CITY GETTING NEW POLICE STATION

Another boost for downtown

An agreement between the City of East Jordan, the East Jordan Iron Works and the Malpass Foundation has provided the means for a new police station for the city.

City officials are working hard to revitalize the downtown and have demonstrated a cooperative, forward-thinking attitude, said Tad Malpass, executive vice president of East Jordan Iron Works as well as an active member of the Malpass Foundation. "We've been impressed with that."

Malpass said it is the hope of the Iron Works and the foundation that these agreements will help spur further interest in the revitalization of downtown.

The Malpass Foundation has been instrumental in bringing many East Jordan community projects to life. In this case, the foundation decided to help strike an item from the city's wish list.

"We've been involved with so many projects with the school we felt it was important to get involved in this project with the city," Malpass said. "The city's been working with the DDA (Downtown Development Authority), they've been working with the schools, the chamber of commerce and business and industry community."

"All of the city's efforts are directed toward moving East Jordan forward and the Malpass Foundation and East Jordan Iron Works wanted to validate those efforts by meeting the long-term goal of the city to improve the quarters for the police department."

City Administrator David White expressed his appreciation for that sentiment from Malpass. "The city commission is very committed to revitalizing East Jordan and helping to improve the business climate," he said.

The city also is focused on improving infrastructure for the residential needs of the city. From the development of an Industrial Park - of which the East Jordan Iron Works will be a tenant - to the streetscape project by the DDA, the city as a whole has outlined an aggressive program for city-wide improvements.

With the agreements signed Oct. 8 between the city and the Iron Works and the Malpass Foundation, plans for a new police station can begin in earnest while giving the city one less project over which to allocate its limited funds.

"Obviously, we're very excited and very thankful to the Iron Works and the Malpass Foundation," White said. The agreements are the culmination of lengthy discussions between the city and the Iron Works.

Both were approved by the city commission Oct. 8.

The first "memorandum of agreement" calls for an exchange of property between the city and its largest employer, East Jordan Iron Works. In exchange for an unbuildable city-owned lake front lot surrounded by Iron Works property, the city will receive ownership of the Masonic Building. According to the agreement, the Masonic Building property is worth $47,000, and the lake front parcel is valued at $31,500. The Iron Works agreed to forgive the difference.

"We've been involved with so many projects with the school we felt it was important to get involved in this project with the city."

--Tad Malpass

In the same agreement, the city agreed to abandon an alley and a portion of Garfield Street which will enable the Iron Works to "screen, buffer and secure" the east side of its plant from Main Street.

According to the document, the lake front property will allow the Iron Works to landscape and screen its parking area. The exchange for the Masonic Building gives the city the future option of expanding City Hall onto the neighboring property.

In the second agreement, called a "memorandum of understanding" between the city and Malpass Foundation, the city agrees to demolish the existing police station and create a park or open space at the site. In exchange, the Malpass Foundation conveys to the city property at the corner of Main and Garfield streets for a new police station.

This document also requires the city to apply for grants to the Malpass Foundation to cover $15,000 in expenses for demolition of the police station and the former Spike's Gas Station, $25,000 for architectural and engineering fees, and up to $235,000 for construction of a new police station.

Karen Walker's photograph capturing the beauty of the Jordan Valley was published on the cover of West Michigan's Fall Fun Guide.

Capturing the beauty of autumn

One day each fall, photographer Karen Walker strikes out down a less traveled path, searching for the photograph which will capture the beauty of one of her favorite spots — the Jordan Valley.

The efforts of her 1996 expedition recently became the cover of the West Michigan Fall Fun Guide.

"I just stumbled over it," Walker said of the scene. "Nice colors, the sky was perfect. It was just begging to be photographed."

The owner of Karen Walker Photography in East Jordan is known for her studio portraits. A lot of people have told her over her six years in business that her portraits look natural and not overly posed. And that look must be something people like.

"It's certainly the style that I like," she said. "I try to keep my settings very relaxed." Walker has always had an avid interest in photography. Six years ago she turned it into a business. She does portraits of high school seniors, families and weddings and dabbles in commercial photography. But scenic photos like the three in the Fall Fun Guide are favorites, too.

"The scenics I do are for fun, as a relief from the portraits. I quite often do them with the chamber of commerce in mind. I do get asked for that type of thing quite often."

Walker gives Mary Faculak, executive director of the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce, credit for getting her photos published by the West Michigan Tourist Association.

Faculak said the chamber is a member of the Tourist Association and is periodically asked for photographs for their publications. "I've sent in other photos before," Faculak said. "This particular time I had remembered Karen had absolutely gorgeous fall shots." Of the six photographs the chamber director submitted, one was selected for the cover and two others appear inside the publication.

Opportunities like this give the East Jordan Chamber office an opportunity to promote the area, and stimulate the tourism aspect of the East Jordan community, Faculak said. "I'm just delighted that our town was chosen."

Faculak said East Jordan is very fortunate to have the talent and generosity of Walker to help the area get recognition from tourist associations around the state. "She's been very, very generous. She always lets us use her photos."

Faculak said the fall tourist season in East Jordan was strong this year. She hopes the 50,000 copies of the Fall Fun Guide may stimulate even more interest in 1998.

Meanwhile, Walker is taking advantage of the last days of fall color to try to capture another winning photograph.

"I really enjoy the countryside," Walker said of East Jordan. "I feel very fortunate to live in the countryside and I would never live anywhere else."

Running through the Rams

Finding a hole in the line, East Jordan's Parke Bluhm slips by tacklers and breaks into the open on his way to a 35-yard touchdown run in Saturday's amazing come-from-behind win over Harbor Springs. Bluhm lead the team with 187 yards. For more on the game, see page 9.

COMMUNITY BENEFITS FROM MALPASS FOUNDATION

Quietly lending a hand

Without looking for credit or publicity the Malpass Foundation has quietly made significant contributions to the quality of life in East Jordan.

Tad Malpass, a member of the foundation and executive vice president of East Jordan Iron Works said members of the Malpass Foundation feel very fortunate and want to share their good fortune with the East Jordan community. But nothing the foundation has done is because of the need for a pat on the back.

Although the foundation has a formal mission statement, Malpass said it boils down to wanting to help the community and improve the quality of life in East Jordan over and above what could be done in the community in general. The foundation has funded projects which benefit many in the community that otherwise it might not be able to afford.

Boswell Stadium, the community pool and the East Jordan District Library are all testaments to the generosity of the Malpass Foundation. "Most of the projects we have been involved in in recent years are 'bricks and mortar' projects," Malpass said.

The Malpass Foundation was set up many years ago by the owners of East Jordan Iron Works. "It had different goals back in those days," Malpass said, and less funding than exists today. Now, the foundation is focusing its efforts on projects from which the whole community can benefit.

"Our family and business have been here for 114 years," Malpass said. "It's a good place to live." Because the business has found such success in East Jordan, the foundation serves as a way to return that good fortune back to the community.

