Three-County Natural Gas Project Opens North To New Fuel Supply

Michigan Consolidated Gas Company announced today that it will spend $4.3 million this year to extend natural gas service to this area, in a major expansion program which will drastically reduce fuel costs for gas users.

Hugh C. Daly, executive vice president of the utility, said natural gas service will be available by next September in Petoskey, Charlevoix, Boyne City, Boyne Falls, East Jordan, Kalkaska, Mancelona and Antrim. The company will construct 90 miles of transmission line from near Traverse City to reach this area and approximately 100 miles of gas distribution mains within the communities.

Daly said residents presently using LP gas for heating and household appliances can expect to cut their fuel bills up to one half when they convert to natural gas. Residents using other fuels can expect to reduce their bills by as much as one third.

Michigan Consolidated will convert burners on existing LP furnaces and appliances free of charge, Daly said. Other types of furnaces can be converted to use natural gas within a few hours at nominal cost which will be returned to homeowners in the form of lower heating costs.

Daly said Michigan Consolidated would contact potential gas customers by mail within a few weeks, and sales representatives will make personal calls in April on those residents who indicate an interest in having gas service. He pointed out that gas mains can only be installed on those streets where a sufficient number of customers agree to take service.

Michigan Consolidated also announced it has signed an agreement of mutual cooperation with the Northern Public Service Company of Petoskey. The agreement was signed by Lou Marshall, president of Northern and Hugh C. Daly, executive vice president of Michigan Consolidated.

According to a joint statement issued by Marshall and Daly, the two companies will work together in promoting the sale of natural gas in the cities Michigan Consolidated plans to serve.

Marshall and his employees will serve as consultants to Michigan Consolidated, assist in securing franchises, aid in selling gas appliances and converting heating systems and appliances to use natural gas.

In signing the agreement, Daly said he was delighted that Michigan Consolidated has been able to secure the services of Mr. Marshall, "whose long business experience in Northern Michigan will be of great value to us in establishing our company here. We look forward to a splendid relationship which I am sure will benefit both our customers and our respective companies," he said.

Marshall said he welcomed great asset to the economic growth of the area. "The availability of natural gas in these communities should help create new jobs through the attraction of industry which requires or desires this inexpensive and superior fuel.

"It is a pleasure to cooperate with Michigan Consolidated on this project which is so important to our citizens and I look forward to a pleasant association," Marshall said.

Daly said Michigan Consolidated's initial survey of potential large volume gas sales was very gratifying. "We have obtained service applications for a number of industries and public buildings and assurances that many more will be converted to natural gas."

Devotion To Community Recognized By Chamber

Many men give their time and effort in service to their own community, on their own initiative and when they are called upon to do so.

But few here in East Jordan have devoted so much of their adult lives to civic endeavors as Thomas S. Charles, postmaster, park commissioner, American Legion officer, volunteer fireman, county worker and war effort aide.

For the past 35 years Tom, a husband, a father and an Army veteran has spent his life efforts toward a more steady development of his own home town.

His civic work and interests were brought to the attention of the full membership of the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce, Inc., at its annual meeting in January.

Chamber Board Chairman, Walter Thorsen, cited Tom, as well as Mrs. St. Charles, as one of East Jordan's most outstanding citizens, honoring him for his long and faithful service to East Jordan.

A veteran of World War I, Tom has taken active interest in the development and the maintenance of the Boy Scout Post of the American Legion. He has held every office in the Legion and has been its service office for the past several years.

Following his work as air mail carrier, Tom received a purse and a letter of commendation from the U. S. Post Office for his devotion to the community during the war. He received the help of many volunteers in conducting the crucial election.

Although Tom served some 16 years in the East Jordan postoffice, 14 as postmaster and two and one half as sub-clerk, he always found time to give to the betterment of his hometown.

He made a short flury into politics at one time and recalls the event with a laugh. "I was beaten for councilman by one vote."

He was also a member of the East Jordan volunteer fire department.

