Students at Boyne City Public Schools will have a half-day of classes on Tuesday, Oct. 16, due to staff development meetings. The middle school will be dismissed at 11:08 a.m., and the elementary and high schools will be dismissed at 11:23 a.m. There will be no afternoon kindergarten, and morning kindergarten students will return home with the older students. Breakfast will be available for all students.

Cool festival

Despite frigid temperatures and freezing rain, some hardy folks couldn't be kept from having a little fall fun at Saturday's Fall Harvest Festival in Boyne City. Above, Rianne Coale, Kristen Matelski, and Cailla Coale personalize some pumpkins at a booth sponsored by the Boyne City Public Schools. And though the weather wasn't very fall-like, the abundance of apples reassured folks that it is, indeed, harvest time.

East Jordan fire department makes move to volunteer status

Last week, the East Jordan City Commission approved a motion to return the city's fire department to a volunteer system from the current system in which firefighters are considered employees of the city. The move, which passed with a 4-1 vote, resulted from a recommendation made by city administrator David White that the commissioners consider reinstating a volunteer status for firefighters. Commissioner Shane Williams cast the one dissenting vote, citing continuing accountability issues, though the measure means that he will be able to return to service in the department as a volunteer (Williams became inactive in the department after the city ruled that a commissioner could not be a city employee). The recommendation came, White said later, after some research into the possibility, which included talking to community members, firefighters, and fire chief Glen Thorman. White also looked at other departments in the area and around the state, as well as "the history of the [East Jordan] department." "The general consensus," he said, "was that East Jordan's [fire department] should be volunteer." Volunteer firefighters are compensated for their service on a per run basis, as opposed to an hourly rate as city employees. Firefighters will elect officers, including a fire chief subject to White's approval. Under the recent city employee system, the position of fire chief was appointed solely by White. Current fire chief Glen Thorman supports the move. "We're hoping with bringing back the firemen's control of the department, we'll bring back more of the

Declining enrollment for Boyne City schools could cause budget problems in the future

With preliminary enrollment numbers coming in at just over 1,240 students K-12, a decline from last fall and far below those numbers projected just a few short years ago, the Boyne City Public School District is taking a serious look at options for the future. Though down a flat total of 53 students from last year, interim superintendent Jim Cooper said, those numbers can be adjusted, with 16 lost simply by attrition, and with an increase of 11 students in the alternative education programs, in the "whole picture" the district is looking at a 26-student deficit.

While the number is not huge, it is alarming in that it is the continuation of a trend that started last year, when the district began to see a decline. "It's obviously significant," said Cooper, who added that, at this point, the reasons for the decline are not clear. "We hope to know before the year is over what's happening," he said. "We just need to examine what's happening in our enrollment." One way of doing that, he said, has already begun, by conducting "exit interviews" with those leaving the district, in order to assess their reasons for leaving. What they've found, so far, he said, amounts to a variety of reasons, many personal, such as daycare issues and proximity to a parent's workplace. Others were more specific, with parents who "just weren't happy" with the programs. The interviews will be a useful tool to the district, Cooper said, in discovering which issues the district might be able to address to prevent future concerns. "We certainly can address issues that take place in the buildings," he said. "I've not been told by anyone that curricular issues [were the reason for leaving the district], but if there is, those are things we can control." The most obvious place to look, of course, is open enrollment numbers. But, according to Cooper, that doesn't appear to be a major issue. Balancing the incoming and outgoing students, the district is down only two students through open enrollment. "That certainly was not the issue [behind the decline] this year, anyway," he said. Going back a bit further, he added, Boyne City's enrollment "really started to decline when we lost several students to the charter school (Concord Academy Boyne, which opened in the mid 1990s)," a number that today, Cooper estimates, adds up to about 150 students. Declining enrollment can, among other things, translate to budget problems for the district, which receives a per-student foundation grant from the state as a major source of school funding. For the current school year, Cooper said, the district had "budgeted conservatively, so we're okay budgetwise." Still, in the long run, less students translates to less dollars,

Football mom supports team no matter what

TO THE EDITOR:

As a mother you want to protect and support your child no matter what. I know that I cannot protect my child from rude comments about his football team, but I can and will support his dreams and his love for the game.

My son, Robert, is in his third year for the East Jordan varsity football team. He knew that when it was time to go to the field and get ready for the game he had my love and support. Before he walks out the door to go to the game, he comes to me and gives me that big hug and kiss and says "I love you, Mom." He knows I will have a tear in my eye as I say "I love you, and good luck." When he comes from the locker room, to the field he knows that his mom, dad, and sister are in the stands yelling, cheering, and holding up signs for he and his teammates.

As I watch my son this year, I was so proud of him. He put his heart and soul into the football game. Robert and his teammates never give up at their game, even when they are exhausted and sore ... they just keep the game going, no matter what the score is.

I want the East Jordan Varsity football team to know that I am a very proud mom. I have enjoyed all of them and enjoy watching them play the game to the end.

Remember that next year I will be there to support you, Robert, and your teammates all the way.

Good luck and love you, with a tear in my eye.

