At A GLANCE

MDOT to begin resurfacing work on M-32 in East Jordan

The Michigan Department of Transportation has announced that it will be milling and resurfacing M-32 from M-66 east to the Jordan River Bridge in East Jordan during the week of Aug. 27.

Preparation work took place on Aug. 21, with the project expected to be completed during the week of Aug. 27-31.

According to MDOT, one lane of traffic will be maintained in alternating directions via traffic regulators during daytime hours only. No work will be performed on weekends, holidays, or during special events, and access to businesses and residences will be maintained.

The $148,500 Capital Preventive Maintenance project was funded through Governor John Engler's Build Michigan II plan and TEA-21.

Area chambers hosting special BAH event

Several area chambers of commerce are inviting their members and guests to a special Business After Hours on Sept. 27 at The Inn at Bay Harbor.

The regional event, organized by the East Jordan, Boyne City, Charlevoix, Petoskey, and St. Ignace chambers of commerce, will be held from 5-7 p.m. in the meeting and conference areas of The Inn.

Food and beverages, as well as the chance for one business to win $1,000 in Chamber Checks, are on tap for the evening.

The cost will be $5 for chamber members, and $10 for non-members.

Sponsors for the event are Manpower, Merrill Lynch, Great Lakes Energy, Traverse the Magazine, Phone Guide, and Huntington Bank.

Middle school basketball practice begins on Monday

Boyne City Middle School girls basketball practices will begin on Monday, Aug. 27.

Seventh graders will practice at the middle school from 7:30-9 p.m., and eighth graders will practice from 6-7:30 p.m.

All athletes must have a physical on file with the school before they can practice with the teams.

A dose of laughter

King Dean Harroff shared a good laugh with subjects Jessica and Heather at Camp Quality, held last week at Camp Daggett on Walloon Lake. Camp Quality is an annual summer camping experience for children whose lives have been touched by cancer. This year's Renaissance theme made for plenty of high-spirited fun, for all concerned. BC school board considers soccer program

Though so far the response from school officials has been less than encouraging, parents and supporters of Boyne City soccer are still hoping that a high school soccer program might be an option for this fall.

At last week's regular meeting of the Boyne City School Board, a number of the program's supporters asked that the board look at a proposal for a program recently rejected by the school administrators.

Though members of the administrative team had decided in late July to not recommend the proposal to the school board, said soccer supporter Susan Conklin, "we believe that's a short-sighted decision, and we're asking [the board] to reconsider it without the [athletic department's] recommendation."

Originally presented to the district for consideration in late June, the first proposal, which outlined a program with funding from the district phased in over five years, was given to both the administrative team and the school board.

When it became clear, though, that uncertain district finances would be an obstacle for the program, the proposal was revised to a plan that would require no funding from the district for at least five years.

After the submission of the revised proposal, soccer program backers were later told that by athletic director Steve Beyer that their proposal would not be recommended to the board for approval.

At last week's meeting, school board members were reluctant to address the issue, stating that having just received a copy of the revised proposal at the meeting, they were not prepared to make a decision without an opportunity to review the information.

Still, audience members pressed the board for a commitment to look at the issue. Supporters also voiced a desire to get some solid answers as to why the proposal was rejected, noting that despite the fact that the amended proposal specified that the program would be at no cost to the district, administrators cited money concerns.

"The proposal says no cost [to the district]," said frustrated supporter Cindi Place. "I don't know what part of 'no cost' is a foreign language."

Responding to assistant athletic director Kirk Kujawski's comment that some things were missing from the proposal, Place added that those behind the soccer program need to know what areas might be in doubt.

Supporters for the soccer program, as well as other audience members, also pointed out that in terms of marketing, a major issue for the board at the present time as the district faces declining enrollment numbers, an additional sports program might be a tool to help attract and retain students.

Said citizen Todd Wright, "[The board] ought to be right behind [the proposed soccer program], just pounding that thing through."

"I can't think of anything that would go as far [to attract students] as a soccer program . . . It's the largest sport happening in the world today."

The board agreed to consider the issue, and was planning to meet with new interim superintendent Jim Cooper, scheduled to arrive early this week, and other administrators to discuss the proposal.