As early as 1928, Tom was working around the present site of the Tourist Park and he followed its development through the years until today it has become one of the finest in northern Michigan's vacationland.

been an investment, not a loss. He charted the park's development, supervised landscaping and construction, worked and fought always for its growth. The park commissioner receives no salary.

Today, there are about 200 people per day at the park during the summer months, and on week-ends it will number as high as 250, according to Tom. There is room for 50 trailers at the park now with proposed plans to raise the capacity to 65.

In addition to his service here in East Jordan, Tom spent three years as a member of the Charlevoix County Social Welfare Commission.

When the old Businessmen's Association was trying to raise funds for location of an industrial plant here, Tom worked actively with the group and helped see the project through to a complete success.

After the United States entered World War II, Tom was called upon again to serve his country. This time here in East Jordan, he was named chief of food observer and worked in that capacity during the war. He received the help of many volunteers in conducting the crucial election.

Following his work as air mail carrier, Tom received a purse and a letter of commendation from the U. S. Post Office for his devotion to the community during the war. He received the help of many volunteers in conducting the crucial election.

More recently he received one from the City of East Jordan in appreciation for his many years of service as park commissioner, a position which he still holds.

For these and many other reasons the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce has recognized Tom as well as Mrs. St. Charles, for their love of this community and for their never ending devotion to the people who dwell therein.

Chamber Plans 3-Day Festival At 4th Time

A three-day Fourth of July festival celebration is being planned by the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce, Inc.

At a board meeting Tuesday night the group decided to hold the annual parade and fireworks on July 4th, Thursday and then to extend the celebration through Friday and Saturday, July 5th and 6th.

Postmaster Bill Bennett has been named general celebration chairman with Joe Wilkins in charge of the parade and Tom Breakley heading the fireworks committee.

The volunteer fire department will have charge of bringing a carnival to the city for the week-end.

Bennett said he is welcoming ideas for attractions that might interest visitors during the event.

Also Tuesday night the board members discussed operation of the chamber booth this coming summer and the coming special supervisors' meeting in Charlevoix. The supervisors will hold a hearing on the state's new week-end closing law.

A subscription drive for individual members to the Chamber has been under way by drive chairman Bill Morrison and it was reported the membership list is growing.

The board meeting was conducted by the Chamber's new president Bill Huckle.

Petgas To Team With Consolidated

Coincident with Michigan Consolidated Gas Company's announcement of its natural gas service extension to Petoskey, Charlevoix, Boyne City and Mancelona, PETGAS Company announces its area-wide expansion of installation and service activities in close conjunction with Michigan Consolidated's north Michigan expansion.

With Michigan Consolidated Gas Company's purchase of the mains in Petoskey, and its basic company policy of supply rather than equipment sales and installation, PETGAS Company and its dealers will play a major role in finishing homes and buildings with the finest natural gas equipment available.

"We join everyone in welcoming this Michigan Consolidated Gas Company extension into this area," said Mr. Bill Blanchard, Sales Manager of PETGAS Company. "This natural gas service will bring with it added comfort, convenience and savings to home owners throughout the area. We of PETGAS Company are swinging 100% in line with Michigan Consolidated in the follow-through job of supplying equipment and installation know how, to make conversion to natural gas a simple and economical shift in all class of service -- from small conversion units to the larger building installations."

As the pipe line rapidly extends north, PETGAS engineers will be available to everyone for free, no obligation consultation concerning the many savings and comfort benefits the natural gas service brings with it. Every type of service equipment and appliances will be ready for instant installation through PETGAS' huge volume purchases at savings to the final owner.

HELP, I'M STUCK! Two white swan and a Canadian goose became frozen in the waters of Lake Charlevoix near the Jordan river bridge, Sunday. The swan were male and female. After much tugging of feet they managed to free themselves. Later, sportsmen found one of the swan on the bridge after it hit the electrical wires as it took off into the air. It broke its neck when it hit the wires. (Photo By Huckle)

COHN IN HALL OF FAME Fourteen Red Devils, Now Coaches, To See Abe Honored At State

Michigan State University's Jensen Fieldhouse will be a gathering place for hundreds of Michigan high school coaches next week end. They will be making their annual trek into the Lansing area for the Michigan High School Athletic Association's Semi-Final and Final rounds of state championship basketball play.