Band made homecoming a patriotic event

TO THE EDITOR:

This note comes your way to give a huge thanks to our Boyne City High School, for the wonderful Homecoming celebration we as a community got to enjoy, and for the incredible opening to the football game. For those of you who were able to attend the festivities, you all know what I am talking about, for the rest I would like to let them know.

The band marched out onto the field as they always do, looking great, but then they chose to address the crowd with as fine and patriotic a showing as I've ever seen at any high school. Under the direction of Mr. Bill Sommerfeldt they chose to play "America the Beautiful," which they only had three or four days to learn, and they did spectacular! But, as Monty Hall used to say, "that's not all!"; they were accompanied in song by a couple of our great drama members under the direction of Mr. Bob Wollenberg, who along with his wife, Jackie, asked all the kids in not only our stands, but Elk Rapids stands to come down onto the field to form our great flag with red, white, and blue pom-poms. The sight, as you can imagine, was incredible, and a great tribute to our great country, and ultimately to our great school. Our kids showed us all how lucky we are to have such a good group to represent our school. A little later as I was selling popcorn on the Elk Rapids side of the field, I was filled with pride as they told me how neat they all thought the song and flag ideas were, and especially how neat it was that they were invited to join in! For that, I am proud to say thanks to our staff that coordinated it, and especially thanks to all our kids for taking the time to learn all they did on such short notice. As if all that wasn't enough, we had another group of kids that came to shine also, our football team. They rose to the occasion, as they've done all year and made not only coach Hills proud, but each and everyone of us that were there. Good luck team, and keep on Ramblin'!

Once again you've proved why so many of us choose to call Boyne City our home, and ultimately our school of choice (as if there were any other in our eyes)! Thanks Boyne!

Renovations and repairs still being made to Boyne bandshell

TO THE EDITOR:

This letter is an update on the completion of the bandshell in Veterans Park and response to a letter I received from Tim O'Leary at City Hall.

First of all I would like to point out how many compliments the bandshell has received by locals and visitors alike. I can think of several times when I was planting or trying to keep up with the weed population (impossible!), there would be visitors commenting on how great things looked and how lucky Boyne City was to have an open space like this to enjoy. With the increased use of the bandshell over the past summer I can only expect that its use will double next summer (Did anyone see the Cuttime Players, part of the Detroit Symphony Orchestra? What a treat!).

Now in response to Mr. O'Leary's letter, which I might add was incredibly rude and unprofessional, he describes the City's patience for the bandshell's completion (which I do appreciate) and the items that remain incomplete: 1. Electrical; 2. Landscaping; 3. Welding of beam; 4. Stage floor resurfacing.

Upon inspection by a certified electrician the electrical wiring that exists at the bandshell is perfectly fine and up to code, as was reported last summer. Next the landscaping, which was nixed by the City itself for a number of reasons and was decided before we even began work on the bandshell.

As for the remaining two items, I will say they have been delayed many times which has been frustrating to me as well, and I have communicated with Mr. O'Leary as much as possible about trying to get these items completed. But since we had less than 10 volunteers on this project (one of them being my husband) the scheduling has been a problem. Lastly, the beam that is needed to bring the snow bearing of the bandshell up to code: We have the material and someone to do the work, but have been trying to locate a portable welder, without much luck (anyone know of one?).

With these two items yet to be completed the bandshell was in full swing this past summer and I will remain on the job to see it through.

So many great things are happening in Veterans Park that will just encourage more use of the bandshell, is there any reason to threaten it again. The point has been made, and I feel Mr. O'Leary clearly overstepped his bounds by sending this out considering it was at no cost to the City and I have asked for nothing from them. With so many projects going on forever, it is understandable that the City does not want this project to do the same, I will continue to forge ahead and see that it gets done.

A Mom's Life

For mom, the score is relative

By CINDI PLACE

As I watch our youngest son chase a little black and white ball around the field, I find myself reflecting back on all the ball games, cold nights, hot sunny afternoons, and wins and losses in which I've been a spectator over the years.

When our kids first began playing organized sports, they were so young that playing the game was the highlight. T-ball was funnier than anything, with kids running the wrong way, hitting the ball then not knowing what to do, or simply sitting in the dirt at short stop, making mud pies instead of watching the game.

Just to look out on a fully occupied t-ball field was like watching a bunch of same-colored ants, hopping around and moving from side to side.

We've watched our kids learn to play soccer, and we've had to learn right along with them. Ten years ago I had no idea what an offside was or who was supposed to play where. Ten years ago, soccer was a game played in gangs with each team virtually running after the ball in one big cluster. Now our kids play the game with knowledge, and we parents talk amongst ourselves about midfielders and headers, like the experts we think we are.

No matter what the sport, when our children were little, winning wasn't the most important thing. Many times, after a hard played t-ball or soccer game, when we asked our kids who won, they had no idea.

But now that the boys are older, winning is becoming more and more important. Sometimes a loss can be tempered with a well-played game, but mostly they're concerned with who won and by how much.

