

A sunny start to the week was soon eclipsed by gray skies and gusty midweek winds. Daytime highs in the upper 20s to low 30s, with nights dropping into the teens. Saturday saw a return to bright sunshine, with highs in the upper 30s. Sunday brought the week's first real snow, 2 inches by midday, turning to rain as the mercury crept above freezing. The warm-up continued overnight, with readings in the mid-40s by early Monday. Rain turning to snow, high winds and falling temperatures predicted. Total snowfall: 230 inches. LAST YEAR: a mild week with temps in the 40s and 50s. Total snow: 172 inches.

Five will vie for Miss EJ crown

BY IRENA GRANAAS
Journal Editor

On Sat., April 20, a group of East Jordan High School students are slated to compete for the title of Miss East Jordan.

Kristy Bennett, Charissa Gulotta, Erica Kroush, Melissa Renkiewicz and Angela Snyder have officially thrown their hats into the ring for next month's pageant. The quintet, all seniors, met the press March 14 to discuss their contest aspirations.

Angela Snyder

Pageant organizers said over $2,200 in scholarships will be awarded, and all entrants will receive something. The event starts at 7 p.m., in the high school auditorium.

■ Kristina Kay Bennett, 17, is a treasurer for SADD (Students Against Drunk Driving) and a member of PRIDE (Peace, Responsibility, Individuality, Diversity and Equality), an organization to boost students' sensitivity to and awareness of prejudice toward people of different races, ethnic backgrounds, or toward those who have disabilities.

She plays basketball and is also a cheerleader. Kristina's hobbies include skiing, shopping, and "Hanging out with my friends." She is thinking about a dramatic or comedy reading for the talent portion of the pageant.

"I think it'll be a great experience, and it'll give me an opportunity to get a scholarship — and that'll help me a lot in college," said Kristina when asked why she is entering the pageant.

Kristina is the daughter of Randy and Kitty Bennett and Barbara and Dave Zynewicz.

■ Charissa Marie Gulotta, 17, is vice-president of the EJ Student Council, and also belongs to SADD, PRIDE and the National Honor Society (NHS).

The athletic student plays basketball, volleyball and softball, and Charissa also enjoys in-line skating, working out and being with friends. With a background including dance, violin, and gymnastics, Charissa has several talent options going for her.

"It sounds like a lot of fun. It's good, because no matter what, you get a scholarship, so it helps out with college," she said when asked why she entered the pageant.

Charissa is the daughter of Marlynn Hughes and Garold Myers, and James and Debra Gulotta.

■ Erica Anne Kroush, 18, does volunteer work on behalf of Grandvue residents.

She likes spending time with friends and collecting shoes, and keeps fit with tennis and aerobics. While she hasn't decided on a pageant talent, Erica is leaning toward either a comedy sketch or a dramatic reading.

She is a member of the volleyball team.

"Just for the experience of competing, because I've never done this before and to increase my confidence," she replied when asked her reason for entering. "It'll be a way to learn how to handle high-pressure stress situations."

Erica is the daughter of Dee and David Bellmer and Walt Kroush.

■ Melissa Marie Renkiewicz, 17, belongs to SADD and PRIDE. Her hobbies include shopping and skiing.

Melissa plays basketball and is a cheerleader, and has also been involved in band for five years. She will probably play the trumpet during the talent section of the pageant.

"It's something I've been interested in since I've been in high school," she said in giving her reason for entering.

Melissa is the daughter of Tom and Robin Renkiewicz.

■ Angela Renee Snyder, 17, is a member of the Drama Club — in fact, anyone who attended the recent performances of the musical Annie would have seen Angela, who had a role in the play. She has also sung at her church.

Sport activities include basketball, volleyball and softball.

Angela is entering "Because I think it'd be fun, and so I can get a scholarship for college."

She is the daughter of Jack and Sharon Snyder.

Airport accident takes life of Boyne City man

BY IRENA GRANAAS
Journal Editor

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's office is investigating a fatal aircraft accident that occurred Sat., March 23 at the East Jordan Airport.

Killed was pilot James Carl Gene, 55, of Boyne City, the plane's lone occupant. Sheriff George Lasater reported that the retired DNR conservation officer was approaching the east end of the runway at approximately 2:30 p.m. when witnesses state he dropped the plane nose first onto the runway.

