Bent Club Classic tees off Friday

The second annual Red Devil Bent Club Classic Golf Scramble is Friday, Sept. 6, at Ye Nyne Olde Holles

The four-player (men/women/mixed) scramble will shotgun start at 4:30 p.m. Cost for the event is $25 which includes golf and a barbecue dinner afterwards, along with contest and door prizes. All proceeds benefit the East Jordan Red Devils boys and girls basketball programs.

The event is open to the first 20 paid teams registered by Sept. 4. To register, write to Dan Pepin, 3187 Sanderson Rd., East Jordan, Mich., 49727; or call 547-4963.

EJ history writers will sign books

On September 14, many local historians will be meeting at the Portside Historical Museum at Elm Pointe to honor East Jordan's history, and be honored for their contribution to its preservation.

Writers of articles in "East Jordan Remembers," the recently published collection of memoirs of East Jordan, will be on hand from 1 p.m. until 3 p.m., to autograph their articles and share in the success of this timeless tribute to East Jordan.

Hard cover books will be available, and persons who have already purchased a book are encouraged to bring it with them to have it autographed.

For more information about the event, or to order a copy of the book, contact the Portside Historical Mu-

Plans coming together for crafts bazaar

Antique, craft and collectable lovers alike are already anticipating the 2nd Annual Jordan Valley Arts, Crafts and Collectibles Bazaar.

The event will be held on October 12 at Jordan Valley Express from 9:00 a.m. until 5:00 p.m.

Even though the event promises to be as enjoyable as last year, it relies heavily on the talented crafters and antique alley participants who are willing to display their merchandise.

Spaces are still available to anyone who is interested in participating. Tables, chairs, electrical service and advertising are all included in the reasonable entry fees.

For more information about how you can get involved and make this year's bazaar better than ever, call the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce office at 536-7351.

Bill Porter feels most at home in his "clock shoppe," a basement workshop filled with the inner workings and outer casings of many beautiful timepieces. Bill stands with several of his Seth Thomas #2 clocks.

man can be judged by many measures, the greatest of which is his value in the eyes of his friends and family. If this is true, few people can argue that Bill Porter is a priceless man.

For 81 years, Bill has been an important part of the East Jordan community and he shows no sign of slowing. Between his family, clock collection, and Rotary meetings, Bill has his hands full.

Bill's family has always been an integral part of East Jordan, from his grandfather W.P. Porter, a local lumber baron, to his daughters Ruth Gee, an East Jordan educator, and Mary Jason, chair of the East Jordan School Board.

Bill's great-grandfather first came to the area as an industrial missionary to the Indians on the Leelanau peninsula. Later settling with his family in East Jordan, Bill's grandfather became one of the town's founding fathers, owning the bank, railroad, and the lumber mill.

Asked to write a chapter on lumbering for "East Jordan Remembers," the collection of stories about East Jordan's past, Bill recalls the time he spent at the lumber camps, enjoying East Jordan's most thriving industry at the time.

Bill's knowledge of local history also became useful

Esther and Bill Porter, whose 57 year marriage is "not really that big of an accomplishment these days," according to Esther.

when local historian Virginia Giacomelli began drawing her historical map of East Jordan.

"Bill provided me with invaluable historical assistance," Ginny recalls, "and he has always been someone that I have been proud to be friends with. He has high integrity and a stellar reputation."

Bill remembers his childhood in East Jordan fondly, realizing that he had many unique opportunities because of his grandfather's many local involvements.

"My friends and I would hop the train on its way to Bellaire, and have them let us off somewhere in between," Bill recalls. "We'd play for a couple of hours and then we'd have them pick us up on their way back through."

This playful child also explored an underwater East

Jordan that few residents have seen. "We had an underwater diving helmet that we would wear and explore the lake with," Bill said. "You could adjust the hose to get the air you wanted, except for when the engine would stop running, and you'd have to come back up real quickly."

As a young man, Bill worked in his father's canning factory until he was able to purchase a local hardware store. Owning W.A. Porter Hardware for 15 years, Bill expanded it to include an extensive heating and plumbing business that assisted many cities with water and sewer construction projects for 40 years.

Since he has retired, Bill has turned his attention to a life-long interest — clocks. Always a clock collector and repairman, he was trusted by many local people, who brought their ailing clocks to him for tender care.

