Litterbugs

From "Tall Tales of Newaygo Now!"
(Ernest Jack Sharpe)

The litterbug is a filthy pest,
While Mother Nature tries her best
To always beautify the ground,
He scatters all his trash around,
On picnic grounds; along the highway;
On beaches; parks; and every byway.
You'll find the litterbug's been there.
His trash and cans are everywhere.
He's real sneaky at it too,
When he thinks he's out of view,
From his car while on the go,
His bag of garbage he will throw.
No thought for beauties God has wrought;
Of other folks he gives no thought.
A sneaky, filthy, thoughtless lug—
That describes the litterbug.

Indian Pageant Highlights At Harbor Springs

Early history of the Ottawa Indians as they settled in the Little Traverse bay region around Harbor Springs will be depicted in a series of four colorful episodes at this year's annual Ottawa Indian Pageant this Friday and Saturday at Harbor Springs.

Scenario for the pageant, written by Russell Van Avery, pageant director, was taken from Chief Andrew Blackbird's "History of the Ottawas." Blackbird was the first Postmaster authorized by the federal government and his former home and post office has been converted into an Indian Museum by the Michigan Indian Foundation, Inc. It is located opposite Harbor Springs' City Hall.

Two special features have been added to this year's pageant. First, musical background for the presentation will be furnished by a community chorus of thirty voices, singing songs from the operetta, "Rose Marie." The chorus is directed by Joseph Jezisek, Harbor Springs High School music instructor.

Second, episodes will be lived by authentic Indian dances staged by a troupe of Hopi Indians from Arizona, who will be presented in six different tribal rites, clad in colorful costumes.

Midway in the program, the interesting Naming Ceremonies will take place, when a group of distinguished visitors will be officially adopted into the Ottawa tribe as honorary chiefs.

At 7:30 p.m., on Friday evening, four bands will participate in the annual parade to the stadium. Charlevoix, Gaylord and Harbor Springs High School bands will march, led by the Harbor Springs Drum and Bugle Corps. Merchants will enter floats and various other communities will be represented.

Martha Wagbo Arrives In Norway

Here are more of Miss Martha Wagbo's interesting experiences on her trip to Oslo, Norway and of her arrival at the "Land of the Midnight Sun."

Leaving New York City was uneventful except for a 2-hour delay for mechanical trouble which required repairs. Two days cut finds us completely relaxed due to the inertia which every-served refreshments including a beautiful four tiered wedding cake. The four tiered wedding cake was made by the bride's mother and beautiful arrangements of summer flowers graced the home.

They received many good wishes from their friends and relatives and also many lovely and useful gifts.

Out-of-town guests were from Holly, St. Charles, Flint, Traverse City, Petoskey, Boyne City and many from East Jordan.

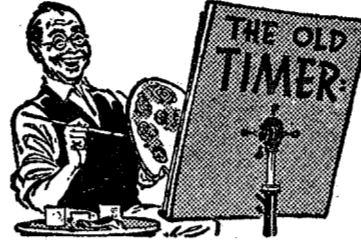

The couple returned to Flint Sunday where they will make their home.

one succumbs to due to the foggy weather and gentle roll of the ship. It is heavenly to be able to do nothing but sit in a deck chair watching the endless horizons.

Our daily routine consists of breakfast at 8:45 a.m.; orientation for summer school students, 10:00 a.m.; luncheon, 1:45 p.m.; coffee, 3:30 p.m.; chorus, 4 p.m., dinner, 7:15 p.m.; and entertainment, 9 p.m.

All the public address announcements are given in Norwegian and sometimes followed by English. They begin by the Norwegian greeting "Hullo! Hullo!"

Yesterday was our big day. We sighted land and the fjord pilot came to meet the Stavanger and came aboard ship and piloted the ship into harbor. As the ship docked we were greeted by friends and relatives waving and carrying flowers. The summer school students sang, "Ya Vi Elsker Dette Landet" (the Norwegian national anthem), and the Stars Spangled Banner while the people on shore joined in. There were many older people aboard who had not been met by their families in boats with their name on banners. The whole thing was most impressive.

"What a man changes into is more important than what he changes from."

Our group was then escorted to the Hanseatic League House dating from the Middle Ages. Representatives from the Bergen University and the city tourist bureau met us there and gave speeches of welcome, after which our young student representative got up and gave a very warm response in perfect Norwegian after which he said in English, "That's all the Norwegian I know so I won't make my speech any longer."

We then were served open-face sandwiches of all descriptions from these ancient tables. I wish I could describe this very ancient Merchants Guild House to you. You felt as if you were ensconced in medieval history.

