

Sidewalk Sales start busy weekend

East Jordan will be a busy place this weekend, as the city plays host to a variety of activities involving many area residents.

■ Sidewalk Sales

Plan to "shop until you drop" as East Jordan merchants hold Sidewalk Sales Days, Friday and Saturday, Aug. 25-26. The shopping marathon has been an annual Chamber of Commerce-sponsored event in East Jordan since 1968.

Many retailers will be holding special in-store drawings and give-aways, so shoppers will be very welcome inside the stores and not just at the sidewalk displays.

Chamber executive director Mary Faculak said special celebrations are also planned at the Miller Resale consignment shop, a newly opened (July) downtown shop, and at Ed's Used Cars, where they are celebrating an anniversary.

Faculak noted the sales are not limited to just downtown or Main Street merchants, so watch all your favorite shopping stops for special values.

■ Garage sale for historical collection

Save money, enjoy browsing, and help to make possible an area historical book - you can accomplish all this by attending (and/or donating to) a huge benefit garage sale, Fri., Aug. 25, from 9 a.m. to 5 p.m., at the Tourist Park Community Building.

The East Jordan Portside Art and Historical Museum Society is sponsoring the event, with all the proceeds going toward production of the East Jordan Historical Book presently in process. The book is an anthology of stories and photos about East Jordan and its people of the past (see the July 19 issue of the East Jordan Journal, Bringing History to Life.)

The society is still soliciting for donations of salable items (no clothing or large appliances, please) for the event.

■ East Jordan residents face 100-year flood

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

Dramatic flooding disrupted the lives of many East Jordan area residents Thurs., Aug. 17.

Just as dramatically, hours later, there were no signs of the deluge, except the damage homeowners and others faced in its wake.

A rain fall reported from 5 to 5.6 inches within a four to five-hour period drenched an already saturated water table, causing the overflow of all area culverts, run-off ditches, streams, ponds, creeks, and finally the Jordan River as well. Many residents woke in the early morning to find themselves ankle-deep in standing water.

Brown Creek, usually a sleepy little stream running through the east side of the city, became a foaming mass of water, leaving ruts and ridges in its path, and ripping out part of the East Jordan School District's nature walk and bridge. Much of the water gathered in the valley below Mill Street, before slowly draining across State Street in a steady stream that lasted all day.

The sight of so much water in an area usually inhabited by children at play drew many residents to stop and take photographs or videos.

The Jordan River and Deer Creek spilled over their banks, flooding many riverside homeowners. The water, filled with mud and debris, ran fast and furious into the estuary, dumping silt, large tree limbs, and other objects collected during the flooding, at the mouth of Lake Charlevoix.

The flood crest apparently occurred about 8 a.m., when waters began to recede. At its peak, many of the flooded houses had water to window sill height or higher.

Many of the fortunate homeowners who did not find themselves under water discovered the erosion of their driveways or roads to a non-passable state. Washouts along the shoulders of many roads, especially East Jordan-Boyer City Road, jeopardized road-bed integrity, as well as causing ruts too large to cross for many connected gravel drives.

In Advance, the shoulder washout was deep enough to cause the collapse of Ferry Road.

City and county road crews worked through the day on damage control, replacing lost dirt and gravel in some places, and collecting large piles of sand deposited on roadways by the rushing water.

Dealing with disaster

City administrator Carolyn Sutter said she directed city Department of Public Works supervisor Butch Breakey and the seven DPW employees to prioritize efforts during the flooding and aftermath to help the most people or prevent property damage at the most residences.

One of the primary jobs of city workers was keeping all possible drainage courses free of the dirt and debris that kept collecting with the water.

"All the funnels filled quickly," said Sutter. "While there were no blockages until the flow started, just keeping debris out of the system was a full time job."

Sutter said the city sewer system was overloaded by all the water, and the troubled sewer main under Memorial Bridge was taxed to capacity. She noted the pumping system moved 966,000 gallons of water Thursday, compared to a daily norm of 275,000 gallons.

"We assume that we had some leakage," she said. The city immediately took measures to notify and request residents use the system as little as possible on Thursday and Friday. The city beaches were also posted, asking people to stay away from the water through Friday.

Sutter said she knew many residents had water in their basements, but she had received no reports of sewage backup into homes or businesses.

With clean up efforts in full swing, Sutter said some heavy equipment for moving dirt deposits will have to be rented, but she reported, "We haven't found any big damage."

Patrick and Cheryl McLaren were not as fortunate. Their home's foundation was completely exposed as rushing water washed away the supporting earth.

Sutter believes the situation, which she said appears to be the worst in East Jordan, was caused by several factors.

"The street in front of their house (Sunset Street) carried a lot of water," she said. She noted a creek behind the McLarens' home filled rapidly as well.