The incident will be investigated by the Federal Aviation Administration (FAA), with assistance from the sheriff's office.

"The FAA has taken over the investigation, and an autopsy has been ordered," confirmed Lasater Monday. "We're still following up on some eyewitness accounts."

The sheriff department was assisted at the scene by the East Jordan Police Department, East Jordan Ambulance, East Jordan Fire Department, East Jordan Airport Manager Sanford Sweet and several DNR officers.

FMB to offer on-line banking

A strategic alliance that will change the way people bank was announced March 15 by First Michigan Bank Corporation and Intuit Inc.

Through this partnership, FMB will make on-line banking and bill payment available this fall to customers using Intuit's Quicken personal financial management software.

On-line banking, part of the FMB Direct menu of electronic banking services, will also be available via Intuit to America Online subscribers later this year.

"This partnership, as finalized today, expands FMB's commitment to customer convenience," said Steve Stream, president and chief operating officer of FMB. "Research shows that a substantial number of customers have the hardware and software to bank online, and that they are interested in doing so."

About 53 percent of FMB customers interviewed in a December 1995 survey, with access to a personal computer at home or work, said they would be likely or very likely to bank by computer if the option were available.

FMB customers will be able to download and reconcile deposit accounts, and check the balance on their FMB credit card. They will be able to transfer funds between accounts and communicate with the bank via e-mail. Subscribers can save time and postage by paying bills online. Customers will also have the option of getting stock quotes online as well.

FMB is one of 38 financial institutions in the United States to partner with Intuit. It will take several months to install and test the software necessary to run on-line banking, but customers who sign up for the program in advance of its official introduction will have their first monthly service charge waived.

State commission on aging explores issues

Seventeen people were named March 15 to a task force to address the disparity in administrative funding among the state's Planning and Service Areas (PSAs) and the accountability of Area Agencies on Aging (AAAs) to local units of government, said Carol M. Parr, Acting Director of the Michigan Office of Services to the Aging, the state agency that will oversee the work of the task force.

"The individuals who have agreed to participate represent a variety of interests, backgrounds and geographic areas. I believe it is a good group to tackle very tough issues with candor, sensitivity, and an abiding concern for meeting the needs of Michigan seniors fairly, and with efficiency and cost effectiveness," said commissioner Elwin Johnson, who appointed the task force.

The group is expected to complete its recommendations by June of this year. The first meeting will be held Thurs., March 28, at the Michigan Manufacturers Association, 620 S. Capitol Ave., Lansing, from 10 a.m. to 4 p.m. All meetings will be open to the public.

Blood drive dedicated to Larry Gee

The American Red Cross has scheduled a community blood drive Tue., April 2, for the East Jordan area.

The blood drive will be held from 8:30 a.m. to 2:30 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

The East Jordan Student Council has dedicated the blood drive to high school teacher Larry Gee, who is hospitalized at Northern Michigan Hospital for treatment of leukemia. The students have set a goal of gathering 100 units of blood, which would be the largest amount ever obtained during their blood drives.

The students encourage the community to support the Red Cross in honor of Gee.

Jordan memories

From Looking around Jordan Township by Mrs. Vern Bundy (Rosalind Westcott)
East Jordan News-Herald,
Dec. 6, 1956

This story begins for us in 1884, when Lauchlin McClean, who lived on the crossroads east of East Jordan, was at long last able to welcome his relatives who had traveled all the long miles from Glasgow, Scotland to join him in this new country.

East Jordan at this time was embroiled in a bitter fight with Boyne City over the question of who should have the county seat, a battle that East Jordan lost the next summer, giving Boyne the honor; this honor they held for 13 years.

But if East Jordan was a lively little town with a fair population for that time, Antrim County, especially that part joining Charlevoix on the south could still be considered new territory, for although the homesteaders the William Jaquays had settled in the county 17 years before and a few had followed, settling in the valley region, they had to be pretty hardy souls, for there was still a good deal of big timber and the roads (so called) were more like cow trails, winding in and out among the trees so that when someone driving oxen and wagon attempted the steeper hills, they had to contend with an impending possibility of a tongue over tailgate misadventure.

This then was the country as John Craig, lately a railroad office employee of Glasgow, and his family, saw it when they arrived at the end of their journey.

They had started months before and luck had been with them, for the long Atlantic crossing had been made in only 11 days.

