East Jordan, Michigan

Grant may give life to industrial park

By STEVE ZUCKER

A department at the East Jordan Iron Works may be moving. But if all goes well, it won't be moving far.

Over the last several months, East Jordan City Administrator David White has been working with EJIW and Northern Lakes Economic Alliance Director Tom Johnson on putting together a grant proposal application for $590,000 in development funds for road building and infrastructure at the proposed East Jordan Air Industrial Park. The grant is through the Michigan Community Development Block Grant Program building would be located on a 7.9 is freed up at the Spring Street locawhich is a federally funded program.

The proposed industrial park would be located on a city-owned 51acre parcel of land on M-32 next to the airport.

White said that if the grant comes through, the city's out-ofpocket expense for the project would be about $75,000.

EJIW Executive Vice President Tad Malpass said that if the city is successful in acquiring the grant and developing the industrial park, EJIW would move its hydrant and valve department to the new site. The new acre parcel of land in the park.

"It's a good deal for both the Iron Works and the city. Keeping that department in East Jordan is a convenience to us and our employees," Malpass said.

According to White, the deal is good for the city because EJIW's interest in the industrial park is a key factor in the grant application. Without the serious interest from a major industry, the city would have little hope of receiving the grant.

Malpass said that the space that tion would be used for storage. "Things are pretty cramped down there right now," Malpass said.

If the project goes as planned, between 40-50 employees would be moved to the new facility. Malpass said that the move would also likely create some new jobs within the EJIW organization but he was unsure of the exact number

The grant application was slated to go before the city commission for approval at its meeting Tuesday sion approves the application, he hopes to have an answer from the Michigan Community Development Block Grant Program by the end of the month. Ideally, construction would begin this summer with an anticipated final completion date in March of 1998.

Recently the city received a grant of $2,000 from the Charlevoix Community Foundation and a grant of $3,600 from MichCon. Combined, the two grants will pay for all of the design costs for the industrial park.

Schools eager for NCA visit

A team of 11 educators and business representatives from throughout Michigan will visit East Jordan Schools Wednesday as part of the district's formal North Central Accreditation visitation.

The results of the team's visit will determine the district's placement in the NCA Accreditation pro-

East Jordan is among a handful of Michigan schools that have elected to pursue a Transition Accreditation, the NCA's highest standard. The transition program requires school districts to ensure that each student has a successful transition from grade to grade, building to building and school to work or college.

During the visitation, team members will be looking at all phases of school operation and will have full access to classrooms, work areas, as well as the freedom to engage in dialogue with students, parents and staff members.

The visitation will end with a report to the district's faculty at 3:20 p.m. in the high school auditorium.

Enterprising students

Students at East Jordan Middle School packed the school's gym in search of bargains during Enterprise Day last Friday. About 100 eighth grade entrepreneurs formed the 40 businesses who took place in the activity. Although this was the first year for the event, over half of the businesses had sold out of merchandise by the time it ended. Half of each business' profits was donated to either the Charlevoix Humane Society or the Make-A-Wish Foundation.

For 40 years he's answered the call or the last 19 years, most East Jordan area residents would rather see Bernie Hammond when he's not working. But in a medical emergency, those same people are glad to see him; and he's glad to be

By STEVE ZUCKER

On June 30, just 10 days after his 62nd birthday, Bernie will retire from his 19-year position as East Jordan's Ambulance Administrator. That day will also mark the end of Bernie's 40-year emergency service career in East Jordan.

In January of 1957 Bernie was working as a mechanic at Strehls Garage when a friend, East Jordan Fire Chief Sherm Thomas, asked him to join the department. It's been flashing red lights

At that time most ambulances were still run by funeral homes. Watson Funeral Home in East Jordan was no exception. However, in 1965 Watson's gave up its ambulance service and the city took over the responsibility.

At first the task was given to the police department. Patient transport was done with a police officer and a station wagon. Bernie's brother, Joe, was the police chief at the time and would commonly call Bernie to go on ambulance runs with him. So, the city sent the Hammond brothers to Chicago to take first-aid and patient transportation classes.

It wasn't long before the city began to dislike the idea of a police officer being unavailable every time there was an ambulance run. So ambulance duties, along with the police department's new "carry all" vehicle, were handed over to the fire department. That vehicle was used as the city's ambulance until 1972 when the city bought its first commercially built ambulance.