Perhaps the most significant contributing factor was that the home was recently connected to the city sewer system, and was surrounded by soft earth not in place long enough to become compacted. The rushing water surrounding the home carried the loose dirt away.

There was some speculation that a dam holding a trout pond on private property above the McLarens had given way, causing the massive sluice effect, and re-exposing the sewer line. But Sutter said she knew of no such dam.

Cheryl McLaren, upset and angry, could not understand why the city didn't do more to prevent the huge trench. Sutter explained that any measures, such as replacing the dirt would have been useless until the water stopped rushing, and the city didn't have the manpower or equipment to help in any case.

City equipment working just down the road from her house, at Lakewood Hill private road, was another source of distress for McLaren. She felt the city was applying a double standard. Sutter defended the DPW choice to work on Lakewood Hill.

"There were washouts of up to three feet deep, and it was on the city-owned section of the road," said Sutter. "It had to be filled in to prevent further problems downstream, and to provide emergency service for the people living on that road."

Insurance limitations

Sutter said the city would try to help the McLarens and everyone else with damage caused by the flooding, through coordinating with area insurance agencies to get state and federal disaster aid.

"We will see if we can meet the thresholds (set by government to determine the extent of aid, if any)," said Sutter. She said the determination will probably take several days.

Government aid may be the only help for many residents - few flooded homeowners had any flood insurance. Cheryl McLaren, meeting with her insurance adjuster Thursday morning, was told her homeowner's policy would not cover the damage.

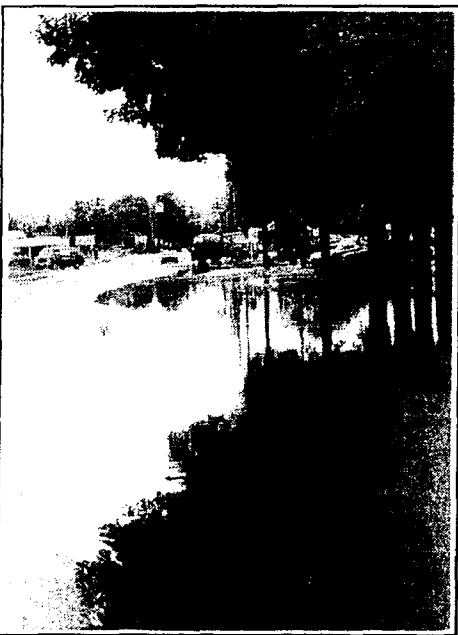

"But he gave me the phone number of a minister," she said, shrugging.

Even if Cheryl McLaren, or most of the other flooded homeowners, had wanted to buy flood insurance, they wouldn't be eligible. Only those owning property in specific government-designated areas can purchase the insurance, which Insurance Shop of East Jordan agent Mike Burr called "expensive, with high deductibles and a lot of restrictions."

So few properties in the East Jordan area are eligible that Burr was unfamiliar with writing applications for such a policy. So is Sue Pennington, an agent at Korhase Insurance of East Jordan. But Pennington said she actually wrote one flood insurance policy during the past year.

"It was required by the bank as part of the loan," said Pennington. She is not sure about which areas in East Jordan are eligible, but believes only properties near the Jordan River qualify.

Fortunately, the lack of eligibility is a problem most East Jordan residents will only have to face this one time - if, like many are calling it, this actually was a 100-year flood.

Business owners, homeowners, and renters alike found themselves in the same boat Thurs., Aug. 17, when a once-in-a-lifetime combination of circumstances caused flooding throughout the area.

Businesses along Main Street were greeted with wet basements that morning, and in some cases, such as Valley Graphics facing Spring Street, with a wet ground floor.

"They couldn't turn on their computers there," reported Carol Huckle. She said the basement flooded at her own shop, Huckle's Gallery, as well.

There were reports that most of the Main Street businesses, including the East Jordan Iron Works, had some flooding.

Residents all over the city and beyond faced wet feet and water-soaked belongings as they climbed out of bed early Thursday morning. People heading to work found their driveways eroded away, their roads impassable with high water, or washed away all together.

Probably hardest hit was the McLaren family, at 930 Sunset (Boyne City Road.) Recent excavation around their approximately 100-year-old home to connect to the

That dirt was apparently vulnerable to the rushing water that surrounded the home - water from at least two directions, with the house located at the convergence of several hills.

Cheryl McLaren spent Thursday morning in a state of shock. The tiny creek behind her house, though still running more heavily than usual, had subsided substantially after 11 a.m. Cheryl said the flooding began around 7 that morning, and it was all over by 10 a.m.

Now she was surveying the damage - a huge rut than runs the length of the house, exposing the newly installed sewer line. Pieces of the foundation in the older section of the home were torn away by water energy.

Ironically, there was no water in the house, but Cheryl and her family, visiting from Houston and downstate, were afraid to enter the house and gathered on the porch.

