Shanty Creek Receives Federal Loan

The mid-west's newest and most fabulous ski and summer resort has received $600,000 from the Area Redevelopment Administration as its first disbursement on a $890,500 loan from the federal government.

Shanty Creek Lodge located about 14 miles south west of East Jordan on the rim of the Jordan Valley area is owned by Roy Deskin, formerly of Detroit and now of Torch Lake. The business-recreational investment is being guided by its sole investor, Deskin.

Douglas McGarrity, financial specialist for Detroit's Regional Office of the A. R. A. program, turned the $600,000 check over to Deskin amidst a special ceremony in the 70,000 square foot lodge.

Others participating were Ed Loumis, chairman of Antrim County's Committee for A. R. A.; Harry Cook, Mayor of Bellaire; Fred W. Bechtold, Assistant Cashier of Bellaire State Bank; and Aldo Giglio, Assistant Regional Counselor of the Small Business Administration Detroit region.

The main lodge with three hotel type bedroom wings, will accommodate 250 people. The main lodge banquet room will seat 500. Plans are on the drawing boards for Chalet Type dwellings on the grounds.

The 1,200 acre area, with more to be added later, will feature five ski slopes with an average of 278 foot vertical and from 1,000 to 1,600 feet in length serviced by chairs, T-bars, and rope tows. The Ski Shop will convert to a gift and clothing shop during the summer months when convention traffic will enjoy the 18-hole golf course, trout ponds, five miles of trails and horseback riding.

In addition candy was given by the bank when boys and girls stopped in to leave their names in the annual Christmas drawing.

The community Christmas program was sponsored by the State Bank, several manufacturers and the City of East Jordan, and the Chamber of Commerce.

The activities included a racing contest and Santa Claus Days, a two-week promotion tail merchants' window decorations in which several stores offered prizes.

Anticipated employment will reach from 100 to 110 people, according to Martin.

Mayor Cook of Bellaire stated, "this business investment in Shanty Creek is the first real mark of progress for Antrim County, Chain O Lakes area... in bringing money into the area to stay rather than exploring and exploiting, as has been done somewhat in the past."

Many Residents Aid Community Yule Program

Mayor David Pray and Walter Thorsen, chairman of the board of the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce, welcomed Santa Claus to town Saturday.

He arrived on the fire truck at the State Bank parking lot where seven hundred area children waited for the candy he had to pass out.

At that time, also Santa drew the names of the lucky boy and girl who won prizes given by the bank.

Earlier in the day Santa visited Grandvue hospital and distributed candy to all elderly people there.

At Grandvue Santa was helped by Bill Grauel, Rev. Marcus Krake, and Marshall Sayles.

A number of residents aided Santa when he gave away his candy at the bank parking lot. Among them were: Jason Snyder, Joseph Wilkins, Kenneth and Cal Diller, Bill Bennett, Bill Grauel, Theo Jeffery, Marshall Sayles, Dorton Giffard, John Seiler and others.

Local Brownie Scouts, led by Virginia Giacomelli, arrived to sing Christmas songs to the hundreds of children assembled.

Services Held December 20 For Marinus Fisher

Services were held at 2 p.m. Thursday, December 20 at Watson's Funeral Home for Marinus Fisher, 56, who died December 18 at his home in Echo Township. Rev Harold Cox officiated and burial was in the Moorehouse Cemetery in Antrim County.

Mr. Fisher was born September 21, 1906 in Chicago, Illinois. In 1913 he moved to Ellsworth with his mother and brother. In 1924 he moved to Echo Township where he has since made his home.

He attended school in Ellsworth. He was a farmer, and he never married. Surviving is one brother, Andrew of Echo Township.

Dr. Herbert, research chief of the Michigan Economic Development Department, predicts that Michigan's economic progress in 1963 will exceed the national average (and should be greater than in most states).

Of this area (the northern lower peninsula), Dr. Herbert says:

The northern half of the lower peninsula will show less economic growth in 1963 than the upper peninsula.

The tourist sports, and particularly winter sports, will continue to increase, but not enough to reduce the average annual unemployment rate.

However, there will be an increase in per capita income in 1963 and the promise that 1964 will show more over all improvement.

North State Progress Predicted

Charlevoix county and other counties of the Northern Lower Peninsula will share in the continuing economic progress which Dr. Paul A. Herbert forecasts for Michigan in 1963.

Who Won What, Where?

Area residents won 12 prizes in East Jordan's Santa Claus Days retail Christmas promotion activities.

