

Lake Charlevoix slated for 70,000 rainbow trout plant

An entire new fishing era is in prospect for Charlevoix County anglers with the annual disclosure of trout plantings by the district fisheries department of the Department of Natural Resources.

Lake Charlevoix, in particular, because of its relatively sheltered waters and its proven attractiveness to steelhead trout, is slated to receive 50,000 yearling steelhead trout of a strain that has a proven homing instinct - - thus spelling good news for anglers in the Jordan and Boyne River watersheds, as well as the Lake Charlevoix trolling fleet.

In addition to the 50,000 western steelhead, Lake Charlevoix gets an additional 20,000 rainbow trout for a total of 70,000 of the rainbow species - - with varying preferences in habitat as well as spawning runs.

This adds up to year-around sport fishing for this species under the new liberalized fishing regulations.

Other Charlevoix County plants of yearling rainbow trout include 1,000 in the Boyne Falls pond; 5,000 in Fox Lake, Beaver Island; 15,000 in Lake Louise; and 25,000 in Walloon Lake.

Emmet County is slated to receive 25,000 rainbow and 25,000 steelhead in Little Traverse Bay.

In all, a total of 116,000 of the rainbow species will be planted in Charlevoix County waters.

Of particular interest to some anglers is the announcement by Steve Swan, district biologist, that splake will be introduced to many northern Michigan waters for the first time this year.

The splake, a cross between the brook trout and the lake trout, are rapid growing hybrids that possess unusual growth and fighting characteristics.

The hybrids, originally produced in Canada, have proven to be so successful that the Ontario Dept. of Lands and Forest is now planting large numbers of them in Lakes Huron and Superior to bolster the commercial fishing industry - - as well as improving sport fishing.

Forty thousand splake will be released in Cheboygan county's Mullet Lake; in Presque Isle and Montmorency Counties, splake will be introduced with 15,000 going into Lake Avalon, near Hillman; Clear Lake; 10,000; and McCormick Lake, 5,000.

Alpena County's Thunder Bay River will receive 15,000 steelhead; and the Oqueoc River will receive 5,000 steelhead.

Frank Dufon, Boyne City, area DNR supervisor, said the plantings would be made late in June, or early in July, when the plankton supply in the lake will be of sufficient density in aiding the young fish to make the transition from hatchery conditions to lake conditions more readily.

Rainbow yearling to be planted in Otsego County:

Big Bradford Lake, 5,000; Big Chub, 4,000; Big Lake, 5,000; Bridge Lake, 3,000; Heart Lake, 5,000; Opal Lake, 5,000; Pickereel Lake, 5,000; Round Lake, 500; Sand Lake, 500.

Antrim County rainbow plantings: Bellaire Lake, 15,000; Blair Lake, 3,000; and Elk Lake, 25,000.

Cheboygan County plantings: Cornwall Impoundment, 10,000; Silver Lake, 5,000; Twin Lake No. 1, 1,500; and Weber Lake, 2,500.

GUESTS of the Boyne City Rotary Club for dinner at Boyne Mountain the last two weeks was the senior class of Boyne City High School. Rotarians hosted the senior boys a week ago, and the girls this week. A program, given by the seniors, wound up each Monday night dinner hour.

Council gives nod to 1969-70 city budget

East Jordan--City councilmen gave their nod of approval to the city's operating budget for the 1969-70 fiscal year here Tuesday night, in a post business session budget conference.

Biggest hunk of money was earmarked for street repair, $59,500.00, and to the water department, $34,247.82. Other budget allocations include general fund, $23,551.00; Chamber of Commerce, $1,500.00; street lighting, $11,701.00; clerk-treasurer, $10,000; cemetery $7,500.00; fire, $11,966.00; parks, city dock and winter recreation, $4,000; police, $27,234.00; ambulance, $1,500; garage self-supporting; equipment, self-supporting; dump, $6,000; airport, $2,000; airport property, $2,000; sidewalks, $2,500; library, $4,000; community building, $1,300; harbor improvement, $3,000; tourist park, $27,369; and sewer, $26,609.10.

In other business, councilmen agreed to give Phil Everett, 235 South Lake Street, a one week extension to comply with city Ordinance 110.

Everett appeared two weeks ago, after being cited for violating Ordinance 110, and asked councilmen if erection of a high fence would eliminate his backyard "eyesores." The eyesores were a couple of cars which Everett works on as a hobby. He was told to come back Tuesday night for a further clarification of the ordinance.

Mayor Olson recommended to councilmen Tuesday that some type of "provision" to the existing city junk ordinance be adopted so that "unusual" cases like Everett's could be handled.

Everett told councilmen that in the past two weeks he'd cleaned up his yard. "All I'm really asking is permission to build a high fence around my backyard hobby-cars..."

Councilman Russ Gee recommended that the city ordinance be backed. "That ordinance was written to keep junk cars out of town," said Gee. "I say we follow it..."

"I don't think we have any authority on this matter to do anything," said councilman Harry Watson. "The ordinance is there and that's the way it has to be..."

A motion by councilman Gee to back the city ordinance received council's unanimous endorsement.

"What can I do now?" Everett asked, after councilmen agreed to back the ordinance. He was told that "until the situation changed" he'd be required to comply with the law. "This is the most recent (continued on page 8)

Construction to start on low cost housing

Boyne City--Excavating operations and concrete may be flowing here by the weekend on a total of $712,652 in housing that will come under the administration of the city's building commission.

Assurance that financing of 20, low-cost 3-bedroom homes, plus 20 rental units for the aged was announced in Washington, Monday by Senator Robert Griffin.

The prediction that construction operations would be underway immediately was made by R.J. Budnick, of the Tempo Construction Company, of Grand Rapids, the firm which started programming the city's application and secured approval of the HUD construction project several months ago.

City Mgr. Forbes Tompkins said that Budnick had assured the housing commission in April that construction would start as soon as the federal grant was assured. Tempo Construction has 10 months to complete the project.

Coke Sale

East Jordan - Members of the Jordan Valley Lions Club will be staging their first annual "Coke Sale" this Monday, May 26th, according to club secretary, Larry Gee.

Gee said that the purpose of the sale is to help raise funds to sponsor the Lions Club Jordan Valley Festival activities. Last year the club took charge of the highly successful Kiddies' Day. Activities staged by the Lions on this day included a soap box derby, greased pig scramble, kids' parade, money scramble and greased pole.

Area residents will be asked to donate "any amount" they wish in purchasing cartons of Coke from Lions. Associated Coca-Cola products, Fresca and Sprite, will also be distributed, Gee said.

The "Coke Sale" will get underway at 6:30 p.m. and end at 9:00 p.m.

LTV sells Courter plant

In a news release dated May 15th, it was revealed by LTV ElectroSystems, Inc., a Dallas, Texas, based firm that it had sold its Boyne City Courter plant. The release read:

"An agreement in principal has been reached for Mitre Industries, Inc., to acquire the Courter operations, Boyne City, from LTV ElectroSystems, Inc., in exchange for common stock and a note, officials of the two Dallas based companies said today.

A definitive agreement is expected to be approved by the respective boards of directors in the near future.

Courter produces gyros for Bullpups and Walleye missiles, aircraft indicators and precision instruments, employing approximately 200 people. Mitre plans to operate the new unit as Courter, Inc., a wholly owned subsidiary, according to D. G. Ritter, president.

Courter operations is now a part of MEMCOR division of LTV ElectroSystems and accounted for approximately one percent of the consolidated sales of electro-systems during 1968.

Mitre Industries designs and makes tools, dies, jigs, and fixtures and conducts metal forming operations. Originally Polley Brothers and Verson, Inc., Mitre is currently expanding and diversifying operations. The firm acquired Eagle Transport Co. in April of this year."

Courter was established in 1951. In 1954, the Boyne City lakeside plant was purchased by Memcor, and then sold again in 1967 to LTV. Peak employment of the plant was in 1967 when 427 workers were on the payroll.

Forestry cut prices good

Landowners who might desire to improve game cover on their holdings are advised by Jack Lockwood, area forester for the Department of Natural Resources, that now is a good time to get in touch with local sawmill operators or logging outfits.

Pallet lumber prices are running from $20 to $50 per M; log prices are running $30 to $35 on the stump; and $50 to $75.00 at roadside; and from $60 to $70 per M at the mill.

Aspen and basswood bolt stock is up only slightly and the price ranges from $1.10 to $1.50 per cord.

Lockwood advises that there are many variables in timber prices according to such factors as the accessibility of the site; the quality of the stand of timber; and hauling distances.

He advises that the price landowners may expect are entirely

Hire researcher to study aquatic life of Jordan River

East Jordan - The Jordan River Watershed Commission, in a meeting here Monday night, confirmed the hiring of John Morgan, a 22-year-old University of Michigan graduate student. Morgan, a June graduate in zoology, will conduct studies of Jordan River aquatic life this summer.

Morgan, who will start work June 2nd, will receive $90 per week, plus a $10 weekly car allowance. Money appropriated by the Charlevoix and Antrim County Board of Supervisors to the watershed commission, will be used to pay Morgan's salary. The study of the Jordan River, which began last summer when John Shaver, also a graduate student was hired, will last for 15 weeks.

In other business, commission members noted that the Eastern Michigan Nature Association had purchased 40 acres north of Green River and located near Highway 66 and Pinney Bridge. Since the location encompasses a Jordan River feeder stream, members of the association had contacted the commission regarding the possibility of having their property reserved as a wild area.

The 200 member downstate based nature association has acquired over 1,000 acres in Michigan in an effort to preserve some of the natural habitat of the state.

--Heard a report from Ernest Schuette, representing the Farm Home Administration. Schuette told commission members that watershed loans are available through the FHA. He said the specific details could be provided.

--Amended their bylaws so that only twenty five percent of the commission's membership need be present at a meeting to constitute a quorum. The previous quorum figure was fifty percent membership present.