During the course of the two-day event, state basketball champions will be crowned in classes A, B, C, and D.

But more important to local fans will be the Michigan High School Coaches Association paying tribute to one-time East Jordan High football, basketball, baseball, and track mentor, Abe Cohn, for his twenty-five years of work with the young men of Michigan.

Abe is being named to the "Coaches Hall of Fame" during the course of the tournament.

Cohn guided the destinies of the then known "Crimson Wave" from the fall of 1928 to June 1942. Following service in the United States Army in World War II, he returned to the coaching profession at Mason, Michigan and later moved to Lansing Eastern High School where he is still a member of the faculty.

At the tourney site, there will be quite an assembly of former East Jordan "Red Devils," who have since become coaches in Michigan Athletic circles. Altogether fourteen one-time Jordan players, now coaches, will be talking over old times.

Four of these men; Dale Clark, Gayle Saxton, Frank Crowell, and Charles Saxton played under Abe Cohn. The remaining ten served under Gayle Saxton during his nine years here. They are; Keith Evans, Robert Danforth, Robert Darbee, Cal Darbee, Alan Somerville, Larry Woodcock, Jack Ingalls, James Shepard, Bryan Boring, and Max Somerville.

be on hand to witness the honoring of their former teacher and coach.

Ten others who followed Gayle Saxton into the coaching profession will probably be present at the honoring of Cohn. They have so many boys in so few years followed their coach into a profession. Those who served under Saxton are; Keith Evans, a five-sport star and All State footballer here in the early fifties, is now head basketball and tennis coach at Northwestern Michigan College; Traverse City; Robert Danforth; a member of a number of Red Devil championship teams in football, basketball, and tennis and a 1962 graduate of Central Michigan University, is now athletic director, basketball and baseball coach at Merritt High School east of Cadillac; Robert Darbee currently is coaching swimming at T. L. Handy High School in Bay City as well as being an assistant football coach last fall. During his high school career at East Jordan, Darbee was the State Class C singles tennis champion. He later lettered in tennis at Alma College and Central Michigan University; Cal Darbee, whose tennis and basketball play as a Red Devil was outstanding, is now head tennis coach at Class B Cadillac High. He also handled the Freshman basketball coaching duties for the Vikings this past winter; Alan Somerville, a letterman in football, basketball, baseball, track, and tennis while a member of the Red Devils, is currently back home where he assists in football and holds the reins in junior high basketball; James Shepard, an All State football guard in his playing days here, aided in football at his alma mater last fall; Larry Woodcock, one of the highest scoring basketball players in local cage history, is now coaching football and assisting in basketball at Whitmore Prescott after serving one year at Michigan Center; Jack Ingalls guided the Vestaburg five in the Montcalm County Athletic Conference this past season and asisted Keads Woods in football last fall. Jack played football, basketball, and track

Around The City

By Marshall

When folks are talking about Easter and Maple syrup can spring be very far in the offing?

It is rather difficult for the northern Michigan merchant to make both ends meet in winter-time; and now this year as spring and summer approaches along comes a state law that lists a large number of items he can't sell over the week-end a time when most visitors come north. The week-end closing law was enacted especially for the southern Michigan area, but it takes effect all over the state. Our law makers must realize that now days a merchant must have higher gross to net the same amount of money he did in the past; if he is going to be hamstrung by state laws this will be impossible.

As spring approaches all of our residents must again begin to think about spring clean-up, not only around our homes, but throughout the city, as well.

We hear where some folks now claim that Consumers Power service is for the birds in East Jordan. We've been in this one spot for more than a decade and we find their service first class. And we haven't heard any complaints from others, either. Not in town.

Young Bill Taylor, jr. is behind the meat counter at his father's grocery. Billy is a recent graduate of the National School of Meat Cutting, Toledo. He finished second in his class with 96.8. He has taken over the meat department at Taylor's.

Gov. George Romney and northern Michigan Republicans will be holding forth at Shanty Creek Lodge, Wednesday night March 20th. Jack Bliss is selling dinner tickets for the meeting.

