Day of the Eagle Pow wow moves to old tribal grounds

Native American dancers in full regalia will again take center stage at this year's Day of the Eagle Pow wow in East Jordan on June 5-6.

The traditional event will move from Old Boswell Field back to the old tribal grounds on Mill Street this year, but its central theme will remain the same.

"It is basically a celebration of life," said Gene Norton, president of the Anishinabe Intertribal Council which organizes the Pow wow.

Norton said Native Americans are in the process of reclaiming who they are and what they are.

Held for the elders and the young, the Pow wow is "used to teach our young that it's good to be a Native American."

"There's nothing wrong with it," he said. "We want to get our culture back. It's something we've lost through the years."

The two-day event begins with a grand entry in which groups of dancers are introduced, beginning with the elders. The ceremony is then followed by tribal dancing and individual honor dancing throughout the day and into early evening, with breaks for feasts.

As many as 200 dancers, ranging in age from as young as 4 years old to upwards of 70 years old, have attended the pow wow and represent many Native American tribes.

The young learn basic dance moves from their parents and grand

Seniors big day arrives

Pomp and circumstance will linger in the air throughout this week-end as seniors don cap and gowns and march down the aisles in area graduation ceremonies.

BOYNECITY HIGH School's commencement will take place Friday, June 4 at 7 p.m. in the high school gymnasium.

Valedictorians Laura Cassidy and Nicole Foster along with salutatorian

Arthur Brong will address their graduating classmates during the ceremony.

The seniors' class colors are silver and navy, their flower is the forget-me-not and their class song is Rusted Root's "Send Me On My Way."

The class motto is "You see things as they are and ask why, but we see things that never were and ask why not?"

BOYNE FALLS' 20 SENIORS will graduate on Saturday, June 5 at 8 p.m. in the school gym.

Daniel Wagner will deliver the valedictory address and Nathan Howell the salutatory address.

The seniors' class colors are forest green and silver and their class flower is the yellow rose. Their motto is "Don't let life discourage you; everyone who got where he is had to begin where he was."

The Grateful Dead's "Touch of Gray" will be played during the recessional.

The school's 50th year graduates from the Class of 1949 will also be introduced during the program.

Refreshments will be served in the cafeteria following the ceremony.

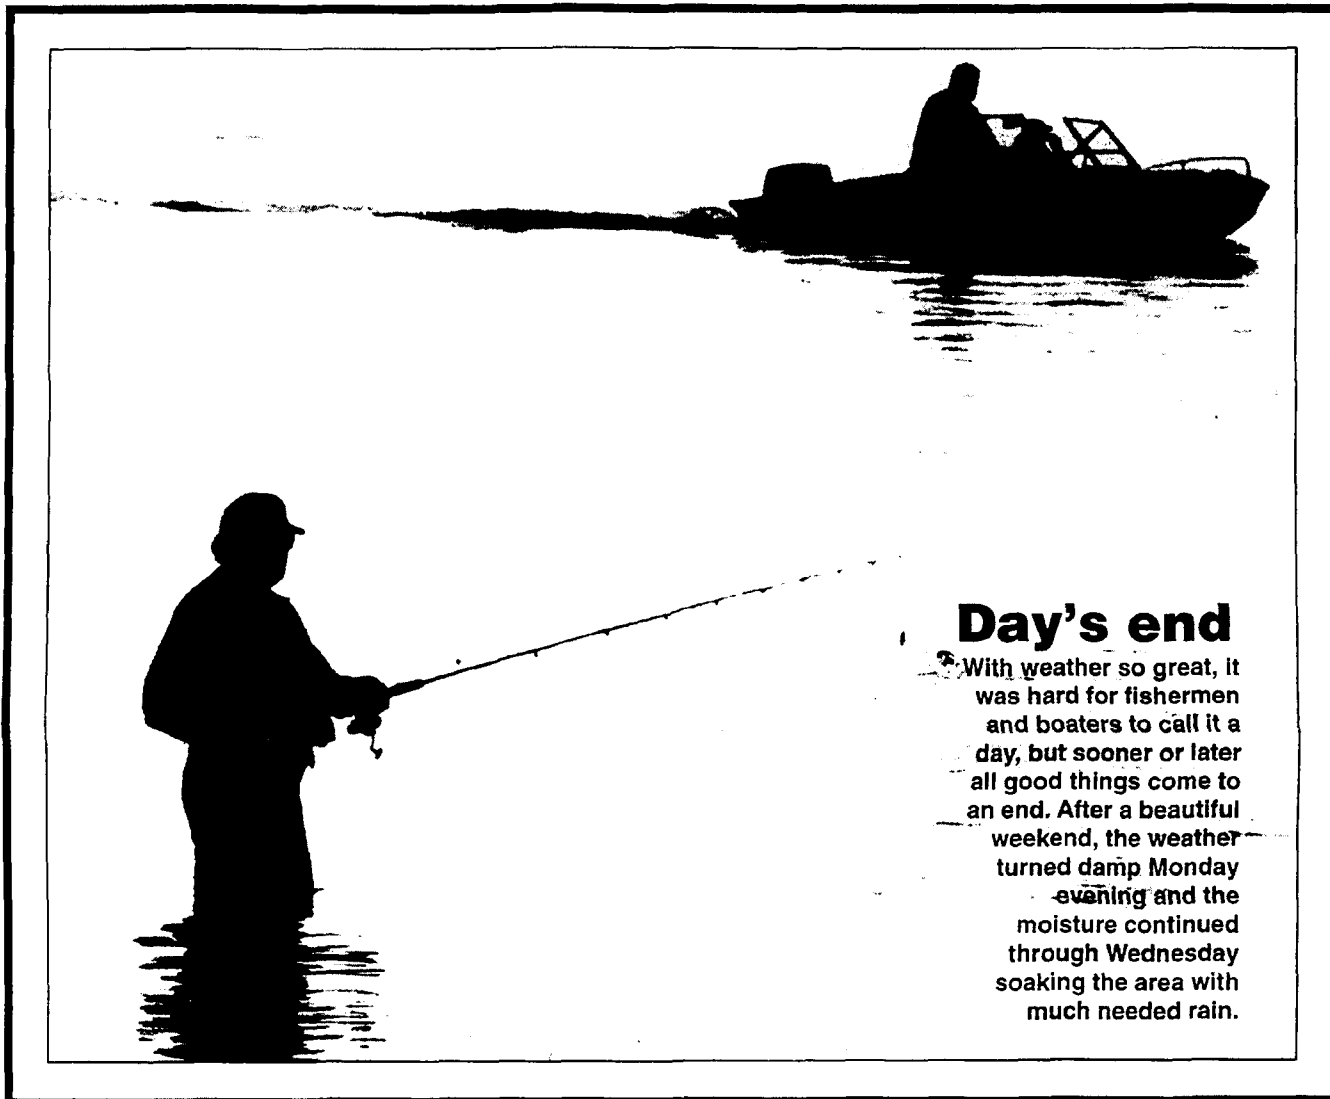

EAST JORDAN HIGH SCHOOL seniors will walk at Boswell Stadium on Sunday June 6 at 2 p.m.

The class' four valedictorians, Bethany Purvis, Rachel Warnos, Holly Petkewicz and Autumn Dodge, all earned higher than a 4.0 G.P.A. The salutatorian is Tabatha Peters.

The class colors are dark red and silver, their flower the lily.

"For every dark night there is a brighter day," is the class motto and the class song is "Good Riddance: The Time of Your Life."

Day's end

With weather so great, it was hard for fishermen and boaters to call it a day, but sooner or later all good things come to an end. After a beautiful weekend, the weather turned damp Monday evening and the moisture continued through Wednesday soaking the area with much needed rain.

Tough choice

Boyne school board offers top job to Morenci superintendent

By a final vote of 6-1, the Boyne City School Board Tuesday evening offered the superintendent's job to Dana Compton, its lone finalist for the position.

