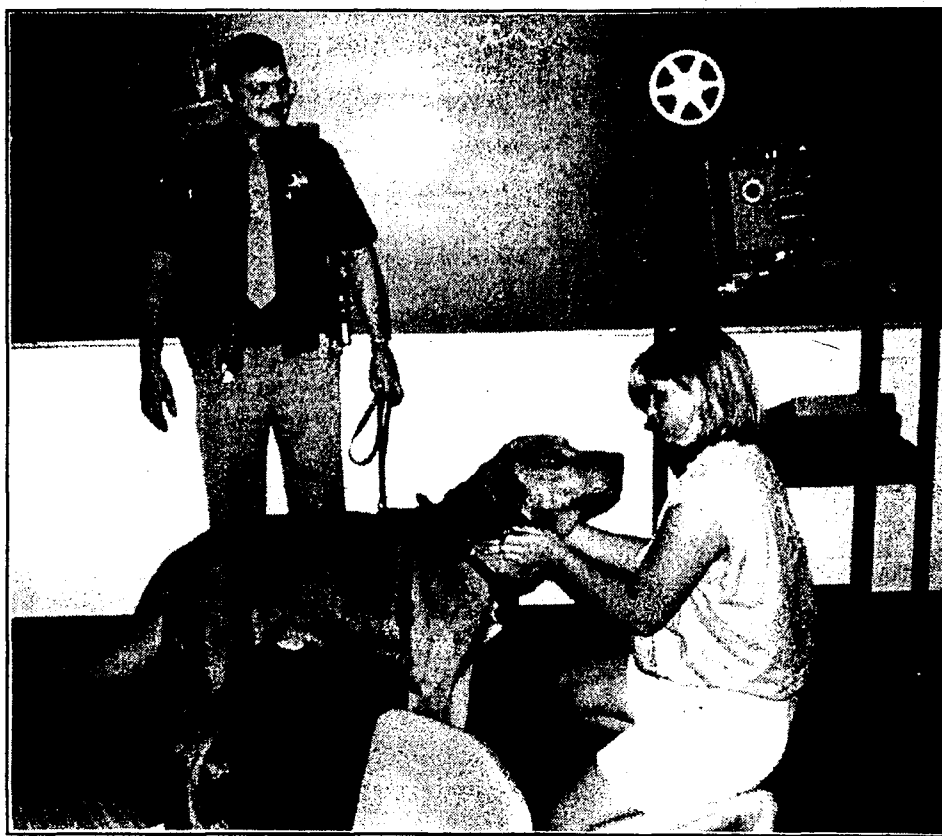

The questions from the students included whether there is ever a legitimate reason for speeding.

"You wouldn't believe the stories I've heard," said Behling with a chuckle. "They're usually lies." Behling and Alward emphasized that drivers should not lie to police officers.

"We have the ability to write a ticket or not," said Behling. "Often we go by the attitude of the driver to make our decision."

By the way, Behling said, if the driver has a radar detector in the vehicle, "He gets the ticket."

SPOOK, DEPUTY Behling's canine pal, happily accepts a pat of affection from a driver's ed student at EJHS. Spook accompanied Deputy Behling and Police Chief Jerry Alward on a visit to the class.

MESC alters hours

Michigan Employment Security Commission (MESC) offices across the state will open their doors to the public about an hour later every Thursday to standardize the time for staff training and communications.

"Beginning this week, all of our local offices in the state will open at 9:15 a.m. on Thursdays," MESC Director F. Robert Edwards said. "The standard opening will let the public know when community offices are closed to provide staff with training and information updates. Until now, each office had set their own time."

Edwards said with the constantly changing nature of the job market and the employment and unemployment insurance programs that MESC administers, there is a need to keep staff abreast of the changes through regularly scheduled meetings. The time is also being used for training staff in new procedures and technologies as they are adopted by the agency.

MESC's 54 branch offices will open at their normal time, typically 8:30 a.m., during the remaining four days of the week.

Science and technology unite for summer fun

By Deb Sayers Hobbs
Journal Editor

Bird feeders and aquariums are some of the material items that will help East Jordan kids remember their recent Sci-Tech week. Organizers of the program are confident the youngsters also took home a number of intangible lessons about science and technology that will benefit their future.