Meanwhile, in 1970 Bernie had become both fire chief and ambulance administrator on a parttime basis. He had also become the first person in the area to complete the state's 83-hour Emergency Medical Technician program and the first in the area to be certified as an EMT instructor/ coordinator. Then in 1972 the city created a separate ambulance department and put Bernie in charge. Yet his position didn't become full time Since then Bernie and Bonnie, his wife of 36 years, have seldom strayed far from East Jordan for very long.

"Usually when we had to go out of town only one of us would go so that someone would be here. I always have to make sure that someone is available to cover for me."

In fact, since he began his full-time position of ambulance administrator 19 years ago, Bernie's work schedule has, for the most part, been pretty easy to remember: 24 hours a day, seven days a week. The Hammonds haven't taken a bit of vacation in the last four years, and the vacations they did take before that were few and far be-

"If we did want to get away, we had to plan for it way in advance," he said.

Except for Bernie, all of the other 13 members of the ambulance service staff are volunteers who are only paid for the time they spend out on

Although Bernie is proud of the work he has done over the years, he says that Bonnie is the real unsung hero.

"She really deserves a lot of credit. She's done the books and, up until 911 took over, all the dispatching too. And all without getting paid a cent. Nobody realizes how much she's done," Bernie said.

Before 911 existed, people in need of an ambulance either called Bernie directly or the Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department would call him in an emergency.

But the advent of 911 service hasn't kept the phone silent at the Hammonds.

"I often get people who will call me at home rather than call 911. They will often ask me about a certain medical situation and what they should do. We don't really mind. It's part of the job."

The addition of 911 service isn't the only thing that has changed during Bernie's tenure. The year the city took over the ambulance service it logged 54 runs. Now the service typically averages about 600 runs each year.

The most significant medical change, according to Bernie, was the development and implementation of defibrillators, which are used to restart a person's heart when it has stopped

"That really allowed us to save a lot more

What was the best part of the job? "The best part has been being able to help the people. It's even more rewarding because it is often people that I know," he said.

for 40 years.

He also had the opportunity to help deliver three babies over the course of his career.

"It was a pretty big deal, especially the first

Although you'd think that the worst aspect of the job would be the hours and lack of freedom, that isn't what Bernie said.

"The worst part is the politics that you have to deal with now. That's why I'm retiring. I'm tired · of all the politics." Bernie said his frustration is with all of the different governing bodies that oversee, in one way or another, the operation of ambulance "You've got the state, the county, the city, MDOT and the hospital all in on the action. It's next to impossible to deal with," he said. "The city has actually been pretty good to us. I think (city administrator) David White is a good addition to the city.' You might expect people who are about to shed a 19-year leash to want to run free for a while, but Bernie says that he and Bonnie don't have any specific plans for retirement.

"It will be nice to go shopping in Petoskey, Gaylord or Traverse City when we feel like it," he

Most people will probably agree, that's not much to ask for a couple of people who have dedicated their lives to serving their community

The City of East Jordan is currently taking applications to fill Bernie's position. Anyone interested should call or stop by city hall for the job requirements or to apply.

Building proposal is good for our community

If you are looking for reasons to vote no when you go to the polls next Monday to decide the fate of the Boyne City school bond proposal, you'll find them.

That's always easy to do. It's easy to maintain the status quo. It's easy to fall back to the same old arguments. And it's hard to take a risk. It's hard to know if this really is the best solution to the problems facing our school district.

We have no guarantees that a new high school and renovations to our other buildings will improve the education our students are receiving.

But we'll never have that no matter what proposal is in front of us.

What we're facing with this election is more than just buildings. It seems the building proposal has opened an old wound and old emotions are pouring out. That makes it hard to discuss the proposal at hand. It gets lost in all the pent-up frustrations.

I feel confident about what the Community Group has proposed. I see it as an investment for the future. I see it as a source of pride for the community. I see it as an opportunity to create opportunities for all residents.

I see it as chance to move the community ahead. I see it as a chance to better prepare our children for the challenges that lie ahead for them. I see it as a chance to tell the administration, school board and teaching staff that we have confidence in what you are doing, now make sure you do your part in doing the best you can.

I see it as a chance for the community to put the past behind it and to look ahead.