Compton is currently superintendent of Morenci Schools in Lenawee County.

The board's vote came despite objections from the administrative team, which did not feel Compton was the best person for the job.

After discussing the pros and cons of hiring Compton for more than 90 minutes, the board passed a motion to hire him by a 4-3 vote. Voting for him were Anne Thurston, Bill Hawkins, Marty Moody and Jerry Keltz. Voting no were Jim Stackus, Jill Rowley and board president Kathy Anderson.

At this point interim superintendent Mary Jason encouraged the board to reconsider its vote since it was highly unlikely a new superintendent would take the position with such a split on the board.

Jonathan Mathers killed in accident at EJ Ironworks

Boyne City resident Jonathan Lee Mathers, 28, died Saturday after being pinned between an overhead pipe and the frame of the aerial man-lift which he was operating while installing overhead piping at the East Jordan Iron Works.

He was found by other company maintenance personnel working in the same area around 2 p.m. Workers immediately called 911 and administered first aid, including CPR, until the East Jordan Ambulance service arrived. He was transferred by ambulance to the Charlevoix Area Hospital, where he died around 11 p.m. Saturday.

"I think anything right now is just speculation," said Iron Works executive vice president Tad Malpass of the accident's cause. "We don't really know how it happened."

He said MIOSHA investigators were on site earlier in the week and will probably be back on Thursday to continue their investigation.

"It's an ongoing investigation at this juncture," said the state's Bureau of Safety and Regulation spokesperson Maura Campbell. The length of the investigation depends on the circumstances surrounding the accident, she said.

"I do know he was considered a very good worker here," Malpass said. "He was a hard working young man."

Malpass said family and friends said Mathers would help someone else at the drop of a hat.

"It's just a real tragic thing. There are a lot of sad faces here right now. He will be very, very missed here," Malpass said.

Mathers had worked for the Iron Works since 1990 as a handler/caster. He is survived by his wife Stephanie, who is pregnant.

Services were held Wednesday, June 2, at the Charlevoix Assembly of God Church.

Memorials can be directed to the family through Stackus Funeral Home in Boyne City.

EAST JORDAN HAS MEMORIAL DAY COMMITMENT TO FELLOW VETERANS

Remembering always

By GINA SOL TISKENDELL

St. Joseph's Calvary Cemetery in East Jordan was peaceful in the spring heat. After a cold spell, warm breezes tousled the white blooms of the Spirea bushes, which form a continuous barrier against the traffic passing by.

Behind the hedge, under the heat of the noontime sun, Ken and Helen Richards took a break last week from cutting the grass between the headstones to place American flags for Memorial Day at the grave sites of American armed service veterans buried there.

Ken replaces his baseball hat with his American Legion cap before setting out the flags.

"I could probably do this one without the book," Ken said of Calvary, where he and Helen are also the caretakers.

"The book" is a spiral-bound notebook he started and has kept updated since 1970, delineating where soldiers are buried. On one page is a sketch of the cemetery with numbers signifying burial sites. On the facing page he has penciled in the corresponding names.

Every year since then, Ken, and then later on with Helen, has erected the flags at 12 cemeteries within a 60 mile radius of their East Jordan home.

Ken has actually been at the task even longer — for 55 years or so — ever since he came home from the Army. Back then he put up the flags with other armed service veterans. The city provides the flags.

"Finally it ended up that it was just me," Ken said. "I could probably get help, but this way we do it when we have time."

Since 1970 when Ken began keeping track, the number of veterans buried have increased from 220 to 530. There were 15 additional plots last year. Calvary has three more this year.

Lately, it is mostly the World War II veterans who are dying.

"Now there are a lot of people I know," Ken

Utopic fantasy still lives on

By GINA SOLTIS KENDELL

If I had scads of money like Bill Gates or Oprah, I would buy miles of shoreline property, and leave it for all people to enjoy in perpetuity. Yes, that freshman fantasy of saving the world is still alive and well.

It's no secret among those who know me best, my own utopic world includes shorelines, forests, farms, wetlands or any other natural area remain in its pristine state — devoid of any construction — with its splendor to be shared by all.

But, unfortunately, in our society's quest to grab a little piece of that beauty for ourselves, it's disappearing bit by bit.

A drive or stroll along Lake Charlevoix in Boyne City is evidence enough. Houses and condominiums whose massive rooflines grab the attention first, have all but gobbled up the lake frontage.

Bricks, sticks and mortar interrupt expansive views, except for the 30 percent the city requires to remain obstruction-free, and from the shores of the parks of course.

The view driving down Main Street these days toward Lake Charlevoix certainly takes your breath away. A stack of condos and row of garages have popped up like a dead-end street sign.

I know this little utopic fantasy of mine is not reality. I know there's no legal debate here. I don't want to argue property rights. The shoreline is privately owned, to be done with what may be done, within governmental ordinances, setbacks, and so forth.

Who am I to say that a person shouldn't make money off of their property? I did it myself when I sold my last house. It's the American way. Where can the line really be drawn for making a buck? It can't be.

But will the masses ask in hindsight one day "why did we allow construction in these natural areas?"

Will it become obvious to us, like knowing that dumping waste and chemicals into waterways is bad for the environment and that smoking is bad for your health?

Some argue that this construction — much of it second homes — provides a larger tax base for the area and that owners spend money in restaurants and shops, keeping the economy going, without adding any extra burden to roads, schools, etc., because they're only here a few weekends of the year.

This assumes that the almighty dollar is more important than maintaining the natural beauty and ecology of an area — the reason why many transplants, like myself, and cottage owners have flocked to northern Michigan in the first place. It goes without saying that building a structure on these beautiful spots renders them no longer beautiful regardless of shrubbery, architectural detail or color scheme. Period.

What if the Grand Canyon's perimeter was lined with houses and condominiums? Unthinkable, right? (Not to mention, the backdrop wouldn't have been as dramatic for Robby Knieval's latest motorcycle jump.)

A local conservationist points out that the shores of the Detroit River used to resemble the Jordan River.

It's not just the loss of unobstructed views that bums me out, but for the potential that someday, just maybe, a wealthy sort or the state will buy the land for more than just a few to enjoy.

You know, utopia.

Am I against development? No. Just doing it "responsibly." A word whose definition could be debated ad nauseam.

Some say the city should have purchased vacant shoreline lots. Of course this would be at an expense that would raise taxes — a worthy expense by some opinions — in order for the city to maintain it properly. But the city already owns much park land. It's hard enough to maintain as it is. Is it really their responsibility anyway?

People are drawn to the water and to the countryside to get away from it all. And right now, with a booming economy, the trend is front row seats for those who can secure mortgages. Urban sprawl has oozed even beyond the suburbs. Bumper-to-bumper traffic heading north on I-75 over the holiday weekend is evidence enough.

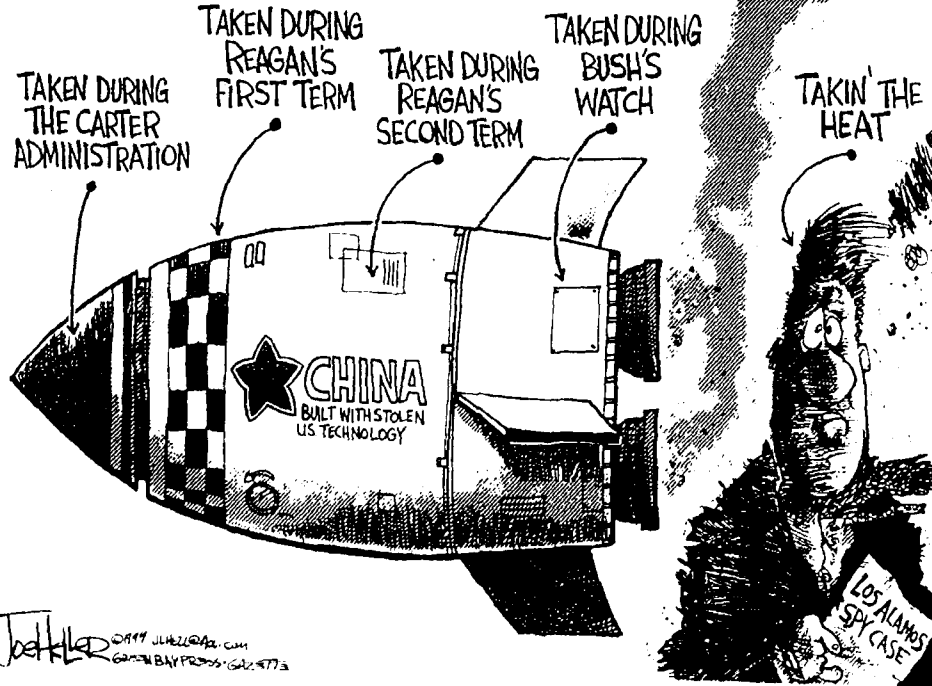

Once a structure is built, nature is gone. The view is gone. The possibility that a philanthropist will happen along and purchase the vacant property is gone.