"I just don't know if the house is safe to enter," Cheryl explained. She thought there might be water in the basement, "but I'm not going down there."

She and her family described how two vehicles, parked just outside the front of the house, had the earth washed out from underneath them, and were sitting on their frames, wet on the inside as well.

Two bikes and a lawnmower were washed away from the McLaren's yard.

"A bunch of teenage boys came along and went looking for them," said Cheryl. "After awhile, they came back with both bikes. They found them way downstream."

Surveying the damage made Cheryl sick and angry. She told of her insurance adjuster's offer to give her the number of a minister.

"He said there was nothing else he could do. They won't even pay for a place for us to stay tonight - and I thought we had good insurance."

Cheryl and her husband Pat bought the house about four years ago, and have been working on renovating it ever since. The sewer connection, along with a new deck, were the most recent efforts.

"Now I don't even know if the house can be saved," she said.

Waterlogged

On the east edge of town, residents spent Thursday cleaning out or moving out.

At the home of Nick and Kim Melios, 601 State St., the swollen water table rose during the night to cover their garage and kitchen floor. Most of the yard was underwater, causing part of the driveway to collapse, leaving a huge hole.

"This never happened before," said Kim. "Sometimes in a heavy rain we might get water up to the fence (along the north edge of the property,) but never like this."

The family is renting the home from Mike Boss. Kim said they don't have flood insurance on their personal property, but they were able to move things out of the water quickly enough to prevent much damage.

"Thank God," she added.

Just around the corner and down M-32, Tanya Sulak and Jeff Beckington were moving most of their possessions out of their home at 411 South Maple.

In some ways, it appeared luck was on their side. Jeff, who runs his business - Computer Perfect - out of the home, had taken his computers with him the day before, and hadn't returned them to the house. A temporary place to stay was readily available through their landlord (and Tanya's aunt) Mary Bacon. And the water in the house didn't reach the wall outlets, so possible fire from shorted wiring was avoided.

But the couple didn't feel lucky.

"She's upset and shocked," said Tanya's grandmother Dot Waller. "They lost a lot."

The list of ruined belongings included photos, books and tapes, along with the TV/stereo system, which blew out when inundated with water. Both the couple's vehicles were flooded. And that doesn't include the possible loss of business because of disconnected phones.

Mary Bacon is pretty angry about the flooding.

"This is the state's fault, because this is a state road," she said. "I've seen this field flood many times."

She said she has complained to state authorities several times that the culvert along the road is not deep enough to drain water, so it collects in the fields surrounding the house every time there is a heavy rain.

"I've documented this before, but it's gone overboard this time."

Mary Bacon said she cannot purchase flood insurance for the property - the government didn't include the east side of the road in its designated flood plain area.

"So we're just trying to help them salvage what they can."

SALVAGING AS MUCH as possible, family and friends of Tanya Sulak and Jeff Beckington waded through knee-deep water to bring furniture out of the flooded home Thursday afternoon. At the flood's crest, the water was up to the window sills of the house.

Interested individuals may obtain a registration packet from Area Agency on Aging of Northwest Michigan by calling 1 (800) 442-1713. Forms are also available at each of the sites where Senior Games will be held.

Power station review

The preliminary results of the Big Rock Point Nuclear Power Station exercise, which tests emergency readiness, will be discussed at a Federal Emergency Management Agency (FEMA) sponsored meeting Fri., Aug. 25, 11 a.m., at the Weathervane Terrace Hotel Conference Room in Charlevoix. Members of the general public are invited to attend this meeting.

Representatives of FEMA and the Nuclear Regulatory Commission will describe preliminary findings from the exercise held earlier this week. The exercise was conducted by the Big Rock Point Power Station, the state of Michigan, and Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

Exercises are required of the power plant to maintain its license. FEMA has oversight responsibility for evaluation and approval of state and local emergency preparedness plans for areas around commercial nuclear power stations.

Soccer starts soon

Coaches and players are still needed for all age groups in East Jordan and Boyne City 4-H fall soccer teams organized by MSU Extension. The last day for player registration is Thurs., Aug. 31.

The extension office plans to have the teams organized and ready to go by the time school starts. If you can help, contact the office at 582-6232.

Duck Derby a huge success

Editor:

The second annual fund raiser for holiday decorations for East Jordan was held Aug. 11, at Elm Pointe. One hundred $100 yellow rubber ducks were sold to raise money for decorations for downtown.

With prizes totaling $5,000 many people who bought a duck came out to watch the race. This year's winners were: First - $3,000, Don and Connie Nowka; Second - $1,000, Mitch and Nancy Carey; Third - $200, Bill and Karen Lorne, Bob Tambellini and Greg Chappuies; Fourth - $200, Tootie Bartlett, Connie Roberts and Gail Bingham; Fifth - $200, the Round Table Restaurant; Sixth - $200, Jim and Lucy Lercel; and Seventh - $200, Ann Kurilchik.