But no matter what happens, the volunteers working with the Community Group have done a tremendous service to the community.

Without their efforts, we wouldn't even be discussing the needs of our schools. They cared enough about our town and our students to sacrifice a lot of time and energy to bring the issue before us.

In the long run, the community will reap tremendous benefits from their efforts.

IT'S AMAZING HOW big a mess one styrofoam cup creates.

For proof, all anyone had to do was take a walk along the lakeshore around Veteran's Park to see what an eyesore one discarded cup can cause.

But thanks to the efforts of several volunteers who sacrificed their morning last Saturday, the break wall along the lake is a lot cleaner than it was.

So is Veteran's Park, Old City Park, Sunset Park, Rotary Park, the new Tannery Park, the parking lot behind the library, and the bike path along Division Street. All received some much-needed cleaning during the second annual Buff Up Boyne.

And Boyne City firemen did their part, rising early Sunday morning to wash down the streets and sidewalks in the downtown area.

Thanks to everyone who helped. Because of your efforts, many things got done that would not have otherwise, and the town looks better than before.

A MOM'S LIFE

There's no one else like them

By CINDI PLACE

Mothers are an extremely unusual breed. They are generally expected to be all-seeing and all-knowing; they rarely think of themselves first and on top of it all they possess the most amazing immune system.

Case in point: how many moms do we know who have administered to family members with the chicken pox, colds, flu, and the ever-present teenage heartbreak, without succumbing themselves?

Moms are expected to read the minds of children, husbands, teachers and even household pets. I found myself standing at the front door the other morning, actually attempting to have a conversation with our pet beagle about his plans for a trip around the neighborhood. "Now, one turn around and you get back here. And for heaven's sake, leave that silly rabbit alone this time."

Another thing about mothers. We're crazy. Just ask my children.

If rolling their eyes in their heads was an Olympic sport, my kids would be World Champions! That's the way they have learned to communicate their frustration with what they term as "mom's insanity".

Of course, I don't see my own behavior as all that unusual. Cleaning the house after midnight, eating breakfast for dinner and forcing my family to sit through yet another viewing of "Born Free" is just my way of keeping life interesting. For some reason, they are embarrassed by all those cute little "love notes" that I send in their lunch boxes and I've found I'm the last person recommended to chaperone any school trips, much to my children's relief.

Being a mother is one of those things in life that requires you to respond to situations by doing what "just feels right." Which means that we don't always react to life in a normal manner. In fact, I usually go out of my way to find unusual responses to everyday problems.

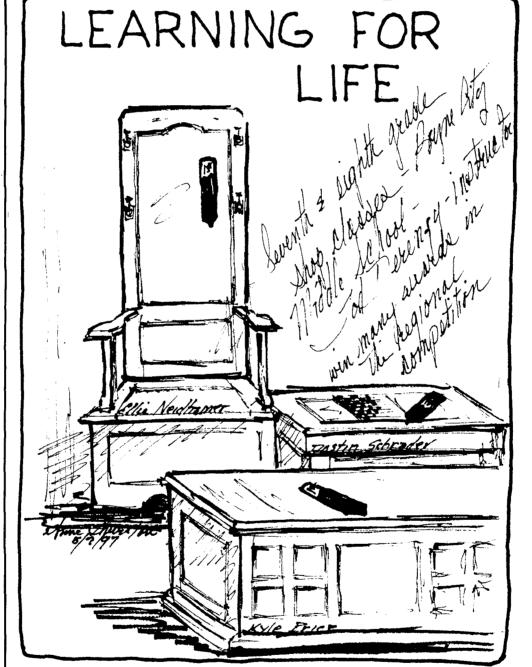

I can remember a time not too long ago when my eldest son and I were having a rather heated discussion about his inability to keep a clean room. And I wasn't asking for much. I simply wanted to be able to distinguish between his bed and the mountain of laundry that he lovingly refers to as his "stockpile." After a while I realized that our conversation wasn't revealing any possible solutions, so I created one. The "stockpile" was put in a box and moved outside to the garage. My son wasn't amused, but I was satisfied. Now, when I go in to wake him up in the morning, there's only one lump in the room to shake.

