It's official

Though the expanded and renovated Boyne District Library opened its doors in May, plenty of folks turned out to help celebrate the library's official grand opening and dedication ceremony on Saturday, June 23. Cutting the obligatory ribbon were Mary K. Peabody Foundation board member Bob Wagner, library director Nannette Miller, Peabody Foundation board member Frances Fisher, library board president Christopher Fair, and project architect Dick Moake. A program was later held in the new community room, with refreshments and tours.

Effort underway to recall EJ commissioner

Last week, the Charlevoix County Election Commission approved wording of a petition which calls for the recall of East Jordan City Commissioner Shane Williams.

The petition was brought to the commission by local citizens and businessmen Mike Burr and Jack Vincent, who cite several alleged violations by Williams of the city charter in their recall effort.

Burr and Williams both noted separately that the approval of the petition wording did not indicate whether the allegations made therein are true or false.

The hearing, said Burr, was merely to assure clarity. "It doesn't have to be truthful," he said.

Of course, he added, he stands behind the allegations. "I can substantiate all of this through letters [Williams] has written [to the city commissioner and city administrator David White]," Burr said.

The allegations in question stem back to a recent furor concerning the East Jordan Fire Department in which Williams inquired into safety and leadership issues within the department. The issue, which erupted at several city commission meetings, was recently put to rest, with areas of concern scheduled to be addressed, and a mediation process to handle personnel concerns within the department scheduled to begin Wednesday, June 27.

Burr and Vincent charge, though, that during that process, Williams violated the city charter by "threatening to have the East Jordan Fire Chief removed," stating that he would seek the city administrator's replacement if he did not address fire department issues, and seeking to investigate affairs and operations of the department without a resolution of the city commission.

Though Burr and Vincent were not involved in the issue itself, they both personally felt the manner in which it was conducted was "out of hand."

"Our city doesn't need this," Burr said. The two did some research on what they would need to do to put together a recall petition. After collaborating on the verbiage of the petition, Burr then submitted it to Charlevoix County Clerk Jane Brannon.

Burr and Vincent now have 90 days to gather the 157 signatures to have the petition certified and to put the recall to a vote.

Williams, for his part, denies any wrongdoing. "The only thing clear to me is they don't have their facts straight," he said. "What he's written [in the petition] is not true."

According to Williams, sections of the charter cited in the petition are only quoted in part, and when looked at in the full context of the document take on a different meaning.

Williams noted that part of the correspondence referred to in the petition was a letter that the commissioner had requested he write outlining his concerns, and that according to city charter, he has "every right as a commissioner to ask for [White's] replacement."

He also maintains that he has never threatened to fire the fire chief, adding that as a commissioner, per the city charter, "I can make recommendations."

Mary Jason is interim, for now

At a special meeting on Friday, June 29, the Boyne City Board of Education appointed interim high school principal Mary Jason to the position of temporary interim superintendent is in place.

Jason, who has served as interim principal at Boyne City High School since the beginning of the 2000-01 school year, will hold the position only until an official interim superintendent is in place.

Prior to her appointment as interim principal, Jason served as the district's community education director. Jason has been the president of the East Jordan Board of Education for more than 20 years, and in 2000 was named to the Michigan Board of Education Hall of Fame.

"There's a state law [that states] we have to have someone appointed superintendent," said school board president Marty Moody at last week's meeting. The special meeting was called with 24-hour notice in order to fulfill that requirement.

Jason's duties will terminate at the time that an interim is appointed. The board, according to Moody, is cur-

Boyne City gears up for a fun-filled Fourth of July

Hard to believe, but it's already time again for the colorful and patriotic celebration of the Fourth of July in Boyne City. Through the year, the Fourth of July committee members have worked hard to make sure the holiday is packed with fun for all members of the family.

The first event planned for the holiday week is the second annual Waterfront Revival and Festival of Praise, to be held in Veterans Memorial Park on Sunday, July 1, beginning at 3 p.m. Boyne City church groups will sponsor the second annual event, which will feature music, drama, and evangelists from local churches. Words of testimony, encouragement and Gospel messages will be shared.

Church sponsored groups raising money for missions and the Jesus Film project will sell food and beverages in the park. The "Pastor Dunk Tank" will raise money for a concert with Jim Cole, scheduled for July 7.

On Tuesday, July 3, the 25th annual Waterside Art and Craft Show will kick off in Veterans Park, continuing on Wednesday, July 4. Also on Tuesday, the second annual Boyne City High School All-Class reunion will take place in Veterans Park beginning at 1 p.m.