Alas, the lakeshore's history is one of the community itself and interesting in its own right. Remnants from the logging era still coat the lake's bottom. The Tannery, a monolithic bedrock of the community in the past, once hugged Lake Charlevoix's shore. Who back then would have thought it would ever disappear?

And considering the length of time any building in America remains intact — a couple hundred years is seen as quite an accomplishment — it probably won't be long before the landscape changes again.

I came across a published oral interview with poet Terry Wooten, who lives near Torch Lake. He said he was getting angry about the development on its shore and it was affecting his health.

He said, "Every time they saw a view of water they wanted to build a condo. A voice inside me said: 'Don't worry about it. This is just another phase. We've dealt with glaciers, we've dealt with so many different phases. We can deal with this too. It's just a temporary phase. Ten thousand years and all this development will be gone.' So I stopped fighting so much. I don't agree with it, but I realize I've got to survive."

FROM MY VIEW

Hubble's view not the same for all

By MATTHEW SHAW

One of my favorite on-line periodicals is the internet-based version of the Washington Post. A few days ago, one of the headlines cried "Scientists Narrow Birth Date of Universe." The first paragraph said that a group of National Aeronautics and Space Administration (NASA) scientists, using the Hubble Telescope, had discovered an infinitely important number — the rate at which cosmic objects are flying apart.

At first, I was skeptical. "What does the rate at which cosmic objects are flying apart have to do with... anything?" Reading on, I found the explanation for its importance. "[It is] a number that is key to understanding the age, size and fate of all creation."

Only one paragraph into the article, I already had some questions. What is "all creation?" Looking up the term "creation" Roget's II: The New Thesaurus, I found the most applicable definition was "the totality of all existing things." Alright, I could understand that.

I could somewhat accept that the age and size of all existing things could be determined, but I could not say the same for "fate." In my mind, "fate" had always represented the "end" or "destination" of something. But in order not to rely too heavily on my implicit knowledge, I consulted my trusty thesaurus for "fate." Every definition was similar, the most encompassing was, "to determine the future in advance."

With this newly found knowledge, I found that I could rephrase the initial quote as, "[It is] a number that is key to understanding the age, size, and the advance future of all existing things." I wondered how could the end of all existing things be determined by a number? Despite those peculiarities, it looked noteworthy, so I kept reading. Apparently, NASA had already calculated the age of the universe, which they say has existed for sometime between 12 billion and 13.5 billion years.

At that point, I stopped and asked myself something. Am I overly critical? I had just criticized and analyzed nearly every part of the first paragraph — would my peers do the same? In an effort to find out how the rest of the younger generation would respond to this scientific occurrence, I conducted an informal poll. The first lucky participant was a young woman (a leading candidate for valedictorian in 2000). Much to my surprise, she replied bluntly, "It does not affect me. I am here now. The past was the past and I am living in the future. I will die soon."

Appalled that she did not consider this even to be remarkable in the slightest, I decided to shift my attention to a soon-to-graduate senior, a young man who was bound to have more common sense. "[The news] doesn't affect me at all, I don't really care how old the universe is." To justify his lack of interest, he explained, "I'm not much of a history person."

I returned to my article, which I hadn't finished reading, and found a surprise awaited me. A second group of scientists, also using the Hubble Telescope, had claimed the age of the universe is much older. According to them, it is at least 14.5 billion years old, and probably older. The conflict between scientists played an integral part of the article, so I shared that with my friends as well.

I asked another young lady what she thought of the debate, and which side she agreed with — the "olders" or "youngers." "Hmmm... I think that they need to get their information straight. But if I had to say who I would side with," she continued, "it would probably be the older of the two claims. Because things start to fall apart as they get older... and, well, the place is starting to look kind of shabby."

Next I asked a young man, another valedictorian candidate, what he thought of the "older vs. younger" debate. He took the safe route. "I wouldn't take sides... they'll be going back and forth on it for 20 years, I should imagine."

Hoping for more interesting news, and with the idea that I would find inspiration in the remaining few paragraphs of the article, I continued reading. I came across a surprising excerpt. "The quest for this number, as a fundamental of nature, was a driving force behind the

GARDEN PATH

Sharing the fruits of their labor

By ANGELA SHULTIS

Gardeners are generous by nature. Or by necessity. Or, sometimes, out of pure desperation.

Sometimes it's a case of pride in one's handiwork, sometimes it's wanting to share what bounty they've been so fortunate as to have a hand in creating. Sometimes it's just a matter of having too much of a good thing. Whatever the case may be, people who garden like to share the wealth.

Gardeners are usually more than happy to divide out the plants they have and pass out the extras to their friends and family. If someone admires a particular specimen, many gardeners are often ready and willing with the shovel or shears to dig out a portion or make a cutting.

Gardeners with a little experience have learned that what we grow in the garden is not static; whatever we give away will regenerate before we know it. We have the good fortune to be enamored of a hobby that is ever-renewing, and therefore well-suited to giving away.

Gardeners are equally free with information. Inadvertently mention to a gardener that your tomatoes have hornworms, or that there is mildew on your phlox, and you'll probably get an unsolicited list of home remedies. Or if you have a problem spot in your yard, make mention of it in an off-hand sort of way in a gardeners company and you'll probably soon receive Xeroxed lists of appropriate plants.

Then there's the obligatory vegetable surplus. Gardeners who grow vegetables are probably the most "giving" of all. Fortunately, most people are happy for the chance to enjoy home-grown produce, especially those who either don't have the time or inclination to grow their own.

I know I have provided neighbors, at times, with bags of zucchini, tomatoes, summer squash, and eggplant that might otherwise have rotted on the vine. Most veggie gardeners don't set out to grow so much extra, but you don't really have to plan it. It's astounding that what seemed like a few measly plants can produce enough produce to feed half the block, but sometimes, that's the way it works out.

This particular strain of generosity does occasionally get out of hand. If you're overzealous in your "donations," friends and family may avoid you, crossing to the other side of the street, or pretending they're not home, to derail another well-intentioned delivery of surplus tomatoes or yet another bundle of rhubarb. I mean, there's only so many things you can do with rhubarb.

A co-worker recently related an anecdote from storyteller Garrison Keillor: It seems that produce-sharing of the zucchini variety in his town had become something of a plague, where the simple act of leaving his window open in a parking lot resulted in the anonymous donation of a bag of zucchini, plopped into the front seat. I've been there — on both ends.

But it's not so much the produce, or the plants, or even the advice, as it is the spirit of the thing, I guess. The days of the old-fashioned over-the-fence chat have pretty much become a thing of the past. We don't take the time to drop in on an old chum for a quick catch-up session or chat with the parents of our children's friends. So it's nice to have an excuse to find out how your neighbors are, or see what Grandma's up to.

For me, it's been a connection with my mom that I might not have had otherwise. We share a love for growing things. She gladly shares her knowledge with me, and I look forward to trading plants with her as our gardens mature. And, yes, she will surely be among the first recipients of my excess zucchini.

