COMING EVENTS

Fund-raiser for Katrina's victims

Challenge Mountain's resale store at 01158 M-75 S. in Boyne City, will be holding a one-day fund-raiser, with all proceeds going to the Red Cross to benefit victims of Hurricane Katrina. The sale will be held at the resale location on Saturday, Sept. 17, from 8 a.m. to 4 p.m. Refreshments will be available for purchase.

People wishing to donate items for the sale may drop off household items, furniture, clothes or cash donations to the resale store. Donations will be accepted through the morning of the sale.

Donations and shoppers are both needed and greatly appreciated. Come out and shop for a good cause.

Boyne Middle School hosts parent orientation

On Tuesday, Sept. 13, the staff of the Boyne City Middle School will be co-hosting a parent orientation night with the Parent Teacher Organization. Parents are invited to go to their child's classroom, sit in his or her desk, and listen to a presentation by the teacher regarding the topics of study for the school year, how the agenda/assignment books work, what the expectations are, what procedures are used.

The program will begin at 7 p.m. in the gym, with a welcome and a PTO update. From there parents will be dismissed to walk through their child's schedule. The evening will be completed with refreshments and social time in the cafeteria at 8:30 p.m.

This is a parent orientation, not a parent-teacher conference. It is an opportunity for parents to be introduced to their child's teachers, daily schedule, curriculum, and materials. The first parent-teacher conferences are scheduled for December 1 and 5. There will be mid-marking period reports coming home around the first week in October. Parents wishing to speak to their child's teachers regarding progress prior to these dates may set up individual appointments.

Because the program is for parents, the school asks that parents not bring their children for this evening program.

Wanted: quilters or want-to-be quilters

The Piece Makers Quilting Guild of Boyne City will be holding an open house on Thursday, Sept. 8, from 7 - 9 p.m. in the library community room. Come join us at our meeting and learn about activities, community projects and block exchanges. Refreshments will be served. Regular meetings are held the second and fourth Thursday of each month. Call Judi at (231) 582-7200 for more information.

'Sundays at Four' concert

On Sept. 11 at 4 p.m., the Congregational Church in Charlevoix, the "Sundays at Four" concert series will present an interesting and unique program.

Area teachers who are also talented instrumentalists will perform compositions ranging from those written by very early composers to a group of pieces titled "Funky Etudes." •

Boyne City coordinates hurricane relief efforts

The City of Boyne City held a meeting Tuesday and invited church and civic leaders to participate in a round table discussion for the coordination of local hurricane relief efforts.

City manager, Mike Cain, Mayor Eleanor Stackus and chamber director Scott MacKenzie have all received numerous calls wondering where to donate, and what items were needed for the victims of Hurricane Katrina in the Gulf areas hardest hit by the recent storm.

Many local church leaders said that efforts have already begun in their various congregations, with most of the money collected being diverted to denominational disaster relief agencies.

Challenge Mountain has also already begun a relief effort, with a planned sale and auction for Sept. 17 (see Coming Events, left), with all proceeds going to the victims of Hurricane Katrina. Most of the Challenge Mountain efforts will translate into cash donations, but they will also be sending clothing, when they are given the go-ahead on in-kind donations.

With several other organizations planning fund-raisers, from the Pink Ribbon lady bikers to the Boyne Mountain project, the city decided it would be helpful to create a coordinated, area-wide relief effort, in order to eliminate duplication and confusion.

The city will manage efforts by different groups to collect, manage and distribute financial and in-kind donations, with the goal of making sure that every donation is properly distributed, and that there are people on the ground in the affected areas to deal with the influx of donations so that the aid does not create an additional burden of stock-piled clothing, blankets, food and water, but is rather immediately gotten to people in need.

Other local efforts are ongoing, both through the Boyne City Housing Commission in cooperation with the department of Housing and Urban Development, as well as church groups and private citizens, to look into hosting families and individuals who have been displaced by Katrina and will need housing for as many as nine months. Jim Cooper, superintendent of the Boyne City schools, is also looking into a hosting project, and asked that other groups who are contact him so that if there is a need to bring families to the area, the numbers do not exceed the area schools' ability to serve the additional students.

John Bennett of East Jordan Plastics, working with Kristine Garver Krolezyk of Northern Star broadcasting, is working on providing a semi-truck, gasoline and a driver for transporting goods to affected areas. While it is still in

Harry Watson: a snapshot of East Jordan

BY JANE BOOZE
Editor

Harry Watson is fond of saying he hasn't lived in East Jordan his whole life — yet. He was born in Hayes Twp., just outside of East Jordan, and has lived here ever since, though. He also said he never graduated from high school, and again, he is telling the truth. The high school in East Jordan had burned down, you see, so Harry and his classmates graduated from the Temple Theatre, and then he went on to Milwaukee School of Engineering to be an electrical engineer, and then to Michigan State College, before it was a university. But he didn't finish, because in December of 1941, Harry enlisted in the Navy.

He feels pretty strongly about that, still. We should have been in the war before Pearl Harbor, he said, and he echoes his own father and an uncle who was a career military man. But Pearl Harbor was hit in December, and then we were in, and Harry was one of the first in line. He joined the Navy, and volunteered to be in a submarine. The Navy doesn't recruit to submarines, Harry said, you have to volunteer, and only about 10 percent of the sailors who do are accepted. Harry served as a torpedoman's mate in a dangerous place during WWII, when one out of five American subs were sunk.

Harry was off the submarine and in the hospital when his sub was hit, and none of the men he served with survived. He tells of it briefly, uncharacteristically serious.

"I was taken off and put in the hospital and someone else replaced me," he said simply, and added that he felt guilty about that for a long time. His good humor reasserted itself quickly when he was asked how badly he was injured. Bad enough, he said, laughing, that if there was ever a national disaster, his injured veteran status would get him evacuated just before the women and children.

A single child of the East Jordan funeral director and his wife, Guy and Helen Watson, Harry learned important lasting lessons from his parents.

"When the crash came, (my dad) lost everything he had. It took him until 1950 to recover, but he paid back every dime," Harry said. "He instilled in me that you pay your bills."

That wasn't all: his father served as the mayor of East Jordan.

Streetwork approved, bids awarded

Bids were taken for Vogel Street reconstruction, and Bay and South Lake Streets reconstruction in Boyne City last week.

The Vogel Street project low bidder was H & D Construction, with a bid of $114,885.06. The project will include the reconstruction of Vogel between Lake and Park streets, and will include the installation of new water and sewer lines, curbs, gutters and sidewalks, as well as a redefined intersection at Vogel and Lake streets. Construction is scheduled to begin as soon as possible this fall.