Heavy dark beams above and a hole about four feet square in peak of roof for the smoke from fireplace and lighting to escape. At each entrance was a beautiful 18-inch brass bowl sunk into a table over which hung a beautifully polished teakettle supported from a brass extension from the wall. Beside it was a linen roller towel. This no doubt was the lavatory equipment. Under the table was a large wooden tub for waste water. These houses were built by the German merchants in the middle ages.

After the buffet we took a taxi to the museum which is being built. It is something on the order of our Williamsburg except that everything used is found right in Bergen. As soon as these ancient houses can be vacated they are brought up to this museum and placed in the proper setting. We were so amused at the Baker's house when we were shown where they kept their maid. A small drawerlike compartment under the serving counter in the pass pantry was her bed. I've known people who thought they ought to put the "help" away in drawers after they were through with them for the day, but never dreamed it was actually done.

Our very charming guide showed us the Kafee where we served coffee and pound cake by the hostess in costume of that period in the manner of that period. A silver coffee pot was given to the guest host to pour and tea cups (demitasse) in saucers brought in on serving plates with napkins under saucer. Both coffee and cake were most delicious!

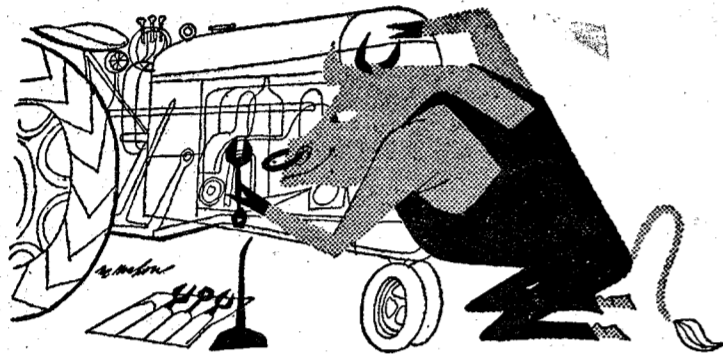

We then drove through very narrow cobblestone streets seeing ancient Bergen in the heavy fog and usual drizzle.

Today we shopped in Stavanger at the handicraft shop. It just made us drool—wish we could come back for Christmas shopping.

We are now on our last lap and will arrive at 7 a.m. Saturday.

The summer school personnel is the usual American student dressed in Bermuda flannels, sport clothes or blue jeans. There are also many Ph.D's, Full-bright students and exchange teachers. The boys at our table have attended school in Seattle, Florida, Massachusetts and Thule for summer experience and now to Oslo. They really go places.

LET'S FARM SAFELY

National Farm Safety Week
July 25 To 31

The slogan prepared for Farm Safety week by the National Safety Council is "Farm to live and live to Farm." They have also prepared a farm safety inventory with which to check your farm for points that will help prevent accidents. These safety points are presented in ad form in this issue of the East Jordan News by various companies interested in the future of our county farmers.

Let us help prevent the Charlevoix County accidents that are likely to touch one farm in four in the next 12 months as predicted by Ed Rebman, county agricultural agent.

Make a SAFETY INVENTORY of your farm. Be careful . . . the life you save may be your own!

Any hidden stumps, holes, inflammable piles or rubbish, around to promote accidents?

There's plenty of trouble—and danger, too—in the bottom of an unfilled hole or ditch. Keep a sharp eye out for dangers like this. And all farm hazards. Day in and day out!

Be Careful—the life you save may be your own!

Is the farm property in tip-top shape?

Have I got the farm equipment in good running order, and my tools properly stowed away when not in use?

(Any other question I should ask and answer?)

Ellsworth Farmer's Exchange

Anything around the house that needs a little attention to keep everything in "safety-shape"?

Is the farm property in tip-top shape?

Have I got the farm equipment in good running order, and my tools properly stowed away when not in use?

(Any other question I should ask and answer?)

"Before you roost on your laurels make the FARM SAFETY INVENTORY!"

Any good farm safety inventory just cannot quit after one look around the premises.

Take a second look . . . and then a third. Be sure you have eliminated as many farm hazards as you possibly can. That way you can work more efficiently, with greater convenience, and with a better chance of living through the year.

Of course, talk is cheap. That's why we've prepared this little check-list to help you do the job. Won't you answer the questions honestly . . . for the good of your whole farm family?

"Farm to Live and Live to Farm" . . .

BE CAREFUL—the life you save may be your own!

Orchard Notes

By C. Fairman
Thursday, July 22, 1954 * East Jordan News-Herald * Page 7

The June drop on sweet cherries this year was unnatural on account of the freeze in the early spring. Some of this early June drop stuck on the trees and rotted which may spread to other cherries and act as brown rot regardless of spraying.

Many green and semi-green cherries are being taken to the market. The plants take small green ones and ungraded cherries only they do not like too many cracked ones.

While they prefer the Napoleon or Royal Anne at 14c, they will also take Windsors at 12c per pound. The Windsor and Bing variety of sweet cherries bore fairly well this year. Most other varieties were light or a complete failure. And the Schmidts vary from tree to tree.

