Cyclists make a stop in Boyne

This summer, 60 college students will climb on their bikes to ride coast-to-coast in support of Habitat for Humanity. On Thursday, June 22, 30 of those cyclists will be staying overnight at the Boyne City United Methodist Church, where they will be spreading the word about Habitat for Humanity with a slide presentation, following a 6 p.m. potluck dinner.

The community is invited to stop by for dinner and the presentation. There will also be a short bicycle clinic afterwards for children which will include information about bike maintenance and safety.

The church is located at 324 S. Park St. in Boyne City, and the presentation will take place in the church basement. For more information, call 582-9776.

Jumping into summer

Vandals causing problems

Several area businesses have suffered damage due to vandalism recently in Boyne City.

On the night of May 19, vandals made their way from the elementary school down Boyne Avenue, through Old City Park, and into the downtown area, causing damage to some area businesses and public property.

"There was a considerable amount of damage to new cars at Bob Mathers and destroyed, leaving owner John McLeod angry and frustrated. According to McLeod, it's not the monetary aspect of the damage that concerns him most. "It scares you," he said. "You don't know what's going on."

Other damage included a picnic table in the Boyne River, damage at the Boyne City High School and bus garage, four flat tires on a truck owned by NAPA, along with their dumpster being pushed into the river, damage in Old City Park including a stolen tree, and the destruction of the library sign at Honeywell.

Also, at Boyne Avenue Greenhouse, a greenhouse was broken into and tables of plants were tipped over and destroyed, leaving owner John McLeod angry and frustrated. According to McLeod, it's not the monetary aspect of the damage that concerns him most. "It scares you," he said. "You don't know what's going on."

Sometime during the night of Saturday, June 3, vandals struck again, damaging a phone booth at the city marina, throwing a flower tub into the road on Lincoln Street, and displacing some street signs.

Gettel said the incidents are related. "It's definitely the same person," he said. "It's connected."

The police department is investigating suspects, one of whom is, according to Gettel, currently jailed on an unrelated charge.

Gettel said the investigation into the incidents is ongoing. Anyone with information should call the Boyne City Police Department at 582-6611.

Incumbents get the votes

■ School board elections show strong support for current boards

Voters turned out at the polls Monday to cast their votes for local school board seats.

In Boyne City, incumbent Jerry Kelts beat out challenger Janet Froats-Shepherd for the two year board seat, garnering 413 votes to Froats-Shepherd's 147.

Jon Gerster, another incumbent, received strong support with 394 votes to win one of two four-year board openings. The other four-year seat was won by Ed Vondra, with 269 votes. Kenneth Schrader and Russell

Hager had also been contenders for the four-year openings, receiving 258 and 120 votes, respectively.

In East Jordan, Debra Bartlett and incumbent Gary Ciszewski were elected to fill the two available four-year seats. Bartlett received 177 votes, and Ciszewski, 119. They defeated both Korinna Holt, who received 73 votes, and Steven Voci, with 38 votes.

In Boyne Falls, 45 voters turned out to re-elect incumbents Sandra Erber and Joe Skop, who both ran unopposed for the two available four-year seats.

Alpena coach takes reins of Rambler football program

Boyne City High School has a new head coach for their varsity football squad this fall.

David Hills, who has spent the last two years as head varsity football coach for class AA Alpena High School, has been hired to fill the vacancy left by David Bricker, who resigned from the position in November of 1999 after two years leading the program.

Bricker, who had coached for 25 years in Boyne City, had taken over the position from Pat Klooster, initially as an interim head coach, in June of 1998.

"[Hills] was the unanimous recommendation of the selection committee," said Boyne City school superintendent Dana Compton. Compton noted that Hills has not only a strong coaching background, but outstanding recommendations in teaching as well. "He checks out very strong as a teacher," Compton said, "which is a priority." Hills will teach social studies at the high school.

Hills played football at Northern Michigan University, and graduated from NMU with a Bachelor of Science in business administration. He later earned his teaching certificate, and holds a Master's Degree in teaching from Marygrove College.

He has served as head junior varsity football coach and freshman football coach in Marquette, prior to his head coaching position at Alpena. Hills has also been a head junior varsity coach at Alpena, and developed and implemented a junior high football program for the school system.

According to Compton, Hills planned to be in town this week to meet with coaching staff, athletes and parents.

It's official

■ Groundbreaking for new Boyne City High School is Thursday

The official groundbreaking ceremony for the new high school in Boyne City will be held on Thursday, June 15, at 4 p.m. Attendees will gather in the high school cafeteria prior to walking to the site. The public is welcome to attend the event.

Projected to be completed for the 2001-2002 school year, the new high school will feature a 600-seat auditorium, a two-story classroom wing, and a vocational wing, as well as the latest technology and the flexibility to adapt to future growth. It will be located on the property next to the current high school on Boyne Avenue.

In September of 1999, Boyne City voters passed a $18.8 million bond proposal to fund the construction of a new high school, along with renovations and updates to the existing school buildings.

A name change for Boswell Field

■ EJ commission taking suggestions

The city of East Jordan will need to find a new name for Boswell Field, and they're looking to local citizens for suggestions.

According to a report made by city administrator David White at last week's city commission meeting, the Boswell Field project has recently received approval from the Michigan Department of Natural Resources for the expansion project. The DNR has requested, though, that Boswell Field be renamed, in order to make the necessary distinction between it and Boswell Stadium, which is located at the high school.