When John with his wife, Catherine McClean, and their five sons landed at Mt. Forest, Canada, winter was at hand and weather conditions were such that they decided to wait for spring before going farther, for the trip was much faster and easier in those days if made by water.

Early spring found them afloat again, sailing through the treacherous waters of the Great Lakes. Changing boats at Charlevoix they took to the inland water route and finally arrived in East Jordan.

After some time spent with Catherine Craig's brother, Lauchlin McClean, they decided to settle in Antrim County; and the final selection was a well situated place in Jordan Valley, on the section line with a small creek on it and good rich soil.

After clearing a small plot of land, Mr. Craig erected a small log house which was to shelter them for several years. Those years were not easy ones — farming is never easy, and to attempt to support a family of seven on a farm that was mostly virgin timber kept them working from daylight to dark every day.

By the early 1900's John Craig had doubled his acreage by adding another plot he had obtained through negotiation with a neighbor and had now 60 acres under cultivation and had his farm well stocked with sheep, cattle, hogs and horses; the latter being a specialty with him, for horses were at a premium at that time.

It was about time too that he homesteaded another 40-acre strip of swamp land, and from this strip he took logs for lumber to build a new and larger home. It was from here too that the eldest son Jack obtained lumber to build on his place, the farm he had bought joining his father's and on which he settled with his wife, Mabel Richard, whom he married in 1901.

These years were happy ones, but their happiness was not un-mixed with sorrow for their second son, Angus, who was 23 years of age, in the prime of his life and the height of expectation, was fatally injured in a run-away accident; and a few years later James the fourth son also lost his life in a hunting accident. These were hard blows but somehow they held up with a true Scottish perseverance.

After a long and full life Catherine Craig passed away in 1915, and John followed only three years later, leaving three sons, Jack, Charlie and George.

Charlie and George stayed on the farm keeping up the house and tending the fields until 1942 when Charlie passed away, leaving George on the farm alone.

Jack who was living with his wife Mabel on the next farm, raised a fine family of three boys and three girls and when their children were raised and nearly all married they retired from the farm and moved into East Jordan where Jack enjoyed a few years of comparative leisure, especially enjoying getting with some other old-timers sharing a few good yarns.

After Mabel's death in 1947, Jack lived with his children until he joined her in 1953.

There is now only the youngest son George left to tell the tale of the first early years in America, but if you can get him to talk he could tell you many things about the old roads, old farms, and old neighbors — John Chatterton, Bill Webster, David Ranney and John Severance are a few real people to him and his stories include some of the teachers of those times too including Mary Rogers and Frank Porter.

George finally sold the home place but it will still be known as the old "Craig Place" to many people for many years.

Though tragedy found its mark in many of the Craig name, through Jack the name will be perpetuated for many years; his eldest son, James (deceased) who married Ruby Boyer (also deceased) has three boys as well as three daughters, and Jack Jr., married to Vernetta Faust, also had a son and a daughter. Besides these his daughter Elizabeth, Mrs. Clarence Morford, has children.

Gregory is now living in Saginaw with his wife Lucille Boyer, while Ruby who is now Mrs. B. Cihak and Flora who is widow as well as brother Jack are living in East Jordan and are a well-known part of the economical and social structure of the town.

This was the way they came to be here, yes, it started way back in 1884 with a spark of adventure in a Scottish heart and the raw courage start over.

Area All-Conference honors

Fourteen athletes from Central Lake and Ellsworth schools received post-season recognition from the Great Northern Conference for their performance on the volleyball and basketball courts this winter.

In volleyball, senior Zabrina Brock from the district champion Central Lake team was named to the first team in the Ski Valley Division. Earning honorable mentions for the Trojans were junior Erin Glynn, and seniors Amanda Cain and Brooke Oliver.

Despite being in the first year of its volleyball program, Ellsworth had many strong showings and gave Central Lake a scare in the district tournament. Earning first team honors in the Northern Lakes Division were Lancer sophomores Jenny Drenth and Trina VanderArk. Junior Amanda Warner received an honorable mention.

In basketball, five Central Lake seniors received recognition. First-teamers Damian Lockhart and Damien Smith led the team to the regional finals, where they lost to eventual state runner-up Glen Lake.

The other members of the Trojan starting five – Stuart Hickman, Nate Miller and Jeff Murray – were honorable mentions.