--Welcomed two new members - Joe Topolinski, representing Boyne Valley Township, and G. Archie Bedell, Kearney Twp.

--Noted that the regional Michigan United Conservation Club had adopted a resolution presented by the East Jordan Sportsman's Club. The resolution opposed the building of a fish hatchery on the Jordan River. C.C. Walker, commission secretary, said that the resolution would now be presented at the MUCC's state meeting, to be held in June, in Petoskey.

--Agreed to hold their next meeting Monday, June 16th, at 7:30 p.m. in the American Legion Hall.

Low cost housing

The entire project is being financed through the regional office of the department of Housing and Urban Development, Chicago office.

City Housing Director Forbes Tompkins said that the city's original application had specified a sum of $655,000 for the project which will be set up at 2 sites.

In conferring with Clarence Samuelson, of Traverse City, the city's financial advisor, Wednesday, Samuelson told City Mgr. Tompkins that the additional allotment of money over the $655,000 mark had probably been awarded to cover increased costs, or extras that had not been included in the original plans approved by HUD.

A 20-unit apartment dwelling for the elderly will be located at the northeast corner of Division and South Park Streets directly across from the city water works while the 20 3-bedroom dwelling units will be located just northwest of the new high school.

Lots have already been completely surveyed and all title clearances have been made so that Tempo Construction firm can move in on the scene as fast as equipment can be brought to Boyer City.

It is the 6th such project that Tempo Construction has figured in in Western Michigan.

DNR officers eye Boyne Falls sets illegal littering school closing dates

With the closure of many township dumps, a rash of littering on state lands has broken out and Department of Natural Resources area supervisor Frank Dufon advises that the district court will have little patience with litterbugs.

Two cases reported this week were readily apprehended and the violators were ordered to go back and pick up the trash -- to bury it or take it to an authorized dump.

Penalties for littering are punishable by a $100 fine and 90 days in jail.

Some thoughts on graduation

Erma Bombeck

By tradition, this is the season of hope and promises. . . when graduates all over the country square their shoulders, swallow a large lump in their throats and tackle the job of righting the ills of the world.

Most people don't listen to graduation speeches. They are too long and full of cliches. They also remind adults of their own broken promises, their challenges soiled from handling and the futility of their own impossible dreams. Young people don't understand this. Or do they? Marian Mearon, class of '72 from Queen of Peace Girls High School in North Arlington, N.J., set down an interesting observation in her school's literary magazine. Read it.

What is your country about youth? Is it about drugs, sit-ins, and racism, youth? Or tell me, youth, is it about freedom and peace?

Think, youth, what is it all about? Love or hate? War or peace? Right or wrong? Life or death?

What is your country about, youth? Is it about war, riot and assassination? Or tell me youth, is it about freedom?

What is your country about, youth? Is it about hate, murder, and demonstrations? Or answer me, youth, is it about peace?

Can you tell me, youth? Can you? I wish you could. For soon, youth, you will guide this vast country.

This country which stands for so much. For what is right, and for world peace. But most important, for freedom.

What will this country be about, youth? When you take over the reins. Oh yes, Youth, what will this country be about?

It is the first piece I have ever read that suggests the awesome responsibilities of living in this world.

I think she would understand a graduation speech which I read this week. "Fellow graduates, we are present not at the end of an era, but the beginning. Do not look upon this world as one scarred by dissension, strife and war but as one of hope and promise. Consider the world your legacy. Love it, care for it, strengthen it, and fight for it if you must. It asks from you no more than you are able to give. Try to make a difference. That is all it will ever ask of you."

This speech was presented in the early summer of 1944. Trying. That's what it's all about, youth.

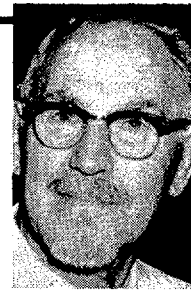

MEMBERS of the Trumble family gathered at the Advance Commerce Hall last Saturday afternoon to celebrate Mr. and Mrs. Glenn Trumble's 50th wedding anniversary. Relatives on hand for the celebration were Mr. and Mrs. Vern Barnes (Peggy Trumble); Mr. Glenn Trumble and wife, Olive; Mr. and Mrs. Robert Trumble and daughter Debra, and Mr. and Mrs. Larry Trumble.

MANNING the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce's Michigan Week Display at city hall Monday, was Jinny Giacomelli, one of the chamber's directors. Local businesses have set up displays for Michigan Week, in the city building, and the chamber is maintaining a week long refreshment booth.

Start to plan summer activities

A. L. Drapeau

Tuesday's meeting of the East Jordan Club was activated considerably by anticipation of the many projects being planned for the summer months.

Mary Lenosky was back in the president's chair. Twenty-five members, several of whom have just returned from sojourning south attended. A moment of silence was observed in honor of Alice Shepard, who had just passed away.

Discussions on guided tours to the Upper Peninsula and Canada were resumed and action was postponed to a later date. The election of officers for the coming year followed. Mary Lenosky was re-elected president, Marie Woodcock, vice-president, Alice Blossie, Secretary, and Delia Pumfrey, treasurer.

Wednesday morning, 18 members met at the Legion Hall where 3 cars were pooled for the trip to Lake City to attend the annual district conference of senior citizens sponsored by the Michigan Recreation and Parks Association. The experience was most gratifying, the weather ideal, and delegates from as far away as Ludington and Petoskey were gregarious in the warmth of their friendship. Some 260 registered at 10:00 a.m., enjoyed the fine display of arts and crafts, and reassembled for the noon luncheon at Lake City Legion Hall. The turkey dinner, enjoyed by everyone, was followed by a well-planned program. The entertainment which displayed considerable music talent was highlighted by trumpet selections rendered by a young lady of 85, accompanied at the piano by another young lady of 87 years.

Mailman now brings furniture

Barb Christensen

The mailman may be carrying couches in his mail pouch and not even know it! Take-along inflatables - tables, standing lamps, sofas, chairs - are ballooning into view everywhere. Shaped out of gleaming see-through or fake leather vinyls, blow up furniture is designed for movers and mind changers, anyone who wants a fast new look for a room. These durable bouncy blow-ups can be packed up for a summer home, campsite, beach or college dorm. With puff-up-or-down furniture that fits the shape, weight and bank balance of everybody from teenage mini-bopper to Great-Aunt Lucy, the balloon boom is on!

But if you would rather not feel like being in an upholstered gold fish bowl, try making some furniture yourself out of good ol' wood. Start off easy with a tiny pedestal cigarette table for around $5.00. Top and bottom are 11-inch circles of one-inch lumber. Alternate 16 wood dowels - half of them 5/8-inch and half 1/4-inch - all 18 inches long. Between the bottom floor circle and top circle, resemble-ing a bird cage, place the dowels. Drill holes, glue in place and stain to your taste.

If you have a round or square formica covered cut-out from when you installed your new sink, just get four 1" wood dowels 18" long and screw under to little metal strips protruding 1" from the underside of your top. Cover each screw with a little inexpensive 1" fancy wood drawer knob. The legs will appear to have pretty carved tops and when stained, attachment to the top will be a mystery.

Or, the next time you're at a rummage sale, watch for old wood camp stools. Take off all the old canvas seats and cut the legs a little shorter. Scrub the wood down good and stain a deep wood color. Replace the seats with a colorful heavy upholstery fabric and you can line them up side by side like a bench, or place individually around a coffee table. They collapse and take no space to store for extra seating too.

There are lots of ways to build your own furnishings, at least you won't need a bicycle pump or vacuum to keep your rooms pumped up with furniture!

Federally financed coolers for protesters

Thirty four years ago, on May 1st, a student by the name of Weisner, a native of Alper, who was then attending Michigan State College, had made contact with a group of dissidents from the University of Michigan, and with handbills, they advertised a May Day demonstration in East Lansing.

At that time, if they had been able to muster enough support, they might have taken over the MSC administration building, burned the records, and performed a few of the shenanigans that are in vogue today on college campuses. They were very serious left-wingers then; they didn't smoke pot or copulate in public.

No sooner had the Red tainted speakers mounted the steps of the old Farm House fraternity that May Day afternoon, than a horde of student "squares" rose to the occasion, and lugged the Reds, Weisner included, off across the campus where they were thrown into the murky waters of the Red Cedar River - which at that time was even more highly polluted than it is today.

That chilling bath cooled the pioneer militants, and for quite some time, there was peace upon the land once again. There was no Huntley and Brinkley to popularize the movement, and it died of its own volition.

The Reds recognized the fact that MSC was unfertile territory in spite of the quantities of manure produced at the farm experimental stations - across the river.

If memory serves us right it was in the spring of 1937, that the United Auto Workers, went on strike at the Oldsmobile plant.

A highly militant segment of its membership organized themselves into what they termed "Flying Squadrons," and toured the city of Lansing ordering all places of business to close-up. Rather than risk a brick through a window, department stores, saloons, restaurants, clothing stores, pool rooms, and gas stations closed up. In north Lansing, even the brothels closed for the day.

Lansing was closed "tighter than a drumhead." But the pilots in the "Flying Squadrons," exceeded their jurisdiction.

In a cavalcade, they roared out Michigan Avenue to East Lansing, to order the restaurants, clothing stores, drug stores, and other enterprises to close up too.

When 8,000 students are deprived of a place to eat, it's quite another matter.

They had no homes where there were crumbs in the kitchen to munch on, and get by for a day or two. If the Flying Squadrons had been heeded, the students couldn't even have bought a chocolate bar to tide them over.

Student wrath rose in mighty waves at the thoughtlessness of the labor mob.

Thus when the Flying Squadron cavalcade swung back toward East Lansing to see whether or not the merchants of that community had complied with the "labor edict," they were met at Harrison Road (the city limits) by a vast throng of hungry and angry students.

The "flyers," were hauled from their autos and thrown into the Red Cedar River - which was just as dirty then as it was a couple of years previously.

Perhaps the lessons of that era don't apply to our present day cult of protesting, confronting, making dialogue, or doing your thing.