The project has been given the working name of East Jordan Community Park.

The city commission will be considering alternate names at an upcoming meeting, and has requested suggestions from local residents.

The name, according to White, should be "something that reflects [the park's] multiple uses." Anyone with suggestions may call city hall at 536-3381, or contact any of the city commissioners.

White also reported that, having received approval from the DNR, the Boswell Field project is currently out to bid, with bid proposals scheduled to be read on July 13.

Road Work

Drivers in downtown East Jordan are having to do a little re-routing as construction continues at the intersection of Main and Mill Streets. Work crews are replacing the water main as part of an ongoing system upgrade. Crews hope to have the work completed within the week.

OPINION

Scams come in all forms

By ANGELA SHULTIS

I'm constantly amazed at the lengths people will go to, to rip other people off.

For instance, we recently received a news release from the Sheriff's Department, warning of a scam involving a letter from a purportedly religious organization, which informs the unwitting recipient that their home has been invaded by "evil demons." What's more, to rid their homes of the unclean spirits, they must return a cross of St. Benedict, conveniently enclosed with the letter, along with a fee of $25. If the recipient fails to comply, the letter warns, they will be "cursed, hexed, and terribly jinxed."

Excuse me?

Now, I've heard about lots of different scams. People calling and claiming to be raising money for the police department (which, any police officer will tell you, they do not do), folks going door to door, offering construction or repair services, only to take your money and leave without doing the work. Serious, but not particularly surprising.

But this? The first question that comes to mind is not "who would fall for this?" because, unfortunately, there's always some poor and vulnerable soul who would rather sacrifice a little money than take any chances. The question is, rather, "who would concoct such a bizarre scam?" And, "why?"

Well, the why part is easy to answer — money. Or more specifically, greed. And laziness. It must, I imagine, take a minimal amount of effort to create such a letter, mail it out, and cash the occasional checks that will, inevitably, roll in.

But what kind of person does such a thing?

That's a little tougher to answer. Obviously folks with little moral fiber, and not a scruple in sight. A distasteful by-product, perhaps, of a money-based, and, some would say, spiritually-deficient society. What really concerns me is that this is not a tiny fringe contingent; there appears to be no shortage of people ready to scam anyone and everyone able to write a check.

And now, in the communication age, scams come in all forms, via the postal service, the telephone, TV offers, e-mail, faxes. We occasionally receive these fantastic, one-time-only, just for you (read: fly-by-night) travel offers by fax at our office, from someplace listed as "Corporate Office." Now, we used to get these even when we were our own separate little entity, with no other offices to speak of. And even now, I'm not aware of the existence of some distant division within our organization called, mysteriously, "Corporate Office." Even if we did have such a thing, I doubt very seriously that they'd be spending their time forwarding fabulous travel offers to their employees.

This unending stream of scams we are subject to is an area where a certain amount of cynicism can serve a person well. I've never been particularly proud of my occasionally suspicious nature, but there are times when being a bit skeptical is your best weapon against being scammed out of a little, or a lot, of cash, not to mention pride. It seems prudent, then, to not be afraid to ask lots of questions, balk when pressured to comply with what seems like a suspicious request, and in situations like the "demon scam," don't hesitate to let the police know what's going on. Most importantly, when in doubt, hang up the phone, for goodness sake.

Take for example the phone call I've received, twice now, where the cheerful caller asks me to allow his organization to set up a sample web-site for our business, free of charge. All I have to do is answer a few simple questions, just verifying information, and have my answers taped for their records. Oh, and that part where they ask me, in so many words, if I'll authorize the purchase of the website from them? Just say yes, says the guy on the other end of the line. He has no idea why they phrase it that way, he chuckles, that's not really what it means.

TO THE EDITOR:

As a mother, I am deeply concerned for the future of our children. The demipublicans and the republicrats have abandoned the working majority of citizens of this country. They are sacrificing our health, well-being, safety and future — to the highest bidder. They have become "front men" bought and owned by national and international corporations who would further their goal of globalization and consolidation of power at any cost.

The WTO is one of the tools used by corporations to cement their plutocracy into place. According to the Spring 2000 issue of The Amicus Journal, when the "Final Act Embodying the Results" was enacted on April 15, 1994, in Marrakech, it was recorded as a 550-page agreement that was then sent to Congress for approval. Ralph Nader offered to donate $10,000 to any charity of a congressman's choice if any of them signed an affidavit saying they had read it and could answer several questions about it. Only one — Senator Hank Brown, a Colorado Republican — took him up on it. After reading the document, Brown changed his opinion and voted against the agreement. There were no public hearings, dialogue, or education. What was approved was an agreement that gives the WTO the ability to overrule or undermine international conventions, acts, treaties, and agreements when it arbitrates trade conflicts between nations. The WTO directly violates "The Universal Declaration of Human Rights" adopted by member nations of the UN, not to mention Agenda 21 of the 1992 Earth Summit. The final Marrakech Agreement contained provisions that most of the delegates, even the heads of country delegations, were not aware of, statutes that were drafted by sub-groups of bureaucrats and lawyers, some of whom represented transnational corporations.

The demipublicans and republicrats have passed legislation that threatens our democracy and freedom by giving, through the WTO, ruling power to an unelected, unknown, unrecorded, three-judge tribunal in Switzerland which deliberates in secret closed meetings. There is NO press. NO public transcript, NO independent appeal. NO conflict of interest laws for judges.

