At A GLANCE

Labor Day weekend means cool cars in BC

As summer is coming rapidly to a close, area residents and visitors have at least one more big summer event to look forward to — the annual Boyne City Labor Day Car Show, scheduled for Aug. 31-Sept. 1.

The weekend will kick off with an old fashioned Cruise In on Friday night at 7 p.m. A portion of Water Street will be closed off to traffic so families can enjoy the evening of checking out some cool cars. Trophies will be awarded on Friday night for Best Chevy, Best Ford and Best Mopar. Friday night registration is free to cars entering the competition.

Registration for Saturday begins at 8 a.m., with trophies to be awarded for all classes. Door prizes will also be awarded for the day.

There will also be a model car contest for the kids.

All remaining proceeds from the event will benefit local charities. Last year, the car show proceeds were donated to the Boyne City Creative Playground; Boyne 4-H Wrestling; the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce; the Boyne District Library; the Boyne Valley Fire Department; the Boyne City Fire Department; and the Charlevoix County Community Foundation; as well as three scholarships to area students.

For more information, call Great Lakes Motor Works at 582-9100 or the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce at 582-6222.

Paper will publish a day late next week

The Citizen-Jordan Journal will be published a day late next week, due to the Labor Day holiday.

The paper will be mailed to subscribers on Thursday, Sept. 6, and will be available on the newsstand Thursday morning.

The deadline for news items and display advertising will remain Friday at 5 p.m. The deadline for classified advertisements will be Tuesday at 10 a.m.

Rescue training

Members of the Boyne City Ambulance and Fire Department learn what it takes to keep warm in cold water conditions during a water rescue training session held Sunday morning.

Karen Jarema is new principal at Boyne City

Though the Boyne City Board of Education will not officially take action until its next regular meeting, it has been announced that Karen Jarema is being appointed to the principal position at Boyne City High School.

Indeed, Jarema is already on the job, preparing the school for the upcoming year.

"Karen will be an asset," said interim superintendent Jim Cooper, who said that putting Jarema into the position is a very positive move, and that the task of recommending Jarema for the post was one of his first jobs as interim, since having a high school principal in place is critical to the stability of the school.

Jarema has worked in the Boyne City School District for 10 years, first as a business and mathematics teacher, and most recently as the student success coordinator for Boyne City Middle School.

"I've always had a personal goal of educational leadership roles," said Jarema.

"I had envisioned a principalship stop along the way.

"It's a happy situation, and I'm happy to stay in Boyne City," she said. "I've had a good experience being a part of the community."

Her first goal is to simply get the school year off to a good start. It will be, Jarema said, an "exciting year," one which will end with an eye towards the transition into the new high school building in the fall of 2002. Part of the challenge of the upcoming year will be to get students and staff prepared emotionally, as well as in terms of curriculum, for that move into the new building.

In the long term, she said, "a focus of mine will be staff collaboration," but beyond that, long-term speculation may be a bit premature. In the first few weeks of school Jarema will be meeting along with staff members to set goals, and will also be working with other administrators to be sure that "the buildings are all working in the same direction."

Though she's still very new on the job, Jarema said, so far the staff as well as the community have been behind her.

"I really appreciate all the support I've received from people both prior to accepting the position and since accepting the position," she said.

Jarema is taking over the high school principalship from former interim principal Mary Jason, who recently left the district for a principal position in Central Lake.

EJ commission clears up fire equipment checks

At last week's meeting of the East Jordan City Commission, commissioners cleared up a misunderstanding regarding fire department truck checks initiated at a previous meeting.

Earlier in the month, when emotions were running high regarding equipment problems at a recent auto accident that claimed the life of a local man, commissioner Bernie Hammond had made a motion that required the department to implement weekly truck checks with an "independent, qualified person."

The stipulation was apparently misinterpreted to mean an outside party, something the department had been having a difficult time in securing to complete the requisite truck checks.

According to assistant fire chief Steve Hall, who was present at the meeting, the department has approached "eight or nine" people outside of the department to take on the job of truck checks.

"Seven said no," said Hall, "and one said maybe." Some of the people asked are simply too busy, but others, he said, "don't want to get involved."

When commissioner Shane Williams stated that he personally disagreed with the idea of having an outside person conduct the checks, noting that part of the reason for the checks is to keep firefighters familiar with the equipment, it became clear that the original intent of Hammond's directive had been misunderstood.

"I didn't mean an outside person," said Hammond.

The most important thing, he indicated, was that the commission see the inspections made and recorded. Hall stated that the checks are being done on a weekly basis.

Commissioners Jerry Cihak and Tim Hoffman both commented on the fact that they'd heard comments recently about the condition of Tourist Park.

Both commissioners stated that they had each personally looked at the park, and were happy with how the park is being maintained. It was also noted that the city has received approval to place a directional sign for the Mallard Golf Course. The sign will indicate only the mileage to the golf course, and will not include the name of the course.

It's time to seek new adventures

Debbie Thompson leaving job as Boyne City chamber director

After 10 years at the helm of the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce, executive director Debbie Thompson has decided it's time to move on.

At its regular meeting last week, the chamber board of directors accepted Thompson's resignation, effective Sept. 10. The resignation, said board president Nannette Miller, was accepted "with regret."

"The board thanks her for her years of dedicated service," she said. "We wish her well."

As a chamber board president, Miller concluded, she's sorry to see her go; as a friend, however, "I'm very excited for her, starting a new adventure."

Thompson, for her part, is excited as well about the possibilities that lie ahead. For 10 years, she said, being the chamber director "has totally encompassed my life." She is, she said, thankful for the many opportunities and experiences the position afforded her, but now, "it's time to move on. Having new blood will be good for the community."

Having taken on the position a decade ago, after a run as a "jack of all trades," said Thompson, "I love my job. I felt I was really lucky to be able to work here. I saw lots of possibilities."

included basic elements of bringing the chamber office up to date with additions like a fax machine and computers for record keeping and graphic design.

After those pieces were in place, increasing membership was a goal, one that Thompson feels she's accomplished citing twice as many members now as when she began. The Fall Harvest Festival, too, is counted among Thompson's proudest achievements, as she had always believed the area needed a fall event.

Other things she's accomplished over the years include the establishment of a visitor's guide and the formation of a dual membership with East Jordan, an undertaking she pursued in cooperation with East Jordan Area Chamber director Mary Faculak.

As one accomplished goal, one event, one season rolls into another, said Thompson, finding just the right time to go has been difficult. She's been thinking for a while now about leaving, but always was looking ahead to the next event.

Though she wishes she could stay to see the outcome of other goals she's pursued, like a new building for the chamber, she realized that it was simply time for a change, and that there would never be a perfect time to go.

Debbie Thompson, after 10 years as executive director of the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce, will be leaving her position in September to pursue other interests.

And though she's leaving the chamber, the 30-year Boyne City resident doesn't intend to leave the area. With her children grown, she's planning to focus on her latest love, jewelry-making.

"I'm really an artist," said Thompson, who besides working with jewelry also sculpts dolls and paints.

"I want to pursue more of my art, and get deeper into my spirituality. This will give me some space. I'm really excited about my new adventure."

Still, there are things she will miss about her job, mostly the people she came in contact with.

"I really care about the people in Boyne City," she said. "I care about the chamber. I'm really happy I worked here, and appreciate all the friends I've had here, all the wonderful things I learned. I feel that I did make a difference."

WHILE THE chamber board of directors wishes Thompson well, they are now charged with the task of finding a new director to lead the chamber.

Three new committees have been formed, said president Miller, including a transition committee to oversee events scheduled through the end of the year; a visitor's guide committee to assure that the guide is completed; and a search committee to find a new executive director.

The search committee is made up of three board members as well as four members from the community.

The committee has already revised the job description and is posting the ad both in local newspapers as well as an e-mail posting with the state Chamber of Commerce.

Interviews are slated to be held in October, and the goal, said Miller, is "to have someone in place by the first of December."

