Arrest made in missing girl case

A Charlevoix man was arraigned on Thursday, Jan. 13 following his arrest Jan. 12 in connection with the disappearance of a 12-year-old East Jordan girl.

The girl disappeared on Friday, Jan. 7 and didn't return home until Tuesday, Jan. 11.

James Sanger, 38, has been charged with one count of first degree criminal sexual conduct. The crime involves sexual penetration. If convicted Sanger can face up to life in prison or any term of years.

According to the Grand Traverse County Prosecutor's Office, the girl and Sanger allegedly met in East Jordan and went to Traverse City to go to the mall. The girl knew him through one of his children.

They stayed together in two different Traverse City motels for three nights.

According to Prosecuting Attorney Dennis LaBelle, the East Jordan Police Department provided the initial investigation and Michigan State Police in Petoskey are continuing the investigation.

As of Tuesday, Sanger remained lodged in the Grand Traverse County Jail in lieu of a $500,000 bond.

He will face a preliminary hearing on Jan. 27 at 11:30 a.m. before Judge Michael J. Haley.

Guiding the future

■ Citizen input encouraged at Boyne goal setting session

A goal setting session next week will give community members a chance to let Boyne City officials know what they think the municipality should address over the next year.

"It's probably a good chance, if people have specific questions, to get them answered and get a feel for some of the things the city has done over a period of time," said City Manager Eric Strahl.

This year's annual meeting is set for Thursday, Jan. 27, at 6 p.m. at St. Matthew's Catholic Church fellowship hall located at 1303 Boyne Ave.

Though the agenda has not yet been finalized, information regarding normal capital and equipment expenditures will be discussed at the meeting along with a summary of major projects and issues from last year's goal setting session.

Citizens will then have an opportunity to voice their ideas and concerns as well.

Over the past several years, Strahl said many projects the city has worked on have come from community members.

"There may be some things out there that people think are important that aren't dealt with on a day to day basis," Strahl said. "It's important for us to hear those things when we're trying to put a budget together."

Stemming from last year's session, the city continued its capital improvement program including repaving Lake Street and smaller side streets and extending the bike path.

It worked on obtaining funding for expanding the Air Industrial Park, securing an $845,000 loan through the Michigan Economic Development Corporation. The loan is half the amount needed to complete the project and the city expects to hear by late winter or early spring if it has secured a grant through the Economic Development Administration for the remainder of the $1.69 million project.

The city was also approved for a $187,926 grant toward building a

Snow art is a family affair

The rain wiped out a good portion of the Argetsinger's first attempt at building a cartoon character out of snow.

"But we didn't get discouraged," Maxine Argetsinger said. "We had to patch up the one that was there."

With a vision of capturing another first place finish in the East Jordan Sno-Blast Sno-Sculpture Contest, her family whittled away at the melted lump into the evening Tuesday night — the night before judging — to re-create a resting Snoopy atop a doghouse, with Woodstock on his belly, and even a dog dish below.

Their efforts garnered them a first place finish in the competition and a $50 first place prize. There were eight entries in the competition scattered throughout the community.

Modeled after a Christmas card Argetsinger received from her nephew, the only thing not copied to the sculpture were Christmas lights wrapped around Snoopy's nose.

"Since Charles Schultz retired this year, I thought it was appropriate to do Snoopy," Argetsinger said.

It took nine family members an estimated eight hours to create the frozen statue. Snow from the yard was gathered in a mound and allowed to harden. Then knives, spray bottles, and colored water were set into motion to capture Snoopy's likeness.

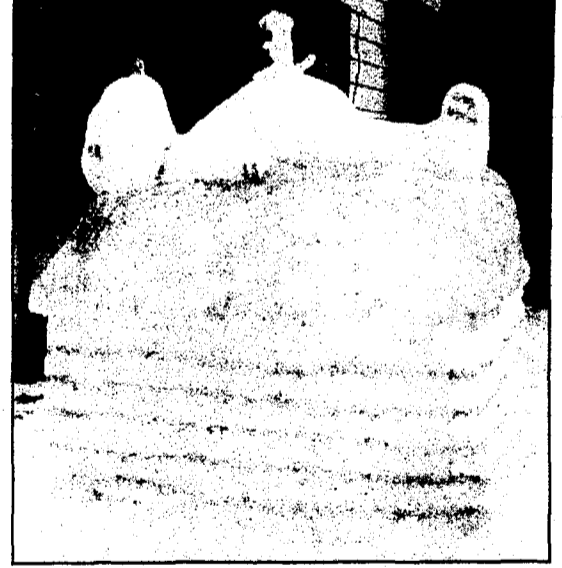

"It takes all of us," Argetsinger said, noting there's not any one artist in the family which includes the Argetsinger's daughter Julie and husband Mickey McGuire in whose yard the sculpture stands; daughter Kelly Argetsinger and her children Jeremy and Amanda Scott and friend Alan Kava; and daughter Jodie Massey.

Last year, the family's creation of the Coca Cola polar bear resting on a couch with a bottle of soda atop his belly garnered them a first place finish in the contest.

Argetsinger acknowledges the similarity in the character's resting positions. "They'll think we can't do anything not lying on its back," she joked.

As far as the prize money goes, "we've used it the last two years to go to breakfast at the Sno-mobile Club," Argetsinger said.

Snoopy and Woodstock grabbed a first place finish in the Sno-Blast snow sculpture contest.