Any mother worth her salt has had those indescribable feelings that bubble up when one of her children has been wronged. If the local bully only knew the extent of those feelings, there would be a lot less unkindness on school playgrounds! Fortunately, most moms have learned to deal with these strong feelings by comforting their child in public and using their revenge filled imagination in private. At least I have.

Someone told me once that being a mother was the hardest, most thankless job in the world. Obviously, that person had never been a mother. Although we moms feel responsible for the happiness and health of our children, even though we generally don't see the soft side of the bed before midnight and our worry-meter hits an alarm with increasing frequency equal to the number of teenagers in our care, we love it.

Motherhood requires one to be uncommonly creative. How else could we deal with explaining certain facts of life without dying of embarrassment. We have taken to watching G-rated videos

An opportunity to 'pay back' the community

TO THE EDITOR:

Over 40 years ago, Harvey and I chose to live in Boyne City and raise our family. We saw a vital business community and an excellent school system, and that has kept our town alive and well.

We have felt the pride of supporting our children and schools by always voting positive for every millage request.

Having been educated in the public school system and having our children all graduate from Boyne City High School, I consider this vote the opportunity to "pay back." (Five of our grandchildren are being supported in Ohio by other people, another big reason to say

"yes"!)

I know our schools are filled with wonderful children and grandchildren that need to be prepared for a high-skilled, technical job market. These children are the people that will keep our social security system solvent; if you wish to view your choice of vote a long term benefit.

A sincere thank you to the team of people who joined the "Friends Talking to Friends" committee which I chaired.

Clarification on charter vs. public school buildings

TO THE EDITOR:

The Citizen is a shining example of a growing community meeting its needs. I feel better informed on issues before rather than after the fact. The guest column and the other letter to the Citizen bring out many important points. The guest column, however, does need to be corrected as to fire codes and "public" schools.

Charter schools in the state of Michigan are "public" school facilities. The construction guidelines for them are the same as any "public" school. Square footage is a determining factor in any "public" school building. Masonry is not a required primary building material, nor is steel. A steel and masonry structure will collapse much more quickly than a wood frame building under duress of fire in most instances.

After working with the state fire marshal, the architect, contractor, and a most knowledgeable and experienced construction superintendent for two years on the Concord Boyne project, it is evident there is only one educational fire code. The Concord structure has sophisticated alarm and fire-suppressant technology incorporated into its design and construction.

Furthermore the cost of building "Concord Boyne," a public school, was not reduced by use of wood frame instead of masonry. Both options were presented by the contractor and in fact the masonry alternative was virtually the same price or slightly less than the 2x6, 8, and 12 wood frame construction we finally decided on. The preferred wood frame which we chose was more energy efficient, adaptable, maintainable, expedient.

The roof line was preferred, stronger, and eyepleasing in wood truss - as opposed to flat steel. The trusses were precisely engineered to rigid standards and meticulously baffled for fire-draft. Wood is stronger than steel, pound for pound, and will endure longer exposure to fire than steel without collapsing.

I am frankly unsure of the proper choice in this instance. I will therefore use my God-given and constitutional right to pray for the correct choice on May 12. I invite the entire community to do the same. That way no matter what the outcome, there will be no rift to heal, no starting over: just a continuance in a direction we have all agreed upon.

It's time to move forward in a positive direction

TO THE EDITOR:

As a Boyne City business owner who already has a substantial tax burden, I want to voice my support for the upcoming Boyne City School Bond Proposal.

I would much rather see my tax dollars spent on our own community than anywhere else. I say a big "Thank You" to The Community Group that has spent much time and effort in support of our school.

Do I agree with everything they have proposed?

No. Do I believe our schools are doing a flawless job?

No. Do I think our administration is perfect? No. However, I do believe the time for debate is done, and it is time to move forward in a positive direction.

The need to improve our school facilities is clear. I say let's do for academics what we have done for our sports programs. Let's continue to make positive things happen in our community.

I urge everyone to vote in support of the upcoming School Bond Proposal.

Class of '67 graduate endorses proposal

TO THE EDITOR:

I attended elementary school in the old central building and my class was the first class to start the seventh grade at the new high school in 1960.

I moved away to college in 1969 and relocated in southeastern Michigan. The people in the community changed so much that I became a stranger during infrequent visits to Boyne City. To regain some knowledge of my hometown, I subscribed to The Citizen.