Wednesday, July 4, will be packed with activities, including lots of old favorites such as the 23rd annual Independence Day Race, the Rotary Chicken Barbecue, the 13th annual Duck Race, and the Boyne City Yacht Club's Parade of Boats.

One of the day's highlights, the Grand Parade, will kick off at 10 a.m., with Grand Marshal honors this year going to Betty Kelts. Also holding a special place in the parade will be this year's honored organization, Challenge Mountain Volunteers. To register a float or group for the parade, call Vera Post at 582-7124.

No parade, or course, is complete without a band, and though members of the Boyne City High School band will be marching, organizers are putting out the word that community members are invited to dust off that trombone in the back of the closet and join in as well. Music will be available ahead of time or at the parade, and will likely include the school fight song as well as some tunes approprirently working with Char-Em Intermediate School District superintendent Mark Ekhardt to determine the process for selecting an interim, and will also work with leadership services facilitator Tim Quinn.

Moody also said that the board has received correspondence from an elementary school principal in Grand Ledge expressing an interest in the position.

The personnel committee will continue to work on searching for an interim, though no timeline has been established.

Though a search for a permanent superintendent will take place in the future, Moody said that "now is not the time to look." Board vice president Cathy Allen noted that most qualified candidates will have already interviewed for jobs or taken job offers by this time of year. Ekhardt has suggested the board wait until February 2002 to begin their search, though Moody indicated that the board may wish to start sooner.

The public will be part of the interview process, said Moody. Citizens will be included on the panel to interview candidates, and will also be able to attend meetings and interviews conducted throughout the process.

Another special board meeting is scheduled for Wednesday, June 27, to hold a public hearing for the 2001-02 budget. The meeting will be held at 7 p.m. at the high school. The next regular board meeting is Monday, July 9 at 7:30 p.m. Both meetings will be held in the high school home economics room.

ate for the holiday. Band members will wear white shirts for the parade. For more information, or to get copies of the musical selections for the day, call 582-0677.

For the kids, there will be an Eta Nu Clown Balloon and Flag Sale; children's games, a petting farm and pony rides; as well as a clown and magic show.

And for youngsters with a creative bent, there will be plenty of opportunities to show off your artistic flair — deck out your bikes (and yourselves!) for the children's bike and costume judging at 9:30 a.m. at the middle school playground, or get to work on your very own signature soap box for the derby to be held at 4 p.m.

The derby, which will start at the top of the Park Street hill, will have three divisions. Junior Division I requires official soap box wheels, a maximum 36-inch wide chassis; a maximum of 60 inches between axles, and a minimum of three wheels. In the Junior Division II, any wheel other than official soap box derby wheels are allowed, with a tires a maximum of 12 inches; and a maximum 36-inch wide chassis. In the Open Division, 13-26 inch tires are allowed, with a maximum 36-inch wide chassis and a maximum of 60 inches between axles.

All drivers are required to wear motorcycle-type safety helmets, and all vehicles must have dependable steering and braking systems. Only one person allowed per vehicle. To pre-register, or for more information, call Adam Handwerk or Chris Jones at Great Lakes Motor Works, 582-9100.

Musical entertainment will be provided through the afternoon by Northern Nites at the bandshell in Veterans Park, and food, games, and concessions stands will also be available throughout the day.

No Fourth of July celebration would be complete, of course, without fireworks, and those in Boyne City will not be disappointed, with a big fireworks display scheduled to begin over Lake Charlevoix at about 10:30 p.m.

For a full schedule of events, see pages 8 and 9).

Organizers are still in need of volunteers and funding to help pull the day off in the traditional style. To volunteer an hour or two, or to make a donation, call Liz Kroondyk at 582-9701.

EJ recall

The following is the wording of the petition submitted by Michael Burr and Jack Vincent to the Charlevoix County Clerk in an effort to recall city commission Shana Williams:

HE HAS FAILED IN THE RESPONSIBILITIES OF HIS OFFICE, IGNORED HIS OATH TO UPHOLD AND PROTECT OUR CITY CHARTER, AND HAS BECOME A DESTABILIZING FORCE WITHIN THE CITY GOVERNMENT BY:

A. Making serious allegations against the East Jordan Fire Department and its employees about its ability to perform its responsibilities without consideration for the legal and financial liabilities to the Taxpayers of East Jordan.

B. Violated the City Charter (Sec. 3.04c) by continually interfering with the day to day operation of the city by demanding in a letter written 5-07-2001 that the City Administrator address issues of the Fire Department or he will ask for his replacement.