Gazebo concerts will continue with new organizer

By ANGELA SHULTIS

It wasn't a tough decision for Cindy Kujawski when she first considered taking over Boyne City's Evenings at the Gazebo.

Upon reading of previous organizer Barb Polinski's plans to retire, she thought, "If they need somebody, why not?" Having done some work in drama, and possessing an affinity for volunteer work, she felt up to the challenge.

She phoned Polinski, and the rest, as they say, is history.

Born and raised in Boyne City, Kujawski is a lifelong lover of music. Besides the childhood piano lessons and playing an instrument in high school, she fondly recalls being taken by her mother to see the Young Americans perform on more than one occasion. As an adult, she's found ways to incorporate her love for music into her professional life, as well. Employed at the Boyne City Nursery Center since 1982, she said, "at the preschool, there's always music going on."

As for her tenure with the Evenings at the Gazebo, she plans to continue on in the tradition that Polinski has established, using some of the same tried and true acts, as well as adding some new ones to the bill.

"My husband and I go to Wagbo and have seen a lot of really different performers there. We've spoken to some of them, and they're interested. One wanted to play for two hours," she said, adding with a laugh that she's not sure if that would work or not.

She already has the Fiddlers Philharmonic lined up for this season. The Petoskey Steel Drum Band, which attracted a record number of attendees last year, is planning to return.

Beyond the gazebo, Kujawski would like to be involved in bringing musical entertainment to other areas of Boyne City.

"I noticed that there weren't any performers at the winter festival, so I might look into that," she said.

This is Kujawski's first foray into being the sole organizer of an event and she's ready for it, citing her belief that these concerts are an important part of the community.

"Music is so emotional and brings out so many feelings in everyone," she said.

The Evenings at the Gazebo concerts are put on Wednesday evenings through the summer, and are funded solely by contributions from the community. If you are interested in making a contribution, call Kujawski at 582-7573.

Cindy Kujawski will keep the music flowing in Old City Park, as she assumes leadership of the Evenings at the Gazebo summer concert series.

GUEST COLUMN

Preserving the wild begins with a vision

By JO ANNE BEEMON

I love the Jordan River forest. One day, my friends and I walked to the base of Deadman's Hill. It was a few days after I had been chosen to serve on the Friends of the Jordan River board.

The bottom of the hill is a wondrous place. The water comes right out of the hills, fresh and pure. Twenty percent of the surface freshwater in the world is right here in our Great Lakes Basin. What a privilege to live here.

Water is life. There are parts of the world where people spend a major part of their day walking to get the water they need to survive. And here, the water flows from the earth, clean and good and giving life to the valley and all the creatures. It's a miracle. And as I stood there, I thought, "I am a guardian of this sacred river!" What an awesome responsibility, and what a sacred trust.

I am a teacher. One day I asked the students to write a short paper on what they imagined the year 2020 would be like.

Out of about 60 young people, only three envisioned a bright future. Most students thought world problems would get worse and worse. Many thought the earth would come to a terrible end, and that war and greed and pollution and devastation would increase. They had little hope that humans could learn to live peacefully or begin to choose to limit the devastation of the planet. They saw extinction of species. They have mourned the disappearing wounded manatee and gentle panda, the burning rain forest and the disappearance of wilderness and of hunting lands.

We wonder why our children are angry. We have given them everything! Boats and cars, snowboards and computers, Barbies, Beanies, and bank accounts for college. But we have not cultured in them a hope for their future.

How ever did this happen? Is it any wonder that they are often violent and angry and offensive? We have been so busy pursuing the "Consumer Dream" (My brother calls it an "All You Can Eat Smorgasbord Frenzy") and a "Diversified Stocks and Bonds, 'Enough is just a little bit more!' Security," that we have forgotten to tend the air, the water, the land and the systems which must support our children and their children.

We cannot love our children and deprive them of their birthright to clean air, to deep rich forests, to the call of the loon and the clear goodness of water.

The rivers and forests are calling us to come together to protect those beautiful and good natural things that ensure our children rich and happy lives. We must have faith that we can do better. We can begin to protect our rivers and forests. We are strong and creative and good.

We have incredible human and natural resources. We can begin to build a world of hope and wholeness, one place, one river, one city at a time. We can do this! Our message to our children must be one of hope and healing.

Last fall, when I stood on the Jordan River fresh water estuary with president of the Friends of the Jordan John Richter, realtor and developer Cal Gots, the city manager of East Jordan Dave White, community leader Jean Sayer, and FOJ director John Hummer, it was just as good as it gets for this environmentalist.

We stood together at the mouth of that marvelous river and together we shared a vision. It was a shared dream that together we could

BETWEEN the LINES

There's magic in an up north winter

By ANGELA SHULTIS

I'm not a big fan of winter. I skied once upon a time, but I'd be embarrassed now to take my arcane equipment onto the slopes, even if I were so inclined. I don't ice fish or snowmobile or snowshoe.

The bottom line is, it's cold, and I don't tolerate cold very well.

Humans aren't designed to handle cold really well. So, we've adapted by bundling ourselves in layers of fabric to ward off the chill. Unfortunately, they've not invented a material that can shield me from the frigid winter air; I shiver from December until April. Period.

So why do I live here?

Partly because my family would resist going anywhere else. From my snowmobiling husband to my snow-angel-making kids, they just plain enjoy winter.

But I'm not the only one up here who doesn't engage in winter sports regularly, who doesn't relish schlepping around in the ice and slush and what-have-you for entertainment. So why do any of us non-sporting folks live in this wintry clime?