In the past year I heard about many issues. But the one that galvanized me to address is the controversy over building a new high school. I know the change is painful but the need for more space seems to be overwhelming.

Your community is experiencing a building boom and enrollment is up despite an expanding charter school. In fact the Concord Academy Boyne has kept the Boyne City Schools out a numbers crisis. Also in the near future Boyne Falls may be linking up. I think the building programs in the last 40 years have kept students in modern and safe facilities. That expansion must continue to keep pace with population.

A key to my support is the civic pride exhibited in Boyne City. That civic pride has had tangible rewards in the past year (the athletic complex, the city-wide cleanup, and downtown development, etc.). The core to this is your fine school program that teaches leadership, citizenship, and teamwork.

Like many of the future graduates, I moved away. Boyne City Public Schools prepared me for the world beyond its borders. To preserve the institution that is an integral part of this vibrant community, I accept an increase in my taxes as a non-resident property owner. Change is part of our history and will be part of our future

Parent-teacher conferences take on a new twist

By STACY MCGEORGE

What is a student-led conference? It is a time for the student to present an honest picture of himself or herself as a learner to his or her parents. The student gathers pieces of work from throughout the year. He or she chooses one excellent piece and one piece that needs improvement from math, science, social studies, and language arts. He or she also concentrates on his or her behavior in the area of social skills.

The students spend lots of time preparing for their conference. They are responsible for collecting pieces of work in a portfolio. For each piece, they write an evaluation of how they did. Then they role play their conference with a peer and practice making a proper introduction.

On April 24, the seventh graders at Boyne City Middle School put on a conference for their parents. Each conference lasted 30 minutes. These students should be very proud of themselves for the excellent job they did.

Some of the parent comments were: "I liked the one-on-one interaction with my young adult as a student instead of a daughter."

"It was a good idea to have the students evaluate themselves and explain what they could have done differently."

"It gives me confidence in the school system tions and school experiences."

Some thoughts from the students were: "It was much easier than I thought and my mom was happy with my progress."

"It was fun and smooth. My parents heard about my work from me and not a teacher."

"It wasn't as stupid as I thought it would be.
If I didn't come, there was stuff I don't talk about at home and I did here. I think my parents know more about me now."

This was a new experience for all involved. We feel that it was a great success! Thanks to all the students, parents, and teachers for making this a positive experience!

Help of many made play a success

TO THE EDITOR:

Now that the stage dust has settled on Boyne City High School's spring musical "Beauty and the Beast," a few special thanks are in order.

First, and foremost, is the Boyne School Boosters for printing programs for all who attended. Every year the Boosters help our Drama Department with this expensive endeavor which makes our production as close to professional as we can get!

Second, we had volunteers give our students countless hours of help: Kecia Freed, Sue Hocquard, Gina Korthase, Karen and Jon Hoaglund, Delayne Johnecheck, Marie Sulak, Nancy Hammontree, Kay Rewald, and many others. Without these community members our production would not have been accomplished. Thanks for your help.

Q. "Dr. Koskus, why do we have earwax?"

A. Earwax, called cerumen, is a moist waxy substance that is secreted within the ear canal. Too much ear wax can cause a temporary loss of hearing. However, ear wax can also benefit the ear by keeping the ear canal moist and lubricated, deterring insects from entering the ear and trapping dust and other debris before it reaches the eardrum.

A simple look in the ear canal with an otoscope can determine whether you have too much ear wax.

New truck helps fire department fight grass fires

This year the Boyne City Fire Department has a new weapon to fight brush fires: a custom-built brush fire truck.

The fire department took delivery of the newly outfitted truck just in time for brush fire season last month.

The truck is a 1979 Dodge pickup that was left over from Operation Desert Storm. The vehicle carries a 250 gallon water tank and a unique internal water system that allows the driver to apply water to fires while driving.

The customized portion of the vehicle was built by Mike Seelye of Boyne Falls. While the brush truck was under construction at Mike's shop, a tragic accident took the life of Mike's brother Tim

So, later as the truck neared completion the Seelye family decided to donate a power winch to the Boyne City Fire Department to use on the brush truck in memory of Tim.

the nightcap 6-4.
Abbey Roberts was the losing pitcher in both games. In game one, she allowed only four hits while striking out three and walking two.