Boyne will miss Mary Jason

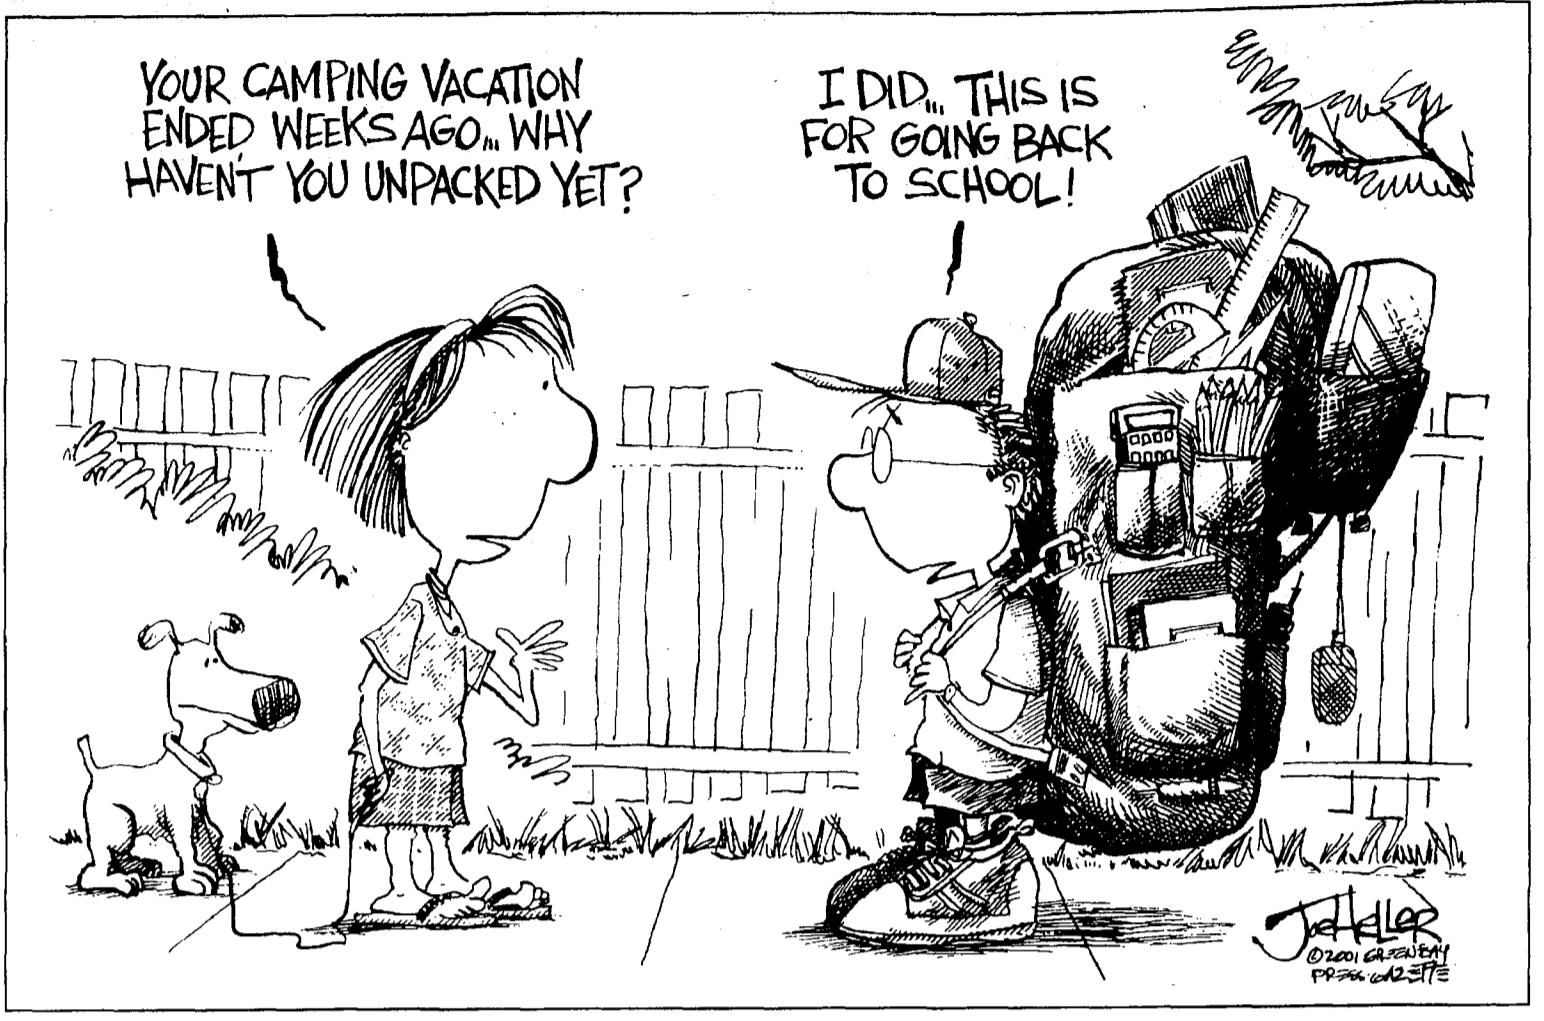

TO THE EDITOR:

Please accept this note of thanks to a wonderful team player we will be saying good-bye to on the first of September. Our own Mary Jason is of whom we speak. Mary came to us a little over five years ago and has been a true asset ever since. She proceeded to oversee our Alternative-Ed program from the top to the bottom, expanding it into a wonderful county-wide program in conjunction with the Char-Em ISD. From there she became our interim high school principal, and also served as interim superintendent, and served us well as an easily approachable administrator.

Mary has been instrumental in our ability to grow as a district, by being a solid administrator through some of our turmoil. She helped us to get on track with our district-wide accreditation through the North Central Association of Colleges and Schools, brought us untold knowledge from her connections throughout the state, as she has served on many boards including the Michigan Association of School Boards. She has helped us to continue to develop our curriculum, and that, coupled with her input with our marketing program, has started the turn from the negative to the positive in our district.

The above are but a few of the highlights Mary has brought with her, and we wish her the best as she carries her many talents to her new educational home in Central Lake. She will be missed, but she leaves us with some great accomplishments, and the ability to become the best of the best. Thanks Mary! We wish you well.

With sincere thanks,

It's Boyne City's loss and Central Lake's gain

TO THE EDITOR:

I had heard the rumor on Aug. 16 about Mary Jason leaving our school system and it was confirmed at the board of education meeting recently in Boyne City. I just would like to say that I for one will miss her.

I remember when the other principal left and we didn't know what was going to happen to the principal's job. Then, we got Mary. My oldest son, who then was a sophomore, came home and said "she's great mom, very easy to talk to."

I was impressed right then and there that she could impact my son so quickly. My son told me the kids liked her a lot because she didn't look down on them and would say hi to them for no reason. In the times I talked with Mary, I found her to be a sweet, caring and truthful person.

These days you can't find too many people who have the class and the intelligence to deal with the public and come out on top. I want Mary to know that not only my family but a lot more will miss her here in Boyne and that Central Lake is lucky to have her. Good luck and we will miss you!

You can help make playground dream come true with your financial donation

TO THE EDITOR:

The Boyne Area Community Playground Committee is still actively seeking funds to reach our goal. All the materials have been ordered and the first shipment of lumber has arrived but we are short of our financial goal of $120,000.

This playground is the culmination of the dreams of the Boyne area children and countless hours of work on their behalf. We have received generous contributions from many local businesses and individuals, many parents and grandparents have purchased pickets, there are still a few choice sponsorships of major components left, and the playhouse raffle is Labor Day weekend. Please join us, if you haven't already, in making this wonderful community dream a reality!

If you would like to make a donation please call Tim O'Leary at 582-0337 or Scott MacKenzie at 582-0486.

Thank you for your generous and needed support.

Community effort will bring success

TO THE EDITOR:

"Our children are our greatest resource" may sound like a cliché, but has never been truer than it is today. Raising our children to be healthy, self-assured, responsible and successful adults is an investment that cannot grow without a lot of one-on-one interaction.

Besides being involved with their children's school and their education, Boyne area parents can become involved in another community effort that will model responsibility, volunteerism, work ethic, civic pride and "caring" about children. That effort is the Boyne Area Creative Playground.