It was an era before our political leaders had bought great prosperity for the country with the blood of 3 generations of the country's best youth.

It was an era when a job for board and room meant something; and the only way to get a handout was to work for it.

It was an era when campus disorders were put down by a majority of those who wanted to do the right thing, and minority militants were stopped before they got the benefit of television treatment and permissiveness of public administrators.

Very fortunately, throughout the country today, there is a vast majority of students who want to make something of their educations; who want to attend classes without running the gauntlet of striking militants.

Unfortunately too, is the fact that their campuses lack the physical facilities for handling such situations - a nice dirty river, or a good big water hole in which to cool the militants into consciousness.

Since the U.S. has financed farmers for not farming; given its nuclear secrets away to the enemy; paid 3 times as much for aircraft as the market price, and other impractical things, what would be wrong with federally financed water holes to cool militants - on every college campus.

(PS. As a sequel to this facetious essay we'd like to mention the fact that the M.S.C. college alumni magazine, in 1947, carried a nice story to the effect that a Mr. Weisner (the same one who figured in the 1935 May Day demonstration) had gained a high position with the U.S. State Department and was in charge of the U.S. industrial visitation program. He screened the foreign industrialists who would be permitted to come to the U.S. to see how our industries operated. The FBI, investigated Mr. Weisner's operations for some time, but could never prove that he was a card-carrying member of the Communist Party.)

"O Lord Give Me"

Oh, Lord, in Heaven above Give me strength to protect The ones I love.

Give my eyes strength to see In the Night; To see our Enemies, those we must fight.

Give my arms strength to carry my sword; That I might not stumble and fall before the horde.

Give my legs power to maintain The peace; give my mind wisdom and second sight; To capture, not kill when we have to fight.

Give my body rest, so that I Might Pray to you O LORD both night and day.

But most of all, I ask in your name, The right my God--to bear no shame.

Priest gives OK to watch legs

Gregg Smith

Some of the community's senior residents may recall a peppy, young priest by the name of Rev. Francis J. Kupinski who served the local Catholic churches between 1937 and 1948. He's now a Monsignor in rank and pastor of St. Mary's Church at Spring Lake. He was so well liked by the local populace that when he left the community, people of all faiths, and those without, staged a dinner for him and heaped all kinds of honorariums his way - including a bundle of cash and the honorary presidency of the Catholic auxiliary of the Masonic Lodge.

After leaving here he was stationed at Greenville, Mich. where a nut that had a thing going against all churches had managed to burn two or three before he was apprehended.

When the Greenville Methodist Church was hit by the firebug, their insurance was woefully inadequate, and rebuilding was quite a problem. The other churches had already put the panhandle on local residents and industries.

But in spite of these odds, Father Kupinski went forth and personally raised $42,000 for the Methodist Church building fund.

Such was the stature of the man! He was honored by both the Methodist Church and his own diocesan boss, the late Bishop Haas.

So this morning, in the mail, comes a card from Monsignor Kupinski.

He had noted the comments we had made concerning the shapely set of legs (female) we had seen at Burn's Clinic. In addition to wishing me a continued recovery, he also stated: "You can still peek as long as she (my wife) isn't there. My permission."

I can't figure out whether that could be considered apostolic permission, or just a gentle chiding.

It was a year ago that we launched a publication that is now known throughout the Northland as "The Penny Stretcher."

To many old hands in the trade, the sheet was given about as much chance of surviving as Rambler football team would have against the champs of the Big Ten in a Rosebowl clash.

Instead of that, however, our good staff was swamped with requests for space to the extent that 4 pages of advertising had to be withheld in order to make our mailing deadline.

The success of this shopping guide would not have been possible if it hadn't been for the diligent application of talents by the members of the staff, Sales Director, Ed Egan; Production Mgr., Tom Garlock; Pressman Phil Johnson; compositors and typists and aides like Viola McCary, Janet Lipscomb, Shirley Schuring, Linda Wisniewski, Maude Hammond, Irene Kelts, Mike Dufon, Shirley Winner, Jackie Slocum, Archie Cole, Virginia Guitar, Connie Moll, and the members of my family, my sons, Gregory, Tim, and my wife Margaret.

While we had to forego the Penny Stretcher's birthday party at this time, we're going to make up for it soon with a real "whoop-de-doodle." And that's something!

Since I have been unable to take an active hand in the business for the past three months, I feel as useless as a husband around the house during spring cleaning time.

The Russ Eineders, of the Boyne Upholstery Shop, and Mr. and Mrs. Don Seamon (he's with Colwell Realty) are the latest local residents to take to the hilltops south of town, and are in the process of building new homes at the south end of Hull Street, overlooking the town. This is the neighborhood that has the sneakiest deer and fox of any place in the county.

This year, the Gay Erbers, who live about half-way between our own residence and the Eineders-Seamon fortifications, have had to put one of their gardens to the north side of the house in a little more exposed location - to human beings.

So the other night, the deer held a party - right outside of Erber's home - in the new garden.

Average wages of Japanese auto factory workers are 60¢ per hour; in England and Europe, they are $2.30 per hour; in the United States, $5.25 per hour. That's according to Fortune magazine. In the same

Have a bippy burger

Dine with a celebrity tonight

By Barb Christensen

Celebrities are inviting me out to lunch right and left! Rowan and Martin have put invitations in all the newspapers inviting me (and you) to have a Bippy-burger washed down with a slug of Sock-it-to-me Cola, or a Fiddle Finger of Fate accompanied by a Knock Knock Shake. These fancy-named hamburgers and hot dogs are on the menu at a new Laugh-In restaurant chain. Walls of the restaurants will be covered with graffiti, and a sound system will roar with recordings from the show.

"And now a word about...". That's right, Johnny Carson, America's nitey-nitey hero, has combined forces with Swanson TV dinners to form Johnny's American Inn, Inc. For a mere $28,580, plus good credit, Johnny offered me the opportunity to invest in one of a nationwide chain of restaurants under the trade name, "Here's Johnny's!" Probably specialize in bedtime snacks!

Even the Lone Ranger is switching his call to "Hi Yo Hamburger"! Perhaps to piped-in strains of the William Tell Overture and the munching of Tonto-burgers, the Lone Ranger will again hit the range - the kitchen range. Wrather Corp., who owns the Lone Ranger, also owns Lassie and Sergeant Preston of the Yukon and will probably "cook up" something for them soon too. I really prefer southern fried chicken. Think I'll wait to hear from the Colonel.

The Third Degree

Mayor pro-tem's definition of "potlicker"

Gregg P. Smith

Harry Watson, East Jordan undertaker, councilman and mayor pro-tem, got to play the role of host for Mayor's Exchange Day in East Jordan, Monday.

Much to the delight of guests at a special mayor's luncheon at the Jordan Inn, Harry rattled off his own definition of the term "potlicker." - which incidentally is a term Harry uses quite frequently at long, drawn out council sessions - which also occur quite frequently. . .

"The term 'potlicker' comes from the hillfolk," Harry explained Monday noon. "The people down in the hills originated the term for a coon dog, who was too lazy to chase coons."

"All the dog was good for," said Harry, "was to lay at home and lick the gravy out of cooking pots - - - thus the origin of the name 'potlicker.'"

Somehow, after a usual delicious luncheon at the Jordan Inn, I think Harry's definition of "potlicker" will stick with Port Hope's visiting mayor, and guests for a long time. I know it will with me.

East Jordan's Fire Chief Bernard "Peanut" Hammond is mad at me. It seems that two weeks ago, when Bernard and his boys kicked off spring clean-up time by washing the streets, I only ran the picture of Sperm Thomas's garden tractor acting as a hose carrier. Sorry about that Peanut. We'll get it straight next year - fire truck and all.

Boyne City Rotarians played the role of hosts Monday night to the graduating Boyne City senior class. Seniors were guests of Rotarians at a dinner at Boyne Mountain. This is the first time we've ever heard of anything like this. 'Twas certainly a nice gesture - - - even though I missed out on it a couple of years ago. . .

We're still awaiting the appearance of one of the Boyne City Sailing Club's sleek looking Thunderbird Class sailboats on the lake.

From all reports, owners are working night and day to be able to hoist sheets by Memorial Day.

Colleges need war veterans

By Jim Fitzgerald

I know how to end all the foolishness on our college campuses. But first we have to bring the troops home from Vietnam.

As you can see, I am here with going to solve 2 tremendous problems which have long stumped the best minds in the nation. Isn't it amazing that you paid only 10 or 15 cents for this newspaper? You big spenders should buy two and send one to President Nixon.

First, let's deal with Vietnam. All the U.S. has to do is say, "hurray, we won" and get out. Sure, nobody is going to be fooled. But when we finally do cease fire, in 6 months or 6 years, nobody is going to believe whatever phony reason Washington gives then, either. The marvelous difference is that, using my brand of phoniness, 600 or 6,000 or 60,000 young men will not bleed their last drop into the Vietnam mud.

Sure, I know the dominos are supposed to fall Red and the U.S. retreats. I doubt it but, if so, so what? Do you think the average Vietnam citizen will be worse off without U.S. troops shooting? When you have been hungry and homeless and caught in a stupid crossfire all your life, it is hard to imagine that tomorrow is going to be worse. What could happen, the sun fall on the chicken coop?

Ok, that takes care of the war. Now I get devious. The next step is to discharge our troops directly into our colleges on the GI Bill of Rights. For taxpayers, it will be cheaper than killing Vietcong. For the ex-soldiers, anything is better than working for General Hershey and an education, even if force-fed, is sure to make them more smart than sick.

As for the colleges, and this is the important part of my plot, the influx of thousands of veterans could be a last-gasp respite from the death house.

War veterans simply wouldn't put up with all the nonsense now messing up our campuses. I remember from World War II. The ex-GIs were there for 3 reasons: to learn, to drink beer and to renew relationships with females. They sneered at such childish things as panty raids and snake dances and water fights. If some punk freshman had barred an ex-infantry sergeant from entering the library because there were not enough black history books inside - - - the sergeant would have thrown the freshman over the clock tower.