C. Violated the City Charter (sec. 3.04b) by threatening to have the East Jordan Fire Chief removed if the City Administrator did not remove him.

D. Violated the City Charter when he sought to investigate into the affairs and operations of the East Jordan Fire Department without a resolution of the City Commission asking and permitting him to do so.

Seniors had a great all-night party

On June 3, Boyne City High School Seniors enjoyed a successful All-Night Party sponsored by BACPAC (Boyne Area Concerned Parents for Alternative Choices for Drug-Free Youth).

They enjoyed PLENTY of food including dinner served to them at Boyne Mountain. After dinner they were transferred to Boyne City Lanes, which was gracious enough to close the lanes for the party all night.

Some of the wonderful activities enjoyed throughout the evening were all-night bowling, open pool tables, and time capsule videos from their seventh grade year.

BACPAC would like to take this opportunity to thank all of the volunteers and individual business and community organization donors that made this night possible.

There's nothing like Old glory

TO THE EDITOR:

Memorial Day and Flag Day have come and gone this year and Independence Day and Veterans Day are still to come and all these days include the American Flag as an important part of these patriotic observances.

Do you still get a lump in your throat when veterans, young and old, proudly lift Old Glory as they participate in local parades or when Old Glory is removed from the coffin of an American serviceman, properly folded and given to the loved one of his family?

The American Flag, whether in celebration of victory, unselfish service or devotion to duty, has always been a beacon of light, hope and the unyielding spirit that is the greatness of this country.

Isn't it ironic that the only place in this country where it is illegal to burn an American Flag is in front of the United States Supreme Court Building? The American Civil Liberties Union (ACLU) and many other special interest groups consider the American Flag "just a piece of cloth."

If it were just a piece of cloth why would American Flags be lowered to half-mast to honor the memory of someone who has died?

If the American Flag were just another piece of cloth, why would the United States Senate start its business day with the Pledge of Allegiance? Why would embassies fly just a piece of cloth in a foreign land? And certainly, a grateful nation would not present just a piece of cloth to the loved ones of a deceased veteran in memory of honorable service.

Old Glory is the most recognized national banner on the planet, by friends and foes. From Bunker Hill to Gettysburg, Sirabachi to Kuwait, Old Glory was a constant companion and inspiration for those of us who fought for what is right. The American Flag has inspired us throughout our history, the values we fought for that make us the most respected nation on earth, values that are vital for our children and the future of this great nation.

River's friends recruiting members

TO THE EDITOR:

In last week's edition of The Citizen-Jordan Journal, there were two articles concerning solutions to combat water pollution in our river and lakes.

Tom Sheets, the co-founder of Friends of the Boyne River, authored a very informative picture of what we are about. He discussed ways to improve and conserve the environmental health and the recreational quality of the Boyne River and its watershed.

As the membership chairman, I invite you to join our fun, friendly group as individuals or families. This is also a reminder for present members to renew your membership! Your support will give us a working budget this busy summer season. We need people numbers, as we apply for grant monies.

Tip of the Mitt Watershed council hosted a public forum in Boyne City on June 14. Our group has been involved with many agencies that are working to correct water pollution in our area.

Membership dues are $15 individual, $25 family, $30 business, and $1 student.

To receive an application for Friends of the Boyne River or additional information call me at 582-7138 or Tom Sheets 582-5824.

Please renew your membership now or join our army of volunteers, pledged to save "The Boyne!"

Shopping at home has positive impact

TO THE EDITOR:

The glamour and glitz from the big city merchants with promises of lower prices and better deals may come with a lot of pitfalls.

Every time you shop out of town, you help pay someone else's taxes, support their schools and help them build new streets and facilities while you neglect your own. Part of every dollar you spend goes to supporting that city.

Hometown merchants contribute heavily to the community services you all share... work side-by-side with you on local projects, and do more than their share in supporting local charities, clubs and organizations.

By shopping elsewhere, we seriously undermine the economic structure that supports our schools, churches, businesses and everything else that makes our home town a great place to live and work.

Please take a closer look at what's available in your hometown and shop locally.

This spring, Anne Thurston, Boyne City Board of Education member, organized the third annual Senior Back to School event.

On June 14, the senior citizens were taken on a field trip to Traverse City, where they visited the Maritime Naval Academy and the Dennos Museum.

Departing early from the high school, the seniors traveled by school bus to the Maritime Naval Academy in Traverse City.