And this secret tribunal has the power to overrule, undermine and effectively destroy 40 years of hard-fought, hard-earned environmental and social protection laws for the sole purpose of increasing corporate profits and power. Thus far, in every environmental dispute that has come before the WTO, its secret tribunal has ruled for business, and against the environment.

Thank God for the activists in Seattle who stopped ratification of the latest WTO draft agenda. Were it ever ratified, "the Europeans could no longer block or demand la-being on genetically modified crops without being slapped with punitive lawsuits and tariffs. The draft also contained proposals that would allow all the water in the world to be privatized. It would allow corporations patent protection on all forms of life, even genetic material in cultural use for thousands of years. Farmers who have spent thousands of years growing crops in a valley in India could, within a decade, be required to pay for their water." (The Amicus Journal, Spring 2000)

WAKE UP AMERICA!!! Our "leaders" are selling our Freedom, our Democracy, our Environment, and our future — to the highest bidder. It is no longer a matter of "left verses right" it is "top verses bottom." And the vast majority of Americans — the foundation of this country — are losing out.

At one recent fundraiser, the republicrats took in over 20 million dollars. Those dollars come with a price. Already, the world's top 200 companies have twice the assets of 80 percent of the world's entire population. Four years after Congress reduced welfare for individuals and families, corporate welfare continues to expand into every corner of the American economy. The Federal Gov. alone shells out $125 billion a year in corporate welfare from our tax dollars. This, while US CEO's salaries have risen 481% since 1990. This, while 70%-80% of working Americans have seen their wages go flat or go down in the 90s. This, while the average American is now earning less per hour, adjusted for inflation, than when Richard Nixon was President. This, while 40 million working Americans have no health insurance. This, while 47 million Americans are making less than $10 per hour — not a living wage. (Dept. of Labor) This, while 20% of American children live in severe poverty. As Jim Hightower says, "Prosperity for America, but not for Americans? That's a strange kind of prosperity."

And this is just the tip of the corrupt, unfair, unjust, unconscionable, iceberg that is ripping and tearing the fabric of society and the Web Of Life.

I believe there is only one party with the courage and commitment to address these issues. The Green Party, whose four pillars are: Social Justice, Grassroots Democracy, Ecological Wisdom, and Non-Violence. Ralph Nader is seeking the presidential nomination of the Green Party, to be voted on at the National Convention in June. If nominated, as he surely will be, Ralph Nader and the Green Party will get my vote. No longer will I throw my vote away on candidates who sell the trust and future of the American people! No longer will I be a pawn in their game.

Legal system is not providing protection

TO THE EDITOR:

I am a resident and business owner in Boyne City. In the past year I have had a kayak stolen from my boat well, a depth sounder from my boat kept in the yard, and two weeks ago my business was vandalized. To date nothing has been recovered and no one apprehended.

When I read that the gentleman in Emmet County not only prevented thieves from stealing his property, he was able to cause them enough damage so they were easily caught, I was delighted, then appalled to see that he was charged with a felony and the thieves a misdemeanor... I would like to know how this type of legal system is protecting me?

My phone calls to Emmet and Charlevoix County prosecutors office have as yet been unanswered. I am also concerned that since I didn't leave a life jacket with the kayak that was stolen, am I responsible if one of the thieves drowns? Personally I would like to give Mr. Fisher a hardy well done, and buy him another box of bird shot.

A MOM'S LIFE

Apologize and get over it

By CINDI PLACE

No one is perfect. And, I've finally learned, neither am I. Being a perfectionist is not an easy task. It is certainly not a trait that any parent would want to pass on to their children. But sometimes we don't have control over what our children get from us. Unless we realize that we do control our own behavior.

The first hint that one of our children had perfectionist tendencies was when he was drawing a picture of our family and, after completing the task, he realized that "mom" had been given the wrong color eyes. The child could not be consoled. Thus began our years of learning how to deal with a child who didn't want to make a mistake — ever.

The reality is that no one is absolutely perfect. We strive to do things right. We try very hard not to do something to harm another person or hurt their feelings. But, invariably, we mess up.

The secret, I think, is in learning to acknowledge our foibles and try to correct them. Even when we've done something that makes another person feel bad, we need to admit our mistake — and then move on. And our kids need to see that we can do just that.

What can sometimes make it difficult to "move on" is that the mistake we've made is hard or impossible to correct. And therein lies the rub. If we hurt someone's feelings, how do we make up for that? If we break someone's belongings, we can replace them. Same thing goes for losing something, or taking something that doesn't belong to us.

But a person's feelings are way too delicate to simply replace. And it takes a very special kind of person to accept the genuine apologies of someone who has hurt us.

So the lesson to our children should be this: try your best, but when you trip up, apologize, then get over it. And if someone hurts you somehow, understand that people are human and treating each other as we would want to be treated ourselves is a very important rule.

Who knows, they might make a mistake someday themselves.

A taste of local flavor

By ANGELA SHULTIS

It's early in the season yet, and while there are just a few booths set up this bright Saturday morning, customers are arriving in an increasingly steady stream to see what vendors are offering today. Warm greetings are exchanged, along with currency for various items including maple syrup, floral bouquets, strawberries, plants, baked goods, crafts, and, yes, robust red hydroponic tomatoes. And this is only the beginning of yet another bountiful season at the Boyne City Farmer's Market.