More impressive than his museum of clock parts are the clock towers that Bill and his wife have adopted over the years.

The old town clock now located at the FMB Northwestern office in Boyne City once resided in the Porters' basement for many years, chiming faithfully each hour until it was restored and given to Boyne

The clock had become such a part of Bill's home that one neighbor called the Porters complaining one day when they clock did not sound, making her late for work.

Today, Bill has another tower clock in his basement. The face sits off to one side, and the clock works stand about 6 feet tall, with the pendulum extending beneath.

"I had to drill a hole for the pendulum, so that it could swing properly," Bill explains, "Everyone needs to have one of these in their house."

While his basement still resembles a refuse for clock works, Bill is spending less time in his shop lately. "I've tried to quit monkeying with clocks," Bill said, "but they keep showing up here somehow."

The primary key to Bill Porter is his commitment to his family. Bill and Esther, his wife of 57 years, are enjoying life together today as much as they did when they met at a dance in Walloon Lake so many years ago.

"She was one of those Charlevoix girls," Bill recalls, "and I saw her at that dance, and that was that."

Although they are enjoying their time alone now, it is rare that some family isn't around. The couple's four daughters have all married and added 11 grandchildren to the Downtown will be task force's priority

By KRISTEN KUBOVCHICK

The East Jordan City Commission is establishing a Downtown Development Funding Task Force. The action was taken at the commission's Aug. 20 meeting.

The task force was requested by the Downtown Development Authority, which met with the city and the planning commissions to discuss upcoming city projects. With the help of its engineer, the DDA has realized that many of its projects can not proceed without additional financing.

The DDA requested communication between all three boards in the form of the Downtown Development Funding Task Force. Sharon Jackson, DDA president said "the task force is designed specifically to look into additional financing, primarily in the forms of grants, for downtown projects."

Although the task force is not completely formed, it will include representatives from the DDA, city commission, planning commission, as well as the city administrator and East Jordan mayor.

The DDA is scheduled to meet Sept. 16 to choose its representatives, and continue planning future projects, the first of which involves redesigning 2 1/2 blocks downtown.

ONE FAMILY'S EXPERIENCE WITH ALZHEIMER'S

Helping manage the pain

letter was written by Dr. Richard and Linda Mansfield of Boyne City to Chris Weaner, director of the Northwest Michigan Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association located in Traverse City. Many of the services the Alzheimer's Association is able to provide come from money raised during its annual Memory Walk which is Sept. 7 in Traverse City and Sept. 14 in Charlevoix.)

DEAR CHRIS:

We are writing to share our sincere appreciation for all the supportive services our family received from your office during the illness of our father, Bill Mansfield. The following reflects some of the ways we were helped by your Family Program Coordinator, Carlene Peregrine.

Carlene joined our family's journev with Dad's Alzheimer's disease about two years ago and was an invaluable support to us throughout the progression of this disease. Each step of the way she was there to offer education, support, referrals to appropriate resources, and, most of all, com-

Initially, Carlene was instrumental in getting Dad involved in the Early Awareness Support Group in Traverse City. Here he found insight and validation from Carlene, one of the group's facilitators, as well as from the other members of the group who were also diagnosed with Alzheimer's Disease. When Mom resisted joining a caregiver's support group, but was becoming overwhelmed by caregiving stress, Carlene spent time with her on a edge and compassion, it was the last regular basis, providing one-to-one support. Eventually Mom became part of a caregiver's support group in Traverse City. Here she found tremendous support and formed several friendships with other spouses. These friendships have carried her through some difficult times and remain very important to her today.

As Dad's illness progressed to the critical point where he needed placement in an extended care facility, Carlene provided tremendous support. In fact, during many of our nightly phone conversations, Mom would frequently refer to something Carlene had told her. We could tell Mom was receiving the compassionate and affirming support that gave her permission to make this very difficult decision. Because we live out of the immediate area, we appreciated the support Mom received. It was also helpful to have someone "outside" the family involved during this time as it validated for all of us that the time had truly come to look for placement.

Dad moved to the Special Care Unit at Grand Traverse Medical Care Facility on Feb. 14, 1996. Guess who stopped in that day to reinforce, support, and offer hugs? Carlene. Thankfully she was there in the days that followed. Whenever Morn had second thoughts about the "real need" for placement, Carlene helped her sort through her feelings of guilt until she came to accept that Dad was where he needed to be.

