East Jordan, Michigan

at a GLANCE

Planning begins for Community Christmas

The Boyne Area Community Christmas Committee has already begun planning for holiday giving and would like names of those families in need of their help this year.

Call Ardith Hawley at 582-7880 with names, ages, gender of children, address and phone number of those families in need, and let her know if the baskets will be picked up or need to be delivered.

The group is also accepting donations in the form of money, food, toys, games, books and mittens.

Food and gifts can be dropped off at local churches or at Boyne City or Boyne Falls schools. Checks can be mailed to the Rev. Milton Walls Jr., 320 Bay St., Boyne City, Mich. 49712.

The committee will assemble baskets of food and gifts on Dec. 21 at the Knights of Columbus Hall for delivery and pick-up. Helpers are needed to pack and deliver the gifts.

If churches, schools or clubs would like help planning a project in association with the Community Christmas, contact Ruth Witek at 582-3152.

Conservancy's annual meeting is Tuesday

The Charlevoix County Land Conservancy invites all those who care about conservation and land protection to its first annual meeting on Tuesday, Nov. 9 at 6 p.m. at the Weathervane in Charlevoix.

Photos and information on the new Peter P. Faskey, Margaret P. Erber and Jordan River Sedge Marsh preserves will be presented. Stewardship and education programs will be reviewed and land protection information will be available.

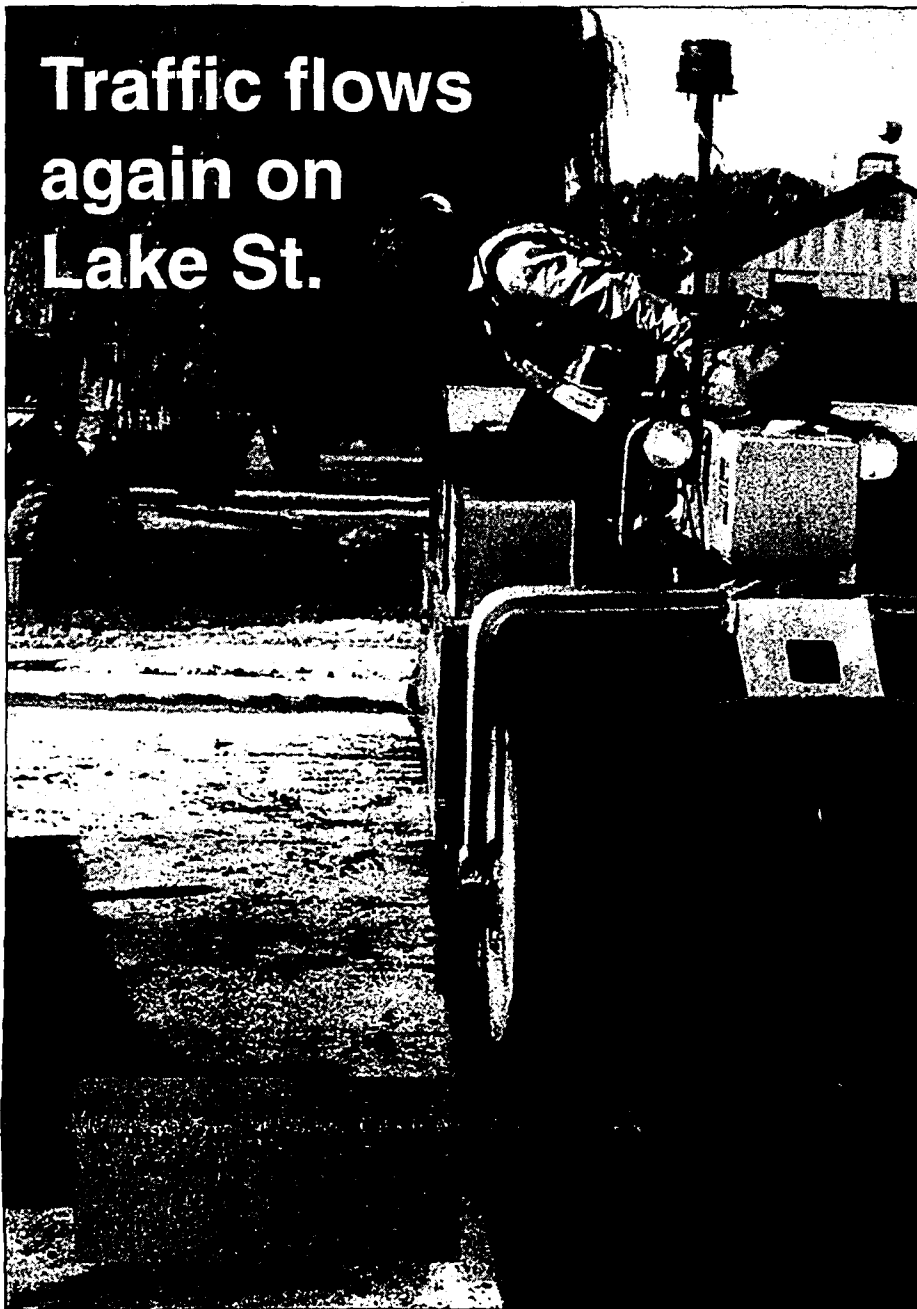

Guest speaker Dr. David Mahan, associate director of the Au Sable Institute, a college-level center for field ecology and environmental studies near Mancelona, will discuss environmental stewardship principles from a Judeo-Christian perspective.

A simple supper of soups and breads will be offered. The cost is $6 per person. Please RSVP to the conservancy office at 237-9335.

Last chance for leaf pick up in Boyne City

City crews will be picking up leaves in Boyne City through Nov. 5. Leaves must be placed in biodegradable bags and set out by the curb. Unbagged leaves can be taken to the city's north Boyne compost site.

Traffic flows again on Lake St.

Lake Street in Boyne City is now open to through traffic in front of the city hall building.

The road was paved Friday and striping is expected to be complete by week's end, barring any rain.

Earlier in the summer the construction project was delayed as higher than expected water levels were discovered. Once state officials confirmed the location wasn't in a flood plain, work resumed with some revisions to original plans which cost an additional $35,000 over the original $218,000 bid.

Finish work includes pouring the sidewalk in front of the Senior Center within the next few days.

A few sections of sidewalk along the building's east side will most likely be filled with gravel for the winter and be completed next spring, as they may need adjustments to grading since the street itself was raised.

The sidewalk on the west side may not be complete until spring either to avoid potential damage by snow to the cement as it cures.

Curbing along the access drive into Veteran's Park on the hall's south side is expected to be finished later this week along with the repaving of the circular drive out front.

At the time the sidewalk on the street's west side is complete, City Manager Eric Strahl said the commission will look at landscaping in front of city hall.

Boyne School district moving ahead on design

■ Target date is mid-term 2001-
2002 to complete
new high school

The design phase for Boyne City's new high school is expected to be complete by this coming spring with students attending class at the facility by mid-term of the 2001-2002 school year.

In September, voters passed an $18.8 million bond proposal to fund a new high school with a 600-seat auditorium. The plan also includes converting the current high school into the middle school for grades 6, 7 and 8, and converting the current middle school into an upper elementary for grades 4 and 5. The current middle school will also house the district's administration offices. The current elementary school will house grades kindergarten through third.

A steering committee has been formed to assist with determining the project's final design.

Committee members include Boyne City School Board members Jill Rowley and Jim Stackus, superintendent Dana Compton, assistant high school athletic director and transportation director Kirk Kujawski, and a representative each from architectural firm Beta Design and the construction management firm Christman Company. Kathy Anderson will serve as an alternate school board member. The district has also requested a member of the Boyne City Planning Commission be appointed to the committee.

The steering committee has already met and reviewed site development and discussed shifting the building from its original preliminary plan so it faces more toward Boyne Avenue. Compton expects other adjustments as well, as the work progresses.