Our youngest son's soccer team hasn't lost a game all season. And you can bet those kids are fully aware of this fact. After their last game of the season, our son was so proud of his team's efforts. We're undefeated, mom, he exclaimed.

What he doesn't realize is that he's always been undefeated to me.

MANY THANKS

This is to say a heartfelt thank-you to all the firemen, police, or ambulance attendants that helped us with our five consumers, at the Doug Stone Concert. Your help was greatly appreciated. They all loved the concert.

Wood engraving exhibition on display at JRAC

The art of wood engraving is not a lost art, according to Jordan River Arts Council president Jane Diller. "One only should see the exhibit, 'Reflections on Paper,'" on exhibition until Nov. 7 at the Jordan River Art Center, 301 Main St., East Jordan.

The exhibit has over 300 "little gems," as one patron called them during the opening Sunday, Oct. 7. "They are incredible masterpieces," said art patron, Don Marek of Grand Rapids. Participating artist Rebecca Fox "was impressed by the variety and quality of technique and subject matter."

According to Diller, the exhibit enjoyed a successful opening: "the room was full," she said, adding that folks came from all over to view the pieces. The original prints exhibited in the show are from the Wood Engravers Network, WEN, an international organization of wood engravers. Wood engraving was the first method used for mass production from the time of Johannes Gutenberg until the photographic processes eventually curtailed the use in industry. Now, generally, wood engravings are produced as a fine art in limited editions.

The 45 panels with five to eight prints on a panel has been exhibited from West Virginia to Seattle, Washington. This is a first of such an exhibit in Northern Michigan.

In addition to the WEN exhibit are engravings and other relief prints, intaglios, and lithographs by 24 invited Michigan printmakers. Area printmakers represented are Cara Hochhalter, Meredith Krell, and Steve Toornman of Charlevoix, Glen McCune of East Jordan and Chad Pastotnik of Mancelona.

Highlighting the opening was a gallery talk by Pastotnik, curator of the exhibition, discussing the original print, in which the artist works on all phases of production, and the reproduction which is by the photographic method. The iris, or giclee, a reproduction method by digital technologies makes copies to appear most real. Following the discussion Pastotnik demonstrated the method of intaglio printing from a

In relation to the exhibit, two tours have been scheduled for Wednesday, Oct. 10 at 2 and 5 p.m. All interested persons should meet at the art center. There are still a few openings for the workshops, scheduled for Oct. 13-14, Wood Engraving by Jim Horton; Oct. 20-21, Intaglio by Chad Pastotnik, and Oct. 26 by Meredith Krell. The workshops will be held at the art center and when in session can be observed during the regular viewing hours, 1 to 4 p.m. daily, except Thursday until 8 p.m.

Interested persons can register or receive information by calling Diller at 582-6399.

which means that the district may look at some general fund and budget concerns.

And though the current construction project, in which the district is building a new high school and renovating the current school buildings, is funded completely through the bond issue passed in 1999, operational costs, as well as filling the buildings, could be an issue.

"We're hoping that perhaps with opening the new building, and some changes we've made [at that point], that enrollment will start back up," Cooper said. In the meantime, though, research is being done to come up with viable options, including the possibility of going to a three-building configuration as opposed to the originally proposed four-building configuration.

In the three-building scenario, buildings used as classroom space would include the new high school, the current high school as converted into a middle school, and the current elementary school. Under the configuration, the current middle school building, located downtown, would likely be used for something other than classroom space, potentially as a community building or some other use within the school system; a "multi-faceted usage" would be likely, under such a plan, said Cooper.

In the originally proposed four-building scenario, buildings used to house students would include the new high school; the current high school converted into a middle school; the current middle school converted into an upper elementary; and the current elementary school as a lower elementary.

A committee was appointed over the summer, under the leadership of chairperson Janet Froats-Shepherd, a former school board member, to research the viability of various configuration options. According to Cooper, the committee is "coming pretty close to a conclusion," which will lead to a recommendation to be considered by the school board in making a final decision as to building usage.

"They've been gathering information for some time," said Cooper. "Their goal is to look at every conceivable scenario available." Working with the district's business department, costs for various program configurations have been worked through. "They've also explored a lot of businesses and private-entity types of things."

Once the research is completed, the committee will present the information to Cooper who, based on their data as well as his own research, will formulate recommendations to be presented to the school board.

"At this point, I couldn't tell you what [that recommendation] is," said Cooper, noting that he's made contact with numerous people and explored various programs, and the final recommendations will be dependent on "whether those things fall in place."

Though time is a factor, a specific timeline on the recommendation has not been established. While the final decision will have some effect on timelines of The Christman Company and Beta Design, those issues are already being addressed. "I've met with [Christman and Beta] and there are some design issues depending upon what happens at the existing middle school, but those have been minimized," said Cooper.

"Timeline is not as important as some people thought."

If, he added, a decision is made by around the first of the year, that will allow sufficient time to make any necessary adjustments.

"We're basically not leaving any stone unturned," Cooper said. "We're going to pursue things that make sense educationally, and it takes time to see if some of those things work out."

Boyer City students and staff members participated in various community fund-raisers, including setting canisters at several local businesses.