The day after July 4th is best choice for parade

TO THE EDITOR:

I read in today's paper that the 4th of July parade is to be held at 9:30 Sunday, the 4th. I am very unhappy with this decision, and feel it is a slap in the face to people who attend church on Sunday morning.

The fact that they are moving the time back to 9:30 a.m. is not the issue. The time change doesn't correct the fact that Sunday morning is going to keep many people from seeing the only BIG parade we have all year! I look forward all year to this parade, and am very disappointed that I will probably miss it because I choose to put God before a parade.

I know I am not alone with this feeling. Why can't the parade be on Monday, which is the legal holiday, anyway? Committee, PLEASE reconsider your decision.

Housing commission disagrees with HUD report

The Boyne City Housing Commission believes that 90 percent of the items labeled as having "major," "severe" or "minor" problems in a recent HUD housing inspection report to be non-existent altogether, said commission executive director Todd Sorenson.

The results, posted last month on a HUD Internet site in follow-up to a Dec. 9 physical inspection, came as a surprise to the local commission which found out the scores after they had been released. Previous years' inspections had resulted in excellent scores.

"It just appears that the person, in my opinion, was incompetent," Sorenson said, postulating that the inspector either didn't know enough about the practical side of performing inspections or didn't know how to use her computer.

"We have taken great pains to train the people," said Bill Hill, a liaison manager for HUD's Real Estate Housing Assessment Center (REAC), the organization responsible for the inspection. He noted that inspectors are required to undergo training, pass a certification exam and meet other minimum requirements.

But the commission disagrees with the findings and is wondering what to do next.

"We need to know how they expect us to deal with this matter," Sorenson said.

In mid May, HUD published a notice specifying how to respond with disagreements to inspectors' official findings, but since these were only advisory scores, the commission is in the dark as to what, or if, there is an appeal process. Sorenson's calls to REAC since reviewing the report last week have gone unreturned.

And even though it's only an advisory score, Sorenson said they would like someone to come back out and perform a second inspection.

"We're the ones suffering, not the inspector," Sorenson said.

He added that the commission has yet to receive a hard copy of the report.

Hill said he believed the correspondence had been mailed out, but noted that the information on the Internet is identical to what would be mailed.

Since these are advisory scores, Hill said they will not have an affect on the Public Housing Assessment System (PHAS) — the official inspection which will take place after the end of September — except to give the housing commission a potential illustration of where they may stand with the new system in place.

"This gives them an idea where their difficulties lie when it goes live," Hill said.

He said at the same time REAC is making sure the information it collects and uses is correct and the results are valid.

The assessment system is new and was developed to try to remove the subjectivity of the inspection process using engineering guidelines and good building standards, Hill said, "so when our inspectors go from property A to property Z, they are looking at the same thing."

Before REAC was established, property inspections were done with a pad of legal paper and with various sets of guidelines for different programs. Now information is recorded more objectively through handheld computers used during inspections with information then downloaded into REAC's computer system and onto its website.

Regardless of the appeal process, or lack thereof, Sorenson said the commission will contact legislators to show them what the inspection showed and what the housing commission's review showed.

"If you took out what we viewed as mistakes (by the inspector), there's no doubt we would have retained our high performer status," Sorenson said.

He cited an example of an apartment door at Litzenger place which was assessed as having major damage, meaning it's not serving its function of keeping the apartment secure, Sorenson explained. He said there were scuff marks on the door from the resident's walker, which furniture polish rubbed out.

"There is a big difference between scuff marks and major damage to a door," Sorenson said. "Our opinion is that the inspector couldn't tell the difference because of lack of training or lack of practical knowledge."

Recently, the commission gave a tour of the facility to a representative from U.S. Sen. Spencer Abraham's office to demonstrate the report's discrepancies. The commission also plans to issue a 50 to 100 page report to Abraham, Sen. Carl Levin and Rep. Bart Stupak's offices as well as to REAC "to let them know that this isn't acceptable and this is not right," Sorenson said.

"Who's to blame? You got me," he said.

construction of the $2.2 billion Hubble Space Telescope." Once again, I felt it was my duty to relay this information to my peer group of critics.

A third young lady angrily said, "That is ludicrous! It is a complete waste of money for a worthless piece of knowledge. 2.2 billion dollars could be used for more practical purposes on earth that would benefit mankind far more. A glaring example of this would be putting the money toward easing hunger."

Returning to my origins, I told the first young lady about the cost of the Hubble. Instead of the blunt reply I was expecting, she launched into a rousing, feel-good speech. Here are some portions: "It is great that people have found a passion that drives their lives. For me, that is not my passion. . . It costs a lot of money, but I see it as a way for people to fulfill their hunger for their certain passion."

Satisfied with her reply, I ended my impromptu question session. I am left with a simple conclusion. The earth exists, the universe exists, scientists exist and teenagers exist. The fact that they can all exist harmoniously is remarkable.

Foundation's youth committee awards several grants to recreational programs

When the Charlevoix County Community Foundation's Youth Advisory Committee (YAC) surveyed area high school students recently, it found that kids share several concerns.

Along with frequently mentioned problems like substance abuse, child neglect, or teen pregnancy, YAC members learned that more recreational programs and organized activities for young people rank near the top of Charlevoix County teens' wish list.

With that in mind, the YAC voted to award grants totaling nearly $29,000 to support a number of sports, cultural, and skill-building programs targeted to area youth.

Projects chosen to receive YAC funding and the amount of their grants are:

- Charlevoix County American Legion Baseball - $1,500 to help cover start-up costs for a traveling league team made up of athletes 16 to 18 years of age. The team will join more than 70 others throughout Michigan - many composed of some of the state's most talented players.

- Charlevoix Area Community Pool - $1,200 to purchase an inflatable device used for swim instruction and supervised water play.
- Charlevoix County 4-H - $1,500 to help build an in-line skating and skateboard park at Avalanche Mountain in Boyne City. The grant will also help cover the cost of helmets, knee pads, and other safety equipment for use at the park.
- Crooked Tree Arts Council - $3,000 to support a docent tour program that will bring Charlevoix County students to the McCune Art Center for hands-on cultural, creative, and educational activities.

- Raven Hill Discovery Center - $5,625 for a new integrated environmental program that helps students understand the linkages between plants, animals, air, water, and other nonliving factors in Michigan's varied habitats. The pilot program will be offered to students and teachers throughout the Char-Em school district.
- Camp Daggett - $5,000 to help develop a barrier-free indoor facility that will be used year-round for the camp's popular rope-climbing challenge and other adventure programs.

- Lake Charlevoix Mariners - $1,350 to purchase 30 life vests that will be used by children in the Charlevoix and Boyne City 4-H sailing program.
- Boyne City Public Schools - $2,000 to support the new Adventure & Rainbow Club that provides after-school organized activities, field trips, and learning opportunities for sixth graders.
- Charlevoix Elementary School - $1,000 to help underwrite the cost of water safety and swim lessons to qualified second and fifth graders.
- Northwest Michigan Council for the Prevention of Child Abuse and Neglect - $1,800 to distribute a helpful manual called "What to Expect the First Year" to all new parents in Charlevoix County.
- Planned Parenthood of Northern Michigan - $3,000 to bring "Out of the Locker Room," a special program promoting adolescent male responsibility, to groups of boys in Charlevoix County high schools.
- Charlevoix County Friends of the Court - $2,000 to support a school liaison program that links parents, students, and teachers with Friend of the Court services, and helps address the special needs of children in single-parent families, or those of divorcing parents.

Foundation's Youth Advisory Committee will have distributed more than $202,200 to programs benefiting young people since the group started making grants in 1994. Money for grantmaking comes from a special endowment called the Charlevoix County Youth Fund that's held by the Community Foundation. That fund, which was spearheaded by financial support from the W.K. Kellogg Foundation, now has assets of nearly $1.3 million.