The Bay and S. Lake Streets reconstruction project was awarded to Tri-County Excavating for a total bid of $317,500.40, which included two divisions. Division A was the Bay St. portion, which will include new water and sewer lines along Bay Street from Addis to W. Michigan, including Bay and part of John St. There will be rolled curb added on the south side, and storm structures will be inserted as well.

Division B, the Lake St. portion of the project, will entail finishing Lake St. from Division to the area of Glen's. It will be all paved, curbed and guttered, with water, sewer and storm drain work. There are no sidewalks as part of this project, other than handicapped ramps at intersections.

Both divisions of the Bay and S. Lake Streets project will also be completed this fall, although there may be some remaining clean up work in the spring.

Citizens may notice crews digging at Tannery Park. The city is extending a water main toward Marshall Rd., cutting through the parking lot, which will be gravelled for a while. Some houses in the city have been experiencing problems with their wells, and the city is adding them, at the homeowner's expense, to the city water system.

Harry and Phoebe Watson share a laugh and a lifetime.

Community Foundations welcome grant requests

Once again, it's time to put local charitable dollars to work on behalf of the community. The Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation and the Charlevoix County Community Foundation are inviting non-profit organizations, educational institutions, and municipalities which are in need of funding to submit grant requests in support of their projects.

During the next few months, the community foundations and their Youth Advisory Committees will review grant proposals to help fund health initiatives, community development projects, education, the arts and cultural events, environmental efforts, and human service programs. The YACs, which are made up of representatives from high schools throughout Charlevoix and Emmet counties will award grants to programs that serve children and teens.

Programs chosen for funding must serve residents of Emmet or Charlevoix County and have a non-profit tax status. The deadline for grant requests is October 1.

Applications are available by calling the community foundation office in your county. All applicants must call and discuss their proposals in advance. Foundation staff are available to offer advice and assistance to organizations interested in submitting a proposal for funding consideration.

Both community foundations are grassroots charitable organizations made up of various funds — all of them established by local donors. Some funds are earmarked for specific causes, and others are open-ended to meet changing needs. The funds are held in permanent endowment, so they can continue to grow and generate income to enhance the quality of life in Charlevoix and Emmet Counties; now and for generations to come. Together, the community foundations grant-making total amounts to over $10 million since 1992.

For more information about the grant-making process, establishing a fund, or making a gift, contact the Charlevoix County Community Foundation at P.O. Box 718, East Jordan, MI, 49727, by phone at (231) 536-2440, or the Petoskey-Harbor Springs Area Community Foundation at 616 Petoskey Street, Petoskey, MI, 49770, by phone at (231) 348-5820, by website address at www.petoskey-harborspringsfoundation.org.

The winning pictures will be displayed during the event, along with many of the other submissions. Attendees will be given a chance to vote on which photo will receive the Viewer's Choice Award. The afternoon's activities will include music by Dale Parsons and Rob Dunne, and food will be available. The annual membership meeting will be held after the photo celebration.

The major awards that will be presented to the winners are a Grand Prize of $250 sponsored by Charlevoix State Bank; President's Choice of $100 given by the Jordan Valley Animal Clinic; Viewer's Choice of $100 donated by East Jordan Plastics and a Youth Award of $100 sponsored by the East Jordan Iron Works. $500 in additional cash prizes (sourced from Bay Winds Federal Credit Union, the Competitive Edge Hair Studio and Dr. Gregory Klinker, DDS), will go to other selected photos. The winning photos will be featured in a 2006 calendar that may be ordered during the get-together.

The celebration will be a great way to spend a late summer afternoon for the whole family, be with friends and be in a beautiful scenic area. The event is free and open to all (members and non-members) including the membership meeting. Questions should be directed to John Richter at (231) 536-3132.

Exploring the artist within

Autumn brings a breath of freedom to many adults in northern Michigan, as friends and relatives leave for home and children return to school, making fall a perfect time to learn a new skill like hot glass beads, precious metal clay or Shibori. Raven Hill Discovery Center invites interested individuals to explore the artist within every Monday, Wednesday and Friday afternoon, starting Monday, Sept. 12. Classes can also be arranged by appointment to fit individual schedules. Each two-hour art class allows participants to create their own art to wear or to give as gifts. In the Hot Glass Bead class, students can choose their own colors and produce beads to incorporate in necklaces, bracelets and earrings. In the Precious Metal Clay class, participants can fashion pure silver jewelry while learning simple techniques with clay, paste, and syringe. Those who choose the Shibori class can enjoy creating their own silky soft sensation to match any and all of their alter egos. Shibori techniques encourage the folding, clipping, and injecting of dye onto silk scarves, allowing participants to wrap themselves in a wash of mesmerizing color when finished or create lavish gifts for friends and relatives. All classes cost $30 plus materials. To register, please call Raven Hill at (231) 536-3369 or send an e-mail to info@ravenhilldiscoverycenter.org.

Latest chapter for Korthase Insurance

BY BETSY WEBER
Contributing writer

The Korthase name has been a fixture in Northern Michigan almost since the beginning. Emigrating from Germany to Charlevoix County in the late 1800s, Heinrich and Johanna Korthase and four subsequent generations have worked as farmers, teachers, loggers, stone masons, high school sports officials, and business owners throughout the region. The Korthase Insurance Agency's roots also run pretty deep, dating back to 1926. Originally part of the State Bank of East Jordan, the insurance business was started by Robert A. Campbell. In 1959, the agency was separated from the bank, and became known as the R. A. Campbell Agency. In 1960 the agency expanded into Boyne City where it opened an office in the Northwestern State Bank building.

In 1983, Bill Korthase joined the agency, which was then known as the Campbell Lindsay Agency, with Bill Lindsay working as the managing partner. In 1992, Bill Korthase purchased the East Jordan office and subsequently acquired the Boyne City location in 1996. At that time the name was changed to Korthase Insurance & Financial Services, and the agency entered a period of dramatic growth. In 2001, the Petoskey location was opened, and by 2003 Korthase Insurance & Financial Services employed approximately 35 people and had become one of the largest insurance and financial services firms in northern Michigan.

I recently caught up with Bill Korthase, who shared his thoughts on the latest chapter in the long history of this Northern Michigan success story.