The truth is, there's a certain magic to an up north winter.

Now, the up north winter is very different from the downstate winter. Down south, they do have snow, of course, but in between snowfalls it's messy and dirty, and seems more bothersome than beautiful most of the time.

Up north winters are as serene as you get. Even if you're rushing off to work, to get the kids to school, late for a dentist appointment, you can't help but get carried away at times by the peaceful drifts of white. Even as the snow is melting in your boots, even as your car is sliding at every stop sign (don't worry, there's no traffic anyway), it's hard not to find just a little bit of beauty in it.

There's nothing quite like the ethereal glow of gently falling snow at midnight. And at 6 a.m., the sight of our resident deer picking their way through my snow-laden yard, combined with the dainty rabbit tracks on the deck, are truly enchanting.

And it's not just the sights that engage me. There are the sounds — the snowmobiles cruising through town, the giggling kids caught up in snow fights. And there's the silence — there is nothing more hushed than a late-night snowstorm on a deserted street. A quiet so heavy, you can almost feel it draping around you.

And there's the spirit — winter brings with it a certain unspoken pride up here, that we all just bear with it, hardly noticing the drifted roads, the icy walks, the cars buried in snow just hours after you've scraped them clean, not to mention the bite of single-digit temperatures and sub-zero windchill. It's part of the secret we all share about the glory of living up north. Events like East Jordan's Sno-Blast and the Boyne Area Winter Festival just confirm the sentiment. This is a community of four-season folks, who are able to find the glory in all that mother nature throws our way.

It's a spirit we somehow manage to maintain through all kinds of weather.

And when it comes down to it, frozen or not, there's no place I'd rather be.

IN INK

The name game, again

By GINA SOLTIS KENDELL

At least nicknames come after birth and there's no real pressure to pick just the right one. They just stick if thrown at an acceptable surface. It's in choosing a baby's "real" name where the dilemma unfolds.

Here I am at nearly eight months pregnant, and our list of baby names contains one name — for sure. Since we don't know what we're having, and the name isn't unisex, it's becoming a bit more urgent that we choose another name.

And no, we're not telling what the name is. Why not? Because the topic of names itself brings on unsolicited suggestions and unwanted reactions to names that our child could potentially hold.

An elder in the family has told those of us in child-bearing years, that the inheritance is ours if we name our children Bernadette or Casey Solanis.

He also gives us handwritten lists of names that he likes. Never mind he already had four children of his own and his own chance to apply monikers.

And no matter what the name — take Mike for instance — somebody once was married to, dated, met, heard of, or new a friend-of-a-friend-of-a-friend who new a Mike once and "you couldn't possibly name your child after such a lout."

Alrighty then. Mike, John, Tom, Mary, Jane, Sue, Anne — they're all out, I guess.

It's the suggestions from children which are generally sweet or funny and certainly not unwelcome.

A friend's six-year-old daughter, Danielle, told me she knew I was having a baby because my tummy was big. She asked me if I knew what I was going to name the baby. I told her no and asked what she thought we should name the baby.

Rose. That's a pretty name, I said. Do you know somebody named Rose? I thought perhaps a dear grandmother, aunt, babysitter or a friend held the name.

She did know a Rose "on 'The Golden Girls.'" My six-year-old niece, Allison, has named the baby Stephanie. A name not on our "one-name" list. The family goes along with it, humoring her, really.

I've mentioned to her a few times it's not likely that will be the baby's name. I think, more importantly, she would just like another girl cousin on this side of the family, being outnumbered three to two. She occasionally puts her ear to my abdomen, to hear whatever it is that babies do in utero.

Her four-year-old brother, Stephen, has suggested the name "Aunt Gina" for the baby.

When I see him, the first thing he asks is "is the baby coming out?"

He rubs my belly, often, noting it's as round as his Grandpa's and one of his uncle's. He runs his hand around my (non-existent) waist, across my back and back to the front. "Why can't Aunt Gina be in the back?" he asks.

After a recent baby shower, on the same day as his birthday party, he said to my abdomen, "Happy birthday to Aunt Gina!"

At bedtime, again communicating with my swollen middle, "goodnight Aunt Gina."

A MOM'S LIFE

Kids must learn to resolve their own conflicts

By CINDI PLACE

One of the tougher lessons of parenthood, at least for us, has been knowing when to step in if our child is having a conflict with someone else. And when to just leave it alone and let the kids resolve the issue on their own.

This is an awful lot to ask of a parent, who may be busy consoling an extremely upset child. But maybe that's the point.

If we are forever stepping up to bat for our kids, when will they learn to mediate for themselves? As an adult, one of the best skills we can develop is the ability to compromise. If we set all the rules for our children's relationships, how will they learn to get along with others?

It all sounds reasonable on the face of it. But when your child is in tears once again because some "bully" was teasing or making fun of them, it's pretty difficult to stand back and let the kids work it out. Especially when your first reaction is to march right over to the other kid's house and give the child, and probably his parent, a piece of your mind. How dare anyone make your child cry? Or even feel bad.

Usually in these situations, our gut instinct is to "take care of this" ourselves, sometimes without even getting the whole story. And, experience has certainly taught us that there is usually another side to the story. Then again, that may not always be the case. Introducing the parent's crystal ball.