Make Check Of Your Farm For Safety Week, Agent Says

National Farm Safety Week, if conscientiously observed by all, will mean money in every farmer's pocket this year, claims Ed Rebman, Charlevoix county agricultural agent.

Farm accidents last year cost more than 17 million man-days of work time. Most of the accidents were preventable. The majority stemmed from carelessness.

Make a safety check of your farm today, he advises. A little time and effort now will prevent that costly accident before it happens. Check the farm home for loose stairs, unsafe ladders and shaky chairs. See to it that matches, drugs and insecticides are out of the children's reach.

Be sure that ladders, stairs, and floors in the barn are sturdy and sound, adds David G. Steinicke, safety specialist at Michigan State College. Check all mechanical equipment. Be sure your electrical circuits are not overloaded—that your electrical devices bear the seal of the Underwriter's Laboratory. That seal means they are properly designed to do their job safely.

Adopt safe practices for yourself and family. Never try to oil or repair machinery while it is running. Always pour gasoline and kerosene in the open, keep youngsters away from the livestock. Remember, there is no such thing as a "gentle bull," says Steinicke.

Finally, make Farm Safety

Week a year around pledge. Safety should be your motto 365 days of the year, agent Rebman reminds.

Spotchecking Of Weights Disclosed

Spotchecking of weights on pre-packaged food offered in grocery stores throughout the state disclosed 3,161 instances of shortweight out of 8,054 packages tested last month.

This is shown in a report submitted to G. S. McIntyre, director of the Michigan Department of Agriculture.

While there were 3,161 instances of shortweight, actually the amount is low in comparison with the hundreds of thousands of packages offered to housewives. Just a few inaccurate scales could easily account for all of the instances of shortweight. Inaccurate scales amounted to 11 percent of those tested. Overweight was found as well as underweight.

Inspectors of the Michigan Department of Agriculture are constantly visiting stores throughout the state searching for shortweight and other violations. The duties are many because sanitation, adulteration, false advertising, misbranding must be watched as well.

Such inspectors also are responsible for checking gas pumps, scales of all kinds, fruits and vegetables, bakeries, bottling works, eggs, meats and anything which deals with food products. The total cost of all of these various services is estimated to be less than a nickel per capita a year, according to Mr. McIntyre.

Many Use Farm Area Credit

Farm families in Charlevoix and Emmet counties have made good use of Farmers Home Administration credit and services this past year and have stepped up the efficiency of their farming operations, Carl B. Brown, the agency's county supervisor headquartered at Petoskey said this week.

Additional funds have been made available, he said, to lend through the next year to farmers to operate, buy, enlarge, or improve farms.

A large proportion of the money loaned in these counties during the past 12 months has been to veterans and other young farm families who are establishing better farm setups. Their greatest needs were for adequate credit and some help in developing sound systems of farming and adopting efficient farm management practices. No loans were made to farmers who were able to obtain the financing they needed from other local lenders.

A total of $79,145 was loaned in the two counties for equipment, livestock, fertilizer, feed and seed, that farm families needed to make better use of their land and labor resources.

Farm housing loans amounted to $5100 from funds appropriated by Congress.

The county office of the Farmers Home Administration serving Charlevoix and Emmet Counties is located in Petoskey.

FOREST FIRES DESTROY NEEDED TIMBER!

Shakey Please be Careful!

"Anything moo we can do to promote the FARM SAFETY INVENTORY?"

There's this you can do—any day, all day, the year 'round.

Be careful, man and beast. Keep the place picked up. Keep a sharp eye out for the hundred and one spots on the premises that can promote danger.

Safety is a year 'round job for the whole farm family—bar none.

To help you make your own personal safety inventory, here's a set of questions you might like to answer for yourself:

Is the farmyard safe for the kids to be playing in?

Is my machinery and equipment in as good shape as I can get it?

Is the house in good repair . . . and is the Missus doing her part in eliminating hazards?

Am I being as careful as I can each day?

"Farm to Live and Live to Farm" . . .

BE CAREFUL—the life you save may be your own!

IDEAL DAIRY

Boyne City

"Now's the time for all good farms to make a SAFETY INVENTORY!"

The Honorable Speaker makes a very good point—particularly at this time of year.

After all, Safety is a very desirable bit of farm equipment . . . the year 'round.

Let's put it to work . . . from today on. Take a little inventory of the home place. Keep a sharp eye out for those little hazards that can make farm living too dangerous for comfort.

To get you started, here's a little check-list for your convenience:

Is my farm machinery in good shape?

Any building in need of repair?

Any holes that need filling, any broken fences, hidden stumps, rubbish piles, or what have you?

Anything else I can think of?

"Farm to Live and Live to Farm" . . .