The Ellsworth basketball team came on strong at the end of the year, led by senior and first team honoree Dom Brock.

Lancer junior Carl Vanniman received an honorable mention award.

A rolling stone gathers no moss, but gets a heck of a polish. Things are finally coming my way here at the Michigan Masonic Home at 1200 Wright Avenue, Alma.

It seems as if I have hit a happy medium between work and play. It has taken me almost 14 years to finally make up my aging mind what to do with my retirement years.

I officially retired from the Houghton Lake Community Schools June 30, 1982, and after I knocked around, keeping myself occupied by riding "shot-gun" on a newspaper route, walking endlessly up and down M-55, occasionally mowing lawns, doing laundry, meeting with my cronies at various eateries around the lake, visiting my two sons (Bradley at Suttons Bay and Steve at Midland), rubbing shoulders with such well-known politicians as Schuette, Camp, and more recently Gernat and Ance (incidentally Republicans and all winners) I tried to keep up with my duties as a Lions Club member, the Gideons, Historical Society, Houghton Lake Body and Soul Health Club, Republican party, Prudenville Baptist and Houghton Lake Wesleyan

Sax Says

Churches, chaplain of the Houghton Lake El. Playground Shrine Club, and Masonic and Shriner duties, and still found time to work full-time as a stringer for the Houghton Lake Resorter and a part-time columnist for the newly-established East Jordan Journal, covering sports, weddings, obits and features, and somehow found time to broadcast high school football and basketball contests, toast Michigan State Police retirees, and cover many activities regarding Tip-Up-Town.

All seemed to be going well. Then suddenly the dream bubble of contented retirement burst with the death of my wife, Rea Rae Smith Saxton.

With the help of my many friends in the community I bounced back a little, but with the added responsibilities, I was swamped to the point where my work as a journalist began to gradually slip.

I was having difficulty meeting deadlines and earning my keep, but my boss, editor Tom, put up with me. The crowning blow was when I was advised two years ago that I could no longer drive my automobile. That did it, and for all practical purposes I was at rock bottom.

Here's where my two boys and their spouses took over, and thanks to their efforts and those of Dr. Christopher Hough of Midland, I'm back in the saddle again.

Wish me luck as I undertake writing a book or two, providing I can somehow hook up with the Ghost Writer. I'll also be available as a speaker for athletic banquets and youth groups. That will take a heap of doing but who is to say, "It can't be done"? Not "Sax says!"

I'm looking forward to being with my readers for a long time; look what my friend Pat Marra got me into.

East Jordan native Gayle Saxton has been writing, reporting, and broadcasting sports for many years. Now a retired educator in Alma, "Sax" will share his memories of East Jordan and his many friends through this column in future issues of the Journal.

WHAT'S COOKING

Recipes designed in the kitchen of Debbie Chappuies, with East Jordan cooks in mind

Are the kids starting to bug you about coloring eggs for Easter? There is always the question of the best way to boil eggs. I have found great success with the following method. Place eggs in a single layer in a saucepan with enough cold water to be at least an inch over the eggs. Cover and bring to a good boil. Remove from heat and let stand 15-18 minutes. Pour off the water and generously run cold water over the eggs to stop them from cooking. You'll want to be prepared with plenty of eggs and a coloring kit. Don't despair if a kit is not to be found. All you need is 1 Cup of water mixed with 1/4 Cup of white vinegar and a few drops of food coloring. Once the festivities are over, the parents are usually left holding the baskets full of those wonderful eggs children now choose to ignore. There's always egg salad, potato salad or just plain salt & pepper. Another option is deviled eggs. Did you now if the filling has hot and spicy ingredients, they are "deviled": if not, they are "stuffed" eggs? This too can become boring, so I have some alternatives to the usual mayo & mustard. In all cases, gently slice the eggs in half and mash the yolks in a bowl. You then add your choice of ingredients, mix well and either spoon or pipe (using a pastry bag) the mixture back into the eggs and garnish with a sprig of parsley, dill or sprinkle of paprika. Hopefully the children's interest in their lovely eggs will be renewed!

BLUE CHEESE STUFFED EGGS

12 egg yolks, 1/2 Cup crumbled blue cheese, 1/2 Cup sour cream, 1 Tbl. white vinegar, 1/4 tsp. salt. Mix this in a blender or food processor till smooth.