It isn't enough to take care of the physical and educational needs of our children. We must also give them the tools to become content, pleasant people. And we need to balance our praise and support of our kids with a little dose of realism. Not every kid will be able to become a rocket scientist. Nor should we want them to. All we as parents should really hope for is that our children become happy, productive members of a civilized society.

Teaching our kids to deal with people who are unhappy is the most difficult task. Although most kids can understand when someone is mad for a specific reason, they have a more difficult time understanding people who are simply "mad at the world." For that matter, so do we.

So teaching tolerance is another one of those parenting skills that we are charged with passing on to our children. The hard part may be learning to practice what we preach.

BUSINESS

A Subway restaurant will be built on East Jordan's Main Street.

Walls fall for new Subway

Plans for the new Subway to be built in downtown East Jordan are moving ahead, according to property owner Tim Schroeder. "They've ripped down the front wall now," said Schroeder. "The owners are hoping to open by the first of June. Naturally, they want to hit the summer traffic."

The project's next step will be development of construction blue-prints.

Schroeder entered into an agreement with the city in November to purchase the lot between Main and Spring Streets next to The Busy Bridge.

A resolution to sell the property was on the agenda for the Jan. 18 East Jordan City Commission meeting.

Ellsworth student wins award

Charlevoix Area Zonta Club is accepting applications for its ninth annual Young Women in Public Affairs Award.

The Zonta International award competition, established in 1990, is open to all young women currently enrolled in secondary school. The award is designed to encourage women to pursue decision-making positions in their communities in order to impact the policies which affect the lives of women not only in their community, but throughout the world.

Applications for the $500 award are available from high school counseling offices in Charlevoix county, or may be obtained by calling Maura A. Snabes at 547-9969. The deadline for applications is Feb. 1 to the Charlevoix Area Zonta Club. The winner will be announced at the noon meeting of Charlevoix Area Zonta in February.

The recipient of the local award will have her application forwarded to the district award competition.

Marie Essenberg of Ellsworth High School was last year's recipient.

According to Snabes, chairperson of the award, Essenberg was selected "because she exemplified the intent of the award through participation in community activities such as being a teacher's aide and working with students with learning disabilities, donating her time to pack Christmas boxes for the needy, and volunteering her talents by giving free flute lessons to a young girl."

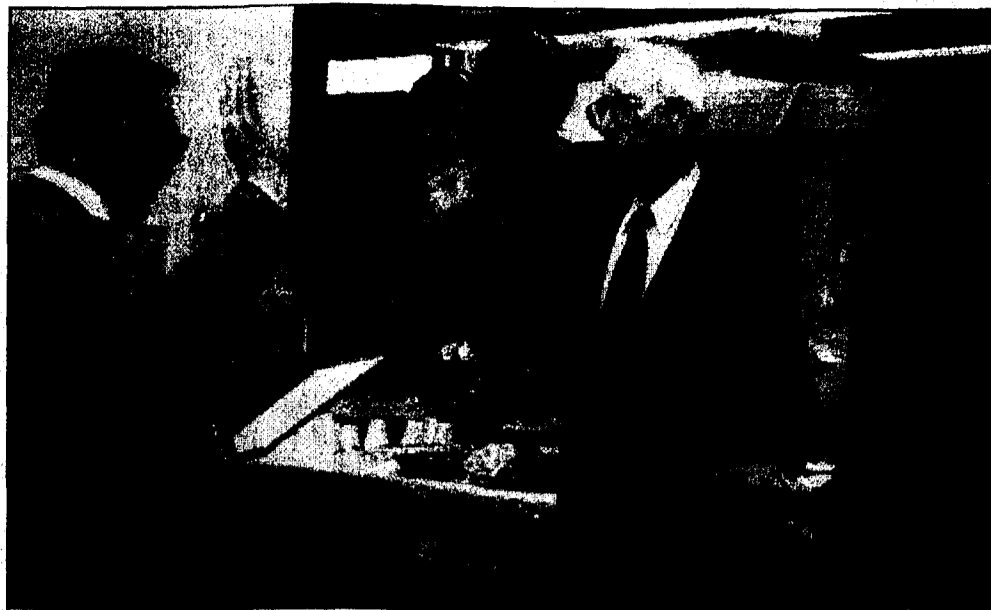

Snabes added that Essenberg is an outstanding student and participates in several extra-curricular activities.

Crumbaugh Studio offers overnight film processing

Crumbaugh Studio and Photography in Boyne City now offers overnight photo processing.

Film dropped off at the business by 5 p.m. during the week and noon on Saturdays will be available by 9:30 a.m. the next business day. The overnight service also includes 5 x 7 and 8 x 10 enlargements.

The studio is located at the corner of Lake and Main streets in downtown Boyne City. The phone number is 582-6263.

New Boyne City Postmaster Leslie Smith, standing alongside his wife Rosemary, is sworn in by Ross Howell, postmaster of Gaylord and Service Manager for the 497 area.

Boyne City postmaster sworn in

There's a new postmaster in town. Sworn in last Thursday at the Boyne City Post Office, Leslie Smith is already right at home.

Smith has been acting as Boyne City's postmaster since May 1999, when he was transferred from his two-year stint as postmaster in Boyne Falls. On Nov. 6 of last year, he was officially appointed to hold the position permanently.

"In the past I've thought about promotions and where it would be nice to go," said Smith. "I always thought it would be nice to be in Boyne City."