Though its inception is something of a mystery as no one seems to know when it was first established or who started it up, the consensus is that the market has been around for about 20 years or so, starting out as a small endeavour with just a few vendors, and depending on word of mouth to draw in customers. "It started out small," said longtime volunteer Mary Towne, who's been involved with the market for 15 years, "and it's getting bigger and bigger and bigger, which we like."

According to farmer Jim Ruster, who has been selling produce and maple syrup at the market since 1984, there "may have only been four or five vendors" to begin with. Over the last 16 years, though, Ruster said his business there "has grown tenfold at least."

Customers, they say, come not only from in town but all over the area, including Walloon Lake, Petoskey, and Harbor Springs. And resorters in the area are eager visitors to the event as well, year after year.

So while we don't know how it began, we do know that the farmer's market is a fixture in Boyne City, as much a part of summer here as sailboats on the lake and kids fishing in the Boyne River. And, having relied solely on word of mouth for advertising, what is it that keeps locals and visitors alike talking about it?

"I've heard different people say this is the best farmer's market they know of," Towne noted. "Everything's fresh, it's pretty. People just like to come and walk up and down and look at stuff."

And certainly quality and variety are a draw for the market. As the season progresses, customers will find berries, lettuce, spinach, asparagus, corn, tomatoes, beans, squash, apples, and all other manner of fresh fruit and vegetables. Homemade baked goods are favorite for many. A wide variety of perennials are available throughout the summer months. And crafters, over the years, have become an increasing presence.

The satisfaction of buying locally is also a selling point. "We don't sell Bay City melons, Florida tomatoes," Ruster said. "It's really to give people like us [locally] an outlet to do this." By buying from vendors at the market, "people are supporting a local economy," Ruster said, adding that while customers may be able to get green beans at the grocery store, "what they're supporting is a North Carolina farmer." And, besides that, "they don't know what they're getting on their food. Smaller farmers like us, our impact on the environment is minimal."

The farmer's market does serve a specific purpose though, beyond providing an outlet for local producers and crafters to sell their goods. The market falls under the auspices of the Boyne City Senior Center, and each participating vendor pays a fee to reserve a spot for the season. Proceeds are given to the senior center, to use both for its programs for area seniors as well as other community organizations.

It's the center's only fundraiser, said Sue Weir, who manages the farmer's market as part of her duties at the senior center. Last year, she said, the funds allowed the center to put new carpeting in the office, as well as make donations to Charlevoix Area Hospice, the Boyne Valley Garden Club, and Community Christmas Baskets.

"A lot of it goes right back to the people," Towne added, noting that the proceeds have also been used to help defray the costs of events like one coming up this week, with the center hiring a bus to take seniors out for dinner, meal provided, at a cost of only $3 each to the participating senior citizens.

But like the origins of the market itself, the origins of the market's connections to the senior center are uncertain, with Weir only noting that "City Hall gave it to the senior center, but I don't know how many years ago."

Underlying all these reasons, though, most vendors will tell you, the farmer's market is also, quite simply, a place for people to meet up with neighbors and friends, exchange a little chit chat, and just generally make a little good old-fashioned human contact. "It's gotten to be almost a social event," Ruster said. "So many people come for as much that as the vegetables."

And it's especially the seniors, too, that seem to enjoy stopping by the market just to chat and visit. Ruster notes that he has plenty of older customers who enjoy the market as something they can really relate to from their own past, with so many of the area's older population having grown up on farms themselves. Vendor Lucy Hartlove also notes that it's often the older customers who enjoy coming down just to talk and said that aspect of the market is particularly enjoyable for her as a vendor. "They're a wealth of information," she said.

Weir agrees that much of the market's appeal lies in its social value. "People come down to talk, to see friends and neighbors," she said. "[It's] just like a big meeting place."

And, ultimately, folks of all ages and walks of life show up year after year to take part in the market.

Vendors will be there throughout this summer, as always, on Wednesday and Saturday mornings in Old City Park, at the same time both offering up, and creating, a taste of the local flavor.

CLUBS & ORGANIZATIONS

East Jordan Garden Club

The East Jordan Garden Club recently held their first Millennium Plant and Fashion Show. The over $200 raised by the show went to benefit the Jordan Valley Watershed. The garden club is assisting in the development of their new location with native and educational plants, and ten bluebird houses are ready for installation at the watershed area.

Leading the parade of fashions and flowers was East Jordan Garden Club president Lucy Lercel, who shared her secrets to great gardening in northern Michigan. Luanne Reed dressed as "Second Hand Rose," and accompanied by the song of the same name, received lots of applause. Other club members participating included Martha Annear with a Mona Lisa lily, Marilyn Jesick modeling an old-fashioned flower called the Martha Washington Geranium, past-president Shirley Butcher dressed as a lovely spring bride; Fred Vollbach sharing the Agapanthus, or Lily of the Nile, and Ginny Carey who has her own "Angel Ashlee Flower Garden," and is the chairman of the flower boxes on the bridge in East Jordan. Ray and Joanne Dalto portrayed "Adam and Eve," and featured the Snake Plant.

Refreshments and flower and plant sales followed to make the evening a success. Garden club member Jean Pardee and committee members are already working on next year's show.