Gary Roberts, 10 year old son of Mr. and Mrs. Julius Roberts, Jr., won the electric train given by the State Bank of East Jordan. Linda Damman, 11 year old daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert Damman, won the record player. The Dammans are new residents in East Jordan. Mr. Damman is employed at The Consumers Power plant in Charlevoix.

Bonnie Peebles, of Ellsworth, won the $10 in trade at Olson's Hardware.

Rose Trojanek won the $5.00 in trade offered by Har-Ray's Shoes.

At Bos Thrift Super Market, Leona Danforth won the large sled. In other prizes offered at Thrift, Kathy Kotowich won a toy kitchen set; Diana Rebec won a child's beauty parlor set; and Evelyn Gee won a chief fireman's set.

Mrs. Gus Anderson won the walking, talking doll at the W. W. Mac Company.

Mabel Hudkins won the Ski Parka at the E. J. Shop.

Mrs. Merrit Shaw won the Christmas center piece offered by the Jordan Valley Greenhouse.

A full length mirror went to Mrs. Lloyd Reibel, of Ellsworth in the drawing at Whiteford's Store.

One Files As Election Deadline Nears

Barney Milstein is the only candidate filing so far for the coming spring election. He filed for re-election to the office of Third Ward Supervisor.

Deadline for filing is January 19th, according to the city clerk's office.

No one has filed for Mayor, councilman or supervisor in the other two wards, the clerk said.

The East Jordan high school athletic field has been formally named Boswell Field by the board of education and Red Devil football players.

In recent ceremonies at the high school, Greg Boswell was presented a large sign reading "Boswell Field" by the football players.

Richard Chanda, Tom Galmore and Dave Donaldson were chosen to present the sign.

The announcement came during the school's annual assembly for football awards.

Each year the football team honors someone who they feel has done the most for the team and the school.

Earlier in the year the board of education, had designated the field as "Boswell Field" but the ceremonies were held up until last week's awards assembly.

Boswell, secretary of the board of education has spent many hours keeping the football field in shape for games. He has taken care of the field since work began there following its acquisition from the county. The land was formerly the Charlevoix County Fairgrounds.

The playing field section of the athletic grounds has many times been termed the finest in northern Michigan Class C conference.

The new Boswell Field sign was constructed in the school shop under direction of Coach Wes Fleet, who also is shop instructor.

In earlier ceremonies Boswell was presented a Clock Radio by team members who named Don Roberts, Don Wilson and Dave Drenth to present it.

The assembly was conducted by Coach Wes Fleet who introduced School Board President Clayton Healey who in turn called upon Boswell to receive the new field sign.

The sign will be erected just inside the main gate where it may be seen from the highway and by those visiting games as they enter the field.

By MARSHALL

Have you made your New Year's resolution never to do that again?

New Years means January, that calm, drab no man's time of year when one frowns at the past and looks somewhat questionably in to the future. One doesn't fear the month, but rather dreads it's quiet inaction. Northern Michigan produces no other month quite so Januaryish. The holidays are history and the future is so far down the path. No leaf stirs, no ripple on the restless sea of finance until March or April; not until then is the new year born anew. And even now as we write this we peer through the window, pulling our imaginary protection around us. For there sits January outside our door knocking, knocking, knocking.

And in addition we dislike January's indifference to our wants. For here we are, toiling away in northern Michigan, listening to weather reports from Miami and Phoenix. It's enough to make one drop his bucket and flee or perhaps drink deeply of January's icy wines and let all else go amiss.

Oh, it takes a hardy soul or perhaps youth to look out across the winds and snows and pure lack of white swan remembering it's only ninety days until spring remembering, too, that Santa comes in springtime, scattering nature's many presents, missing no one and no place.

This, of course, is because we are getting on in age. How irritating it can be to meet up with some fellow full of vim and the future, someone in tune with January.

Farm Bureau News

The Miles group of the Charlevoix Farm Bureau met at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Versel Crawford on December 18. The meeting was opened by saluting the flag with 16 members present.

A short business meeting was held followed by an interesting discussion on "Keep the Farm in the Family," on wills, partnership and estate. The discussion was of interest to all property owners.

After the discussion, holiday games were played and a holiday pot luck lunch served by the hostess.

The next meeting will be held at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Hugh Graham.

Five-Cent Postage Is Old Stuff In United States

The new nickel letter rate class letter mail handled recently enacted into law is the same postage rate America paid for letters when the United States issued its first postage stamps 115 years ago, Postmaster Bennett said.

The new rate goes into effect Jan. 7.

Research shows that, in 1847, the Post Office Department issued its first stamps, including a nickel stamp for the basic prepaid letter rate, Postmaster Bennett said.

A nickel was a lot harder to come by in those days the Postmaster added.