And with good reason. A Boyne City native, he graduated from Boyne City High School. Starting his career with the post office in 1971 in Six Lakes, just north of Grand Rapids, he later continued on as Postmaster in Clarksville from 1981 until 1997 when he ended up at the helm in Boyne Falls. Shortly after the former Boyne City postmaster was transferred to Charlevoix, Smith stepped in.

He and his wife Rosemary currently reside outside of Horton Bay. Smith will supervise a full staff, which includes five rural carriers, four sub carriers, four city carriers, four clerks, and one custodian.

As for his future with the Boyne City office, he expects that it will be "just business as usual."

New writer joins newspaper staff

Angela Shultis has recently taken on duties as a part-time staff writer for The Citizen and Jordan Journal.

She has been employed as the office manager for the papers since July 1998, and has written gardening and opinion columns for the last year.

She is a 1991 graduate of Michigan State University with a Bachelor's Degree in Psychology, and studied English with a minor in writing at the University of Wisconsin Stevens Point.

Angela is a resident of Boyne

City, having returned to Michigan in 1998 after spending several years living in Wisconsin.

Her husband, Kurt Shultis, is employed with East Jordan Iron Works, and they have two children, Johanna and Christian.

Arts council seeking masks for exhibit

The Jordan River Arts Council is seeking masks for its upcoming exhibit, "The Mask: Who, Why and When."

The exhibit will highlight the use of the mask historically from primitive times until today and the council is interested in borrowing additional masks for the display.

Of particular interest to organizers is finding Japanese Noh or Oni masks.

"We'll accept masks of all kinds," said organizer Jane Diller.

More than 20 individuals and businesses have loaned masks to date which range from African and theater masks to industry and sports masks, amongst others.

"We're getting a wonderful collection," Diller said.

Masks created by high school students using recycled materials as well as masks by elementary students will also be displayed.

The multicultural exhibit will run Feb. 19-March 17, and include related educational experiences for all ages.

If you would like to loan a mask for the exhibit, call Diller at 582-6399.

Sharing a vision for the Jordan Valley move the historic Vance Building to this beautiful city-owned place on the river and we could work together to restore the building to become the Jordan River Watershed Center, a center of education, conservation and wonder.

In this place we would come together to celebrate the rich history of the Jordan Valley, to wonder at the power and beauty of the eagle and to learn about watershed communities, about relationship and responsibility, about bugs, trees, the fishery, the river and ourselves.

That dream is becoming a reality. Architect Rick Neumann has drawn up the architectural and site plans. The community has come forward to help. The foundation is in. The house is leveled and shimmied. Old plaster and floor coverings have been removed. A new driveway is in. A nature trail has been drawn up, and the East Jordan Garden Club is making plans for wildlife plantings.

The Charlevoix County Land Conservancy has acquired the adjoining "Jordan River Sedge Marsh Preserve." We are working together for something good. We are creating a presence dedicated to a new ethic of care and responsibility and creativity.

Our goal is to create a community of people who will work to preserve and protect the land and water resources of the Jordan River and the Valley. We will teach our children the value of clean water and wild lands, we will celebrate the wonder of the eagle.

We are beginning a new journey of hope and healing and of living peacefully and abundantly on the Earth. For information call John Hummer at 533-5063 or me at 547-4820.

Antrim County deer tests positive for TB

A wild deer harvested from the northwest corner of Antrim County was found positive for bovine tuberculosis by the Michigan Department of Community Health Laboratory.

It was the first wild deer found positive for the disease outside of the Movement Restriction Zone, the area in northeastern Michigan bounded by I-75, M-55 and Lake Huron.

Stephen Schmitt, Department of Natural Resources veterinarian, said the finding doesn't necessarily mean that the disease has recently spread. "It is more likely that cases that already existed in other areas of the state have been detected due to the greatly increased surveillance that occurred during 1999."

In response, even greater surveillance in a five-mile and a 25-mile radius of the harvested deer will be implemented by the DNR with the continued assistance of hunters and others. In addition, surveillance for tuberculosis in wild deer will also be increased statewide for the year 2000.

Michigan State University veterinarian Mike Chaddock said the test result in Antrim County was not a surprise and that it will cause no immediate change in either the bovine TB testing program or quarantine in northeast Michigan.

"In northwest Michigan, our staff has already begun identifying all cattle, bison, goats, livestock and captive deer and elk within a 10-mile radius of the Antrim County deer," Chaddock said. "We will continue to work with the livestock industry to provide information and whole-herd testing in that area to assess whether the deer finding has parallels in the livestock."

Test results of two additional TB-suspect deer in Mecosta and Osceola counties are expected in the next few weeks. The US Department of Agriculture is planning to review Michigan's bovine TB program in February. Information from that review will be the basis for determining any change in Michigan's bovine TB status.

While the test results won't cause an immediate change in the state's TB testing program or the quarantine in northeast Michigan, the Michigan Department of Agriculture (MDA)

Ag department plans meeting in Ellsworth to discuss situation

The Michigan Department of Agriculture will hold an informational meeting on bovine TB on Wednesday, Jan. 26 in the Banks Township Hall, 6503 Center St., in Ellsworth. Dairy and beef cattle producers as well as interested residents are encouraged to attend.

Representatives from the MDA, the US Department of Agriculture, MDNR, the Michigan Department of Community Health and Michigan State University will be on hand to explain more about bovine TB and the state's efforts to eradicate it from livestock and wildlife.

will begin providing whole-herd, state-paid testing of cattle, bison, goats and captive deer and elk within a 10-mile radius of the Antrim County deer.