Boyer City students lead the way in disaster relief fund-raiser

When some fourth grade students at Boyer City Elementary School decided to give money from their classroom's penny jar to the victims of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks on the United States, they never imagined just how far-reaching that decision would become.

Their idea quickly spread into a school-wide effort, which then became district-wide, and ultimately, a community drive. Last week, after collecting funds through various fund-raising means including canisters and bake sales, the students were able to present the American Red Cross with a check for $5,803.86.

"It was amazing," said AmeriCorp coordinator Sharon Harrington, who helped facilitate the fund-raising effort. "The most exciting part of this is not only raising money to help [the victims], but also that the kids in school had another focus away from the disaster ... [And a way] to show their compassion and caring for other people."

The idea was born within days of the disaster, and quickly mobilized to allow the entire community to participate. The bulk of the money was raised during a one-week period, from Sept. 17-24, with canisters placed in seven local businesses, including Glen's, Carter's, Ace Hardware, Dairy Queen, Boyer Country Books, Boyer Country Provisions, and Huntington Bank. Huntington Bank also set up an account and helped tally all the incoming donations for the students, and Fifth/Third Bank made a $200 matching donation to the cause. A fourth-grade driven bake sale brought in an astounding $940, and red, white, and blue ribbons, made by students and staff and sold for a donation of 50 cents apiece, were impossible to keep in stock. "We were literally making them all day," said Harrington.

Money donated will be used by the Red Cross for its Disaster Relief Fund.

"Boyer City Public Schools would like to thank all the students and staff that contributed their time and effort as well as local businesses that served as coin drop locations," said Harrington. As for the contributions of the community, she said, "We've been in awe. It's been an amazing outpouring of support."

brotherhood and camaraderie that has slowly been fading away as we became employees," Thorman said.

While many firefighters, are in the department "because that's what they wanted to do," for others, he said, "it was a job to them."

"That isn't the purpose of the fire department. You need to be there for

This week, Thorman said, the election will either hold an election of officers or nominate candidates to be voted upon at a future meeting.

THINGS YOU CAN DO TO HELP RELIEVE HEARTBURN

It is important to check your lifestyle and eating habits. Quit smoking and cut down on your alcohol consumption. Both stimulate acid production. Don't overeat. Eat small meals more frequently to keep pressure down in your stomach. Coffee, citrus juices, high fat foods, and tomatoes can be irritating to your stomach. Avoid tight clothing or belts which put extra pressure on your stomach. Don't lie down after a big meal. The acid in your stomach regurgitates more easily when you are lying down.

The World Wide Web calls for cautious driving

By NANNETTE MILLER

Computers are a mixed blessing. They are wonderful time-saving devices that make our jobs and personal lives ever so much easier and more efficient. At least they are IF they are working correctly, and IF we have taken the time to learn how to operate them and their various software components.

October is Computer Learning Month. At the library we are featuring information about interesting and useful web sites, search engines, search strategies, and books on the Internet and computer use in general. Because of budget constraints and the rapidly changing nature of the industry, we cannot have "how-to" books for every software program. But whether you are a computer novice or an experienced geek, there is always more to learn.

One thing we are all learning is there is a lot of information on the internet. What we don't know, without sometimes long and painful trial and error, is what information is "good" information and what is garbage. Good information is accurate, up-to-date, and reliable. Garbage, in the sense of useful information, is opinion, conjecture, and thinly disguised prejudices. There are a lot of simply fun Internet sites, such as puzzlemaker.com or Lego.com, and I enjoy those as much as anyone. There are also disgusting, and in my mind, dangerous internet sites.

At the library, we take our responsibility to protect minors from material which is considered harmful very seriously. PA 212 requires us to protect minors, but it does not give us a clear method for doing so. We could use filters, but for many reasons have decided not to take that route just now. Filters have to be much improved before we will feel comfortable using them. Our method is much simpler, although like any system, not foolproof. We cannot act as parents, all we can do is enforce our policies.

The only way to make certain your child is safe while using the Internet, and is not visiting sites YOU consider inappropriate, is to sit with your child and use the Internet together. If that is not practical or possible, at the very least teach them the "rules of the road" before letting them loose on the information highway. No reasonable parent, or government for that matter, would let a child drive a car without extensive training, practice, and testing. I know cruising the Internet is not the same as cruising on the road, but I like the metaphor, and the world wide web can be just as dangerous as any highway to an inexperienced driver. Just like the rest of the world, it's an ever-changing, ever-interesting, beautiful place, with some very real dangers. Please drive safely.

Making a difference in EJ

Thanks to the brainstorm of local resident Lisa LeDuc, East Jordan businesses are helping the community to lend a hand to victims of the Sept. 11 terrorist attacks in New York, Washington D.C., and Pennsylvania.

Many area businesses will be, for a donation of a dollar or more, posting flags with the donor's name in the business' window to, said East Jordan Lioness president Jane Meads in a letter to business owners, "show the world we care."

Though backed by the Lionesses and the East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce, the project began very simply when a single resident wondered what it was that she could do to help. "I was looking for something I could do," said LeDuc. "New York and Washington are so far away, there's everybody out there doing things."