Since 1932, while living costs for the American family have skyrocketed by 118 percent, the cost of mailing a first class letter has only increased by one cent, or 33 percent. At 5 cents, he said, as in 1847 -- it will still be one of the greatest bargains in American history.

RURAL REPORTS
State Farmers
Head For Lansing

Science will take the spotlight for the 48th Annual Farmer's Week at Michigan State University, January 28 to February 1. Included in the exhibits will be the Whirlpool's Corporation's space kitchen. Made under a U.S. Air Force contract it is a conception of what might be a vital link in the space race.

Electronics of interests to farmers will be shown in IBM's new 1620 computer. The ingenious machine will come up with answers for decision-making in the complex business of modern day farming. Similar equipment is already in use in MSU's mail-in account project.

Dairy Program Monday: All major breed associations in Michigan will hold annual meetings January 28, with the dairy banquet in the evening.

Tuesday Programs: "Problems Bothering Farmers -- And the Answers," and "Young Farm Families Face the Future," will be presented by MSU's agricultural economics department.

Wednesday Sessions: Dairy farmers will consider prices and production in a session entitled "The Hottest Dairy Issues Today." Appearing will be legislators, farmers, cooperative leaders, dealers and representatives of the dairy industry. Producers will also take a look at, "Breeding problems -- a multi-million dollar loss," during their session.

Centennial Farm Luncheon Tuesday: Centennial farmers will hold their yearly meeting at noon and discuss Michigan's Flying Farmers. MSU's Lecture-Concert Series will present to color film, "Designs for Survival," by William A. Anderson, director of photography, forest service, USDA.

Friday Finale: Program features will include a meeting of the Michigan Sheep Breeders Assn. and the yearly session of the American Dairy Assn. of Michigan. Speaker for the noon luncheon will be Dr. Earl Burtz, dean of agriculture, Purdue University.

FARM TAX

Income tax laws have special filing dates for individuals who are farmers for tax purposes. The tax law says you are a farmer if AT LEAST two-thirds of your gross income is from farming.

If you held a job and also operate a farm, add your gross farm income to the wages earned.

If two-thirds of the total is made up of gross farm income, then you are a farmer for tax return filing purposes.

Know special filing dates for farmers and what is meant by farm gross income by reading the FARMERS TAX GUIDE.

Get your free copy of FARMERS TAX GUIDE from your County Agricultural Agent or the local Internal Revenue Service office.

THE FARM OUTLOOK

Farmers cooperating in Michigan State University's Mail-in Account Project boosted their 1961 labor incomes by $1,073 over the previous year, according to the Michigan Farm Business Report published annually by the Department of Agriculture Economics.

The average labor income last year was $3,412, the highest since 1958 and the fourth highest since the University started the record project in 1929. The figures were obtained from the farm records of 861 farmers throughout the state which are submitted as part of the mail-in project of the Co-operative Extension Service in each county.

Author of the farm business report, Leonard R. Kyle, cautioned that the participating farms are not necessarily typical of all farms in Michigan. He added, however, that the characteristics of these farms compare closely with the commercial farms in the 1959 census.

The highest labor income over the 33-year span was $3,782 in 1951 followed by $3,486 in 1947. The lowest income was in the depression year of 1933 when labor incomes averaged $249.

Labor income is the return to the farm operator for his labor management. It is figured by deducting from the gross income all cash operating expenses, depreciation, family labor (other than the operator) and 5 percent interest on the total investment in the farm business.

The Farm Business Report also showed that the rate farmers earned on their investment was 1.3 per cent higher in 1961 than in 1960 and that the total investment increased by $5,686.

Average cash incomes and cash expenses were higher in all areas of the state in 1961.

Average gross income increased from $14,855 in 1955 to $25,019 in 1961, the report showed. Total expenses, not including operator's labor or interest on investment, increased substantially during this same period.

During these five years, farmers in the account project received about 5 per cent on the conservative market value of their assets plus hired man's wages for their labor and management and expenses on various types.

A detailed analysis of incomes of farms is presented in Quarterly Bulletin article 45-24 is available from the Bulletin Office, Agricultural Hall, MSU, East Lansing.

Year End Conservation Report

Conservation experienced an unprecedented public awakening to its total responsibilities and broad potentials during 1962 in Michigan.

More than ever, it was looked upon not merely to preserve the state's natural resources for the future, but also to provide for their greater use, here and now.

OUTDOOR RECREATION
The clarion call for more and better leisure-time facilities was sounded by the surging popularity of outdoor recreation which reached new heights during the year.

Camping attendance at state parks and forests reflected this big push to the out-of-doors by recreationists. More than 189,000 families camped at state parks. An estimated 625,000 user-days were recorded at state forest campgrounds alone.