Members of the YAC represent all high schools within Charlevoix County, including Beaver Island. The group meets regularly throughout the year to study local programs, learn about community resources, assess the needs of young people, and address those needs through grantmaking.

Students who serve on the YAC include Christina Heller, Kellie Gillespie, and Abbie Adams from Beaver Island; Dylan Hall, Katie Dhaseler and John Fry from Boyne City; Adam Utley, Rene Fiel, and Jason McNitt from Boyne Falls; Patrick Gowell, Jessica Halverson, and Jeremy Rafacz from Charlevoix; and Jeremy Booze, Heather Jones, and Tam Leach from East Jordan.

The Youth Advisory Committee will consider grant requests again this fall. For information about the group, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation, or how to apply for a grant, call the foundation office at 536-2440.

In order to have the vote reconsidered, one of the four affirmative voters needed to make the motion. It was made, and after several more minutes of discussion, the board voted 6-1 to offer Compton the job. Anderson voted no.

Compton was one of 42 applicants for the position left vacant with the resignation of Bob Nakoneczny in April. From the 42, the board selected five candidates to interview. Only Compton was given a second interview.

Before voting to offer Compton the job, the board heard a report from the group that visited Morenci early last week. Board members Rowley, Stackus and Moody traveled to Morenci to visit with staff and members of the community about Compton. They were joined by community representative Pat O'Brien and high school principal Sue Stephens.

It was observations from that visit that sparked lengthy discussion by the board. Apparently Compton does not have a strong working relationship with his administrative team. "The biggest problem is no cohesiveness," Moody said. There was also criticism of Compton that he micro manages. Moody said a major problem for Compton was the sub-par administrative team he had to work with.

The toughest criticisms of Compton came from Stephens who said she had major reservations about hiring him. She said Morenci has no formalized curriculum committee, no budget planning committee and no structure for organizational decision making. In the nine years he has been in Morenci, she said, he has had ample opportunity to implement these structures.

Elementary school principal Ed Synder said the district needs an educational leader and he questioned whether Compton was the best choice. He echoed Stephens comments about Compton's budget-decision process and management style and asked "What can he bring to the district?"

While administrators found fault with Compton, board members thought he would be good for the district and was clearly the best candidate who applied for the job. Yet they were troubled by the criticism from the administrative staff.

When it appeared the board was moving toward starting the search over, a motion was made to offer a contract to Compton. After more lengthy discussion, the motion passed 4-3. The board then took a short recess and when it returned reconsidered its original motion. That passed 6-1.

"My intention is to take the job," Compton said Wednesday. He plans to meet with the board's personnel committee to work out contract details and hopes to have that completed in the next week to 10 days.

Compton, 47, is no stranger to Boyne City. He has been coming to his family's Thumb Lake cottage since he was 3 years old and says the area "is my favorite spot to be."

Kiwanis recruiting to start Boyne chapter

The Kiwanis Club has sent letters to nearly 100 Boyne City businesses to assess interest in starting a new club in the community.

The letters will be followed up with phone calls on June 8-10 to recruit potential members. To begin a local club, 24 members are needed.

Kiwanis is designed for individuals desiring personal involvement in the improvement of community and has a strong emphasis on supporting youth.

"As a business person myself, I recognize the value of associating with others in my community," said Charlevoix Kiwanis Lt. Governor Edward Buday. "I joined Kiwanis because the focus is on our youth and that is top priority for me."

The clubs in Charlevoix and Petoskey have been actively involved with over 76 years of continuous service.

Clubs generally meet once per week for breakfast. Dues are minimal and 100 percent of fundraising dollars are returned to the local community.

If you were not contacted, but are interested in finding out more, call Buday at 547-2474.

'Women's Work' art auction will benefit Women's Resource Center

The 13th annual "Women's Work" art auction benefit for the Women's Resource Center of Northern Michigan will be held on Friday, June 25, at Stafford's Bay View Inn in Petoskey.

"The auction began 12 years ago as a new, fun way to raise money for the agency while also recognizing the wonderfully creative artists we have in this area," said Deb Smith, assistant director for the WRC.

The first year, 15 artists raised just over $2,500. Last year 46 artists had sales totaling over $10,000. "I think this auction is unique because we showcase art work as opposed to other auctions which often have many different types of items up for bidding," Smith said.

The silent auction runs from 5-7 p.m. with the live auction beginning at 7:30 p.m. Tickets are $15 per person or $25 per couple and may be purchased at the door. Door prizes, hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar will also be a part of the evening's festivities.

Sacred Sparks hosts Drum Jam

Michael Sullivan, a local drum maker, will be at the Fire Circle on the grounds of Sacred Sparks in East Jordan on Saturday, June 5, at 7:30 p.m.

Sullivan, of Visions of Peace Drum and Dance Company, studied West African drumming at Maimouna Keita in New York City, and at the Nuropa Institute in Boulder, Colo. He is a teacher and craftsman, making the drums he plays and also selling them. Sullivan will have his Ashikos and Djun-Djuns available for sale.

The "Drum Jam" will begin at 7:30 p.m., and all in attendance are encouraged to come early to learn some special drum lore. The scheduled 90-minute workshop will ease into a drum circle. Fee for the entire evening is $20. If you come only for the Jam, which starts at 9 p.m., the cost is $5. Those attending are asked to call Sacred Sparks at 536-2704.

Sacred Sparks is located at 5070 Mt. Bliss Rd.

Bridge work

An assortment of flowers were planted along the bridge in East Jordan by Lioness Club members and add a gay splash of color to the waterscape's foreground. The plants were supplied by the Lioness Club and the East Jordan Garden Club, Bud Carey built the new flowerboxes and girl scouts painted them. From left are Margaret Thomson, Shannon Fender and Courtney Fender.

Boyne District Library summer program should be 'readilicious'

"Readilicious: Carry-outs Available" is the theme of the 1999 Summer Reading Program at the Boyne District Library. The program is for children from three years old to fourth grade.

The six-week series of activities will include stories, poems, crafts, contests, and games, and will kick off with Craft Days on June 22 and June 29 in the middle school cafeteria.

Registered participants can drop in any time between 9:30 a.m. and 3 p.m. on those days for fun with food related crafts.

From July 6 through July 27 a program will feature guest readers, a picnic, and a visit by Deputy Sheriff Rex Stark-

Behling and his search/rescue dogs.

Children will learn about the many "carry-outs" available from the library's shelves -- books, audio cassettes, videos, and CDs.

Registration begins on Monday, June 7, and can be done in person or by phone. For more information call the library at 582-7861.

Conservancy's backyard series continues Saturday

Charlevoix County Land Conservancy's "Beauty in our Backyard" series continues Saturday, June 5, with a visit to the moraines and drumlins of Charlevoix and Antrim counties.

The field trip will stop at one of Charlevoix County's "High Spots" to observe the work of glaciers.

The carpool will leave, rain or shine, from the Charlevoix County Land Conservancy office at 108 Park Ave. in Charlevoix at 9 a.m. Early birds will meet at 8:15 a.m. to share a nature reading or original work.

On June 12, the conservancy will explore the wooded uplands, transitional fields, and mature cedar lowlands of the Skow Family Preserve in South Arm Township. The preserve is a 40-acre area located on the Antrim/Charlevoix county line. It was the third preserve added to the 193 acre St. Clair-Six Mile Lake (Great Blue Heron) Natural Area.

After the walk, participants are encouraged to attend the Ellsworth Pig Roast festivities. Rain or shine the carpool will leave from the conservancy office at 9 a.m. The walk will not be strenuous. Early birds should meet at 8:15 a.m.

Tickets on sale for trip to Stratford Festival Theater

The Jordan River Arts Council is offering a theater junket to the Stratford Festival Theater in Stratford, Canada on Oct. 9 and 10 to see Jane Austin's Pride and Prejudice, and Laurence, Bernstein and Sodheim's West Side Story.

The cost is $200 per person and includes both performances, transportation, and lodging based on double occupancy.