The expectation is that the new

Advance fly ash on way to cement plant

Nearly 100 tons a day of fly ash are being moved on a regular basis from the Advance Power Plant to Southdown Inc./Medusa Cement Co., in Charlevoix in the second phase of the plant's shut down.

The plant, owned by Wolverine Power, closed its doors in January 1997 after its owners decided it was more economical to purchase power than to produce it at Advance.

The ash, a byproduct of coal burned at the plant, will be used by Southdown as a hardener for cement.

"It's good for us and it's good for them," said Craig Borr, vice president for Wolverine Power. "Frankly, it's good for the environment because it's not going to a landfill."

The ash removal should take several more months.

In the first phase of the plant's shutdown last year, 80,000 tons of leftover coal were purchased by Detroit Edison's Monroe Power Plant. It was transported from the plant by truck and then rail down to the Monroe facility -- which burns 49,000 tons of coal a day -- through last summer and fall. Approximately 2,000 tons a day were shipped.

The next step will be to move the substation to a location further south.

Borr said Wolverine is working closely with the township to facilitate the station's move, which will still be used by Wolverine, but not to step up voltage, as it had done in Advance.

"It will be a much simpler facility, at least electrically, than in the past," Borr said.

The station's move should be complete by next year, when the company will turn to dismantling the plant itself.

"We've had a lot of inquiries from potential developers," Borr said, but noted that the company's first priority is to "get the site to a point at which those discussions can be a little more meaningful."

A historic day for East Jordan

East Jordan High School sports fans will be hard pressed to decide where to spend Saturday -- at home in Boswell stadium watching football or in Brooklyn cheering on the cross country team.

Both teams are on the verge of making history: one with a district title at stake, the other with a state crown in its sights.

After capturing the regional championship over the weekend for the second year in a row, the boys cross country team will head south to defend its 1998 state championship title.

Runner Heather Hammond, from the girls cross country team, will also compete at the state final.

And though it is the football team's third trip to the playoffs, this is the first time ever the club has advanced beyond the first round playoffs defeating Rudyard 30-19.

"That in and of itself is a real achievement for this team," East Jordan Schools Superintendent Chip Hansen said. "It's just a pleasure to watch kids compete, to play hard, to be successful and to be good sports while they're doing it."

The football team will host Stephenson for the district title game.

Whether it's football or cross country, spectators are sure to be treated to riveting competition, regardless of the outcomes.

"It's such an exciting time and just so gratifying to see so many kids doing so well and doing what they enjoy and being successful at it," Hansen said.

The football game will kick off in East Jordan on Saturday at 1 p.m.

The boys Class C meet at Michigan International Speedway will begin at 2 p.m., Hammond will run at 3 p.m.

For more on the teams, turn to pages 7-9.

A chance meeting at the Joe

By HUGH CONKLIN

It was a perfect gift for a young hockey fan. On our middle son's 11th birthday last March, his aunt called with a big surprise. She was offering us four tickets to a Red Wing hockey game. The only string attached: we had to make fast plans, the game was the next night.

Since neither I nor my three sons had ever been to a Red Wing game, it took about a second for us to decide.

We took her up on her offer.

The game was made even more special when we learned later that evening that the Red Wings had just made a big move. They traded for Chris Chelios, Wendell Clark and Bill Ranford.

We got to the stadium early. Walking in had the feeling of entering a hallowed place. We had only seen Joe Louis Arena on television. Seeing the Red Wings' bench, the Red Wing emblem at center ice, the banners hanging from the rafters was as close to heaven as these three young hockey fans had come. It took their breath away. It is one of life's great gifts seeing the look of awe in a child's face.

When we arrived, the place was just starting to come to life. We wandered around some, then made our way to our seats.

They were high up about two rows from the top — on the visitors' end. We got comfortable meaning our hands were full of food and drink and settled in to wait for the warmups.

The seats around us started to fill, but with only a few minutes before game time, four seats next to us remained empty. We were so intent on watching all that was going on around us, I didn't notice what was happening next to me. Four people were settling into the seats and when I looked at them, I couldn't believe what I saw.

It was my cousin, her husband and two of their adult children. I couldn't believe it. They couldn't either. In this stadium, in this huge city, in this highly populated state, we were seated next to each other.

I hadn't seen Judy in many years. I really couldn't remember the last time. We were never close. She was several years older than me. Although years don't make much of a difference from middle age on up, there is quite a gap between a 20-year-old and a 10-year-old.

Once we overcame the shock of coincidence, Judy and I began getting reacquainted.

As it turned out her family was immersed in a life and death struggle I knew nothing about. Her son had cancer and he was not responding to treatments. They were at the game because someone around their hometown of Jackson had heard of his plight, knew he was a huge Red Wing fan and gave them tickets.

Meeting them in this place under these circumstances became even more unbelievable. I tried to comprehend the message. Deep down I felt this was more than just coincidence.

No answers came.

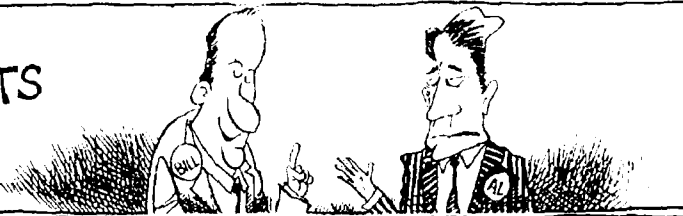

But the game was great. Chelios was impressive and the Red Wings won.

Judy and I said goodbye and wished each other well.

I didn't hear anything from her or about her son until last week when my mother called. At the time I was listening to the Red Wing game on the radio just to find out the score of their game with Colorado. It's something I never remember doing before.

She told me Tim had died on Tuesday. I'm still searching for the message.

A MOM'S LIFE

'It's like entering the twilight zone'

By CINDI PLACE

I used to think that Daylight Savings Time was simply a creation the "establishment" made to confuse those of us who live each day by a schedule. I know change is good, but waking up one day to find that the sun is up before I am is disconcerting at the least.

It's not that I mind having daylight to drive to work in, but the abrupt difference from one day to the next can make a person a bit disoriented. It's like entering the twilight zone, no pun intended.

But there are more things to consider here than the need to simply adjust one's body clock to a new time zone. Ever since summer ended and our kids had to adjust once again to going to sleep early, we have used the simple rule that you go to bed when it gets dark. Well, for our more observant third grader, that would mean bedtime before dinner. Which I know would have its advantages, but probably wouldn't be practical. Even if I could get him to eat early, this is a kid who only needs a certain amount of sleep. Therefore moving bedtime up to, say 7 p.m., would mean serving him breakfast at about 4 o'clock in the morning. Not a pleasant thought.

Then there's the need to re-set every clock in the house, and car, and office. Inevitably there is at least one timepiece that gets missed and scares the living daylight out of you until you realize that no, you aren't an hour late for work. You just need to re-set your clock.

No matter how many times I set the clock in the car or on the microwave, I still have to refer to some manual to figure out how to change the time. The kids think it's a hoot that mom can't remember from one time to the next what buttons to push. Of course, these are the same kids who think it's funny to set radio stations on the car radio to country music (which is not my favorite) knowing full well that it will be months before I relent and ask them to change it back to the good old rock and roll stations. No matter how intelligent I know our children are, it still kills me to admit they are more technologically inclined than I am.

So, after spending a good portion of my weekend re-setting clocks and wrist watches, imagine my surprise upon arriving at work, turning on my computer, only to find an extremely polite message telling me that IT had already changed the computer clock due to daylight savings time. All I had to do was check it for accuracy.

I wonder how many calls computer tech support gets asking which button to push for that?

Vandals take pieces of scarecrow display

TO THE EDITOR:

The strong and dedicated spirit of the Boyne Valley Garden Club has been violated and broken. For the past five years we have actively participated in the Fall Harvest Festival with our scarecrow displays.