Not told by these figures, both of them new records, is the fact that thousands of other families found campgrounds filled to overflowing and had to look elsewhere for places to stay.

As 1962 approached its final days, much remained to be done for outdoor recreationists. On the other hand, significant strides had been made in their behalf, and efforts were afoot to produce greater progress during the new year.

Among these was the Conservation Commission's opening move to implement Gov. Swainson's state-wide program aimed at providing more recreational facilities and better services.

Hopes of improving resource development in this state were lifted when a federal grant of $750,000 was made to finance a comprehensive planning program. Of this, some $200,000 will go into forming a state-wide recreation and land conservation plan which will show where, when, and what recreational facilities are needed.

PROGRESS AT STATE PARKS AND FORESTS
Past the planning stage and already at work for recreationists was the state parks permitting program which shifted into high gear in 1962. Through this program's second year, some $2 million worth of construction projects had been contracted and $1 million had been spent for new recreational lands. Some of the capital improvements were completed in time for the 1962 parks season; many more will be ready for use in 1963.

The year also saw recreational advances being made at state forests, but lack of adequate funds in the Conservation Department kept them on a smaller scale than at parks. Five self-guiding scenic drives were set up in state forests to add another dimension of recreational use to these lands, and three new campgrounds were developed.

CASH CRISIS
A good deal of potential progress went by the boards during the year. This was particularly so among game and fish programs which felt the sharp impact of personnel lay-offs and other sweeping new cutbacks brought on by the Department's prolonged cash crisis.

The latest belt-tightening measures slowed public fishing site development to a snail's pace during the second half of 1962. Lake and stream improvement work was slashed. Additional traps were placed on game and fish research. Law enforcement absorbed another setback. And so it went with no financial relief emerging to offset the continuing rise in operating costs and growing demand for facilities and service.

FIELD OPERATIONS
Because of the continuing financial squeeze and changing demands, it was announced that field operations of the Department would be placed directly under regional managers on Jan. 1, 1963, to promote greater efficiency and flexibility. At year's end, other organizational changes were being considered to further improve the Department's over-all operations.

FEDERAL AID TIE-UP
Further clouding the Department's financial picture was the unresolved tie-up of nearly $450,000 in Pittman-Robertson monies held back from the state's game programs because states appealed their case to the U.S. Supreme Court for funds.

Michigan and three other of a 1959 change in determining the distribution of these federal consideration in December.

Michigan stands to lose about $110,000 annually if the state's final bid for favorable action fails.

COMMUNITY CONSERVATION

A growing number of local communities and groups took up some of the slack caused by the Department's forced curtailment of programs. Several of them laid their own money on the line in an attempt to improve fishing in their areas. Others rolled up their sleeves to work out improvements on a miscellany of conservation projects.

SPORTSMEN AFIELD
An estimated 2,100,000 fishermen and hunters turned out to pursue their favorite outdoor sports during 1962.

Michigan's firearm deer season produced an estimated kill of nearly 95,000 whitetails, fifth highest total on state records.

Ruffed grouse hunters shot more than an estimated 500,000 birds to register their most successful season since 1953. A rain-soaked opener played a big part in holding pheasant kill below the expected harvest of 950,000 ringnecks. Duck hunters had a fair season, considering federal shooting regulations which were the most restrictive in Michigan's history.

GREAT LAKES FISHERIES
Late in the year, stream studies provided the most optimistic news to date that the sea lamprey is on its way out as a menace to lake trout populations in Lake Superior.

Spurred by earlier signs that chemical treatment of streams had made a significant cut in lamprey numbers, the Conservation Commission took action to close commercial lake trout fishing on June 1 in Michigan's Lake Superior waters.

The restriction, also imposed by Wisconsin and Minnesota, is designed to protect low trout populations and give impetus to their natural reproduction. A record 6,500,000 "green" lake trout eggs were collected in the fall at the Department's Marquette and Harrietta hatcheries, keeping Michigan in pace with plans for accelerated plantings to rejuvenate the upped Great Lakes' sagging fishery.

NEW BOATING CONTROL COMMITTEE

Legislation was passed in 1962 which set up a man committee to greater safety on the waterways through more form boating regulation law also spelled out more boating regulations aimed at increasing water safety.

OIL AND GAS PRODUCTION
Natural gas production reached a new record in 1962, but the state output slipped nearly a million barrels from 1961 level. The year's approach 27 billion cubic feet at a value of $49,500,000.