Staffers at the Academy showed the group around and provided lessons in navigation and boat handling.

One of the activities included an experience with a naval simulator that allowed the participants to experience helming a boat in various conditions.

Twenty-three seniors who participated in the Back to School field trip stand on the shore of Traverse Bay near the Maritime Naval Academy.

After enjoying a picnic lunch provided by volunteers, the group again boarded the bus and headed for the Dennos Museum, taking in the artifacts and artwork of the museum's featured exhibit on ancient Egyptians. Joining the 23 seniors, and helping Thurston with the lunch and other details were volunteers Jill Compton, her daughters Margaux and Katherine, Lynn Hall, and school nurse Jean Odgers.

Watershed council seeking sculpture designs

What do you get when you mix a building renovation for the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council's Freshwater Center and the Emmet and Charlevoix Counties Community Cultural Plan that calls for more public art? The Northern Watersheds Art Project!

The Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council is inviting Michigan artists to submit concept drawings for an outdoor sculpture to be installed at its new Freshwater Center in downtown Petoskey. The Northern Watersheds Art Project blends public art, downtown beautification, the environment, and science in celebration of Northern Michigan's water resources.

According to organizers, the Northern Watersheds Art Project provides a unique opportunity to join art and science in a way that celebrates the beauty of Northern Michigan's water, educates about its importance, and inspires people to enjoy and protect this amazing resource. This two stage project will result in the design, construction, and installation of an outdoor sculpture in downtown Petoskey. The first stage of the project involves selecting the design that best meets the goals of the project. The second stage involves constructing and installing the piece.

Thanks to a mini-grant from the Cheboygan Area Arts Council and the Michigan Council for Arts and Cultural Affairs, the Watershed Council has secured funding to pay artists for the design phase. A selection committee of area artists, individuals involved in the arts, and community leaders has been formed to review entries and ultimately select the final design.

Selection of the design will occur in two stages. Stage I is an open Call for Entries to Michigan artists for concept sketches of a piece of permanent outdoor sculpture that meets the design criteria. There is no entry fee, nor fee paid to artists for their submitted concept sketches. Deadline for submissions is July 16. Of the concept sketches received, up to eight semi-finalists will be chosen for Stage II of the selection process.

In Stage II, each semi-finalist will be asked to submit by Sept. 14, detailed construction drawings, a scale model of the sculpture, cost estimates, and descriptions of the construction and installation processes. Upon submission of these materials, each semi-finalist will be paid a flat fee of $500. The selection committee will choose the final design. The Watershed Council will then work to secure funding for construction and installation of the piece.

"The beauty of Northern Michigan's waters have inspired generations of writers, painters, and sculptors" said Wil Cwikiel, Water Resource Program Director. "We are very excited to be part of the movement to place art in public places and foster the celebration of waters through art. We encourage all artists to submit conceptual designs in response to this open call for entries."

The Watershed Council, with the assistance of the Selection Committee, has developed a Call for Entries that includes more details on the project, a site description, design criteria, and the required materials for submission. If you or an artist you know is interested in submitting designs for the sculpture, please call the Watershed Council at (231) 347-1181 or e-mail info@watershedcouncil.org. Information, including an electronic copy of the Call for Entries registration form, is also available at the Watershed Council's website - www.watershedcouncil.org.

Since 1979, the Tip of the Mitt Watershed Council has been the voice for Northern Michigan's waters. The Watershed Council is dedicated to protecting Northern Michigan's lakes, streams, wetlands, and ground water through respected advocacy, innovative education, technically sound water quality monitoring, and thorough research. The Watershed Council works locally, regionally, and throughout the Great Lakes Basin to achieve these goals. Their new office is located at 426 Bay St. (formerly Bay Street Orthopedics).

JRAC receives foundation grant

Recently, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation Board of Trustees voted to approve grants totaling $7,000 to the Jordan River Arts Council to further fund the restoration of the Art Center, located at 301 Main St. in East Jordan.

Of the total, $5,000 is from the East Jordan Enrichment Fund and $2,000 to be used for the landscaping is from a donor wishing to remain anonymous.

