East Jordan discusses adultoriented business restrictions

BY IRENA GRANAAS Journal Editor

Like a number of other northern Michigan communities, the City of East Jordan is taking steps to restrict sexually-oriented businesses.

Commissioners briefly discussed a proposed ordinance which would provide the city with a way to regulate such businesses at the May 21 city meeting

"It's not that East Jordan has been getting applications for adult businesses, but we want to be prepared," said city administrator Carolyn Sutter.

The proposed ordinance is modeled after the one Boyne recently passed, and includes the following key elements:

Definitions of adults-only bookstores, entertainment, motion picture theaters, novelty businesses and adult personal service businesses, tattoo parlors, bathing establishments, sexually explicit material, and other terms.

Definitions of specific sexual activities to be regulated or prohibited in such establishments. Zoning restrictions which limit the areas a sexually-oriented business may operate.

Use regulations prohibiting any person or persons from residing in the premises, minors to enter the building. The ordinance would require a conspicuouslyplaced notice spelling out all prices for any services performed in the room where such business is carried on.

Site development requirements for the exterior appearance of such a business, window displays and decorations which are prohibited; and requiring building entries, windows and other openings to be screened from view in public or semipublic areas.

The ordinance proposal states, "No adult-only business shall be located within 500 feet of a church, school, public park or playground, non-commercial public assembly facility, public office building, commercial day care facility, arcade, or any other adult-only business, nor within 300 feet of any residential-zoned district, waterfront-zoned district, professional office-zoned district, central business-zoned business (C-1) or planned unit development district."

The proposed regulations also specify that any adult-only business "shall be located in a general commercial district (C-2) or industrial-zoned district."

Sutter noted the zoning restrictions, if adopted, "Pretty much means they couldn't build one within city limits, which is the idea, to make your area unattractive to them so they go bother somebody else."

After the meeting Sutter said people haven't been applying to locate any sexually-oriented businesses in East Jordan, now is the time for the city to enact an ordinance.

"It's always better to have something in place ahead of time, before the need is pressing - it also avoids a lot of litigation ... Otherwise when you get one (and attempt to impose restrictions) then they complain you're harassing them," Sutter said.

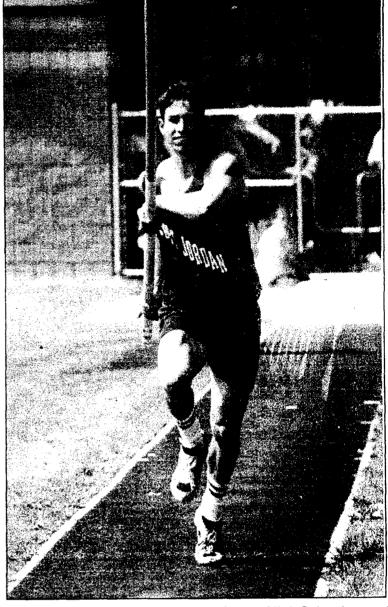

She added from a legal standpoint, municipalities cannot place an outright ban on a legal sexually-oriented business establishment.

"Courts have found ... that you have to have two to three percent of the area (available) to locate one of these businesses," she said.

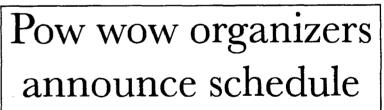

In practice, the proposed ordinance would limit an adult-oriented business to a four-acre site located near the airport and close to the industrial park, in a C-2 zoned area.

"It's so isolated from where anybody's going to be out walking," said Sutter.

The next step for the proposed ordinance will be a thorough going-over by the city attorney.

Char-Em ISD puts voc-tech program on ballot

BY IRENA GRANAAS Journal Editor

be skilled. Vocational-technical education combines academics with technical skills.

"This is not new to the Charwill take five years to get a quality voc-tech program up and running.

In answer to board questions, Singer said all districts are in agreement on the method of dividing and developing programs locally.

Emmet Intermediate School District will have an opportunity June 10 to approve a 0.75-mill tax levy (75 cents per $1,000) on taxable valuation for five years.

If approved, the millage would generate $1.7 million per year to support and develop vocational and technical education for the 11 school districts. Char-EmISD representatives Naomi Singer and Mark Eckhardt discussed the need for vocational and technical education at the May 20 East Jordan Board of Education meeting.

They informed board members that by 1996, 2,200 students in the Char-Em ISD will be in voctech education, and that in 1950, 60 percent of jobs were unskilled," said Singer. "By the year 2000, over 45 percent of jobs will Em ISD," said Eckhardt.

The first technical education in the district was in 1968, and millage requests in support of the programs were defeated in 1968 and 1971.

The Paullin Report was completed in 1990, recommending the ISD ask for two mills for the Petoskey and East Jordan schools. That millage was also defeated at the polls.