MINERAL SURVEY
Survey work was conducted during the summer of 1962, but the state-federal project to mine potential for mineral development in the end of the upper peninsula. Among other things, hoped the studies would show the possible distribution of iron ore formations the now non-productive sector of the Gogebic FOREST FIRES

Landowners and outdoor recreationists took the campaign to help the state's forest fire losses under 6,000 acres, an improvement from the 1 of more than 8,000 acres.

COMMISSION MEETING
In an effort to gain understanding of local opinion, problems, and conservation program Commission held a statewide meet 1962.

AWARDS
For the third year two of the Department's education and conservation were awarded high honors by the American Assoc. of Conservation Education.

Conservation Education's "men's bimonthly magazine" was rated the best in the state. Also winning a first place was the men's television public spot announcements.

MSU Offers Two Area Courses

Michigan State University will offer two courses in Petoskey during the winter term. It was announced this week by Dr. Milton J. Hageberg, Director of the MSU Continuing Education Center in Traverse City. The classes will meet in North Central Michigan College and offer 3 terms hours of credit.

Principles of Curriculum Improvement (ED 820) will meet on Monday evenings from 7-10 p.m., beginning January 7. This course is offered in co-operation with Central Michigan University whose course number is ED 408. The course will concentrate on the critical analysis of curriculum improvement practices found in public schools. Mr. Paul Lemm, Superintendent of the Cheboygan Public Schools, will be the instructor. The course is open to graduate and advanced undergraduate students.

Political Geography (GEO 416) will meet on Thursday evenings from 7-10:00 p.m., beginning January 10. The course will consist of an examination of the mutual relationships between earth and the state in various type countries, the world distribution of political characteristics, and the evolution and present status of political geography. Mr. Robert Vogel, special extension lecturer for Michigan State University, will be the instructor. The course is open to graduate and undergraduate students.

Registration, including payment of fees, will be held at the first class session. Further information may be obtained by contacting the Dean's Office at North Central Michigan College, local school officials or the MSU Center in Traverse City.

A recent progress report by the Great Lakes Fishery Commission has provided the most optimistic news to date that the sea lamprey is on its way out as a menace to lake trout populations in Lake Superior. During last month's meeting at Ottawa, Ontario the Commission was told that only 9,200 lampreys were captured this year at electric barriers in 29 chemically-treated Lake Superior streams.

This is an 87-percent drop from last year's catch of 68,200 lampreys at these same barriers, according to Leo Erkila, in charge of sea lamprey control for the U. S. Bureau of Commercial Fisheries.

A comparable decline in lamprey numbers was recorded in 1962 at barriers operated in streams on the Canadian side of Lake Superior.

Erkila reported that the Bureau plans to re-treat 58 tributaries by the end of 1965

Teachers Slate Area Meeting At Gaylord

Miss Rita Jacoby, national president of the Department of Classroom Teachers, will be guest speaker at a teachers meeting January 12 in Gaylord.

Miss Jacoby will address members of the Michigan Education Association's Areas 14 & 15 of the Department of Classroom Teachers.

David Stipe, president of the department which numbers 45,000 teachers, will also be on the program which begins at 9:30 a.m. in the Gaylord High School. He and Miss Jacoby both will talk on the department's work on the state and national level.

Dr. Lawrence Smith, faculty member from Central Michigan University, will speak on "The Stars Are As Much Christmas As Are Carols"

"The December stars belong to Christmas, as much as the carols, wreaths, and greens," University of Michigan astronomer Hazel M. Losh points out.

In addition to the mystery of the Christmas Star, the heavens "seem to outdo themselves in decorations" Professor Losh notes.

Turning to the east, "some of the most beautiful and colorful stars of the whole year are on display."

"Auriga, the large five-sided figure, ruled by the bright yellow star, Capella, rises soon after sunset."

"The Pleiades, followed by the rest of Taurus, rises at about the same time as Capella. Taurus is symbolized by the great letter 'V' with its orange star, Aldebaran, at the end of the lower prong."

"Orion and the brightest of all stars Sirius, climb out of the east and cross over the south meridian around midnight. The mostly around Orion with his winter... constellations center two hunting dogs and the Hare below him. Those who devised the constellations evidently intended to depict a hunting scene with the Dogs pursuing the Hare, and it is in turn crouching low close to Orion seeking his protection."

"Sirius in the figure of his Greater Dog (Canis Major) is easily identified by extending a line downward through the Belt stars. From time immemorial, Sirius has been watched, admired, and revered, rising as it does in the early evening around Christmas time. It was the 'star of the east' pointed to by three wise men of Orion," Professor Losh says.

Registration, including payment of fees, will be held at the first class session. Further information may be obtained by contacting the Dean's Office at North Central Michigan College, local school officials or the MSU Center in Traverse City.