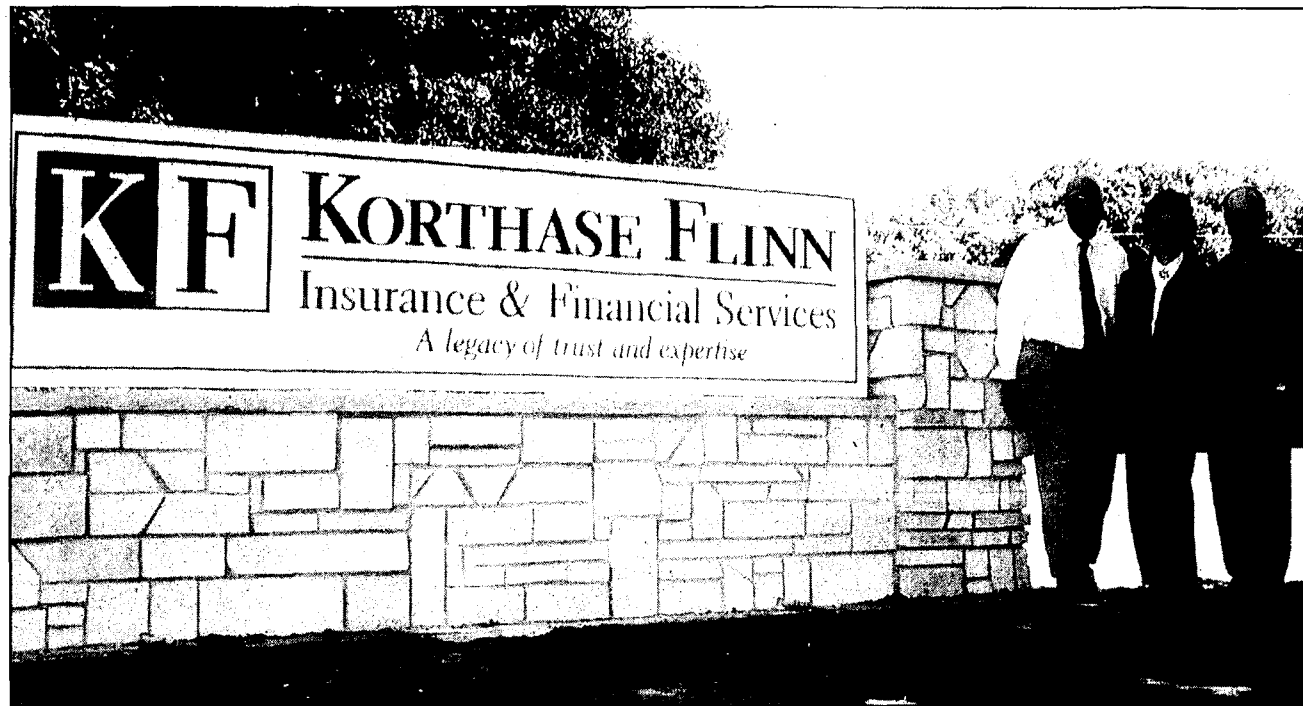

Q: Bill, as a lifetime resident and business owner in Northern Michigan, what do you see as the opportunities and challenges facing small businesses in our region today?

A: Life today seems to be increasingly complicated as people have access to a tremendous amount of information, which is often a curse as much as a blessing. As a small business owner, I have found that our customers are inundated with offers, promotional claims, Internet advertisements, etc., from national as well as international companies. These companies spend millions on advertising and certainly have the marketing power to "tell a good story." As local business people, we are challenged with having our message heard amidst all of this noise.

Q: How do the small businesses compete in this kind of environment?

A: I am convinced that our local businesses often provide comparable products, competitive prices, and better service than many of these large companies. However, in spite of these advantages, it remains a challenge to avoid being steamrolled by the marketing muscle of the large chains. The bottom line is that the local businesses have to be better than the large players, just to have a fighting chance.

Q: I understand there are some changes in the wind at Korthase Insurance; can you shed some light on things?

Bill Korthase, left, with new partners, Denise and Randy Flinn, is looking forward to a continuation of his new role at Korthase Flinn and the time he can spend with his family.

A: I joined the insurance agency in 1983 and saw our company grow from 5 or 6 employees to nearly 40. We opened the Petoskey office and expanded our group health insurance and financial services offerings dramatically during that time. In recent years I've contemplated slowing down a little, and, in fact, in 2003, I was approached by a large financial institution who was interested in acquiring our agency. While flattered by their interest, as a local businessman, I couldn't get comfortable with the idea of selling out in this manner.

Q: What was the problem?

A: We've always operated as a local, community oriented business. We have offices close to our clients, hire and train local people, and provide a high level of customer service that might not be deemed cost effective in the eyes of an institutional owner. We sponsor local initiatives and feel a tremendous sense of gratitude and responsibility toward our communities.

During my initial discussions with the potential buyer, it became obvious that their organization was much more bottom line oriented. It became clear to me that if we sold our agency in this manner, the culture that we had built over nearly 80 years would probably not survive.

Q: So what are you doing?

A: In late 2003, I first met my new partners, Randy and Denise Flinn. Randy grew up in St. Ignace, and after living in Chicago since college, he was ready to move back to Northern Michigan. Randy is a CPA, Denise is a licensed Life and Health Insurance Agent, and both have a great deal of experience in managing small businesses and customer service organizations. After our initial discussions, I knew this was the perfect situation.

Q: What do you mean "the perfect situation"?

A: It was clear that Randy's small town roots were close to the surface and that he and Denise shared the values that were at the core of our agency. It was also clear that Randy's finance skills and management experience was just what I needed to help manage the growth we have experienced in recent years. I enjoy working outside the office, meeting with clients, and creating growth opportunities for our people. I needed someone who could effectively manage the organization while allowing me to continue working in the way I was most effective.

Q: So where do things stand today?

A: Randy and Denise have been actively involved for nearly 18 months, and I am very satisfied with the way things are developing. Randy is getting his arms around the agency operations and has expanded our financial services offerings while Denise has taken on the management of our Employee Benefits Group. As a result, I have been able to extract myself from day-to-day operations and take a little more time for myself.

We're now at the point where I felt it was time to add Randy and Denise's name to the agency. They have assumed a great deal of the responsibilities which has allowed me to sleep better at night and enjoy more time with my wife, Deb.

Q: So KorthaseFlinn is the latest chapter. What does that mean for you?

A: I'm enjoying the role I have today. I am still very involved with the agency but don't have to carry every challenge on my shoulders alone. I really have the best of both worlds. I can work with our clients and help them protect and accumulate assets through the products and services that we offer, but I can also spend more time with Deb or playing golf with friends, knowing that our customers are in good hands back at the office.