"Then we had Proposal A, which limits millage (requests) to one mill," he said.

Superintendent Chip Hansen said it's important to get stable funding for voc-tech programs now

"If the millage doesn't pass, there will be less opportunity The well will run dry," he said. Eckhardt said the ISD felt it

East Jordan, for example, could decide they need health education, and could write a block grant for that purpose.

"All of the district are on one level playing field in that process, and they should be," said Hansen.

"The concept of voc-ed has changed ... It's not just for the kid who's not going to college - a lot of districts are requiring kids to take some voc-ed classes," said Eckhardt.

"There has been a need for vocational education in this district since 1966. There is a tremendous need for this program," said Singer.

Scott stands out in art contest

BY IRENA GRANAAS Journal Editor

Jurists faced a difficult task in selecting a winner in the second annual Doris Huckle art scholarship competition, for which a reception was held May 16 at the Jordan River Arts Council building in East Jordan.

But in the end Ellsworth High School senior Megan Scott earned the $400 certificate, to be applied to an art curriculum at the school of her choice. If Scott decides not to pursue a degree in art, alternate and runner-up Kylie Wolgamott, also an Ellsworth student, will receive the scholarship.

"It is, as always, most difficult to choose a first or finalist," commented jurist Jane Diller. "It is especially true in this show, for each entering artist has demonstrated fine art qualities in their presentations.

"The scholarship recipient, however, was most consistent in maintaining the four criteria for winning – creativity, originality, craftsmanship and expedition. In addition, there was the use of technical variety."

Speaking of the alternate, Diller said Wolgamott "certainly demonstrated superb drawing skills, highlighted by imaginative compositions."

A total of eight young artists competed from high schools in Antrim and Charlevoix counties.

Other entrants included: Misty Crouch, Mancelona; Sara Kaye Malpass and Lea Hahn, East Jordan; Alice Chapman, Ellsworth; Joanna Tschudy, Elk Rapids; and Heidi M. Miller, Charlevoix.

"The show has something for everyone to enjoy and every artist had one or more pieces of worth that really shines through in some special way," said jurist Pam Washburn.

The three Ellsworth entrants all took classes in East Jordan under teacher Pat Tinney.