Constant readers (Mother and Aunt Madeline) know I am not against dissent from our youth or from their parents. I support anyone who protests war, racism, the draft or unsalted popcorn. But the protest must be peaceful in that it does not interfere with the rights of others - - to get an education or to get across the street. When the protestors break laws, they should be prepared and willing to pay the penalty, ala Martin Luther King. They shouldn't holler for amnesty while still wiping the blood from their hands. A lot of dumb laws need breaking. But a lot of dummies are breaking any old law just for kicks.

A major point in my plan is that black men are fighting much more than their share of the war in Vietnam. This would mean a lot of black veterans on the campuses. They could plant some convincing combat boots into the fannies of their Negro brothers who don't realize that, just because it is immensely more justified, black racism doesn't make any more sense than white racism. And a bomb in the Literature Bldg. is as senseless as a bomb in Saigon.

It is a minority of students who are making battlefields of our campuses. But the majority are sitting around watching. Veterans of bloodier battlefields could spur that majority to laugh - or throw - the silly kids out of the dean's office and back into class.

Then a guy could get down to peaceful studying, bearing and wenching.

Before dismissing the matter, councilmen did agree to give Everett a one week extension to comply with the ordinance. They also instructed City Clerk Ben Bustard to seek opinions from the city's zoning commission and city attorney, Bob Klever.

Councilmen also heard a report on the other 20 residents cited for violation of Ordinance 110. "As far as I know some of them have cleaned their places up," said Police Chief Joe Hammond. "If they haven't, I'll see the city attorney and then we'll probably take the matter to District Court."

Hammond said that he was unaware time was up for complying with the ordinance and didn't have a complete report. Councilman Robert Burke noted that the twenty residents violating Ordinance 110 were cited over a month ago--the time allotted for compliance with the city's junk ordinance.

Plans revealed for multi-million dollar South Arm development

East Jordan was isolated from toll telephone service last Friday when Charlevoix County Road Commission work crew severed the cable while digging north of the city. Emergency lines were laid until the damage was repaired later in the day.

The new convent on Beaver Island for the Dominican Sisters who teach in the Beaver Island Community School will be dedicated Friday, May 30. At that time there will also be an open house so friends who made the new facility possible may see the completed project.

Designed by Richard Stromberg, the structure has sleeping quarters for seven on the second floor and living quarters and a chapel on the first floor.

It was constructed with funds raised through various fundraising projects and through contributions from friends on the island and elsewhere.

The nuns teach in a state-supported school and are in charge of the catechetical program of Holy Cross parish.

The former convent was located two miles south of the village of St. James adjacent to the former church. The church itself was moved to the village several years ago.

Plans for a multi-million dollar resort development in South Arm Township were told at the regular meeting of the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors recently.

Developers, Francis D. Sheldon and John S. Wreford of Detroit appeared before the board to ask for permission to place a dam on Monroe Creek in order to flood a swamp area to create a 3-400 acre artificial lake in the heart of the proposed facility. The developers already own or have options on 880 acres of land in the area that lies west of M-66. The board was asked to approve the impounding of the property to be involved as well as the size and location of the lake so the proposal can be taken to the Department of Natural Resources which must approve the engineering aspects of the project and work with the owners in developing the entire facility.

The owners propose to sell 200 lake front lots plus a second terrace of lots separated from the lakefront property by a road that will circle the lake to which the public will have access. When completely developed, it is anticipated that the facility will add in excess of $6.0 million to the tax roll. The work will be done over a number of years.

St. Mary's parochial school in Charlevoix will close its sixth grade at the end of the current school year, it was announced at a recent parish meeting.

The move, that will send 19 students to the public school next year, was taken because of lack of room in the existing school. Until now the fifth and sixth grades have been housed in one room.

The possibility of adding two rooms to the school was discussed and then turned over to a committee for study.

S/Sgt. James W. Reppond, attached to the U.S. Air Force R. B. S. Detachment at Charlevoix, has been awarded the Bronze Star medal for meritorious service as a radar operator of a combat sky crew in Vietnam from August 16, 1968 to February 3, 1969. A veteran of 16 years in the U.S. Air Force, he is the first airman attached to the Bay Shore unit to receive such an honor. He has been assigned to S.A.C. headquarters at Omaha.

Mr. and Mrs. Lewis Skeel were elected recently to head the Pairs and Squares western square dance club at Charlevoix. The Tom Dillons are vicepresidents, the David Arnolds, secretary and the Bob Mousseaus, secretary.

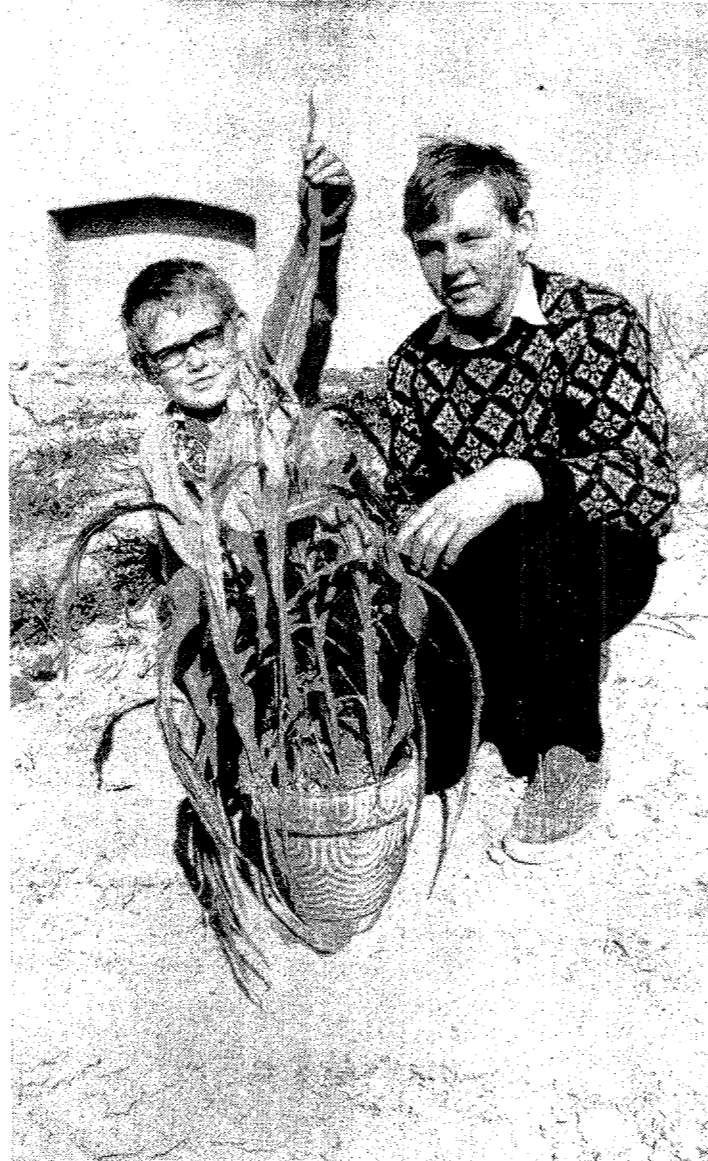

Charles F. Themm of Imlay City has been named vice president of the First State Bank of Charlevoix. He will assume his duties June 23.

After vacating the office of County Drain Commissioner when Jerome Uhrick of Charlevoix, who has been elected to the post, failed to post the proper bonds, the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors set a salary ($100 every four months) after Uhrick was appointed to the office. He is to be in an office provided by the County one day per week.

Fees for services conducted by the District Department of Health Sanitarian and his staff will remain the same after the Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors turned down an increase recommended by the health department. The price increase was vetoed by a vote of nine to five with one member absent.

The Charlevoix County Board of Supervisors last week heard Steve Gerganoff of Ypsilanti outline his proposed plan for a new county jail which would have a cell block and administrative facilities to meet Department of Corrections specifications plus a three-bedroom living quarters for the sheriff.

FUTURE farmers getting a jump on area corn growers are Bryan James and Howard Lee Boyer Jr. The boys planted seeds of "squaw corn" in January, and presently are looking forward to an early corn crop, providing they perform a successful plant of their corn stalks from pot to ground.

Twelve students graduate from evening ed. program

East Jordan Evening Adult Education Program will graduate 12 students along with the regular senior graduating class. Receiving their high school diploma will be Dennis W. Archer, Kathleen Breakey, Barbara Jean Brock, Virginia Lou Delloff, Margery Elsinga, Melva Fisher, Patricia Johnson, Martha McGlashen, Nancy Ann McKinnon, Buddie Weesner, Mary Ann Weesner and Joyce Addis.

Vocational Coordinator, Mr. Jim Shephard, with administrative cooperation, organized the Adult Education Program, representing about 45 hours of in-class study for each credit for the purpose of high school completion. Beginning in September, classes met one night a week for three hours. Courses offered were U.S. Government and History taught by Mr. Wodzinski, Typing by Mrs. Pray, Mathematics by Mr. Cook of Charlevoix, Drafting by Mr. Cummings and English taught by Mrs. Watkins.

For every hour spent in class, two or more hours have been spent by the graduates in homework. Most of the students returned to finish high school because they found they needed a diploma in their current jobs, or were urged by their children to complete high school. Some of the graduating students are now considering college and one will enter Registered Nurse' training.

The high school completion program is offered free, students only have to pay book fees, etc. Anyone interested in the Adult Education Program for next year can contact Mr. Jim Shephard at 536-7576.

guess who?

Before I had a chance to say, "Guess who," Jack knew it was I. We're like that - maybe it's because we're twins.

We've always been close. When we were small, we had a private adventureland out in our back woods. Hardly a day went by that Jack didn't help me out of some scrape. He was the one who was able to entice me down from that tree when I fell halfway from the top - and lay paralyzed with fright between two branches. I bailed him out of several misadventures, too.