While we had come to appreciate Carlene's presence and had benefited in many ways from her knowlweeks of Dad's life that really brought home to our family how fortunate we were to have a support person like Carlene with us on our journey. Dad's condition became very grave the end of May. While Morn clearly knew Dad's wishes concerning Advance Directives, she was unsure how to communicate these to Dad's physician. Again, we were frustrated with not being there in Traverse City to help. Carlene stepped in and supported and clarified the necessary steps for Mom. We will always be grateful for this as it paved the way for Dad to die the way he desired and to do so with dignity and respect. During the last week of Dad's life as family members from near and far gathered, some of them were forced to come to terms with the reality of Alzheimer's Disease for the first time. Carlene joined them where they were at on their journey, not forcing them to "catch up" but supporting them in accepting the reality of what was happening, that Dad was not going to "get better."

Five days before Dad died, Carlene stopped to see Dad and found Mom alone with him. Mom confided to Carlene that she was experiencing chest pain, could not remember the name of her physician, and wanted her physician/son who lived out of the area called. Carlene was able to make the calls to reach her son, then went with her to the emergency room and stayed with her until her family arrived. She followed up with phone

A MOM'S LIFE 'The baby' is off to the big school

By CINDI PLACE

Letting go has never been an easy thing for me.

I still have treasured momentos from college tucked away in a special box. And I just recently gave away the last of my stuffed animals. I'm sentimental about everything and have been known to get teary-eyed while reading a touching bedtime story to my children. So I wasn't completely unprepared for my feelings this week as I conte corting the last of our children onto the big, yellow kindergarten bus.

Actually, I've been telling friends for months just how excited I was to have five free afternoons a week to myself. I was going to be able to do anything. Get a job, read books, sew, nap, all those activities I've dreamed about for years. I could join my husband for a quiet lunch. Volunteer at school. Take a few classes myself. I was really looking forward to this new time in my life.

It's been 16 long years since I've experienced this kind of freedom. In the middle of it, I thought my time as a full-time mother would never end. I yearned for a day when I could grocery shop in the afternoon, alone. Or when I could take my time cleaning the house or simply complete a sewing project from beginning to end, uninterrupted.

Not that I would have traded this time with my children for anything. Nothing can replace the feeling of being there to see your baby stand up and walk for the first time. Or the special hugs I used to receive when the kids would come home to homemade cookies and milk for a snack. I'm sure that if I had worked outside our home I would have still been able to accomplish these things And I would have been absolutely exhausted in the attempt.

But now our youngest child is leaving home, even for just a few hours each day. And, as excited as I am to be on my own for a while. I'm also sad. Maybe it's because he's the last to leave. Or maybe it's because I'm afraid that I'll be bored. My husband thinks I'm feeling this way because, of all our children, this one is uniquely mine. Whenever the other kids would need help with homework, they went to Dad. It was always Dad whom they greeted with great enthusiasm when he returned home from work. Me, they'd seen all day and knew I would always be around when they needed me. And sometimes when they didn't.

I think the special bond this child and I share is simply because he was a little miracle from the day he was born. We had thought our family was complete and then we were blessed with this healthy baby boy.

I can remember taking afternoon naps with him lying on my chest. I knew that he would be our last baby, so I tried to make the time with him I have to admit that he is growing up. And I have to let go.

On his first day of school, I will help him pack his little backpack and put his new jacket on, and make sure he remembers the requisite box of graham crackers. His classroom number will be pinned on his chest and I imagine he will be bursting with excitement to go to "the big school,

When the school bus pulls up to our driveway, I'm sure he will be running, not walking, up to it. And then this little angel, our last in a long line of angels, will be off to school.

Will new law solve the dog problems?

The large turnout of concerned citizens at the recent Boyne City Commissioners meeting should by itself send a strong message to the commissioners.

It is my opinion that the vast majority of dog owners are responsible for cleaning up and providing appropriate control for their dog's behavior. The city commissioners were presented with intelligent and practical input as to the problems with this proposed ordinance from the citizens. I also heard many individuals suggest alternate ideas which were progressive and which would create a dog-friendly city versus an anti-dog city. Boyne City and Charlevoix County have a large number of individuals who are active in the dog world. These individuals have years of experience in dog training and behavior. They belong to organizations involved in developing ways of addressing dog problems. I would hope the Boyne City Commissioners would work with these people who have the background to help solve any dog problems without need of another ordinance:

If the existing ordinances cannot or will not be enforced, then government has no business writing more. The only thing worse than an unnecessary ordinance is a poorly written one, that discriminates against responsible dog owners, creates an enforcement nightmare, and lastly will do nothing to solve perceived or real dog problems.