A backstage tour is available to a limited number of people for an additional $5.

To purchase tickets call the arts council at 536-3385.

Up for bid

Jim White and Jeff MacFarlane display a handmade birdhouse by Carlton Howie which will be up for bid at the Charlevoix Hospice auction on June 11. The duo will act as auctioneers for the fifth year in a row for the fundraiser, which will be held at Boyne Mountain's convention center.

CROP Walk sets date for '99 event

Charlevoix County CROP Walk coordinators recently met at the Charlevoix Methodist Church with Johanna Balzer, associate director of Church World Services to make plans for the 1999 event.

Coordinators for this year's CROP Walk are Kay Smith, Charlevoix; Marge Teske, East Jordan; and Diana Walls, Boyne City.

Since the 1998 Walk ran into difficulty with torrential rains, it was decided to set both an actual date for the Walk and an alternate date. Saturday, Sept. 25, was selected as the date with Sept. 26 the alternate.

Despite the rain, in 1998 the County CROP Walk had 119 walkers and a total of $16,617 was raised to combat world hunger and to assist the three food pantries in Charlevoix County. This averaged out to $139.63 per walker. Charlevoix County ranked second in the state in the amount raised per walker.

The goal set by the coordinators for the 1999 CROP Walk is a total of 160 walkers from the three communities and a total of $17,000.

For information about the event, call Smith at 547-2920, Teske at 536-3128, or Walls at 582-6485.

EJ ASSISTANT PRINCIPAL, ATHLETIC DIRECTOR HAS INTERIM REMOVED FROM TITLE

Looking forward to the challenges ahead

A year was plenty of time for East Jordan High School's interim assistant principal and athletic director Steve Hines to be sure he liked the temporary position and he accepted the job permanently last month after Tammy Jackson, who formerly held the post, became the school's principal.

"It really went well. I enjoyed it," Hines said. "Doing something different always has a tendency to make time go by faster. This year flew by."

After graduating from Central Michigan University, Hines spent his first three years in the district, beginning in 1984, as athletic director. He then moved into the classroom as a government and physical education teacher to allow more time to spend with his young family.

He had served as an interim high school principal for three-quarters of a year during the 1989-90 school year when the principal left the district for a superintendency job. After that it was back to the classroom until last fall.

He has coached girls basketball since 1984 and spent five years coaching boys varsity basketball as well.

"I've always felt that at some point in time I'd want an administrative career, but I didn't want to do it anyplace else than in East Jordan," Hines said. "I felt that if I didn't do it now, it might be a long time before the opportunity presented itself again."

Hines also enjoyed working with Jackson. "I felt she did a good job and felt we did well together. Since this year was so enjoyable and I got a lot out of it I felt that it was something I wanted to continue to do."

Jackson said Hines' commitment to students is what it takes to do a good job as an assistant principal.

"He holds students responsible for their behavior in a caring and compassionate way," she said, adding that he does an outstanding job in the athletic department and understands where sports fit into the academic setting.

Hines said there probably isn't a single sport he doesn't enjoy. "Based on my interest it was kind of a natural match."

He had his work cut out this year with the addition of a high school golf program and with the decision to implement high school soccer beginning next fall with a men's team and then a women's team in the spring.

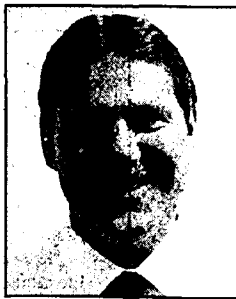

The community, school board and administration's support of the schools, particularly athletics, has made Hines' job even more enjoyable.

"I think we have a great student body. I enjoy working with the students and athletes, so that has contributed to it and I think we have an outstanding coaching staff," he said.

THE DISTRICT WILL interview four candidates on June 15 and 16 to replace Gus Bishop as the director of curriculum and instruction. Two of the finalists are currently employed by the district and two come from out of the area.

Bishop will begin a new phase of his career on July 1 as superintendent of Central Lake Schools. His final day at East Jordan will be June 30.

Last year Bishop stepped down as principal of East Jordan High School after five years to take on the curriculum duties full-time.

A keeper

While morels have been a bit scarce this spring, some hunters have enjoyed good fortune. One of them was Mike Smith. He and his wife found this huge white morel growing -- in all places -- under the back deck of their Advance home. The mug was placed to show the size of the morel.

EJ boys run to conference crown

The East Jordan boys (154) track team ran away with the Lake Michigan Conference championship, East Jordan girls (84) took second in their meet and the Boyne City girls (83) were one point behind with a third place finish. Boyne City boys (43) placed fifth.

East Jordan's boys scored almost 70 more points than last year, finishing ahead of Charlevoix (139), Harbor Springs (83) and Traverse City St. Francis (55).

The Red Devils swept the throwing events with Ken Slough winning the discus and Rusty Steinhoff taking first in the shot put. Steinhoff was also fourth in discus.

"It wasn't necessarily a surprise, but was the first time we've ever done that," coach Matt Peterson said.

Chad Muma tallied up points winning the long jump, placing third in the high jump with his personal best of 5'11", third in the 200 meter dash, and he ran a leg of the second place 800 meter relay team.

Scott Fisher was the conference champ again in the 400 meter dash.

The team's depth showed through in the 3200 meter relay race (Chris Bacon, Dustin Tinney, Kevin Penzien, Chris Bearden), when it took first place with only one regular member of the squad running.

"That was pretty impressive," Peterson said.

Tarn Leach and Micah Middaugh each placed in the 800, 1600 and 3200 meter runs.

The 1600 relay of Fisher, Tony Prevo, Matt Shaw and Don Priest took second place. The 400 meter relay team of Josh Evans, Prevo, Zach Jones and Paulo Santos placed fourth.

Peterson expressed his thanks and good wishes to the team's departing seniors, Dillon Antaya, Josh Evans, Scott Fisher, Ben Johnson, Zach Jones, Chad Muma, Tony Prevo, Matt Shaw, Paulo Santos, Paul Slough and Dustin Tinney.

BOYNE CITY'S Andy Fowler took second in discus. Aaron Sulak and Sean Ku placed third and fourth respectively in the 100 meter dash.

Shawn Weisler took fourth in both the 1600 and 3200 meter runs.

The 400 meter relay team took second and the 3200 and 800 meter relay teams were fourth.

IN THE GIRLS MEET, Traverse City St. Francis finished first and Charlevoix was fourth with 82 points.

"We're very excited we were able to sneak by Charlevoix and Boyne City because they've been getting us all season," East Jordan girls coach Dennis Snarey said of the three-way rivalry. "It makes it a little extra special I suppose."

East Jordan's Catey Moses was the team's star runner, taking first in the 400 meter dash and the long jump and second in the 100 and 200 meter dashes.

Her teammates Heather Hammond and Suzie Malpass took third and fourth in the long jump, respectively, with Malpass taking second in the 300 meter hurdles and fourth in the 100 meter hurdles.

Boyne City's Nikki Peck took first place in the pole vault with a 7'8" vault setting a new school record.

A first place finish went to Boyne City's state-bound 3200 meter relay team (Jane Stieber, Kelsey Brewer, Mindy McCutcheon and Jackie Cyr).

"The 3200 meter relay wasn't as quick as they had run at regionals, but it was a gutsy run by Jackie in the last leg to come around the final curve and win it in the final meters," Nagurka said.

Boyne set a new school record and took first in the 800 meter relay (Ann Gaudard, Ashley Schrader, Nicole Kurtz, Cyr).

"The hand-offs were superb," Nagurka said. "They ran fast which doesn't hurt."

They placed second in the 400 meter relay (Carey Rouleau, Brewer, Kurtz, Gaudard) and the 1600 meter relay (Brewer, Schrader, McCutcheon, Cyr).

Kurtz was second in the 100 meter hurdles setting a new school record at 16.16 and Wendy Chrysler was second in high jump earning them both all-conference honorable mentions.