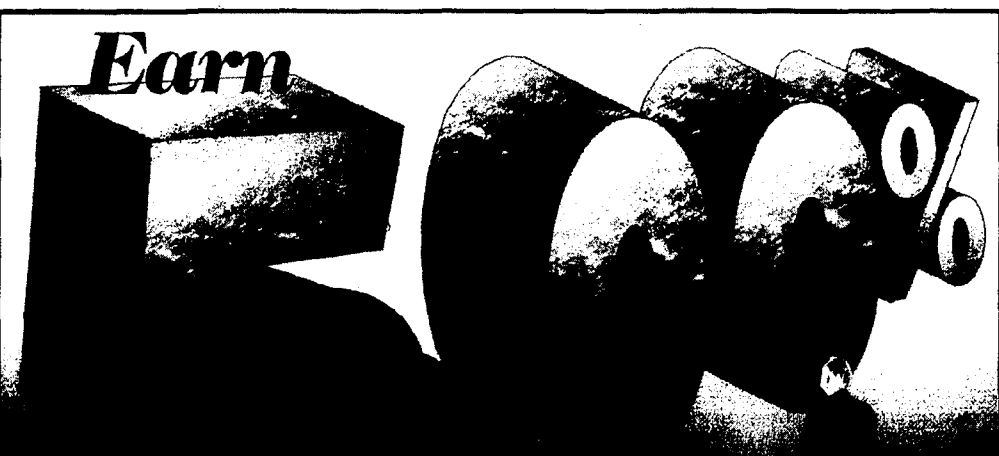

The funding is a continuation of grants received last year of $5,000 from the Community Foundation and $6,500 from the Frey Foundation which aided in the restoration of the main gallery and the new front doors.

According to Jordan River Arts Council president Jane Diller, work on the stairway has begun, bid contracts are let for the outside painting, and landscape architect Mark Robinson of East Jordan and Raleigh, N.C., has volunteered to help with the design.

The East Jordan Garden Club has also given funds and support for the landscaping, and outside railings, upgrading the plumbing, refinishing the the lower doors, and capping the chimney are also scheduled.

"We wish to thank CCCF for their continued support, not only for this grant for the restoration, but also for their past and continued support for JRAC programming," Diller said.

MARTY WARD RELEASES HIS SECOND SOLO ALBUM

In control of his own destiny

Marty Ward, local musician and founding member of the Jelly Roll Blues Band, has just released his second album, Miracles in Paradise.

Produced by Alan Hewitt in Los Angeles and mastered at Capital Studios in Hollywood, the highly acclaimed album features mostly original songs written by Ward, but also includes covers of Sarah McLachlan's "Angel," Van Morrison's "Someone Like You," and the Cars' "Drive." The songs are a blend of adult contemporary and pop, and feature Ward's sax and vocals.

Ward hopes that his album will offer "something for everybody." He says his goal in writing music is to connect with his listeners on an inspirational level.

"To me, music is all about inspiration," he says.

Born in northern Michigan, Ward was raised in Boyne City, where he first found his love for music. "At nine years old, playing guitar, I saw myself as a singer/songwriter," he said, "not a sax player." Of course, finding that he was good at the saxophone and receiving the "positive reinforcement" that went along with discovering that talent "took me on a course of it's own."

"Inwardly, I probably wanted to be a writer [like] Jackson Browne or James Taylor."

Ward graduated from the Interlochen Arts Academy and went on to study at Boston's Berklee College of Music, and by his early 20s, he had experienced phenomenal regional success as one of the founding members of the Jelly Roll Blues Band.

"It was the most magical experience," he says of the time he spent with the band. Arriving on the heels of the sedate early 80s music scene, Jelly Roll shook things up, racking up enthusiastic critical reviews and devotion from fans. The group opened for such legends as Ramsey Lewis and Earl Klugh.

In late 1982, though, Ward's musical aspirations took him to Chicago to team up with friend Alan Hewitt and his band, eighty-eight. The group was the premier band in Chicago, and appeared in the first season of TV's Star Search. National exposure had the group, and Ward, feeling as though they were on the verge of the next big thing. "We were on the fast track to fame," Ward said. "It was only a matter of time."

Ward's lifestyle, too, was in many ways, on the fast track. "I was living the thrust of the thing," he said. "There was lots of adulation." Living on the rush of impending stardom, though, has a price. "The universe will only take that [type of living] so long. I was not paying attention to what's important. My priorities were not terribly in line."

A serious car accident in 1984 brought Ward's career with eighty-eight to an end, and changed his life drastically. He sustained serious head injuries, fracturing his skull in two places, landing him the hospital with his chances of recovery in question.

Though he needed surgery, Ward spent seven hours lying in the hospital while staff attempted to get in touch with family members to give consent for the procedure.