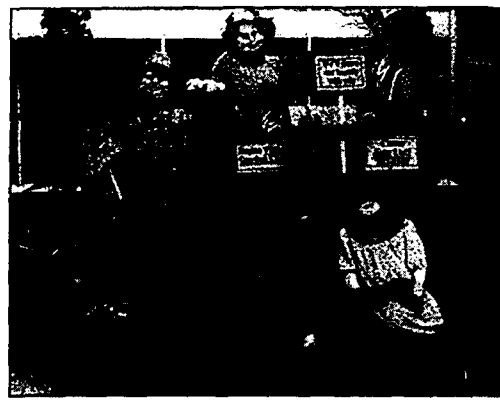

Considerable thought and planning go into this project, which apparently was evident to the thieves we now have circulating around our community. We began working on this year's creation over six months ago.

Our garden cart was purchased more than a year ago from Boyd Heaton. We turned a three-sided plastic shower stall fish shanty he had made into a garden cart. Club member Arthella Dickerson and husband, Jim, gave it an entirely new appearance by covering it with weathered barn siding, donated by Tom Matelski of Boyne Falls. Our gardening family in our presentation consisted of Gertie, Aunt Emma, Lizzie and Luke.

During the night of Oct. 20 Aunt Emma was stolen and the night of Oct. 25 Lizzie was stolen. For fear that Luke and Gertie would no doubt be next, the entire display was dismantled and removed by members the morning of Oct. 26, earlier than planned.

In the photo above, Aunt Emma sits in the lower right corner and Lizzie is standing inside the garden cart on the upper left. Over the past summer all of the mannequins were worked on and improved in appearance. Member Carole Brisson sewed a complete new outfit for Aunt Emma.

To add to this loss is also a sentimental element. For years and years, Luke, Lizzie and Aunt Emma greeted customers who visited the Glorie Be business on Old Horton Bay Road. When Chuck and Helen Coble retired and sold their business and knew they would be moving out of state, they donated this family who had been together for so long to the Boyne Valley Garden Club, but with the understanding that they would keep their same names and continue to be kept in front of the public for everyone to enjoy.

In addition, the club suffered another theft earlier this year of a garden hose caddy with 150 feet of garden hose from in front of the restrooms at the mouth of the Boyne River.

A reward is offered for the return of the scarecrows with no questions asked. Place them in the front flower bed at the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce and phone me at 582-5545 to make arrangements to claim the reward.

Our members work very hard to add quality to our community, only to have it taken away from everyone who enjoys these pleasures.

Betty Shaver, President
Boyne Valley Garden Club

BETWEEN the LINES

What to do with an extra hour?

By ANGELA SHULTIS

There's never enough time. We've all said it, haven't we? Or at least felt it?

I know my life is one long rush hour from the moment my feet hit the floor in the morning to practically the time I turn off the light at night. I mean, I know I'm of the working class, but this is ridiculous. Between kids, work, household maintenance, errands, and unscheduled crises, who has time to take a breath? And I'm sure that your life, in its own way, is as hectic, or maybe more so, as anyone else's. What we all wouldn't give for the luxury of a little more time.

So I was musing, in the wee hours of Sunday morning, on the fact that the first day after daylight savings time ends, which happened to be Oct. 31 this year, is a day with 25 hours. Sure, it gets taken back in the spring, but let's forget that for now. A day with 25 hours! Isn't that a miraculous thing? And, furthermore, wouldn't it be lovely if we could, on any given day, decide to set the clock back and give ourselves an extra hour when we need it most?

Just think for a moment -- what would you do with that extra hour? Okay, many of us would probably use it to catch up on work we have backed-up at the office or housework we haven't been able to get around to, but what would you really like to do with that extra hour? Sleep, maybe. Okay, but what else? Read a good book, write a letter, take the kids to the park to swing. Maybe eat a leisurely lunch, take a walk in the woods, work on a crossword puzzle, or take a nice hot bath. Perhaps call and catch up with a long-distance friend you haven't heard from in a while.

When you begin to think about it, it may seem that an hour actually wouldn't be enough -- I know as I began to ponder the possibilities. I thought of so many things to fill the space of one extra hour that suddenly it seemed I'd need an extra three hours, a day, a week, to do all the things I'd like. Funny how we can become so greedy about time we don't really have to begin with. Still, I think I could prioritize -- surely there's one thing above all that pops into your head first, that tops the list.

So, of course, the catch is that we can't "add" an extra hour to the day at our whim. We'll have to settle for the one 25 hour day we're allotted in '96 and make the most of it. The challenge is, then, what are you going to do to give yourself the time to do something just for you? Are you going to be able to overlook the dishes to give yourself a much-needed stolen moment with your nose in a book? Can you leave that stack of papers on your desk at 5 o'clock to go home and enjoy a relaxed dinner with your loved ones? Will you forget the raking to take the kids out for one last spin on their bikes before the real onset of winter?

We all owe it to ourselves to take an hour here and there, whether we think we can afford it or not. When I'm done writing this, for instance, I'm going to sit on the front stoop with my kids and soak up what might be the last of the warm autumn sun. The vacuuming and laundry will keep, no doubt. No one's going to come looking for those extra couple of hours you kept for yourself -- you're probably the only one who'll even notice. And believe me, your loved ones, and your sanity, will thank you for it.

First season of Boyne Pop Warner was great

TO THE EDITOR:

I would like to offer my congratulations to the Boyne Scrambler Pop Warner Football team on their awesome 6-1 record this season! All their hard work and dedication paid off. On Saturday, Oct. 23, Boyne played the Petoskey Little Northmen in the Great North Conference second place playoff game. The Scramblers defeated the Little Northmen, 34-12.

Special thanks go to Coach Mark Ameal, Tom Dressel, Steve Ryder, Al Aown and Jesse Simon for all their time and effort in taking this talented group of young men and teaching them the proper way to play the game using teamwork and good sportsmanship. This team wouldn't have been possible without the volunteer and financial support of many contributors but I would especially like to thank Boyne USA and Premier Construction for their generous contributions!

In closing, I would just like to add that it is a pleasure to be around this great group of kids and I believe I can speak for all the parents when I say "Scramblers, you made us very proud!"

Questions raised about downtown property bidding

TO THE EDITOR:

I am writing this letter in regard to the bidding of some property in Boyne City recently. I am sure that my husband and I aren't the only ones in this town who feel that bid was awarded to the highest bidder the first time, which was Bob Mathers.

This sounded a lot like some of the shady things that come out of Lansing; if we can't win the first time we will just keep playing the game over until we do win, because we have the power to do so. Enough said.

NEWS BRIEFS

Habitat dedicating newly built home

Northwest Michigan Habitat for Humanity and the Gary and Rose Bogaert family of East Jordan will celebrate the dedication of the Bogaerts' new home at 1 p.m., Sunday, Nov. 7.

The Bogaerts have five children, Nathan, Nicholas, Genevieve, Nevin and Ethan.

The home is located on Sunset Street in East Jordan across from the cemetery. All volunteers who worked on the home or supported the Habitat project are invited.

This is NWM Habitat's seventh home in the Charlevoix-Emmet county area.

Largest warehouse in northern Michigan under construction

Companies based in northern Michigan — as well as those seeking to deliver goods here — will have access to the largest storage facility north of Grand Rapids, now being erected by Parker Logistics near Petoskey.

Parker Logistics is a new organization formed by the owners of Parker Motor Freight, the oldest and largest truck line in northern Michigan. Parker was founded in Boyne City in 1927 by Harry Parker, grandfather of the current president, Patrick Parker.

Farrington Development and Hallmark Construction of Traverse City are constructing the warehouse on US-131 adjacent to Parker Motor Freight's terminal. It is expected to be completed and open for storage in January.

The company expects to store, manage and deliver everything from automotive parts and raw manufacturing materials to seasonal and food items. It will serve as a destination for companies looking to house and maintain raw materials or finished products, as well as deliver goods throughout North America on a just-in-time basis.