Safety concerns raised about new playground

The Boyne City City Commission voted last week to reaffirm Veterans Memorial Park as the location for the Boyne City Creative Playground playstructure, after discussing safety concerns raised at the commission's regular meeting by members of the fire department.

With the construction date just a month away, Boyne City Creative Playground committee chairperson Scott MacKenzie found himself called upon to address questions regarding the proximity of the playstructure to the city's emergency services.

At the meeting, fire chief Dennis Amesbury advised the commission of his department's safety concerns regarding the location of the playstructure, which will replace current outdated play equipment at Veteran's Memorial Park on the waterfront, located adjacent to the fire hall and ambulance garage.

The department, Amesbury said, was in support of the project; however, questions regarding the proximity of children playing to emergency vehicles and personnel have the department wondering if Veterans Park is the best location for it. "This could be a real safety issue," Amesbury said, citing difficulties with crowds during two fire runs that took place during the Boyne Area Antique Auto Show, which is also held in the park. With trucks and emergency personnel heading out, said Amesbury, "people ran up to the edge of the road. The same thing could happen with kids there."

MacKenzie said that the department's concerns are legitimate, and shared by the committee, but emphasized that steps have already been taken to help assure the safety of children and families using the structure in the park. In the design process, the committee has worked closely with the manufacturer and designer Leathers & Associates, a firm that has created over 2,000 similar playgrounds around the country. "Leather's would never sign off on the project [if it did not meet their safety standards]," said MacKenzie. "They have extremely high safety standards."

The playground, he pointed out, will be self-contained, with a three and a half foot high fence running around the perimeter. This fence alone, he added, makes the park po-

The first-ever Lady Biker Day was held last weekend in East Jordan, attracting motorcycle lovers from all over, including Maggie Willette of Kalkaska, pictured above. The ladies gathered downtown during sidewalk sales, and then took off on a 60-mile poker run around the area.

Numbers tell an interesting story

By NANNETTE MILLER

Statistics, and all that word implies, have left me cold since my grad school days when I was completely intimidated by an incomprehensible (to me, at least) "Stats" class, which was of course required for graduation.

Suddenly, I find myself fascinated with statistics and numbers and analyzing all kinds of data relating to the library. It helps that the computerized circulation system automatically tabulates and calculates the numbers, and conveniently spits out reports on demand, requiring little of me other than executing the correct keystrokes.

My favorite report is one called "Usage Statistics." It tells me lots of useful and amazing information and I check it nearly every day now. For example, at the time of this writing, there are 2,173 things checked out of the library. Our entire collection is 20,107 cataloged items, so approximately 10 percent of the collection is out. Is this typical? Will it vary from month to month? I am eager to find out if and how these numbers will change in the newly renovated library.

Of those 2,173 items checked out, 196 are overdue. While 196 overdue items is very discouraging when printed out on the weekly overdue list, having less than 10 percent of all items checked out overdue doesn't seem that bad. But again, is this typical? Further analysis awaits.

We have 2,713 registered patrons. Of those, only 564 have items checked out at the moment. Where is everybody? Currently, more people have fines than have items checked out. Six-hundred-twenty-five people owe a total of $2,484.95 for late, lost, or damaged books. That is an average of about $4 per person, but in truth most people owe less than a dollar, and a few owe hundreds of dollars.

One thing no report tells me is how to convince people that they really need to return library books. People have the privilege of borrowing books, videos, tapes, CDs, and magazines from libraries. Notice the highlighted words: a privilege is something to be treated with care and respect and protected from loss; borrowing implies temporary use and the intention of giving it back. Privileges carry responsibilities. The materials in this library have been purchased with tax dollars. I think people should be angry about public property being stolen or damaged, and having to be replaced at the tax payers' expense.

We do try to get the books back, as politely as possible. Maybe we should get mean. Personally I would love to use the old "Put 'em in the stocks" type of humiliation by publishing the names of library offenders. Some libraries file official complaints with the police and have bench warrants issued for the arrest of people who fail to return their books. We all heard about the sweet little grandmother in Florida who was put in jail for having overdue books. Some libraries work with collection agencies to hound the perpetrators and leave black marks on their credit.

We like to think better of this community and its citizens. We like to think that people will do the right thing just because it is the right thing; that they will return what they borrow and be considerate of the rights and property of others.

(Nannette Miller is the director of the Boyne District Library.)