Initially, LeDuc thought of doing a canned food drive or a collection of bandages and clothing. Then she decided that raising funds made more sense, in that with "money, they can get anything they need."

She knew that other organizations have successfully "sold" paper cut-outs to be posted with the donor's name, and decided that "people tend to donate more when they have their name on it."

Once she'd settled on a fund-raiser, she knew she'd need the backing of someone a little more high-profile to get the ball rolling, and so, she said, "I asked 'where can I find Ginny Carey?' I knew she did a lot with the community."

LeDuc found Carey easy enough, and was then directed to the Lionesses, who immediately gave the project an enthusiastic backing. Likewise the chamber of commerce, which held called a special executive session just to approve their participation. Upon hearing of the project, Dee Hawkins at Valley Graphics happily agreed to donate the printed flags, more than 3,000 of them, which are lined in either black or gold (black for $1, gold for $5 or more) and are accompanied by the phrase "United We Stand."

LeDuc then got to work soliciting area businesses for their participation, in conjunction with a letter sent by Meads explaining the project. Most however, didn't know about the effort until LeDuc walked through the door. "All the businesses were wonderful," she said. "Nobody had a heads up. They were so receptive."

All proceeds from the fund-raiser will be donated to the Salvation Army which, said LeDuc, gives 100 percent of funds received directly to disaster victims, without charging any administrative fees.

All East Jordan businesses are encouraged to participate, and those businesses without foot traffic are also invited to take part; checks may be written out to the Salvation Army, and all donations are a tax deduction for the donor. The effort will run through Oct. 19, after which time a member of the Lioness club, with identification, will pick up monies collected.

Of course, said LeDuc, if anyone wants to keep giving after the 19th, their donations won't be turned away. "If it gets too big," she said, "we'll keep going."

NEIGHBORS

By NANCY NORTHUP

RECEIVED A "note of awareness" from Maxine Hough of East Jordan, in regard to last week's item on Gordon Maule's memorial service. She was there, as a member of the American Legion Honor Guard, not the VFW, in paying tribute to their fellow veteran. She went on to say, "A hint of differentiating between a VFW and American Legion person; the cap has VFW or American Legion on it at a memorial service. The Post Flag will also have either the American Legion or Veterans of Foreign Wars embroidered on it. We all served our country in a branch of the military and, as Legionnaires or VFW, we continue to serve our community and our fellow man." My sincere apologies to all.

THE CAMP QUALITY Benefit hosted by the Eagles in Boyne City last Saturday night was a huge success! A fun evening of games, 50-50 raffles, raffling off many great gifts donated by local businesses, and wonderful music donated by the Northern Nites raised $2,500! Highlighting the "Tacky Prom" evening were the awards of their attire: Best Tacky Man went to Larry Peck, Boyne City and Best Tacky Women went to Jean Welch of Boyne City. The Best Tacky Couple was Tina and Harry Matthews of Charlevoix. Grand Prize winner was Sparky Hyde of Boyne City and the "I Can't Believe You Showed Up Like That" prize went to Willow Korpella of Lake Orion.

A WARM "Welcome Neighbor" goes out to Jacqueline Fleming, who moved into Litzenger Place this past week.

JERRY KELTS flew back on Tuesday, after having spent 10 days visiting friends in San Francisco, Calif.

HEARTFELT SYMPATHIES go out to friends, neighbors and the family of Dorothy (Dolly) Hostetler of Boyne City, who passed away unexpectedly on Oct. 2.

HILDA JOHNECHECK of Greenwood, Ind. arrived at the Boyne City home of her sister and brother-in-law, Dorothy and Carl Hawkins, for an overnight stay on Tuesday, and spent the rest of the week visiting her mother, Irene Johncheck, and family on Camp Daggett Road.

FORMER BOYNE resident, George Hutzler, of Petoskey, who has been a rehabilitation patient at Grandvue in East Jordan, was admitted to Charlevoix Area Hospital on Saturday night.

A FAMILY FAREWELL dinner honored Norma Lindsay on Sunday afternoon, as 12 family members, including children, grandchildren and other relatives gathered around the table at the Deb and Bill Korthase home. Norma flew out on Monday, for her wintertime home in Florida.

JOHN HOLOWASKO of Houston, Texas, and a former native of Boyne City, spent a few days here this past week visiting a lot of friends and classmates in the area. He especially enjoyed Friday's football game, as he is a former football player and a BCHS graduate of the class of 1955.

JEAN KORTHASE and daughter Nancy enjoyed the Saturday afternoon visit to Lakeview Village visit of niece and nephew, Dave and Christine Blinn of Saline and Tennessee and their daughter and son-in-law, Sarah and Jim Reid of Petoskey.

THORNE ROWE of Boyne City and her cousin Shirley Lusk of Charlevoix traveled to Muskegon and spent several days visiting another cousin, Doris Young.