BUSINESS

Appledolly featured in magazine

Recently featured in Country Marketplace Magazine, local business owners Dan and Dawn Johnson are making a name for themselves in the country home decorating market.

The Johnsons own The Country Craftsman, a wholesale country goods distributor. Last month, one of their most popular products, the Jonathan Appleseed Appledolly, was featured in the "folk art finds" section of the Country Marketplace Magazine.

The wooden doll is a "shelf-sitter," complete with a farmer outfit, seed bag, and small apple tree. It was recognized with other apple-related items for its unique and appealing qualities.

Country Craftsman is located between Boyne City and East Jordan, and the Johnsons are looking forward to expanding their business to include a retail store by next spring.

E.J. Shoppe celebrates anniversary

This summer marks the seven year anniversary of the E.J. Shoppe, a men and women's retail clothing store located in downtown East Jordan.

The E.J. Shoppe, known for "a boutique look without the boutique prices," has maintained and increased its substantial local customer base over the years, while bringing in new out-of-town clients as well.

Owner Mary Faculak knows that her business has been successful due to her customer-friendly store that caters to individual customer needs. She is thankful to her customers and realizes that "we're here because they're here for us."

Now, by this time we had stopped thinking of Carlene as an 'Alzheimer's Association Family Support person." We now thought of her as an "ANGEL!" An Angel who compassionately guided two parents we dearly loved through a devastating disease process. An Angel who seemed to know just when to appear. An Angel who helped familv members transform a dving experience into a beautiful transition.

Thanks to all the support we received we do not find ourselves at the end of Dad's journey feeling beaten down or devastated by Alzheimer's Disease. Rather, we feel we have been on a journey of growth for all involved.

We hope that all families faced with Alzheimer's Disease can find the same feeling of peace at the end of their journey. We know the support from the Alzheimer's Association Family Coordinator is a vital component to ensuring this. We are grateful that Carlene was here when we needed her. We hope she and others like her will be there for all families who call upon the Northwest Michigan Chapter of the Alzheimer's Association for support.

TEACHER PORTRAITS

EAST JORDAN

East Jordan students, parents and community will become acquainted with nine new teachers this school

The following teachers will grace the classrooms, hallways and outdoor activities of East Jordan schools with their talents and enthusiasm.

Michael D. Gee is the third industrial arts education teacher in his family and will be teaching wood shop at East Jordan High School.

He looks forward to getting to know the students and faculty and being involved in the East Jordan community.

Gee was born in Charlevoix and has lived in the Gaylord area all his life. He holds a bachelor's degree in secondary education from Central Michigan University.

Fishing and hunting are Gee's favorite activities, and he belongs to the National Rifle Association and the Michigan Industrial and Technical Education Society.

Serving in the U.S. Army for two years, Gee was stationed in Mannheim, Germany. He also worked as a fishing guide for Togiak Fishing Adventures in Togiak, Sean Ferguson will be teaching high school history, physical education and health. He comes to East Jordan after teaching junior high social studies in Yuma, Ariz., for four

"I'm very excited to be back in northern Michigan and looking forward to working with such a positive staff," Ferguson said last week.

"I can't wait to meet the students and get started."

Ferguson was born and lived most of his life in Charlevoix. He attended Alma College. A newlywed, Ferguson has been married to Irene for about two and a half months. His hobbies and activities include golf, fishing, snowmobiling and other sports, reading and "puttering around the yard." He will be the girls freshmen basketball coach this year.

Irene Ferguson is a newlywed also, and yes, she is married to Sean.

She was a seventh-grade math teacher in Yuma and will be teaching eighth-grade math in East Jordan.

'I am looking forward to a great year," she said. "I have had the chance to meet some of the staff and learn about the goals and expectations of the district.

'I'm excited to start the year and proud to be a part of this system. Coming from a large school with 900 students in just the seventh and eighth grades, I am thrilled to be in a position where I can give more individual attention to my students.'

Ferguson was born in E1 Centro, Calif., graduated from high school in Yuma and graduated from Northern Arizona University in Flagstaff in Her hobbies and favorite activities are golfing, reading and shopping.