The MDA has conducted more than 50,000 TB tests on cattle and goats from about 1,100 farms in northeast Michigan. Four beef cattle herds and one captive deer farm have been confirmed as TB-infected.

Since 1995, about 281 deer have tested positive for TB, until now all of them within the area east of Interstate 75 and north of Michigan route 55.

A simple, tasty and healthy drink for the new millennium

By SUE SHENK

HAPPY NEW CENTURY. Toast the new year and new century with grape juice. Even though there have been recent reports that drinking a glass of red wine occasionally may be helpful to lower heart disease, grape juice alone may also help.

Further studies show that grape juice may improve health by relaxing the arteries and reducing the oxidation of LDL (bad cholesterol). Grape juice is also high in vitamin C. An eight-fluid-ounce serving of 100 percent grape juice fortified with vitamin C will give you 133 percent of your daily requirement based on a 2,000 calorie diet. So enjoy the taste and goodness of grape juice as you celebrate the new millennium.

Grief support sessions aid the healing process

"Keep busy," "Don't think about it," "Take your mind off of it." Sometimes we offer these words to people who have suffered the loss of a spouse, family member or close friend. The problem is these may be our coping mechanisms, but not the ones preferred by the person grieving.

To assist in that healing process, Hospice of Little Traverse Bay is offering a series of classes. The series recognizes the healing process involved in understanding loss in our lives. "Grief and the Healing Process: Understanding our Losses," will be held from 7-9 p.m. on six consecutive Tuesdays, beginning Feb. 1. All sessions are free and are held at Emmanuel Episcopal Church, 1020 E. Mitchell St., Petoskey.

"Grieving over the loss of a loved one is very painful and at times can seem overwhelming. Many of us wonder whether we are grieving in the 'right' way and worry whether the feelings we are experiencing are 'normal,'" said Bob Vance, a Family Counselor with Hospice of Little Traverse Bay. Vance and Family Counselor Jo Thomas will lead the sessions along with several Hospice volunteers.

The Grief and the Healing Process series provides a safe, supportive environment in which to share the practical problems of day-to-day living after the death of a loved one. By using the art of storytelling and expressive techniques, the series is designed to provide a deeper understanding of any loss and the means of reconciling the loss into normal, everyday activities.

Open to the families of Hospice patients as well as anyone in the community who has suffered a major loss, these weekly sessions help families and individuals come to renewed meaning and purpose through their pain and feelings of loss.

Pre-registration is requested and can be made by calling the Hospice office at 231-487-4825.

EJ school board approves budget amendments

Amendments to the 1999-2000 General Fund Budget were approved by the East Jordan school board at its regular meeting Monday night. The amended financial plan includes revenues of $8,063,920 and expenses of $8,060,653. The plan projects an end of the year fund balance of approximately $780,000, which is approximately 9.5% of the total budget.

The school board's next meeting has been rescheduled from Monday, Feb. 21 to Monday, Feb. 14. In other business, the board:

- Appointed Brad Jones to the girls assistant varsity basketball coaching position, effective with the 2000 season. Sue Kline was also appointed to the vacant junior varsity cheerleading coaching position.

- Approved the purchase of a new school bus, through the State of Michigan Purchase Plan, at a bid price of $57,135. The bus will be a 71-passenger conventional model with an International chassis and a Bluebird coach.

- Granted a continuing tenure contract to faculty member Jennifer Richardson.

- Heard, as their monthly "Faculty Feature," an informative presentation on one of East Jordan High School's newest classes, Advanced Communication Arts. The course, developed over the summer by faculty member Kathy Stangis, is designed to inspire senior students to read and examine a variety of literature. Stangis reported that students are enjoying the class a great deal, and are giving her a great effort.

SUZI MALPASS NAMED MVP

Red Devils sweep tourney

The East Jordan volleyball team took first place at the weekend's Inland Lakes' tournament, winning six of seven matches.

"The team effort was the reason we did so well," coach Duane Kujat said. "Everyone contributed."

But it was experience and maturity that propelled the team from behind in the final match against Inland Lakes (3-15, 15-14, 15-6). From one game down, and lagging behind in the second game, the Red Devils pulled ahead to win game two and dominated in the third.

The Red Devil's only loss came against Pellston in pool play, a team they had hoped to play in the finals, but didn't end up facing.

Suzi Malpass was selected as the tournament's Most Valuable Player. She tallied 63 kills, three digs, was 80 percent in passing, had eight block kills and served at 94 percent going 48 of 51 with six aces.

Jamie Baker earned the team MVP title, saving the day with 49 of 52 serves with two aces. She set at 94 percent and had 110 assists.

Wendy Walczak served at 95 percent with 41 of 43 and four aces. She had nine kills, two digs and one block kill.

Jessica Peverall served 100 percent and in high pressure situations "where we needed her most," Kujat said. She also had 15 kills and three block kills.

Scoring: Onaway 15-11, 15-6; Pellston 15-13, 12-15, 7-15; Harbor Light 15-12, 15-21; Cedarville 15-10, 15-7; Harbor 15-6, 15-8; Rudyard 15-8, 15-12; Inland Lakes 3-15, 15-14, 15-6.

KALKASKA'S tough defense coupled with serving 95 percent on the night netted them a 15-10, 15-4, 3-15 win over East Jordan last week.

"Our team communicated better than our last outing and we're moving some things around to see if we can make it click," Kujat said.