When it came to college - we chose the same one. And it's been nice. Every now and then we get together and talk out our problems, just as we always have. We go to church together, too.

We're glad Mom and Dad made the Church an important part of our lives. When we think of graduation and the inevitable parting of our ways, it's good to know that each of us has an ever-present source of strength and guidance in God and His Church.

ONE of the last showplaces in northern Michigan of its time was the W.S. Shaw residence, located at the corner of Elm and Second Streets. The home, owned by the founder of the Boyne City Tannery, W.S. Shaw, was built in the early 1900's. It included tennis courts, stables, fountains, artesian well water and many other luxury items of the day. Highpoint of the home's history was in the 1920's when notables from all over the country attended parties there as guests of the Shaws. The sleek racing schooner "Flight", owned by the Shaw brothers was moored just off the Tannery Coal Dock. At the conclusion of the annual Chicago-Mackinaw races, which the "Flight" entered, the Boyne City Harbor became a stopping off point for as many as half the racing fleet---while they held post race parties at the Shaw residence. The home was razed in the late 1930's and now nothing remains but pieces of a crumbling foundation..

The Pied Typer

A correspondence course in confusion I just don't happen to need

Until I can get myself a Harvard education with a major in eggheading and hallway squatting, I wish people would stop littering my mail box with political pamphlets, analysis of the masses, socialistic hogwash and other tripe I don't have time to read if I did understand it. I'm still trying to figure out the difference between a conservative Democrat and a liberal Republican, without getting left in the shade of statesmanship and old-fashioned patriotism. Gets you wondering what ever happened to the plain, everyday, good old unconfused American we used to know. When I was getting my formal schooling, most people were satisfied to be an average fellow, to utter the pledge and salute the flag unashamed when the occasion called for them, march off to war if need be, and go to the polls and vote for the man who would serve all the people. Sure, there were the usual smattering of screwballs and these we overlooked without attempting to analyze, classify or immortalize them. They may have been leftists or rightists or just plain kooks, but they were so far out of step with everyone else we didn't figure it was worth the effort to dissect them. Guess that is where we lost out. Now that the nut tree is in full bloom we find ourselves with holes in our pockets. It seems that everyone must choose some degree of cut and color pattern to stay in style. If this is the case, I hate to admit it, but I am still wearing celluloid collars and high-button shoes. And, being a married man, I'm confused enough. I don't need any mail order help. ***** Had trouble trapping bobcats lately? Want to know about the sounds Black Sea fish make? Or how to control vagrant cats? Write to your friendly Government Printing Office. These are among the millions of spicely pamphlets, leaflets and handbooks put out to make your life a little bit merrier.

So if you are sending gift packages to Tunisia, or are concerned about the problems of present-day poetry in Rumania, we suggest you hustle up a smoke signal for the great white teepee in Washington. Sale price of government material is set by law at cost plus 50%, which allows the printing office a near "profit". Try this markup on for size in private business and see how long it will be before the sheriff and padlock arrive. Of course, if you could manage to carry on your business without taxes, with free postage and a house full of built-in customers plus a couple hundred million prospects, you too could make a Profit! Still, it is only fair to concede that not many newspapermen could qualify for running a government-type printing business. We just don't know enough about bobcats, Black Sea fish and Rumanian poetry to make a success of the thing. ***** Now I know how the fellow who made whip sockets felt when the automobile came in. I'm an unemployed specialist myself. A few years ago, the television quiz show was the thing that separated the geniuses from the knuckleheads and I was all set to move in for the kill when the stink hit the fan. It is not likely the fumigation job the networks had to do will ever clear out the smell of rigged quiz shows, but I'm ready, just in case. My specialty: Mail order catalogs. Admittedly, this is a pretty biz-are subject to be an authority on, but I don't knock a fellow who collects barbed wire or telephone pole insulators, nor do I doubt the gift of the water witch. When you are a specialist, you are a class apart from common folks. I happen to like mail order catalogs. This affection was acquired through a long and necessary association with the big, thick wish-books in an atmosphere of peace and contentment. Environment and encouragement has a lot to do with the making of a mental giant. In my case, it was entirely natural. When I was a kid, one of the most popular spots on the old homestead was the little house away from the house. Here I spent many long hours in deep meditation and study of the only volume on file there -- the mail order catalog. Item by item, price by price, page by page was studied with great care. In the sections that appealed to a bare-foot boy's fancy, only a page or so was covered in a day. In other parts, I could scan a dozen pages at one sitting. One year, I got all the way up to the harness section before cold weather set in. It takes real concentration and dedication to become a specialist. You can't let the little things disturb you -- such as spiders, mud daubers, skeeters and yellow jackets. When you have a nose for learning, you ignore minor distractions. Another qualification that put me ahead of most of those quiz show participants. I was a veteran of the isolation booth -- the most isolated kind in the world. With such a luminating background, it is only natural that I should be a specialist in the finer points of ham strings, apple peelers and pitcher pumps, for all the good it does me. Still, all is not lost. The old catalogs are becoming so much in demand, another printing of them will be made. After being wiped out in the quiz show scandal, I take the revival of the old issue of the mail order catalog as a most encouraging sign that my genius may yet be recognized. Semper fidelis.

Two kinds of ducks use nests

Gordie Charles

Did you know Michigan has two kinds of ducks that nest in trees? One, the wood duck, is quite a common sight in many parts of the state. The other tree nester, the goldeneye or whistler, is more rare. Both, however, prefer to nest in hollow trees and for this reason their presence is easily overlooked. The area along the river, where we live, is not what would be considered a forester's delight. It contains a number of over-verage and damaged trees that any efficient wood grower would have removed long ago. Some have broken off high in the air and have natural hollows in them. This kind of ideal habitat is the reason we had a pair of wood ducks nesting nearby last year. We were delighted to notice that they brought up three youngsters to the flying stage by last fall's migration time. All of us were just as happy on April 2 to see a brilliantly clad male wood duck swimming in the river in front of the house. We assume the woodies have returned and will again raise their youngsters in this neighborhood.

Ducks which nest in trees have been known to choose hollows as much as 60 feet above ground, although most are lower. How do baby ducks get down from such dizzy heights? Simple -- they just jump! As is the case with most other birds, baby wood ducks all hatch at the same time. When they are several days old, their mother gets down on the ground below the tree and calls to them. Obediently, they heed the call and ball out into space. Their bodies are little more than fluff at this stage and they bounce harmlessly off the ground, then head after their mother toward the safety of water. Wood ducks were once close to extinction in many areas, including Michigan. Erection of artificial wood duck nesting boxes by many conservation groups helped bring back these beautiful little birds and now they are fairly common once more. They are easily the most brilliant of all waterfowl. While goldeneyes are common in Michigan during the winter, they prefer a more northerly nesting grounds. A few do nest in our state, though. We had a number of goldeneyes on the river all winter and they are interesting to watch. This was especially true toward spring when courtship was underway. The male goldeneye is a striking black-and-white duck with a white spot between the eye and bill which makes him easy to identify. During courtship, the male stretches his head straight up into the air, then snaps it back until it touches his rump. You would almost think he was trying to turn himself inside out. When he returns to his normal position, he snaps forward so hard he kicks water out behind himself. Woodies are more casual about their relationship. The duck often strokes the feathers of her mate with her bill to demonstrate her affection for him. They are such brilliantly beautiful birds that the males probably don't have to bother showing off for their mates like the golden-eyes do.

Straight Talk

No sex education in public schools

Tom Anderson

Dr. Gordon Drake of Christian Crusade recently pointed out, it is not a question of how much sex education should be taught in schools, or how. No sex education should be taught in schools! (1) It deprives the parents of one of their prime God-given duties. (2) Children are different, and anything as vital and personal as sex instruction should be taught on an individual and private basis. (3) Sex education in schools, no matter how it begins, will eventually get out of hand. (4) Many teachers are neither morally nor intellectually fit to teach sex to children. Psychiatrist William McGrath explains it this way: "There is a phase of personality development, called the latency period, during which the healthy child is not interested in sex. In this interval, from about age five until adolescence, a boy learns how to get along with other boys. And he can dream of becoming a man among men, a hero. The latency period is not just a cultural or moral intervention. It serves a very important biological purpose. It affords the child an opportunity to develop his own resources, his beginning mental and physical strength. Later, when he is ready, he can take on other responsibilities. . . . "Strength Through Joy" One highly successful sex program was called "Strength Through Joy." It was instituted by Adolf Hitler and was successful in helping destroy Germany. The state is trying to take over the entire rearing of children. Hitler did! All Communist states do. Our public schools are no longer public schools, but government schools. The Communists know, of course, that nations which have declined morally have invariably experienced a simultaneous decline in economic and military strength. Freedom and morality are inseparable. It is no coincidence that SIECUS promoters preach against religion, patriotism and morality in their camaign to animalize and collectivize American youth. As George Schuyler noted in the January American Opinion: "When General William F. Dean was released from a Korean Communist prison camp, the young Chinese psychologists who had been trying to break him said: 'General, don't feel bad about leaving us. You know, we will soon be with you. We are going to destroy the moral character of a generation of your young Americans, and when we have finished you will have nothing with which to really defend yourselves against us.'" Exhaustive research indicates not one single sexologist educator is a fundamentalist Christian or a political "conservative." Many are part of the Far Left. One of the founders of SIECUS, Dr. Lester Kirkendall, is a director of the American Humanist Association. Of course! Humanists are pro-MAN and anti-GOD. - - American Way Features.

"He struck me the same way."