"I am excited about teaching in East Jordan," she said. "I am looking forward to a fun and successful year."

Derenzy was born in Detroit and earned a bachelor's degree from CMU with a special education major and an English minor.

She is married to Todd Derenzy who teaches in Boyne City, and they have two children. Spending time with her family, cooking, and arts and crafts are favorite activities for Derenzy, and she "loves to read."

"I think that home/school communication is very important for a successful school year," she said.

Bruce T. Harger said, "I look forward to becoming a member of the East Jordan community and to the many new challenges and experiences that await me."

He will teach second grade and is new to the East Jordan area.

Being born and raised in Sault Ste. Marie, Mich., Harger graduated from CMU with a degree in child development.

He enjoys sports and was an assistant coach for varsity baseball in East Jordan last year. He played baseball while at CMU and is involved in the United Way and Big Brothers/ Big Sisters organizations.

Boyne City Schools welcome the following teachers to their staff:

BOYNE CITY MIDDLE SCHOOL

David Willson is no stranger to the area, having lived in northern Michigan for all but three years of his life. This year will be his first as a teacher, as he joins the middle school as an eighth grade special education teacher.

Willson has his bachelor's degree in history education, with an endorsement in teaching the emotionally impaired.

His primary job involves working with students with behavioral problems and learning difficulties, but he hopes to "help all students improve their social skills, as well as their academic skills.

After traveling throughout the country, he is happy to be back in Boyne, because he "still feels that this is one of the best areas to live in." He is married to Sharon Willson, and their son Justin is 17.

Rob Bergquist, the Middle School's new math teacher is anxiously looking forward to a challenge this year, teaching eighth grade algebra using new technology. He will also be busy this year teaching

When he is not in school, Rob enjoys alpine ski racing, sailing, water-skiing, rock climbing, playing guitar, and his new chocolate lab puppy, Bailey.

His wife of two months, Michelle, is a new sixth grade teacher in East Jordan this year.

Ryan Smith is the new seventh and eighth grade science teacher at the Middle School this year.

He recently graduated from Michigan State with his elementary education degree. His minors in math and environmental science will help him "provide a challenging, fun and well-rounded educational experience to students attending BCMS."

In his free time, Smith enjoys biking, hiking, basketball, and reading, which he will probably not have much time for, since he is also coaching seventh grade boys basketball.

BOYNE CITY HIGH SCHOOL

Sandra Schmoldt has been a teacher at Onaway High School for the past six years, and although she enjoyed her time there, she said "Boyne City is home to me and it's great to be back on this side of the state and be 'home'.

She will teach high school math and physics, and hopes to build a good rapport with students. She is excited about the unique and challenging things she has planned for her classes, and believes that students must want to learn before they are able to be taught.

She is also very active, enjoying softball, horseback riding, being outside, and coaching softball and basketball. Sandra received her bachelor's degree from CMU in 1990, and is near completion of her master's in math.

Elizabeth Marsh is the new teacher of English and business at BCHS. She has experienced both the educational and practical sides to her

Marsh received her teaching degree at Central Michigan University, and she has also worked in retail in New Hampshire, Massachusetts and Michigan. She enjoys walking and biking, and is looking forward to learning how to ski lege, she is looking forward to meeting the students, and becoming better acquainted with the Boyne City area. She realizes that, "teaching is more than an 8 to 3 job, it's a constant challenge.

She is coaching freshman girls basketball, using her skill gained from playing four years of varsity basketball for Alma College.

In her free time, VanDamme enjoys skiing, basketball, gardening, and other outdoor activities.

He is very excited about his first year in Boyne City and said "I loved living in Northern Michigan before and look forward to returning. I enjoy the small-town, small-school atmosphere.'

Parker is a graduate of Western Michigan University, and a history enthusiast. "I collect history books, and textbooks, ranging from 1865 to the present." he said.

"I love learning about history, and hope to pass some of that on to my students." He and his wife, Winnie celebrated their first wedding anniversary on Sept. 3.