One of the most recent efforts involving the Malpass Foundation is an agreement to fund the construction of a new police station for East Jordan. The agreement, which also involves property transfers between the city and East Jordan Iron Works, funds demolition of the existing police station and an unused gas station at the corner of Garfield and Main streets.

"We're able and we feel very fortunate to be able to do this," Malpass said.

Malpass said the foundation was aware for some time that a police station was on the city's wish list. The city, through its Downtown Development Authority, also had intentions of realigning Spring Street. The timing for the grant was right and the negotiations began.

Although many of the foundation's projects in the past have had community-wide impact, Malpass feels this latest agreement will help jump start even more interest for improvements to downtown East Jordan. Revitalization of the downtown gives people a reason to come downtown and gives people who are already there the inspiration to invest even more, he said.

OPINION

A MOM'S LIFE

Reading can often be the great escape

By CINDI PLACE

I've always enjoyed reading a good book. For me, nothing can replace the relaxation I find when I immerse myself in an exciting mystery or a heart-string-pulling story. And our children have adopted this same passion for reading.

Of course, this can present a few problems. Like trying to enforce an early bedtime when the child just wants to finish a few more chapters. Or when we need to get chores done that are decidedly less interesting than the latest Stephen King novel.

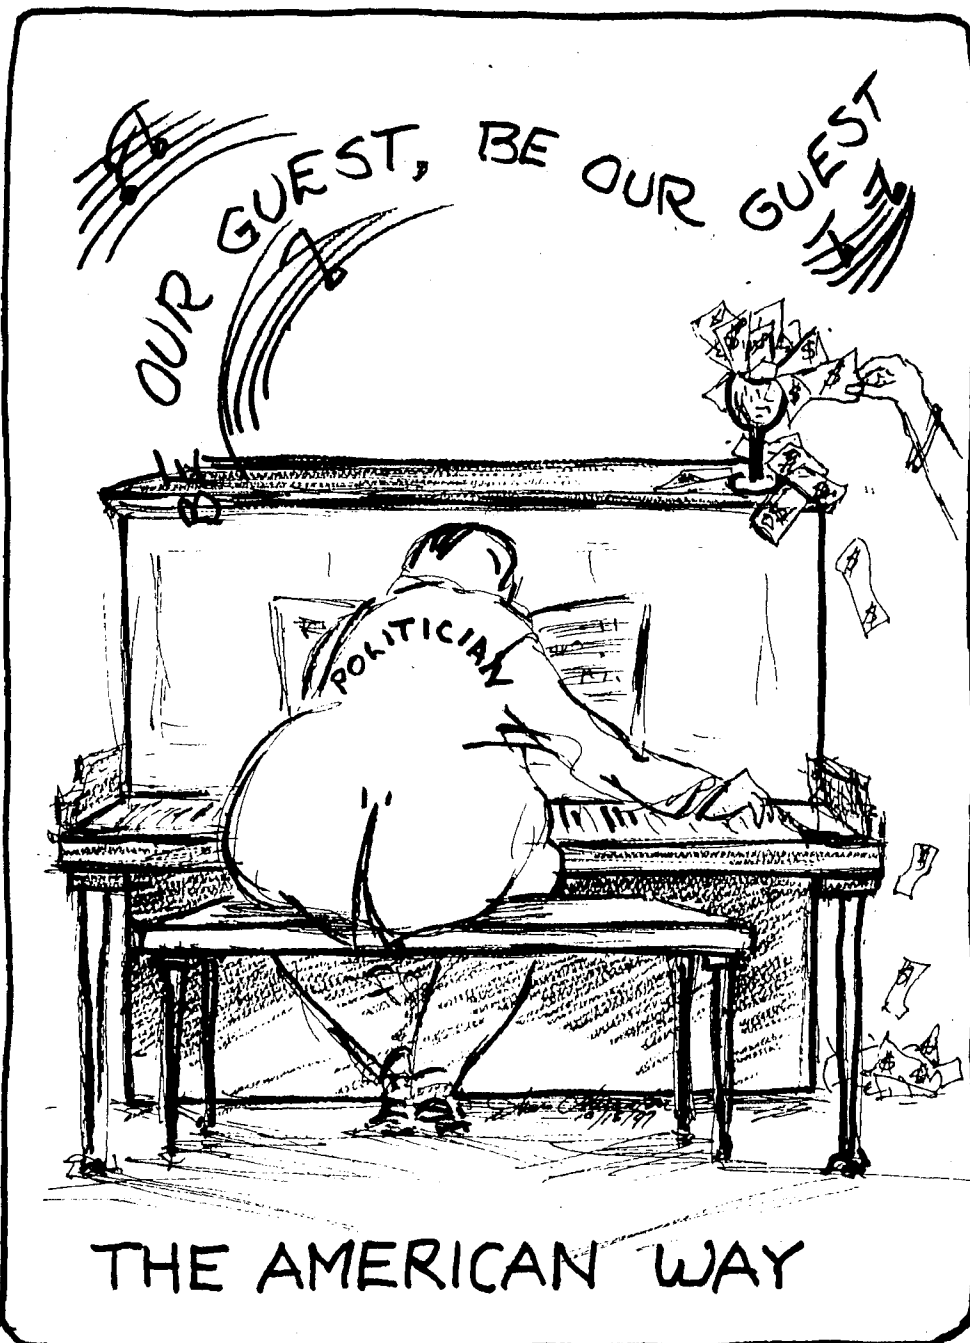

In the past year, our youngest son has been introduced to the joy of the written word. Not only does he love his books, but we now have to spell everything that he sees. The other day, I was desperately trying to get some work done when this young man decided to write a story. Problem was, he knew what he wanted to write about, but he wasn't sure how to spell all the words. "How do you spell 'r' mom?" he asked. Try explaining "why" to a child who has suddenly discovered that everything around him has a name with the exception of the letters in the alphabet.

Our kids have also learned, through experience, that almost anything can be put off if they use the excuse "But I'm reading a book, mom." How on earth can I tell them "no, stop reading, stop learning and clean up the basement."

Our family's favorite place to shop is the bookstore. Everyone has something they would like to purchase, and we feel pretty good about indulging this particular hobby. Of course, as the children get older, their book requests seem to get a little stranger. Those picture books and sweet bedtime stories have been replaced by books with titles like "The Dead Sewer Rat" and "Mystery of the Green Slime." But whatever the storyline, at this point we're happy that the kids are reading by their choice, not their parents' insistence.

Yesterday, one of the children asked me why I loved to read so much. I gave it some thought, then explained that reading was a way for me to pretend that the dishes didn't need doing and the house didn't really look like a hurricane had struck. When I am reading, I explained, I get to travel to places I've never been. And I even get to meet people who are interesting, yet different from myself.

"It's mom's little way to escape sometimes," I concluded. Ignoring the laundry piles surrounding him, the Halloween costumes in various stages of incompleteness, and the general confusion that seems to follow me everywhere, all this little innocent could ask was "escape what, mom?"