The government has stepped in and saved that poor guy on TV from drowning! They have decided that even humorous commercials tend to deceive viewers and must go off the air. The commercial shows water rising across the TV screen to the level of an actor's chin and then receding. At the beginning of the commercial, the actor is wearing a stained shirt. As the water rises, the actor pours detergent in, all the while telling about its cleaning power. Then the water recedes and the stain is gone. The FTC found out that the stain on the actor's shirt hadn't been removed by the immersion shown on the television screen, but in the normal way by washing in a washing machine. This fact, of course wasn't told in the commercial. And therefore, the ads might deceive viewers, the FTC decided. So the detergent company said it wouldn't use the ads anymore. Hope they don't decide to put that poor guy right in the washer in the new commercial!

Got locked out all night long

Tom Garlock

This is the final installment of my three part series telling of my adventures of chaperoning the Boyne City Band to Lansing. It's mighty hard to even wrap up the facts, let alone all the other happenings, of this adventurous trip. We arrived at our motel near supper time and everyone was on their own honor after they were checked into their rooms. Six hours of fun and frolic for the kids was before them. They began to plot their plans. I'm afraid one poor girl didn't have much fun all evening. She spent the entire evening driving the desk clerk crazy. About every 15 minutes she would lock herself out of her room and have to get the clerk to come and open up. She did this continuously for 6 hours. This is the truth. The clerk, after a while, quit speaking. He just grabbed his key and started walking to this girl's room, every-time she showed her face in the lobby. I checked one group of boys in their room. Somehow they had already gone shopping and stocked up on a couple cases of pop and 2 big bagfuls of goodies. The bathroom sink was overflowing with ice and the pop bottles were already chilling. Their room looked like a supermarket that sold just candy, potato chips and pretzels. It was filled to the brim. The boys were standing by the front door. "Do you expect to eat all of this junk in one night," I said. "Yep", answered the boys. "We're starting on this side of the room and plan to eat our way all the way across to the pop." If you ever want to feel young again, just chaperone kids. They are really fun. I enjoyed myself just watching them eat, laugh and come up with some of the wildest ideas in the world. Curfew time came up too fast for most of them. They hadn't consumed all of their food yet. But at midnight it was time for bed. So we thought. It took two hours to settle them down and another two hours to be sure they were settled down. One girl, at a little after two in the morning, came up to me in her shortie pajamas and said: "Could I please have permission to go to room 236?" "What in thunderation for?" I asked. "Well, we just remembered we didn't take any pictures today and I want to borrow a camera." "You don't need to take pictures tonight. Wait until morning," I said. "Okay, sir. If I can't do that, could I order a pizza on the house phone?" Somehow or other somebody heard the word "pizza" and a small echo reverberated throughout the motel -- "PIZZA". No one had even thought about a pizza until an innocent girl instilled an idea. It took over an hour of saying "NO, it's too late to order a pizza." One kid, didn't have any money, but still wanted a pizza. I walked into one room. Four boys were arranged all over the place. Everywhere but in or on the beds. They could hardly keep their eyes open. "Why don't you guys go to bed and sleep," I said. "We can't. We're seeing if we can stay awake for a full 24 hours. Only two more hours to go." Other quotes during the night: "Can I borrow curlers from Mary?" (it was 3 a.m.) "Would you get me a bucket of ice? You won't let us leave our room." "Could I see if the Big Boy makes deliveries?" "Renee wants to borrow my record player. Can I lend it to her?" (It was almost 3:30 a.m.) On and on went the night. There never was a dull moment. Truthfully I can't wait until next year. Maybe I'll get six weeks of stories then. I'm going to take notes next time. You can't possibly remember all the things that happened.

The facility (without built-in kitchen equipment which would be an estimated $12,000) would cost an estimated $375,000. The cost does not include furnishing the building. The cell block would house 29 prisoners.

The board engaged Gerganoff, a member of the firm that designed and built the county building here, to draw up plans for a new jail when it was advised by the Department of Corrections that the existing jail, in use since 1927, did not meet Corrections Department standards and would be closed if the situation was not corrected, either by an extensive and costly remodeling program or a new building.

The "Steelhead", the Department of Natural Resources Great Lakes survey vessel out of Charlevoix, will ply southern Michigan waters and work north with salmon movements under a fact-finding program to gain more information on the biology and behavior of these fish in open expanses of the lake.

The Charlevoix School District will take two millage issues vetoed earlier to the voters in the June 9 school election. The board will again ask for 3.75 mills for one year for operational needs and one mill for five years to underwrite the cost of purchasing learning materials and equipment for students in the classrooms.

Your Better Health

A remarkable story of a girl

Walter Alvarez, M.D.

In the journal "Schizophrenia," a father tells about his daughter Karen who, for her first 13 years, was a lovely, sweet and beautiful child, full of laughter. The first signs of schizophrenia came gradually; her laughter began to disappear; she started to complain that teachers and fellow students were picking on her, and she became more and more withdrawn and aloof. Like many of these children, she retreated into her room and came downstairs only for her meals. Her sleep became troubled; she began to talk to herself; she became stubborn and difficult to deal with. She was disliking her schoolmates and she no longer showed any signs of affection for her parents.

Soon she began to show much hostility to her parents, and life in the home became very unhappy. When the father consulted a child psychiatrist, the man immediately said that Karen's bad home environment was what was responsible for her troubles. Accordingly, at great expense, the father sent Karen away to a distant university. But the girl remained sullen and hostile, and soon she was twisting innocent remarks into menacing statements, and when she came home she began cursing her mother. She went out to work, but, unable to get along with people, she had more than 13 separate jobs in 18 months. Then she threatened to commit suicide; also she began to hear voices.

Again, the father took Karen to a psychiatrist, who again blamed the parents for the girl's troubles. As the father said, "It seems that we have done 1 of 2 things; either we gave too much or too little." As usual, the poor parents suffered terribly from the accusation of the psychiatrist that their girl's troubles were all their fault. "We had had a session with a psychiatrist who told us: not only that we were to blame, but also that it might be that the two of us were bad for each other, and perhaps should part." (Any number of my patients have been told this by a psychiatrist at the first interview.) The great psychiatrist of Columbia, the late Dr. Franz Kallman, after a lifetime of research, said that schizophrenia is usually inherited, but almost everyone ignores his great work. The girl was treated in a mental hospital, but that did no good. As the poor father said, "We were completely broken, spiritually and physically." The daughter came out of the hospital, her face "frozen with hate." Eventually, with all the terrible expense, the father was completely broke financially. Karen then tried to do better, and managed to go to a university and to come out with a C average. Finally, the parents were happier when the girl realized that they were suffering along with her.

Then the father heard of the treatment with large doses of vitamins, used first by Dr. Abram Hoffer of Saskatoon, Dr. Humphrey Osmond of Princeton, and now by a number of other psychiatrists. As so commonly happens, when the father asked his girl's psychiatrist to try this treatment, he was told brusquely that there was no basis for any hope - - that is was "the work of a crackpot, and it would not work." The parents searched and searched, but they could not find a single psychiatrist or physician who would try the megavitamin treatment. Finally, they did get the medicine, and gave it to Karen, and then two days later the miracle happened as the father said, "My daughter began to talk - - to talk in a way we all talk; it sounds stupid, doesn't it?"

Actually, for 5 terrible years the parents had heard nothing from the daughter's lips that even approached such conversation as they now began to have. The parents were so happy. "Our daughter was coming back to us."

For the first time in years she smiled, looked in bewilderment at all of us, and said, "You know, I feel good - - better than I ever have."

But as the father says, it wasn't all over yet, nor is it now, but the girl's bad spells became less frequent and of shorter duration. For the first time she began to date boys and to stay up nights. Six months later, the father wrote, "Each day brings more joy to us and to our friends, for they share in our happiness." Still the girl has some distressing habits, such as a lack of desire for cleanliness, orderliness and neatness; but she is getting better, and she is able now to hold down a fairly good job. She has male admirers and is dating and going out.

As the father now says to all parents of schizophrenics to whom he can talk, "For your child's schizophrenia, you are not responsible." It is a good idea to join the American Schizophrenia Foundation which has chapters in many cities. As the father says so truly, there is a sort of curative effect in listening to others, and sympathizing with the others who are daily and nightly immersed in the same sorrow that once overwhelmed you.

Fortunately, today I am reading of more and more psychiatrists and some psychoanalysts who have tried the niacin and vitamin C treatment on their patients, and are well pleased with it. Other psychiatrists are giving their schizophrenic patients "Thorazine, a drug that the great British psychiatrist Dr. William Sargant tells me he is using to cure his patients. Three Harvard professors are using Mellaril with success. It is to be hoped that some day soon schizophrenia can always be controlled, and perhaps cured, with drugs.

MRS. SCOTT sits at the smart open counter with Irish linen formica top and contrasting black stools.

MATCHING floral chairs in an array of fall colors plus a breathtaking view of Lake Charlevoix produce a highly attractive living room.

HOME and HEARTH

by Barb Christensen

Spectacular "alp-like" setting is site of Bill Scott home

A peak of the Boyne "alps" forms a spectacular setting for the mist gray chalet of Mr. and Mrs. Bill Scott. White scallops picture-framing this California contemporary home combine with diamond grill windows and split rail front fence for a cozy chalet.