RICHARD L. FISH, D.D.S. of Boyne City was honored with an open house retirement party on Sunday at the Fall Park pavilion. With a wonderful turnout, many friends, former patients and family members rallied around, bringing a variety of potluck dishes, adding to what was there, in celebrating a time to remember, retiring after 39 years in dentistry. His future plans are to continue in realty, and the building of his new home in Advance, perhaps as soon as this next week! His children, Roni, Kyle, and Corey, and grandchildren, Sydney and Perry, hosted the great time.

(To submit an item for Nancy's column, call her at 582-9174 or e-mail her at nanup@nmo.net.)

CHARLEVOIX AND ST. FRANCIS STAND IN BOYNE CITY'S WAY

On the brink of perfection

With only two games remaining in the regular season, the Boyne City Ramblers stand on the brink of perfection.

After routing Harbor Springs Friday night 49-20, two obstacles stand between Boyne City and a perfect 9-0 season and a Lake Michigan Conference title: Charlevoix and Traverse City St. Francis.

This Friday the Ramblers travel to Charlevoix. Whenever the two teams meet, it's a big game, but this year "huge" is a better description.

While Charlevoix has two losses this season, they are perfect in the conference and tied with Boyne for the top spot.

"This is a big game for everyone," said Boyne City head coach David Hills. "It has been circled on the schedule since last year. It's a big game for Charlevoix as well. It's a big game in the conference. This late in the season to have two teams meet with an undefeated record will be fun."

Like the Ramblers, Charlevoix has a well-balanced offensive team, led by quarterback Nate Teuscher. "They pass the ball well and run the ball well," Hills said. "They are one of the better balanced teams in the league. For our defense, it will be a challenge."

The Rambler defense faced another challenge against Harbor Springs, and for the first few minutes of the game, they were severely tested. Then it started to take control. An injury to Dean Cosens, Harbor's sophomore running back who showed why he's considered one of the best offensive players in the conference, took a key cog out of the team's offensive machine.

The loss of Cosens "definitely hurt" Harbor, Hill said. "Sixty-eight percent of their offense had gone through him."

But even with Cosens in the offense, Hills was confident his defense would take control of the game.

"The game started out like a track meet. With our team I'm not sure you want to do that. It was just a matter of time to see whose defense caught up first."

"Our defense changed the tone of the game early."

Actually it took the defense only two plays to make its first impact on the game. On its second play from scrimmage, Harbor tried a screen pass. The pass, however, was ruled a lateral and Aaron Sulak alertly picked up the loose ball and ran it into the end zone. It was the first of three fumble recoveries for Sulak.

With Tim Wellert's extra point, the Ramblers were up 7-0.

Harbor Springs wasted little time tying the game, running the ensuing kickoff back for a touchdown.

The track meet Hills described was now turning into a 100-meter dash.

Boyne wasted little time taking the lead back when Ryan Amesbury connected on a short pass to Dustin Moore who turned it into a 56-yard touchdown. Wellert's extra point was good and the Ramblers were up 14-7 with 9:35 still remaining in the first quarter.

Harbor came right back, putting together an impressive drive led by Cosens and scored with 5:37 left in the opening quarter. The extra point was good and the game was tied at 14.

The Ramblers were forced to punt on their next possession, but a Harbor fumble recovered by Sulak gave the Ramblers great field position. They took advantage of it with Cole Andrews capping off the short drive with a four-yard touchdown run. Wellert's extra point was good and with 1:22 left in the opening quarter the Ramblers were up 21-14.

On Harbor's next possession, the defense caused another fumble and this time Moore pounced on it for the Ramblers. Again Boyne City took advantage of the miscue. Two long runs by Moore put the Ramblers on Harbor's 15-yard line, then Amesbury connected with A.J. Spaay on a beautiful touchdown pass. Wellert's extra point was good and the Ramblers led 28-14.

That was all the scoring until Moore took another short pass from Amesbury and raced down the sideline for a 69-yard touchdown. Wellert's extra point gave the Ramblers a 35-14 lead with 7:47 remaining in the third quarter.

The Ramblers struck again late in the third quarter when Amesbury connected with Spaay on a 16-yard touchdown pass. Wellert's extra point was good.

With less than a minute gone in the fourth period, the Ramblers found the end zone for the final time when Andrews scored on a five-yard run. Wellert connected on his 14th straight extra point to give the Ramblers a 49-14 lead.

Harbor's final touchdown came late in the game.

"The score surprised me," Hills said. "Harbor is one of the best teams we've faced. Their kids are physical and they are very well coached."

Red Devils close out home season Friday

For the second week in a row, the East Jordan Red Devils had the unenviable task of being the opponent for a team with post-season aspirations and one celebrating its homecoming.

For a team like the Red Devils, who are few in numbers and lacking in experienced players, that combination has been nasty.

Last Saturday St. Francis took out the frustrations of two losses in a row and delighted its homecoming crowd with a 49-6 victory over East Jordan.

St. Francis, which must win its next two games to qualify for the playoffs, built a 20-point lead before the Red Devils scored late in the second quarter. Robert Grover broke free for a 60-yard touchdown run.

That was all the scoring the Red Devils could muster.

"The kids worked hard and never gave up. We ask them to play hard and to do their best. I think they did," said head coach Alan Peterson.