Sci-Tech was a day camp experience provided to area students through a partnership between East Jordan Schools and Raven Hill Discovery Center in Wilson Township. Raven Hill proprietors Cheri and Tim Leach were the science team, while district teachers Margo Brandell, Melissa Lasater, and Alice McPherson provided a technology package — each aspect of the collaboration supplementing the other.

Campers spent part of each morning at Raven Hill, and part at school in the computer lab. At Raven Hill, third to fifth-graders collected and identified rocks and fossils, studied land formations and plate tectonics (study of the earth's crust,) developed a geological timeline, and built working models of a volcano.

Back at school on the computers, the students drew maps of geological formations, and researched their rock and fossil findings to develop their own computer model of the earth's crust. At the end of the week, they were hypothesizing on where earthquakes might occur, according to their own research.

"Our goal all week was to give them the information they needed to make their hypotheses," explained Cheri.

Younger children had a unit on animals, learning about insects by studying and drawing those they collected or observed. Birds in the woods and fields of Raven Hill were observed. Children closely examined the differences between the teeth of herbivores and carnivores, and studied other aspects of the food chain.

Using the computers, the children researched habitats, diets, sounds, and other information about animals, eventually playing matching games selecting the proper information for specific animals.

After observing Raven Hill water ecosystems, the children put together their own mini-ecosystem as an aquarium, carefully preparing layers for the base of a guppy and water plant habitat in the bottom of a huge glass jar.

During their week of Sci-Tech, middle schoolers collected data to solve a "crime" committed by one of several "suspects" — the slate of possible suspects included superintendent Chip Hansen, and middle school principal Shirley Bishop!

The students played detective by tracking down and computer analyzing such data as fingerprints, textile fibers and hairs, as well as suspicious behavior — keeping a data base through the week.

"This was a fun way to get them to see how computers can be applied to so many areas," said Cheri.

Each camper paid a $25

tuition fee to help underwrite the cost of Sci-Tech, which was also funded by a $1,000 grant from the Charlevoix County Community Foundation.

Did you know?

Despite smaller population growth, the number of households has increased due to more single parent families, smaller families, childless families and retirees. This trend has increased the need for housing. Housing lot sizes have continued to become larger as the number of dwelling units per acre of land has declined 75% since World War II, accelerating the consumption of rural land.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

Jesus the Nazarene

"And he went and he dwelt in a city called Nazareth, that what was spoken by the prophets might be fulfilled, 'He shall be called a Nazarene'."

— Matthew 2:23

There are many places in scripture associated with Jesus' name. Yet with the exception of the two years when Joseph took Mary and her Son into Egypt and the few years of His adult ministry, Jesus' life was bounded by the perimeters of Nazareth, where He grew to manhood and helped Joseph as a carpenter. We know little of those years in Nazareth, but it is obvious that in that village, Jesus prepared Himself for the mission for which He had been born. It is ironic that the teacher whose life and travels were so limited should become a universal figure, loved and revered in every area of the world. There can be no doubt that God's will was fulfilled.

East Jordan grads receive scholarships

Several 1995 graduates of East Jordan High School will find college tuition a little easier to handle, thanks to some financial help from their local community foundation.

The students were chosen to receive scholarships made possible through special endowment funds held by the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, the Becky Bos Memorial Scholarship; Alice Garlock Memorial Scholarship; Leatha Larsen Memorial Scholarship; and several East Jordan Rotary Club scholarships.

• Cathleen King was chosen as the recipient of the Becky Bos Memorial Scholarship for $750. The scholarship fund was established this year to honor Becky Bos, a lively, well-liked 1991 graduate of East Jordan High School who died three years ago in an automobile accident. Cathy will use her scholarship to attend Hope College this fall and pursue a degree in psychology.

• Debbie Staley was awarded the Alice Garlock Memorial Scholarship. The Garlock Scholarship is given each year to the student with the best academic record in mathematics. Debbie will attend North Central Michigan College, where she plans to study accounting.

• Kevin Bavers and Sarah Nyland were each selected to receive a $500 Leatha Larsen Memorial Scholarship. The scholarship honors former East Jordan teacher and counselor, Leatha Larsen, whose commitment to students was instrumental in many continuing their education.