Key members of the playground committee have worked diligently all year to make this wonderful playground a reality. You can help also. The playground committee still needs cash contributions to assist in the project. If you are an individual or a business that would like to contribute financially, please call committee member Cindy Grice at 582-6597.

And, for the "fun" part of contributing to the playground effort you and your family can help build it. The "build days" for the playground are Sept. 19, 20, and 21; day, evening and night. We need volunteer builders, skilled and unskilled. If you would like to volunteer on "build days," please call Ann Parks at 582-9076.

We are so fortunate to have so many area businesses that have volunteered to help with the project. We have volunteered lumber, tools and a locked tool crib on site for the build days.

Other area businesses have volunteered to provide food for all three build days and committee member Evon Pluister is coordinating the meals. Another key committee member, Chris Hosmer, has planned child care for the build days also.

One of our area builder's has donated the terrific log playhouse to raffle which is on display in Veteran's Park. The structure is worth up to $5,000. Tickets can be obtained from any playground committee member or at city hall and are $1 a piece or six for $5. The drawing for the log playhouse raffle will be on Labor Day and you do not have to be there to win.

When you see these "key" committee members around town, shake their hand and thank them for taking so much of their personal time in the past year to bring this "investment" in our children to completion - Scott MacKenzie, Barbara Brooks, Rene MacNaughton, Nord Schroeder, Tim O'Leary, Cindy Grice, Colleen Carlson, and Scott Hausler.

Boyne school board looks ahead

TO THE EDITOR:

Just a note to the community of Boyne City to let them know that Boyne City Public Schools are "alive and well." Sometimes our stories get a little mixed up in this great little town of ours, and that's why we write this note to tell you all the great things we have going for us.

We have hired a great interim superintendent, Jim Cooper, who comes to us very highly recommended. He was a former superintendent of Harbor Springs schools, so he not only knows our area well, he also understands how a small town operates. Jim is an experienced administrator with more than 30 years in education. He will be a great asset to this district in helping us get back on track.

The new high school is coming along well and is right on track (look for our construction updates in the Citizen-Journal every other week), the renovation of the existing high school is coming along well and should be bright and shining for the first day of school. The elementary school has a new parent drop-off that has been long awaited and should be a very welcome sight to our moms and dads. The old middle school building has "NOT" been sold nor will it be. Though we are continuing to evaluate how it will be used, and how our district will be configured. A committee is currently working on that issue, and we assure you, we as a board will do what is in the best interest of our students and taxpayers.

We are losing a good friend and administrator in Mary Jason, but have promoted Karen Jarema to the position of high school principal. Karen is totally qualified and has already demonstrated her dedication and commitment to our district during her tenure as an administrator at the middle school.

Boyne City is now a nationally accredited school, thanks in large part to our elementary school principal Fred Sitkins coupled with the work of the rest of our staff. We continue to offer some of the widest ranging educational opportunities in northern Michigan to attempt to meet the needs of all students who choose to come to our great school. We look forward to the expansion of our vocational education once the new high school is finished in 2002. That coupled with our School to Work program, and our Dual Enrollment programs offer our students some of the best opportunities to be had for high school students today, whether they continue on with their education or go straight to the job market. We think that message seems to be getting out to our surrounding communities as we have already had a few families return back to our district for this fall, and have some newcomers as well. We will continue to deliver that message to our families and community members so that Boyne City Public Schools will be "THE" school of choice.

In closing, we would just like to say "Thanks Boyne City" for always believing in us and for continuing to support us. We are, have been, and will continue to be the great school you can be proud of.

The first week was not boring

■ New superintendent settling into Boyne City

By ANGELA SHULTIS

Though he's only been on the job for a week, Boyne City Public Schools' new interim superintendent Jim Cooper has had a crash course in recent days on just what's happening at the Boyne City schools.

With classes slated to start next week, Cooper has already made recommendations to the board about an interim principal at the high school (Karen Jarema) and the fate of a proposed addition to the sports offerings (to add a new high school club soccer program), and is knee-deep in making sure the current high school, under renovation all summer, will be back in shape for the first day of classes. Any other time has been spent just getting to know his surroundings. Fortunately for Cooper, the superintendent's office is familiar territory.

Appointed earlier this month by the Boyne City Board of Education, with a recommendation from Char-Em Intermediate School District Superintendent Mark Eckhardt, Cooper comes to Boyne City with a vast array of experience and an attitude that is hopeful for the future.

A lifelong resident of Michigan, Cooper earned his bachelor's degree at Wayne State University, his master's degree at Western Michigan, and is currently pursuing a doctorate at Eastern Michigan. His career in education began in Grand Rapids, where he spent 17 years in the public school system, variously as a teacher, counselor, administrator, athletic director, and coach. After Grand Rapids, he moved on to Hopkins, where he took over as high school principal and later spent five years as superintendent, and then moved north to take on a job as superintendent for the Harbor Springs Public Schools, a position he held for five years before retiring.

"I felt like I needed a change," he said, and so he found himself working in the private sector as a sales consultant for School Specialties, a firm that specializes in equipping and furnishing school buildings around the state of Michigan. After spending the last two years commuting to his job in Lansing from his residence in Harbor Springs, though, Cooper had decided that perhaps it was time to look for something closer to home. "I just really like northern Michigan," he said. "I had a great job, and I really liked the people I worked with. But your priorities change."

Opportunity came knocking when, after being contracted by the Boyne City School District to act as a consultant in locating an interim superintendent, Char-Em ISD superintendent Mark Eckhardt called Cooper, wondering if he might be interested in looking at the Boyne position. Having worked with Eckhardt for the years he'd spent as superintendent in Harbor Springs, Cooper had kept in touch and said that "somewhere along the way I probably told him I was leaving that door open."

Once he got some more information and determined that this would be a commitment for the entire school year, something that appealed to him, his interest was piqued, and after meeting with Eckhardt and the school board's personnel committee, he accepted the job.

The job, of course, in light of many months of conflict and controversy regarding the school board and former superintendent Dana Compton, is one that many in the community wondered who would ever want to take on. Cooper acknowledges that while he is aware of the problems and concerns the district has experienced, he said, "my thought is that all districts have concerns. It's a matter of putting things in perspective, regardless of what [those problems] might be."

The key, he said, is if people are willing to set a plan for the future and then follow it, something he believes the current school board is sincere about doing.

"Conflict," he concluded, "is always part of the job [for a superintendent]. It's not always negative, but it's always there."

So far, his contacts with school board members, staff, and others have been positive on the whole, including initial contacts made during the contracting process. "That was a big part of it," said Cooper. "What transpired prior [to my arrival] is none of my business."

The important thing now is to work towards the future, he said, with a vision of wanting to make a change. And according to his conversations with board members so far, Cooper is confident that they are quite sincere in their intent to affect such a change.

Though taking on such a position under the circumstances might be expected to carry with it a little extra pressure, Cooper is finding that the most pressure is exerted in the self-imposed desire to accomplish "as much as possible in a really short period of time." Any pressure though, he reassures, is just part of the job. Regardless of the circumstances, "I'll pursue the job the same," he said.

There will be plenty to keep him busy right from the get-go. The building project, of course, is one of the first things on his plate, encompassing both the new building and the renovations on current buildings. Fortunately, said Cooper, "we're working with an excellent company and an excellent group of people [on the project], which will make that job easier."

Building configuration will also be a subject that will loom large in the coming months, as the district works to determine whether or not the current middle school will continue to be used as building for classrooms in a four-building configuration, or whether the district will move to a three-building configuration and find other potentially revenue-generating uses for the middle school.

The financial structure of the district, too, will be a major focus for Cooper in Boyne City, an area that he realizes, he said, may require "some tough decisions."

At a more basic level, though, Cooper said another aspect of his job will be to simply get to know the folks he's working with, including parents, staff, and community members, and find out what issues are on their minds. "I hope to get to know everybody in the community," he said, "though I know that's not easy to do in a short period of time."

And as communication has long been an issue in the district, this will be a part of the job that many people will be watching. Cooper's philosophy on communication is that it's not only important to have the lines of communication open, but also to be sure that people know what means are available to them. "Obviously [communication is] critical," Cooper said. "You have to make sure that the lines are open, and put things in place so that we have ways to communicate."