"Serving, at 84 percent, is still lower than the team's goals, "but the team has the desire and positive attitude needed to better themselves," Kujat said.

Jamie Baker set at 88 percent and served at 100 percent and ended with 11 assists. Kujat said

Rachel Boss was selected to the all-tournament team serving 14 aces, with 30 kills, passed at 77 percent and had eight block kills. MaryAnn Brooks was also named to the all tournament team serving 14 aces, with two kills, passing at 77 percent and with two digs.

"She played tough defense all day," Kujat said of Brooks.

"The team effort was the reason we did so well" she did a good job of getting the ball up.

Suzi Malpass led in kills with seven, Boss had six and Peverall had three. Malpass also led in passing with Boss a close second.

The junior varsity lost their match in two games.

Boyne rebounds, beats Rogers City

Ahead by just one point heading into the fourth quarter, Boyne City outscored Rogers City 20-9, for a 53-41 victory.

Close at the outset, the Ramblers went into the second quarter up by three and scored 12 points to the Hurons 11.

"We just kind of fought through it and did a much better job of controlling the ball down the stretch," coach Kevin Fitzpatrick said.

It was a good game to measure the team's response to a Friday loss against Traverse City St. Francis, he said.

Noah Stanek led the Ramblers with 14 points and 11 rebounds. Tyson Johncheck had eight rebounds.

AGAINST TRAVERSE CITY St. Francis, Boyne City lost 55-52, after being up by nine early on.

Though St. Francis led by eight at the end of one, they scored just seven to Boyne City's 11 in the second quarter.

In the third and early fourth quarters, Boyne City led at times by nine points. Going into the last five and a half minutes, a couple of bad breaks, deflected passes, missed free throws and "poor decisions by us" culminated in the loss.

"A lot of that was in our control

Bellaire spoils Boyne Falls homecoming

An early lead wasn't enough to secure a homecoming victory for Boyne Falls against an unbeaten Bellaire team Friday night.

It was the Loggers second loss this season, the first against undefeated Harbor Light.

Up 18-2 going into the second quarter and ahead by nine points at the half, the Loggers fell to the wayside in the third quarter when they were outscored 14-3, changing the momentum of the game.

"We made some poor decision in the third quarter," Boyne Falls coach Frank Hamilla said.

The Loggers fouled the Eagles on purpose, but missed the free throws, which were grabbed by Bellaire.

"We need to do a better job of being patient on offense and need to run our offense more thoroughly," he added.

With just seven seconds remaining in the game and down by three, a 3-point attempt by the Loggers failed.

"I thought defensively we played pretty good and rebounded pretty well," Hamilla said. "There are a few things we have to correct that are correctable."

Chad Matelski scored 20 points and grabbed 10 rebounds. Jason McNitt added 12 and McNitt and Matt Britton had six rebounds each.

Boyne Falls, now 5-2 overall and 3-1 in the conference, will host Burt Lake-Northern Michigan Christian on Friday.

Boyne City netters lose to St. Francis

The Boyne City varsity volleyball team lost to Traverse City St. Francis in two matches, 15-9, 4-15, 15-12.

"Defensively we were digging the balls very well. St. Francis had some good servers that I felt we handled very well," said coach Dorine Britton. "We had a couple of communication breakdowns and I don't feel we played real strong at the net offensively so St. Francis played well and capitalized on our errors."

Aubrey Fry was the top Rambler server with 17 points and two aces. Leah Senter had six kills and Alli Swaim had three.

Leading on defense were Jackie Cyr, Char Brandt and Senter. Brandt, Swaim and Fry demonstrated great passing and Cyr and Emily Bricker were standouts in setting.

The team is 1-3 in the conference and 2-3 overall. They host Charlevoix at home on Thursday.

Boyne skaters lead Kewadin Storm to victory

The Kewadin Storm girls hockey team played two games on Sunday. In game one, the Storm topped the Michigan Tech Huskies 5-2. Ellie Neidhamer of Boyne City scored one goal, and contributed two assists.

"Ellie Neidhamer and Kara Perry (also of Boyne City) really took charge, offensively," said coach Mike Fornes. "We are juggling lines right now, looking for combinations and they work well together."

In game two, the Storm defeated the Huskies 3-2. Neidhamer scored a goal in the third period, with an assist by Jenna Roland. "Jenna stepped up and played well both offensively and defensively," said Fornes.

The Kewadin Storm are now 12-6-5. They will travel to the Soo, Ontario this Sunday.

Kalkaska and Manton down East Jordan

East Jordan lost to Kalkaska, 76-53, following a slow start with the Red Devils trailing 14-1 halfway through the first quarter.

"To our credit, the kids turned it around, switched to a zone defense for a while and got themselves back into the ballgame," coach Del Ingalls said.

In the third quarter, Kalkaska outscored East Jordan by six points. In the fourth it was more of the same. "We had good shots, we had the ball around the rim and either blocked or tipped and couldn't get it in," Ingalls said.

"We need to shore up our defense and keep teams down in the 50s, and offensively we just need to find some consistency and knock down some shots."

Andy Brower was the spark helping to turn things around in the first quarter. Matt Birgy performed solidly at both ends of the court. Following a slow start, Mike Wladischkin battled as the game wore on, especially on the glass.

Wladischkin had 19 for the Red Devils. Ken Slough scored 12 and Birgy had 10.

Kalkaska's Isaac Eelongia scored 30 points.