Betsy Weber is a Boyne City High School graduate currently entering her junior year at Grand Valley State University. She is studying communications and had an opportunity to work in an internship at Korthase Insurance & Financial Services this summer.

Cramming for the big test

Twice today I have seen photographs that hurt my heart, and brought tears to my eyes before I knew they were coming.

One was a tiny baby, with a beautifully pouting pushed-out lower lip sitting in his daddy's baseball glove. He was not expected to live a day, his mother said, but he lived instead nine wonderful, cherished weeks, even gaining weight. His body wasn't built quite the way it needed to be to sustain life, and he succumbed, after having supplied his loving parents with oodles of photo ops, and chances to kiss his sweet, warm face.

The other was just an aerial shot of New Orleans, its streets black with water, some buildings roofless. It was too far away to see the death or despair on those streets and in those buildings. But I know that there lurk under the water uncounted, unnamed bodies that are turning into biological weapons as they decompose, contaminating that marauding water.

Katrina, unexpectedly, has brought out humanity's worst in so many instances the last couple of days. The looting, the murders and rapes — even rapes and murders taking place inside the Superdome, a building donated as a place of haven, of refuge, has become dangerous, the news tells us.

But disaster brings out the best, too: the old man, hiding in his attic from the rising water, without food or clean drinking water, who still motions rescuers onward. That house there is full of people. They need help more.

The policemen and hospital workers who are putting in 20-hour shifts, grabbing a couple hours of sleep and starting again. The counter flood of humanitarian workers, EMTs, church members, who are arriving in Mississippi and Louisiana and giving aid. The younger man who will not leave his elderly, ailing mother to save himself, and dismisses his heroism as "doing what I had to do."

These stand in opposition to the scenes of people kicking in windows, carrying out great armloads of clothes, shoes, electronic equipment — carrying it — where? Are these thugs from other places, whose houses are still intact, or are their houses drowned, and they feel entitled to property replacement at the expense of strangers? Do they have a place to take all those pillaged goods? What value is there in a fine music system, if there is not house to put it in, no stand to set it on, no outlet to plug it in? What use are 16 pairs of shoes, when the streets run with filthy water?

Most frighteningly, what good can come of bands of homeless men, armed with weaponry stolen from the sporting goods sections of Walmart and other retailers?

My tears for the thousands displaced, homeless, sometimes missing family and friends, are mingled with horror at the inhumanity that is also unfolding in Katrina's aftermath.

I wonder where I would stand.

If my house, my place of business, my bank, the grocery store, my car, my children, my husband, my church, were all under water — if I had lost everything, where would I stand?

Would I despair?

On a smaller scale, but one that ranks high in the realm of personal tragedy, how would I respond to the loss of a child?

The mother who brought me the photo of her young son, perched in that baseball glove — oh, how she smiled. She shared the gorgeous pictures of a son she had been told would not survive one day, and she radiated gratefulness that she had, instead, nine perfect weeks. Did she rail against God and cry "Why me?"

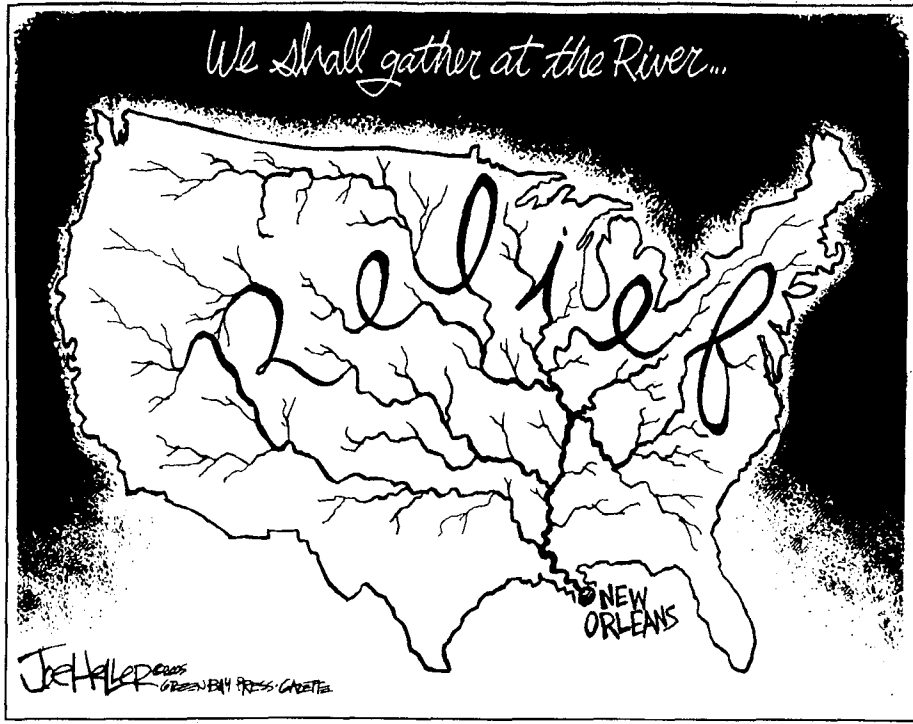

I will never know if she did, but by the time I met her, she'd found peace, and what came across was pride in a son whose pouting lip was happily sealed in her memory, and gratitude for a life that enriched her own immeasurably, for nine whole weeks.

What would I have done? Would I despair?

I always hope, selfishly, that I don't have to find out. My guess is that I would not steal electronics. That seems impractical to me. But would I steal food? Would I take the first opportunity to save myself, or would I moan the rescuers on to a needier neighbor? Would I even be aware of my neighbor's need?

Would I scream at God if he did not spare my infant son; if in his wisdom, he created a tiny body that was never meant to live? Would I resent that interference in my happiness, or would I select from the moments of life that were spared, the richest happiness of all?

There are massive tragedies, and personal tragedies, and both test the mettle of mankind. But every day before is preparation for such a test.

American Legion news

At the regular meeting of Ernest Peterson Post 228, held on Aug. 4, the following communications, reports and actions were heard or acted upon: a letter from Legionnaire Matthew Brong stationed at Fort Bragg, N.C.; a request from the Boyne City fire fighters was honored with a $100 donation to their yearbook; a thank-you letter from the National Fire Safety Council for a $100 donation for fire safety educational materials. The Honor Guard conducted the annual flag disposal ceremony on June 11 and properly disposed of over 100 unserviceable American flags; led the 4th of July parade; provided guards and bugler for the Kevin Swadling funeral at Greensky Hill Church; and conducted Veteran of the Month ceremonies for Edward Clinton Brannon and Thelma Joyce Behling. The following publications appeared in the Citizen-Journal in July: Support Those In Harms Way; Veterans of the Month Al Stark, Milan Hardy, and Edward Brannon; Parade Honors Troops; Phase 2 Treats For Troops; History Of Flag Day and The Pledge Of Allegiance; Lost and Found Addresses; overview of the July meeting and Sons of the American Legion election results; Update on Treats For Troops.