Though he believes formal meetings serve an important function, at heart he's one who likes to make things a little less formal whenever possible. "I don't like so much formal stuff," he said. Though he's aware that formal processes, such as appeals, have their place, Cooper feels that every attempt to deal with a situation at a more personal level of communication should be made. The question, before moving into more formal processes, said Cooper, is to ask "have you tried your level best to take care of something at the level which it occurred?"

Cooper, for his part, has a very literal take on an open-door policy. "My door is always open," he said, adding that people are always welcome to come to him with questions or concerns. "If I feel I'm not the appropriate person, I'll refer them back to the staff member, coach, principal."

Despite all the challenging and potentially difficult decisions to be dealt with in upcoming months, Cooper is enthusiastic about the opportunity to be working in the Boyne City School District. At the base of it, he said, the community is very supportive of the schools. "They always have been," he said. "You don't have to walk too far to verify just how supportive."

If the district is able now to show consistency and listen to the people, he said, "by working together, we can make this a real positive situation."

Medicap sponsors Vial of Life program

Medicap Pharmacy in Boyne City is the local sponsor for the Vial of Life program, in which Vial of Life kits are made available to area residents.

The kit includes a vial, a form for listing medical information, instruction sheet, and a sticker to place on a front door or the back window of a vehicle. Participants fill out the form, which includes current medical information, history, and a list of people to contact in case of emergency. The form is inserted into the vial, which is stored on the top shelf of the refrigerator door at home, or the glove compartment of the vehicle. The Vial of Life sticker is posted on the front door of the participant's home and/or on the back window of their vehicle to notify paramedics and emergency personnel that they are a participant of the program.

Local residents can pick up their free Vial of Life at the local Medicap Pharmacy now through the end of the year. For more information, call Medicap at 582-4545.

JIM GALBRAITH'S RETROSPECTIVE OF 50 YEARS IN PHOTOJOURNALISM CELEBRATES

An Uncommon Vision

By ANGELA SHULTIS

Photographer Jim Galbraith's upcoming exhibition, "A Common Eye, An Uncommon Vision," is a retrospective of a lifetime of navigating the fine line between photojournalism and fine art. Finding a way to combine the two has been the thrust of Galbraith's varied and accomplished career, a pursuit that has taken him from top secret military photography to the fast-paced world of newspaper work to a quieter life of creating his own art in East Jordan.

His photographs, which include the "Gandy Dancer" image recently translated into mural form by East Jordan High School students for the Dahlquist Building downtown, span times and cultures, varying from farmer families in the Midwest to images from Galbraith's "adopted country," Ireland.

"I had an interest in shooting pictures, in making a living, in raising my family, and a deep abiding interest in making my own images," said Galbraith of the factors that led him to a lifetime of photojournalism, which, he said, allowed him to satisfy all of those interests.

Beginning in high school with an after-school job working for a studio in Ann Arbor, Galbraith has found ways his entire life to make a living at what he loves.

His newspaper experiences have taken him everywhere from the Ann Arbor News to the Livingston County Press in Howell to the Detroit Free Press. He has done PR photography for groups such as the National Greek Theatre. In the military, he served from 1950-54, during the Korean War, he did stints for the military in Fairbanks, Alaska and at an airbase in Columbus, Ohio, and spent time as the PR photographer for General Curtis LeMay. "I've never been an amateur photographer," he said, smiling, and indeed, it seems he's been the consummate professional from day one.

So many years in the profession have, as one might expect, turned out piles of material; meaning, of course, that compiling a retrospective of those years is a monumental task.

The editing process consisted of poring over thousands of negatives to narrow the field down to a manageable lot. A measure of foresight assured that Galbraith had copies of his work to draw from, considering that the negatives of most of the work he's done over the years, he said, actually belong to the respective companies he was employed at the time. However, Galbraith said, having some experience in the field, he knew early on "that I better keep aside some of the better negatives."

Fifty years, it seems, produced a lot of "better" negatives, with Galbraith estimating that he went through about 10,000 total, and filled about three wastebaskets in the process as well. "I got rid of a lot of stuff," he said.

What he kept, though, are images that speak to both the simplicity and complexity of the human condition. With his camera, Galbraith captures moments in time, that are both straightforward and open to a certain degree of interpretation. "I'm a street photographer," he says emphatically. "The intriguing part of capturing [an image] that you process in your brain visually, it happens in an instant, the thrill of it is being able to capture that image on film, to be able to freeze that moment becomes a record of your life really."

"The thrill of that, the adventure of that, the treasure of that, is what intrigues most photographers and artists."

The street photographer is unique, he said, in that "it is recording the human condition for the most part."

The Gandy Dancer, one of Galbraith's better-known images and certainly one of the most recognizable to local folks, came from one of those moments of "recording the human condition."

"I had an 8 a.m. appointment at Brighton High School [in Brighton, Mich.]," said Galbraith, "I was on my way from Hartland, which was about 10 miles away." Crossing a railroad track on the way, Galbraith caught a glimpse of a worker pounding in a spike. In the early morning light of an early fall day, complete with a dramatic light mist, he said, the image "was very intriguing."

"I made four frames and went to my appointment," he said simply. And the frame that became known as "The Gandy Dancer" is the one that is not, he concludes with a chuckle, in the [newspaper's] file.

And though there are moments of seeming divine intercession, certainly the recording of the human condition can be a challenging pursuit. "There was one break I had that gave me some impetus," Galbraith said. "I had a weekly gallery piece on the op/ed page. For 20 years, I had to come up with one image a week." Many a Sunday evening, he said, found him wondering just what in the heck he would put in the paper that week.

Somehow, though, he's risen to the challenge, time and time again. And, at 71, it appears that Galbraith hasn't stopped looking for new challenges, though he has, he admits, limited what he's willing to undertake in consideration of practical matters, like health.

After more than 10 years of showing and selling at fine art fairs around the country, Galbraith and his wife, Susan, have "retired" from the fine art fair circuit and have settled into working from Galbraith's home studio in the Jordan River Valley. After a highly acclaimed career that has taken him to various places around the world, one might wonder then what would bring an artist, who has experienced kudos as monumental as having an exhibition and book ("Hartland, Change in the Heart of America," which Galbraith completed in the mid-1980s with Susan) nominated for a Pulitzer Prize in Documentary Literature, to settle in a small, rural, northern Michigan community.

Jim Galbraith, shown here in a self-portrait, has worked to combine photojournalism and fine art.

Jim and Susan Galbraith have worked together to compile the photos to be featured in the photographer's retrospective exhibition.

Quite frankly, said Galbraith with a laugh, "it's cheap living." A thriving arts community makes the area attractive to other artists, but, said Galbraith, at the heart, the artists are there because most are looking for a decent place to live that's affordable, something that East Jordan has so far been able to provide.

Not that he doesn't have a certain affinity for the style of arts community that thrives here. Here there are few galleries and cultural venues, a fact that suits Galbraith just fine. He's had some negative experiences with galleries and owners in other areas, and has found that folks are often intimidated by such venues anyway, favoring the more relaxed feel of things like street art fairs.

It is obvious that such matters, though, are of little importance to Galbraith, who instead focuses on creating his very personal and individual art.

With the huge task of pulling together the current retrospective behind him, he can to some degree enjoy the ride of the exhibitions scheduled through 2002, including one at the Crooked Tree Arts Center in Petoskey, to be held from Sept. 7-Oct. 6 with an opening reception scheduled on Sept. 7 from 5-8 p.m.

An exhibition at the Muskegon Museum of Art concluded at the end of July; two more exhibitions are scheduled to follow the stint at the Crooked Tree Arts Center, including shows at the Ella Sharp Museum in Jackson from Dec. 9 through Feb. 3, 2002, and at the Ann Arbor Arts Center from Aug. 9-Sept. 1, 2002.

The fact that his work is booked through next year, though, doesn't mean he's not already thinking towards the next project. Currently in the planning stages is a surrealistic series of "maybe 50, possibly less" prints. "That will be a matter of discovery," he said, "whether or not I'm able to get to where I have to be."