School habitat site needs extra hands

TO THE EDITOR:

Volunteers are needed for the second annual Boyne City Elementary School playground cleanup on Saturday, Aug. 25, from 1 p.m. until finished.

Our local children and Junior Master Gardeners have several gardens and a natural habitat area that have been watered and maintained over the summer, but a major cleanup is needed prior to school starting. This nature project is organized and maintained totally by volunteers, so any help is appreciated.

Tasks to complete include: litter pick up, weed whipping, mowing, spreading mulch, deadheading flowers, weeding gardens, watering, complete weather station, sweeping and other basic yard maintenance. Bring your own gloves and refreshments; tools and implements will be available. Let's all join together in finalizing the school's new look this fall! (Master Gardeners and Juniors will be awarded credit for hours.)

Michigan rivers deserve respect

By DANIEL J. BOWEN

I've spent the past five summers traveling up and down the AuSable, Manistee, Pine and Muskegon rivers as a lands patrol officer. My job is to look for unauthorized use of Consumers Energy land, litter, and damage to the land, fences, signs, and other property. The job takes me to some of the most beautiful parts of Michigan. These wonderful rivers offer scenery that ordinarily would take a person's breath away. Unfortunately, trash, litter, and damage to the land invariably spoil these vistas.

Even after five years, I still find myself shaking my head in disbelief at some of the messes I've found. It's not unusual for me to collect three or four pickup truck loads of trash each day. People with no respect for nature or for property belonging to others cut live trees and make their own roads into closed areas, destroying the landscape and causing erosion in the process. They leave behind unimaginable amounts of garbage and litter, and leave fires unattended.

I've learned some amazing things over the past five years, including: "Disposable diaper" apparently means the device can be discarded wherever the former occupant happens to be at the time it becomes uninhabitable. If one throws litter far enough into thick underbrush, it is no longer litter. If a person's socks become wet with river water, they can never be worn again and must be discarded immediately, at the very first spot one can sit down and remove them. Shoes, on the other hand, can never both be disposed of in the same spot. It is necessary to keep them at least 300 yards apart, lest they conspire to do great evil to the former wearer. If a person doesn't like a particular sign, it is not only permissible, but mandatory that the sign be torn down and completely disregarded. It can be shredded and left at the site, burned or taken home as a souvenir. Despite the obvious evidence of years of experimentation, many people seem unable to grasp the concept that glass and metal do not burn in campfires. A gate is the same thing as a fence - it is okay to park in front of any gate at any time, even if others might need to use the gate. Likewise, fences mean nothing. If a fence has the audacity to place itself across an area a person wants to get to, it is permissible to tear down the fence, cut a hole in it, dig under it or drive around it. I could go on, but you've got the picture.

Far too many people have no respect for nature and no concern about preserving Michigan's natural beauty for our children and future generations. They act as if it's their right to turn the outdoors into their personal trash pile. Thank heavens, most people follow the adage: "Come and enjoy nature, then leave it as you found it."

Frankly, I think it's time for the majority of us to get tough with those who abuse nature. When you're enjoying Michigan's outdoors, call the local law enforcement agency when you see littering, illegal tree-cutting, camping in unauthorized areas, and other abuses of nature. Such a call can be a powerful tool to help protect nature. For example, for littering, state law allows a fine of up to $1,000 or 90 days in jail or both for littering. That's tough medicine, but Michigan's woods, rivers, and streams are too precious for us to stand by and do nothing. If we don't act, someday our children will only be able to guess at the beauty that lies beneath all that trash.

(Daniel J. Bowen is the Lands Patrol Officer for Consumers Energy.)

BCPS CONSTRUCTION UPDATE

Question: Will the current high school REALLY be ready for students on Sept. 4?

Answer: Absolutely! Lots of improvements will be very apparent from now until school begins.

Last week the weight room equipment was relocated to its new "permanent" home, the cafeteria was cleaned and the floor has been waxed. All painting in the building is completed. All VCT floor tile, carpeting and base molding has been installed in the classrooms.

In the new bathrooms the plumbing is completed. Since the elementary school and middle school buildings are all set to begin the new school year, all of our custodians will join forces to work on the high school as of Thursday, Aug. 16. They have already begun cleaning all the furniture and replacing it in the classrooms. Once the classrooms have been reassembled, they will direct their attention to restoring that familiar gleam to the hallway floors.