The annual Picnic and Plant Exchange will be held for all club members Monday, June 19, at 12 noon at Elm Pointe. Participants are asked to bring a dish to pass.

The East Jordan Garden Club is a member of the Federated Garden Clubs of Michigan and the National Federated Garden Club.

American Legion Post #228

At the June 1 meeting of American Legion Post #228 of Boyne City, Past Department Commander Al Ford performed the installation service for the newly elected officers: Commander, Jerry Evans; Adjutant, John Mathers; Sr. Vice Commander, Pete Fasky; Finance Officer, James Bates; Service Officer, Jim Wicker; Judge Advocate, Howard Crozier; Chaplain, Maxine Hough; Historian, James Bates.; Vice Commander, Kerry Woiteshek; and Sgt.-at-Arms, Fred Leyh.

At the meeting following the installation, plans for were made for Flag Day, June 24, when the ceremony of retirement of unserviceable flags will be held at Veterans Memorial Park at 7 p.m. Participation in the Fourth of July parade was discussed. The Lionesses have been selling mints to the public through cooperating local businesses. Lioness Linda Poole reports that mint containers are in most businesses in East Jordan and sales are strong.

GRANDVUE BIDS CLAUDIA LIBBEY A FOND FAREWELL

Moving on to new adventure

For dietary foods supervisor Claudia Libbey, Grandvue Medical Care Facility has not only been her place of employment for the last 28 years, it's been a presence in her life since childhood.

"I grew up in the neighborhood," Claudia said. She visited Grandvue as a child with her church to perform for residents. Her family members, which included local farmers, helped provide hay for the cattle facility kept back in the early days.

And after high school graduation and "a little college," Libbey found herself working at Glen's Market, where she first learned about food service. In 1972, Claudia applied at Grandvue, and was hired as a dishwasher.

Eleven years later, she took over as the dietary food supervisor, a position she's held ever since.

"She worked in the dietary department even before she became a dietary manager," said Lynn Carson, who has worked with Claudia for all of her 28 years. "She had a natural interest in the field, and went ahead and pursued it."

Over the years, Claudia's seen a lot of changes at Grandvue, most of which have to do with the types of residents that are cared for there. Twenty-eight years ago, "people that were sick stayed in the hospital for longer periods." Now, she said, hospital stays are limited by such things as insurance, so many folks that are at the end stages of a terminal illness, or who've been diagnosed with a chronic disease such as Alzheimer's, are now admitted at Grandvue.

Another change over the years has come in the form of an increase in state regulation. "We have a lot more people doing paperwork," Claudia said. And networking has become an important part of keeping up on the latest information.

In food service, though, Claudia said, one goal is to keep traditions going, to allow residents to enjoy some of the food they're used to. "Our menus reflect the food of the region," she said. "Many of these people are farmers. They're meat and potatoes people." Claudia and her staff focus on providing nutritious and appropriate food while utilizing old standards where they can. Many residents, for instance, will eat custard or bread pudding when they're not interested in much else, and these put a little protein and milk in their diets while providing a food the residents enjoy. The food service at Grandvue, under Claudia, has also maintained certain Grandvue traditions over the years, including bacon every Sunday, and ice cream with lunch on Sundays.

She's also been involved with supplying food for public events at Grandvue, and, according to Carson, "she's very creative . . . about how we're going to pull a barbecue off. She's landed on her feet when we gave her a request."

The best part of her job, though, has been getting to know the residents, and, at the same time, getting to know a lot of the history of the area. She noted patients who, having grown up in the Depression, would become upset when they were given too much food. "They couldn't stand to waste," she said.

And one of the most satisfying things has been seeing some people who started out as kitchen staff go on to pursue medical careers, based on their experiences with residents and medical staff.

For Claudia though, her time as the dietary manager for Grandvue is coming to a close. Her husband of four years, Kent Libbey, has returned to his job with the military at the armory in Montague, near Muskegon, and Claudia is anxious to join him. They'll do that for "eight or nine" years, and then true retirement, she hopes, will bring them back full-time to the home they'll keep in East Jordan. And while Claudia isn't sure what she'll do with her time, be it volunteering or finding a new job, she knows she won't be able to stay idle for long.

Her feelings about leaving are mixed; "Some of it's sad, but it's a new adventure, too," she said.

And, she added, with plans to help out at the annual picnic and other events on the horizon. "I don't expect I'll be completely away from Grandvue."

Dietary food supervisor Claudia Libbey will be leaving her position at Grandvue on June 16. She will join her husband in Montague, Mich., where he is employed by the military.

Fill your diet with fresh fruits and vegetables

BY SUE SHENK

June is National Fruit and Vegetable month. It is recommended that we eat two to four fruit servings and three to five vegetable servings per day.

4-H news

Wash all fresh produce thoroughly under running water to remove dirt and grime. Even scrub those with firm surfaces, for example melons, squash, etc. Bacteria can grow in damaged or bruised areas of the produce so cut those spots away. Keep any cut produce refrigerated. Always keep raw meats, poultry, or seafood from dripping juices on to raw fresh produce. Wash your hands and clean the cutting board before preparing fresh fruits and vegetables to prevent any cross contamination of bacteria. Above all, enjoy all the fresh Michigan produce that will be available during the summer and fall months.

Who eats more fruits and veggies? If you live in the west and northeast sections of the U.S. you are more apt to eat more fruits and vegetables according to a report from Dec. 17, 1999 Morbidity and Mortality Weekly Report.