So far, though, Galbraith's instinct for discovery has made for a brilliant career, in that his images demonstrate that he often has been, indeed, where he had to be.

THROUGH THE CAMERA'S EYE

Photographer Jim Galbraith has made capturing the human condition through the camera's lens his life work. Featured here are three photos from his retrospective entitled "A Common Eye, An Uncommon Vision." The collection will be on display at The Crooked Tree Arts Center in Petoskey from Sept. 7 through Oct. 6.

OBITUARIES

Albert L. Slate

Albert L. Slate, 74, died Monday, Aug. 20, 2001 at his home in East Jordan.

Funeral services were held on Thursday, August 23, at the Penzien Funeral Homes, Inc. in East Jordan. The Rev. Eugene L. Baughan of the East Jordan United Methodist Church officiated. Interment was in Antrim City Cemetery, Atwood.

He was born on Jan. 19, 1927 in Detroit, the son of Harry B. and Inez (Brant) Slate. When he was an infant, his parents moved to East Jordan. He grew up and attended school in East Jordan until World War II. Albert joined and served as a merchant marine during World War II. After the war, he came back to East Jordan and graduated from East Jordan High School in 1947. On Jan. 12, 1957 in Hazel Park, he married Loreen Green. They moved back to East Jordan on Dec. 28, 1958.

Albert worked 35 years as a sailor on the Great Lakes for U.S.S. Steel, formerly Pittsburgh Steel. He retired in 1973 as chief engineer. He then worked full-time at the East Jordan Co-op store. He retired from there in 1989 and worked part-time until the present.

Albert was a charter member of the East Jordan Snowmobile Club and a member of the East Jordan United Methodist Church. He enjoyed wood-working, camping, fishing, having coffee with the boys in the morning and most of all, he loved his grandchildren. Albert loved to gab.

He is survived by his wife, Loreen Slate of East Jordan; his three children, Lynda (Jim) Page of East Jordan, Mike (Carmen) Slate of Boyne City, and Pat Slate of Baxter, Minn.; three grandchildren, Zachary Slate and Mallory Slate both of Boyne City and Bill Page of Bellaire; as well as several nieces and nephews.

Memorials may be given to Northwest Michigan Community Health Agency Hospice or the East Jordan United Methodist Sunday School Building Fund. Arrangements were made by Penzien Funeral Homes, Inc. in East Jordan.

Ella M. Nulph

Ella M. Nulph, 99, of Boyne City, went peacefully to be with her Lord Aug. 16, 2001, at Grandvue Medical Care Facility in East Jordan.

Her funeral service was held at Stackus Funeral Home in Boyne City. Elder Bill Morgan assisted by Elder Lee Ecker officiated. Burial took place in Maple Lawn Cemetery, Boyne City.

Ella was born Sept. 4, 1901 in Boyne City, the daughter of Jacob and Helen (Aldrich) Clute. She lived her entire life in Boyne City. On Aug. 1, 1928, she married William J. Nulph in Park of the Pines on Lake Charlevoix. Together they raised registered hereford cattle after they retired to Hobby Acres in the 1940s and they had horses. Mr. Nulph preceded her in death in 1962.

Ella started a successful dress shop during the Depression but it burned in 1951. She then worked for her sister at Gocha's Casuals in Boyne City and later in Petoskey at Gocha's Bridal Shop. She dearly enjoyed all children and babies, especially her six great-granddaughters, with Raven Rock being her close little angel. She also enjoyed telling stories of the "Good Ole Days." Her sight was gone from macular degeneration and glaucoma which sometimes made her stories more vibrant and interesting. She was a member of the Reorganized Church of Jesus Christ of Latter Day Saints in Boyne City.

Survivors include one daughter, Lynda (John) Arno of Boyne City; one son, William Scott, of Florida; daughter-in-law, Shirley Scott Hill, of Fla.; four grandchildren, Bill, Lynn, Bill, Kim; and six great-granddaughters. She was the last of 10, being preceded in death by six brothers, Arthur, Harvey, Melvin, Estel, Victor and Orville; and three sisters, Zina, Helen and Virginia.

Memorials may be directed to the family, and a charity will be chosen at a later date. Arrangements were made by Stackus Funeral Home in Boyne City.

Comm. Foundation announces grant request deadlines

Once again, it's time to put local charitable dollars to work on behalf of the community. The Charlevoix County Community Foundation is inviting nonprofit organizations, educational institutions, and municipalities who are in need of funding to submit grant requests in support of their projects.

During the next few months, the Community Foundation and its Youth Advisory Committee (YAC) will review grant proposals to help fund health initiatives, community development projects, education, the arts and cultural events, environmental efforts, and human service programs.

The YAC, which is made up of representatives from high schools throughout Charlevoix County, will award grants to programs that serve children and teens.

Programs chosen for funding must serve residents of Charlevoix County, meet an urgent need, or enrich life for local residents in some way. The deadline for grant requests is Oct. 1, 2001, and funding decisions will be announced later in November.

Grant applications are available by calling the Community Foundation office. All applicants must call and discuss their proposals in advance. Foundation staff is available to offer advice and assistance to organizations interested in applying for funds.

Established by a group of area citizens in 1992, the Charlevoix County Community Foundation is a grassroots charitable organization made up of 118 separate funds - all of them established by local donors.

All the funds are held in permanent endowment, so they can continue to grow and generate income to enhance the quality of life in Charlevoix County, now and for generations to come.

To date, the Community Foundation's assets have grown to over $7.3 million, and grants and scholarships in excess of $2.5 million have been distributed to the community.

For more information about the foundation, grant applications, or help for grant-seekers, please contact the Charlevoix County Community Foundation at P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, MI 49727, by phone at (231) 536-2440, or by fax at (231) 536-2640.

Deadline nears for land purchase next to Raven Hill

The Little Traverse Conservancy has announced that it is rapidly approaching the Sept. 1 deadline to raise the final $145,000 needed to purchase a 140-acre property adjacent to the Raven Hill Discovery Center.

"If we don't raise this money quickly, we may lose our option to purchase the land," said Tom Lagerstrom, Associate Director for the non-profit land protection organization.

The Conservancy is partnering with Raven Hill Discovery Center to protect the land for education and public enjoyment. The Conservancy was asked to step in during the spring of 2001 when two properties adjacent to the center were listed for sale.

In addition to preventing development on the borders of Raven Hill's 157 acres, acquisition of these lands would allow for the expansion of environmental education opportunities currently available at Raven Hill.

The land will be owned and managed as a Conservancy nature preserve, will be open to the public, and will be available for environmental education programs for visitors to Raven Hill.

"This piece of land serves to increase the diversity and enrich the experiences that visitors can have at Raven Hill," said Cheri Leach of Raven Hill.

"The geology of the glacial moraines and the biology of the living organisms within a beech-maple habitat will pique the curiosity and encourage exploration of a beautiful natural habitat, making the woods and fields into a unique museum for children of the community."

Raven Hill is a regional science and technology center located four miles southeast of East Jordan. It is also a cultural, historical, and art center.

The overall goal of the Center is to foster an interest in and to convey information in science and technology, history, and the arts by inviting visitors to have quality hands-on experiences. The Center is open year-round to the public, individuals, groups, and organizations. It is a 501 (c)(3) tax-exempt corporation.

To help protect this land for the benefit of thousands of people of all ages, donations can be sent to the Little Traverse Conservancy. For more information about the project, call the Conservancy office at 347-0991.

Leach can be seen on PACE TV's School Forum program this week. She will explain the Raven Hill Partnership Project, a partnership between Raven Hill Discovery Center and Little Traverse Conservancy.

The program will first air on Friday, Aug. 31, from 7-7:30 p.m. and be replayed from 4-4:30 p.m. on Saturday, Sept. 1, and from 10-10:30 a.m. on Sunday, Sept. 2.

PACE programming can be viewed in Boyne City, East Jordan, and Boyne Falls on Charter Cable's channel 13.

School opens Tuesday in Boyne

School begins on Tuesday, Sept. 4 for all Boyne City students.

Students in grades 5 through 8 should plan to arrive between 8 and 8:15 a.m. Upon entering the school, students should check the main entry hallway to find their assigned homerooms and proceed to that room by 8:25 a.m.