"We made mistakes, but in the school of hard knocks there are no mistakes, just lessons. We're learning a lot of lessons."

For the game, Grover had 70 yards on 11 carries to lead the team.

"Our offense sputtered against them," Peterson said. "We just couldn't get anything going."

Defensively, Bryan Diller had 14 tackles, followed by Kevin Roberts with 13, and Matt Whiteford, Scott Murray and Pat Bearden each with 10.

"I was proud of them," Peterson said.

"They never quit. They just kept coming and kept hitting and kept working hard. I felt good about that."

The Red Devils host out their home season Friday when they host Kalkaska.

Kickoff is 7:30 p.m.

Kalkaska offense too much for East Jordan

The Red Devils finished their stretch of four games in seven days with a loss to a tough Kalkaska team, 70-53.

The loss dropped East Jordan to 3-7 overall and 2-3 in the conference.

Kalkaska come out strong, using four 3-pointers to help build a 27-13 lead at the end of the first quarter, and never looked back. East Jordan made a comeback bid in the final quarter, holding Kalkaska to 11 points while putting forth their strongest offensive effort, but Kalkaska hung on for the win.

"Kalkaska is extremely athletic and fundamentally sound," said East Jordan coach Dan Pepin. "They may be the best team we've played this year."

Courtney Hammond led East Jordan with 15 points and 11 rebounds.

Lisa Talboys contributed 14 points, while Anna Olson added eight points and seven rebounds, and Renee Nowka scored seven points.

The Red Devils host conference opponent Harbor Springs on October 9.

Lady Ramblers kick third quarter blues

As the season progresses, the Boyne City varsity girls basketball team may look back on the first week of October as the time they found the road to success.

After struggling in the opening weeks of the season, the Ramblers put together two impressive games last week, losing to Harbor Springs 53-42, and defeating Traverse City St. Francis 39-38.

"We're seeing improvement every day and that's all I can ask for," said Boyne City head coach Michele Deming. "Hopefully we will continue to improve and peak at the right time."

A problem all season for the Ramblers has been their play in the third quarter. Against Harbor, that problem raised its ugly head once again. The Ramblers led 27-23 at the half, but then were outscored 12-4 in the third quarter and 30-15 for the half.

"Our difference has been the third quarter," Deming said. "We come out and can't score and have defensive lapses. For some reason we are coming out flat."

That wasn't the case against St. Francis, however. "We had a great third quarter," Deming said. "It's the first time all year we played well all four quarters."

The Ramblers trailed St. Francis 23-16 at the half, 35-29 at the end of the third quarter, then took charge in the fourth outscoring St. Francis 10-3 to earn the one-point win.

The game was decided in the last two minutes when the defense stepped up and the offense executed to run time off the clock. A few clutch free throws also helped the Ramblers.

Deming had high praise for the defensive efforts of Sam Bricker and Ashley Hadix. Hadix held St. Francis' top scorer Laura Fewins to only nine points and Bricker had a key steal with a minute to go. "Sam is the type of player who does the little things consistently well," Deming said.

Another key to the Ramblers' win was their rebounding dominance. Boyne held a 41 to 32 advantage and were led by Kriste Gaiter's 14 rebounds and Michelle Metzger's 10. Gaiter also had 16 points.

"It was a big win for the girls. They really needed that," Deming said. Gaiter was also the leading scorer against Harbor with 13 points while Lyndsay Tomkins had eight.

AGAINST ST. FRANCIS, Boyne City's junior varsity earned a 47-45 victory. Kim Foster had 16 points and Karlene Gaiter had 11. Christine Dickinson scored the winning basket.

Boyne Falls tallies one win, one loss for the week

The chase for the top of the Northern Lakes Conference got a little more difficult for Boyne Falls last week.

The Lady Loggers defeated Wolverine 60-40, but a trip to Ellsworth proved to be a stumbling block.

The Wolverine team that hosted the Lady Loggers Oct. 2 did not have an answer for the press nor for the offense it delivered.

The Lady Loggers built a 15-6 first quarter lead, then increased it to 34-10 at the half, allowing coach Doug Tippett to freely substitute.

Kim Wagner had another fine game, scoring 22 points.

Kayla Reynolds scored 12 and Stephanie Dzwik added eight.

The JV game wasn't really, Boyne falls winning 41-9 behind Missy Anthony's 10-point day.

In Ellsworth Oct. 4, the Lady Loggers were facing another team intimately aware of the press and its function.

The two teams matched up well for the first quarter, but the Lady Lancers offense came from every corner and player in a multitude of ways, giving them a 30-17 lead at the half.

Try as they might, the Lady Loggers kept finding themselves a little farther behind, then a little farther, resulting in the game's final score of 62-35.

Kim Wagner had 12 points to lead Boyne Falls. In the junior varsity game, Ellsworth topped the Lady Loggers 46-20.

Boyne Falls visits Alba on Thursday.