The custodial staff has really stepped up to the plate for our district this summer. They have always kept our buildings in tip top condition, but this year has been an exceptional challenge for them. Please take a moment to let them know how much you appreciate their hard work and commitment.

Finally, it is our sincere hope to be able to refinish the gym floor on Aug. 28. If we are unable to accomplish this task prior to the opening of school, this is one project which will have to be put off until next summer.

BCES plans new after-school program

By FRED SITKINS

Boyne City Elementary School would like to introduce our new PASS Club program, which provides supervised after school child care for students in kindergarten through fourth grade. The program is based on the premise that parents need stimulating, activity-based educational programming for their children from the time school is dismissed until the end of the work day. The Boyne City PASS Club School Age Child Care Program is a state licensed program designed to offer a high quality child care option for parents that are working outside of the home. The program strives to meet the following goals:

1. To assist children in recognizing their fullest potential through activities that develop self-awareness, confidence, feelings of self-worth, inter-personal relationships, and physical skills.
2. To deliver fun and educational activities in a positive, safe, supportive and caring environment.
3. To provide parents with the confidence that their child is well cared for in a quality, comprehensive, affordable program.
4. To provide supervision by adults that are capable of understanding and relating to each child as an individual.

We are pleased to offer this program as another effort to assist families with the important task of preparing children to become successful young adults. Information regarding our new PASS club program will become available to all parents at the beginning of school. However, if you have any questions before this time please call the elementary school at 439-8300.

BOYNE CITY NAMES ANNUAL MARVIN LODING AWARD WINNERS

Showing their Boyne pride

Last week, the Boyne City City Commission presented some local folks with one of the City's biggest honors, the annual Marvin Loding Community Pride Awards. Established in 1986, the awards honor Marvin Loding, who served the city in various forms throughout his lifetime, including as an alderman, mayor pro-tem of the first City Commission, mayor, planning commissioner, and Charlevoix County commissioner.

The awards are given annually to honor individuals and families who take pride in the appearance of their home, business, or industry, as well as to recognize a community-spirited individual or group that exhibits outstanding community involvement, civic contributions, leadership qualities, and special contributions to the city.

IN THE RESIDENTIAL division, Tom and Sue Rainey were presented with this year's award for the community pride they've shown by working hard on the appearance of their home at 201 W. Cedar St. According to the nomination submitted by a neighbor, highlights of the property include many small, well-kept gardens and a decorative use of fencing; the nomination described the home's appearance as "comfortable and homey." The nomination also pointed out that all of the work on the residence has been done by the Raineys themselves. "I realize that Boyne has many homes currently being redone, but most are renovated and landscaped by professionals, not the actual homeowner," said the nomination. "This is a part of community neighborhood pride that also needs to be recognized."

The Raineys, for their part, were surprised and flattered by the honor. Having lived in their home for more than 25 years, the Raineys said it's only been in recent years that they've begun to work on bringing the residence to its current admirable state. When their children were at home, said Sue, "it used to be a baseball diamond, and there were go-carts everywhere." Now that the kids have grown up, Tom and Sue put their energies into adding a little to the yard each year. "She plants," said Tom of the division of labor, "and tells me what she wants, and I build it."

IN THE BUSINESS category, Ray and Karen Guzniczak of Country Now and Then and Up the Lazy River were on hand to accept their Marvin Loding Community Pride Award, which now hangs in a place of honor behind the counter at their Water Street business.

Adorned with benches and flower boxes and a quaint storefront, Country Now and Then has long been a bright spot in the downtown area. Begun 11 years ago by Karen, the business grew significantly in the fall of 1999, when the Guzniczaks expanded into an adjacent building to form Up the Lazy River, constructing an addition to connect the two, with a flower-filled courtyard in front.

In addition to having exterior renovations done, the Guzniczaks also rolled up their own sleeves to complete extensive interior work giving the business its warm, Up North feel.

THOUGH THEY left the community late last year due to health and professional reasons, longtime Boyne City residents Jon and Faye Gerster were named the winners of the Marvin Loding Community Pride Award in the Community Spirited division.