Schedules and class lists should be completed by Aug. 30. On Aug. 30 and Aug. 31 parents and students may stop by, check the lists and take a tour of the building to help familiarize them to the building before opening day.

On the first day, in their advisory period, students will be given a copy of the school's handbook. This handbook will be combined with the assignment book and a study guide section and should be reviewed by parents. Staff will be asking students to use it on a regular basis. Any questions or suggestion should be directed to the student's teacher.

During advisory, students will also receive their daily schedule and various other forms which should be brought home for parents to read, fill out and return.

After advisory activities have been completed, students will have a shortened schedule of all of their classes. School will dismiss at 11:08 a.m. Students will start their regular schedule with a full day on Wednesday, Sept. 5. For more information, call the middle school at 439-8200.

Northern Michigan Hospital offers program on 'Building better bones'

Northern Michigan Hospital in Petoskey is sponsoring Building Better Bones, a program designed for those interested in the prevention and treatment of osteoporosis.

The program "Building Better Bones" will be offered in three sessions. Sept. 13, 20 and 27, from 9 a.m. - 12 noon at the Dean C. Burns Community Health Education Center, 360 Connable Avenue, Petoskey.

"Building Better Bones" will be conducted by Dr. Laurie Kane, endocrinologist at Northern Michigan Hospital who specializes in the treatment of osteoporosis, diabetes and thyroid disorders. The program is open to all individuals diagnosed with osteoporosis or low bone density based on bone density testing. A referral by a physician is necessary. The cost is $25, which includes syllabus, snacks and more.

Osteoporosis is responsible for more than 1.5 million broken bones each year. It can strike any person at any age, although it's most common in postmenopausal women. A woman can lose up to 20 percent of her bone mass in the five to seven years after menopause. A woman's risk of developing a hip fracture is equal to her combined risk of breast, uterine and ovarian cancers.

The keys to reducing risk include regular weight-bearing exercise and adequate intake of calcium, vitamin D and magnesium intake. Bone Mineral Density (BMD) testing can accurately and safely measure bone density and is the best way of predicting future fracture risk.

To register or for more information about Building Better Bones, call (231) 487-4532.

Building healthy communities topic of speech

Alan Berkowitz, Ph.D. will speak at North Central Michigan College's Conference Center in Petoskey on Monday, Sept. 10, about how it takes everyone to build healthy, respectful, non-violent communities.

Berkowitz has over 20 years of experience in higher education as a trainer, psychologist, faculty member and Counseling Center Director. He received a Ph.D. in Psychology from Cornell University in 1981 and is a New York State licensed psychologist.

He recently received the "Outstanding Service Award" from the Network of Colleges and Universities Committed to the Elimination of Alcohol and Drug Abuse for his significant contributions to the field of alcohol and drug prevention.

"If you are part of a community, you'll want to come and hear Dr. Berkowitz speak," said Chris Krajewski, Program Director at the WRC.

"Alan is a nationally renowned speaker who helps colleges, universities, public health agencies and communities design programs that address health and social justice issues."

"There are so many different components that make up a safe, healthy community - good schools, well-maintained roads, clean air and water, affordable healthcare and a safe place to live," said Tracy Skinner, program coordinator at the WRC.

"However, the biggest resource in any community is its people, and Dr. Berkowitz will focus on how each of us can be a part of ensuring a strong, safe community for our children, our families, our friends and our neighbors."

The program which begins at 7 p.m. is appropriate for all ages, and men, women and young people are welcome to attend. The program is free of charge. For more information please contact the WRC at 231-347-0067.

NEWS FROM CITY HALL

Work continues on Boyne City streets

By SUE HOBBS

C.H. SMITH COMPANY is continuing to work on the water main in north Boyne, along Court Street. Due to the delay of C.H. Smith in starting and finishing work on North Park Street, the Glawe Company from Alpena did not begin work on the Park Street reconstruction on Aug. 1. It is anticipated they will begin the work this week.

BIKE RACKS are to be installed in the downtown area. At the Downtown Development Authority meeting, chair Jodie Adams asked for volunteers from the DDA board to install them.

ZONING PERMITS issued recently were: Matthew Sobleski, 317 North Park Street, addition/remodel; Rodney Sherwood, 207 East Division Street, addition/remodel; Bill and Diane Kelly, 418 McKinley, new residence; Harborage Building Company, 829 Pleasant Avenue, new residence; Bill and Pam Klingbeil, 1117 Hull Street, new dwelling; Ameritech, 116 State Street, addition; G and N Investments, 976 East Division Street, new structure.

IN 1994 THE CITY started a new program for the mayor to present special certificates to city residents celebrating their 50th wedding anniversary or 80 year or older birthday. Please keep this in mind when families are preparing for these special events. Call city hall at 582-6597 about a month in advance to request a form and give city staff time to prepare.

THE DDA recently contracted with Mark Felton to trim and thin the trees in the downtown area. The DDA is still waiting on the permit from the Army Corps of Engineers to begin work on the River Walk.

ON APRIL 25, 1885 the Council for the Village of Boyne City was called to order by Mayor McFellin. At this meeting it was moved and supported that cattle be allowed to run at large from April 1 to Nov. 1. The motion was amended to read that cattle not be allowed to run at large in Boyne City limits from 7:30 in the evening till 6 o'clock next morning. Amended motion prevailed. In 1997 one of the several candidates interviewed for the city manager position was James McFellin, a descendent of the 1885 mayor.

THE PLAYGROUND Committee wants to remind everyone about the upcoming Build Day, Sept. 19-23. They also stated they are still accepting donations.

(Sue Hobbs is the city clerk and assistant city manager for the City of Boyne City.)

Foundation raising funds for Boyne City school projects

As the beginning of the school year nears, the Boyne City Foundation for Educational Excellence is working to raise funds to benefit various projects and programs in the Boyne City School District.

The big event on horizon is a dance and social event, a "Top 100 Songs of the 20th Century" countdown. Those attending will enjoy dancing the night away or just reminiscing about songs from their past at the Boyne Mountain Civic Center. The event, to be held Saturday, Sept. 22, at 6:30 p.m., will feature complimentary hors d'oeuvres and a cash bar, as well as a door prizes and a silent auction.

At the end of the evening, a six-CD collection of the 100 songs played during the event will be raffled off.

The cost is $15 per person. Tickets are now available at the Boyne City Chamber of Commerce, Boyne Country Books, Lynda's Real Estate Service, or from any foundation member. Proceeds will be earmarked for programs of the BCFEED fine arts committee.

Said Jill Compton, head of the fine arts committee, "We're excited about this fund-raiser. It's the beginning of the school year, and everyone should be enthusiastic about getting together."

The foundation is also still selling nameplates for the 600 theatre seats to be installed in the new high school auditorium.

Nameplates can be purchased for a minimum donation of $150, and can be engraved with the name of a business, family, or individual, up to 40 characters.

Proceeds from the nameplate fund-raiser will also go towards the fine arts committee, which has made a commitment to raising $100,000 to enhance the auditorium, including the planned purchase of a $73,000 flown rigging setup above the stage. The balance of funds will be used for additional upgrades to the facility.

The auditorium will open in the fall of 2002 with the completion of the new Boyne City High School. The facility will seat 600 patrons, and will accommodate most professional touring companies as well as local performances.

Though currently there is a lot of activity in the foundation's fine arts committee, community members should also be aware that other committees, such as sports and a newly-formed vocational education committee, are also hard at work to promote their respective areas of interest.

The foundation, whose first project was the now nearly-completed sports complex, was formed, said president Pete Friedrich, "to do good things for the school." While sports was the initial focus, it became clear that other areas would also benefit from the attention of the foundation, including fine arts and vocational education. Donations are always welcome to assist the foundation in reaching its goals, and funds can be earmarked for specific areas of the donor's interest, or can be put in the foundation's general fund.

For more information on Foundation fund-raisers or membership, call Friedrich at 582-6969 or Jill Compton at 582-1058.