Kevin plans to attend North Central Michigan College to study engineering, and Sarah will study art and English at Northwestern Michigan College this fall.

Five graduates have been selected as this year's East Jordan Rotary Club scholars. Their academic performance, leadership, and extracurricular involvement were key factors contributing to the honors.

• Callista Ransom was awarded the $500 Bryce Vance Rotary Memorial Scholarship. Callista will attend Michigan State University and major in languages and international business.

• Solomon Townsend received the $1,250 William E. Malpass Rotary Memorial Scholarship, which he will use to attend Lake Superior State University and study mechanical engineering.

• Cathleen King, winner of the Bos Scholarship, was also awarded the Howard P. Porter Rotary Memorial Scholarship in the amount of $1,000.

• Matthew Dietrich received a $750 East Jordan Rotary Scholarship. Matthew will be a student at Central Michigan University this fall and majoring in computer science.

• Arthur O. Wood was given a $500 East Jordan Rotary Scholarship, which he will use to attend the University of Michigan. He is undecided in his field of study.

All of the scholarship endowments have been established as "field-of-interest" funds within the Charlevoix County Community Foundation. Each year, investment income from the endowments is set aside to fund scholarships, using the guidelines and standards set by those who create the special funds.

The community foundation holds and manages a number of such field-of-interest and scholarship endowments on behalf of various civic organizations, families, and individuals.

Started in 1992 by a group of local community leaders, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation receives charitable contributions from individuals, clubs, and private foundations and manages them in a permanent trust. Investment income generated by the trust is used to make grants that support a variety of projects that benefit the area - from education to arts, to health and human services.

More information about the foundation and its scholarships is available by calling 616-536-2440, or by writing c/o P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, Michigan, 49727.

Youth group gives out $6,700

Students who serve on the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's Youth Advisory Committee spent part of the year surveying their peers and teachers to learn more about area needs. Now, they're applying what they learned and doing what they can to make things better for Charlevoix County's children and families.

The youth group recently voted to give $6,700 in grants to various organizations and programs that benefit area kids. The money comes from a special community foundation endowment targeted to fund youth projects

Programs chosen for funding, and their grant amounts, are:

• The Exceptional Riders Program - $1,500 to purchase saddles for use by physically and mentally challenged children and adults who participate in the horseback riding project.

• Planned Parenthood - $1,500 to help fund TROUP Teen Theater, a highly acclaimed educational program that teaches young people how to resist peer pressure and say "No."

• Raven Hill Discovery Center - $1,000 to support summer internships for college students and expand the center's educational programs to young children.

• East Jordan Public Schools - $1,000 to be used for Sci-Tech Camp, a summer program geared to elementary and middle school students.

• Michigan State University Extension/4-H - $700 to purchase goal nets for the Boyne City's popular soccer program.

• Women's Resource Center - $500 to help fund a special rape and assault prevention workshop for 11th-grade girls in Charlevoix County.

• Boyne City Nursery - $500 toward a challenge grant to help purchase and build playground equipment for the nonprofit center.

up north outdoors

This past week was another very hot one – the humidity was what really did us in.

The weather made for some miserable fishing conditions, especially during the daytime heat. Night fishing was pretty good as it was the week of the full moon. Angling success was excellent for walleyes on Lake Charlevoix.

Crooked Lake, Burt and Mullett lakes in the north are reporting fair to good catches of "eyes" as well.

Mayfly hatches are still coming off the northern lakes although they are thinning. The best tactics I know of with bug hatches is to troll the mud flats with crawler harnesses or troll crank baits in the late evening or early morning hours.

If you must confine your fishing to daytime hours, both presentation methods will work. I prefer to run a harness behind a bottom bouncer with chrome or gold blades. Traditional methods such as Lindy Rigs work, and so do Jigs tipped with one-half a crawler.

If you fish jigs check the weed lines in 9 to 12-foot of water first. If you aren't successful, then work your way into shallow water and try again.

For you bass fishermen, we have spawning activity for smallmouth from Cecil Bay in Mackinaw City to the south end of both Grand Traverse bays. I heard that the bass fishing in the Beaver Island area is excellent.