Some people have been shooting firearms at the dump and the police department is warning them that this is strictly against the law.

By now you should have some knowledge about the newly proposed constitution for Michigan. You will have to vote on it in April and you should know what you are voting for or against.

Hey! How can you keep your wife in the dark when you're burning your candle at both ends?

Freeways Shrink Michigan Map, Cut Travel Time

While the eyes of millions are fixed on the race into space an equally revolutionary, down-to-earth space shrinker is occurring in Michigan.

Nearly everyone is familiar with the nation's accomplishments in space travel which is shrinking this world into the time of a leisurely Sunday-afternoon drive.

But the changes brought about by the state's freeway program are having a more immediate impact on the every-day lives of Michigan residents than will space travel.

Michigan's 1,000-mile freeway system is shrinking travel time by automobile just as the missile and jet programs have cut space travel time.

For instance, the distance between Detroit and Muskegon is 170 miles. It's estimated the average driver should be able to make the trip on the new Detroit-Muskegon freeway in about three hours at an average speed of 60 miles per hour.

If he averaged 40 miles per hour, the same trip took some four and five hours over old US-16. And to average 40 miles per hour, the driver had to step up his pace considerably on the open highway considering the delays en route encountered at traffic lights and in city traffic.

The travel time between Detroit and the Upper Peninsula has been reduced to five hours by the new freeway system compared to eight to nine hours it used to take.

Southern Michigan, challenged to meet the needs of its burgeoning numbers of people, is also experiencing a population explosion among deer.

Re-established in this part of the state around 1929 and now found in all 31 counties south of Highway M-20, the area's deer herd is estimated at nearly 40,000 animals, having made its greatest gains since 1950.

The herd has been increasing at an annual rate of about 14 percent since that year, according to records kept by the Conservation Department. This means it has been almost doubling in size every five years.

Under present limited hunting regulations and other conditions, things are expected to continue this way for several years. Southern Michigan may well have 60,000 whitetails by 1965, and 100,000 by 1970, the Conservation Department estimates.

Highest populations are now located in the northern and western parts of the region, but most observers feel that the animals' big increase is in the southernmost tier of counties.

Local areas of Montcalm, Gratiot, Saginaw, Barry, Calhoun, and Kalamazoo counties currently boast very large concentrations of whitetails. Likely places for seeing deer include Gratiot-Saginaw and Barry state game areas, Waterloo recreation area in Jackson and Washtenaw counties and Fort Custer area near Battle Creek.

As expected, deer numbers are lowest in the eastern part of the southern lower peninsula, especially near Detroit, its people-packed suburbs and neighboring communities.

How high can the region's deer population go before it has to be checked? Unlike the situation in the northern part of the state, where winter food supplies and other biological factors hold sway, the ultimate limit on whitetail numbers in southern Michigan will be largely determined by their net benefit to people.

In other words, the herd's size will have to be controlled at a level in which its total value to sight-seers, hunters, landowners, and others remains above its combined costs for crop, vehicle, and other damages. Right now, it is not possible to say exactly what the maximum deer population will be.

However, damages for 1960 were estimated at $1 million. These included: $339,000 for agricultural crop damage; nearly $207,000 for damages to vehicles which hit whitetails; $71,000 for damages made by deer hunters on private lands; $24,000 for deer damages to landowners' fences; and $11,635 for tree damage.

The other side of southern Michigan's double-barreled population explosion will figure prominently in determining what will happen to deer. By 1970, the region's "people" population will be about 25 percent from the present figure. With it will come changes in land use for urban, industrial, and highway needs that will place a more heavy increased squeeze on deer for space and suitable habitat.

Nature Takes 40 Years To Grow Pulp Wood Tree

It takes the better part of a lifetime -- about 40 years to be exact -- for a jack pine or aspen tree to grow to the point where it is usable as wood pulp. This creates a "knotty" problem for Michigan's forestry industry.

"The state has a lot of these trees between 35 and 50 years old right now," points out Lester Bell, Michigan State University extension forester. "It also has a substantial number of very young trees. In between is a gap that simply cannot be filled."