When Ward's right side went paralyzed, the surgeons knew that he was in a life-threatening situation, and went ahead with surgery to remove a blood clot. Immediately, surgeons said, his right side came back. His parents, in the meantime, had finally been contacted and were on their way to his side.

The morning following his surgery Ward, who was not on any type of life support, needed to wake up for the first time. Unable to rouse him, his mother shouted his name, "Martin," as if she were at me as a little kid," he laughs. And he responded.

At that point, facing the possibility of a tremendous amount of physical therapy as well as the loss of his momentum on the fast track to fame, Ward began to look to the bigger picture. He asked himself, "why this happened to me."

One of the most interesting parts of the experience, Ward said, is that "from the minute

Boyne City native Marty Ward sings and plays sax on 12 tunes, including both original and cover songs.

she woke me up, I never had one inkling of fear [of not recovering]."

Two weeks after the accident, Marty walked out of the hospital, lucky to be alive.

Later, he said, "I knew [the accident happened] to set me on a different course." He did not, he adds, have a near-death experience, "I didn't see a white light," but, he added, "it wasn't supposed to be that way for me. This was a wake-up call for me."

The experience, he says, helped him develop the ability to deal with challenges, and laugh when things are difficult. "This was my spiritual awakening," he said. "My plan wasn't working."

Not, of course, that life's been a bowl of cherries since then. He's made mistakes, he said, "but my whole outlook has changed."

After spending several years in San Diego working as a senior vice president for a manufacturing firm, that experience helped Ward realize that music was where his true spirit could be found.

He remained in San Diego and released his first album, That's What Living Is. Reuniting with former bandmate Alan Hewitt, he worked on several other projects, including music for two Jane Fonda "Walk to the Music" workout tapes.

Recently, Ward has moved back to Boyne City. "I'd had 18 years of the city," he said. "It was time to come home to Michigan."

His music career, though, is moving full speed ahead, this time, though, with inspiration at its core. "As I started to write more music in the late 80s," he said, "I wanted songs to touch people in a way that makes them think about themselves and the way they go about things."

His music, despite its spiritual component, is not, he said, Christian music, though with record executives often trying to place him in the Christian music category, Ward has had to work to keep his music on the track he envisions for it. "It's not easy," he said. "It would be much easier for me to be in that marketplace."

But, he adds, "there is the market that responds to this type of music." His job, he said, is to market his work so that those who see his advertisements and hear his music "will get it."

Though working out of northern Michigan is a little unorthodox, perhaps, in the music world, it's not impossible. "The city really doesn't matter," he said, noting that the only reason a musician really needs to be in a major city is to perhaps hook up with other musicians for touring, etc. As far as a recording career goes, though, "the program director [at a radio station] doesn't care where they get [the artist] from. All the marketing tools are available to me as well." His stint at the marketing firm helps as well, giving Ward the opportunity to hone the skills he would need to move ahead with an independent music career.

Being independent has become important to Ward, who notes that "the reason I've done it myself is because [now artists] can. It still takes money, but you can do more on less." And he adds, maybe most importantly, "I can control my own destiny."

To that end, Ward released Miracles in Paradise in May, and is busy working to promote the work which, he hopes, will move people.

It's natural, then, as an artist bent on inspiring and motivating, Ward has teamed up with St. Jude Children's Research Hospital, one of the world's premier centers for research and treatment of catastrophic diseases in children, primarily pediatric cancers.

After approaching the organization and receiving their approval, Ward has decided to donate 50 percent of all net profits from album sales and concerts in support of the album to the hospital.

"Helping St. Jude Children's Research Hospital by giving them a percentage of the sales makes the whole process so much more invigorating and worthwhile," he says. "If it works, we both benefit in the end. It's good."

Ward is looking towards scheduling some concerts for the end of the summer, and may soon be playing at college campuses across the country at events planned for St. Jude Children's Research Hospital.

For updated tour dates and more information about Marty Ward, visit his website at www.martyward.net.

Copies of his new album are available at local music stores, including CD's Dot Com in Boyne City and On Cue and Recordworld in Petoskey, as well as area bookstores, including Boyne Country Books in Boyne City and Horizon Books in Petoskey.

The album is also available at Gallimaufry in Petoskey, and on Ward's website.

By NANCY NORTHUP

THE MONDAY STUDY Club met at One Water Street this past week for a delicious lunch and a very good meeting. Guest speakers were Tom Sheets and Larry Maltby. Larry, a retired engineer, and his wife Virginia have moved to this area from Dearborn and have joined in the fine efforts of the Friends of the Boyne River. Tom and Larry gave an interesting and informative presentation on the background of Friends of the Boyne River and just what they are trying to do, in keeping the river clean and safe for all to enjoy, including the fish. Club members were impressed and appreciated the awareness adventure.