Leaving with fond memories

(Editor's note: Following are brief profiles on area educators and school personnel who are retiring as of the end of the school year.)

BOYNE CITY

ED SNYDER ELEMENTARY SCHOOL PRINCIPAL

After his retirement is official on June 30, Snyder intends to do what most retirees would. "I plan to spend time doing some projects that have been on hold," he said. "We plan to travel, camp and do other hobbies as time permits."

Snyder, who worked at Melrose School in Walloon Lake and for Petoskey Public Schools before coming to Boyne City, has a total of 36 years in education, 35 of which have been spent as a principal.

Of his 29 years in Boyne City, Snyder said one special accomplishment that stands out for him is the implementation of the Responsible Thinking Process, "and the changes it brought to our building." And, he said, "the Recognition Award from the child abuse council had a very special meaning to me."

As for what he will most fondly remember of his tenure as principal, Snyder said, "I think the smiles, friendly hellos, and hugs from the students are some of my fondest memories. These little acts are what let you know that all your efforts are worthwhile." In addition, he said, "I will remember working with a terrific staff that always put children first."

JUDY ANTHONY SECRETARY

"I was asked by Ed [Snyder] to sub for two days — 27 and a half years later, I'm ready to retire," is how Judy Anthony describes her tenure as secretary at Boyne City Elementary School.

Over the years, Anthony said she has seen lots of changes at Boyne City Elementary School, including moving into a new building, and the advent of the computer age. What she will remember most, though, is "making so many great friends over the years, and watching the kids come in as kindergartners and the same kids graduate 13 years later."

In her retirement, Anthony plans to enjoy the simple things in life; of her plans, she said she'll "catch up on things at home, go camping, spend time with my kids and grandchildren."

MARY ELLEN MORGRIDGE SECOND GRADE TEACHER

"I remember when we moved from the present day middle school into the new elementary building," said Morgridge. "It was an exciting time. Halloween parades around the football field, Christmas programs and picnics at Whittings Park bring back good memories."

And such memories are what Morgridge will carry into retirement with her, after 32 years of teaching in Boyne City. Morgridge and her husband Bob, who taught at the high school, will make family the focus of retirement, and plan to enjoy all the perks northern Michigan has to offer, including traveling, hiking, biking, and playing golf.

Her greatest accomplishment in life, she said, has been "raising four wonderful sons." But, she said, "teaching so many great students over the past 32 years along with the help of supportive parents has also been an accomplishment."

STAN HOOVER FOURTH GRADE TEACHER

"I came from Arizona to visit my parents-in-law during the summer of 1971," Hoover said. He took a leave of absence from his job, fully intending to return, but upon hearing of an opening at Boyne City Elementary, he applied, was hired, and has "been here ever since."

Two things really stand out in Hoover's mind of the time he's spent at BCES — one being a ceramic nativity his class made a few years back, inhabited by an odd menagerie of alligators, dogs, "unusual camels," wise men, angels, and the holy family. "What a treat it is to put these out each year," he said.

The other is the plaques he's made over the years for his students. "I occasionally hear from a former student, 'I still have the plaque you made for me,'" he said.

Hoover's lawn service will keep him occupied for the summer, and then after that, he hopes to spend time visiting his children and grandchildren out of state.

PAUL VOORHEIS FOURTH GRADE TEACHER

Besides being an educator, Voorheis is a professional musician, a vocation he intends to continue pursuing in his retirement. Voorheis plays guitar and sings with a group called the "Keelhaulers," and hopes to "spend more time performing." He'll also find time, he said, to do some golfing and travel to Minnesota to visit his granddaughter.

Voorheis came to Boyne City Public Schools in 1973, after stints teaching in Cherry Hill and Petoskey Public Schools.

The most remarkable thing about the time he's spent at Boyne City Elementary, according to Voorheis, is "watching 'my kids' grow up and become responsible adults."

CHRIS RICE KINDERGARTEN TEACHER

Rice says she, along with her husband Fred, who is retiring from the high school, will be "taking life at a slower pace," and enjoying gardening, kayaking, fishing, and traveling.

She's spent the last 31 years at Boyne City Elementary, and has taught kindergarten, first, second, and fourth grades.

Britton will make good use of her newly-acquired "spare time" to attend her grandchildren's games and concerts, play with her new great-grandson, and visit with her 96-year-old mother. She also plans to spend time on photo scrapbooks, her family's genealogy, and "dig into my craft room and work on projects I've been putting aside."

BARBARA MARTIN COUNSELOR

Spending time with a new grandbaby tops the list of retirement activities for Martin, though she also looks forward to "enjoying our other home in St. Augustine, Fla. and skiing on uncrowded days."

Of her days at Boyne City Middle School, she said, "There have really been so many nice students and families that I've worked with that no one thing jumps out, but one area I remember fondly is working with Rick Casper and the great group in the class of '87, I think, to get the first Advanced Placement Class offered and giving the test and celebrating afterward."

She's been active on many advisory boards and committees over the years, but she said, "I'm particularly proud of my academic advocacy activities on behalf of Boyne City's highly academically able students."

FREDERIC RICE HIGH SCHOOL SOCIAL STUDIES TEACHER

His most special achievement as a teacher is, Rice said, "Being able to say 'I have enjoyed being with my students every year.'"