East Jordan took third in the 800 and 1600 meter relay and fourth in the 3200 meter relay.

Third place finishes went to Cyr in the 800 meter run and Gaudard in the 100 meter dash.

Red Devils host district tourney

A district championship and a chance to keep the season alive is on the line this Saturday in East Jordan.

The Red Devils are hosting the District 66 baseball and softball tournament, which opens with Boyne City facing East Jordan.

Both the softball and baseball games begin at 10 a.m. Also participating in the tournament are Charlevoix and Mancelona.

The winner of the Boyne City-East Jordan games will play the winner of Mancelona and Charlevoix. That game will begin 30 minutes after the completion of game one.

The championship game will start 30 minutes after the end of game two.

East Jordan's varsity baseball team tuned up for the tournament with three doubleheaders the past week, including a sweep Tuesday night of Bellaire.

The Red Devils won game one 7-3 and took game two 4-0. Jon Bennett was the winning pitcher in game one for the Red Devils. He went three innings and allowed four hits, no walks and struck out four. Wally Wiser pitched the fourth and fifth innings and did not allow a hit while striking out five. Mat Whiteford pitched the final inning and allowed one hit while striking out one.

Nathan Skop led the Red Devils at the plate with a home run and double. Mike Wladischkin singled and doubled and Matt Birgy had two singles.

In game two, Skop was the winning pitcher. He allowed two hits, three walks and struck out six. He also hit his second home run of the day.

Kris Lifer had two doubles, Birgy singled and doubled, and Bryan Banfield and Wladischkin each had two singles.

Twilight meet was good tune up for East Jordan runners

East Jordan's Suzie Malpass won the 300 meter hurdles and took second in the 100 meter hurdles at the Twilight Meet of Champions in Charlevoix, running her season's best times.

The meet includes pre-qualified runners in all classes who come from an area encompassing north of Central Lake over to Lake Huron and into the upper peninsula.

"It was a good tune-up for the state meet where she'll be running the 300," coach Dennis Snarey said of Malpass' win.

East Jordan's Tarn Leach placed third in the 800, breaking the school record with his time of 2:00.03. The old record of 2:00.76 was held by Mike Newkirk.

"Coach Podskalny and I were really pleased with how he stayed aggressive the entire race," coach Matt Peterson said.

"The weather was perfect for running fast times and that's exactly what happened. It was definitely a good tune-up for the state meet this weekend," Peterson said.

Ramblers face stiff test against tough Rudyard

After more than a week off, the Boyne City Ramblers returned to the diamond Tuesday to play one of the toughest teams it has faced all year.

Rudyard came to Boyne sporting a gaudy 24-4 record and they left with two more wins, but it wasn't easy.

Rudyard took the first game 6-2 and won the nightcap 3-2 in eight innings.

The big blow in game one was a grand slam home run in the first inning that gave Rudyard a lead the Ramblers could not overcome.

Jesse Simon was on the mound for the Ramblers and after a rocky start settled down to pitch a solid game. He gave up five hits, four walks and struck out three. Nick Karzsewski pitched one inning of relief.

"Jesse threw a good game after the first inning," said Boyne City coach Beano Archey. "He threw a real nice game and the kids played well."

Josh Bush led the Ramblers at the plate with a home run and double. Luke Reinhardt and Kevin Metzger each singled.

Rudyard needed extra innings to take the Ramblers in game two. They won it with a solo home run.

Justin Callahan went the distance for the Ramblers and allowed six hits, one walk and struck out three. "He pitched exceptionally well," Archey said. "He battled hard and hung in there."

Simon had a home run and single and Callahan and Bush each singled.

For the two games, the Ramblers only had two errors.

Lady Red Devils put it all together against Bellaire

The East Jordan softball team went 3-2-1 in its last six games most recently defeating Bellaire 2-1, 2-1. Linda Slough was on the mound for both games allowing five hits in game one and eight hits in game two.

In game one, East Jordan scored two runs in the bottom of the sixth to win, with Mary Ann Brooks hitting the game winning RBI.

"This is how softball is supposed to be played," coach Meg Fowler said.

Rachel Boss had two singles, Brooks hit a double and Slough had a single.

In the second game, Cynthia Mazzella hit an RBI in the sixth inning for the win.

"Our defense was great. We got out of some big innings with strong defense," Fowler said.

Mazzella hit a triple, Brooks and Wendy Walczak each had doubles and Lindsey Malpass had two singles.

East Jordan split its double header against Central Lake losing 9-8 and coming back to win 11-1 in game two.

"Game two was a much better played game. Defensively we made smart plays," Fowler said.

Against Elk Rapids they tied 2-2 and then lost 5-0.

"After leading in game one and not maintaining our lead, our girls let down a bit," Fowler said. "They continued to try hard but much of their emotion was gone. Overall we had a good day."

The team's record is 17-6-1. They were scheduled to play Kalkaska Wednesday night.

Lady Loggers close out season

The Boyne Falls softball team split a double header with East Jordan's junior varsity, winning its first game 26-9, and turning around to lose 7-2 in game two.

"We finally play a good first game and then we go flat the second," Beyer said.

The team went from 15 hits in the first game down to five hits in the second against the pitcher that pitched most of the first game.

Jessica Kondrat was on the mound in game one for the win and also had five hits for the Loggers. Four of her teammates had two hits each.

"We got the big lead early mostly on walks and then played loose the rest of the way," coach Ted Beyer said. "Jessica was hitting some ropes and pitched well. This was a good team win."

Boyne Fall's Jenny Kuhn was the losing pitcher in the second game.

She pitched a good game, Beyer said "but East Jordan did a good job of manufacturing runs."

Kondrat had two hits for Boyne Falls.

IN DISTRICT PLAY the Loggers lost 8-4 to Alba.

Kondrat took the loss for the Loggers allowing six runs in 1 1/3 innings. Relief pitcher Kuhn, allowed two in 5 2/3 innings.

"The team settled down after the first two innings and played some good ball," Beyer said. "We could not get the key hit when we needed it."

Then a costly error let Alba score two unearned runs in the top of the seventh to give them some breathing room.

The Loggers ended the season 7-18 and 6-6 in the conference.

Ty McGregor bringing basketball camp to East Jordan this summer

The Ty McGregor Roundball Camp at East Jordan will be held July 19-22 at the high school.

McGregor led Mio to a state championship in 1990 and then was a four-year starter at Oakland University. He recently played professionally in Denmark averaging 25 points a game and, after the season, was appointed head coach the following season.

McGregor is a veteran camp coach having run his own successful camps in Mio for 10 years and assisting in the Jay Smith Camps, including East Jordan, for many years.

The camp is known for its work intensity and detailed fundamental instruction. Camp cost is $70 and is open to next year's third-10th grade boys and girls. The camp runs Monday through Thursday from 9 a.m.-4 p.m.

Call Chris McGregor at (517) 826-5324 for camp forms or Del Ingalls, East Jordan varsity boys basketball coach, at 536-0404, for more information.

A solemn day

After veterans, scouts and the Boyne City High School band paraded through downtown Boyne City to celebrate Memorial Day, they, along with hundreds of others, gathered for a ceremony at Veteran's Park. One part of the program was led by American Legion commander Jerry Evans who explained what each fold of the American flag symbolizes. Holding the flag were Wait Stahl and Fred Gondzar. A member of the VFW Auxiliary participating in the program, Helen Lyons, fainted during the program and was taken to the hospital where she was kept overnight. She was home Tuesday and feeling fine.

Former teacher will stand trial on sexual misconduct charges

A former Boyne City teacher Christi Brilinski will stand trial on sexual misconduct charges after a female student testified last week that she had a sexual relationship with her for more than a year.

Brilinski, 44, a former track coach, athletic director and English teacher at Boyne City High School, was bound over Thursday to circuit court on three counts of criminal sexual conduct in the fourth degree.

During her testimony, the former student said that she had numerous sexual encounters with Brilinski at Brilinski's home, at the Boyne City High School locker room and in Brilinski's school office.