SPORTS COMPLEX UPDATE

Quietly, The Boyne City Foundation for Educational Excellence Sports Complex Committee has continued to fulfill its promises to the community by continuing work at the Sports Complex. As you attend football games this fall at The Complex take note of some of these enhancements. Also note that a couple of finishing touches, including walkways to the complex from the new high school, are on hold until the high school project is complete.

Completed projects:

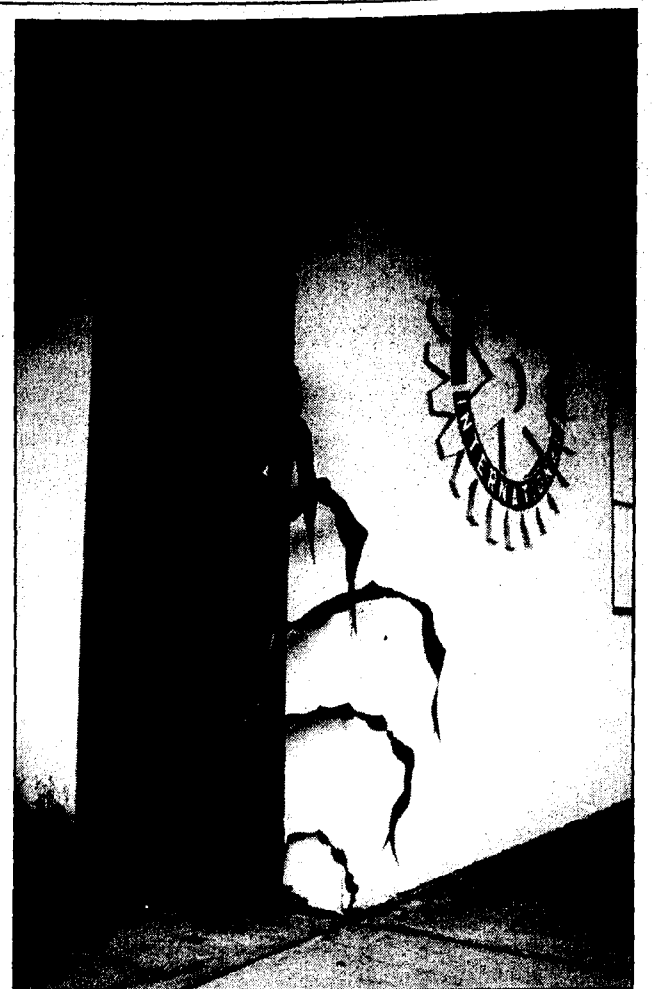

- new visitor bleachers
- sidewalk around the south end of the field
- new restrooms, a new sign indicating location of restrooms will be up soon
- floodlight at base of flagpole
- purchased scoreboard for new baseball field
- purchased new player's benches for football field
- twelve additional trees have been planted inside complex
- new signage has been purchased explaining usage and rules of the complex.

Still in the works:

- pole vault area
- cement pad will be poured for spring, Vaulting box will be installed
- new ticket booths
- paths/walkways from the new high school to The Complex
- sidewalk to concessions area
- new flagpole for baseball field
- bike racks
- three sets of bleachers for baseball field
- mats to protect the surface of the track for player crossovers and cheer team
- dugouts for the baseball field

A work bee will be held at the sports complex on Saturday, Sept. 1, at 8 a.m. Anyone interested in helping spruce up the complex for the fall sports season is invited to come and help out.

For information on becoming a member of the BCFEED Sports Complex Committee, to make a donation, or to volunteer to help with continuing work at the complex, call 582-7247, 582-7512, 582-6721 or 582-7211.

Fresh popcorn?

As the fall sports season is getting underway, concession sales will soon begin at the Boyne City High School Sports Complex. Despite a summer of poor growing weather, this tough cornstalk, apparently the result of an errant seed, is doing just fine at the Rotary concession stand at the complex, meaning, perhaps, that homegrown popcorn will be on the menu.

Health center celebrates

The East Jordan Family Health Center held their third annual Patient Appreciation Day on Thursday, Aug. 23, with food, games and fun for the whole family. The celebration coincided with the center's 25th anniversary of service to the community, a milestone that was commemorated at the event with a presentation given by an aid to congressman Bart Stupak.

EAST JORDAN SCHOOL BOARD UPDATE

At its recent regular meeting, the East Jordan Board of Education received an update from schools superintendent Chip Hansen regarding the ongoing efforts of the district's Facility Review Committee.

The committee has been meeting throughout the summer to examine the impact of enrollment and program growth on the district, and has forwarded a preliminary set of considerations to the district's architect for further study.

- Areas to be considered include:
- Providing elementary classroom space to accommodate five sections of each grade level.
 - Providing middle school classroom space to accommodate five sections of each grade level.
 - Improving the media center and vocational education spaces at the high school.
 - Managing existing capital improvement needs in all buildings.
 - Expanding technology infrastructure and capability.
 - Expanding the high school cafeteria by capturing existing auditorium space and investigating the potential for a new auditorium.
 - Considering field spaces, parking areas, site lighting and paving improvements.
- According to Hansen, the committee will review the architect's design and cost information in the coming months, and after discussion, will forward recommendations to the Board of Education.

IN OTHER BUSINESS the board conducted the first reading of proposed revisions to File JN of the Board of Education Policy Manual, which will eliminate the 5.0 grading scale, effective with the Class of 2004, and provide for the Valedictory Award to go to the student(s) earning the highest GPA. Medals of Academic Excellence would be awarded to all graduating seniors earning GPA's of 3.75 or higher.

SPORTS

High school soccer gets go-ahead

It's official — Boyne City High School will offer boys and girls soccer this year, as a club sport slated to begin this fall.

A meeting last week between the administration and soccer program supporters brought about a compromise to add the program this year, though not as an MHSAA-sanctioned sport. Instead, the program will be run as a club sport, similar to how some other sports programs began at the school, including cross country and tennis.

As was outlined in the soccer program supporters' most recent proposal to the school, the program will not require any school funding for at least five years, and will employ a volunteer coach, Nick Baic, who brings many years of soccer coaching experience to the program.

"We did a little brainstorming," said Boyne City Public Schools interim superintendent Jim Cooper of the meeting, with both parties coming to an agreement he called "a good solution."

The proposed soccer program initially had not found support from the high school administrative team, which cited budget and insurance concerns as potential problems. After presenting a revised proposal which required no funding from the district for at least five years, organizers still were unable to find support for the program. At a regular school board meeting earlier this month, program supporters brought the proposal to the attention of the board, which said it would review the proposal and would set up an administrative meeting to address the issue, which led to the most recent meeting with Cooper.

Practices are already underway, as organizers had begun a community soccer team for high school age players which would have played in lieu of a high school soccer team. However, now that the high school has agreed to take on soccer as a club sport, the team will be comprised of only students from Boyne City High School. The team will practice at Rotary Park Monday - Friday from 4-6 p.m. beginning Sept. 4.

Any student who wishes to participate in soccer can sign up at practice. All athletes are required to have a current physical filed with the school prior to participating in any school sports program.

For more information, call the athletic department at 439-8131.

Red Devils stumble out of the chute

Central Lake and East Jordan played their game close to the vest, keeping each other in check for the entire second half.

Unfortunately, the Trojans did the better job of keeping East Jordan out of the end zone in the first half and held on to win a tough game, 13-7.

After Central Lake scored on its opening drive, East Jordan held the Trojans on their second series, forcing a punt.

The Red Devils broke through on the kick, blocking the punt and covering the ball at the Trojan 15-yard line.

It took one play for the Devils to convert their good luck, with Robert Grover scoring from 15 yards out, then kicking the point after to tie the game 7-7.

The Trojans took the lead for good just before the half on a 58-yard drive, missing the extra point to keep the opportunities alive for the Red Devils.

Alas, the scoring was over for the night, with each team posting a shut-out in the second half, and Central Lake leaving town with the 13-7 win.