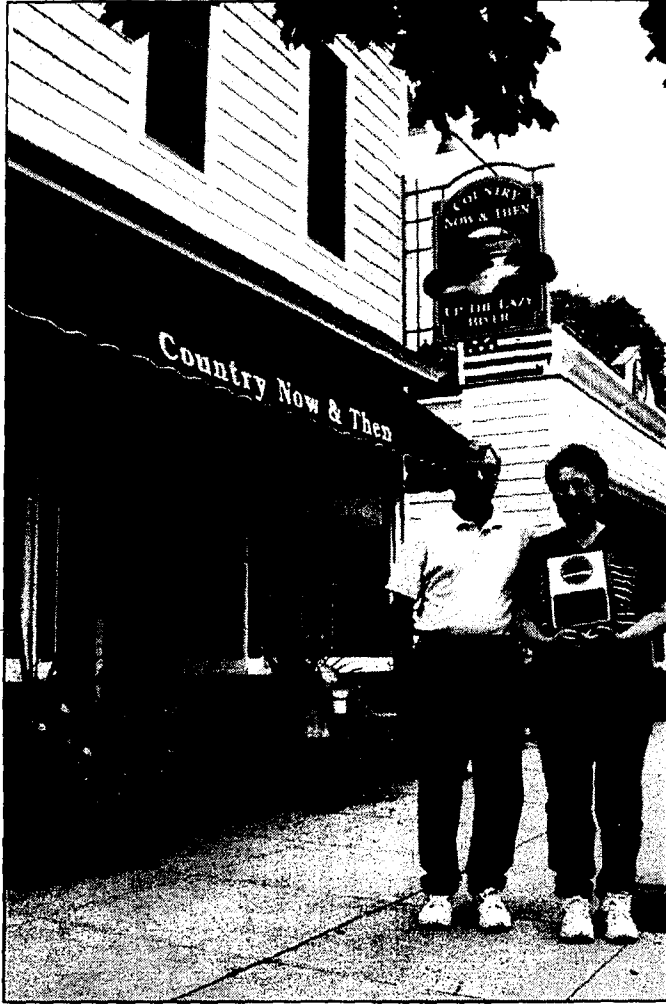

Currently residing in Ann Arbor, the Gersters were honored for the many years they spent deeply involved with the youth of the community, including initiating the youth group at the First Presbyterian Church in Boyne City, which boasted members from all denominations.

After holding meetings at their home, the Gersters later oversaw work on a new Youth House, which became a new home for youth group meetings as well as, said one youth group member, a refuge for kids of the community.

Jon also spent time as a member of the Boyne City School Board.

Tom and Sue Rainey's Cedar Street home received a nod in the residential category of the Marvin Loding Community Pride Awards.

Ray and Karen Guzniczak display their Marvin Loding Award in front of their businesses on Water Street.

Overall, despite the slowing economy, local businesses seem to be holding their own.

However, Kathy Ansted, owner of Ansted's by the Lake in East Jordan, has been very happy with business this season. "Things picked up after the end of June," she said. "The season started late because of the weather, but I have been really pleased with business the last two months. BOYNE CITY SCHOOL BOARD MINUTES

The Boyne City Public Schools Board of Education met Aug. 13 in the cafeteria of the middle school. It awarded the 2001-02 milk, food service, trash removal, and gasoline/diesel fuel contracts and approved the 2001-02 Student Athletic, Coaches and the High School Faculty Handbooks. It also established the athletic event and food service prices for the 2001-02 school year as follows:

Their proposal states that for five years all costs would be met entirely by the soccer parent organization through fund raising efforts and donations. Many audience members expressed their support of the program. A subcommittee of the board will meet with the administrators to review the proposal and formulate a response for the group by Aug. 24.

The board also:

- Hired Jody Reinhardt as a full-time special education teacher at the middle school;

- Held a first reading on the proposed revision of Board Policy #BCBF, "Rules of Order," and held a first reading on the proposed creation of Board Policy #BCBFB, "Amendment/Suspension of Bylaws and Policies."