This means the supply of harvestable aspen and jack pines will soon hit a slack period of several years, says Bell. Companies interested in coming to Michigan to harvest the current supply are wondering what they would do when this slump hits.

The current surplus offers at least two problems: First, older trees that cannot be harvested keep the soil and soil nutrients from young plants that might help fill the urgent demand for deer feed.

Wildlife biologists and deer growers best in stands up to 15 years of age.

Second, cutting 40 of the 40-year-old trees today would allow a huge batch of seedlings

Tax Facts

The Internal Revenue Service has made available various aids in assisting you in filing your income tax return.

An instruction book keyed to the tax return on a line-by-line basis is available. In addition, for those with more complicated problems, a book entitled "Your Federal Income Tax" may be purchased for 40¢ at your local Internal Revenue Service Office.

It is suggested that you follow these three rules:

- (1) Read the instructions.
- (2) Start the return.
- (3) If you have a problem, telephone your local Internal Revenue Service Office.

Income tax returns can be filed after January 1, 1963. They must be filed before April 15, 1963 if you wish to avoid penalties.

When filing the return, choose the right form. Then determine if it is to your advantage to file separate or joint return.

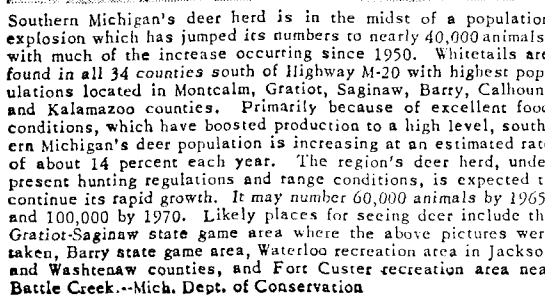

Next, determine if it is better to use the standard deduction or to itemize your deductions. The Internal Revenue Service suggests that you figure your tax each way and then file the type of return which results in the lowest tax.

Start now and file your income tax return early.

Local People

Fifteen young people of the Methodist church went to Grayling Sunday to attend the Methodist Social Concern. They were accompanied by Elizabeth Robertson, Mr. and Mrs. Albert Peters and Tom Reagen.

A. & Mrs. Jack Gee of the Osoda Air Base spent the week end with their parents Mr. and Mrs. Glen Gee.

Southern Michigan's deer herd is in the midst of a population explosion which has jumped its numbers to nearly 40,000 animals, with much of the increase occurring since 1950. Whitetails are found in all 34 counties south of Highway M-20 with highest populations located in Montcalm, Gratiot, Saginaw, Barry, Calhoun, and Kalamazoo counties. Primarily because of excellent food conditions, which have boosted production to a high level, southern Michigan's deer population is increasing at an estimated rate of about 14 percent each year. The region's deer herd, under present hunting regulations and range conditions, is expected to continue its rapid growth. It may number 60,000 animals by 1965, and 100,000 by 1970. Likely places for seeing deer include the Gratiot-Saginaw state game area where the above pictures were taken, Barry state game area, Waterloo recreation area in Jackson and Washtenaw counties, and Fort Custer recreation area near Battle Creek.--Mich. board, after notice and hearing and with the concurrence of two thirds of the members elect. A county wide-session for the discussion of Michigan's new week-end closing law has been scheduled by the county board of supervisors. In special session at the court house the supervisors will hold a public hearing to get the views of residents on the new law. The meeting will be held 7 p.m., Tuesday, March 26, according to Fenton R. Bulow, county clerk. He said that all interested persons will be given an opportunity to be heard. In any county by action of the board of supervisors, the may permit the sale of specific items prohibited by the new state law. If a merchant is closed on either Saturday or Sunday each week, the law will not affect them at all. A grocery store having 4,000 square feet of floor area may not remain open seven days a week under the new law; or a grocery employing two owners and one other person comes under the week-end law. Under the new law, those merchants who are allowed to stay open seven days a week will have a list of certain items which may not be sold only on one week-end day, either Saturday or Sunday.