By NANCY NORTHUP

THE BOYNE CITY High School class of 1941 held its 55th reunion at Veteran's Memorial Park on Aug. 16. Those attending from out of state were Gerry Pratt Kemp and Betty Snyder Tyler of Florida, Vivian Brudy of Arizona, and Lorraine Behling Sonnenberg of California. Also in attendance were Ormon Bowers and Tom Turcott from Petoskey, Bill Houck of Flint, Hilda Hosegood Ross of Trenton, Ometa Jacobson Goebel and Helen Munson Sturgis, both of East Jordan, Woody and Marie Coon Everest, Wally Dietze, Ken Dyer, Ruth Hocquard Hausler, Marion Liscum Harper, and Clifford McGeorge, all of Boyne City. Lorraine Sonneberg gave the invocation and Vivian Brudy was mistress of ceremonies. In all, 30 people, including spouses, gathered for a potluck dinner.

BILL CHARVAT of Winter Park, Fla., joined his wife, Jane, and her father, Everett Northup, over the Labor Day weekend.

SCOTT SUTLIFF returned to Berkley, Calif., on Sunday after having spent the week here with his family and friends. On Friday, Oral, Eleanor, and Scott, along with Sheri Fitzpatrick and children, had lunch in Grayling with their Aunt Carol Sutliff.

A "WARM WELCOME!" goes out to Ruth Christie, who moved into Litzenburger Place this past week.

LAST WEEKEND, Jack and Donna Davis of Flint were here visiting his Aunt Thelma Behling.

NANCY AND BRUCE Lawson of Rochester, Sherry Edland, who has been here from Georgia. Herb and Heidi Connor of Grand Rapids, and Jean Korthase enjoyed Sunday dinner and the afternoon at the Lakeshore Drive home of Bill and Deb Korthase. Jean is coming along well, after recently breaking her arm. Her daughter Sherry left for her Georgia home on Tuesday.

GORDON AND MARYLOU Yahr of Delaware, Ohio spent a long Labor Day weekend in Boyne City visiting his mother, Ruth, and family.

TERRY JENKINS and wife Joyce of Tampa, Fla., and his son Chris, wife Camille, and young daughter Renee of Mansfield, Texas, spent over a week here visiting mother, grandmother and great-grandmother, Caroline Jenkins. They were joined over the weekend by Terry's daughter Lisa Jenkins and friend James from Lansing. All enjoyed drop-in company of friends and relatives in the area and a 'work bee" as they put a new roof on the service building of the Jenkins Campground in Boyne Falls. Terry and Joyce, in celebrating their third wedding anniversary, took in the sights of the Harbor Springs area, as well as dinner at the Pier with their friends, the George Newsons of Petoskey, and also a trip to Mackinac Island and the Soo, Canada.

WELL OVER 200 family members came from the Upper Peninsula, southern Michigan, and the local areas to attend the annual reunion of the Boyne-City-originating Gillespie, Martin, and Allen families. The event of a four or five generation picnic gathering was held at Whiting's Park on Saturday.

BARBRA JO and Gene Handcock of Muncie, Ind., spent the week in the Boyne City area looking for just the right site to build their retirement home. Barbara Jo is the granddaughter of the late Clair and Jenny Brooks.

LESLIE PACKARD, wife Karen, and their two sons are here from the downstate area camping at Young State Park and visiting relatives and friends in the area. He is the son of former residents Edna and Stary Packard, now

THE 62ND REUNION of the BCHS class of 1934 met for a noon luncheon and short meeting at the Country Star Restaurant. Guests were former class advisor Florine Davis of Boyne City and Fred Miller of Petoskey. Among those attending were Margie Marshall Bremmeyr of Petoskey, Fay Davis of Charlevoix, Alberta Tibbits Clark of Lansing, Ed Robinson of Boyne City, Virginia Kime Jacobson of East Jordan, Ed Crozier of Muskegon, Julia Ellis Beers of Petoskey, Maude Hammond Zagata of Boyne City, Reanette Green of Ann Arbor, June Kelts Habasco and Margaret Pratt Compton, both of Boyne City. This year's event was organized by Margaret Compton, who received many calls of regrets from those who were no longer able to travel. All are looking forward to next year's gathering.

BOYNE FALLS

Boyne Falls students have already filed into classrooms, anxious to see what this new year will bring them. For many, it was meeting a new teacher. Four new teachers were hired at Boyne Falls over the summer, and are anxious to get the school year underway.

Colleen Rice is the new eighth grade and high school science teacher at Boyne Falls. She received her teaching degree from the University of Michigan with a B.A. in biology, and a minor in general science.