'We are certainly not misinformed'

TO THE EDITOR:

Just a minute Anne and Ed Thurston. It still stands in black and white that prior to the last election, you wrote in the Citizen that Senior citizens would be reimbursed on their taxes and pay no extra. You didn't clarify anything in your letter to the editor on Sept. 24, 1997. We, the Stols, are certainly not misinformed. We didn't go to Charlevoix to find out about a tax rebate either. Having been treasurer for 20 years gave a fair amount of experience.

The Homestead Tax is based on 18 mills. Any voted tax above the 18 mills, such as a voted school tax is paid for by the tax payer in its entirety. No exemptions.

There will be an increase this year of about two percent plus any voted millages. People who do not understand what taxes are about should quit trying to explain.

Thanks to Mr. Everett Sayles for the very informative Guest Commentary in the Oct. 2 News Review. What a sad day when the Boyne City School District hired the Paullin Group.

Sincerely,
Robert and Marie Stolt

Honoring women who served our country

(Editor's note: Since 1776 more than 1.8 million women have served in the U.S. military. Some of them have been from this area. On Saturday, President Clinton will dedicate The Women's Memorial in Arlington, Va., to honor America's military women — past, present and future. Part sculpture, part museum, the $21.5 million memorial includes exhibits and artifacts of women's military service and a computerized registry of servicewomen. Among the names in the registry will be Clarissa Beulah Heaton of Boyne City. Following is a story about her life, written by Hylon Heaton III, her nephew. To learn more about the memorial or to request registration forms, call the Women's Memorial Foundation at 1-800-472-5883.)

By HYLON HEATON III

Clarissa Beulah Heaton was born March 2, 1915 to Hylon Heaton Sr. and Mildred Frances Dornburg Heaton. Wanda, her sister, remembered her as fun, smart and a witty person. She was raised in Boyne City, and graduated salutatorian of her class, an eighth of a point from receiving valedictorian honors. Clarissa graduated from Cleary College in Ypsilanti. She met a University of Michigan engineering student named Howard Taft while attending college. Howard's father, Ernie Taft, was a cousin of Robert Taft, former president of the United States. On two occasions she eloped with William Taft.

The first time William's father flew to Angola, Ind., to stop the wedding, not because he disliked Clarissa but because neither party was finished with their schooling. The second time they eloped because of a spat between them.

Clarissa and Howard completed school, but Howard then got a job in the Panama Canal Zone. He was an engineer. He and Clarissa again put off getting married until he returned from this two year stint.

Wanda, who also graduated from Cleary College and who had roomed with Clarissa, returned home and married a man with a Tennessee accent, Hal Hill. Shortly after they were married they moved to Seattle, Wash. On a return visit to Boyne City, Clarissa decided to move to Seattle with Hal and Wanda. There Clarissa met Ruth Scott, a nurse, and together they rented an apartment and opened a small restaurant. This was 1943. It so happened that a Petoskey man by the name of Richard Brown, a Navy recruit and a hero of Pearl Harbor would visit Hal and Wanda Hill at a time when Clarissa was with them in Seattle. Thus began a new courtship that would lead to marriage.

Richard Brown was from Petoskey, where his father was an insurance salesman. Richard joined the United States Navy out of high school and served as a cook, and in battle as an anti-aircraft gunner.

He was assigned to the battle ship WEST VIRGINIA and was in Pearl Harbor on Dec. 7, 1941. In a newspaper article written on Dec. 6, 1991, he recalled that on that day in 1941 his ship was struck by six Japanese torpedoes and sunk. When the order came to "abandon ship," he with other shipmates dove overboard and swam 100 yards to Ford Island where he stayed a couple of days and then signed on the USS LEXINGTON.

Back home, in the states, a telegram was received by the parents of Richard Brown saying that he had been killed in action at Pearl Harbor. Indeed the Petoskey Paper carried the headlines and story: DICK BROWN KILLED IN OPENING ATTACK ON PEARL HARBOR, on Dec. 16, 1941. It was recalled by younger brother, Bob Brown, that a memorial service was held by the family and that oddly when the church service was over a lighted candle would not go out, when an

The way it was isn't good enough for today

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to take this time to personally thank Mr. Sayles and Mr. Waldner for their letters to your paper. In so doing, I would be honored to answer their expressed concerns.

First let's start with Mr. Sayles. He is concerned with the Paullin Group and the services it provides. He was under the impression that the primary service of the Paullin Group was to aid in passing a bond proposal. This could not be farther from the truth.

The Paullin Group was contracted to consult with the board and oversee the bond proposal/building project from conception to the washing of the last paint brush and sweeping the last clean-up, not just to pass a proposal. The Paullin Group utilizes the design-build concept rather than the conventional construction management way of going about your project, and in so doing saves the customer (taxpayers) 10-15 percent of the total project costs.

Mr. Sayles is also concerned with the compensation for services rendered. The Paullin Group was chosen for the fact that we would not have to pay some $35,000 to have hard architectural renderings drawn up, and waste a lot of taxpayers' money up front. Instead we have a very specific set of educational specifications to proceed with, but without that costly expense.

Yes, the Paullin Group will get paid if and when the proposal passes, at about half the rate that Mr. Sayles states. We've tried other ways of getting our space problems solved to no avail, so now we're trying this way.

As for Mr. Waldner's concerns, well, I can't thank Karl enough for his concern, because the numbers are of utmost importance, but they need to be correct in order to mean anything. The official count day was on the 24th of September and the counts are as follows: 489 elementary students in 22 regular classrooms plus one special-ed classroom, a gym, art room, music room, and I.L.S. lab; 488 middle school students in 14 regular classrooms, six portable classrooms, plus one special-ed, a gym, art room, and shop. The music classes have to be held in the Presbyterian church basement as there is not a room available for the class; 449 high school students in 18 regular classrooms, plus two special-ed, a gym, art room, music room, shop area, and drafting room.

Additionally, you also need to note that the laws and curriculum have changed dramatically over the last 15-20 years, and we now have the government dictating to us all these special-ed classrooms and at-risk programs which continue to eat at our space.

With all the above said, and with great thanks to the gentlemen above-mentioned, we still seem to be missing the point that this proposal came about from the inside out, by that I mean the Community Group was more concerned with propelling our children into the 21st century of learning and job markets, (i.e. an ever-changing curriculum, and especially a technology-based economy), than putting up bricks and mortar, but the needs are truly there for the additional space which will also allow us to rid ourselves of the health hazard learning environment provided our children via the portable classrooms.

In closing, Everett and Karl, I know that you hold on to the theory that plagues a lot of us, "It was good enough for me..." Unfortunately times are changing too fast, and it's not good enough now. We live in a rapidly changing society, and yet we have a very low tolerance for change, but please don't take it out on our children. With that, all I ask of anyone is to have all the facts, because if they have all the facts they will make the right decision for our children.

Thank you gentlemen and the community for your time, and please don't hesitate to call me at 582-2606 if I can be of further assistance.

Another attempt to pass a bloated millage

TO THE EDITOR:

This is really an open letter to those members of the Boyne City School Board who voted in favor of another attempt to slip a flawed and bloated millage proposal past the citizens of the Boyne City School District. There are two parts to this letter. The first is a simple question and the second part is a reality check.