AGAINST MANTON, East Jordan suffered a 72-54 defeat. "We came out and played decent ball and at half-time felt like we were making progress," Ingalls said.

But with a few East Jordan missed shots and Manton hitting a couple of 3-pointers, the lead was increased by 17.

"We really couldn't get back in the ball game," Ingalls said. "We couldn't get it under 10."

Too many mistakes with turnovers and poor passing have stymied East Jordan recently.

"We didn't quit at all," Ingalls said.

He added that in both games, East Jordan seems to let the other team's best players score 30 or more.

"We really need to try to do a better job of shutting down our opponent's bread and butter," he said.

Slough led the team in scoring with 17 points. Nate Skop had 11 and Wladischkin had nine. "Nate Skop was our top defender and had a solid game on offense too," said Ingalls.

"That's one of the areas we are improving in." The Red Devils are 0-6.

EAST JORDAN FRESHMEN defeated Cheboygan 59-55, outscoring their opponents at the end of each quarter.

Kevin Roberts paced the Red Devils with 30 points. David Lawson had 10 and Scott Murray scored eight.

Lawson and Roberts also led in rebounding while Murray and Robert Grover played strong defense. Also playing well were Tim Murphy and Aaron Woodard.

"It was a great win for us," coach Sean Ferguson said. "A total team effort."

The Red Devils also defeated Sutton's Bay 60-37. Scoring for the Red Devils were Roberts with 21, and Murray and Jon Reese with 14. Grover led the defense while Roberts, Reese and Lawson led in rebounding. "Scott Murray played a good all-around game," said coach Sean Ferguson.

The freshmen also defeated Kalkaska 64-33. Grover scored 20 points, Roberts had 14 points, Reese had 12 and Scott Murray had 10.

The team is 4-4 and will face Elk Rapids on the road Friday.

"We need to shore up our defense and ... find some consistency"

-- Del Ingalls, East Jordan head coach

Gaylord Diocese offers discipleship workshop

A Jubilee 2000 event for those pursuing a greater understanding of what it means to be a disciple in the new millennium is being sponsored by the Diocese of Gaylord.

The workshop will be held in Traverse City at Immaculate Conception Parish on Saturday, Jan. 22, from 10 a.m.-3:30 p.m., and again in Alpena at St. John Parish on Saturday, Feb. 5, from 10 a.m.-3:30 p.m.

In the first session of the workshop, participants will look at their lifestyle and experiences in light of how these help or hinder healthy discipleship. The afternoon session will address how participants might help those to whom they minister cultivate the sacred within themselves.

The event is intended for anyone who ministers to the needs of others, whether it be in the parish or the marketplace. Those who minister to the poor, the sick, and the dying, as well as parish staff, participants in formation programs and those involved in parish ministry are encouraged to attend.

Sister LuAnn Hannasch and Sister Maria Klosowski, both of Mio, will facilitate the session.

There is a $10 fee to attend the workshop, which includes lunch. Registration is mandatory. For more information or a registration form call the Secretariat for Education and Formation at (517) 732-5147, and ask for Linda or Marlene.

High school students can explore winter up close

While snowboarders and skiers are screaming down the slopes, just off the beaten path some of nature's best kept secrets are unfolding.

The third trip in SEE-North's Discover NorthCountry series for high school students will be an opportunity to explore the wild in winter. The trip is scheduled for Feb. 11-13.

Teenagers will spend the weekend at Camp Petosega on Pickerel Lake learning winter survival skills, snowshoeing, tracking, and some winter ecology. Evenings will be spent around the fire in the camp's heated cabin.

The cost of the trip is on a sliding scale of $45-$200. There are no income guidelines; families are simply asked to pay as generously as they can to help cover the organization's full costs.

Space is limited so early registration is encouraged. For more information or to register call SEE-North at (231) 348-9700.

Volunteers needed for Foster Care Review Board

The State Court administrative Office of the Michigan Supreme Court is seeking volunteers to serve on the Charlevoix County Foster Care Review Board.

The five-member board meets one day each month to review a representative sample of cases of children who have been removed from their homes and placed in foster care due to abuse or neglect.

At these reviews, board members interview parents, foster parents, caseworkers, attorneys, and other interested parties who may be involved in planning for the ward. Advisory recommendations are formulated and mailed to the court, child welfare agency, prosecuting attorneys, parents, and other interested parties.

The purpose of the review is to insure that all agencies, including the court, have established a plan for the ward and progress is being made toward achieving permanency.

According to Jason Grube of the Foster Care Review Board Program, the review boards are comprised of citizens who reflect a broad cross section of their communities. The program is seeking volunteers who have demonstrated leadership in other settings. Minorities and men are especially encouraged to apply.

Each volunteer who is selected is required to attend a two-day orientation training in Lansing on March 9-10. Also, board members attend yearly training held in different locations throughout the state, with reimbursement for training expenses.

Anyone interested in becoming a board member for the Foster Care Review Board should call (517) 373-1956 for an application. The deadline for receiving applications is Jan. 31, and interviews with prospective candidates will take place in February.

EXPERT ANSWERS TO TAXING QUESTIONS

How long am I required to keep old tax records?

Receipts, cancelled checks, interest statements and any other records that document income or a deduction shown on your tax return should be kept until the period of limitations for that return expires. This is usually three years from the date the return was due or filed, or two years from the time the tax was paid, whichever is later. However, there is no period of limitations when no return is filed or fraud is involved. If you are an employer, you must retain employment tax records for at least four years.