The adjutant reported that the 2006 paid membership stands at 93 and that bingo is going well because of the public support we have received. The chaplain reported on veterans who are sick, disabled, shut-in or have answered the final call.

The commander stated that plans are being formulated to take the bingo workers and kitchen crew to an appreciation dinner in Sept., to have the annual Post birthday dinner on Oct. 8 and to take the Honor Guard to breakfast Dec. 4 at the East Jordan SnoMobilers Club. He also requested that the members inform the public at large that they can acquire Blue Star Banners to be displayed, in their windows, to show their support of family members serving our country in the military. They may also purchase magnetic ribbons (Support Our Troops or God Bless Our Troops), for display on their cars or trucks. All the proceeds are used to send care packages to our troops in Iraq. It should be noted that the Legion is the only known organization or business in our northern area to use all the proceeds to support our troops from the sale of the ribbons.

TO THE EDITOR:

Thank you one and all for another very successful summer festival at St. Matthew's Church in Boyne City. It would not have been possible without all the merchants and parishioners who donated items; the expertise of our auctioneer, Sam Kosc and his staff; all the dedicated and hard-working volunteers who gave of their time; and all who came and enjoyed a wonderful Creek and Nelson Olstrom, locals from this area; Ron Getz and Jason Knott with smooth jazz; the Petoskey Steel Drum Band, Judy Harrison and High Impact, and Cow Cow Boogie, all repeat favorites; Northwind Brass with their Civil War narrative; and new-comers, Calamity Jane and Steven Wood. Each of these performers brought something special to the Gazebo stage.

The folks at the Boyne Area Chamber of Commerce: Scott, Pam and Lorraine — thanks for taking care of all the little details. St. Matthews, for always standing by when it rains (twice this year!). To all our visitors and the locals who come out each Wednesday, for supporting us through your presence and donations. You're the reason for the season and we love to get your feedback.

Watson

and his mother was on the library board. Both parents set an example of community involvement and pride, and gave financially, as well as of their time.

When Harry married the lovely Phoebe VanAlsberg in 1944, it was no surprise that one of the promises they made each other was to leave East Jordan a better place than when they came.

But, folks wondered, how did the irrepressible Harry Watson get Phoebe to agree to marry him?

"It was dark when I asked her," Harry agreed. She was teaching school in East Jordan, and she and Harry became friends. When Harry returned from the Navy on leave during WWII, he said that he told her she might as well have his insurance as anyone, and would she marry him? She said no, but relented, leaving skeptics and disappointed young men in her wake.

"People said if you marry Harry Watson, you'll have a good time, but he'll never take care of you, and it won't last," Harry said. He has proved them wrong, and still says that Mrs. Watson is the number one best thing that ever happened to him.

"She always said divorce is a word that is never mentioned in his house. 'Murder' — almost every day," he laughed.

Harry came back from the war and finished his residency at his father's funeral home, and then went to Wayne State University and finished his schooling. And then he came home and went into the construction business, where he remained for 25 years, employing, as he put it, 65 families with an open door policy and at above-scale wages. He attributes his success to the many good people he had working for him.

"We kept good people for 25 years," he said. "I would be selfish if I said my success — what success there has been — was my fault, because it isn't. Life has been tremendously wonderful to me."

Harry is generous in his assessment of people.

Harry Watson

He can cite a handful of good people in every paragraph, friends since childhood as well as younger people in East Jordan today, whom he respects and trusts.

Someone once accused Harry of being a bully, but he doesn't think that's it.

"Don't get me wrong," he said. "I've had my share of conflagrations — but it was because I wouldn't let anyone else bully."

At 82, Harry still has his share of conflagrations, and he imagines some people think he should just let things go now, let other people worry about them. But,

"It's my town," he said, and so he stays involved, paying close attention to city politics, and being a board member at the Jordan Valley District Library, as well as being active in the Presbyterian church — like his parents before him. He knows almost everybody, and most of his comments about people start with, "What a great guy," or "What a marvelous friend," or "We go way back." He truly believes his success is attributable to his friends and then people who have worked with and for him over the years. He listed a number of Petries, Drenths, Malpasses, Porters and others, and said, "If you surround yourself with people like that, you can't help but turn out."

Outspoken, perhaps occasionally abrasive, Watson personifies East Jordan: feisty and hard-working, good-natured and better hearted, loyal, faithful, and generous. Many people are proud to claim his friendship — many have said of him,

"Harry Watson is my best friend."

"You have to be a friend to have a friend," Harry said. His repertoire of advice is as varied as his occupations, which have included master electrician, bottom board builder (both by 16), contractor, funeral home director, engineering and consulting, air ambulance, airplane sales, monument and marker scribe, and probably many more. In addition, he has taken his turn on the bank board, the builder's board and the Grandvue board. He was an assistant scout master and then a scout master — he and Bruce Malpass had East Jordan's first Eagle Scout.

"I never quit working," he said. "I enjoy it. That's the secret of life: keep yourself physically and mentally occupied — especially mentally."

He also said that too many people get married because they love each other, but they don't like each other. He said love won't sustain you through the decades if you don't like each other very well.

"Tolerant is the toughest thing in the world to be," he said.

He believes people want to fight with their fists only when they don't have the wits to fight with instead. He thinks it's too bad that police officers have to make a split second decision on the same things the courts take six months to figure out. He thinks "foul balls" usually hang themselves, mixing his metaphors in an attempt to say that you don't have to judge people much — the truth will out one way or the other, usually.

Harry Watson gives the city of East Jordan and the people who live or have lived here all the credit, and takes little himself, hoping that he has given something back to a town and the folks who gave him everything.

But in the end, it gets even closer to home. "The best thing that ever happened to me is Mrs. Watson, our kids and grandkids," he said. "If there was something we did right, we raised three good kids."