Winning the Dead Duck Award for last place was Barb Worgess.

Last year was the first year for the fund raiser and proceeds went to purchase the brackets and holiday banners that lined Main and Bridge streets. This year the committee hopes to enhance the decorations and downtown with more lights.

As with any re-decorating project, the process is slow and very costly. Each year almost $5,000 goes into this effort.

If you were unable to purchase a duck but would like to support this effort, you may contact either Debbie Chappuies or Laura Hansen, or send your donation directly to the city of East Jordan.

The committee would like to thank all of the people who purchased a duck this year, J. & J. Bakery and Deli for the catering, and Valley Graphics for the underwriting of the tickets. We hope you will all continue to support the efforts of the Decoration Committee in the future.

Poets published in anthology

SHARON WALKER of East Jordan recently had one of her original poems published in the Best Poems of 1995, a treasury of poetry compiled by the National Library of Poetry. The poem is entitled Hold Our Lord God Up the Highest.

The publishers reviewed thousands of submitted poems and other anthologies before selecting about two percent for publication in this special volume. The fine quality hard bound books are printed on French marbled vellum, with the edges finished in gold leaf. The book is also available on cassette tape.

Walker has also been selected for next year's publication, The Best Poems of 1996. Past National Library of Poetry publications she has poems in include: The Coming of the Dawn (1993); Dance on the Horizon (1994); Dusting Off Dreams (1994); and Echoes in the Silence (1995).

She received Editor's Choice Awards for the past three years, and was recently invited to attend the Washington convention of the International Society of Poets, to receive a nomination for Poet of the Year, 1995.

The National Library of Poetry seeks to discover and encourage poets like Walker by sponsoring contests that are open to the public, and by publishing selected poems in widely distributed hardback volumes.

Walker has been writing for about 15 years. Her favorite subjects and ideas are God and Christ Jesus, nature, personal poems and motor sports.

KIMBERLY SOLOMON of Charlevoix was also recently published in a National Library of Poetry's anthology, East of the Sunrise. Her poem is called Through the Eyes of a Child, and expresses hope in a cynical world. Solomon has been writing poetry for about 13 years, and her favorite subjects and ideas are herbs, aroma therapy, and reactions and thoughts on the world around her.

Take note!

"A man's heart deviseth his way; but the Lord directeth his steps."

What is in our heart usually shows in our face and has a significant bearing on our attitude towards others and life itself.

Consider the following: Out of darkness shall come dawn, out of winter shall come spring, out of striving shall come peace. Not by our strength but by the grace of God.

Each new day brings a challenge. We all experience bad days, when we feel ill, disappointed, frustrated, even fearful. As a child of God, He sees us through those times.

You feel God just doesn't answer your prayers? Don't give up - be patient and remember God's timing is not our timing and God is in control and makes no mistake. If need be, pray without ceasing.

I remember when I was a new babe in Christ. I didn't even realize when a prayer was answered. I think in horror of my prayer list - it sounded like a wish list for Santa Claus.

I'm afraid some children in the secular world look at Santa Claus as a god - the giver of good things. It would be better to bring your children up in the truth. Be obedient to God's word yourself, for children have an affinity for copying their parents, good or bad. Be a good example and show love for others.

We are to emulate Jesus and embrace all mankind. It always bears repeating - don't wait - today, now, is the time of salvation. Don't continue to go through life on an uneven keel, floundering in sin, full of regrets and fears.

The valleys in our lives we easily handle, but it is the mountains that challenge us, slow our progress, or bog us down completely. Then what? Turn to God, and with prayer and supplication gain strength, wisdom and assurance, for with God all things are possible.

God gives each of us a choice. Take note and become a winner. To God be the glory!

Special van donated to Charlevoix Area Hospital

Dorothy B. Rothschild visited Charlevoix Area Hospital recently to formally transfer ownership of a specially equipped van used by her late husband A. Frank Rothschild.

Mr. Rothschild, a long-time Charlevoix summer resident and prominent Chicago financier, died in February following a long and debilitating illness.

"Mr. and Mrs. Rothschild have always been wonderful supporters of Charlevoix Area Hospital, and we certainly appreciate this gift," said hospital president Richard L. Krueger.

The van, which is equipped with a wheelchair lift, will probably be used by the hospital to transfer patients to and from other health care facilities and to other hospitals for diagnostic tests, Krueger said. It will also be useful in transporting equipment and supplies shared with other area hospitals.

In presenting the van, Mrs. Rothschild said, "Frank would have liked this. He thought the world of Charlevoix Area Hospital. It meant a lot to us to have the hospital here, as it saved his life several times."

Deadline for events and announcements is Wednesday, 4 p.m.