Parker has 15 terminals in five states and Ontario, Canada, employing 315 people.

Historical Society calendars capture East Jordan's past

Capture a bit of East Jordan history with the purchase of a year 2000 calendar now being sold by the East Jordan Portside Art and Historical Society.

The 12-month calendar chronicles some of the city's history through photographs depicting the city and people from generations past.

On sale since August, the initial printing of 500 copies is quickly dwindling and will be supplemented by a second printing.

They can be purchased on Main Street at Busy Bridge Antiques and Gifts and the E.J. Shoppe, at both Huntington Bank locations and at Citizen's Bank. The cost is $6.50.

Historical Society board member Laura Hansen said the group is hoping this will be the first in a series of annual historical calendars.

Proceeds from the sales will benefit the Historical Society which supports and maintains the East Jordan Historic Museum and its artifacts at Elm Pointe.

Spooky trio

The halls of Boyne City Elementary School were swarming with goblins, animals, action figures and various forms of royalty on Friday, as students celebrated Halloween. Witches enjoying the festivities are, from left, first graders Gypsy Stanley, Kaci Trixler and Katharine Korthase. Costumed students paraded around the high school track, enjoying the unseasonably warm temperatures.

Korthase acquires Ruegsegger-Stanley

Korthase Insurance Agency signed acquisition papers with Ruegsegger-Stanley Insurance Agency which will go into effect Jan. 1, 2000.

Ruegsegger-Stanley customers will still be insured by the same company they are now insured with, the only difference is they will be serviced from the staff at Korthase Insurance.

It should be a very easy transition as Korthase Insurance also is an Auto Owner and Citizen Insurance agent, the two companies Ruegsegger Stanley has represented.

"Sandra and Bill (Stanley) have done a great job," Korthase said of

"We were always friendly competitors."
— Bill Korthase

the Ruegsegger-Stanley owners. The Stanleys plan to retire at year's end. They will remain at their current location in Boyne City to service clients through the end of the year. "We knew they took good care of their customers," Korthase said, and added that Korthase Insurance plans to do the same. "We were always friendly competitors."

While the acquisition will increase Korthase's home and auto insurance lines by 20 percent, new clients will also have financial services available to them at one location.

"Because of our size, we're able to shop the market for all of our customers to make sure they're getting the best bang for the buck," Korthase added.

Korthase has offices in Boyne City, East Jordan and Petoskey.

high school's academic facilities will be complete by mid-term in 2001-2002, but not the auditorium and some other special areas.

However, moving students into the new location before it is entirely completed will free up the old high school for renovations. Compton said that site is probably the major piece of remodeling because among other things, walls are being moved.

The auditorium would be completed by the start of the following school year.

Compton said the district has been approached by a couple of organizations asking if the district would accept donations from their fundraising efforts to expand or enrich the auditorium.

"We are really very willing to cooperate in that direction," Compton said, noting that it would assist in the long run in making it an "outstanding facility."

"At the same time, we want to be very certain that all elements of that facility are in place for the 2002-2003 school year," he said.

Part of the time frame for renovations at the middle school and upper elementary will take place after the high school's completion, explained Compton.

Grounds will begin to be cleared prior to next spring for site development.

The district is in the process of developing planning committees for each facility, and is currently focusing on forming a group for the new high school since its construction will have the longest timeline in terms of completion. The planning committee will serve in an advisory capacity to the steering committee which will work more closely with the architect and construction manager.

The high school planning committee will include the high school principal Dr. Sue Stephens, several teachers, students and a few community members.

Once the planning committee is in place, the steering committee will meet with its members along with the architect and construction manager.

The planning committee will visit projects completed by Beta as well as other architects, looking primarily at recently built complexes similar in size to Boyne.

"It's just going to be a real arduous process and one we want to do right," Compton said. "It's going to be a building that's going to be here for a long time."

Seeing the FOREST for the trees

■ Conservation District forester provides management advice

From thinning whole forests to planting a single tree in the front yard, the Charlevoix Conservation District is at the ready with advice for anyone who calls.

Located in Boyne City in the mall at the corner of Main and Front streets, the locally-led, state-run agency has operated in the county for 51 years.

District forester Chris Anderson's job is to provide management advice with most requests coming from folks "that either want some kind of forest practice done or wildlife habitat improvement," he said. He serves as forester and biologist for both Charlevoix and Emmet counties.

"It's a renewable resource. We use an awful lot," Anderson said of trees. "Proper forest management will ensure there's a forest and resource for the future."

And the advice, which results from an on-site visit by Anderson, is free for its takers.

Typically, Anderson will walk through the land with its owners, educating them on the types of trees growing and the "treatment" for planting or thinning out trees. If they are seeking to attract a certain kind of wildlife, he will point out to them types of plants to nurture to create that habitat.

But, he warns, don't expect advice on how to attract animals that are not native to the area.

For those looking to log or thin out their woods, Anderson can point out if the forest is mature enough or not depending on tree sizes and how dense an area is.

In the event the woods are ready for logging, Anderson will then refer them to the private sector, as he does for any forest management plan.

Anderson said it's also fine to let a forest grow at its own pace without human intervention. It will get so thick that it will thin itself out on its own eventually, once the canopy up top blocks out sunlight to foliage below.

But improving the health of the woods or to earn money from logging a stand are a couple of legitimate reasons for taking down trees.

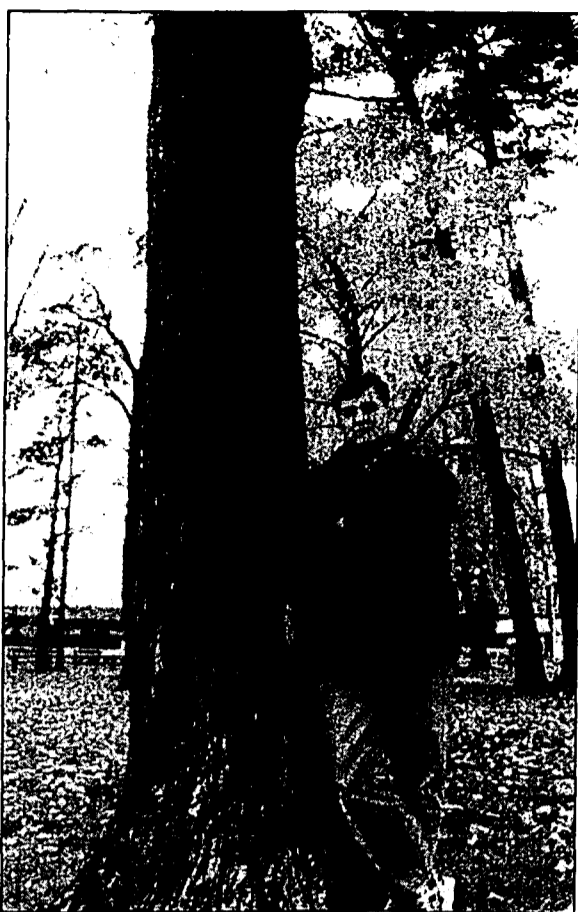

For example, pine forests have at times needed thinning because of the proliferation of bark beetles which damage trees. But, Anderson points out, the bugs would naturally thin them as well. "It depends on a person's goals," Anderson said.

Forests aren't the only places where Anderson makes appearances. He also receives calls regarding individual or just a few trees with insects or disease. These calls come mostly in the fall and spring.

He also offers folks tips on how and what types of trees to plant.

Tree sales in the spring and fall are another service the District offers. In the spring there are shrubs, hardwood trees and conifers. In the fall it's conifers only.

Another offering is its windbreak program, through which the

District forester Chris Anderson

Department of Agriculture provides a limited amount of reimbursement to residents planting trees and shrubbery along their driveways and houses to ultimately reduce energy costs.

Trees surrounding houses can help lower heating costs by blocking the wind. Foliage along driveways and roadways can prevent snow drifting and in the end reduce fuel costs for snow plowing.