She just recently moved to the area, and is looking forward to "meeting students and finding out about their goals and interests.

She is a lover of horses, pets, and outdoor recreation, and has worked as a veterinary/animal technician. Colleen hopes "students and parents will feel free to participate in the planning of classroom activities.'

Kari Koffman is teaching fifth grade at Boyne Falls. She received her B.A. degree in education from Western Michigan University, with minors in math, science, and social

She is excited about meeting her students and working with other faculty members.

Koffman and her husband Dan grew up in the Upper Peninsula, and she really enjoys a small town atmosphere. She will also be the Boyne Falls High School cheerleading coach, and she enjoys playing the piano and flute, running, and cheering for the Green Bay Packers.

Doug Tippett is the new high school social studies teacher at Boyne Falls. He is a graduate of Harbor Springs High School and Central Michigan University.

"I want to build a solid social cause I enjoy working with young adults and I think that social studies is very important, helping students become more well rounded people."

Tippett also enjoys golfing, boating, hunting, coaching, reading, and spending time with his wife, Shelly, and their five-year-old daughter,

"I am dedicated to providing a good education to all of my students," he said.

Andrea Glezman is excited, because this year she is realizing a lifelong goal: becoming a teacher.

She will be teaching fourth grade, and she is excited about getting to know her colleagues and stu-

Glezman received her education from the University of St. Paul and Central Michigan University. She is a newlywed, who resides with her husband Mike and their two cats and two dogs in Charlevoix.

FOOTBALL SEASON OPENS THIS WEEKEND

Down to business

Boyne City's depth will wear down opponents

By TED KARASZEWSKI

The excitement and anticipation have been building since the junior varsity tore down the goal posts after the last home game of the season

Since then we've seen a beautiful community project take shape before our eyes as a new track and football field have unfolded and a dream has become reality.

The new football field doesn't guarantee a winner, that we all know, just don't tell the high school students that. Every student can't wait for that first home game on the new field against Kingsley on Sept. 13. They'll all be there to cheer their team.

Head coach Pat Klooster is also excited about the new season. Not only will he and his staff coach on a new field, but this year's squad has his expectations high.

"This is the best team I've had in my eight years as coach," Klooster said. "We have depth at all positions with no drop off in talent. We have 19 seniors returning from last year's team that will really give us experience. All together we have 43 players on the roster and with all the talent we have, everyone will get a lot

"Several of the seniors worked real hard during the off season lift- position. At wing back, look for jun-ing weights, playing football during the summer and running. I'd really like to see them be rewarded with a fine season for all their hard work."

The juniors from last year's undefeated junior varsity team will see a lot of playing time as Klooster blends them in with the seniors. "There's a lot of size and talent in the junior class. Offensively, there is no talent drop off but on defense there is a lot of technique they have to learn yet," Klooster said.

As if all that home-grown talent wasn't enough, Klooster received another blessing from an exchange student from Brazil.

Senior Alex Berti joined the team last week after arriving from Brazil. Berti played soccer growing up in his country. Although he has never played football, it didn't take him long to figure out how to kick

"He can kick the ball 60-65 yards," said senior Doug Archey. "He's just a little guy, too."

"Hopefully, we won't need to attempt many field goals but if we do I wouldn't be afraid to use him." Klooster said.

It's at the running back positions that the Ramblers are exceptionally deep with Jeremy Andrews, Dean Fiel and Ryan Seeley at the tailback ior Chuck Stanek and Kurt Lockman. At the fullback position, Josh May will start while Scott Karaszewski and Scott Bradford will back up.

Look for us to run the ball a lot," Klooster said. "If we get in a short yardage situation, we will put in the big horses (Karaszewski and Stanek) behind our big line. '

Quarterback is the one position that's not quite settled yet with the Johnecheck brothers, senior Steve and junior Matt, competing for the

"Steve and Matt are real close talent wise," Klooster said. "We'll just have to wait and see how the offense clicks and we'll go from there.'

Whoever the quarterback is, they'll have a superb offensive line to protect them with senior Matt Dhasaleer starting at center. Seniors Kory Lockman and Cliff Bates will start at the guard positions while Doug Archey and Mike Greenman will start at the tackle positions. Brian Mapes will start at tight end.

'We have about 17 starters with only a couple of guys going both ways," Klooster said. "We'll be in good shape come the fourth quarter as far as being well rested. We're really looking forward to it."