By NANCY NORTHUP

KELLY HANDORF, daughter of Fran and Larry Handorf of Boyne City, and Brian Hawkins of Coldwater were married on Aug. 4. The lovely lawn ceremony was held at the Grand Traverse Resort, and officiated by Pastor Kenneth Bernthal of the Christ Lutheran Church of Boyne City, before 150 friends and relatives. Kelly's bridal party included Nicole Neeb of Grand Rapids and Adrea Korthase of Florida, good friends from high school, and Ariana Handorf, the two-year-old daughter of the bride's brother Scott and Susan Handorf, as flower girl. A reception was held in the Tower Ballroom of the resort. Guest came from Troy, Rochester, West Bloomfield, Coldwater, and Boyne City, to share in this special day. Enjoying a wedding trip of a 10-day Caribbean cruise, Kelly will be returning to teaching secondary English in Kalkaska, and Brian to secondary history in the Charlevoix schools.

LUCY AND HAROLD Price of Boyne City, their son Hal Price, and their son Bryan Price and wife Pam and their sons, Trevor and Tyler, and daughter, Penny (Price) Petruska and husband Mark and son Ryan of Ohio, celebrated family August wedding anniversaries with dinner at the Argonne Supper Club in Charlevoix last week. For Harold and Lucy, it was their 55th, and it was the 13th for Bryan and Pam, and it marked the 24th for Penny and Mark. Congratulations to all!

A NEAT OBSERVATION came in about two former Boyne City residents, Stella Clute and LaVina Hooper, residing at Grandvue. Not only sharing the same residence, they both have August birthdays and they are both 88 years young! Happy Birthday, ladies.

A TRIP FOR school clothes and a day at Michigan Adventure was the quick trip taken by Kris, Bill and Kevin Grice, with friends Cathy, Caitlyn, Bryan, and Alyssa Wonski. With them was Caitlyn's friend and Kris's niece, Jessie Grice and Bill's friend, Eli Barsy. All had fun and dinner out (just girls) was the best!

RUTH CHRISTY of Boyne City and grandson Adam Detlaff recently returned from a four-day train trip to Seattle, Wash., and a wonderful visit with her daughter, Cherie and family. While there, they took in tours of the zoo, the Rain Forest, and other points of interest.

MICK AND KAREN KANE of Boyne City have returned after spending eight days visiting their daughter Renée in Missoula, Mont. Renée has graduated from the University of Montana, earning a Bachelor of Science degree. En route, the Kane's spent time in Sturgis, S.D. and Wyoming.

RESIDENTS OF Litzenburger Place extend heartfelt sympathies to friend and neighbor Betty Sobleski and family, due to the passing of her husband, Raymond Sobleski, who had been in Bortz Health Care for several years.

ROSALEE LAMB of Litzenburger Place suffered a stroke this past week and was admitted to Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey.

DARLENE BRICKER has returned after having gone to her daughter Dixie Lahti's in Haslett a week ahead of time, in preparation for a Bricker Family Reunion. All of her children, all but two of her grandchildren, and three great-grandchildren made it 69 wonderful family members attending the Sunday gathering. They also included a baby shower, honoring granddaughter Jamie and Chris Dobrowalski, who are expecting the arrival of their first child in October. En route home, Darlene also visited friends of her dearly departed friend Bill Duffield (6-4-01) in Houghton Lake. A big celebration honoring the 90th birthday of Jessie Willson was held at the Hotel Dilworth on Saturday night. The truly wonderful time was hosted by her family; daughters Peg March of Syracuse, N.Y., and Sheri McBee of Boyne Falls; grandsons Bob Jackson of Marshall, Va., Tim March of Syracuse, N.Y., Barry Camp of Grand Rapids, John McGeorge of Holland, Vic Ruggles, and Dan McGeorge, both of Boyne City, and Terry Dell of Petoskey; and her favorite granddaughter, Mary Jo Rhoads of Boyne City.

PAULA AND WAYNE Avery, brother and sister, both living in Kansas City, Mo., were in Boyne City for a three-day visit with their parents, Bill and Jeanette Avery, and sister Deanna and their grandmother, Vera Avery, who has been here most of the summer with the family on Glenwood Beach Road.

DENISE AND RICK LUNDY of East Jordan were among the many Michigan friends and relatives attending the wedding reception of her niece, Carman Lundy and Gordon Greenman, on Saturday, July 18, at the VFW Hall. Carman, the daughter of Archie and Debbie Lundy and Gordon, the son of Judy and Tony Greenman, had their wedding ceremony in South Carolina on June 30 and decided to celebrate a reception here, with family, friends, good food and good music.