On Lake Charlevoix, the smallies are still shallow holding on the 5 to 8-foot breaks. Cast small smoke-colored jigs on black jigs with a piece of crawler, or a small leech, and work them from deep water to shallow water. Both the north and south pier at Charlevoix are producing smallmouth and an occasional walleye or catfish as a bonus.

The lower Antrim chain has been slow for bass fishing. The best lake has been Torch, although even Torch is not producing well on any fish. The best fishing on Torch has been for lake trout, however I haven't heard from anyone about limit catches.

Lake Bellaire is okay for bass. Walleyes, although small are a bit better, and the trout fishing is very slow.

Panfish anglers who are fishing deep enough are scoring very well on many area lakes. Some of the better catches are coming from 25 to 30 feet of water.

It was reported to me that the best fishing is from 6 to 9 a.m. in 25 to 30 feet of water. Bait used was a small piece of red worm on some heavy tear drops with 2-pound test line to get the hits.

I haven't heard about crappies, with exception of Pickerel Lake doing well on windy days with pinky jigs.

Stream anglers have been doing well. Brown trout are being caught in the Boyne and Jordan at night. Many creeks are giving up some great catches of brook trout on worms and spinners. Mornings have produced best for the brook trout.

Big lake anglers are doing good on lake trout off Charlevoix, fishing punts behind cowbell rigs in 100 to 125 feet of water.

Some encouraging news for you big lake anglers – expect the salmon to be better this year. Many ports south are saying that the salmon fishing is the best in at least six years. Efforts against bacterial kidney disease are having an effect, and the stocks are making a rebound.

The tourist season is in full swing and the boat traffic is very heavy. Be alert and be safe.

Underdogs win league tournament championship

The East Jordan "Minor" League boys' season came to a thrilling conclusion the last week of June with the championship game in the league tournament.

Playing before a packed house at Murphy Field, the Red team, coached by Donna James, nipped the Yellow team by a 5-4 score, coming from behind to win in their last at-bat.

The Yellow team, coached by Versile Spence, won the overall league championship with an 8-2 record. The Red team tied with the Orange team (coached by Bill Tison) for second place. Each team had a 7-3 win-loss record.

Stamp adhesive approved by FDA

If you are concerned about your health and the environment, you will be happy to know the glue used on today's postage stamps is edible and biodegradable.

Many of our current stamps use a cornstarch base that is water-activated. The glue is food grade, water soluble, and approved by the Food and Drug Administration.

By the early 1900s, glue began to be applied to stamp paper as the last step in stamp production. But edible glue remained the staple, even as production techniques improved. Tapioca was used for a time, followed by cornstarch, usually in combination with synthetic food additives.

July 12, 1995 AMEND NUMBERING ORDINANCE RESOLUTION

WHEREAS, the Charlevoix County Uniform Numbering Ordinance was adopted on May 10, 1995 by the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners; and

WHEREAS, the ordinance was reviewed by the C.C.E. Central Dispatch Authority Board of Directors; and

WHEREAS, the only area that needed addressing is the height of the post used for displaying the address; and

WHEREAS, it was the consensus of the Board of Directors to recommend that the Charlevoix County Numbering Ordinance, Section 4.1 (B), be changed from: Where the numbers on the front of the structure cannot be read from the road, the resident, occupant, or owner of a structure shall cause the assigned address number to be displayed upon a post of suitable strength and construction, adjacent to the driveway or access of the premises. The height of the post shall not be less than six (6) feet above the level of the adjacent road and the assigned address number shall be placed on both sides of the post so as to be plainly visible from road traffic lanes in either direction of approach; and

WHEREAS, To read: Where the numbers on the front of the structure cannot be read from the road, the resident, occupant, or owner of a structure shall cause the assigned address number to be displayed upon a post of suitable strength and construction, adjacent to the driveway or access of the premises. The post must be an unobstructed 5-foot height numbered post to identify a residence. The number posted must be visible from the roadway. Another option would be to have the numbers posted on a mailbox. It does not need to be posted on both a post and the mailbox. The mailbox needs to be adjacent to the proper driveway. The assigned address number shall be placed on both sides of the post or mailbox so as to be plainly visible from road traffic lanes in either direction of approach;

NOW THEREFORE BE IT RESOLVED, that the County Board of Commissioners hereby adopts the above outlined amendment and requests that the amendment be published as required by law.