And so are we. The Ramblers open their season Friday at Mancelona.

Intelligence and hard work drive Red Devils

By RICH CLARK

When the 1996 East Jordan varsity football team takes the field Saturday at Central Lake it will be short on experience but long on talent.

Only seven starters return from last year's team. That is the total for offense and defense combined. However, three players who were sophomores on last year's team are back.

'This team is a good all-around team," said head coach Allan Peterson. "They have very little experience but are very smart, especially along both offensive and defensive lines, and the backfield."

The defense is led by team senior co-captain and linebacker Luke McLaren. The other co-captain, senior Kevin McNeil, leads the offensive line. Junior halfback Shane Swan, and sophomore fullback Dillon Antaya, are the players to watch on the offense.

"We will be a team of deception," Peterson said. "Our backs hide the ball well, so expect to see some passing from the offense." Those passes will come from sophomore quarterback Chris Murray with key targets being junior ends Josh Luck and Scott Haley.

Linemen Rob Reid, Jorel McCoy and Erik Wiltfong will help protect Murray when he passes.

On the other side of the ball, the opponents' offense will be facing the likes of defensive linemen Jesse Bacon, Matt Ingalls and Chris King, with juniors Denzil Wilson and Matt McCoy at the ends. Scott Kramer, Mike Mazzella, Matt Mogan and Ryan Antaya will be playing in the defensive backfield.

This year's biggest competition for these young Red Devils will be the Gladiators of Traverse City St. Francis and the Boyne City Ramblers. "However," Peterson noted, "the Rayders of Charlevoix are not to be overlooked because they have some big strong kids.'

Kickoff for Saturday's game at Central Lake is 1 p.m.

Lady Red Devils have experienced team

"100 percent effort," said girls' varsity basketball coach Steve Hines, is what East Jordan can expect to see from its experienced and athletically talented team.

"Hopefully we can provide some exciting basketball. We have loads of talent with great attitudes and good sportsmanship to help out," Hines said. Senior guard/forward Amanda Pepin is the team leader and the top player to watch. Also, don't take your eye off senior forward Dayle Looze and junior Jenny Goebel is the sleeper on the team at the forward position

Pepin and Looze are two of the four players remaining from last year's team. The other two are seniors Ann Hettig at center/forward and Kelly Woodard at guard. Only one starter was lost to graduation from the year before.

Hines admitted that "I don't know how much better this team is from last year but I will know more at playoff time."

The Lady Devils' stiffest competition will come in the form of the Harbor Springs Rams and the Kalkaska Blazers. Both teams were strong last year, did not lose many players, and they have some great players moving up.

The Lady Devils' height, experience, and athletic ability will win most games. The 100 percent effort is a must if they are to win even more.

East Jordan falls to St Mary's

The East Jordan Varsity girls basketball team got off to a slow start dropping a 47-43 loss to Gaylord St. Mary's Snowbirds on Aug. 27. The JV team also lost Dayle Looze and Amanda Pepin led the Lady Devils with 11 points each. Jenny Falco added nine points with Ann Mettig canning eight. Falco led the team on the boards, grabbing 11 rebounds. Looze had eight boards and Pepin had seven.

The Lady Ramblers' next game was at home Tuesday. They will then take a break before going to Benzie Central on Sept. 14.

'We know Petoskey and Benzie Central will come at us with full court pressure, so it's important that we work on our ball handling under pressure," Neidhamer said. He also commented that because of a height disadvantage (Boyne's two tallest players are just 5'9"), that they had to work on rebounding as well.

"We're doing well putting the girls in opportunities to score. Everybody is making a positive contribu-

EJ players help team to tourney championship

Meg Fowler and Amelia Fleming of East Jordan know what it's like to be the best.

They made a recent trip to Gadsden, Ala., to play in a Women's Class C National Softball Fast Pitch Tournament. Not only did they attend, but their team, McKeown Ford, won the tournament, earning it the distinction of being one of the best in the nation.

Another East Jordan area resident, Dawn Meads, was a member of the team but could not make the Fowler is a teacher in the East Jordan Elementary School and coaches the girls varsity softball team. She was one of the stars on the team, making the final tagout in the championship game, and her .545 batting average earned her the tournament batting crown.

Fleming, who graduated from East Jordan High School in May. gained valuable experience in helping the team off the bench.

Meads also graduated from EJHS this year.