Faith
Teaches That Work Is Always A
Noble Endeavor

When you work for a living, your faith will convey
That you're truly entitled to three meals a day;
For to work in an office, a farm or a store,
You can find opportunities out there galore.
There are places that train you, if you are sincere,
For the skills you will need for your chosen career.
Now your standard of living, whatever it's worth,
Is the envy of countries all over the earth;
So thank God for the work, as the Bible explains,
That's available now for your hands or your brains.
For whatever you do which is earning your pay,
You deserve to enjoy yourself come Labor Day.

HOLDING A COPY of Rosalind Wescott's first book are Rosalind (left) and her niece Dawn Miller, who is working on a historical novel set in the Antrim-Charlevoix county area.

Local author plans book signing

She was born in 1910, the first of 11 children born to Harry E. Batterbee and Celestia Warden.

Now Rosalind Batterbee Bundy Westcott has published a book featuring collected tales and personal remembrances of those long-ago days of the early settlement of Antrim and Charlevoix counties.

"The book was really not my idea. But my oldest brother's daughter, Dawn Miller, thought (the material) ought to be kept," said the East Jordan resident in a recent interview.

Westcott says she always had a flair for writing. By age 10, she was writing fantasy stories about an ice princess.

As she grew up, Westcott continued writing children's stories. Later the stories made regular appearances in Mancelona, Bellaire and other area newspapers.

Sometime after that Westcott began a column called "Looking Around Jordan Township" that appeared in local newspapers for years.

In addition to her own observations about life and nature, Westcott wrote about the history of other families in the area, or allowed others to tell their stories through her column. Prodded by Miller, Westcott began going through the old columns last fall.

Westcott's first book, Pioneer Potpourri, was published this year. Those interested in the book or in meeting the author might want to circle two dates in their calendars:

■ On Sat., Sept. 16, from 11 a.m. to 1 p.m. there will be a book signing at Busy Bridge Antiques and Gifts, 207 Main, East Jordan.

■ On Thurs., Sept. 21, from 7-9 p.m. there will be a book signing at the Mancelona Public Library at 202 W. State Street.

Cystic fibrosis campaign begins

The Cystic Fibrosis Foundation recently announced the local chairperson of the "Breath of Life" Campaign. Linda Lou Barnes of East Jordan will be looking for 10 to 20 volunteers to help in the march against cystic fibrosis.

As chair, Barnes will organize the local campaign to raise money for research, education, diagnosis and treatment of cystic fibrosis. The local goal for 1995 is $300. The past record for the East Jordan area is $438.

September has been designated by the National Health Council as the month the CF Foundation promotes their major education and fund-raising campaign. The United States Congress has also formally declared September as CF month nationwide.

Cystic fibrosis is still the leading genetic cause of death among children and young adults - average patients will live only until their late 20s. The greatest health problems in cystic fibrosis patients are caused by increased lung damage from repeated infections, and by malnutrition from inadequate digestion of food.

With early diagnosis, daily therapy, and medication, the quality and length of a child's life is improved.

"Although great strides have been made in treating CF and extending life expectancy," reports state campaign chair Gene Riley, "It is estimated that every day three people die from CF. We're hoping this year's Breath of Life Campaign in Michigan will help change those numbers for the better."

Riley noted research can't continue without financial support, but with it, progress toward conquering CF with a cure is within reach.

again ... and again ... and again ...

BY DEB SAYGERS HOBBS
Journal Editor

Ask a group of nine Wilson Road area neighbors what the most interesting thing they did this summer was, and you'll get no hesitation on the answer.

That's because the group took part in a shore-to-shore trail ride sanctioned by the Michigan Trail Riders Association. The 15-day (June 17 to July 1) trip covered 230 miles from Oscoda to Empire.

Along the way, the group faced sometimes miserable conditions — oppressive heat, black flies and mosquitoes, sore muscles, heat rash, primitive campsites — yet they all claim they had a great time!

Part of the reason is because they had such great partners — not just each other, but Sinjan, Candy, Chelsea, and Sheik, among others — partners who made it all possible.

Their partners, of course, are horses. And although conditions were sometimes tough, the participants also had plenty of time to play, talk, sing, enjoy each other's company, make friends, and do the activity closest to their hearts — ride.

Rising before dawn to get an early (5:30 a.m.) start on each day, the riders traveled from 14 to 25 miles per day, with one 35-mile day. That one day was a killer, said the youngest rider, Sadie Belford, age 9.

"We kept asking are we almost there, and this guy said it's just over the next hill," Sadie recalled. "After about the third hill, we figured he was just telling a lie!"

Although experienced riders, Sadie and her sister Carrie, 14, were taking their first shore-to-shore ride, as were Jennifer and Bethany Stackus, cousins who are both 15. Their adult partners were Jan Swanson, and Lorraine and Melanie Sims, all experienced long-trail riders.

The Belford girls' mom, Bardell, and Jennifer's mom, Diane, served as "rig riders," moving the camper and supplies from one campsite to the next while the others rode.