THE ADVANCE Board of Commerce called in a change of their regular monthly meeting. They will be meeting July 2, not July 3.

ABOUT 70 family members and friends attended the noon memorial service held at the Eveline Township Cemetery on Saturday for Agatha LaCross of Boyne City. A luncheon was held at the Eagles following the service, officiated by David Beek of the Stackus Funeral Home. Among those attending were AJ and Jill Lacross and family of Georgia, Paul Lacross and granddaughters Gina and Jessica of Florida, and Alice Patricko and family of Pennsylvania. Many gatherings throughout the week were held at the home of their sister and husband, Norma and Larry Bean. Also attending was her daughter Lora.

Young rider earns ticket to big show

East Jordan's Nathan Ciszewski will take part in the AMA Amateur Motocross Nationals in August.

Nathan Ciszewski, 11, a motocross enthusiast from East Jordan, recently qualified to attend the annual AMA Amateur Motocross Nationals at Loretta Lynn's Ranch in Hurricane Mills, Tenn. The event is scheduled for Aug. 6-11.

"In the amateur world of motocross, the Nationals are considered the motherload, the big league, the best of the best," said Nathan's mom, Christine Brooks. To qualify, riders attend an area qualifier at an AMA district track in their state, where out of more than 40 riders in their class only the top eight finishers move on to the regional competition.

Regionals are made up of those top eight riders from eight different area qualifiers in and out of the state, totaling 64 riders per class. There, they race for a top six finish overall. The top six riders in each class are then qualified to attend the Nationals.

Nationals, then, are the country's top 42 riders in each class, from California to New York. Those riders meet in Tennessee for the week-long showdown, and walk away with a national-rated title.

Nathan, who is currently leading the state series championship in the 65cc class, recently finished first in the 65cc modified class and second in the 65cc stock class at his regional qualifier in Staples, Minn., earning him, said Christine, "a spot at the big show in August."

Boyer City, East Jordan athletes named to All-Conference teams

Several area students have been named to the 2000-01 Lake Michigan Conference All-Conference baseball and softball teams.

All Conference baseball players from Boyer City include Ryan Amesbury and Dustin Moore, with honorable mention nods going to Brian Metzger and Dave Vasquez.

From East Jordan, players include Nathan Skop, Bobby Nichols, Jeff Kraemer, and Nathan Diller.

Nick Karaszewski, Billy Nichols,

Jon Bennett, and Jon Reese were honorable mention selections.

In softball, Boyer City's Ellie Neidhamer and Lindsay Hellsley made the All-Conference team, with Amanda Bargas and Jessie Raber receiving honorable mentions.

East Jordan's Linda Slough, Kristin Haley, Wendy Walczak, and Stephanie Sweet also made the team, with honorable mention status going to Josie Krause, Rachael Bennett, and Stefanie Skop.

HEALTH TIPS FROM MEDICAP PHARMACY

Protecting Yourself Against Insect Stings
 Insects are attracted to sweet smells and food odors. Avoid wearing perfumes, colognes, and scented hair sprays. Keep all foods covered until you are ready to eat. Sit far away from open trash cans. Wear white or light-colored clothing which are less likely to attract insects. Resist the urge to swat an insect - move slowly away. Wear shoes when outdoors. Hornets, wasps, yellow jackets, bees, and fire ants can cause severe reactions in some people, including anaphylaxis (swelling of the throat) which can be life-threatening.

2000 ANNUAL DRINKING WATER QUALITY REPORT FOR THE BOYNE CITY WATER SUPPLY

We're pleased to present to you this year's Annual Quality Water Report. This report is designed to inform you about the quality water and services we deliver to you every day. Our constant goal is to provide you with a safe and dependable supply of drinking water. We want you to understand the efforts we make to continually improve the water treatment process and protect our water resources. We are committed to ensuring the quality of your water. Our water source is Ground Water from two wells located south of Division Street, and one well on Addis Street.

Last year, as in years past, your tap water met all U.S. Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) and state drinking water health standards. The Boyne City Water Department vigilantly safeguards its water supplies and once again we are proud to report that our system has never violated a maximum contaminant level or any other water quality standard.

If you have any questions about this report or concerning your water utility, please contact Dan Meads, at (231) 582-6656. We want our customers to be informed about their water utility.