Along driveways, shrubbery planted among pine trees become filler for the branches which fall off the lower part of the trunks as they grow. Spruces, Anderson pointed out, retain branches to the ground and are good choices for windbreak systems.

Anderson, who has a degree in forestry, receives technical support from a DNR forester as well as a DNR biologist.

"Wildlife biology goes along with forest management," Anderson said. "When you affect forestry, you affect wildlife somehow." He will receive more training in biology to supplement his forestry knowledge.

Anderson's co-worker, Wendy Armstrong, is the District's soil erosion officer, focusing mainly on issuing soil erosion permits to those building near lakes or streams.

The organization also includes district coordinator Kelly Howard and a five-person board which meets monthly.

There are 82 conservation districts in Michigan, mostly arranged by county. Anderson is one of 31 forester/biologists in the state.

If you have questions about trees in your yard or forest, contact Anderson at 582-6193 or 582-7341.

FRIENDS OF THE JORDAN HOLD ANNUAL MEETING

Building project tops list of goals

By JOHN HUMMER

The Friends of the Jordan River Watershed made it clear at their recent eighth annual meeting that they are a group with many goals, all geared toward their mission of conserving the natural resources and protecting the environmental quality of the Jordan River and its watershed.

"We are embarking on a long journey ahead, and with a focus on our mission and the commitment of many supporters we'll get there," said FOJ president John Richter.

"Our building project is at the core of this mission and will be the base and educational center of this organization for many years into the future."

Richter was referring to a project which began this past June, when FOJ took a giant leap into the future by moving the oldest building in East Jordan (built in the late 1800s) from its former location where it was known as the Trading Post to its new location on a city-owned parcel adjacent to Sportsman's park.

The City of East Jordan is leasing the parcel to FOJ on a 10-year renewable basis. The Friends have unofficially coined the building the "Jordan River Watershed Center." The center, once completely renovated, will be an environmental education and interpretive center, with its focus on the Jordan River and its watershed.

A special guest at the FOJ annual meeting (held on Thursday, Oct. 21, at the Jordan Valley District Library) was David White, East Jordan city administrator, who spoke of the city's commitment to the Friends' building renovation project and the ways in which the two groups will enhance one another's goals.

"We are pleased to be partnering with Friends of the Jordan on this project," White said. "It will be a win-win situation for both the city and FOJ, as well as many other groups, especially area schools who make use of the facility."

Richter is pleased about the working partnership between the Friends and the City of East Jordan.

"The new Watershed Center will tie all of our activities and efforts together under one roof," Richter said. "The past, the present, and the future of the Jordan River Watershed will be brought together through many resources that will be available to visitors and users of the building. We owe the City of East Jordan, and especially Dave White, our gratitude for helping make this vision a reality."

The renovation process will require strong financial support from the community and FOJ is undertaking a capital campaign in the year 2000 to finance the remainder of the project.

FOJ is planning on completing the building renovation project in the year 2001, as the project is staged on a 10-phase plan of work.

The group is currently working on the interior of the building. White indicated that the city would be working to help improve the grounds outside the building as well as the area between the building and Sportsman's Park. This area will see a fence removed and a walking path installed for easy accessibility to the center from the park.

JoAnne Beemon, chair of FOJ's building committee, has been at the helm of the building project from day one.

"Our responsibility is to give our children the hope of a clean and healthy environment," Beemon said. "Without giving them this hope, we haven't given them anything."

Beemon, just re-elected to another three-year term on the FOJ board, has been with the group since 1996. She is also director of the Charlevoix County Land Conservancy.

"We must teach and show children that today we need to be strong, resourceful, and creative in striving for a new and better world," Beemon said. "The Jordan River Watershed Center will help fulfill this mission."

It's fitting that one of FOJ's primary goals is to inform and educate the public about activities and issues involving the Jordan River watershed. In working toward this goal, the group has been concentrating more and more of its efforts on school-age children.

The past two years the group's education committee, with board member Bob Sayer leading the charge, has assisted the East Jordan High School Math, Science and Technology Center in establishing a water quality monitoring program on the Jordan River.

The group has also been a catalyst in providing educational access and programs at the Cosner Preserve on M-66 south of East Jordan. Most recently, Sayer and committee member Michele Nerone co-facilitated the water quality station of the Antrim County Conservation Tour for fifth and sixth grade students. FOJ plans to broaden its scope of educational offerings upon completion of the building project.

Another of the Friend's efforts, the State Land Reserve project, was reported to be in full swing. FOJ is in the process of gathering support for a petition to establish the Jordan Valley Management Area as a State Land Reserve under Public Act 114 of 1998.

This effort, if successful, will give the area legislative protection from mineral development by allowing the state to acquire - through purchase or trade - interests in land in or around the periphery of the management area which may be at risk for oil and gas drilling. The Antrim County Board of Commissioners has officially endorsed the proposal, and now FOJ is seeking township support for the project. The group plans to take the petition to the State's Natural Resources Commission by year's end.

Doug Fuller, chair of the FOJ stewardship committee, reported on many other activities the organization has been involved with. Chief on his list is what is called the Lake Charlevoix Watershed Project.

"FOJ is one of some 15 to 20 partners engaged in this effort to curb nonpoint source pollution from the Lake Charlevoix Watershed," Fuller said. "Since the Jordan is a main tributary to Lake Charlevoix, a great deal of the project's effort will fall within the Jordan watershed."

The project, administered by the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council, has a two-year planning phase, followed by a three-year implementation phase.

"Included in the planning phase will be a road/stream crossing inventory, a streambank assessment, and a recreational impact survey among other tasks," Fuller said.

One of FOJ's major challenges in the years ahead will be in recruiting volunteers from both within and outside its membership to help accomplish all of its work.

"We will be reaching out to every possible source of help. Although FOJ is very grateful for the large amount of volunteer help we have been blessed with during our first eight years, we now must re-energize and re-commit to the challenges the new millennium will bring," Richter said.

(John Hummer is the director of Friends of the Jordan River Watershed. To volunteer for any of FOJ's projects, call Hummer at (231) 533-5063.)

Architects meeting with board Nov. 9

By NANNETTE MILLER

BUILDING PROJECT UPDATE: Dick Moake and Diana Creech, architects from The Moake Park Group, will be presenting the final drawings for the library expansion project at the regular Board meeting on Nov. 9 at 7 p.m. at the library. Everything is proceeding according to schedule, with construction slated to begin as soon as possible in the spring.

THERE ARE STILL some openings in the scrapbooking class being held at the library on Nov. 8, and registrations are being accepted for a second session of the rubber stamping class. Call the library at 582-7861 to register or for more information.

IT WAS STANDING room only at the Fall Family Fun Night on Oct. 25. We stopped counting people after we reached 170. We had 100 craft bags to give to children, but ran out before the evening was over. Any child who did not get a craft bag can pick one up at the library. Many thanks to Mindy Gierm and Gordon Howie, who entertained children and adults with stories and song, and Judy and Abby Everest who planned and conducted a "pass the apple" game. We especially thank all of the parents and children who participated in this annual program. The success of library programs depends on community interest and involvement. Fall Family Fun Night looks like a winner.

Now Hear This!

Q. Dr. Koskus, what does it mean when a telephone is labeled as being "Hearing Aid Compatible?"

A. This means that if you have a hearing aid with a special telephone coil, your hearing aid should be capable of amplifying speech over that special telephone when the telephone coil is activated.

The term "Hearing Aid Compatible" does not mean that all hearing aids will amplify speech over that telephone. You must have a special telephone coil and switch in order for your hearing aid to work over that phone. Would you like to try one out?

Chased from the pocket, Rudyard quarterback Kevin Smith has Chris Mills and Mike Wladischkin in hot pursuit.

Evan Chappuis cools off during a timeout. Temperatures were in the 70s for the game.

Kyle Bjorem was a one-man wrecking crew for the Red Devils, rushing for 123 yards on 13 carries and scoring one touchdown.