First the question: "What part of 'NO' don't you understand?" For the past several years the people of this district have rejected several other ridiculous and over-reaching proposals. And this one is even worse - in fact, it's perilously close to fraud!

Now for the reality check. A millage increase will bump the cost of living for everyone in the district. First as a tax increase for home owners and as a rent increase for those with a lease. Then, the prices of goods and services rise as businesses pass along their increase to their customers. But let's take it a step further. Suppose you work at a branch plant of a larger company and suppose further, that in order to stay competitive and faced with a 25 year long prospect of an added tax, they are able to shift production to another plant.

The immediate job loss is bad enough but with less money circulating in the community, fewer employees are needed in retail stores, restaurants, gas stations, insurance agencies and so on. Why, if enough people leave town in order to find work, we may even need a few less bodies in the education bureaucracy.

But what about the kids? Will twenty million dollars worth of new buildings and remodeling make them better educated? Will a forty million dollar debt help? Or a newly wealthy educational consultant? We must vote an emphatic "NO" on Nov. 12, and once again after that in order to get out of a badly flawed contract with said consultant. Then, maybe, the board can come up with a reasonable plan that will offer our children a meaningful, quality education that will truly enrich their future.

First Kids Bank is all set to go for another year

First Kids' Bank is back. After a successful start last year, the bank will begin the 1997-98 school year with an open house on Thursday, Oct. 16, from 8:15-9:30 a.m. at the East Jordan Elementary School.

First Kids' Bank is not your typical financial institution. As its name implies, it's for kids. Sixteen fifth grade entrepreneurs are staffing the business this semester.

With a little help from employees at Huntington Bank of East Jordan, First Kids' Bank is an actual functioning bank run by students. They are responsible for cash drawers, recording transactions, keeping track of accounts, and customer relations among other things. Just like in the real work world, students who were interested in working for the FKB had to apply. Applications were first screened by teachers to narrow the list. Elementary school principal Charles Hershberger and Debbie Manville, assistant branch manager at Huntington then conducted interviews to select the applicants.

On the applications, students were asked questions about summer jobs, household chores, extra-curricular activities, and their strengths and weaknesses.

The FKB staff this semester is: branch manager, Corey McKenney; assistant manager, Jamisen Both; tellers, Devin Brown, Tom Krause, Richard Bjorem, Jessica Skop, Kaila Bennett, Amanda Arregain, Randi Heiden, Kari Skop, Nathan Richter, and Jennifer Pfeifle.

This year the bank also has a marketing team which this semester includes Amanda Evans, Kimberly Stephens, Tim Kraemer and Rex Bundy. Their job is to create banners and flyers that encourage students to use the bank and to advertise the bank's hours and dates of operation.

The staff for the second semester is: manager, Justin Roberts; assistant manager, Samantha McKenney; tellers, Michael Jason, Alex Stupyra, Christine Jackson, Danielle Warren, Tabitha Grover, Lesley Lundy, Nina Peters, Katie Diller, Angela Marr, Genna Bogaert; marketing, Nean Lewis, Alyssa Anthony, Nicholas Hanson, and Aaron Iverson.

According to Manville, the goal of First Kids' Bank is to teach students about money and its value. "It also teaches them how to handle money, about savings and people skills."

The bank's inaugural year, Manville said, was a success. Besides having fun and gaining valuable experience, students also participated in a variety of community events.

The staff has been training since the first of October in anticipation of Thursday's opening.

During the school year, FKB will hold office hours twice a month at 8:30 a.m. in the school's media center for about a half hour. The bank will alternate between Wednesdays and Thursdays to allow kindergarten students to participate.

During office hours, students can come to the cafeteria to open interest bearing accounts, and conduct transactions with the bank. Adult Huntington Banks account holders can also conduct transactions at the FKB. Students can make withdrawals from their accounts but must have parental permission. FKB accounts will also be accessible at any northern Michigan Huntington Banks location.

City flushing fire hydrants

If your water pressure starts to act up Sunday, don't be alarmed.

The City of East Jordan will be flushing fire hydrants on Sunday which may cause low water pressure, short periods of water outages and some rusty water.

Residents experiencing rusty water conditions are advised to let the cold water faucet run until the rusty color is gone.

For more information, call city hall at 536-3381.

Engineer hired to help with water problem

City Administrator David White is working with State of Michigan officials to improve water pressure problems in East Jordan.

White said there are a number of areas in the 4-inch city water line which need to be addressed. The west side of East Jordan experiences the most problems, he said. The city has hired a Grand Rapids engineering firm to identify ways to correct the problems.

One of the first areas to be addressed will be a site on M-66 between Bridge and Erie streets where Dr. John Kempton plans to build a five-unit office park. The park will house Dr. Kempton's new office and four other condominium units will be sold, according to White.

Once the engineering plan is completed, White said the city will apply for grants to help fund the project.

The state requires a letter from the city before a permit for the upgrade will be issued.

Alternative programs help students find success

By HUGH CONKLIN

Imagine you are 16 years old. You get up every morning and dread the thought of going to school. You're struggling in algebra, social studies puts you to sleep, you've had some run-ins with teachers, and your grades are suffering.

It's a scenario some students are faced with. For whatever reason, school in the conventional sense does not work for every student.

It's like trying to put a square peg in a round hole.

To cope, some students manage to go with the flow, do the bare minimum to get by and just hang on.

Other students say to heck with it, and drop out.

Traditionally those have been the choices.

Not anymore.

The Boyne City School District offers three alternative education choices: Hemingway Education Center, Porter Creek and Great Lakes Academy. While in different locations, with different staff and students, they all share the same goal — trying to give struggling students a chance to succeed.

Hemingway is the most visible alternative school in Boyne City, although it hasn't always been that way. After being moved around from one spot to another since it started, the program moved late this summer from the depths of the Boyne District Library basement to 521 Boyne Ave., the previous home of Nu-One Upholstery.

It's been a remarkable transformation. The interior has been painted, ceiling tiles have been replaced and the rooms are bright and airy. Computer stations line the wall, work tables fill the center of the room, a small kitchen separates the main classroom from two smaller rooms.

At two computers, students are working. One is going through a keyboarding lesson, another is completing work for biology. In the back room, a small group of students works around a table, each on a different subject.

The students range in age from 16 on up. The curriculum was recently upgraded and students, each working at their own pace, spend half their time on the computer and half working with textbooks.

Holding it all together is teacher Georgene Alger. She's been with the school district's alternative education program for 12 years. She teaches, encourages, cajoles, and disciplines the 17 students registered in her program.

She enjoys what she is doing. "In many ways this is a return to the one-room school," she said. "I have all levels of high school and several levels of ability to deal with each day. It is challenging for me because I have to be a teacher, counselor, friend, and advisor to many of these students."

Students who attend are there for a variety of reasons, she said. Some struggled in the high school environment. Others are struggling with family problems or personal challenges.

"Some are out on their own and don't know where to turn for guidance. It is especially rewarding to see your former students take their place as productive members of the community," Alger said. "I have been here long enough to have seen this happen. Too often people 'give up' on students they feel are difficult. We care for that student and work hard to show them how much we care."