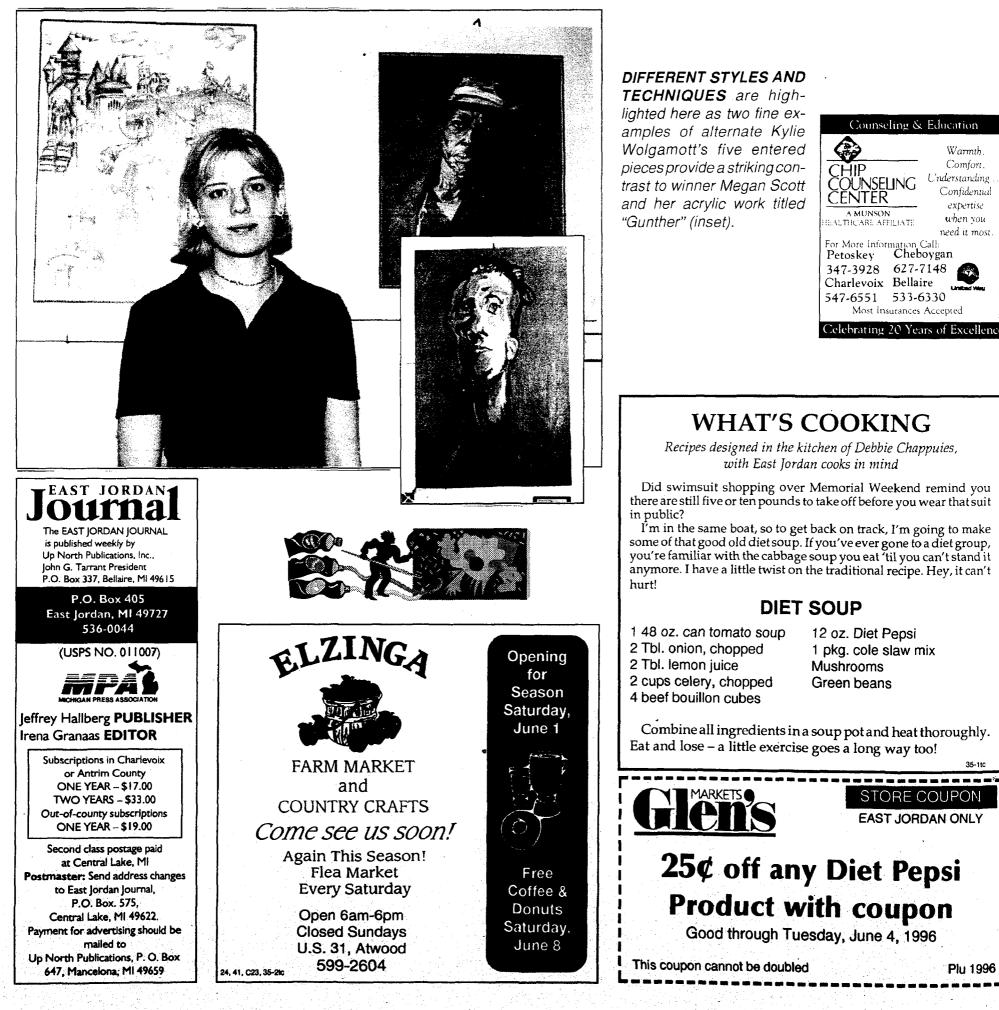

"She's been very inspirational ... She taught us about pottery and I'd never done any pottery before. We made marionettes," said Scott in an interview just before the winners were announced.

JRACPresident Howard Miller spoke about the importance of recognizing local talent.

"Doris Huckle was a writer in the community ... After her death. it was the will of the board that an art scholarship be established in her name, with the permission of her husband, we did so," he said.

Miller said funds are generated each year through the Haunted House exhibit in the fall and from individual member contributions.

"One of the things that makes me happiest about this show is that one of the missions of our Jordan River Arts Council is to support local artists," he said.

BY IRENA GRANAAS Journal Editor

Organizers of the upcoming Jordan Valley Freedom Festival are reminding citizens that donations are still welcome (and needed) to ensure another successful and memorable event.

Particularly needed are more donations to meet the funding goal for this year's fireworks, said East Jordan Area Chamber Director Mary Faculak.

The 1996 festival is slated for June 27-30.

"We're in the midst of fundraising and it is imperative we reach our goal," she said.

Faculak said this year's fireworks budget is $7,000, about $1,000 more than last year's. She noted the festival receives no financial funding from the city for fireworks.

"Every dollar is put to use," she said.

Faculak noted that this year, specific persons will work as a committee as a "one-stop presentation" to make it easier for members of the business community to donate.

"Their time is valuable and we appreciate their giving us the time to listen to our presentation," said Faculak. "Businesses and individuals will get a choice of where they want the money to go."

More attractions have been added to the festival, including a longer-running carnival and an expanded schedule on Sun., June 30, offering a full day of events for the last day of the festival.

The triathlon is back, and more entertainers have been added to the block party.

The car show will also be back Fri., July 5 and Sat., July 6. The featured band is The Wayback Machine. The group plays danceable '50s and '60s rock and roll.

Gail Bingham and Lyn Ann Reid, fund-raiser co-chairs for the festival.

"The funds really come from the businesses and individuals in the community," said Bingham, "and that's what makes it so special and gives them the pride of ownership - and it is the pride and joy of the town."

Faculak suggested a team of employees at a business, bowling clubs, or other groups may want to donate as a group, with each person contributing a small amount, while still making "a huge contribution" to the Freedom Festival.

"Everyone wants it bigger and better. If they want to make a difference, everybody needs to do their part," said Bingham.

Faculak and Bingham noted Freedom Festival donation canisters are still available at various local businesses; or people can send checks payable to the Jordan Valley Freedom Festival, P.O. Box 435, East Jordan, MI, 49727.

Public forum held to discuss nonviolence

EAST JORDAN JOURNAL • WEDNESDAY, MAY 29, 1996 • 3

The Wagbo Peace Center of East Jordan will sponsor a public forum Fri., June 7, addressing the roots of violence and alternatives.

Father Peter Dougherty is the featured speaker at the forum, which will be held at the Green Sky United Methodist Church, located on Old US-31, just north of Charlevoix. The program starts at 7 p.m.

Father Dougherty will discuss how the transforming power of nonviolence can be applied wherever conflict occurs. Everyone is welcome and a reception will follow.

Also, on June 8, a 12-hour nonviolence training workshop will be offered by the Michigan Peace Team at the Wagbo Peace Center, 5745 N. M-66, East Jordan. To register or for more information, call Tracy at 536-0333.

JRAC takes kids to Dennos Museum

Forty-three elementary and middle school students from East Jordan were treated to a day at the Dennos Museum in Traverse City by the Jordan River Arts Council May 9.

Marilyn O'Connor Miller, a storyteller and owner of the puppet exhibit, gave a 45-minute presentation which began with a shapeshifter story of "The Fisherman." She moved along to present Tiffany, a hand and mouth puppet, to help explain how some puppets are made and how they work.

Together they told the story of "Chen Pang and the Magic Ax." The final story of Japanese origin, "The Tongue Cut Sparrow," featured performance masks and puppets.