GRANDVUE NEIGHBORHOOD

Freda Kathryn Mitchell Judkins

Freda was born in Boyne City on August 18, 1909, the daughter of Fred and Jessie Mitchell. She had an older sister, Frances, and a younger brother, Lyman. She graduated from Boyne City High School in 1927, being a high scorer on her school basketball team. In June of 1930 she married her high school sweetheart, Lionel (John) Judkins. They had three children, Rex, Carol and Larry.

Freda was a waitress, cook and restaurant owner during her working years. She was one of the first employees at Boyne Mountain when they originally opened in the late 1940s. She later owned and operated the "Country Cousins" in Boyne City. Her son Larry later ran "Mr. J's" at which she cooked and baked breads, pies, cakes, etc.

She attended the Presbyterian Church, was very active in the Alpha Bible Class and helped with many church dinners. She is a member of the Eastern Stars, a membership she has held for over 70 years. She worked on the Boyne City election board many times over the years. Up until her later years she reported at 6 a.m. and often times worked past midnight.

She enjoyed playing cards and bingo. As one of her fellow bridge players stated, "She was a tremendous entertainer when the bridge game was held at her home."

Her home was very important to her and she kept it up at all times. Any time visitors or family members would stop by she would immediately get out the baked goods, coffee or tea to serve.

Written by her son, Rex.

Florence 'Toni' Gertrude Campbell Dubrovin

Toni was born to Crayton and Edna Evans Campbell on January 18, 1915, in Oceana County and was the middle child of six female siblings. Toni likes to share that when she and her sisters were all young, people didn't have babysitters. "Wherever the folks went, they took us. That is where we girls all learned to dance. When we were too small, Papa would have us step on his shoes and he would dance us around."

Toni married Cyler Smith and had two girls, Judy and Jean. She is very proud of both girls and their many accomplishments. Education was very important to Toni and she has always been proud that she completed high school and that both her girls were able to go to college.

After Toni divorced in 1954, she found it necessary to seek employment and began working at the General Telephone Company as a long distance operator. She worked there until her retirement 25 years later. In 1958, Toni was married again, this time to Paul Dubrovin.

Toni has long been interested in ceramics, and was an excellent seamstress. Most of Toni's life was spent living in Muskegon County. It was later that she moved to northern Michigan to be closer to her youngest daughter, Jean. Toni has lived at Grandvue since March of 2003. One of the things we enjoy most about her is her laugh. She loves recounting stories about her family and is active in the Grandvue social life — and still loves to dance! To date, she has 9 grandchildren and 11 great-grandchildren.

ing goods to affected areas. While it is still in the planning stages, the city is also looking at ways to utilize the trailer capacity for items from this area. A local company said they would donate warehousing space, as well as a loading dock for the semi.

While most of the needs are still financial at this time, some organizations (ie: a Rotary Club in Houston, Samaritan's Purse, the State of Michigan Governor's hotline) are taking in-kind donations and are asking for a few basic items: diapers, under clothes for all ages, blankets, t-shirts, and personal hygiene items, such as toothpaste, toothbrushes, soap, deodorant, shampoo, etc.

Organizers ask that people donating clothes have them washed and sorted into boxes, clearly labeled according to adult/child; male/female; and sizes.

Boyne City is planning to issue a proclamation designating a weekend of action for the victims of Hurricane Katrina, tentatively set for Sept. 16-18. All donations will be made through the National Red Cross, and the Salvation Army.

Volunteers are needed to sort and load and unload donations, and tend drop-off points. Challenge Mountain is accepting donations of clothing, household items and vintage items for sale or auction. More information will be forthcoming regarding drop-off locations and additional needs.

For more information on the relief effort, contact Cain at mcain@boynecity.com.

Demings celebrate Golden anniversary

Calvin Deming and Helen Schmidt were married Sept. 10, 1955, at the United Methodist Church in Boyne City. The Demings met on a blind date and it was on that first date that Cal asked Helen to marry him. They were engaged two days later, but waited one month to announce their engagement.

Their happiness in each other is unlimited, and since that first night, their love has just kept growing. Both are now enjoying their retirement.

Cal and Helen still live in the same home they started together 50 years ago, and where they raised their four children; the late Tim Deming, Kevin (Oreen) Deming, Craig (Darlene) Deming, and Lyn (Mike) Shaw, all of Boyne City. The Demings have nine grand children and five great-grand children.

There will be an open house to commemorate their golden anniversary on Saturday, Sept. 10 at the home of their daughter and son-in-law, Lyn and Mike Shaw from noon to 3 p.m. Family and friends are invited.

EJHS Class of 1945 enjoy reunion

A dozen members of East Jordan High School's Class of 1945 enjoyed class reunion activities on Saturday, August 25th. The activities included a tour of the current East Jordan Elementary School, which was the high school when the class graduated. School superintendent Chip Hansen conducted the tour, which also included stops at the new Community Auditorium at EJHS, the Community Pool and Boswell Stadium.

"We usually provide a couple of reunion tours each summer," Hansen said, adding, "it's a lot of fun to spend time with our alumni, and they really seem to enjoy a lot of memories while they're touring our schools."

Following the tour, the class members enjoyed dinner and conversation at the Jordan Inn. Class members in attendance included Lee Danforth, Leona (Van Deventer) Danforth, Dick Weiland, Doris (Van Deventer) Weiland, Frances Murphy, Jack Sommerville, Arlene (Hayden) Staley, Elmer Moore, Hildred (Kidder) Stanek, Evadiena (TerAvest) Meeter, Shirley (Sinclair) Barton, Doreen Sommerville, Gale Murphy, Doris Petrie, Carl Petrie, Dolores (McCarthy) Woltanski, Elaine (Olstrom) Majurski, Fern Morris and Charles Saxton.

Mark your calendars for the 8th annual Leaf Peeker Craft Show, always the third weekend in October at the East Jordan High School, from 10 to 4 p.m. Crafters may still obtain a space for this year's show, for $40 for a 10 x 10 slot, plus $5 for electricity. Applications may be obtained by calling the East Jordan Chamber of Commerce or visiting the website at www.ejchamber.org. This year's date is Oct. 15. Any questions contact Carol Galmore, chairperson, at the Chamber office. If you are interested in helping at the door, Leaf Peeker Café, or with set-up, we would love to have you.

It's not too early to think about snowmobiling — winter is fast approaching and weather predictors say it'll be a snowy one. The Chamber's Snowmobile Task Force is kicking off their fall meeting schedule on Tuesday, Sept. 13, at the Chamber at 5:45 p.m. Committee members will discuss signage, promotion, and other related issues. If you are interested in assisting with the installation of signage and fencing in the business district, feel free to attend this meeting. Current members include Randy Danforth, Mary Faculak, Dave Galmore, Irene and Jeff Gettel, Terry Graham, Jim Klomp, and Emily Murray.