Nick, a sophomore, is one of those students. This is his second year at Hemingway. "I love it here," he said. "It's easier to get my work done. I like the one-on-one with the teacher." After he graduates, Nick has plans to either attend college or enter the military.

Sally is another student at Hemingway. "I like the way you can work at your own pace," she said. "If I feel like doing health today, I can work on that and only that, or I can switch after an hour or so and do something else."

Alger has been involved with alternative education in Boyne City for the past 12 years. She started teaching two classes in the program at Litzenger Place. Soon the number of students outgrew the small room there and the program was moved to the United Methodist Church.

Hemingway became a full-time school in September 1994, and its home until this fall was the basement room in the district library.

The majority of the 17 students live in the Boyne City district. They are either referred to the program by staff, or students can refer themselves. An interview is held with the student and their family to determine if Hemingway is appropriate for them.

Another alternative school for students is Porter Creek in Advance. The school, started in 1989, has come a long way in recent years. One main improvement is the building. For years it was a mess. It had leaks, it smelled bad and in the winter snow would blow through cracks in the door.

"It was really amazing," said Linda Burgess, who's been teaching at the school for the past three years. "The school had a bad image, (because of a perceived drug problem with some students) and now we are down to no problems with drugs."

Frank Stead is the other teacher at the school, which this year has 29 students. A few of them come from Boyne City and the rest are from school districts within the Char-Em ISD. Much like at Hemingway, students work individually at their own pace.

Both Hemingway and Porter Creek are funded like any other school in the state. The Boyne City district this year receives $5,960 per student from the state foundation program, just like it does for other students. While that covers the cost of teachers and educational materials, the district has paid to make improvements to the buildings, said Mary Jason, director of the community and alternative education programs. The district has a 3-5 year lease for Hemingway and a long-term lease for Porter Creek.

The Great Lakes Academy is the third alternative school in the district and it is run in conjunction with Probate Court. Students attending are in trouble, either with the law or have been suspended from school. Some stay for a day, others for long periods of time. The staff includes Gerianne Dietze, Kim Redmer and court liaison John Murdick.

Last year 267 students were involved with the program throughout the year, with an average of 15-20 students attending daily. School is held at the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints church building on Vogel Street Monday through Friday.

Compared to Hemingway and Porter Creek, Great Lakes Academy is far more structured. Students work at individual study tables or one-on-one with a teacher. There is very little talking and the atmosphere is more like a library than an active classroom.

Students come from anywhere in the Char-Em ISD, some from two detention homes in the area, others are referred to the school by Probate Court, while others may have been suspended from their own school and rather than missing school altogether, they attend Great Lakes Academy instead.

The student's home district is charged by the Boyne City district for each day the student attends. That fee is based on the district's foundation grant and a 180 day school year. For example, if a district's foundation grant per student is $5,800, that number is divided by 180 to arrive at a cost per day to the district.

Kristine Bell-Michael Bratschi

Kristine Kay Bell and Terry Michael Bratschi exchanged marriage vows July 26 at 1:30 p.m. at St. Augustine's Catholic Church in Boyne Falls. The Rev. Francis Partridge performed the double ring rites.

The bride is the daughter of Gerald and Joann Bell of Boyne Falls. The groom's parents are Robert and Shirley Bratschi of Manistee.

The bride was escorted to the altar by her father. She wore a gown of white satin with sweetheart neckline. Heavily beaded re-embroidered silk lace accented the cut-outs in the short sleeves, bodice and skirt. A candy box bow over a triple layered cut-out peplum highlighted the cathedral length train. Her fingertip length veil was secured to a tiara headpiece of pearls and beads. She carried a cascading bouquet of mini white carnations, monte casino, freesia and trailing ivy.

The church was decorated with vases of white and purple tulips. The altar held the unity candle in an arrangement of wildflowers. Purple and white bows marked the pews.

Mary Jane Kirby was the organist. John Kirby was the soloist and sang "Love Me Tender" during lighting of the unity candle. Jennifer Dammeyer, close friend of the bride, read the first reading and responsorial psalm. William Hooper, friend of the groom, gave the second reading.

Carol Williams was the matron of honor. Bridesmaids were Sharon Constantineau, Kelly Payton-Bauman, Lisa Elder, cousin of the bride, and Pam Bratschi, sister of the groom. They wore purple crepe floor length gowns with short sleeves, empire waists and a purple satin floor-length bow at the back. They carried cascading bouquets of wildflowers and trailing ivy.

Alex Bratschi, nephew and godson of the groom, was the ring bearer.

Best man was Tom Favengesi. Groomsmen were Brian Bell, brother of the bride, and Mark Bratschi, Leo Bratschi and Dale Bratschi, all brothers of the groom.

ELK RAPIDS WAS NO MATCH FOR RAMBLERS

Homecoming domination

By TED KARASZEWSKI

Unseasonably warm temperatures at last Saturday's homecoming suited Boyne City fans just fine as alumni, friends and families turned out to watch the Ramblers shut out Elk Rapids 28-0.