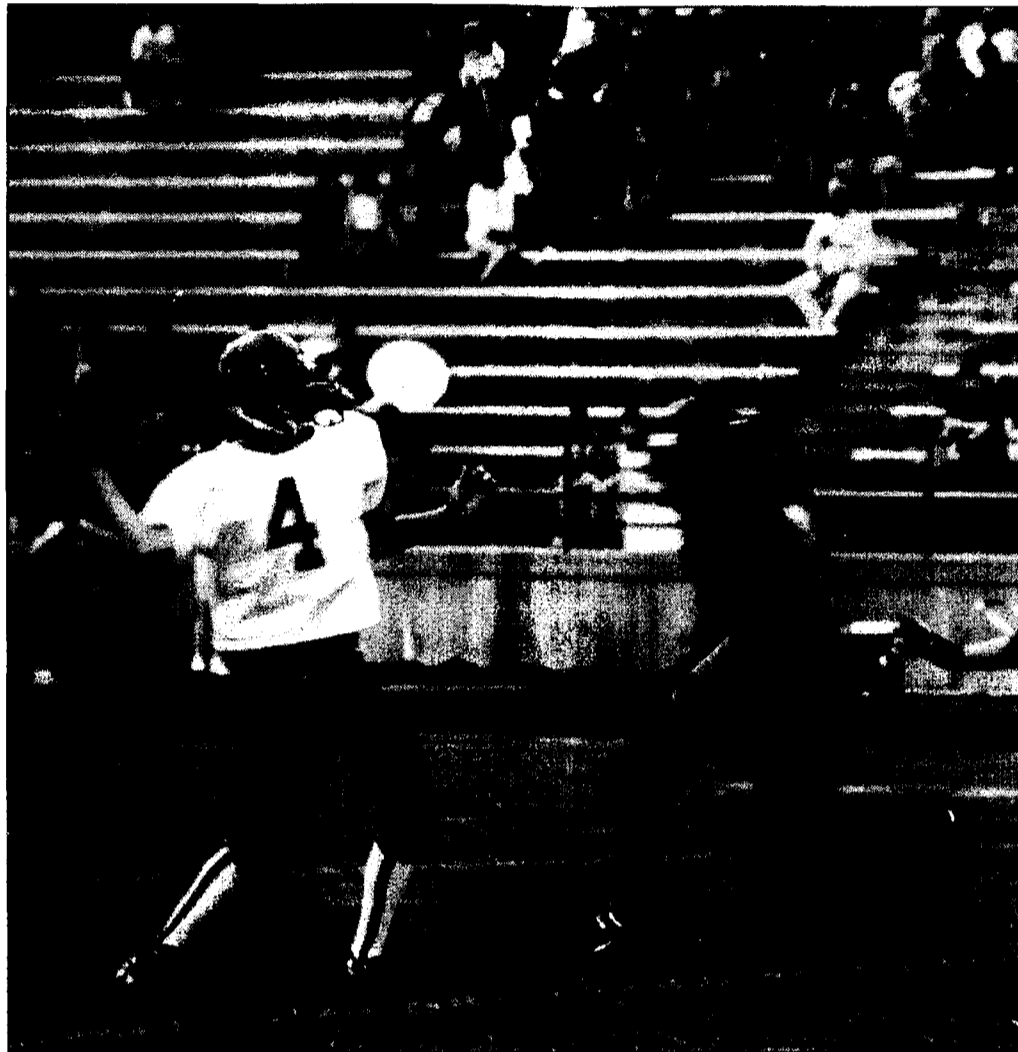

According to coach Al Peterson, "Both teams played real good defense in the second half. We made a good stand on Central Lake, then they stopped us twice, once at their 15 yard line."

Grover ended the night with 103 yards on 17 carries, Allen Arnot added 35 yards.

Defensively, Brian Diller made 15 tackles, Grover knocked down 11, Joey Cooper had 11 tackles, and John Reese and Kevin Roberts each had 10.

the half and holding that lead to the end.

The Red Devils took only two plays to begin the scoring. Az Ahmed ran 53 yards for the opening score. On their next possession, Josh Sheridan exploded out of the backfield for 66 yards and a touchdown, adding the two point conversion for a 14-0 first quarter lead.

A blocked punt by Reese Bartlett and Willie Skrocki in the second quarter was pounced upon by Skrocki in the end zone for the final touchdown. Sheridan's conversion summed up the scoring, 22-0.

"The offensive line opened up some great holes for the running backs," said coach Todd Derezny.

Josh Sheridan's 153 yards rushing was proof of that.

Skrocki led the defense with 14 tackles. Kevin Whiteford had 12 tackles and two and a half sacks.

Ramblers dominate Newberry in season-opening 33-0 win

A long road trip to start the season may not have been the ideal situation for Boyne City, but coach David Hills took the visit across the bridge to Newberry in stride and came home with an emphatic 33-0 win.

The start of the game wasn't too promising. The Ramblers bobbled the opening kickoff back to Newberry. The tide turned soon after as Newberry, in the spirit of giving, fumbled the ball back two plays later.

Unwilling to wait for a good turn of events, the Ramblers decided to make their own luck, striking for a score on their third offensive play. Dustin Moore delivered a 66-yard touchdown to start the 2001 Rambler scoring. Tim Wellert added the point after and Boyne led, 7-0.

Continuing the make-your-own-luck theory, the Ramblers kicked off short, recovering the ball to keep the offense on the field. The good deeds continued to be rewarded as just a few plays later, Ryan Amesbury tossed an 18-yard scoring pass to Kyle Gibbons. The Wellert PAT raised the margin to 14-0.

In the second quarter, A.J. Spaay did seven yards better, breaking off 73 yards for a score. With the PAT, the Ramblers were up 21-0 at the half.

The defense played real well, according to Coach Hills, and in example cited a quick stop of the Newberry squad to start the second half when Dustin Moore returned an interception to the Newberry 5 yard line. Three plays later, Chris Grice went the last yard for the Rambler score and a 27-0 lead.

Cole Andrews finished the Rambler scoring with a 30-yard run, sending the team home with yet one more happy memory of their visit to the northern side of the bridge.

Dustin Moore had a good game with two interceptions. A.J. Spaay had 11 tackles and Paul Simeri had 10. Hills was also pleased with Bob Courtright's defensive work, leading the squad to two fumble recoveries.

The Ramblers stay on the road with a visit to Rogers City Friday, Aug. 31.

IN JUNIOR varsity action on Thursday, Nick Sulak ran for 101 yards and three Ramblers scored to lead Boyne City to an 18-8 win over Newberry.

Tyler Daniels scored on a four-yard run in the first quarter, Reed Ameal added a three-yard run a short time later, and David Austin scored from 10 yards in the second half.

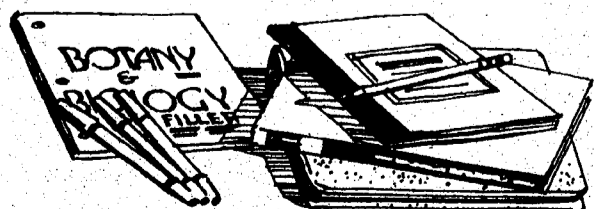

Geary Ryder had an interception, with Brenton Rozycki, Adam McBee and Matt Ku leading the defense.

Tuning up and stretching out

Tanya Savory in concert at Aten Place

Tanya Savory will appear at Aten Place on Saturday, Sept. 1, at 7:30 p.m. Savory played to an overflow crowd last year and, according to hosts Bill and Maxine Aten, patrons have eagerly awaited her return. Her performance will close out the 2001 Concerts in the Barn series. Rounder/Philo recording artist Savory has gained national recognition as a premier performer and songwriter whose music is not easily pigeonholed into one specific genre. Her debut Rounder CD, "Town to Town," has been described by the Nashville Scene magazine as "a folk country gem, exploring the nooks and crannies of small-town life with gutsy honesty and a spiritual backbone." Touring nationally since 1995 with piano accompanist Kim House, Tanya's live show provides the unique combination of guitar with piano, which stands out on the heavily solo guitar-based singer/songwriter circuit. Savory has received numerous awards and honors, including the DISCOVERY Award from Music Row Magazine, as well as being named winner of the Napa Valley Music Festival Emerging Songwriter Competition. Aten Place is located one-half mile south of Cherry Hill Road on Old Mackinaw Trail in Boyne Falls. Aten Place concerts are non-profit productions with a $6 donation at the door provided as compensation to the entertainers. For more information, call 549-2076 or visit www.atenplace.com.