HAM DEVILED EGGS

Stir till smooth, 6 egg yolks, 2 Tbl. mayo, 2 Tbl. softened cream cheese, 1 tsp. mustard and 1 tsp. lemon juice. Add 3 Tbl. finely chopped cooked ham, 1/2 tsp. caraway, 2 1/4 tsp. chopped fresh dill (or 3/4 tsp. dried dill), 1/8 tsp. salt.

CHILE-CHEESE DEVILED EGGS

12 egg yolks, 1 3oz. pkg. softened cream cheese, 1 4oz. can chopped green chiles, undrained, 2 to 3 Tbl. milk and 1/4 tsp. salt. Blend in a blender or food processor.

English students speak language of first aid

BY IRENA GRANAAS
Journal Editor

The problem was one familiar to teachers — how to make a subject come alive for a class of reluctant students.

East Jordan High School teacher Kathy Drenth came up with a unique plan to meet that challenge for her English class. A certified American Red Cross Association CPR and first aid instructor, Drenth offered to teach her students community first aid and safety.

"Early on, I realized that my students were only going to get out of my class what I put into it," she said. "I had to find a way to teach a dreadful subject to students who were sure they wouldn't like anything I did ... enthusiasm, motivation and determination were key factors."

Drenth started the first aid course early in the second semester, focusing on adult patients. Skills students practiced included rescue breathing, helping the choking victim and CPR.

Next, the class learned to adjust the techniques for child and infant victims.

"The students did marvelous!" commented Drenth. "They had mastered each skill and could perform it on cue. Now, we are halfway through the unit. The students can't seem to get enough."

A visit by the Journal last week to one of Drenth's class sessions showed students' skills. Working on splints and slings, the class first watched as Drenth demonstrated, then took turns practicing their new skills on one another with the available cloth, boards and bandages.

Immobilizing a broken bone is serious business, but the classroom atmosphere was light-hearted as students made jokes during the session. However, they know their stuff, as was demonstrated by their confident responses when Drenth would fire questions at them.

Not only are students involved and motivated, each is expected to earn a first-aid certificate. Drenth notes wryly that while teaching first aid, she "sneaked in some teacher stuff" like English skills.

"We have addressed communication, both written and verbal, through demonstrations and reports," said Drenth. "The students were motivated to earn a certificate, which helped develop self-esteem for themselves, and also for others through teamwork and peer encouragement."

Students polled agreed the unusual blend of English with practical skills is working.

"It's neat, it's different. It's easy ... This would help you get a job. If someone got hurt on the job, you could help them out," said Nick Bolser.

"I like it a lot," said Tim Russell, who said he felt confident he can help someone in an emergency. "It's helped a lot as a way to learn English. I like English a lot better now."

"At the end of a two-month unit on Community First Aid and Safety, these students are walking proud, knowing that they can make a difference," Drenth said. "They have mastered the basic skills that could some day save a life. It is important to them, just as it is to our community."

CHECKING HIS WORK, Tim Russell inspects the splint on Nick Bolser's arm.

IMMOBILIZING THE ARM above and below the "break," Chris King splints Nick Bolser's arm with a board.

BY PAYING ATTENTION Angela King (right) will learn to duplicate the sling teacher Kathy Drenth is applying.

THE ILLUSTRATED BIBLE

The King of Peace

"And Jesus found a young ass and sat upon it; as it is written, 'Fear not, daughter of Zion; behold your king is coming, sitting on an ass's colt'."

— John 12: 14-15

What a dramatic contrast it must have seemed to the people of Jerusalem on that Sunday when they greeted Jesus with palms and hosannas. They were used to the panoply of the warrior kings and princes who ruled over them. Yet here was one who, proclaimed as king, came in the name of peace, clad in the white robes of purity and mounted humbly on the back of a young ass. But though there was contrast, there was similarity as well. For Jesus did come as a conqueror, one determined to triumph over evil and win the hearts and souls of the populace to God's law.

April 10 is deadline for yard cleaning

Police Chief Jerry Alward is advising local property owners to clean up any unsightly items left in their yards or risk being cited for city ordinance violations.

"It is finally spring and after a long hard winter, there are numerous items in our yards that have to be picked up and disposed of," said Alward in a recent press release.