Even though they weren't riding, Diane said they had plenty to keep them busy — setting up camp, and water for the horses, and planning, shopping for, and preparing meals.

"Just when we would get relaxed with a book," Diane complained good-naturedly, "The group would come riding in."

They usually rode from six to eight hours a day, two to three days on, then a day off the trail. Everyone enjoyed the days off as much as the days on, participating in activities with the other 243 riders on the trip. During some layovers, swimming was the choice activity, but organized events such as a costume parade, all kinds of contests, and "goofy" awards (for such antics as being dumped in the water by your horse) added to the fun.

While the riding was usually lighthearted, there were serious moments as well.

"We were the only group wearing helmets full time," Jan said, "And we 'used' the helmets three times in falls." Young Sadie gave them a scare when her horse Candy stopped fast and snapped Sadie out to the ends of her reins before she thumped to the ground. They were all relieved when she popped up laughing.

Carrie also caused some anxiety when she suffered heat exhaustion early in the ride. She had to take a couple days off to rest, but was happy to rejoin the riders.

Jan said it is important to condition both the horses and the riders before such a long ride.

"If you don't, they really suffer," she explained. During the ride, the horses must be given sufficient water and salt, or they begin to lose nutrients and weight.

The riders saw for themselves the sad effects of being slack with the treatment of the horses, when other trail riders lost horses. Three horses died during the trip, when their kidneys shut down.

But the horses in the East Jordan group all did very well, as did the riders. It was a big thrill when they led their animals into the cooling waters of Lake Michigan, after leaving the waters of Lake Huron two weeks before.

The younger girls all felt the trip was worthwhile, and said they would like to do it again.

"It's great meeting all the different people, and seeing how everyone rides differently," said Jennifer. The horse-lover in her had to add, "And seeing all the different horses!"

"They really learn a lot," agreed Jan, who is already planning next year's trip.

"If you ask us right after the trip will we ever go again," added Lorraine, laughing, "We always say no way. But after a year, we're itching to go again — morons that we are!"

LAYOVER ANTICS included a costume parade. Carrie Belford poses as the sheriff who brought the robber (sister Sadie, hanging over the horse) to justice. Chelsea the horse was a cooperative collaborator in the joke.

From Looking around Jordan Township by Mrs. Vern Bundy (Rosalind Westcott) East Jordan News-Herald, Aug. 21, 1958

Now that we are again able to cross the Chestonia Bridge, we are better able to admire and appreciate the improvement that has been made there. Besides the better road, it is now possible to go through the tile beneath the road with a boat. This should be of interest to all boating enthusiasts whether they are focused on fishing or plain sightseeing.

Mrs. Anna Kotovich was honored at a surprise birthday party Tuesday at the Vern Bundy home. Those present were Flora Pinney, Rena Morris, Minnie Gould, Bernice Johnson, Beatrice Hart, Flora Church, Anna Kotovich and her daughter, Helen Coon, of Boyne City. Ice cream and cake were served and Mrs. Kotovich received many beautiful gifts, including some from friends who were not able to attend.

North Flight accredited

Munson Healthcare's North Flight medical air service recently joined the elite ranks of just 30 other medical air services in the country by receiving the Commission on Accreditation of Air Medical Services (CAAMS) approval.

The CAAMS accreditation is a voluntary process where the medical standards of patient care are rigorously scrutinized.

"Previously we examined our program from a safety perspective," said Program Manager and Flight Paramedic Joel Baillie. "The CAAMS accreditation completes the circle by measuring it against medical standards established by all disciplines of the aeromedical profession."

North Flight operates an American Eurocopter, A Starhelicopter and a Cessna 401 airplane for longer distance transports. The accreditation covers both rotor and fixed-wing crafts. Of the six air medical services in Michigan, North Flight is the third to achieve CAAMS approval and only the 30th out of 230 programs in the country. It was also North Flight's first application.

"We're preparing for the future," said Baillie. "The programs that survive will be quality programs providing cost-effective service."

North Flight's service has been in operation since June of 1986. Since that time it has completed 4,875 successful helicopter transports and 1,033 airplane transports. This past July was the busiest ever with 97 patient transports.

Staff is comprised of four pilots, two mechanics and 23 medical crew members, which include flight nurses, paramedics and communication specialists. Curt Mikulski, M.D., serves as the Medical Director and flies as a crew member. There is also a specialty team for neonatal transfers.

"We basically cover the entire northern portion of the lower peninsula, including Sault Saint Marie and Mackinac Island," said Baillie. "With our new CAAMS accreditation, we're able to say to those who use our service that we meet and in some circumstances, exceed industry standards of care and safety."

the place in the 1800s.

Taken over in 1900 by John Jones, it has been in almost constant residence ever since, sheltering five generations of his family.