CHARLEVOIX COUNTY ORDINANCE NO. 4

FIRE AND BURGLAR ALARM ORDINANCE AN ORDINANCE REGULATING AND LICENSING AUTOMATIC TELEPHONE, FIRE AND BURGLAR ALARM SYSTEMS

PREAMBLE

The Board of Commissioners of the County of Charlevoix have determined that the health, safety and welfare of the inhabitants of the county would be better served by establishing regulations for the installation and use of telephone, fire, and burglar alarms.

Section 1. It shall be unlawful for any person to install, operate, use or maintain any automatic telephone burglar, fire or alarm system programmed to dial any number regularly listed under COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX, without having first applied for and been granted, a permit for such system by the Charlevoix County Building Inspection Department.

Section 2. It shall be unlawful for any person to permit or cause any such telephone system to call or connect to any COUNTY OF CHARLEVOIX, listed or unlisted, telephone numbers other than those telephone numbers duly authorized and designated by the Charlevoix County Building Inspection Department, as shown on the permit.

Section 3. A) Application for a permit shall be accompanied by the payment of an initial permit fee of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars.

B) The annual renewal fee for said permit shall be Fifty ($50.00) Dollars.

Section 4. All vendors and/or installers of such automatic telephone alarm systems shall, each January first, submit to the Charlevoix County Building Inspection Department, a complete and accurate report detailing all systems presently being used within the County of Charlevoix. This report shall designate: owner's name and address, name and address of equipment operator and instructions for locating the system if activated.

Section 5. At the discretion of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners, authorized and designated telephone numbers servicing automatic telephone systems may be changed from time to time as circumstances warrant. In the event of such change, due notice shall be provided to persons holding permit. After the effective date of such change, only the newly authorized telephone numbers shall be used by automatic telephone systems within the County of Charlevoix.

Section 6. A) The alarm user shall be required to pay to the County of Charlevoix, the sum of One Hundred ($100.00) Dollars for every false alarm generated by the user's system(s). A false alarm shall be defined as any alarm condition which is registered with the Sheriff's Department, other police or fire agencies, or the 911 dispatch authority, not resulting from criminal activity for which the alarm was intended. Fifty $50.00 dollars shall go to the County's General Fund and Fifty ($50.00) dollars to the responding agency.

B) In addition any alarm user whose system generates a false alarm shall be liable for the expenses incurred by a responding agency. When a police department responds, the expense shall be charged at the hourly rate of the police personnel responding. When a fire department responds the expense shall be the average fire run cost of the department for personnel and equipment.

C) If an alarm is accidentally set off by the user or his designee, said owner or designee shall have three (3) minutes to notify the Sheriff's Department, or the 911 dispatch authority, to avoid the false alarm fee.

D) Storm conditions setting off the alarm shall be considered extenuating circumstance and shall negate the false alarm fee.

Section 7. All responding agencies shall provide the County Clerk with a statement of costs within fourteen (14) days of the false alarm. False alarm invoices shall be processed through the Charlevoix County Clerk's Office. A false alarm invoice overdue more than ninety (90) days after mailing shall result in termination of the alarm service agreement between user and the County of Charlevoix, and the alarm user shall be in violation of this ordinance. The Clerk's invoice shall include a notice to the user of their appeal rights.

Section 8. Alarm systems employing audible signals shall be equipped with an automatic shut-off device which will silence the audible signal after fifteen (15) minutes.

Section 9. User appeals for relief from provisions of this Ordinance shall be forwarded to and heard by the Public Safety Committee of the Charlevoix County Board of Commissioners. To appeal an invoice the user must notify the County Clerk in writing, within thirty (30) days after the invoice is mailed, requesting a hearing before the Public Safety Committee. The Public Safety Committee shall schedule the matter for hearing at their next regularly scheduled meeting, which hearing may be continued or adjourned by the Committee for good cause.

Section 10. All system users must complete and file the Law Enforcement and Emergency Alarm Subscriber Information form available at the Charlevoix County Building Inspection Department.