Alward is asking people to "take pride in our city" and remove any items which would constitute an eyesore.

"Be advised that starting April 10, the police department will start issuing ordinance violations to property owners who have not cleaned up their property. After an ordinance violation is served, you will have 10 days to bring that violation back to the standards set by our city officials," said Alward.

"After the 10 days have expired and the property is still not cleaned up, the violations will be turned over to the court for further action. This year there will be no extensions given."

Police reports

Slush is accident factor

A Plainwell driver lost control of his vehicle March 24 on a slippery section of US-131 north of Boyne Falls.

Charlevoix County Deputy James Owens said Jerry Lee Greenman, 54, of Plainwell was southbound on US-131 about 3:20 p.m. when he lost control on the slushy road surface. The vehicle skidded off the roadway, traveled down into a ditch and overturned, coming to rest on its top.

Greenman's wife Carole Gean, 52, was the only passenger in the vehicle. Both were taken to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey, where they were treated for their injuries and released.

Owens said both were wearing seatbelts, which were credited for preventing more serious injuries.

The Charlevoix Sheriff Department was assisted at the scene by the Boyne Valley Fire Department and First Responders and the Boyne City Ambulance Service.

Alcohol was not a factor in the accident, which remains under investigation by the sheriff department.

Driver strikes tree

An East Jordan man lost control of his vehicle and struck a tree in a March 17 accident.

Police Chief Jerry Alward said Larry Caverly was traveling north at 4:10 a.m. on Jordan Street, near Water Street, in a 1986 Ford. Caverly lost control and struck a tree.

Alward said alcohol was a factor in the accident. Caverly did not report any injury and was reportedly wearing a seatbelt at the time of the incident.

Cars collide on icy road

A driver slid into the rear of another vehicle in a March 15 accident in which icy weather played a role.

Joseph Hammond was traveling west on Mill Street near Main Street at 9:55 a.m. in his 1984 Buick.

Police Chief Jerry Alward said while Hammond was stopped behind a vehicle that was turning, Danielle Clark was also westbound on Mill Street in her 1990 Pontiac.

Clark was unable to stop due to slippery road conditions and slid into Hammond's vehicle. There were no injuries and Alward reported both drivers were wearing seatbelts.

Passing driver strikes car

A Warren man attempting to pass another vehicle ended up hitting the other car, reported Police Chief Jerry Alward.

Catherine Steele of Dafter was traveling south on State Street March 16 in her 1994 Chevrolet at approximately 5:05 p.m., and was making a right-hand turn into a driveway with her turn signal on.

Leon Kujawski passed Steele in his 1989 Ford pickup, and while doing so he struck Steele's vehicle.

There were no injuries reported and Alward said both subjects were wearing seatbelts. Kujawski received a ticket for improper passing.

Car damaged in accident

An East Jordan woman was involved in a March 15 one-vehicle property damage accident.

Police Chief Jerry Alward said Barbara Stupyra was westbound on Union Street near Echo Street in her 1986 Dodge at about 9:15 a.m. Stupyra's car bottomed out in a furrow left in the road by the frost.

She was not injured and was wearing a seatbelt at the time of the accident.

Car damaged at wash

An East Jordan man was involved in a minor incident at the Jordan Cleaning Center, 128 S. Lake St.

Police Chief Jerry Alward said Victor Donnoe pulled his 1993 Ford into the car wash March 14 at about 5:10 p.m. Donnoe went too far and collided with the cleaning apparatus at the automated car wash.

The driver did not report any injury and the damage to Donnoe's car was minor.

Cabellero graduates with honors

Navy Hospitalman apprentice Belgica A. Caballero, daughter of Santiago Hernandez of East Jordan, recently graduated from the Basic Hospital Corps School at Naval Hospital Corps School, Great Lakes, Ill., with honors.

During the 14-week course, Caballero learned a wide range of medical procedures used to provide first aid and assist Navy doctors and nurses. Caballero also received an introductory instruction for service in a variety of medical environments, from fleet hospitals and shipboard medical departments to fleet Marine forces and medical administration offices.

Caballero's first assignment after school will involve direct patient care, but with her training, Caballero can work in several areas, including first aid and assisting with minor surgery, pharmacy and laboratory analysis, patient transportation, and food service inspections.

The 1995 graduate of East Jordan High School joined the Navy in June 1995.