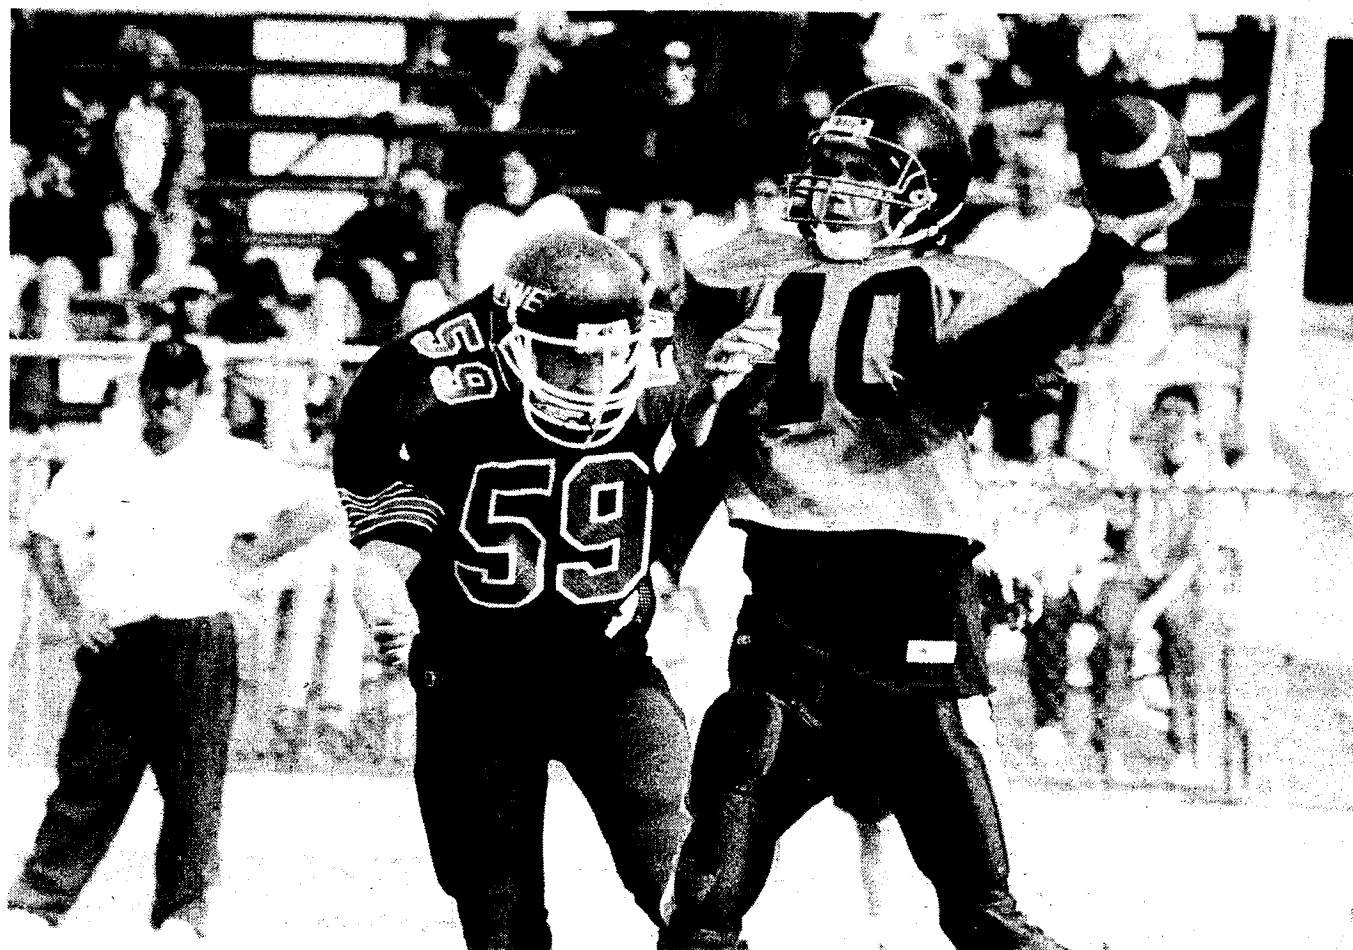

It was Boyne City's third straight win and second straight shutout and the Ramblers made it look easy. The score could have been 60-0 if not for the class act of coach Pat Klooster and his merciful ways.

"We knew we had the game under control and it absolutely does no good to run up the score," Klooster said. "We don't get any extra playoff points and all that would do is depress the kids of Elk Rapids even more. We ran plays off tackle that would be hard for us to score."

"It was a good opportunity to see the other kids play and give them experience."

Boyne's first possession resulted in a quick score as quarterback Matt Johncheck found his favorite target, Jesse Belford wide open for a 50-yard touchdown play. Johncheck scored the two-point conversion on a keeper for an 8-0 lead.

Still in the first quarter, the Ramblers put together an impressive drive using up seven plays before Johncheck fired a bullet to Tony Simon kicked the extra point for the 15-0 lead.

With a clear shot to the quarterback, Boyne City's Andy Fowler moves in for the sack. All day long the Rambler defense pressured Elk Rapids and held the visitors to 100 yards on offense.

"It was a good opportunity to see the other kids play and give them experience."

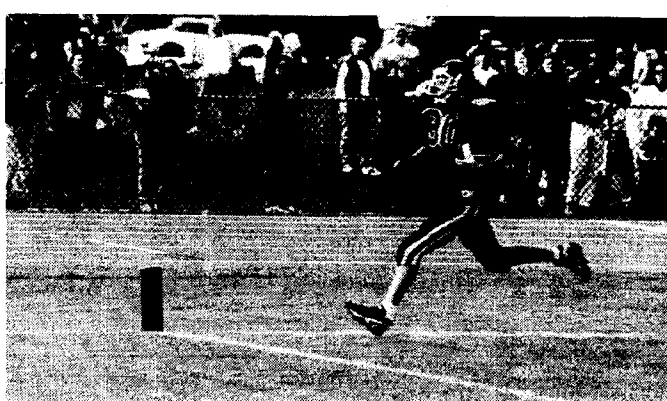

--Pat Klooster

"We've been getting better at the kicking part of our game," Klooster said. "Jesse had two extra points and we had good kickoffs and punts. We use different kickoffs to keep the other team guessing. They don't know what to expect."

With less than two minutes left in the first quarter, Boyne's George Grundner recovered an Elk Rapids fumble on the Elks' 18 yard line. Two

As he does after each game, Boyne City head coach Pat Klooster gathered his team at midfield for a post-game chat.

Jesse Belford streaking into the endzone after hauling in a pass from Matt Johncheck is getting to be a familiar scene this season. They connected again Saturday for two touchdowns.

plays later, Chuck Stanek scored on a counter play from 13 yards out giving the Ramblers a 21-0 lead. The extra point attempt was no good.

Grundner had another stellar performance as he was everywhere on defense. Along with his fumble recovery, Grundner was credited with chasing the quarterback out of the pocket several times, getting a solo sack and teaming up with David Cadarette for another. Cadarette also recorded a solo sack for a loss of 10 yards. The two of them had the Rams' quarterback on the run all day.

"George didn't even start the season on the first team," Klooster said. "After the Benzie loss we made several changes and he was one of them. You never know what fire burns inside a kid. George made the best of his opportunity. He's getting comfortable and he'll only get better. He's been a nice surprise."

The Ramblers scored their final points early in the second quarter when Johncheck again hooked up with Belford, this time on a 43-yard pass play. Simon kicked the extra point to put Boyne up 28-0.

Boyne City rolled up 335 yards total offense for the day with 173 of that through the air. Johncheck was 6 of 6 passing with four of those going to Belford for 147 yards. The rushing game was led by Scott Karaszewski with 43 yards on seven attempts. Ryan Seeley had five carries for 33 yards while Stanek and Nick Reihl each had 28 yards. Simon added 16 yards on five tries.

"We had a good balanced attack," Klooster said.

Defensively, Cadarette had six tackles, Grundner had 5 1/2, Clyde Patton had four, and David Miller had three. Casey Sulak had a fumble recovery while Stanek and Simon had interceptions. The Ramblers as a team held Elk Rapids to 100 total yards offense.

Boyne City (4-2 overall, 3-0 conference) hosts Harbor Springs (4-2 overall, 2-1 conference) this Friday in an important conference match-up.

"Harbor Springs won't be in a very good mood after their loss to East Jordan," Klooster said. "We need to win the rest of our games to stay in the hunt. We control our destiny."

Game time is 7:30 p.m.

Lady Ramblers get back on the winning track

With a step on her opponent, Sarah Bobowski drives to the basket on her way to 14 points against St. Francis Friday night.

By CHRIS WINKLER

A conference win and a conference loss last week put the Boyne City girls basketball team at 6-4 on the season, with a 4-2 record in the Lake Michigan Conference. The Lady Ramblers fell 77-41 to a tough Kalkaska Blazers squad Tuesday night, and then bounced back to top Traverse City St. Francis 61-43 on Friday.