The former student also said she told another Boyne City teacher about the sexual relationship years before police issued charges against Brilinski last month. The former student also testified that school officials knew Brilinski was not to have contact with her.

The former student, who is now 20 years old, testified that she and Brilinski became close friends during 1994, when the student was a 15-year-old freshman attending two of Brilinski's classes. The woman described a life of a troubled teenager at odds with her parents and turning to Brilinski for help.

The former student testified she went to live with Brilinski for 11 days during the summer of 1994 and that her parents had to get a court order and have Boyne City Police intervene to bring her home. The woman said Brilinski was manipulative and alienated her from friends and family.

The former student also testified that even after her parents told school officials they did not want Brilinski to have any contact with their daughter, Brilinski arranged for private rendezvous in a locker room.

While the former student testified she never said "no" to Brilinski's alleged advances, she said Brilinski knew the encounters sickened her and that she vomited after several incidents. The woman also testified that Brilinski told her that if she ever told anyone about the incidents it would "ruin" Brilinski's life.

Brilinski's defense attorney Randall Karfonta argued that even though the former student testified to a sexual relationship with Brilinski, the woman never accused her of force or coercion. He said therefore the criminal sexual conduct charges were unwarranted.

But Prosecutor Mary Beth Kur said as a teacher Brilinski exploited the teenager and coerced her psychologically.

District Court Judge Richard May said based on the testimony, the student was not emotionally stable during the alleged encounters, although the former student was 16 at the time -- the legal consent age.

The former student also testified that she tape-recorded a conversation with Brilinski in February. During that conversation, the woman told Brilinski she was going public with her accusations. The woman also testified that Brilinski admitted to the sexual relationship on tape.

The tape was not played during the hearings and defense attorney Karfonta has filed motions to suppress that evidence.

Brilinski resigned from the school district less than one month after the taped phone conversation. She had been employed with the district for 13 years.

The former student said she waited until recently to tell authorities about the relationship because she had few friends and never felt she could tell anyone before.

Brilinski did not testify at the hearing. She is currently free on a personal recognizance bond and is not to have contact with the former student. Brilinski will face a circuit court arraignment on June 11.

Criminal sexual conduct in the fourth degree is a felony that carries a maximum penalty of two years in jail and a $500 fine.

Brilinski also is charged with soliciting a child for sex or other acts of indecency or delinquency. The misdemeanor offense carries a maximum punishment of one year in jail.

Boyne City seniors don caps and gowns

Four Boyne City students are graduating from area schools. Christi Hoesli and Joel Schraw of Boyne City are graduating from Harbor Light Christian School on June 5 at 7 p.m.

Chad Wittenmyer and Jennifer Stackus graduated last weekend from Concord Academy High School of Petoskey.

Following is a brief profile of each student:

CHRISTI HOESLI played volleyball and softball, was on the yearbook staff, is a member of the Christian Honor Society and recently played Maria in the school's production of The Sound of Music. She is a member of the Walloon Lake Community Church Youth Group and has taken mission trips to Mexico and Toronto.

She plans to pursue a degree in broadcast journalism at Oral Roberts University in Tulsa. Her parents are Susan and Doug Hoesli.

JOEL SCHRAW played on the baseball and soccer teams and was also involved in theater. He has traveled extensively to third world countries and lived in Africa for three months with his family.

He plans to study pre-law at Hope College in the fall. Joel's parents are Marleen and Tom Schraw.

JENNIFER STACKUS, daughter of Diane and Craig Stackus of Boyne City, will attend Hocking College. She has performed in the Little Traverse Civic Theatre's production of Elephant Man, and school productions including Cinderella, Iphigeneia, Babes in Arms and Midsummer Night's Dream. She was a member of the girls choral group, Canantes and the High School Dance Company. She is a member of the Michigan Trail Riders

Association and has ridden her horse across the state twice.

CHAD WITTENMYER, son of Rachelle and Henry Wittenmyer of Boyne City, will attend North Central Michigan College. He has performed in school productions including Midsummer Night's Dream, Babes in Arms, Iphigeneia and Kismet. He sang the role of Oedipus in Pete Schickele's oratorio spoof, Oedipus Tex. He was a member of the boys choral group, The Guys, and the High School Dance Company. He is active in his church's drama team that won the state competition three times.

Fundraiser planned for Rece Shankleton

A spaghetti dinner fundraiser will be held for 2-year-old Rece Shankleton and his family, on Sunday, June 13, from 4-7 p.m. at Christ Lutheran Church in Boyne City.

Rece is recovering from his third heart surgery which he recently underwent as the last step in a three-stage repair of his congenital heart defect called Hypoplastic Left Heart Syndrome.

Proceeds will help offset expenses incurred by Rece's family since the surgery.

The cost for the dinner is $6 for adults, $5 for senior citizens, $4 for 7 to 12 year olds, and free for those 6 and younger. The church's youth group will also hold a bake sale during the dinner.

Christ Lutheran is located at the corner of M-75 and Boyne City-East Jordan Road.

Remembering

said, "I know more every year — or knew them."

"There are seven or eight who used to help put flags up who have died now," he said.

Ken didn't serve in a war, but was stationed in England during the Korean War. A close friend of his was killed in that war. It is reason enough to honor all those who have served their country.

"Somebody's got to remember the people's souls," Helen said.

Ken's notebook holds the only comprehensive list of deceased area veterans. He finds names in the obituaries. Other names are added to the records when he or Helen comes across a new headstone out on their rounds — they found five or six more this year. One of them was an old classmate of Ken's.

The flags were all in place for Memorial Day services which are held at the cemeteries where soldiers lie who were killed in action. That is why, even though it's outside of East Jordan, the Legion held services at Densmore Cemetery in Central Lake. Ken explained. That is where World War II veteran Billy Clark was buried.

"A lot of people knew him," Ken said.

He can tick off names of other veterans who died in combat and the cemeteries where they were buried too.

Walking through Calvary Cemetery, flags in hand, Ken pointed out those who served in the Civil War, Spanish-American War, World War II, in Korea and Vietnam and the Boxer Rebellion.

The couple will remove the flags on July 4. Ken will burn those that have become tattered or faded.

Helen has noticed that fewer people visit cemeteries than used to. Still, they will be honored with the flag like always.

"People remember that they gave their time for their country after all," Helen said.

Young State Park hosting fishing clinic

The Department of Natural Resources is sponsoring its fourth annual Kids Fishing Clinic at Young State Park in Boyne City on Saturday, June 12 from 9 a.m.-noon.

Families and children are invited to bring a fishing pole and to learn to cast, bait a hook and catch some fish. A limited number of poles will be available for use by those who don't have one and bait will be provided by Boyne River Bait and Outdoor Sports.

Prizes will be awarded for the three largest fish caught. In addition, 15 lucky fishers will receive a prize for catching specially tagged fish.

Although the event is free, a daily state park sticker is necessary to enter the park.

The clinic is held in conjunction with the state's Free Fishing Weekend which runs from June 12-13 and is part of National Fishing Week. For those two days, all fishing license fees will be waived, though all fishing regulations still apply.

parents, adding their own meaning, steps and interpretation as they grow.

After they are taught the basic steps — like one would learn a waltz or a tango — the dancers add whatever they're comfortable with, whatever "makes it special for you," Norton said.

Most participants come from Michigan, but the pow wow has drawn people from as far as Mexico, Alaska and Canada.

The public is invited to the pow wow which will be held at 1006 Mill St., with overflow parking at East Jordan Middle School.

Vendors will be on hand selling Native American food with a twist and traders will be selling hand-crafted U.S. made items.

On Saturday, the first grand entry will begin at 1 p.m., the second one at 7 p.m. On Sunday there will be a noon grand entry with festivities winding down around 5 p.m.

The cost is $5 for the day and free for senior citizens and those under 5 years old, or $6 for those camping for the weekend at the rustic sites.