At one time, this house was part of a good-sized community, in the area chosen by the first English speaking settlers of Jordan Township. Many of the first families settled originally in "The Rockery," and the community school was always known by that name.

In the years since, much of the community has shifted nearer town - people have moved, passed away or rebuilt. Few of the early families remain, and one by one, the old first residences have burned. Now the Calkins house is the only one left - like a lone soldier left standing on the field.

It was 2 a.m. when Mrs. Morris was roused from her sleep by the sound. After rising, putting out the light and retiring again, she found the sound which she had taken to be a motor in the yard was still continuing.

Rising again to investigate, she found the outer rooms in flames. There were six people sleeping in the house - four of them on the second floor - and her first thought was to rouse them all, including her daughter Fern, who she sent to call the fire department.

They were able to save most of their dining and front room furniture, but only the washer from the back rooms. Their overall loss has not been estimated as yet. They have a partial coverage by insurance, but their most immediate needs are cooking utensils. I suggest this to anyone who wishes to help a little - a pan and a pound!!!

Mr. and Mrs. Marty Derhammer of Battle Creek have opened their cottage for the Morris family's use until other arrangements can be made.

Young drivers crash more, statistics say

Younger drivers are three times as likely to be involved in a traffic accident, compared to motorists aged 65-74. This is one finding from statistics recently released by the Michigan State Police and compiled by Michigan Association of Insurance Companies (MAIC).

The data also indicate young driver crashes tend to be more deadly.

"About 15 percent of drivers aged 16-24 are involved in a traffic accident each year," according to Terry

Buckles, president of MAIC. "By comparison, only five percent of 65- to 74-year-olds have a roadway crash."

Buckles also noted that 16- to 24-year-old drivers have much greater involvement in fatal accidents than other age groups.

"Younger motorists continue to have more accidents and more costly accidents," Buckles said. "That's the reason they pay more for car insurance. The higher price is a reflection of higher insurance pay-out."

A younger person who is the principal driver of a motor vehicle typically pays 40 to 200 percent more for coverage than older drivers, according to the MAIC official. This surcharge is reduced as the driver grows older.

The insurance spokesman offered the following suggestions for controlling the cost of auto insurance:

- Drive less. Rates are determined by the amount and type of driving you do.
- Select your car carefully. Rates are based on its cost, repairability and performance characteristics.
- Coordinate Personal Injury Protection (PIP) coverage if you have other accident and health insurance.
- Choose higher deductibles on collision and comprehensive coverages.
- Consider a more economical type of collision insurance, but make sure you understand when you are covered and when you are not.
- If you have an older car, consider dropping both collision and comprehensive coverage.
- Drive carefully. Most traffic tickets and at-fault accidents will automatically increase your rates.

EJPD weekly report

August 10

At approximately 7:55 p.m., a two-vehicle property accident occurred when Aaron Aydrott, driving a 1985 Nissan pickup, struck a stopped 1991 Chevrolet pickup driven by Benjamin Schroeder. The accident took place in Glen's Plaza parking lot. Both drivers were wearing seatbelts and no injuries were reported.

August 11

Kimberly Snowden was traveling south in her 1992 Pontiac on M-66 near Bridge St., about 7 a.m. When she reached the intersection, Snowden attempted to turn left, but failed to use her turn signal. Bradford Louiselle, traveling south in a 1989 Chevrolet, was passing Snowden on the left, and the two vehicles collided. Both drivers were wearing seatbelts and did not report injuries.

August 14

An accident involving one vehicle occurred about 1 p.m., in the E-Z Mart parking lot, when Felice Evola, driving a 1990 Ford, struck a pole.

Guns taken in break-in Three firearms were reported missing from a residence at 337 Old State Rd., in Jordan Township, Aug. 11.

Unknown suspects entered the cabin through a north-side door. Something was stuck between the screen door and frame to lift the drop lock, then a small window in the main door was punched out.

Stolen from the living room was a Samsing VCR, and foot lockers elsewhere in the home were opened. Also taken was a Browning 32-gauge semi-automatic, a Crossman pellet gun pistol, and a .22-caliber Winchester bolt-action rifle.

VCR stolen from home

A $150 VCR appears to be the only item missing from a home at 5472 Kidder Rd., in Echo Township.

A cleaning lady was at the residence when she discovered the theft July 28. There was no sign of forced entry.

Postal route changes

Due to the growth in the East Jordan area, the East Jordan Post Office is making some changes. Two new rural routes have been added, while former routes have been adjusted.

Postmaster Sanford Washburn said he believes the changes will allow better service and possibly an earlier delivery time for some customers. He is requesting rural customers have outgoing mail in their boxes by 10 a.m. to ensure pickup.

Big Rock names maintenance manager

Donald D. Hice has been named maintenance manager at Consumers Power Company's Big Rock Point nuclear power plant. He assumed his new duties Aug. 7.