Before the Kalkaska game, Boyne knew it would have to shut down the Blazers' first-team All-Stater, Leigh Ann Dalton. Last season, Dalton scored her 1,000th point in a game against the Ramblers. She proved Tuesday that she hasn't lost the touch. Dalton poured in 28 points, while teammate Sara Vergote had a great night of her own, scoring 27. Patti Larson added 12 for the Blazers.

Boyne was down 18-12 after the first quarter, 36-21 at the half, and 60-32 after three quarters. Katie Bernthal led the Ramblers with 10 points and six rebounds. April Roberts scored eight and grabbed six rebounds. Katie Jo Dhaseleer had eight points while Katie Kujawski snatched five boards.

Against St. Francis, Dhaseleer finished with 15 points, while Sarah Bobowski had 14, Bernthal 13, and Staci Seelye 11.

For St. Francis, Kate Senger put in 13 and Tracy Talbot pitched in with 11 points.

"We had really balanced scoring," said coach Tom Neidhamer. "We're real pleased with having four players in double-figures, and that we scored 60 points."

Boyne City led 16-7 after the opening frame, 30-17 at the half, and 41-32 with eight minutes to play.

"We did struggle tonight," said Neidhamer. "Our offense didn't have a whole lot of rhythm. Defensively, we only held them to ten buckets, but they went to the free throw line 32 times. We have to play better defensively, to not foul."

As for the outlook on the season, Neidhamer said, "We'll take the win. We're 6-4 midway through our season. This was the first of five games over the next ten days. We hope that the second half of our season is better than 6-4."

Both the junior varsity (8-2) and freshmen (11-1) teams have been continuing their winning ways.

The JV's beat Kalkaska 50-28 behind 18 points from Nicole Kurtz and ten from Kelly Sweet. In the 31-28 victory over TCSF, Maggie Doherty had 12 points, and Kurtz six.

Kara Perry had 12 points to lead the freshmen to a 53-45 triumph over Kalkaska on Tuesday. Thursday found Ali Swaim with 18 points in the frosh's 53-43 win against East Jordan.

The varsity and junior varsity squads hosted Rogers City Tuesday, Petoskey will be in town on Thursday, and then the teams will travel to Charlevoix on Saturday. The frosh were in Charlevoix Tuesday, and then will go back there Saturday after a Thursday game in Petoskey.

Wolverine tops Loggers

The Loggers were tripped up by the Wildcats last Wednesday as Wolverine took the top three places to go on to a 23-34 Northern Lakes Conference win.

"I was happy that we were competitive with them," said coach Andy Place. "We felt good that we took four of the top seven places, but unfortunately, they took the first three spots."

Boyne Falls runners in order of finish: 4th - Mike Kinney, 18:10; 5th - Matt Britton, 18:52; 6th - Jeremy Massey, 19:32; 7th - Ryan Fiel, 19:45; 12th Paul Howard, 22:17; Ben Britton timed at 25:12.

Boyne City runners' times: John Gibbs, 19:15; Sean Weisler, 20:06; Mik Martin, 21:07; Adam Hubble, 21:19; Beth Stackus, 23:46; Charlotte Stackus, 23:56; Amy Place, 26:47; Emily Roland, 26:51; Laura Cassidy, 29:18.

Boyne Falls visits Mackinaw City Wednesday while the Boyne City runners go to the Lake Michigan Conference run in Charlevoix.

Turnovers mount for Lady Loggers in loss to Mackinaw City

It was a disappointing week for the Lady Loggers, who lost to Leelanau St. Mary's last Tuesday 67-30 and then suffered a 40-33 loss to Mackinaw City at home Thursday. The two losses leave Boyne Falls with a 3-3 conference record and 6-6 overall. They return to action against Vanderbilt in a key conference game Thursday, then travel to Harbor Light next Tuesday. Vanderbilt is 3-1 in the conference while Harbor Light is 2-3.

St. Mary's, behind some hot shooting from the outside, put the game away early and was up by 20 points at the half.

"They shot the lights out," said

Boyne Falls coach Ken Doty.

Leading scorer for Boyne Falls was Penny Marchinkewicz, who had 13 points and 10 rebounds.

The game was won with outside shooting as St. Mary's hit nine 3-pointers while the Lady Loggers had just one.

Against Mackinaw City, one word describes the game: sloppy. Doty estimated his team had more than 50 turnovers and Mackinaw was not much better. Between the two teams, turnovers broke the century mark.

Marchinkewicz with 16 points led the Lady Loggers. Andrea Kondrat had nine and Trisha Kondrat scored six.

Red Devils roar back

Even in the bleakest moments, sometimes you just have to believe.

That's what the East Jordan Red Devils did, and their faith paid off in an amazing come-from-behind victory over Harbor Springs Saturday afternoon.

But sometimes the score of a game doesn't always tell the true story. Saturday's game was a case in point.

If ever a team was on the brink of falling apart, East Jordan was it. After an impressive start to the season, the Red Devils had a reality check at Benzie Central, and suffered a 30-6 loss. Then Boyne City came to town for the Red Devils' homecoming and the Ramblers romped to a 40-0 victory.

Then last Saturday, the Red Devils headed north to Harbor Springs and just as the sun-drenched homecoming crowd was settling into their seats, East Jordan was down 21-0.

And looming on the schedule next Saturday evening was St. Francis, the number-one rated team in Class C.

Even the most loyal fans had to start having a few doubts about this team.

But somewhere, the players found the will to compete. They believed what their coaches were telling them and they believed in themselves.

The end result: a 38-35 win over Harbor Springs.

"I'm real proud of the kids," said head coach Allan Peterson. "They just never quit."

Down by 21 points, it would have been the easy thing to do. But the players listened and believed.

"I told the kids they hadn't stopped us yet. Don't give up, we can move the ball. It wasn't that they had stopped us, but we kept shooting ourselves in the foot," Peterson said.

The shooting stopped midway through the second period when East Jordan's Dillon Antaya scored to cap a 53-yard drive and with a successful two-point conversion cut the lead to 21-8.

The Red Devils' defense then stopped a Harbor Springs' drive and the offense took over again.

This time Parke Bluhm slammed through the line, sliced to the outside and raced 35 yards for a touchdown to cut the score to 21-14 with just under three minutes remaining in the half.

While its offense came to life, East Jordan's defense rose to the occasion and stopped Harbor Springs at critical times.

Harbor then came right back and marched into the end zone to take a 27-14 lead.

But the Red Devils were not to be denied. On their next possession Bluhm broke through the line and raced 56 yards for a touchdown. The two-point conversion was successful and the Red Devils went into half time trailing 27-22, but their confidence was soaring while Harbor was feeling some doubts.

The Red Devils took the lead in the third quarter, capping a 70-yard drive with a five-yard pass from quarterback Chris Murray to Josh Luck. The two-point conversion was good to give East Jordan a 30-27 lead.

Harbor came right back and scored on a 30-yard touchdown pass. With the extra point, Harbor was up 35-30 at the end of the third quarter.