Section 11. Sections of this Ordinance shall be deemed to be severable. Should any section or provision of this Ordinance be declared unconstitutional or invalid, the same may be stricken without affecting the validity of the Ordinance as a whole or any part thereof not declared to be unconstitutional or invalid.

Section 12. Violation of any provision of this Ordinance shall be a misdemeanor and may be punishable by a fine of Five Hundred ($500.00) Dollars or ninety (90) days confinement in jail or both, plus court costs, costs of prosecution, plus fees and expenses set forth in this Ordinance.

Section 13. This Ordinance shall take effect immediately upon publication.

fee for a multiple unit motel proposed for the site.

"The present rate is prohibitive to anyone interested in building within the city limits," Themm said in a letter outlining the proposal. Because city ordinance specifies the fee for each individual hook-up as $2,400, the charge to connect the size motel proposed for the site would be about $90,000.

"I'm willing to absorb half the cost if you can lower the tap rate on that motel," he told commissioners at the June 20 meeting.

That night the commission tabled action, but they came back and gave Themm what he wanted at the next regular meeting, July 5 – sort of. When he left the meeting, he had agreed to finance the full cost of the new sewer line.

The city agreed to work with Themm's contractor to make sure the sewer line is properly installed to city specifications. After a satisfactory inspection of the completed line, the city will accept it into the city system and take over maintenance and repair.

In return, the city waived the individual tap fee and will charge only one $2,400 fee to the developer of the proposed motel.

Themm said the sewer line will open up seven or eight acres behind Glen's Market and the Express for development. He owns about four acres directly behind the Express – the motel will require an acre and a half.

A city water line is already in place. The city will give Themm permission to cross the city water easement with a special sleeve installed around the sewer line as prevention against contamination.

"There's room back there for as many as two motels, and maybe a restaurant and movie theater," said Themm. "If the city doesn't help promote this stuff, it's never gonna go."

He said he was glad the city agreed to lowering the tap rates, but feels the cost is still detrimental to development.

"Oh well, you gotta start some place," he said.

Themm is planning to sell the property once the sewer is in place. The cost of the installation could run anywhere from $4 to $8 per foot. If the line goes 800 feet, the project could cost Themm as much as $6,400, but he views it as a case of spending money to make money.

"Developers aren't interested unless the water and sewer is already on site," he said.

He is working with Jon Runquist, a Charlevoix motel developer. Themm said Runquist is considering building a motel with 36-38 units. It will be independent of any chains.

"We're probably not going to flag it (commit to a national chain)," said Themm. "We don't need to do that in East Jordan yet. We don't need to spend that kind of money."

Themm believes the development will be very good for East Jordan.

"We have a lot of people who want to stay. They don't want to go spend the night some where else. Some people will just not come at all if they don't have any place to stay in town."

"A motel will help my business, and it will help every other business in East Jordan. It'll help the city, too," he continued. "There's no negative to it."

A site plan for the sewer installation is scheduled for review by the city planning commission at a meeting Thurs., July 20, 5 p.m., at City Hall.

Bringing history to life

for proof-reading, will be the end-product of this phase.

Knight expects to have the proof ready by the end of October.

The second phase involves many decisions that will effect the cost – decisions that can not be made until the proof is approved. Knight said paper costs change constantly, another factor that makes advance decisions difficult.

"But, once we are ready for the printer," said Knight, "there will be a lot of viable options to help keep costs down." He advised the book committee to wait on decisions such as paper quality, type of cover and binding, actual size of the book, and the amount of copies to be produced.

Selling advance copies will probably be one method used to cover costs, but a price for the book can not be decided until the full printing cost is known. So the chamber and the historical society will obviously be fund-raising.

The groups plan to solicit corporate, civic group, and individual sponsorships, but the first big endeavor will be a giant garage sale, planned for Fri., Aug. 25. All the proceeds will go toward production of the book.

While more information on the event will be available later, the historical society is now collecting donations of useful items to be sold (no clothing or large appliances accepted.) To donate, contact Jim Sherman, 536-2737, or Jill Anderson, 536-2651.

Jean Pardee is still looking for articles and photos, and will accept contributions until August 1. She can be contacted at 536-2051, or materials can be dropped off at the Chamber of Commerce building on North Lake Street. Any materials used for the project, including photos, will be returned undamaged to the contributor.