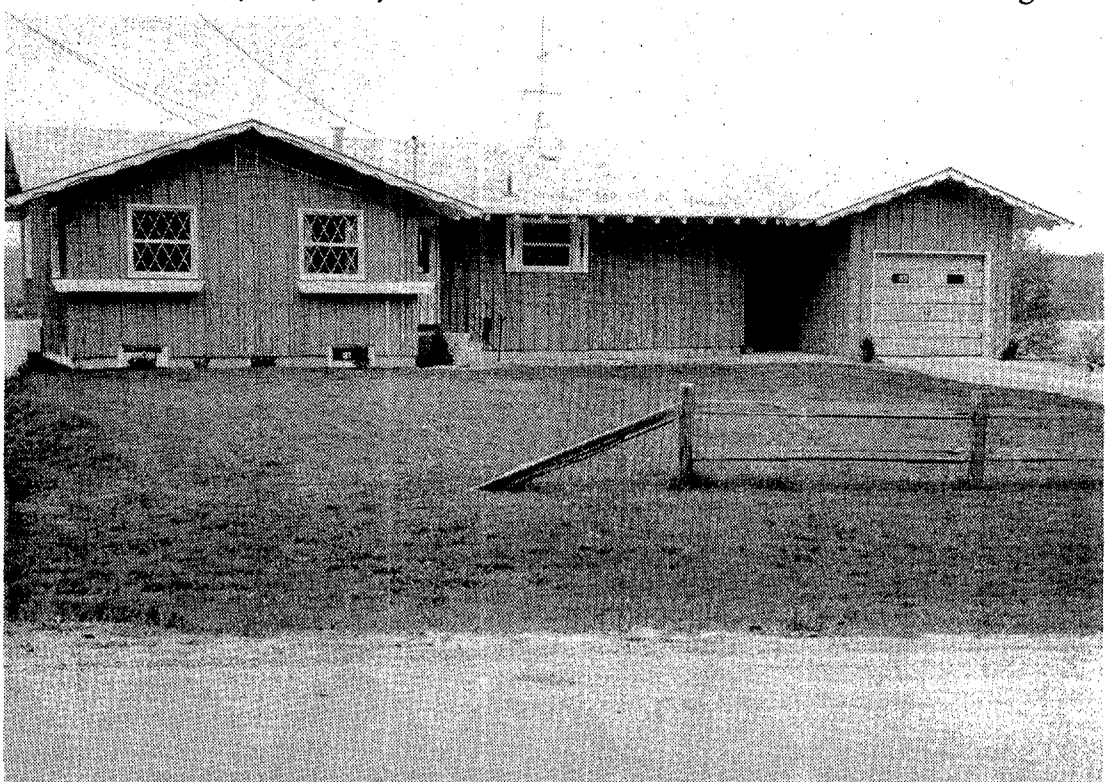

Its middle-of-the-house entry takes family and friends directly to the living room, placed at the back for a magnificent view of the entire Boyne bay stretching nearly all the way to Charlevoix. Galley kitchen is only steps away from the front entry. Its efficient line-up of stainless appliances is spaced by working area on both sides. There's good storage, too, in the attractive pecan-finished cabinets. A bulletin board, intercom, radio, telephone and wall hung shelf desk are strategically located in one handy communications center. Provincial gold patterned wall trim extends to the dining area, meeting Manhattan Birch paneling, which continues into the living room.

A smart open counter with Irish linen formica top and contrasting black stools in the kitchen backs up the living room. This area is the key to the openness of this half of the house. No matter which of the three rooms you're in - living room, dining, or kitchen - it seems large because the space of the other two is easily visible. With gold drapes closed across the large removable paned back windows and sliding side glass doors the living room is cozy and secluded - or, open them and let the view pour in! Deep avocado green wall-to-wall floors and couch, matching floral chairs in an array of fall colors, and black wrought iron railing to the lower family room form an interesting, bright background for this active family.

Three birch paneled bedrooms and two baths make up the other half of the Scott home. The lush deep red carpeting in the master bedroom is complimented by drapes and spread splashed in shades of red and pink. The adjoining red carpeted bath is softened by pink fixtures, suspended luminous ceiling and candy-stripe pink and white papered walls.

Mr. Scott with the help of friends, built a cozy contemporary chalet in one of Boyne's most dramatic scenes.

THE BILL SCOTT chalet home is located on a hilltop just off W. Marshall Road, and overlooking scenic Lake Charlevoix.

A GALLEY kitchen, complete with a one stop communications center (radio, telephone, intercom and bulletin board) is only a few steps away from the middle-of-the-house entry way.

Living standards on the rise in the Charlevoix Co. area

(Special to the Northland Press)

New York, May 17 - Although the cost of living has zoomed in Charlevoix County in recent years, as it has everywhere else, inflation has not been the chief culprit.

So says the Bureau of Labor Statistics after completing a nationwide sampling survey of family budgets, and comparing them with the budgets of previous years.

It finds, in fact, that 60 percent of the increase in expenditures for goods and services has been due to an upgrading of the average family's standard of living, over a period of 15 years, and only 40 percent has been due to inflation.

Gradually, year by year, local families have been improving their way of life - eating more expensive foods, wearing finer clothes, buying better homes and spending more on leisure pursuits.

The net result, according to the BLS, was that 4 percent per year was invested in better living during the period despite the fact that prices were rising at an average of 2.7 percent a year.

The change is quite evident in Charlevoix County. It shows up, for example, in the array of household appliances and equipment in their homes and in their outlays for goods and services generally.

On the basis of a special report on purchases and ownership of durables, made by the Department of Commerce, no less than 37.1 percent of the families in Charlevoix County now own two or more cars, as compared with 28.0 percent in 1960.

The average elsewhere in the United States is 26.7 percent and, in the East North Central States, 28.2 percent.

Similarly, more homes are equipped with clothes dryers than was the case in 1960. Ownership in the local area has increased by about 15.0 percent, it is estimated.

As for television sets, over 95.0 percent of the households in the area have them, as against 88.1 percent in 1960.

While there has been little change in the proportion of families with washing machines, the ones now in use are automatic models for the most part, not the wringer type that was more common then.

The report also points to marked increases in air conditioners, dishwashers and radio and photographic equipment.

Rising incomes have brought these conveniences and many others within reach of a growing number of local families.

Highway 66 offers area visitors a wealth of variety

By Barb Christensen

This scenic route offers area visitors an unsurpassed variety of scenic attractions as it meanders through rolling hills and the Jordan River Valley from Manacelona to Charlevoix. It is also the northern-most portion of a transcontinental route called the "Green Arrow", this route extends the length of the entire U.S. from Charlevoix on the Great Lakes to the deep south ending at Mobile, Alabama. In its thirty-two mile length, it unfolds a great variety of beautiful views including beef, dairy and fruit farms; from sandy plains to rolling hills, deep mucks and swamps; it presents the life history of the Jordan River from its headwater springs and tributaries down its entire length to the river mouth where it then follows a narrow inland finger lake till it comes at last upon Lake Michigan at Charlevoix.

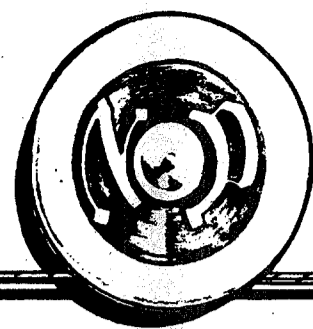

Highway 66 diverges from U.S. 131 just north of Manacelona. The intersection is marked by an acreage of evergreen trees planted nearly 30 years ago by local school children in an effort to renew the forests that cloaked this area at the turn of the century. Route 66 continues for a mile on this level plain and the traveler suddenly comes upon a scenic view where the route plunges nearly 3/4 of a mile downward in a sweeping curve. These hills have given rise to Shanty Creek ski area located just 6 miles west.

The view to the east spans more rolling hills until in the distance it exposes one of the more interesting attractions - the wild country of the Jordan River headwaters. It is 3 miles before the beginning of the Jordan River. The highway first crosses a tributary called the Green River. This point is the site of an old mill race where the water splashes as it goes beneath the road in a large horseshoe to parallel the highway a few hundred feet and cross again at another old dam site. A hundred yards from the river crossing, the access road to the Jordan headwaters is reached. This level old logging road also crosses the Green River in addition to a number of other tributary streams until it finally spans the Jordan. Leading from this road are other old logging roads, many of which dead-end when they reach the hills. The new Federal Trout Hatchery chose the Jordan for its lake trout rearing program because of water temperature and purity.

The hills that surround the headwaters also offer unique attractions. Overlooking one huge oxbow of the Jordan is Deadmans Hill with a drop of 400 feet. A short distance away is a great natural landslide. Where the Green River joins the Jordan, the lowland extends across M-66 to create a great swamp to the east of the highway. This is the headwater area for the Intermediate River which then flows into the chain of intermediate lakes starting with Beals Lake, Scotts Lake, Six Mile Lake, Ellsworth Lake, and continuing into Intermediate Lake. This group of lakes was considered as a leg of the Northwest Michigan Inland Water Route to join the south arm of Lake Charlevoix at East Jordan.

Highway 66 emerges from the Jordan and intermediate River headwaters region at the old logging community of Chestonia. A small sawmill still exists here easily visible from the highway. At this point, M-66 is crossed by the county road from Central Lake which continues west to join the Jordan at the Chestonia Bridge and parallels the river on its west side all the way to East Jordan. The Chestonia Bridge is one of a number of points where canoes or boats can be launched to float down the river to Lake Charlevoix. The further up the river the boat is launched, the swifter and more torturous is the river and the wilder are the surroundings, providing thrills and excitement for the adventurous. The lower reaches of the river provides a more leisurely journey with time to enjoy the scenery. In the 7 miles from Chestonia to East Jordan, the highway crosses seven major creeks which drain the surrounding hills to swell the lower portion of the river. An outstanding scenic outlook is located on the west side of this part of the highway looking over the Jordan Valley at its widest point.

Northland Press

NORTHERN MICHIGAN'S LARGEST WEEKLY NEWSPAPER

BOYNE CITY, MICHIGAN

THURSDAY, May 22, 1969

A SMALL dilapidated saw mill is all that exists of the old logging town of Chestonia on M-66.

ORIGINALLY built around 1900 for logging, Pinney Bridge, at M-66, is a fly fisherman's paradise.

AT GRAVES Crossing and M-66, canoes and boats are launched for float trips down the famed Jordan River.

SEVERAL trout farms along M-66 use Jordan River water because of its frigid water temperature and purity.

At East Jordan, the road suddenly breaks over the crest of the hill to look out over the south arm of Lake Charlevoix. From East Jordan, the highway hugs the lake almost to the shoreline. After two miles of this, the route pulls away from the lake to skirt through farms and orchards with occasional glimpses of the lake. Within five miles, the highway again plunges to the lakeshore before it proceeds through Iron-ton. At Iron-ton, the south arm narrows before it enters the larger lake. Here two huge dangling cables which guide a chugging diesel ferryboat as it transports cars and passengers along this county road. It is a pleasant side trip for the M-66 traveler. Or you can leave M-66 at East Jordan and go by county road up the east side of the lake to cross back over at Iron-ton.