East Jordan's final march to victory came late in the game when Murray connected with Bluhm for an eight-yard scoring strike. This came after East Jordan was able to convert a fourth and one to keep the drive alive. With the two-point conversion, the Red Devils took the lead for good with only 34 seconds remaining.

In all his years of coaching, Peterson said this was the "funniest game" he's had. It even tops last year's three overtime win over Bellaire.

To make the win even sweeter, the Red Devils were able to mount their comeback with two of the starters out with injuries. "This is one of the greatest games I've ever coached," Peterson said, and it's the first time he can remember an East Jordan team coming back from a 21-point deficit.

Part of the reason for the Red Devils' comeback, he said, might have been conditioning. "I think Harbor wore down from the afternoon heat," Peterson said. "It seemed like maybe we endured the heat a little better than they did."

The heat certainly didn't bother the Red Devils' running game. Bluhm had 187 yards on 15 carries, three touchdowns and a two-point conversion. Antaya rushed for 98 yards on 14 carries and scored one touchdown. Murray connected on 5 of 9 passes, two of which were touchdowns. For the game, East Jordan rushed for well over 300 yards.

Now the Red Devils face another challenge, maybe their biggest of the season. Saturday they travel to Traverse City to face St. Francis, which is 6-0 after last week's impressive win over Muskegon Catholic Central.

"We're up for it," Peterson said. "It's an uphill battle, but we'll do what it takes."

In final tune-up before conference meet, EJ runners set the pace

Now it's time and the East Jordan cross country team is ready.

The runners are now focused on Wednesday's conference meet at Charlevoix after an impressive showing at the Ogemaw Heights Invitational last Saturday.

The boys team finished first among schools its size and third overall among the 11 teams competing. The girls took fourth out of eight teams, but like the boys, they took first among Class C, small B schools.

"Our team ran very well," said coach Dennis Snarey. "This was our final tune-up before the conference and I feel the teams are now ready."

For the boys, Mark Penzien led the way with a fifth place finish among the 128 runners competing. His time was 17:10. Behind Penzien were Chris Bearden, 17:41, 13th; Micah Middaugh, 17:56, 17th; Tarn Leach, 17:59, 19th; Charlie Hague, 18:02, 20th; Kevin Penzien, 18:19, 24th; and Matt Shaw, 18:52, 33rd.

Emily Niewendorf took the top spot for the girls, finishing 17th out of 83 runners, with a time of 22:13. She was followed by Catey Moses, 22:21, 20th; Debbie Bacon, 22:46, 21st; Beth Purvis, 22:48, 23rd; Holly Petkewicz, 23:22, 32nd; Kristina Nelson, 26:40, 67th.

While the varsity teams turned in strong performances at Ogemaw Heights, so did the middle school team which took first place. Three East Jordan runners finished in the top 10, led by Jeremy Booze who took third with a time of 11:23. Corban Shaw was seventh with a time of 11:43, while Brian Kirby took ninth. His time was 11:50.

Also competing were Peter Warnos, 12:02, 13th; Jeremy Penzien, 12:20, 15th; Garrett Romero, 12:29, 16th; Sam Brock, 12:52, 20th; and Mark McKenney, 17:21, 51st.

Lady Red Devils defeat Elk Rapids

The third quarter spelled trouble for the Lady Red Devils against Charlevoix last Tuesday. After jumping out to an early 12-2 lead and going into half time with a 4 point lead, Charlevoix broke loose in the third quarter and out-scored the Red Devils 23-11. "We just couldn't come back from that deficit," said coach Steve Hines. "We dug ourselves too much of a hole."

But the Lady Red Devils bounced right back Friday night and used a strong third quarter of their own to defeat Elk Rapids 62-44. East Jordan was up by three after the first quarter and led by eight at the half, then broke the game wide open with a 26 point third quarter. "We shot well and our press gave us some easy baskets," Hines said. "We were also able to break their press for easy shots."

With the victory, the Lady Red Devils are 2-3 in the conference and 5-6 overall. Tuesday they traveled to Kalkaska, a team that has lost only to Harbor Springs this season. On Thursday they face Cheboygan and they will be looking for revenge. In the fourth game of the season, the Lady Red Devils lost by one point to Cheboygan. Against Charlevoix, Jenny Falco was East Jordan's leading scorer with 11 points. She also had a team high nine steals. Jenny Goebel also had a good game, scoring 10 points and leading the team with seven rebounds. Ember Ransom, who had six rebounds against Charlevoix, led the Lady Red Devils against Elk Rapids with 20 points. Rachel Boss had 15 points and had nine rebounds. Goebel had seven rebounds while Falco had five assists and five steals.

Pop Warner teams win at home

After a few weeks away, East Jordan's Pop Warner teams returned to the friendly confines of Boswell Stadium Saturday and earned two victories over Kingsley. The Super Devils won 10-8, while the Dirt Devils won 16-0. Arnold Arnott scored the Super Devils' only touchdown on a long run. Reese Bartlett kicked the extra point. He also kicked the winning field goal late in the game. Scoring for the Dirt Devils was Matt Whiteford on a five-yard run and Aaron Woodard on a 20-yard run. Woodard and Willie Skrocki scored the Dirt Devils' two successful 2-point conversions. Saturday East Jordan and Kingsley will face each other again. This time at Kingsley.

Old township hall has new place to call home

The trip was only about 1 1/2 miles last Thursday morning, but the climb up the hill on Fuller Road made the journey interesting.

Top O' Michigan assisted with the move by raising power lines along the route.

A new member joined the Raven Hill Discovery Center last week: the old Wilson Township Hall.

The building, donated to Raven Hill by the township board, made the slow move down the East Jordan-Boyer City Road and up the hill on Fuller Road to its new location Thursday morning.

By the end of the day, it was already placed on its new foundation. "There's still a lot of work to do," said Cheri Leach, who along with her husband Tim have developed Raven Hill. "It needs to be scraped and painted, but it's exciting to have."

The old township hall will be used by the center as a one-room school house. It will be set up to show the changes in schools dating back to the late 1700s. There will be books, writing materials, and desks from the 1700s to the present.

Through donations from clubs and organizations, Raven Hill raised $4,000 to pay for moving costs and the new foundation. Top O' Michigan also lent a helping hand, raising power lines along the route at no cost.

The old township hall has been sitting vacant since the township moved to a new hall more than two years ago. The Leaches asked the township about acquiring the building back then, but it was caught up in a legal question of who actually owned the building.

It was determined it was the township's property and "it was theirs to do with as they wished," Cheri said.

The township wanted to help and gave Raven Hill the hall for $1.

Storage buildings under construction

Construction is underway on property behind Korhase Insurance on the Boyne City-East Jordan Road.

The site plan approved by the Boyne City Planning Commission permits construction of six storage buildings and an unattended fueling station on the more than three acre site.

Thank You ...

We wish to thank Boyne City ambulance personnel, Charlevoix Area Hospital doctors, nurses and everyone who helped over 2 years and in the time of Jim Moose's death.