The East Jordan Area Chamber of Commerce has two board seats open. Each seat is a three-year term, which starts January, 2006. Any Chamber member in good standing for more than one year is eligible to serve on the board of directors. If you are interested in learning more about the duties of a Chamber board member, contact the Chamber to schedule a meeting with Mary Faculak, Chamber president. Be a part of a dynamic group of your business community friends.

If you haven't already purchased your first-ever East Jordan poster, copies are still available at the Chamber office — signed for $30; unsigned for $20. The 2005 poster was designed by artist Kelly Britt of Whispering Wings Studio located at Swan Valley Marina.

The fall series of Wake-Up East Jordan is set for Thursday, Sept. 15 from 8:30 - 9:30 a.m. at the Café Casa and Galleria at 105 Main Street. The event is sponsored by Jordan Valley Accounting, and a light breakfast, coffee, tea and juice will be served. City, school and Chamber updates are presented during the brief program, which is also a great networking opportunity. The cost for members is $3, prospective members $5.

Don't forget the East Jordan Garden Club's weekly farmer's market every Thursday through the fall at the Sportsman's Park, going on from 9 a.m. to 1 p.m. This summer's spectacular weather has given area farmers a delicious and bountiful harvest. Be sure to enjoy the fabulous fresh fruits and vegetables. Project Fresh coupons are accepted.

Speaking of delicious — mark Monday, Nov. 7 for the Chamber's annual Celebrity Dinner from 5 - 8 p.m. — the location is to be announced. This year's "celebrity" servers will be the East Jordan Lionesses. Plan for a great family night out to enjoy dinner with community members and to catch up on the fall frenzy of events. The chairperson for this year's celebrity dinner is Emily Murray.

Three Men and a Tenor will be at the Community Auditorium at the East Jordan High School on Friday, Oct. 7 at 7 p.m. All the seating is reserved, and tickets are $15 each. For ticket and show information, call the EJPS administrative office at (231) 536-3131.

The popular "Girl's Night Out" dinner, fashion show and interior design trends returns this fall by request. The show and dinner is scheduled for Thursday, Nov. 10 at Murray's Bar & Grill, with dinner at 6 p.m. and the show and program following. New for this fall's evening will be games on the porch. Participating businesses are Murray's Bar & Grill, Inner Structure and the E.J. Shoppe. The event is a fund-raiser for the Chamber, with a portion of sales the following day donated to the Chamber and a portion of the dinner ticket benefitting the organization. Tickets will go on sale early — the event in April was a sell-out, so be sure and get your ticket right away!

Fall colors are starting to appear in the area. Don't miss taking the time for an area color tour — the Jordan Valley presents one of the finest displays. Color tour maps are available at the Chamber office, and a copy is included in this year's Visitor and Business Directory. (If you haven't picked up a copy yet, here is another reason to do so!)

Speaking of the Visitor and Business directory, the Chamber will begin compiling and selling ad space for 2006 in November. You won't want to be left out of this upcoming publication. Reserve your space today by phoning the Chamber office.

A reminder to building owners and DDA business district the Chamber's Reinvestment program is still available for that fall fix-up project. For a brochure and complete information on this program, offered through the Chamber, Charlevoix State Bank and Huntington Bank, contact the Chamber office.

Chamber 2006 membership drive is underway. Stop and see Mary to talk about the benefits and advantages of having your business, organization or family be members of the Chamber.

East Jordan rolls to 28-8 victory over Onekama

Running back David Marr rushed for 89 yards and scored three touchdowns in little more than one half of play to lead the East Jordan football team to a 28-8 victory at home over Onekama on Thursday, Aug 29.

Marr scored on runs of 27, 23 and 9 yards, all in the first quarter, as the Red Devils evened their record at 1-1 for the season.

East Jordan did not allow Onekama to get on the board until the last two minutes of the third quarter, while forcing the Portagers to give up five fumbles.

"We were much improved this week. Our defensive and offensive lines got the job done and it was just a matter of putting things together. Things just seemed to click for us," said Red Devil coach Kris Ernst.

Marr gained his yardage on 12 carries, while Josh Cooper rushed for 41 yards on five carries and Chad Kramer added 38 yards in six hauls.

Quarterback Justin Wilson completed four passes in nine attempts for 64 yards in the air.

Cooper and Corey Walter led the Red Devil defense with nine tackles each. Kramer added seven takedowns and Travis Nachazel had five. Nachazel recovered two fumbles, while Cooper and Kramer picked up one each.

East Jordan will host Charlevoix this Friday to begin Lake Michigan Conference play.

"It will be a big game for us," says Ernst. "They are 2-0 and it will be a good measuring stick for us. We will have to be at our best."

Andrew Streufert, East Jordan's wide receiver, sweeps left during a play in last week's win over Onekama. The win evens out East Jordan's early season record.

BC wins 28-12

BY PHIL TROMBLEY

The Boyne City varsity football team will head into this week's showdown with Traverse City St. Francis undefeated at 2-0 following a 28-12 victory at Newberry on Sep. 2.

Rambler quarterback Grant Ameel threw for four touchdowns, three of those coming in the first half, to give Indians more than they could handle.

Ameel connected on two first half scoring passes to wide receiver Tyler Krusel (16 and eight yards) and then found Robbie Jensen (32 yards) four minutes into the second half as Boyne City forged a 21-6 advantage.

In all Ameel completed five of 12 attempts for 126 yards.

Newberry took an early 6-0 lead with a ten minute drive to open the game capped by a two yard run with two minutes remaining in the quarter.

Taylor Voice led the Rambler running attack gaining 95 yards in eight carries, while Will Brown added 56 yards in 14 carries.

"Our offense is pretty balanced with Will and Taylor running the ball and Grant is playing real well running the offense," said Boyne City head coach Dave Hills.

"It was a good win for us over a tough football team. They were very physical and very big up front," said Hills.

The Indians cut the Rambler lead to 21-12 early in the fourth quarter, but the Ramblers countered with a 49 yard Ameel to Jensen pass that made it 28-12 with four minutes left.

Brown led the defensive effort with 18 tackles and Krusel chipped in with ten tackles. Joe Robert and Shawn Mills had nine takedowns each, while Nick Simeri and Evan Conklin contributed seven tackles each.

"Our defense plays 'bend but don't break' football. Overall we played well when we needed to," said Hills.