Boyne girls take first in Mancy

Boyne City head coach Andy Place was nervous as his girls cross country team stepped up to the starting line for the Mancelona Invitational on Thursday. The Ramblers had just been ranked third in the state in Division 3. They hadn't raced in 10 days and they were running against a tough Elk Rapids team, which was ranked eighth.

The team proved that they had not lost a step, though, as they finished with five of the top 11 places, to distance themselves from the rest of the teams and win the race with 34 points, followed by Elk Rapids with 61.

East Jordan and Charlevoix teams both ran without all their top runners to finish seventh and eighth respectively.

The shortened course provided the fastest times of the year as Jane Stieber finished second in 19:15 and Mindy McCutcheon finished third in 19:31. "This is the closest Mindy has ever finished to Jane," said Place. "They both looked very good." Emma Dunne finished eighth in 20:11, Brie VanDam 10th in 20:21, and Carly Stieber finished 11th in 20:28 to round out the scoring. Savannah Hartwick finished 53rd in 25:51 and Meredith Clemens finished 66th in 29:56.

The boys team finished fifth overall in a very tough field. The top five teams were all Lake Michigan Conference teams. "We have one of the toughest conferences in the state," Place said. Seniors Brad Winkler, Brian Miller, and Geoff Martin led the Ramblers. "This was Geoff's best race of the year," said Place. "He has started to show us something in the last couple of weeks."

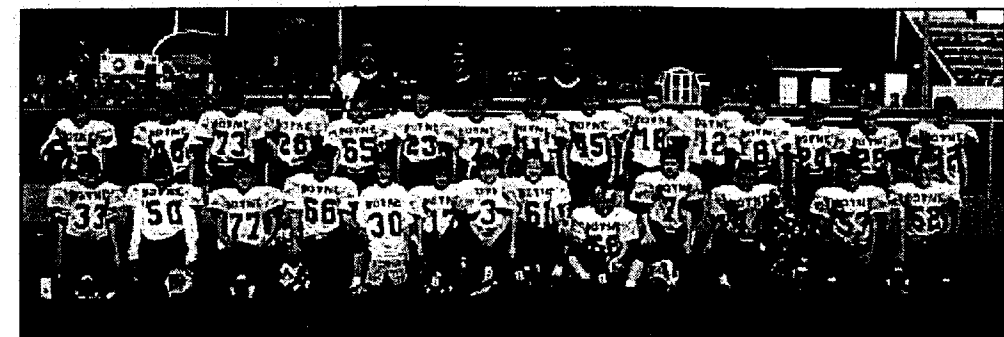

Winkler finished 15th in 17:00, Miller, 22nd in 17:29, and Martin 24th in 17:37. The rest of the team are sophomores as Randall Sutton finished 41st in 18:34, Ian Smith 43rd in 18:40, Justin Weisler 44th in 18:46, and David Burns 53rd in 19:11. "This was David's first time in our top seven," Place said. "I'm glad to see Ian and Randall running well."

Top finishers for East Jordan's girls were Haley Shaw in seventh with a time of 20:05 and Ruth Elliott in ninth with 20:17. "The girls were without two of our top runners," said East Jordan coach Dennis Snarey. "Those that did run ran very well. Haley kept her head in the race." Garrett Romero was the top finisher for the East Jordan boys with a time of 16:18.

In the middle school race, Chelsey Poindexter finished first for the Red Devils with a time of 12:06, followed by Samantha Harbough in third with 13:04. Amy Anderson ran very well for Boyne City, despite a side cramp, to finish as the fifth place girl in a time of 13:42 for the two-mile course. Lindsey Mansfield finished as the 12th place girl in a time of 14:37, as both she and Amy earned medals.

Boosters selling savings certificates

It's that time of year folks around the area look forward to — no, not fall or Halloween, but rather time for the Boyne City Schools Boosters Savings Certificates to be sold.

This year, 13 area businesses are participating in the fund-raiser, which is one of the Boosters' biggest.

The book of certificates, with discounts on dining at area restaurants as well as skiing at Boyne Mountain, is now available for $20.

"It's a win/win situation," said Booster vice president Pat O'Brien of the certificate book.

"When you buy this for $20, you're helping out the Boosters and getting great savings."

Savings certificates are available at Ace Hardware, Boyne Country Books, Bradford's Master Dry Cleaners, Glen's, Carter's, Self Indulgence, Boyne Paint Depot, Mediap, RE/MAX of Boyne, Lynda's Real Estate, and at all Boyne City Schools.

The sales of savings certificates in the past has raised between $6,000 and $7,000 for the organization each year.

All funds raised by the Boosters are in turn given back to the community in the form of funding and programs for the school district.

"On a yearly basis, we raise between $20,000 and $25,000," said O'Brien. "We give $20,000 to $25,000 back to the schools."

The goal of the Boosters, according to the organization's mission statement, is to "promote and enhance all school programs that encourage our students to attain the highest educational opportunities."

"This year to date, we've already been busy with requests from the schools for the Boosters to help," he said, adding that the organization is "always looking for new faces."

You don't have to hold an office. We're just looking for people to come to meetings and share ideas and help."

For more information on the savings certificates, or on the Boosters, call O'Brien at 582-2400.