Rice, who doesn't consider this a retirement but rather a "passage," plans to travel with his wife, and spend more time with his kids and "sitting under a palm tree the first year." Then, he hopes to find himself working in education once again.

For this segment of his education career, though, Rice will remember "all the wonderful students, 'classes,' and staff that I have been with during my time in Boyne."

Also having coached sports in Boyne for 31 years, and specifically tennis over the last 23, is, he said, "super memorable."

"Thanks, Boyne, for all the great times."

DON HICKS LIBRARIAN

Hicks came to Boyne City High School in 1962, after having taught in Akron/Fairgrove and Alma. He's "always been a librarian" but also taught Spanish in the late 60s and early 70s.

Hicks taught driver education for 20 years in Boyne City, and also directed the plays in the 60s, though, he said, "they never compare to the musicals we now produce."

He and his wife Janice plan to do a little traveling, and then "settle down to cleaning out 22 years of accumulations and getting back to working with ceramics and porcelain reproduction dolls." Spending time with grandchildren and great-grandchildren also ranks high on the list of retirement activities.

"It would be difficult to pull our special memories that are the 'fondest' but I think I can say that working with young people has been the greatest reward anyone could have," Hicks said. "It makes me feel like an 18-year-old kid even though the body is in its 60s."

GLEN IRWIN SCIENCE TEACHER

After 35 years in education, 31 of those spent in Boyne City, Irwin said he has "nothing in mind" for his retirement, intending to take it easy, and likely do a little traveling.

Having spent most of his time in Boyne City as a counselor and only the last three in teaching, Irwin said his fondest memories will be of "many incidents of working with and building relationships with some super kids and also some good staff people."

EAST JORDAN

SUE STEGGALL FIFTH GRADE TEACHER

When she retires at the end of this school year, Steggall will be most proud of "those students with which a special connection exists and have continued to come visit me over the years."

Steggall, who grew up and graduated from high school in East Jordan, has lots of plans for retirement, including traveling and visiting with grandchildren, reading and spending more time on the computer, as well as to "sleep in" and "most importantly, spend more than fleeting moments with my wonderful husband Tom."

But she will not forget the school that was such a significant part of her life, remembering "the very special fifth grade team members and other staff with which I have had the opportunity to work. I am sorry that my principal, Chuck Hershberger, was not here for my last year of teaching."

Sue Steggall is retiring from teaching fifth grade in East Jordan.

APOLOGIES GO OUT to Colleen Smith and Lisa Luebke, office personnel of Litzenger Place. An unintentional oversight on my part excluded them from last week's report of the good time at the summer kick-off barbecue. It was an all staff effort in making it the success it was. Colleen and Lisa and their families were there too, and all enjoyed taking part.

"IT WAS JUST WONDERFUL," said Rose Reinhardt. Ninety years old, Rose thoroughly enjoyed the many many friends and relatives, from near and far, and the cards and gifts, birthday cake and other moments of

After a honeymoon trip to Jamaica, the newlyweds will be at home in Ann Arbor, where they are both teachers.

THE WISDOM TOOTH
DIABETES and ORAL HEALTH
A number of factors increase the probability of developing periodontal disease, including diabetes, smoking, poor oral hygiene, diet and generic makeup; and it is the primary cause of tooth loss in adults.
What types of problems could I experience?
Diabetics may experience diminished salivary flow and burning mouth or tongue. Dry mouth (xerostomia) also may develop, causing an increased incidence of decay. Gum recession has been found to occur more frequently and more extensively in moderate- and poorly-controlled diabetic patients because plaque responds differently, creating more harmful proteins in the gums. To prevent problems with bacterial infections in the mouth, your dentist may prescribe antibiotics, medicated mouth rinses, and more frequent cleanings.
How can I stay healthy?
Make sure to take extra good care of your mouth and have dental infections treated immediately. Diabetics who receive good dental care and have good insulin control typically have a better chance at avoiding gum disease.
Diet and exercise may be the most important changes that diabetics can make to improve their quality of life and their oral health.
Diabetic patients should be sure both their medical and dental care providers are aware of their medical history and periodontal status. To keep teeth and gums strong, diabetic patients should be aware of their blood sugar levels in addition to having their triglycerides and cholesterol levels checked on a regular basis. These may have a direct correlation on your chances of obtaining periodontal disease.
What is the best time to receive dental care?
If your blood sugar is not under control, talk with both your dentist and physician about receiving elective dental care. Dental procedures should be as short and as stress-free as possible. Also make morning appointments because blood glucose levels tend to be under better control at this time of day.
If you have a scheduled appointment, eat and take your medications as directed. See your dentist on a regular basis, keep him or her informed of your health status, and keep your mouth in good health.

SPORTS

Regional Champions

A trip to the regional tournament on Saturday became a thing dreams are made of for the East Jordan Red Devils varsity baseball team, who returned home with a first-ever regional title for East Jordan, and a ticket to District III State Competition.

Game one against Leroy Pine River found the Red Devils up 1-0 in the third inning. Pine River came back to tie in the fourth, but East Jordan rallied to score four runs in the fifth, and one final run in the sixth inning to win the game with a final score of 6-1.

On the mound, winning pitcher Jon Bennett gave up four hits, two walks, and had eight strike-outs. "He pitched an outstanding game," said East Jordan coach Bruce Harger. "He really dominated their hitters."