From Iron-ton to Charlevoix is just seven miles. One of the unusual attractions is the locally famous Loeb Farm, once a landmark farm of beautiful European style buildings and fine blooded cattle. Now these buildings house the forges and cupola of a foundryman-artist. M-66 junctions at Charlevoix with another of Michigan's scenic routes, U.S. 31, which follows the east shore of Lake Michigan from Benton Harbor to the Mackinaw Bridge.

Start to raise striped bass

Lansing - Some 300,000 tiny striped bass fry were flown into Michigan from South Carolina this week for an experiment in the rearing of the young fish which will be carried out by Department of Natural Resources (DNR) at its Wolf Lake fish hatchery near Kalamazoo.

All of the "baby" bass successfully reared to various sizes will be returned to South Carolina's state fish hatchery at Monck's Corners rather than planted in Michigan waters.

Explains Brad Durling, the DNR's supervisor of hatchery management:

"Under our contract with the South Carolina Wildlife Resources Department, we received these young fish for the express purpose of trying to work out better techniques for rearing them. Strippers are especially hard to rear and, therefore, we don't expect any conspicuous success in raising them. However, we are happy for this chance to try to develop some competence in striped bass rearing."

Why? "Well," notes Durling, "because someday striped bass may fit into our fish management program." He adds: "Due to the difficulty in rearing these fish, it looks like we need a long period of lead time in working toward the possibility of adding striped bass to a bonafide management effort. If that happens, we want to be ready."

East Jordan rock hounds will turn stone removal into a treasure hunt

BY BARB CHRISTENSEN

East Jordan - Man builds rocks into houses, skyscrapers, and bridges; he burns them for warmth, takes metal from them for his machines, uses them to make medicine, dyes, and ornaments, even for flavoring his food. Beyond all this, rocks tell us how the earth on which we live has grown.

Most rock collections start as curious stone brought home from a vacation or hike. Gem and stone cutting and polishing is an ancient art which has often been successfully pursued by amateurs like Rev. and Mrs. Stanley Hayes. With equipment, a person can cut and polish gems and ornamental stones and can learn to mount them in settings. As a creative, satisfying hobby, lapidary grows more popular each year. It is a hobby and source of fun for the entire family. The Hayes' children have an eye for finding stones, Rev. Hayes is skilled in cutting and polishing, and Mrs. Hayes is adept at making jewelry from the finished stones. The Hayes' family during vacations have collected granite from New Hampshire, feldspar and blue sodalite from Canada and agates from South Dakota; but most of their interest is with the native Petoskey stones. True Petoskey stones have a 6-sided pattern and many lay undiscovered because their pattern shows through only when wet. Currently, the Hayes family is making for an inlaid table top, a Michigan map with each county made of an individual Petoskey stone and pieced together like a puzzle. Rev. Hayes has stones sorted and graded according to size and quality. Some stones are too soft and cannot be used at all. Stones are put in a vise to slice on a table saw set-up by a stone saw blade that has commercial diamonds set into the blunt edge. Using a coolant of oil to keep the blade from getting too hot, stones are sliced across the grain to get the right pattern. Using a plastic template of various sizes, a particular shape is traced on the stone as a guide for trimming to size on the saw. At another machine, several valves individually release water to grinder, coarse sander and fine sander wheels to keep stone particles from accumulating. The first grinder wheel shapes and rounds the top of the stone and the second coarse sander smooths the stone, being careful not to get flat surfaces from too much pressure. The final sanding gets it ready for the buffer wheel, while a velvet pad is kept wet and orange buffing compound is applied to the stone until it shines evenly. Mrs. Hayes then uses epoxy glue to mount the stone in various settings.

The Hayes family originally became interested in lapidary about 5 years ago from a retired uncle. Their hobby began with a Christmas gift of a tumbler in which they polished small stones and even pieces of glass from pretty bottles. A set of deep red glass dishes also got the pieces tumbled whenever they accidentally met the floor. Rev. Hayes also likes to collect slices of interesting stones from various parts of the country. His collection includes Herkimer Diamond stones from New York that glitter like the real thing! If your garden needs a rock removal crew; call on the Hayes, they'll turn the job into a treasure hunt!

NAPA Finalist

Once in a great while engineers develop a really superior tire—a tire that stands up against all comers on the road, in brutal lab testing and emerges rated "the best of all tires tested."

The NAPA Finalist is such a tire. It has been tested and proved superior—superior to most other top-of-the-line tires. Superior to all other NAPA tires. It delivers extended mileage, gives more road grip, to make your driving safer. It is the finest tire we have ever produced.

It is designed specifically to hold up longer under heavier cars, higher speeds, longer distances, more punishment. These are the qualities demanded of a tire by today's driving conditions.

The NAPA Finalist has proved it can meet these demands. You'll discover that it will deliver everything you expect from a tire—and probably a little more.

Here are some of the reasons why the Finalist gives you much more than the tires that come on new cars—

EXTENDED MILEAGE • MORE ROAD GRIP

- * POWERFUL, EFFICIENT TREAD WITH 18,144 GRIPPING EDGES (size 8.25-14)
- * EXTRA WIDE CONTINENTAL WRAP-AROUND TREAD FOR GREATER TRACTION ON CURVES, BETTER ROAD CONTROL

- * DEEPER TREAD DELIVERS MORE TRACTION, GREATER MILEAGE
- * TOUGH POLYESTER CORD GIVES ADDED STRENGTH, GREATER PROTECTION

These Bonbon Crinkle Cups, dark and rich with semi-sweet chocolate, can be filled with many fillings.

Nothing like chocolate for that special sweet treat

When Columbus spread out his New World treasures at the feet of King Ferdinand, it's no wonder that no one paid much attention to those funny looking little brown cocoa beans off in one corner. Yet it was a great day in the history of food -- the day when chocolate first touched Europe. It wasn't until a couple decades later when Montezuma invited Cortez for dinner that Europeans began to know the delights of chocolate. First enjoyed as a beverage, chocolate swept Europe, and before long, great culinary minds were inventing marvelous things to make with chocolate.

There's hardly a soul who can resist chocolate in its pure form, and that's why Bonbon Crinkle Cups are so tempting. These little "sugarplums" are unique in that they're neither candy nor dessert, but a little of both. Making them is easy -- just spread Baker's Semi-Sweet Chocolate, melted with a bit of butter, in small bonbon cups. Or, if you wish, you can use larger paper baking cups. The fillings can suit your fancy of the moment -- try tiny scoops of ice cream, whole strawberries, pudding, or flavored whipped toppings.

These little cuplets are marvelous for entertaining, particularly when you need some refreshments that are spectacular and different -- like a shower, a club meeting, or a card party. Another time like that when you really want to shine as a hostess, serve Chocolate Fondue, just as unique a party treat.

The fondue recipe is one of many in a leaflet with new chocolate ideas. It's available free by sending your name and address (including ZIP code) to "Chocolate Doodles," Box 5017, Kankakee, Ill., 60901.

Bonbon Crinkle Cups
6 squares semi-sweet chocolate
2 tablespoons butter
1 cup (about) Flavored Whipped Topping, pudding, or ice cream*
*Or use 30 small strawberries.

Partially melt chocolate with butter over hot water. Remove from water; stir rapidly until entirely melted. Using a teaspoon, swirl the chocolate around the insides of 30 small paper or foil bonbon cups, covering the entire surface with a thin layer. Place on tray or baking sheet. Chill until firm.

About 10 minutes before serving, fill the cups with topping, pudding, or ice cream. Place in freezer or refrigerator. Peel paper from chocolate cups just before serving. Garnish, if desired. Makes 30 small confections.

Bonbon Crinkle Dessert Cups. Prepare Bonbon Crinkle Cups as directed, spreading chocolate mixture in 10 large paper baking cups. Place in muffin pans to chill. Fill with 1 quart (about) desired filling. Makes 10 servings.

Flavored Whipped Toppings
Prepare 1 envelope whipped topping mix with milk and vanilla as directed on package, adding flavoring from list below before whipping. Makes about 1-3/4 cups.

Peppermint. 1/8 teaspoon peppermint extract.
Rum. 1/4 teaspoon rum extract
Mocha. 1 teaspoon instant quality coffee and 2 teaspoons cocoa.

GENERAL FOOD PRODUCTS
USED: Baker's Semi-Sweet Chocolate, Dream Whip Whipped Topping Mix, Instant Maxwell House Coffee.

Chocolate Fondue
1 package (8 squares) semi-sweet chocolate

1/2 cup plus 1 tablespoon milk
1/4 cup sugar
Dash of cinnamon

Dippers (see suggestions below)
Combine chocolate, milk, sugar, and cinnamon in saucepan. Place over low heat and stir occasionally until chocolate is melted and completely smooth. Pour into fondue pot or small chafing dish. Keep warm while serving. Arrange dippers on a tray or platter beside fondue; let each person dip his favorites into the chocolate. If heated longer than 1/2 hour, add additional milk for a proper consistency. For individual servings, pour into demitasse cups or small glasses and serve immediately. Makes about 1-1/2 cups.

Dippers:
Seedless green grapes, Apple slices or wedges, Banana chunks or slices, Pear wedges, Stemmed cherries, Tangerine sections, Dried apricots, Prunes, Dates, Candied orange rind, butter cookies, toasted pound cake strips, pretzels, rolled cookies, ladyfingers, flat mints.

Keith Fitzpatrick moved that the Ordinance #A-38, Contributing to the delinquency of a Minor. Second by Marvin Loding. All Yeas. Motion Carried.
City Attorney Varnum recommended the drawing up of an Ordinance regarding the parking of vehicles on private property, without permission.