The Red Devils celebrate East Jordan's first playoff victory in the school's history.

An East Jordan win for the record books

Quarterback Ken Slough looks downfield as a Rudyard defender closes in.

These are glorious days for the East Jordan football program. Maybe as glorious as the weather was Saturday.

In their third appearance in the state football playoffs, the Red Devils handed Rudyard a 30-19 loss to win their first playoff game in the school's history.

And they won't have to travel far for their second round game. The Red Devils, 8-2, will host Stephenson, 6-3, on Saturday at 1 p.m. in the district title game.

"This feels great," said head coach Allan Peterson, who in his seven years as head coach has guided the Red Devils to three playoff appearances.

"It's been fun and these kids deserve it. They've worked harder than most teams I've coached. They have a great attitude."

They also have a great running game and it was on display Saturday. The Red Devils rushed for close to 400 yards, and three backs — Kyle Bjorem, Ben Johnson and Nate Swan — all ran for more than 100 yards.

It wouldn't have been possible without East Jordan's dominance at the line of scrimmage.

"Our line just played awesome," Peterson said.

"I was surprised at how well we ran the ball. The kids had a little snap in their step and it really showed."

The Red Devils will need that snap Saturday when Stephenson comes to town. Although he was still gathering information about Stephenson early in the week, Peterson knows his team will face a stiffer challenge than it did against Rudyard.

"They have a couple of pretty good-sized players," Peterson said. "What I told the kids is that they are UP kids. They'll hit you and that will equal out a game pretty fast."

If there was an equalizer on Saturday, it was mistakes by the Red Devils. After controlling the game in the first half, they led only 15-13 at halftime. They gave up two big plays and two interceptions in the first half and for the game had 70 yards in penalties. Take those mistakes away and who knows how dominant they might have been against Rudyard.

The Red Devils got on the board first with Johnson scoring on a 20-yard run with about 3 1/2 minutes left in the first quarter. Mike Wladischkin kicked the extra point.

Rudyard came right back and scored on a 78-yard run early in the second quarter. The extra point attempt was no good.

The Red Devils didn't hang their heads long, however. On their first play after Rudyard's score, Swan broke free and raced 60 yards for a touchdown. Quarterback Ken Slough passed to Kris Lifer for the 2-point

Please see RED DEVILS on page 10

Nate Swan sprints into the endzone capping off the Red Devils' first drive of the second half. Swan rushed for 108 yards on eight carries.

Tarn Leach led the Red Devils to another regional championship and a berth at the state finals.

Above: Jeremy Booze (25) was East Jordan's fifth runner and Matt Birgy (24) their sixth. Birgy's 21st place finish meant additional points were added to opponents' scores. Left: Micah Middaugh (27) took 10th place overall and Chris Bearden finished sixth. All are state bound.

EAST JORDAN CROSS COUNTRY TEAM RUNS TO TITLE

Regional Champions -- again

East Jordan's defending boys cross country regional champs did it again over the weekend in Elk Rapids. For the second year in a row, the team grabbed the regional title and will defend its state championship on Saturday.

"We've accomplished all our goals this year and there's just one more to go," Snarey said.

East Jordan scored 57 points followed by Benzie (91), McBain (95), Mason County Central (119), and Charlevoix (151).

"We tried to keep the state meet out of our minds until we got through this," coach Dennis Snarey said. "I think they had it just right."

East Jordan's Tarn Leach finished fourth (16:41), Chris Bearden was sixth (17:15), Micah Middaugh was 10th (17:27), Kevin Penzien 19th (17:48), Jeremy Booze 20th (17:48), Matt Birgy 21st (17:51), and Corban Shaw 37th (18:35).

The team's top five finishers were the same five who led the team last year to the regional championship, with four of them improving their placings. From last year, Leach improved his spot from fifth place by one, Bearden moved up from 12th, Middaugh was 16th and Booze was 48th.

"We feel very proud about winning regionals, but our thoughts are now on the final run."

--Coach Dennis Snarey

"Chris (Bearden) went extra deep (Saturday) and had his best race of the season. He never stops impressing us at just how far he is willing to go."

Snarey also gave credit to number six runner Birgy. "He sure did it to every team. That was really a big key to adding points in our opponents' totals."

"We feel very proud about winning regionals, but our thoughts are now on the final run," Snarey said. "We've got a lot to prove and we know there are lots of good teams after us. We will be ready and are excited about competing."

East Jordan's Heather Hammond will also head to state as an individual finisher. She placed 17th with a time of 21:32.

The team itself finished 10th out of 21 schools, which included 17 full teams. Maple City Glen Lake won the championship with 90 points. Benzie Central and Suttons Bay tied for second with 106 points.

"Heather going to state is exciting," Peterson said. She ran her best race of the season along with Ruth Elliott and Amanda McMichael.

Jamie Baker was 29th (22:20), Elliott 52nd (22:30), Krystal Birgy was 61st (23:52) and McMichael placed 72nd.

The state meet will be run in Brooklyn on Saturday, Nov. 6.

The boys Class D will run at 10 a.m., girls Class D at 11 a.m., boys Class C at 2 p.m. and girls Class C at 3 p.m.

Two Boyne Falls runners making trip to state finals

Boyne Falls will send two sophomore runners to the state cross country finals. For the boys, Adam Utley placed 15th with a time of 18:35 and Jenny Kuhn took seventh running 21:34.

Boyne Falls' team placed 13th of 20 schools. Bear Lake took first place, Buckley was second and Mason County Eastern third. For the girls, Mt. Pleasant Sacred Heart was first, North Muskegon took second and Mason County Eastern was third. Boyne Falls does not have enough girls to field a team.

As far as coaches know, Kuhn is the first female from Boyne Falls to ever make the state finals. Also a basketball player, Kuhn missed the first five or so cross country meets.

She was suffering a twisted ankle incurred at a basketball practice when she ran regionals.

"It did affect her a little bit," Sinkel said, who has high hopes that both Kuhn and Utley will earn medals at state.

At the conference meet last week, Utley took second and Kuhn placed third earning them both all-conference honors.

Personal bests were clocked by Shane Dunbar and Matt Skop at the meet.

Four Ramblers qualify for state

Four runners from the Boyne City Cross Country team qualified for the Class C State Finals.

The running Ramblers competed in the Regional meet hosted by Elk Rapids on Saturday. Although neither the boys nor girls teams qualified as complete teams, the four runners qualified under the individual qualifier rules.

Senior Shawn Weisler earned All-Region honors by finishing 15th, which qualified him for the state meet. Jackie Cyr also finished 15th in the girls race for All-Region. Jane Stieber and Mindy McCutcheon both qualified because they finished in the top 20 in the race. This is Stieber's second straight trip to the state finals. All three of the girls were part of last year's record setting 3200 meter relay team.

The girls team finished fifth overall with 127 points. Glen Lake won the regional race with 90 points, followed by Benzie Central (106), Suttons Bay (106), and Charlevoix (111). Boyne City had nipped Charlevoix by one point to win the Lake Michigan Conference meet 10 days earlier.

"We knew going into the race that we were one of the top five or six girls teams in the region," said coach Andy Place. "We were hoping we could squeeze out another close race to be one of the top three teams, which would qualify us for the state meet. The girls ran well, but so did the other top teams. We are very pleased with the number of individual qualifiers."

For the girls Cyr finished 15th, Stieber 16th, McCutcheon 19th, Kelsi Brewer 39th, Brie VanDam 45th, Emily Bricker 50th, and Charlotte Brandt 86th. There were 119 girls competing in the race.

Place noted that Brie VanDam ran her fastest race all year to finish as the fifth team runner. Charlotte Brandt, who is the usual fifth runner, finished the race in extreme pain from a nagging hip injury.

"Everyone gave their best effort and Mindy and Brie really stepped up to the competition today. I am so proud of these kids," Place said.