For East Jordan, top hitters included Jeff Kraemer with a single and a double, Bennett with a single and a two-run homer, Nathan Diller with a double, Nick Karaszewski with two singles, and Kris Lifer with a single.

Game two found the Red Devils matched up with Rogers City in a nail-biter. Rogers City was up by two in the top half of the second inning, with the Red Devils coming back to score six runs in the bottom of the second. East Jordan scored one in the fourth, and Rogers City scored one in the fifth, with East Jordan scoring their final run in the sixth. Two runs for Rogers City in the sixth, and then two more in the seventh, kept East Jordan on their toes. "They kept chipping away," said Harger. "They have such a quality program. There was definitely a sense of relief with that last out."

Willy Wisner started on the mound for East Jordan, giving up five runs, two walks, 12 hits, and striking out five. After Wisner pitched five and one-third innings, Bennett got the save, giving up

Sliding into home, an East Jordan player scores one of his team's six runs in their first win of the tournament.

Tennis lessons begin at Rotary

The newly-organized Charlevoix County 4-H Community Tennis program begins summer sessions this week.

The program offers three, three-week sessions of instruction and play for kids ages 5-14, with times available for ages 15-19 on request. All classes will be held at Rotary Park in Boyne City.

Session one will run from June 12-30, session two from July 10-28, and session three from July 31-Aug. 18. Classes are held on Tuesday, Wednesday, and Thursday. Ages 5-9 attend from 5:30-6:30 p.m., and 10-14 year olds attend from 6:30-7:30 p.m.

The cost for the program is $20 per child per session.

Instructors for the summer sessions are Raeann Beck, Tammy Dalto and Joanne Dalto. A fall session will also be offered, with instructor Ken Kruzal.

The new program was initiated by local resident Kruzal, who taught tennis through the city recreation department. The city later discontinued the program, but Kruzal, who played tennis for four years in Boyne City and four years at Lake Superior State University, felt there was still a need for one, and took the idea to the county 4-H office.

The idea was originally to offer classes for kids ages 5-14, but after having several high school students inquire about classes, it was decided to offer instruction for kids up to age 19.

The instructors are volunteers, and Kruzal said the program could still always use more, either with tennis experience, or simply the desire to help out. To volunteer, call Kruzal at 582-9897.

To register, visit the 4-H office at 319B N. Lake St. in Boyne City, or for more information, call 582-6232.

ASHLEY L. SCHRADER of Boyne City has been named to the Dean's List at Saginaw Valley State University for the Winter 2000 semester.

SERVICE BRIEFS

Army Pfc. JENNIFER D. LEHTO of Boyne City has been decorated with the Army Commendation Medal. The Medal is awarded to those individuals who demonstrate outstanding achievement or meritorious service in the performance of their duties on behalf of the Army.

Lehto is a material management assistant with Headquarters and Command at Camp Casey, Tonquduchon-Up, South Korea.

She is the daughter of Paulette M. and Fred L. Lehto of Boyne City and is a 1998 graduate of Boyne City High School.

JOSEPH M. LANSING of East Jordan has joined the United States Army under the Delayed Entry Program at the U.S. Army Recruiting Station in Petoskey. Lansing, a 2000 graduate of East Jordan High School, will report to Fort Jackson, Columbia, S.C., for basic training on June 16.

He is the son of Robin Gagnon and Mark Lansing, both of East Jordan.

Freedom Festival in need of donations

With the big event just a week away, the East Jordan Freedom Festival is still in need of donations to help cover the costs of many popular features of the weekend, including the annual fireworks display and musical entertainment.

"They've been working hard," Faculak said of the organizers, noting the "spectacular entertainment" lined up, such as the appearance of internationally-known musical group Riders in the Sky, and the return of the Zambelli International Inc. fireworks display. Still, "funds are needed," Faculak said.

For more information, or to make a donation, call the chamber at 536-7351.

BC Chamber sponsors flower challenge

It's the perfect time of year to get those flowers planted, and for downtown Boyne City businesses, what they plant just might get them noticed in the first ever Downtown Boyne City Flower Bed Challenge.

Business owners who would like to participate should plant flowers of their own choice in the tree-well located in front of their business, and keep it watered and weeded throughout the summer. The week before Labor Day, community members will cast votes at the Chamber of Commerce for the most attractive and well-cared for flower bed in the downtown area.

The winning business owner will have their picture in The Citizen-Jordan Journal, and will receive a gift certificate for dinner for two at One Water Street.

For more information, call Chris Carleton at 582-1148.

two runs, two walks, and one strike-out.

Top hitters for East Jordan were Kraemer with a double and two singles, Nate Skop with two doubles, Matt Birgy and Diller with two singles each, Bobby Nichols with a double, Karaszewski with a double, and Rob Vincent and Lifer with a single apiece.

The Red Devils traveled to Gaylord Tuesday night for their first game of the State Tournament against defending division III state champs Saginaw Nouvel. "They're very excited to get to this point," Harger said of the team. "It's the first time they've ever won a regional, but it isn't necessarily uncharted water for them. Most of the boys have been to little league state finals. They know the level of baseball that will be played from here on out."

Of their quarterfinal opponent, Saginaw Nouvel, Harger said, "We have a lot of respect for them, but we're not going to be in awe of them. [We'll] play our game, and if we do that, we'll do fine."