Katie Dhaseleer led the Ramblers with two hits while Treana Fiel doubled. Heather Bingham, Abbey Roberts and April Roberts each Brandy Barrens was the starting pitcher for Boyne in game two and she went two innings. Abbey Roberts came on to pitch the final five innings as she struck out seven and issued one free pass. Roberts gave up a two-run home run in the final inning to the Glads' Alicia Heintz to give T.C. the win.

Leading hitter for Boyne was Dhaseleer with two inside the park home runs. Bingham had two singles while Barrens had one.

Boyne City (6-6 overall and 3-3 in the conference) was rained out of Monday's contest with East Jordan and will be rescheduled at a later date. The Ramblers will play at Charlevoix this Thursday.

Boyne jv's lose heartbreakers

Poor defense cost the young Ramblers two close games at Traverse City St. Francis last Friday as the Gladiators took game one 6-5, then won the nightcap 7-6.

In game one, starting pitcher Jesse Simon went the distance in a losing effort despite pitching a good game. Simon had seven strikeouts, allowed six hits and walked three in taking the loss. Boyne's defense disapeared in the second inning as the Gladiators scored five runs on four hits and three Rambler errors to go ahead for good.

Getting hits for Boyne were Noah Stanek with a double while Simon, Danny Arner and Kevin Metzgar had singles. All four had an RBI while Simon had three stolen Game two saw the Ramblers give up six runs in the first inning before settling down. Danny Arner took the loss giving up four hits and two walks in the first inning. Arner did not allow another hit until the final frame with the game tied 6-6. A lead off single to right field turned into a triple after a fielding error, then a passed ball allowed the Glads to get the win.

Leading hitter for Boyne was Jesse Simon going 3 for 4 with a triple, a double and a single. Simon had 2 RBIs. Joe Jones had two singles while Josh Bush, Kevin Metzgar and Jeremy Grice each singled. Jones had two RBI's while Bush, Metzgar and Grice each had one.

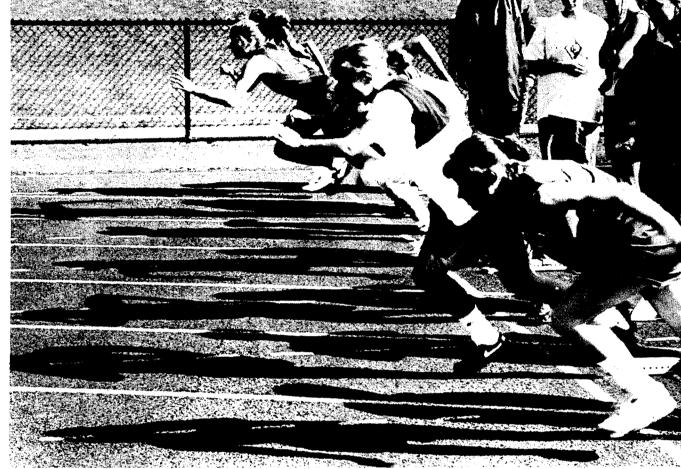

Boyne City's scheduled game with East Jordan was rained out Monday but the jv squad will play in Onaway Wednesday then play Sault St. Marie this Friday at home.

NEIGHBORS

By NANCY NORTHUP

A CALL CAME IN TOO LATE last Monday, telling about a happy combined celebration the day before. Joseph Russell, the grandson of Peter and Beth Inman and Arlane Russell, all of East Jordan, shared his first birthday with the "sweet 16th" birthday of his Aunt Amy Inman, as family and friends gathered at the Inman home for a cookout and party fun. Joseph is the son of Boyne City residents, Michelle and Dave Russell, who will soon be moving to East Jordan

AN UNINTENTIONAL ommission in last week's column was the mislaid item telling about Rosemary and Gene Wangeman, who spent the whole week here in Boyne City, from Northville, in celebration of her mother, Ruth Shaver, and her 85th birthday on April 17. "Among the highlights," Ruth said, "were all the beautiful cards I received - each one was different than the other." Sharing the birthday cake and ice cream with the family were her friends, Agnes Girard, Debby Ferris, Dorothy Peters, "Sonny" Capelin, and Marie

A WARM "WELCOME" goes out to Frank Abbett, the "newest" tenant of Litzenburger Place.