While the girls team has been getting most of the headlines this year, the boys team has been steadily improving. The boys team finished 11th out of the 21 teams and only four points from 10th. Weisler's performance was supported by Kellan Smith who placed 67th, Brad Winkler 84th, Brian Miller 92nd, and Aaron Wright 100th. There were 121 runners in the boys race.

"We were pleased with the overall finish. It gives us something to work on for next year," Place said. "The guys all worked hard this year and gained valuable experience. They are all first-year runners except Shawn. Shawn has been working for three years to get to the state meet. All his hard work has finally paid off."

Smith, Winkler, and Miller will be returning next year to form the nucleus of the team.

The state meet will be held Saturday at the Michigan International Speedway in Brooklyn. The Class C boys race will be run at 2 p.m. and the girls at 3 p.m.

Sean Weisler will represent Boyne City at the state meet after finishing 15th at regionals.

Boyne Falls' Adam Utley qualified for the state meet along with teammate Jenny Kuhn.

Charlevoix edges Lady Red Devils

A 50-45 victory over Cheboygan began with an 8-8 tie in the first quarter, with East Jordan pulling ahead and scoring 15 in the second quarter to set the game's pace.

"We out-rebounded them and we had good balance with two players in double figures and two more with nine," coach Steve Hines said.

Lindsey Malpass scored 16 points, Suzi Malpass had 10 and Mary Ann Brooks and Rachel Boss each scored nine.

At one point East Jordan's fourth quarter lead was cut down to two points.

"We were able to maintain our composure and keep the lead, which was just the opposite of what happened the first time we played them," Hines said of his team which lost to Cheboygan earlier in the season.

The Red Devils hit 12, 2-point field goals and five, 3-point field goals and went 11/18 at the foul line. From the floor they were 34 percent.

On defense, Suzi Malpass grabbed nine rebounds and four steals. Boss had seven rebounds. Brooks had five assists and Lindsay Malpass and Jennifer Doebel each had three.

COLD SHOOTING at a match-up with Gaylord earlier in the week contributed to a 51-39 Red Devil loss.

"Overall we didn't play that bad but just couldn't overcome our poor shooting," Hines said.

The teams played evenly the whole game except for a two to three minute stretch in the second quarter.

"We shot poorly and when we fell into the game shooting only 28 percent," Hines said.

Suzi Malpass controlled the boards with a season high of 19 rebounds. Boss played a good game with a double-double — 12 points and 11 rebounds.

The team shot 28 percent going 18 for 65.

Suzi Malpass and Lindsey Malpass each had eight points. On defense, Brooks had seven steals, and Doebel and Suzi had three steals each.

CHARLEVOIX DEFEATED East Jordan 55-49 on Saturday.

The Red Devils led at the end of the first quarter 13-11 and at the end of the second 26-25, but couldn't maintain the advantage through the second half.

Charlevoix scored 18 points in the third to East Jordan's 10 points. East Jordan had 13 in the fourth to Charlevoix's 12, but it wasn't enough to muster a win.

Suzi Malpass led East Jordan in scoring with 11, Mary Ann Brooks had nine and Doebel had eight points.

THE FRESHMEN fell to Cheboygan 55-31, trailing 21-12 in the first quarter and lingering behind the rest of the game.

Claire Niewendorp had 12 points and three assists. Lisa Talboys had 10 points and five rebounds. Megan Luck scored six points.

The team shot at 26 percent and scored five of 13 freethrows.

Against Wolverine later in the week, East Jordan fell just shy of a win, losing 46-43.

Each team landed 21 field goals, with East Jordan going 1/6 at the free throw line.

Talboys led the game in scoring with 22 points. Niewendorp had 12 and Luck contributed six. The game puts them 3-11 for the season. They were to meet Charlevoix Tuesday night.

Motorcross racers finish near top

A group of local 10-year-olds took top spots at the Cadillac Series motorcross race this summer.

In the 60 cc class, Nathan Ciszewski of East Jordan took second place, Kenny Looze of Boyer City took third place, and T.J. Redman of Boyer City took fourth place. First place went to Ryan Lloyd of Freesoil.

Ciszewski finished second in the 7-11 age group in the 80 cc class as well.

They were presented trophies this fall at the Oliver King's Table in Cadillac.

Lady Ramblers earn key conference win

Boyer City maintained an early lead to defeat Mancelona 60-40 last week.

"Mancelona was struggling a little bit this year which allowed us to be in control throughout the whole game," coach Tom Neidhamer said.

The Ramblers scored nine in the first quarter holding Mancelona to just four points. The score was 26-13 by the end of the first half, in favor of Boyer. Going into the last period, Boyer was on top 43-27.

Neidhamer noted that it was also good experience to play in Mancelona's high school gym. The site for district playoffs this year.

For the Ramblers, Bethany Tomkins scored 10 points hitting from the outside, Maggie Doherty had 10 points and grabbed eight rebounds. Nicole Kurtz had eight points.

Coming back in the second half, Boyer captured another win over Kalkaska, 60-55 last week.

"We started off slow again and dug ourselves into a hole," Neidhamer said.

Down by 10 in the first quarter, the Ramblers managed to close the gap to five by the half, and made up the loss with a good second quarter.

"When you have four starters in double figures, it's sure going to be a hard team to stop," Neidhamer said.

Nikki Peck led the game's scoring with 20 points, Kara Perry had 14, Kristy Gaither scored 12 and Leah Senter had 10.

"And it was a league game so we knew we were in for a fight," Neidhamer said. "Because our league is so tight, anybody can beat anybody on a given night."

Maggie Doherty aims for two points on the way to a victory over Mancelona.

Boyer, third place in the league, was to tip off against league leader Harbor Springs Tuesday night. Although Boyer wouldn't be able to catch them for the league title, the two will probably meet again in districts.

Then it's a match up against Traverse City St. Francis at home Thursday for Parents Night. A fund raising raffle drawing for a four wheel drive ATV will be held.

IN JUNIOR VARSITY action, Boyer defeated Mancelona 42-24. Liz Vargas scored 12 points, Wendy Chrysler had 11 and Ashley Haddox added seven.

Against Kalkaska, Boyer came out on top again with a 49-24 win. Vargas scored 22 for the Ramblers.

Red Devils win playoff game conversion, giving the Red Devils a 15-6 lead.

That's the way the score remained until Rudyard scored on a nine yard run with only 15 seconds remaining in the half. The touchdown was set up by a 39-yard pass. The extra point was good and the half ended with East Jordan clinging to a 15-13 lead.

The turn of events late in the half was reminiscent of the Boyer City game when the Red Devils gave up a late first half score and lost momentum after controlling the game. But like they did against the Ramblers, East Jordan came out in the second half and took control against Rudyard.

After holding Rudyard on its first possession of the second half, the Red Devils took over at its 45 and kicked its running game into high gear. Bjorem broke free for a 30-yard run then Swan went the last 24 when he broke free and sprinted down the right sideline into the end zone. With Wladischkin's extra point the Red Devils lead 22-13.

The Red Devils final touchdown came late in the third quarter when Bjorem scored from two yards out to cap a 55-yard drive. Johnson set up the touchdown with a 30-yard run. He also scored the 2-point conversion to give the Red Devils a 30-13 win.

That's the way it stood until Rudyard scored with little more than a minute remaining.

For the game, Bjorem had 123 yards on 13 carries, Johnson had 119 yards on 11 carries and Swan had 108 yards on eight carries. Defensively, Evan Chappuis led the team with 14 tackles followed by Rob Vincent with 12, and Chris Olson and Bjorem with nine each.

Saturday's game begins at 1 p.m. Tickets are $4.

"I feel this will be a tougher game than last week, but one I think we can win," Peterson said.

The winner will play the following weekend for the regional championship against the winner of the St. Francis-Maple City-Glen Lake game.