CAROL AND RON HILL of St. Jo arrived in Boyne City mid-week to spend a few days of visiting with her sister Margaret Anzell. Also here was her brother, Gilbert Lindsay of Grand Rapids and all were here for an Eddy Family Reunion, which was held at the Memorial Park by the Lake on Saturday. Joining them for the reunion were family members from Newberry and Detroit and also Lorna Eddy Schrom, husband Frank and daughter Debby of Bowie, Md. A pleasure for all was the first-time reunion appearance of Leona Eddy Furton and husband Edward of California!

CHRISTOPHER MCCARUS, wife Zozo and infant son John of Brooklyn, N.Y. spent the week here at the Ferry Road home of his mother, Carol McCarus. Grandma Carol had been enjoying their daughter Aurelie, age 7, for the past five weeks. On Thursday, five-month old baby John was baptized at a beautiful ceremony officiated by the Rev. Ruth Clausen at the Nativity Episcopal Church in Boyne City, with relatives from Traverse City, Spring Lake, congregants and friends attending. Christopher and his family left for home on Sunday.

Reading travels come to an end

The Summer Reading Program at the Boyne District Library had its final session July 31.

"Reading Road Trip U.S.A." took more than 135 children ages 3 through 10 on journeys around the country through reading, crafts and special visitors. All children received certificates of completion and many won Subway gift certificates for meeting their reading goals. Children who participated should pick up their prizes and certificates during library hours before Labor Day.

The program began on June 26 with a special presentation by Acting Up Theatre when the children learned about the many ways you can travel with books. Two other area libraries, Crooked Tree District Library in Walloon Lake and Petoskey Public Library joined Boyne in a "Reading Road Trip" exchange where each library hosted an evening of crafts, stories and activities for participants from the other libraries.

"This was a great opportunity for children and parents in the area to visit other libraries and see what they have to offer," said Dava Maat, co-director of summer reading. Ranger Holly Orsians from Young State Park brought furs and skins for her hands-on program "Animals in your Backyard."

Another highlight was the evening with Christopher Knight (Jonathan Rand) the local author of the Michigan Chillers series. Knight kept everyone that attended enthralled as he talked about how he became a writer. "He encouraged and inspired the children to read as much as they can," said Geri Barber, co-director of summer reading.

Summer Reading program is over for this year, but Maat and Barber are reminding parents about the many upcoming fall events: Preschool Storytime, Fall Family Fun Night, Wednesday Workshops and holiday crafts for kids. For more information about the library and the programs call 582-7861.

The two-dimensional winner was Shella Martin, who received $500 for her piece.

Boyne teen suffers minor injuries in auto accident

The Charlevoix County Sheriff's Department is investigating a rollover accident that injured a Boyne City teen last week.

According to the sheriff's department, Lindsie Joe Brewer, 16, was driving on Boyne City/East Jordan Road in Wilson Township on Aug. 14 when she lost control of her vehicle, rolling it several times.

Brewer suffered minor lacerations to her head and hand, and was treated and released from Charlevoix Area Hospital. She was wearing her seatbelt at the time of the accident, which, said the sheriff's department, prevented more serious injury.

Alcohol was not a factor in the accident. Sheriff's Department deputies were assisted at the scene by the Boyne City Fire Department and the Boyne City Ambulance Department.

COLLEGE NEWS

All that glass

Raven Hill Discovery Center recently hosted a weeklong glass workshop, where participants worked with all manner of glass to create original works of art.

Workshop participants, including local high school and college students, worked on various projects, such as glass beads (above), stained glass (above right), and blown glass (left). The classes were led by glass artist Lynn Dinning of Good Hart Glass Works. The workshop was the last of four summer art process workshops held at the center.

HEALTH TIPS FROM MEDICAP PHARMACY

Help For Chronic Heel Pain

The same shock wave treatment that has been used to break-up kidney stones without surgery is now helping to relieve chronic heel pain. The FDA has approved the OssaTron device to treat chronic plantar fasciitis, a condition that causes severe pain in the heel of the foot. It is usually treated with physical therapy, pain relievers, cortisone injections, and, in severe case, surgery. With the OssaTron, 60% of the patients were completely relieved of symptoms after one treatment, and 80% had significant relief.