JOAN JANACK and Betty Shaver recently returned home after spending a week's vacation with a former BCHS classmate, Barbara Clark, of South Padre Island, Texas. En route, they were delayed for 11 hours at the Houston Airport, as all incoming and outgoing flights were grounded, due to severe weather conditions While there, activities enjoyed were two shopping days spent in Matamoros and Progreso, Mexico, shelling, on the Gulf of Mexico beach, sight-seeing and fresh seafood dining.

S.H.A.R.E. IS BACK! There were 38 on Friday, who gathered at Boyne City's Lakefront Mall and were welcomed by those working with area hosts, the Charlevoix Emmet County Housing Coalition. SHARE (Self Help and Resource Exchange) is part of a world program of neighbors helping neighbors, "making for a better community; a better world." Everyone is eligible, and in exchange for a couple of hours of voluntary community service of any kind and $15 cash each month, you can pick up a food package worth $25-30, which is distributed at the Boyne City Senior Center the last Saturday of the month. Another sign up will be held at the May 31 distribution/pick up day, from 11 a.m. until 12:30 at the Boyne City Hall. Please note: Any food not picked up, automatically goes to the food pantry.

STEVEN EVERETT and daughter Nicole of Taylor were visiting the Boyne City home of his mother, Jessie May and husband Don. Betty Alldread of Birmingham was here at her Boyne City home and visited relatives over the weekend.

PENNY HARDY and daughter Jennifer spent a long weekend in Toronto, taking the train from Detroit. Mother and daughter enjoyed many things, including seeing the stage play of Phantom of the Opera. After visiting her sister, Pam Smith in Redford, they returned home late on Monday. The whole trip, a Christmas present for Mom from her son Paul, was planned to coincide with sister Jennifer's birthday of May 10.

A GROUP OF 12 GIRLS from the BCHS girls track team, and chaperones Chris Brilinski, Michelle Van Damme, and Dee Kelly, spent a fun weekend retreat with a camp out in cabins in Alpena.

JUDY SHIOTELIS returned to her Boyne City home after having spent this past week in Marquette. While there, she and her family there enjoyed a special celebration of her mother, Helen Elder, for her 80th birthday on April 27.

ANNA JEAN MEYERS of Alma was the house guest of Delcie Phillips of Boyne City. While here, they visited Mackinaw City and St. Ignace. Across "Big Mack" on the first road going into St. Ignace, they found the newly relocated restaurant of three generations of good standing, Kenville's, and enjoyed their visit there.

A "SPRING FLING" is what's planned on Monday, May 12, at the East Jordan Senior Center! The music of Bobby Novak will keep things lively! It all starts at 4:30 p.m. with a dinner that will appease the appetite, delicious Salisbury Steak, with all the trimmings, to be served from 5-7 p.m. Plenty of door prizes will make it a fun time! A $6 per plate charge will be recycled - back to the center for future projects.

THE BCHS SOCIOLOGY class and their teacher, Michelle Van Damme, were the "chefs" at Litzenburger Place this past Friday afternoon. The 28 sophomores and juniors prepared and served a light lunch, topped off with generous ice cream cones for all. Everybody seemed to enjoy themselves, especially the tenants who were interviewed on a favorite subject of many, 'The Good Ole' Days/School Days," and also got their picture taken.

AREA FRIENDS might like to send a card or give a call to long time resident of Ferry Road, Orpha Hammond. She and her husband Burton, now deceased, were favorites at past Boyne City Farmer's Market days. Recently returning to Michigan from Florida, Orpha is not too well, but would love to hear from home folks. Her address is c/o 9157 McWain, Grand Blanc, MI 48438. Telephone, (810) 694-1738.

MARGARET MYERS of week to visit her two oldest daughters, Pat somewhat better.

A NOTE OF INTEREST came in from Traverse City's Gregg Smith this week It concerns the recent deaths of two Jesuit priests, Father Richard Deters and Father Howard Kerner. Both of these men spent mid 1950's summer sabbaticals in Boyne City's St. Matthew's and Boyne Falls' St. Augustine and were highly regarded and respected by Catholic and non-Catholic friends and neighbors in the area. An established scholarship from members of both churches in which they served, bears their names. Father Deters was with the Chicago Province, was 91, and died on Feb. 15, and Father Kerner, who was with the Detroit Province, was 84, and died on Dec.