Hice, 39, had been the training director at the utility's Palisades nuclear power plant since 1993. He joined Palisades in 1976 as a chemistry and health physics technician. In 1978 he accepted a position in the chemistry department at the Midland nuclear plant project and in 1984 returned to Palisades as a chemistry supervisor.

Hice transferred to Big Rock Point in 1985, where he worked in the operating experience area and earned certification as a senior reactor operator. In 1989 he returned to Palisades as the chemistry and radioactive waste superintendent.

In his new position, he will be responsible for the overall maintenance of the plant.

Hice earned an associate's degree in chemistry from Ferris State University, a bachelor's degree in mechanical engineering from Saginaw Valley College and a master's degree in management from Aquinas College.

"Don's knowledge of Big Rock Point and familiarity with our employees will serve him well as he builds upon the improvements his predecessor Darrel Turner has implemented," said Pat Donnelly, Big Rock Point plant manager. "His unique experience with the Diagnostic Evaluation Team and process improvement plan at Palisades will help us communicate expectations throughout the plant."

Hice, his wife Jacqueline, and their two children plan to relocate to the Charlevoix area.

Hice replaces Darrel G. Turner, who accepted a job with the Big Rock Point Decommissioning Plant Team. In his new position, Turner will manage the development, design, licensing and procurement of a dry transportable canister system for interim storage of Big Rock Point's spent fuel.

Big Rock Point was the world's first high power-density boiling water reactor and an important research site for the nuclear power industry. The plant has generated electricity since 1962 and was named a Nuclear Historic Landmark by the American Nuclear Society.

Owned and operated by Consumers Power Company, Big Rock Point is capable of producing 67 megawatts of electricity, enough to serve a community of 38,000 people.

Consumers Power Company, the principal subsidiary of CMS Energy Corporation, is Michigan's largest natural gas and electric utility serving more than six million of the state's nine and one-half million residents in all 68 Lower Peninsula counties.

■ Lake Charlevoix walleye tournament

Catch the big one and win cash when the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce presents the second annual Lake Charlevoix Walleye Tournament, Saturday and Sunday, Aug. 26-27.

Two-man teams will ply the South Arm and beyond to try to bring in the most weight in walleye over the two-day period for cash prizes for as much as $4,250 (based on a full field of 125 teams,) as well as trophies for the first four teams. The top 12 teams can expect to receive a cash prize.

Many teams are returning from last year's event, with a number of new teams as well, and every fishing team will be out to win.

It's not too late to join the competition - entry forms are still available for the tournament, which begins and ends at the East Jordan City Marina. Entry fees are $110 per team. Persons under age 17 must team with a parent or guardian. For more information, or to obtain an entry form, contact the chamber office at 536-7351.

Sheriff issues intersection alert

Charlevoix County Sheriff George T. Lasater has issued an alert to motorists in Charlevoix County about two intersections that have become particularly dangerous this summer.

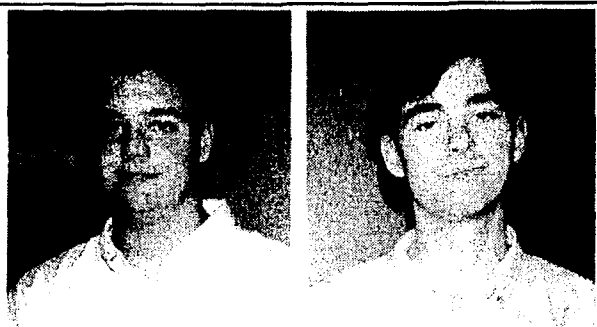

Lasater is advising drivers to be very cautious at the intersection of US-31 and Boyne City-Charlevoix Road, just north of Charlevoix, and at US-131 and M-75N in Melrose Township near Walloon Lake. A total of 10 accidents at the two intersections this summer have resulted in a fatality and a number of injuries.

A Boyne City woman was killed at the Charlevoix intersection in late June; two East Jordan summer residents, Dennis and Marilyn Jesiek, were injured in the same accident. Three more accidents at the same site this summer caused two other injuries and property damage to several vehicles.

The Walloon Lake intersection has been the site of five accidents involving personal injuries to eight people, and another property damage accident.

The sheriff said several of the accidents were caused by visual obstruction by a vehicle turning on to the secondary road from the highway. Stopped motorists apparently proceeded without noticing other traffic on the US highways.

Lasater has requested the Michigan Department of Transportation evaluate these intersections for modifications. In the meantime, the sheriff asks that motorists proceed with extreme caution at these sites.

Conducting city survey

Matt Kamradt (left) and Tracy Brooks, both East Jordan High School seniors, are conducting a family income survey for the City of East Jordan. The students are collecting data, in a random sampling of East Jordan households, on household numbers, ownership, and range of income (all information will be held confidential.) The finished survey will be a tool to support any city request for grant funds.