From here the students proceeded to view the 150-piece puppet exhibit which will close for viewing on June 2.

Clean-up volunteers haul away trash by truckloads

Friends of the Jordan River Watershed reported a very successful fourth annual Jordan River State Forest Clean-up May 19.

FOJ vice-president John Richter said volunteers collected at least a dozen large garbage bags full of trash and debris from the forest and river area. Over two dozen people participated, including FOJ members, Teen Awareness members, Antrim County Youth Advisory members and other community volunteers from Antrim and Charlevoix counties. "It was a very good turnout and a highly successful clean-up," he commented.

Richter said much of the trash collected was "thoughtless stuff" like fast-food paper cups and food wrappers, cigarette butts and similar items.

In some cases, it was clear people deliberately used the forest area as a dumping ground for household items, said Richter. The garbage bags filled two pickup trucks and volunteers had to go back once more for additional items.

Tracksters heading to state

BY RICH CLARK Journal Sports Writer

The track teams put on a show May 18 by setting two school records and getting six firsts and two seconds. Four students will represent the Red Devils at the state level, and one of them is only a freshman.

On the Women's team, Amanda Pepin set two school records in the 100-meter and 300meter hurdles at 15.95 seconds and 49.49 seconds respectively. The field was very tough this year as she took second in the 100-meter hurdles and third in the 300-meter hurdles, even with the record times. She also picked up a second in the long jump with a mark of 16 feet and .25 of an inch.

The freshman Red Devil that made state was Holly Petkewicz, who led the 3200-meter run start to finish with a time of 12 minutes, 56.45 seconds, earning a first-place finish. The women's coaches were very happy with their troops.

"We were pleased with the teams overall finish. Many of our runners that didn't score had their best times of the season this is always one of the teams and our goal."

On the men's side, Josiah Middaugh took three firsts. He won the Pole Vault, the 1600meter run, and the 3200-meter run.

All first and seconds qualify the individuals for the state meet. Steve Burks was the other men's runner to qualify, with first in the 110-meter hurdles and the long jump.

E.J. varsity boys take two

BY RICH CLARK Journal Sports Writer

The home team Red Devils boys baseball team found some offense and had a couple of good pitching performances enroute to a May 16 sweep over St. Ignace, 9-1 and 10-5.

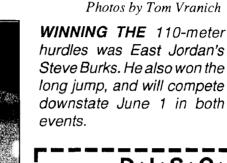

The first game saw Ryan Antaya pitch a two hitter for the win. He also threw six strikeouts and allowed only three walks. He was helped by Luke Pennington who hit a tatter (homerun) and two singles, Dan Whiteford added three hits as well. Kurt Labeau picked up a double and a single and Dan Horris cranked a two run homer in support of the Devils.

The nightcap saw Andy Stefanic give up only four hits, one walk and hurl six strikeouts in his victory. Troy Dunson led the Red Devil charge with three singles. Ryan Antaya had two hits and Chuck Murray hit a hitters dream, the grand slam homerun to finish them off.

TAKING ON heavy winds and stiff competition is Red Devil Holly Petkewicz. She held on to win the 3200-meter run in a close finish to qualify for the state finals.

Fun, food and fashions highlight "Spring Fling" evening event

It was definitely a ladies night out for the 114 who attended the May 17 evening of fashion and fun called "Spring Fling", held at Central Lake High School.

The event, sponsored by the Lioness Club of Central Lake, featured fashions by the E. J. Shoppe (East Jordan) and the Kmart store in Charlevoix, Fashion commentary was provided by E. J. Shoppe owner Mary Faculak and by Lela Clark Models included Lela Clark, Helda Areeda, Jean Murray, Barb Smith, Malinda Lowrance, Karen Scadin, Phyllis Scadin and Betty Burnett. Even the men got into the act, with Jerry McAvoy and Al Burnett modeling crisp, carefree spring looks.

The event was co-chaired by Helda Areeda and Jean Murray.

Poet's Voice

The poetry of middle school student Patrick Curtin was selected by the student editorial committee for publication. The following is one of Curtin's recent poems.

You & Me

You left me behind. I wanted you, but you didn't want me.

You turned away from me. You wore deaf ears around me, and you didn't want me.

The light could shadow me, and sound would cripple me. And you didn't want me.

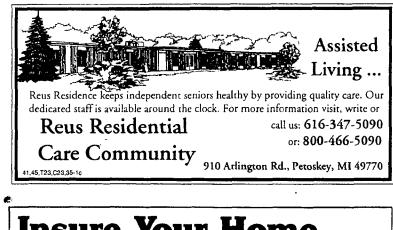

I stood at the gates of hell, and cried in bemournment of myself, and you rang the doorbell.

I have inclined my outlook, and have oppositioned my hate, and I don't want you.