The Ramblers will host St. Francis this Friday to open the Lake Michigan Conference schedule and Hills expects the Gladiators to come to play after a tough loss to Saginaw Nouvel.

Boyne City's junior varsity defeated Newberry 36-12.

East Jordan golf team places 10th

A pair of Red Devils broke the century mark when the East Jordan varsity golf team traveled to the Bulldog Invitational held at the Indian River Golf Course on Wednesday, Aug 31.

Chelsea Carson led East Jordan with a round of 89 followed by Mike Johnson (94), Ryan Gettel (100) and Nick Sweet (102). The Red Devils totaled 385 to place 10th in the 16 team field.

"The team played their best golf of the year. Our goal was to shoot under 400 and they crushed that," said East Jordan coach Craig DeHoog.

St. Ignace placed first with 327 followed by Harbor Springs (330) and Charlevoix (350).

Cheboygan defeats Red Devils, 3-2

East Jordan soccer player Jeff Keyser scored the opening goals in the first and the second half, but the Cheboygan junior varsity squad rallied both times to pick up a 3-2 victory at home on Monday, Aug. 29.

Michael Carter and Michael Cardwell got the assists for the Red Devils, who played a hard fought game right to the end.

"With a new season come new challenges for the team as we have several seasoned players, but with more freshmen and first year players," said East Jordan coach Pete Elliott.

Goalkeeper Pete Sladick made ten saves in the East Jordan net, while Brandon LaCount and Keyser each made a save behind Sladick.

"The players are working hard to learn to become a team and our success depends on them learning each other and to read the game. This game with Cheboygan was a good experience," said Elliott.

East Jordan will travel to Northwest Academy today and host Boyne City next Monday.

FALL SPORTS PREVIEW

Boyne Falls basketball

Senior guard Annie Pernicano returns for her fourth varsity season to lead the Boyne Falls girls varsity basketball team as the Lady Loggers hit the court looking to come together and play good team basketball.

Pernicano heads a group of five returning players and how well they step up and fill the roles that they are asked to fill is the key to a good season, says head coach Al Gasco.

Joining Pernicano are seniors Clarissa Sevanski, Tiffany Burke, Tiffany Tafelski and junior Kellie Kondrat.

"Our strength is going to be our balance. We have the players to play up tempo or set up basketball. We can also go inside or shoot from the outside," says Gasco.

The Lady Loggers will be flexible on both ends of the court, changing their looks to deal with however the opposition matches up as the games progress.

Gasco says that this year's Northern Lakes Conference race should be an interesting one. Ellsworth is the defending champion, but Harbor Light and Vanderbilt will also be right there at the end, says Gasco.

Tom Neidhamer (junior varsity) and Luke Reinhardt (assistant varsity) will fill out the coaching staff.

Ramblers start season 2-0

By Phil Trombley
Sports Writer

Boyne City's varsity basketball team is off to a 2-0 start after a pair of impressive non-conference wins in the first week of hardcourt action.

Holly Stanek scored 16 points to pace the squad as the Lady Ramblers broke open a 24-21 game at the half and outscored Rogers City 33-16 in the second half to earn a 57-37 victory on Thursday, Sep. 1.

Boyne City held leads of 9-8 after one quarter, 24-21 at the intermission and 40-26 after three quarters.

Jessie Knysz and Caitlyn Wonski contributed seven points each for Boyne City, while Jenny Fleming scored 15 points to lead

Boyne City 63 Suttons Bay 40

Trisha Tomkins tossed in 22 points and grabbed four rebounds to lead Boyne City to a 63-40 win over Suttons Bay when the Lady Ramblers opened the season at home on Tuesday, Aug. 30.

Tomkins hit on four of nine three point shots in the game and was four for nine at the free throw line.

Stanek chipped in with ten points and 18 rebounds as Boyne City jumped to a 41-19 lead in the first half and outpointed Suttons Bay 22-21 down the stretch.

Holly Orban paced Suttons Bay with 20 points.

Boyne City will travel to Gaylord next Tuesday.

East Jordan rolls past Lancers

Sierra Roberts tossed in 20 points and hauled in eight rebounds to lead the East Jordan basketball to an impressive 51-26 season opening victory over Ellsworth.

The Lady Devils sank 16 two point shots, drained four three pointers and hit on seven of 15 free throws to almost double up on the Lady Lancers.

East Jordan led the contest 33-12 at halftime.

"I was really pleased with the effort. The girls did a great job defensively. Holding a team like Ellsworth to 26 points is quite an accomplishment. I was impressed on how we ran the floor and got good looks," said East Jordan coach Sean Ferguson.

Katherine Rowley and Jessica Roberts added eight points each for the Lady Devils. Roberts, Rowley and Meghan Thomas chipped in with eight rebounds apiece on the defensive end.

"Katherine Rowley, Kayla Brock and Jill Drenth gave us some great minutes," Ferguson added. "Sierra played well and Jessica, Kayla Hines and Kristi Werner really pushed the ball for us to set the tempo."

Jordan Valley Band looking for musicians

The Jordan Valley Community Band (JVCB) has performed music in the Jordan Valley area for about 15 years. It is a group made up of adults and young people from all over the area, reaching as far south as Bellaire and as far north as Harbor Springs. The JVCB is under the direction of two conductors: Mike Haynes of East Jordan and Becky Palmiter of Boyne City.

JVCB has traditionally performed two concerts a year — one at the holidays and one in the late spring.

"Membership enthusiasm and community support for a new band shell downtown sparked an interest in a summer concert series, which premiered the month of July," said Haynes. "We had a lot of success this summer, attracting reasonable crowds and recruiting musicians who were in the area for the summer."

"There's a significant amount of support for music and the arts in the area, and we were pleased when we'd receive calls from musicians who were already performing in Charlevoix and Harbor Springs who wanted to join us," he added.

The band will rehearse the East Jordan High School band room from 7-9 pm on Thursdays, starting this fall on Sept. 29.

Its immediate focus will be the holiday concert scheduled for December 11, titled, "A fictional Christmas: celebrating the season with music meant to be read." The concert will feature several holiday favorites, along with musical scores from "Harry Potter," "The Polar Express," and a musical setting of the "Lord of the Rings" trilogy.

"We're also playing around with the idea of a fall concert in the park — weather permitting," said Palmiter.

The band is always looking for additional members.

"We're calling out to any musician—young and old—to join the band," said Palmiter.

For more information, or to play in the band, contact Mike Haynes at (231) 5367364, or email at mhaynes@ejcs.org.