Why are there contaminants in my drinking water? Drinking water, including bottled water, may reasonably be expected to contain at least small amounts of some contaminants. The presence of contaminants does not necessarily indicate that water poses a health risk. More information about contaminants and potential health effects can be obtained by calling the Environmental Protection Agency's Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).

The sources of drinking water (both tap water and bottled water) include rivers, lakes, streams, ponds, reservoirs, springs, and wells. As water travels over the surface of the land or through the ground, it dissolves naturally-occurring minerals and, in some cases, radioactive material, and can pick up substances resulting from the presence of animals or from human activity. Contaminants that may be present in source water:

>>Microbial Contaminants, such as viruses and bacteria, which may come from sewage treatment plants, septic systems, agricultural livestock operations, and wildlife.

>>Inorganic contaminants, such as salts and metals, which can be naturally-occurring or result from urban stormwater runoff, industrial or domestic wastewater discharges, oil and gas production, mining or farming.

>>Pesticides and Herbicides, which may come from a variety of sources such as agriculture, urban stormwater runoff, and residential uses.

>>Organic Chemical Contaminants, including synthetic and volatile organic chemicals, which are by-products of industrial processes and petroleum production, and can also come from gas stations, urban stormwater runoff, and septic systems.

>>Radioactive Contaminants, which can be naturally-occurring or be the result of oil and gas production and mining activities.

In order to ensure that tap water is safe to drink, EPA prescribes regulations which limit the amount of certain contaminants in water provided by public water systems. Food and Drug Administration (FDA) regulations establish limits for contaminants in bottled water, which must provide the same protection for public health.

Water Quality Data Table

The Boyne City Water Department routinely monitors for contaminants in your drinking water according to Federal and State laws. This table shows the results of our monitoring for the period from January 1 to December 31, 1999, unless otherwise noted.

The EPA or the State requires us to monitor for certain contaminants less than once per year because the concentrations of these contaminants do not change frequently. Some of the data, though representative of the water quality, may be more than one year old.

Terms and Abbreviations used:

MCLG: Maximum Contaminant Level Goal: The level of a contaminant in drinking water below which there is no known or expected risk to health. MCLGs allow for a margin of safety.

MCL: Maximum Contaminant Level: The highest level of a contaminant that is allowed in drinking water. MCLs are set as close to the MCLGs as feasible using the best available treatment technology.

MCLs are set at very stringent levels. To understand the possible health effects described for many regulated contaminants, a person would have to drink 2 liters of water every day at the MCL level for a lifetime to have a one-in-a-million chance of having the described health effect.

AL: Action Level: The concentration of a contaminant which, if exceeded, triggers treatment or other requirements which a water system must follow.

Non-Detects (ND) - laboratory analysis indicates that the constituent is not present.

Parts per million (ppm) or Milligrams per liter (mg/l) - one part per million corresponds to one minute in two years or a single penny in $10,000.

Parts per billion (ppb) or Micrograms per liter - one part per billion corresponds to one minute in 2,000 years, or a single penny in $10,000,000.

Picocuries per liter (pCi/L) - picocuries per liter is a measure of the radioactivity in water.

Unregulated contaminants - are those for which the EPA has not established drinking water standards. The purpose of unregulated contaminant monitoring is to assist the EPA in determining the occurrence of these contaminants and whether future regulation is warranted.

Many constituents were tested for, but not detected in our water supply. The following constituents were detected at low, but safe levels, well below the MCL.

TEST RESULTS
Contaminant	MCLG	MCL	Level Detected	Range Low High	Sample Date	Violated Y/N	Likely Source of Contamination

Chloride (ppm)	NA	NA	5	4	6		NA	Erosion of natural deposits

* Date: if not sampled in 2000
 Lead & Copper limits are based on 90th percentile values. There were no violations.

What does this mean?

As you can see by the table, our system had no violations. We're proud that your drinking water meets or exceeds all Federal and State requirements. We have learned through our monitoring and testing that some constituents have been detected. The EPA has determined that your water is safe at these levels.

Some people may be more vulnerable to contaminants in drinking water than the general population. Immuno-compromised persons, such as persons with cancer undergoing chemotherapy, persons who have undergone organ transplants, people with HIV/AIDS or other immune system disorders, some elderly, and infants can be particularly at risk from infections. These people should seek advice about drinking water from their health care providers. EPA/CDC guidelines on appropriate means to lessen the risk of infection by cryptosporidium and other microbiological contaminants are available from the Safe Drinking Water Hotline (800-426-4791).