Boyer hockey players suit up for Kewadin Storm team

A few Boyer area players have joined the Kewadin Storm Girls Hockey Club which opened its home portion of the season on Sunday, with two games against Lake Superior State University.

Local athletes on this 19 and under travel team's roster include forwards Elie Neidhamer and Emily Roland, and on defense, Jenna Roland.

Their team split wins with LSSU over the weekend, losing the first 4-2, but coming back in the second game with a 7-0 win.

"It took us two periods to get into the game," coach Mike Fornes said of game one. "This was Lake Superior's seventh game this year and our first, and the Lady Lakers took advantage of that."

In game two, LSSU had some line-up changes and the Storm were much more aggressive.

"It was a different game altogether," Fornes said.

"WE'RE REAL EXCITED that these Boyer girls are involved," coach Mike Fornes said of the team's newest additions.

Other players are from St. Ignace, Cheboygan, Brimley, Sault Ste. Marie and Kincheloe.

The Storm took third place in last year's Michigan Girls State Playoffs in St. Clair Shores, losing in the semi-finals to Detroit Belle Tire, the State Champions.

In its second year, the Storm will face some college teams in their regionally-based play since their isn't much other competition nearby.

"The need is to find a place where they can play to get them a little more ready for a college program," Fornes said. "And that's what a lot of these girls are wanting."

"The women's hockey scene is still evolving," Fornes said with LSSU's program beginning just a few years ago.

"The college teams are going to get better and better every year," he added, noting that two of his players from last year went on to LSSU this year.

Fornes pointed out that the Boyer players drive nearly an hour and a half just to practice. "That's dedication. That's really, really commitment."

"Their parents are very committed to give them this opportunity," he added.

The Storm operates under an affiliation with Girls Hockey North, an organization Fornes started.

Home ice is the Little Bear East Arena in St. Ignace, although the team will play several contests at the Big Bear Arena and at Lake Superior State University's Taffy Abel Arena.

The team began play two weeks ago at Lake Superior State University against the Lady Lakers and will face off next against Michigan Tech, on Sunday, Nov. 7 at 1 and 4 p.m. at Little Bear East Arena.

Learning a new way of thinking
By MELISSA MCKENZIE

It is not very often that I find it difficult to accept the definition of something.

No, I am not saying I know everything, because I am fully aware that I do not. I am simply stating that I have never been one to question the definitions I am given or the reasoning behind why things are done in a certain way. I just accept what I am told, and move on.

In school, for example, teachers traditionally give us a new term or unit and then define it for us. They are considered to be the experts because they are showing us the way, so I have always trusted that.

Yet lately, things have seemed a bit different. I am now part of a class that does not follow tradition. We are still given the new term or unit, except after some discussion we make our own definition, as a class. Then we take turns trying to prove or disprove our original idea. After some revising and guidance from our teacher, we end up with the correct definition.

With this new method, I now see people questioning what is said, and not just taking what is given as a fact. I even find myself doing this. I have heard some people complaining, and asking why we weren't just told what something meant right from the start; it would have saved time. The answer we were given made so much sense to me. We were told, because "we learn more this way because we are forced to think for ourselves."

Although my opinions are not as vocalized as some, I do find myself more questioning of what is being said. Who is this teacher who has opened our minds and broadened our horizons? None other than Mrs. Lora Keefner, the new mathematics teacher at East Jordan High School.

It is a different way of doing things, but it appears to be working. Questioning what is given isn't rude or inappropriate, it shows thought, and that you aren't afraid to be different. Not going with the flow and following tradition should not be considered weird; it is only to be admired.

Just think, what if Albert Einstein hadn't gone out on a limb and dared to be different?
(Melissa McKenzie is a student at East Jordan High School.)

Assault lands father and son in county jail

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department arrested a 36-year-old man and his 14-year-old son on Monday for assaulting a police officer and resisting arrest.

Around 6:15 p.m., Sgt. Patrick A. Avery was handling a reckless driving complaint at the intersection of Flagg Road and South Ranney Road in Eveline Township after a suspect vehicle was observed turning from Flagg onto Ranney at a high rate of speed.

Avery began a pursuit of the suspect in excess of 80 m.p.h.

The vehicle turned off Ranney Road near Phelps Road, continued at a high rate of speed and pulled into a private residence.

According to the Sheriff's Department, the 36-year-old male driver and his son bailed out of the vehicle and attempted to flee into the residence.

Avery pursued them into the house where he attempted to take the driver into custody.

The Sheriff's Department stated that the 14-year-old physically attacked the officer, and the father soon began attacking the officer as well.

Avery was able to fend them off for several minutes before Officer Timmons of the East Jordan Police Department arrived on the scene. The Charlevoix City Police Department also assisted at the scene.

Both subjects were taken into custody.

The older man is being charged with Flee and Elude and Assaulting a Police Officer, Driving Under the Influence of Alcohol, and Driving on a Revoked License.

Avery was treated for minor cuts and a knee injury at Charlevoix Area Hospital and was released.

Grant dollars available for land stewardship projects

The Michigan Economic and Environmental Roundtable and the Michigan Environmental Council (MEC) are funding projects that advance land stewardship through collaboration and partnerships working on sustainable development/smart growth initiatives at local, regional, and state levels.

The C.S. Mott, Detroit Edison, and Dow Chemical foundations have provided $22,000 for land use grants to eligible organizations.

The small grants will range from $1,000 to $4,000 and are intended to help businesses and environmental groups work together to reduce the impacts of low-density development or sprawl - development that consumes important resource lands and leads to the deterioration of older communities. Through education and cooperation, communities can create or implement alternatives to sprawl.

Recipients will be selected on a competitive basis. Businesses and organizations eligible for small grants must have 501(c)(3) nonprofit tax status or be sponsored by a 501(c)(3) organization, and demonstrate a commitment to increasing public and policy makers' awareness of sustainable land use practices. Applications must be postmarked by Dec. 15, 1999, and decisions will be made by Jan. 15, 2000.

The Roundtable, a nonprofit organization comprised of representatives of business and environmental interests, seeks to develop new approaches to the challenges facing Michigan's economy and natural resources.

The MEC, a member of the Roundtable, is a nonprofit coalition of 55 environmental organizations working to promote a land stewardship ethic throughout the state.

For an application or more information, contact the MEC at 119 Pere Marquette, Ste. 2A, Lansing, MI 48912 or call (517) 487-9539. Applications can also be found at www.mienv.org/lsi.htm.

Hospital exhibit offers 'More Than Meets the Eye'

An opportunity to learn about the human eye and vision is coming to Northern Michigan Hospital from Nov. 4-Dec. 30.

"More Than Meets The Eye" is an interactive event which has received rave reviews from major metropolitan science centers and museums around the country.

The cornerstone of the exhibit is a large model of the human eye. It also features interactive learning stations for all ages where visitors can learn more about the workings of the human eye, appreciate some of the daily experiences of blind and visually impaired people, learn about technological advances that help people with compromised vision and examine how other senses compensate for a lack of vision.

The exhibit includes aids used by some people with limited or no vision, including a special computer software package, a talking calculator, paper money reader and a Kurtzweiler scanner which reads text aloud.

Also included are works by two artists: Michael A. Naranjo, a sculptor who was blinded by a 1968 grenade explosion in Vietnam, and Laurel Cazin, a photographer diagnosed with diabetic retinopathy, a degenerative eye disease.

The exhibit was created by The Musee de la Civilisation in Quebec, Canada. The Smithsonian Institute Traveling Exhibition Service reconfigured it for a United States tour.

Though it costs $10,000 for a three-month loan of the exhibit, it has been offered free-of-charge to the community and school groups through Oakland Schools. SEE-

North and the Northern Michigan Hospital Foundation are hosting the event.

The display is free to the public Tuesdays and Thursdays from 5-8 p.m. and on Saturdays from 10 a.m.-2 p.m.

To coordinate school visits, call 348-9700. For general information call Northern Michigan HealthAccess at 1-800-258-6777.
